THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Proposal of a General Two-Cent Postal Rate Discussed.

COMPENSATION FOR PACIFIC SEALERS

The Government Has Taken Every Step Possible to Have Those Claims Satisfied —The Depth of the St. Lawrence and Soulanges Canals—Tariff Resolutions Expected to Be Finished This Week.

OTTAWA, May 1.—It is now generally agreed that the House will not adjourn tomorrow until Monday as was intimated. Thursday being Ascension day neither the Senate nor House will sit, and the upper chamber will stand adjourned until Monday. It is believed the tariff resolutions will be got through this week, but the fact that Thursday is a holiday will make it necessary to expedite matters on the other two government days.

British Columbia Sealers.

In the House yesterday Sir Richard Cartwright quoted a resolution passed by the British Columbia Legislature, expressing the hope that the Imperial Parliament would not give legal effect to the Behring Sea arbitration unless the British Columbia sealers be compensated in respect to vessels which have been seized, and that British Columbia sealers be compensated for illegal exclusion from Behring Sea during the years 1891, 1892 and 1893. He asked whether a copy ot the resolution was telegraphed to the Imperial Government, whether any such basis of the catch of seals as is above referred to was arrived at, what steps, if any, have been taken to secure prompt payment of the several claims above enumerated; whether, pending action on the part of the United States, the Government of Great Britain is prepared to make any compensation to parties aggrieved.

Sir Hibbert Tupper replied that the Government had received and transmitted to her Majesty's Government the resolution of the British Columbia Legislature, dated 11th April. No basis of the catch had been arrived at. It had been at one time thought that such claims under the modus vivendi for 1892 and 1893 might, with advantage, be pressed, but when that subject came up at Paris it was found inexpedient under the terms of the convention to advance these claims against the United States. A number of these claims had been filed with the Canadian Government by the parties interested, and they would be further consulted as to the basis and means of substantiating them for the purposes of consideration by her Majesty's Government. The claims under the modus vivendi of 1891 were included in this category, inasmuch as Great Britain had awarded the sealers $100,000 in respect of the losses for that year, and this amount had been paid. Every step which it had been possible for the Canadian Government to take had been taken periodically since 1886 to press for the payment of the claims of sealers for compensation for losses through the seizure of their vessels. The British Government had informed the Canadian Government that her Majesty's ambassador at Washington had been instructed to proceed with the discussion of the terms of the convention with regard to a settlement of the damages and give effect to the award.

Mr. Hickey's Alternative.

Hon. Mr. Haggart, in reply to a question by Mr. Somerville, said the Government had notified Charles E. Hickey, superintendent of the Williamsburg canal, that he must either resign his position or give up his profession as a doctor of medicine.

Geological Museum Building.

Hon. Mr. Ouimet, in reply to Sir James Grant's query, said it was not the intention of the Government to proceed at present with the erection of a new geological museum building at Ottawa.

Depths of Canals.

Col. Denison moved, "That whereas the canal now in course of construction by the Government of the Dominion at Sault Ste. Marie is to have a depth of 20 feet, which is the depth of navigable water from Port Arthur to Port Colborne, it is in the opinion of this House expedient that the same policy should be adopted as regards the St. Lawrence and Soulanges canals, now being constructed, together with the other St. Lawrence canals, and the channel of the river, where necessary, should be deepened to a uniform depth of 20 feet."

In making the motion Col. Denison said if these canals were deepened Winnipeg will be brought to within 400 miles of the sea, because ocean vessels could then go to Port Arthur. The deepening of the canals would give the farmers of Ontario and Manitoba an advantage over their American rivals, because they could load their produce at home direct for Liverpool. He did not expect the motion to be adopted this year, but wished to keep the question before the House.

Messrs. McKay (Hamilton), Sproule, Coatsworth, Davin and Martin (Winnipeg) spoke in favor of the resolution.

Hon. Mr. Daly said that the reason that the Government could not entertain the project was because of the enormous cost it would entail. It would take at least $140,000,000, and was, therefore, out of the question.

Mr. Cockburn said the House was not asked for money for the scheme, but to pronounce an opinion as to the feasibility of the proposals.

Hon. Mr. Haggart thought it was cheaper to have ocean vessels tranship their cargoes at Montreal to lake vessels. The expenditures on land alone to get to Port Arthur would be $130,000,000, and then all the harbors at the lake ports would have to be deepened at an enormous expense. He moved the adjournment of the debate.

Mr. Mulock said the proposition was a wild-cat scheme.

The debate was adjourned.

Two-Cent Postage.

Mr. Coatsworth moved the resolution: "That it is expedient to reduce the general rate of postage on letters from three to two cents." He thought that the change made a year or so ago, charging two cents for city letters and three cents for all others, had not resulted in benefit, either to the Government or the people. He thought it class legislation to allow newspapers to be mailed free.

Dr. Sproule thought that the best way to make a two cent postage pay was to cut off the expense of a free delivery in cities.

Dr. Landerkin supported the motion and went further. He desired a decrease in the cost of registration.

Mr. Prior said he thought the letter carriers ought to receive more pay than they got.

Col. Denison said the people of Toronto practically paid for the delivery of their letters.

Sir Adolphe Caron said it would be impossible for him to discuss the salary of postmen under this resolution. He was not responsible for the policy of free postage on newspapers, but he for one would not like to reverse that policy. He would like to see the rates of postage reduced, but Canada was a young country and she was under heavy expense in building up great national works. The proposition of Mr. Coatsworth would represent a loss of $800,000 per annum. No change in registration charges could be made at present.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Provincial Powers With Respect to Prohibition Under Argument.

The evening party at Government House, for which invitations have been sent out, has been postponed until tomorrow evening.

The Supreme Court is sitting to-day, and the case respecting powers of the province in regard to prohibition is up for argument.

The senate committee on the insolvency bill is in session to day. A large delegation of Toronto commercial men has arrived full of suggestions. It may be explained that the bill as drafted was merely designed as a skeleton on which to frame the ideas of the commercial world, and when the bill is formally passed it will as nearly as possible represent the general idea of the traders.

Great pressure is being brought to bear from Manitoba and the Northwest and other points to induce the Government to remove the duty from dressed lumber, placing it in the same category as rough lumber. Some of those who are interested in the lumber business are pressing the Government not to give way to the request of the farmers of the west.

The eastern field parties of the geological survey have been assigned their fields for the coming summer, but the western parties will not be given instructions until the estimates are passed, as their work cannot be defined until the amount of money which Parliament will vote towards the work is made known.

At the Exchequer Court the case of the Queen vs. the St. John Gas Light Company came up for trial. The Government claim that the tar and ammonical water emptied by the Gas Light Company into the water of St. John harbor is dangerous and destroying to the fish and contrary to the terms of the charter. Messrs. J. G. Forbes, Q.C., and L. A. Curry for the plaintiff, and J. D. Hahen, M. P., for the defendants.

GRAND TRUNK SHAREHOLDERS.

They Hold a Stormy Meeting and Discuss the Falling Off in Receipts.

LONDON, May 1.—The half-yearly meeting of the Grand Trunk shareholders was held yesterday. The chairman, Sir Henry Tyler, and the directors, on entering the room, were received with audible remarks of disapproval. Unmistakable hisses were mingled with the applause with which their supporters greeted them. Sir Henry, on rising to move the adoption of the report, was received with applause which was swamped under a chorus of groans and hisses. He blamed the general depression experienced in both continents for the condition of affairs which the report revealed and as being the cause of the falling off in traffic recipts. He said that money would be required for the construction of the new Union station at Toronto.

Mr. Hosehold, a former auditor, moved a resolution to the effect that a commission consisting of three shareholders and three directors be appointed to investigate the accounts and report therefrom upon the condition and prospects of the branches now attached to the Grand Trunk system. Mr. Hosehold in his speech bitterly assailed the management, and declared that Sir Henry Tyler had wilfully hoodwinked the shareholders. He characterized the directors as a lot of dummies. Mr. Robertson referred to Lord Claude Hamilton, one of the directors, as holding a similar position in nine different companies which might account for his apathy so far as the Grand Trunk was concerned. This soft impeachment Lord Hamilton denied.

A shareholder asked Sir Henry Tyler whether the Grand Trunk maintained friendly relations with the Canadian Pacific Railway. Sir Henry replied that the management of the two railways were on the best of terms. Messrs. Van Horne, general manager of the C. P. R., and Seargeant of the G. T. R., were always in close communication.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

John Archer, a Student of Oxford, Loses His Life While Canoeing.

PETERBOROUGH, May 1.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday when Mr. John Archer, of Peterborough, lost his life. He and a friend went out for a paddle, and when about five miles down the river their boat was overturned, probably by a strong eddy, and both men were thrown into the water. Archer told his friend to hang to the boat, and make for the shore. He did so, and when but a short distance from the shore he heard a cry, and turning round found Archer sinking. He went to his rescue, but was unable to save him. The drowned man had but recently come out from England, where he had been pursuing his studies at Oxford. He was a man about 23 years of age, and six feet four inches in height, a good swimmer and rower, but was unacquainted with a canoe.

CANADA OBJECTS.

The Understanding Arrived at in the Behring Sea Case Unsatisfactory.

OTTAWA, May 1.—The Government is dissatisfied with the agreement reached by Secretaries Carlisle and Gresham, representing the United States, and Sir Julian Pauncefote and Mr. Dawson, representing Great Britain, regarding the Behring Sea regulations and license forms.

This places Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, who is understood to have agreed to them, as framed, in an embarrassing position. The gravamen of the objections is directed against that section of the regulations that permits sealing vessels armed with sealing equipment to be seized even though they are not caught in open violation of the law or have no sealskins aboard.

Fate of Lobengula's Relatives.

LONDON, May 1.—The Government has received advices from Buluwayo stating that Lobengula's brother-in-law, Combo, and his entire family have died from the effects of poisoning.

For the Relief of Greece.

LONDON, May 1.—The Lord Mayor has opened at the Mansion house a fund for the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake in Greece.

Suicided With Paris Green.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 1.—Martha Kaiser, aged 35 years, committed suicide by taking a dose of paris green. She leaves a husband and three small children.

MYSTERY OF LAWYER GIBBS

Buffalo Police Puzzled as to the Perpetrator of the Crime.

SOME SENSATIONAL SUSPICIONS

The Victim of the Tragedy Was a Man Well Known, But With Few Friends—Some Grounds for the Belief That There is a Woman in the Case and That the Deed Was Prompted by Revenge.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 1.—The murder of Lawyer Gibbs on Saturday evening continues to be a mystery. The general accepted theory is that Lawyer Gibbs was enticed to the spot by appointment and there murdered by some woman he had wronged, or by some woman's husband or lover. A story is current that a young, good-looking and prominent society woman met Gibbs a few days previous to his death and gave him an excited tongue-lashing on Main street.

Gibbs was well-known. He was a native of the city, had spent about all his life here and for half a dozen years had been engaged in newspaper work as reporter, city editor and in other journalistic capacities; had formed a very extensive line of acquaintances, and for the past five or six years has been a lawyer, devoting his legal business principally to real estate questions. And yet, while he had so many acquaintances, there were few if any who could truthfully call him friend.

Traces of a woman's foot prints have been discovered by the police on the soft ground. But a later discovery shows that the murderer, man or woman, must have crossed the lawn in front of the house nearest to the spot where the murder was committed, running to the rear and then over a wall and fence and out through another house yard into Bryant street, showing that the murderer was perfectly familiar with the locality and knew the way. The fence climbing and route of escape discredits the theory that it was a woman who did it.

A FATAL CALAMITY.

Terrible Ruin and Devastation Caused by a Landslide at St. Albans, Que.

QUEBEC, May 1.—Word has been received here that on Friday night the inhabitants of St. Albans, in the county of Portneuf, heard a terrible noise resembling thunder. The soil was vibrating and a panic ensued. Upon investigation it was discovered that the ground staying the formation of a waterfall, about three miles from the church, had given way, burying a wood pulp mill and seven houses, one of them occupied by a family named Gauthier, numbering four persons, all of whom perished. Smoke was seen to ascend from under the ruins, showing what an awful death the occupants met.

Whole farms have been destroyed with their stock and farm produce. The old bed of the St. Anne river is now levelled, and the river now runs miles from where it coursed before. Three bridges were carried away—the St. Alban bridge, St. Casimir bridge and St. Anne bridge. The people around the scene of the disaster are still terror-stricken. The old residents of the place never heard or witnessed such a thing before, although several landslides have occurred in the neighborhood during the last fifty years.

Wreckage has been floating down since Friday night, the river St. Anne being filled with it. Lumbering operations are entirely suspended, and 3,500 people visited the flooded district on Sunday. The damage has been estimated in round figures at $500,000.

Suspension of an Archbishop's Stipend.

LONDON, May 1.—The correspondent in Rome telegraphs that the questions involved in the suspension by the French Government of the stipend of the Archbishop of Lyons because of his opposition to the law relating to the accounts of church wardens are assuming a very threatening phase. The French Government believes that the Pope himself incited the archbishop to his opposition of the law, and accuses his holiness of being ungrateful in view of the Government's recent policy toward the Vatican.

Demands of German Workingmen.

BERLIN, May 1.—Resolutions were passed at all the May day meetings held throughout Germany to day, demanding full equality before the law, unfettered liberty to combine in trades unions or other organizations, the abolition of child labor, special protection to female labor, and that such labor shall not be exploited, and the thorough organization of workingmen.

Railroad Dismissals.

MONTREAL, May 1.—Three hundred men have been discharged from the Canadian Pacific work shops here. There have also been dismissals in offices and other departments. The Grand Trunk authorities state that within the last three weeks a thousand men employed in the repair department have been dismissed.

Burned Herself in Her Bed.

BROOKLYN, May 1.—Mrs. Lizzie Probiecek, thirty-one years old, a widow, sprinkled her bed with oil, set it on fire, lay down in it, and was burned to death. Cause, despondency.

Five Killed in a Collision.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 1.—A freight train and a passenger train on the Koslow and Voronasch railway came into collision near Marganieff. Both engines and fourteen carriages were wrecked and five persons were killed.

Schoolhouse Burned to the Ground.

WATFORD, May 1.—The Watford public school was destroyed by fire on Sunday. The fire had made too great headway to leave any chance of saving either building or contents.

Notorious Brigand Captured.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 1.—Sixto Cereda, leader of a band of brigands that has been terrorizing the people of the district around Capala, Sinaloa, has been captured. Four of Cereda's band were killed by the captors. Cereda will be shot.

Suicide at Decew Falls.

THOROLD, Ont., May 1.—John Long, farmer and contractor of Decew Falls, about three miles from here, committed suicide at his home by shooting. The supposed reason is business difficulties. He leaves a wife and two children.

MONTREAL, May 1.—Charles Maxwell, a commercial traveler, was arrested yesterday on the charge of making a ruffianly attack upon a woman named May Maxwell, with whom he had been living. Maxwell had been arrested for assaulting the woman and after paying his fine left the court-room, and, meeting the woman on the street, threw a bottle of vitriol on her face, inflicting severe injuries.

WASHINGTON INVADED.

Coxey's Army of the Commonweal Prepared for the Siege.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Gen. Coxey, commander in-chief of the army of invasion, was at the Capitol yesterday, and immediately upon his arrival went to the room of the sergeant-at-arms to have a conference with that official. Col. Bright was not in his office, and while awaiting his return Coxey talked freely about his programme.

"We will have our parade to-morrow," said Coxey, "and we will come upon the Capital grounds. Not, I will say, as a parade, but as private citizens. I have learned that there is a statute preventing parades of any kind on these grounds, and we have kept the law up to this time and do not propose to break it now. We will march to the grounds, it being our programme to reach them at noon, when we will disband, and, after making a speech, we will assemble at the peace monument and march back to our camp."

In the further course of his talk, Coxey said his army would remain until his two bills were passed, and under the very roof of the capitol. He again made the prediction that his bills would be passed within two weeks after he had made his formal demand. When the suggestion was made that he might run afoul of a snag if he attempted to make his speech on the steps, Coxey only replied with a smile, that he intended to speak. His object in coming to the capital was, he said, to formally ask for permission, and if it was not granted he would exercise the right that belongs to every American. Subsequently Coxey saw the sergeants-at-arms of the Senate and House. The conference was in private. Coxey made his request, and the only reply of the officials was to point to the law which forbids the acts Coxey contemplates. Coxey, receiving no satisfaction from these officials, left with the intention of asking the Speaker of the House and the Vice-President for permission to speak, declaring that permission or not he intended to mount the steps and address the people.

Bread and Dyspepsia.

The conclusion that wheat bread is unfit for dyspeptics, sometimes jumped at because ill effects are noticed after its use, is erroneous. On the contrary, it has been pointed out by Bouchard and others that farinaceous food is peculiarly adapted to some dyspeptic patients. It is the microbes in the starch, which is capable of producing irritating acids, that cause the trouble. To avoid this, Bouchard recommends that only the crust or toasted crumbs of the bread be used by dyspeptics, particularly those whose stomachs are dilated. The reason for this is explained by the fact that baking temporarily, though not permanently, arrests the fermentation of dough. When it is again heated by the warmth of the stomach the fermentation is renewed. In cases where the bread is toasted brown through the fermentation is stopped permanently.

Lawlessness in Ireland.

DUBLIN, May 1.—Two farm houses at Clonderalaw, county Clare, from which the tenants had been evicted, were fired into by unknown persons Friday night. The houses were in possession of caretakers. On the same night the wife of a caretaker named Quirk, living on a farm near Kilarney, was fired at but not wounded.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

TORONTO, May 1, 1894.

The local security market is steady and firm.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain were small. Oats dull, three loads selling at 41c. One load of straight white wheat sold at 64c. Peas are nominal at 64c to 67½c, and barley at 42c.

English advices say native wheats have been higher, but foreign wheats have been week. Arrivals from Argentine are increasing. California wheat has sold at 25s 9d per quarter, and No. 2 red winter at 25s. Corn and barley have been lower and oats steady. American reds declined 6d, and flour is 3d lower. Barley is neglected.

The Chicago wheat market was narrow but firm. Corn was weak in the early trading but gained some strength from wheat near the close. Oats closed strong.

In New York railway stocks were firm at the opening, but subsequently Burlington and Quincy fell 1¼ to 77¼ owing to a rapid bear trade. In the general market the day's best prices were pretty well maintained at the close. The Burlington and Quincy statement for May, already two days overdue, was withheld again, which aroused misgivings, curiously enough, on both sides of the market.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

TESTS OF PROSPERITY.

In 1877, Sir Richard Cartwright, as the Finance Minister of the Liberal Administration, laid down three rules whereby to judge the condition of a country, whether it was prosperous or the reverse. These tests were, the amount of money in circulation; the deposits in the savings banks; and the amount of life insurance carried by the people. Tried by the standards of Sir Richard, the record of the present administration will commend it to the citizens of this country. In January 1879, the public deposits amounted to $91,000,000; in January 1894 they had increased to $242,000,000, an increase of $151,000,000 during that period. Our note circulation in the various banks of Canada for the same time increased from $24,000,000 to $42,000,000, a growth of about 75 per cent. and $18,000,000 more money in circulation among our people, showing an enormous increase in business transactions. Similarly within those years the people of Canada have increased their life insurance from $84,750,000 to $261,000,000, being an increase of considerably over 300 per cent. In 1876, Hon. David Mills, who is commonly known as philosopher Mills, laid down the principle: "If you want to find a country's prosperity, look at its importations." The application of this principle as a matter of comparison is most disastrous to the blue ruin policy of the Opposition. Our imports in 1878 were $93,000,000, but had, under the operation of our present fiscal system, grown to $129,000,000 in 1893, or an increase of $36,000,000. The character of these imports should not be overlooked in the consideration of this question, for in 1878 our importations were largely made up of manufactured goods, but to-day the bulk of our imports consist of raw material for the use of the Canadian factory, to be changed into the finished product, and thereby to greatly add to the wealth of our Dominion. It is impossible to overstate the importance, as a test, of a comparison between the amount of raw material imported to-day with that imported under the rule of the Grit government previous to the adoption of the National Policy. In 1878 we imported 19,000,000 lbs. of raw sugar, and 252,000,000 pounds in 1893. We imported raw cotton in 1878 to the extent of 8,000,000 pounds, which increased to 41,000,000 lbs. in 1893. The importation of crude rubber in 1878 was 458,000 pounds, and in 1893 it had increased to 1,543,000 pounds. Wool was imported to the amount of 6,000,000 lbs. in 1878, and had increased to 10,000,000 lbs. in 1893. We contend that this is one of the most valuable tests which can be applied to the operation of our present trade policy, and that the advantage of our tariff is indicated by the difference in the importation of raw materials in 1878 and 1893. Too much emphasis cannot be given to this feature in connection with the policy of the Conservative party, free raw material and moderate protection upon the products of both farm and factory, to preserve the market of Canada for the Canadian people.

Still another physician writes as follows: "I have used Lactated Food for some time; I take pleasure in bearing testimony to its many excellent qualities. I have found it especially useful in cases of impaired digestion in infants and old people."

Book Notice.

"The Stickit Minister and Some Common Men," by S. R. Crockett. William Briggs, Wesley Buildings, Toronto. (The Methodist book room)

I remember once, some years ago, asking a man whose pen had made or marred the success of more than one book, if he found it a difficult task to review or write notices of the new books, a pile of which, fresh from the press, lay upon his desk. A part of his reply is so relevant here that I cannot but quote it.

"That depends. When it is the stereotyped class of novel, the regulation three volumed plot with merely a new setting or individual variations, it is simply enough. I skim through it, pick out the good bit or two and dwell on them. If it is weak or worthless I either leave it alone or "damn it with faint praise." But it is when the tale is strongly written, true to life, when the writer's soul looks out through every page and the book is full from cover to cover of thoughtful careful study of life and style, then it is I feel the poverty of my own powers to do it justice."

Such are the feelings roused by the perusal of this delightful book, "The Stickit Minister." Each story has its peculiar charm, each its pathos, each its rich humor, its life and reality. A breath of the heathery scented breeze comes to us from the Galloway hills as we read, and a sense of mental invigorating power pervades our consciousness as we are carried away to the crags and stand beside the grand old Cameronian, David Oliphant, listening while he instills into the mind of the child the strength of his forbears. The wee laddie whoaska "What gate did G'appa gae?" and waiting heedless of answer speeds away to the well known spot to learn from the old man "What gate t' gae," for life and for eternity.

The dry humor and deep knowledge of human nature in all the stories forms their chief charm. Can we not see the kitchen at Drumquhat and realize the following bit from "The Probationer:"

"Tammas has been biding with us at Drumquha'; he's a great favorite with the mistress. Many is the girdleful of crumpy cakes that she will bake for him, when I dare not suggest the like to her—no, not for my life."

"Hae ye nae sense ava', Saunders MaWhurr, to come fleechin' wi' me to bake ye short-bread an' sic like, and the pigs to feed an' the hervesters comin' in glirravagin' wi' hunger at six o'clock. Think shame o' yer bairnly ways, man."

But if Tammas Todd comes ben an' sits doon, the wife'll gie her han's a dicht, slips aff her apron, an' comes in to hear aboot Edbro' an' the laddies' landladies, and their awfu' wickedness wi' the coals an' butter, till she'll say, "Come awa' to the kitchen, an' I can be bakin' a bit sweet cake for the tea—the guidman's feil fond o't."

"The Almighty in His wonderful providence made many curious things, but nane o' them so queer an' contrary as the weemen folk. This is what I says to myself, but I have more sense than to say it aloud. I'll warrant that King Solomon among his other wisdom learned to haud his tongue before he got as many as three hunder wives."

Another phase of woman's character is well drawn in the "Courtship of Allan Fairley." Allan had been elected to the parish of Earlswood by the people against the vote and wish of the laird, with the result that the laird left the kirk, but I must quote the whole passage.

"The folk at the big house left the kirk and drove over to the Episcopalians at Ford, but I went to call, as it was my duty to do. And I met a young lady in the grounds and asked her the way."

"I ken they are extensive," says I; "it was weel to make sure of your road."

"Yes," said Allan, ignoring a slight significance of tone, "I asked the way and the young lady kindly walked with me to the door. This was the message that the footman brought back, the young lady standing by: "Mr. Gordon declines to see you, and if you come on the policies again he will have you prosecuted for trespass."

"Of course he couldna uphaud that." I put in.

"Very likely no," said Allan, "but it was sore to bide from a poo'dered fitman on Earlswood doorstep under the blue een o' Grace Gordon."

"An' what did she say?" I asked, curious for once.

"Say," said Allan, proudly; "this is what she did: "Permit me to offer an apology, Mr. Fairley," she said, "and show you the private path through the fir plantation, which you may not know." Oh, I know it was maybe no' ladylike, Saunders—."

"But it was awfu' woman-like" said I.

"I'll no say anything about the walk through the plantation," said Allan Fairley, who no doubt had his sacred spots like other folk, "but I had no need to deny that a new thing came into my life that day when the rain drops sparkled on the fir needles. I mind the damp smell of them to this day." (And there is no doubt that the boy would to his dying day. I mind mysel'——but there is no need going into that.)"

Though loath to go back to our own words, we must leave the rest of the story to our readers. It alone will repay the purchase of the book.

The pictures of child life, the undaunted loyalty and devotion of one brave little heart to another, are beautifully drawn in Jackie and Jimmy of "The split in the Marrow Kirk," and in the two stories of "Oleg Kelly" and his doings; devotion to duty and a higher ideal in those entitled "Ensamples of the Flock" and "The Siege of McDarg's Mill," and in all the tales the dry humor of the "canny Scot" is so evidently life-like and natural that one cannot help feeling convinced that each and all are true living characters, and that some of these days when Dame Fortune grants us another ramble among the Galloway Hills we shall meet and recognize Drumquhat as an old friend and thank him for furnishing an evening of unalloyed pleasure in his company.

IN THE LOCAL ASSEMBLY

The Policy of the Opposition Defined in Repeated Amendments.

ECONOMICAL PROPOSALS DEFEATED

Mr. Meredith Makes an Earnest Effort to Straighten the System of Managing Registrars' Offices—License Inspector Stewart's Salary—The Cost of Legislation—Subsidies for Railways.

TORONTO, May 1.—In the Legislature yesterday the Municipal Amendment Act was moved back again into Committee of the Whole, and an amendment by Mr. Clarke (Toronto) to strike out the addition made to the clause for the payment of aldermen, under which the assent of the people must be first obtained, was agreed to and the bill reported.

Hon. Mr. Hardy moved the third reading of the Act respecting ditches and watercourses. An amendment was made enabling counties east of the county of Frontenac to pass a by-law making the territory liable for the assessment for the construction of a ditch 100 rods. The bill was then reported.

The bill to consolidate and amend the drainage laws was sent back to Committee of the Whole for further amendment. A number of amendments were made and the bill was reported.

Mr. Balfour's bill to amend the Street Railway Act was allowed to stand.

Hon. Mr. Ross moved the third reading of the bill respecting the fees of certain public officers.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) moved, in amendment, that the bill be referred back to committee to amend it by providing that the surplus incomes which the bill proposed to apply to provincial purposes should be paid over to the council of the county or city for the use of any such county or city.

Hon. Mr. Ross opposed the motion. It was quite obvious, he argued, that since the Provincial Treasury was put to considerable expense in inspecting these offices, a reasonable proportion of the fees collected should be contributed to help to defray that expense. Sir Oliver Mowat added, as a further reason, that the revenues of the province were not sufficient to meet the sums the Legislature voted for municipal and other purposes. If we could have what we expend in relieving municipalities we would have plenty of revenue. The reason we have not plenty of revenue is on account of the large amount voted to municipalities.

The House divided and the motion was lost by 34 to 20.

Mr. Whitney moved that the bill be amended by fixing the maximum net income paid to the several officials dealt with by the bill, and providing that the whole of the residue from such offices shall be applied to public uses.

Mr. Meredith could not understand why the Government would not assent to the amendment of the bill, so as to fix a maximum sum which the occupants of the offices dealt with in the bill should receive as salary.

Hon. Mr. Ross replied, contending that the difficulty in fixing a maximum salary was that the official, having once obtained this, would cease to take any further interest in the fees coming to the office.

On a division the amendment was lost by 34 to 23.

Mr. Meredith said he would make one more effort to amend the bill before the Opposition ceased their exertions. He said that unless some system of auditing the accounts of registrars were adopted, the province would have very little control over the disbursements, and it would be quite possible for this class of officials to evade the law requiring those in receipt of incomes of over $1,000 not to practice their profession. He moved to amend the bill by providing for a proper audit of the accounts of the offices to which the bill related, and requiring the disbursements to be properly charged against the receipts of the office, so that uniformity in proportion to the Government work of the office might, as far as possible, be established.

Hon. Mr. Ross maintained that the amendment was unnecessary. Under the law at present the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council could make regulations governing these offices, whilst the accounts were subject to the revision of the inspector, who was empowered to take evidence and examine witness on oath in regard to items of expenditure.

Mr. Meredith contended that the power given to the inspector, to which reference had been made, was to enquire whether the expenditure had actually been made.

The amendment was defeated on division by 36 to 22, and the bill was read a third time.

After recess Hon. Mr. Harcourt moved the House into committee on resolutions granting railway subsidies to the following railways: Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway, 15 miles, a cash subsidy of $3,000 per mile; Northern Pacific and Junction Railway Company, 1½ miles, cash subsidy of $7,500; Ottawa, Arnprior and Parry Sound Railway Company, 35 miles, $3,000 per mile; Ontario and Rainy River Railway Company, 35 miles, $3,000 per mile.

The resolutions were considered and reported, and incorporated in a bill which was read a first time.

On the motion to concur in the vote of $42,150 to the Treasury Department, Dr. Willoughby moved to strike out the sum of $1,750, the salary of Provincial License Inspector Stewart. The motion was defeated by 43 to 24, and the item was concurred in.

On the motion for concurrence in the sum of $14,975 to defray the inspection of public institutions, Mr. White (Essex) moved to strike out the salary of $2,400 to be paid to Mr. James Noxon, as additional inspector. The motion was lost on the same division.

On the motion for concurrence in the vote for the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Monck moved to strike out $2,000 salary and disbursements of Clerk of Forestry. The motion was lost on the same division.

A motion by Mr. McCleary, condemnatory of the inspection of registry offices and the system under which registrars received remuneration, was also defeated.

On concurrence in the vote for legislation, Mr. Preston moved an amendment declaring that, by the rules of the House, no clerks or messengers should be employed unless by the approval of Mr. Speaker or the recommendation of the clerk, and claiming that the executive had systematically disregarded such rules, and unsurped the authority of the House in making an excessive number of appointments, it appearing that there were in 1893 79 messengers, or nearly one for each member of the House, thereby greatly and unnecessarily increasing the cost of legislation. The motion was lost on division.

In concurrence of $23,430 for the payment of allowances to surrogate judges and local masters in commutation of fees, Mr. Whitney moved, condemning these allowances as in many cases excessive. The motion was lost on division.

Concurrence of the vote for the School of Pedagogy was carried on division by 44 votes to 24.

Concurrence in the item of $71,500 for Toronto Insane Asylum was carried, an amendment by Mr. White being lost on division.

The vote of $129,354 for the London Insane Asylum was concurred in, an amendment moved by Mr. Kerns being defeated.

The vote for the colonization of roads was concurred in. Mr. Reid moved an amendment providing for expenditure by municipal authorities, which was defeated.

In concurrence in the expenditure under the Crown Lands Department, Mr. Campbell (Algoma) moved to reduce the amount from $125,800 to $60,000. This was defeated.

On the vote of $179,190 for miscellaneous purposes, Mr. Hudson moved that the existing practice with regard to the payment of gratuities to employes on leaving the public service is unsatisfactory, and in many cases imposes an unnecessary burden on the revenue, and should be discontinued.

Mr. Clancy moved an amendment to reduce the amount by $5,000 set apart to pay gratuities during the year, and a further sum of $1,000 proposed to be paid to Henry Butwell, late foreman of brick-making at the Central Prison. This was defeated.

Mr. Wrey moved, in amendment to Mr. Hudson's amendment, that the payment of small gratuities was preferable where any officer was dispensed with for public reasons to the retirement of officers under the superannuation allowance. This was carried by 43 to 28.

The resolution as amended was then carried by 42 to 29.

In reply to Mr. Meredith Sir Oliver Mowat said no appointment had been made to the office of crown attorney for Carleton county.

The House adjourned till to-day,

GIRLS IN BUSINESS.

Anything But Quiet Dignity Lessens Her Usefulness.

A girl never enhances her business prospects by putting aside her dignity toward her employer. It may seem to her that other girls, adopting a different course, enjoy more advantages and make speedier progress. But this is in the seeming, never in the reality. Familiarity here breeds absolutely nothing but contempt. This is one of the most unfortunate elements in the entrance of women in the business world, and one of the principal reasons why I oppose her doing so except where actual and dire necessity compels it. I know of all too many cases where girls have been placed in the most trying of positions in this respect. It is unfortunate, but it is true, that there are men who are all too ready to take advantage of their positions in life. And under the wrong impression that it means a surer hold upon their positions the employee tolerates the familiarity of the employer. It is the position in which many a girl in business finds herself. Inexperienced, she believes her position is at stake, not knowing that her tolerance brings that end closer than would her assumption of the position her own feelings dictate. Respectability is a girl's greatest safeguard everywhere, but nowhere is it such a vital safeguard to her as when she must rub up against the world and be, in a measure, her own protector. Business men, generally speaking, draw a sharp distinction between their acquaintances of the office and their social friends. They do it because experience has taught them it is the only wise course. From this attitude on the part of the employer the girl in business should profit. Let her keep her social life and her business life as distinct as possible. Anything but an assumption of quiet dignity on her part takes away just so much from her own usefulness in the business world, and lessens, rather than increases, the respect of her employer. I do not mean by this that a young woman should assume a chilling manner toward her male superiors or equals in business. Woman's greatest charm is in her ability to be womanly, and womanliness means exactly what the word implies and nothing more. But, likewise, nothing else. It is, perhaps, because business is still a novelty to woman that so many girls have yet to learn the lesson that coquetry has no place in the commercial world, and that to presume upon a kindness extended is a fatal mistake. The girl whom the man of business respects most highly is the girl who carries herself so as to win his respect. And a man's true respect for a good woman means the very best that is within him.

Rules for Track-Laying.

The question is often asked, "What are the rules for laying out mile and half-mile tracks?" The following simple directions will be found useful: For a mile track draw a line through an oblong centre 440 yards in length, setting a stake at each end. Then draw a line on either side of the first line, exactly parallel with and 417 feet two inches from it, setting stakes at either end of them. You will then have an oblong square 440 yards long and 835 feet 4 inches wide. At each end of these three lines you will now set stakes. Now fasten a cord or wire 417 feet 2 inches long to the centre stake of your parallelogram, and then describe a half circle, driving stakes as often as you wish to set a fence-post. When the circle is made at both ends of your parallelogram you will have two straight sides and two circles which, measured three feet from the fence, will be exactly a mile. The turns should be thrown up an inch to the foot.

A half-mile track: Draw the parallel lines 600 feet long and 452 feet 5 inches apart. Half-way between the extreme ends of the two parallel lines drive a stake, then loop a wire around the stake long enough to reach to either side. Then make a true curve with the wire, putting down a stake as often as a fence-post is needed. When this operation is finished at both ends of the 600-foot parallel lines the track is laid out. The inside fence will rest exactly on the line drawn, but the track must measure a half-mile, three feet from the fence. The turns should be thrown up an inch to the foot. The stretches may be anywhere from forty-five to sixty feet.

Defamers of Men.

The work of masculine whisperers is chiefly seen in the embarrassment of business. I will undertake to say that in nine cases out of ten of business trouble it was the result of some whisperer's work. The whisperer uttered some suspicion in regard to your credit. You sold your horse and carriage because you had no use for them, and the whisperer said: "Sold his horse and carriage because he had to sell them. The fact that he sold his horse and carriage shows that he is going down in business." One of your friends gets embarrassed, and you are a little involved with him. The whisperer says: "I wonder if he can stand under all this pressure? I think he is going down. I think he will have to give up." You borrow money out of a bank and a director whispers outside about it, and after a while the suspicion gets fairly started, and it leaps from one whisperer's lip to another whisperer's lip until all the people you owe want their money and want it right away, and the business circles come around you like a pack of wolves, and though you had assets four times more than were necessary to meet your liabilities, crash went everything! How much business men have suffered. Sometime in the circle of clergymen we discuss why is it that a great many merchants do not go to church. I will tell you why they do not go to church. By the time Saturday night comes they are worn out with the annoyances of business life. They have had enough meanness practiced upon them to set their whole nervous system atwitch. My chief wonder is that our business men control their tempers and retain their good health as well as they do.

A Word of Advice.

A patient should never be raised suddenly to receive food, drink or medicine. Aside from distressing the sufferer there is danger of heart trouble. Place the arm under the pillow and gently force the invalid into a position between lying and sitting. Medicine cups and porcelain spoons are now in general use and save considerable torture.

Value of Swamp Muck.

The chief value of swamp muck is obtained when it is used as an absorbent. If thoroughly dried during the summer months it can be employed to good advantage in stables and in composting with nitrogenous manures. It has but little manurial value in itself.

The Daisy Lyric Club.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the entertainment to be given this evening by the above club. Mr. J. N Doyle and the members of this company have been busily engaged for months past in preparing for this entertainment, which bids fair to be one of the best and certainly one of the prettiest and most charming amateur performances ever seen in this city.

The musical sketch by the little ones of the company is very pretty, while the Merry Company, or the Cadets' picnic, is full of beautiful songs and choruses, many of the airs being gems from the most popular light operas of the day, while the fancy drills and dances, including that charming old-fashioned minuet so loved by our grandparents, and the marches of the cadets in their nobby red tunics and white pants; make up as pretty a spectacle as one would wish to see.

The object for which the entertainment is given, that of aiding the Belleville Institute and Library Association, taken in connection with the encouragement due to so many of Belleville's young people who have worked so well and faithfully to make this evening's performance a success, should insure for them a crowded house, which the Intelligencer, after witnessing a full dress rehearsal last evening, heartily wishes them.

CROSSLEY AND HUNTER.

St. Andrew's Church Packed to the Doors—The Interest Increasing.

At quarter to eight last evening at the time of the opening hymn was announced, St. Andrew's church was packed to overflowing with an interested audience, which was held spell bound for over two hours, while song, sermon and exhortation were used to induce men and women to accept Christ as their deliverer from sin. By eight o'clock even standing room was at a premium and many were turned away, unable to gain admission. "I know that my Redeemer lives," "Lead Kindly Light," "Our Glad Jubilee," and other hymns were sung in opening, after which Mr. Crossley sang with much feeling "The Land 'O the Leal," and as they listened, many thought of the future home of the blest. When Mr. Hunter says "let us pray," a deep hush of reverence and holy awe steals over the vast audience, and as prayer is made to the Divine Spirit to brood over the people, reverent responses are heard on all sides. After prayer Mr. Hunter again reiterated his former statement that in these services no denomination was known, neither Methodist, Baptist, Episcopal nor Presbyterian, but they had come to do good and to win souls for Christ. The lesson read was the account of Christ's appearance to His disciples on the Sea of Galilee after his resurrection. Peter said "I go afishing" and the others answered "We also go with thee," the lesson here was the power of example and in a sense might be used as a lesson to both the Christian worker and the seeker of light that one seeker would induce many more to follow, and anyone staying out of Christ was influencing others against Christ. Another example of Peter's earnestness was here noted, as soon as he knew Christ he must needs go to him and "sink or swim he must get to his saviour." Was there not some in the audience who would let nothing stand between them and Christ? Christ saves men for more than a moral life. He saves men to work for Him.

Mr. Crossley sang in a very acceptable manner "The Holy City," after which many requests were read and earnest prayers were read and offered that God would grant these desires.

The sermon was from Acts xi:43 "To Him give all the prophets witness that through His name whosoever believeth in Him shall receive remission of sin." The chief point being the hindrances to faith, these mainly being a misconception of what constituted faith. Faith could not be worked up, was not a feeling, but an act of the mind whereby we accepted as true the revelation of Jesus Christ through his word; all the feeling of satisfaction and peace generally accompanied the acceptance of such revelation.

After prayer and exhortation the enquiry room was opened and a large number of workers and enquirers remained and much interest was manifested.

The announcements were, the bible reading in the Reformed Episcopal church, and the evening meeting at 7:45 in St. Andrew's church.

NOTES.

"The Cloth" was represented last night by the Revds. M. W. Maclean, A. Campbell, J. L. George, E. N. Baker, D. O. Crossley, J. S. Trotter, E. Woodcock, Jas. Faull, J. A. McCamus and C. E. Dobbs, Portsmouth.

Though the church was very warm, many uncomfortably crowded and some stood through the whole service, no one moved, and the "silent awe" was felt by all.

The union choir is an accomplished fact, some members from the choirs of eight churches leading the singing.

Possibly fifty or sixty—chiefly young men and women—went to the Sunday School room, it being utilized for the "Inquiry room."

DAIRY BOARD OF TRADE.

Annual Meeting of the Belleville Board—Officers Elected and Business Transacted—A Historical Sketch.

The Belleville Cheese Board met at 1:30 this afternoon for organization, President Hume in the chair. There was a large attendance. The president made a few remarks and called on the sec.-treas. for his annual report, but as the accounts had not been audited, the report was held over till next meeting. The election of officers was next proceeded with. President, John Tanner, Harold; 1st Vice Pres., J. M. Hurley, Thurlow; 2nd Vice Pres., John Stokes Hungerford; Sec.-Treas., B. C McCargar, re-elected; Auditors, R. J. Graham and J. R. Brower.

Mr. J. T. Warrington, in a neat speech, moved a vote of thanks to the retiring president, Thos. Hume. Mr. R. J. Graham seconded the motion and the vote carried unanimously. Mr. Hume thanked the board for the hearty manner in which the vote had been received.

Some discussion took place as to what should be done as to presidents of the different factories becoming members. Mr. Warrington said the president of every factory should become a member of the board before he be allowed to board his cheese.

Moved by J. M. Hurley, seconded by Mr. Duncan, that all who wish to become members should now hand in their names and pay their subscription in two weeks, and that no factory be allowed to board cheese until they become a member, and also that no one be allowed to vote on the board until they have become members.—Carried.

Mr. Carlow stated that any factory that wanted an instructor for testing milk or other work could get one by applying to himself, Mr. Bensley, or Mr. Jas Whitton.

Mr. R. J. Graham moved, seconded by Thomas Hume, that a public weighman be appointed by the Board.

Moved in amendment by Mr. M. Robinson, seconded by Jas. Bird, that the matter be deferred until next meeting.

Several of the members spoke on the question of short weight. Mr. Warrington said he had been robbed of several hundreds of pounds on cheese bought at the Campbellford Board. Mr. Graham said if a weighman were appointed to weigh the cheese here it would do away with a good deal of friction between buyers and sellers. Mr. Hume agreed with the previous speaker. Several others spoke on the question.

Mr. Duncan moved, seconded by Mr. Stokes, that Messrs. Robinson, Hurley, Meiklejohn, Warrington, Brower, be a committee to consider the matter above discussed.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the board adjourn for two weeks.—Carried.

The following brief history of the board will be of interest:

The Belleville Cheese Board was first organized on May 6th, 1887, with S. T. Wilmot, of Sidney, as President, and F. W. Brenton as Secretary. At the first Board meeting, sixteen factories offered cheese, and the ruling price was 10½c. The buyers on the Board then were J. T. Warrington, Hodgson Bros., Ayer, and Grant. These buyers have bought more or less every year since on the Board. Those who have presided as Presidents of the Board since the first year are: W. McLaren, Melrose, 1888; Jas. Bird, Holloway, 1889; Jas. Haggerty, Huntingdon, 1890; Matt. Robinson, Huntingdon, 1891; Rich'd Lazier, Shannonville, 1892; Thos. Hume, Seymour, 1893. The business of the Board has more than doubled since its organization. B. C. McCargar was appointed secretary in 1889 and has since held the position.

THE D.A.G'S. VISIT.

The Battalion Accounts Under Discussion The Rifle Ranges.

A number of the officers of the 15th Batt., including Lt.-Col. Lazier and Major Henderson, met in the officers' quarters at the drill shed last evening to look into the accounts of the battalion for the past year. It appears that there are some accounts unpaid. Sergt. Cunnington, the caretaker, claims that he has not received any of his salary since December last, and the band have not been paid their last quarter's allowance.

The Militia Department allow $240 a year for the care of arms and $240 a year for military instruction, the first coming due in July of each year and the latter in January. Colonel Lazier has been in the habit of advancing the money to meet these expenses during the year and recouping himself out of the grant when it came, but since the last annual inspection, the Colonel, having fully made up his mind to resign his command, did not feel it his duty to advance any further money, hence the accounts have remained unpaid. The state of affairs existing was clearly laid before Col. Cotton at last night's meeting and he made no statement or expressed approval or disapproval.

The department have sent a requisition to Col. Lazier for the return to the stores of the targets on the rifle ranges, but he returned it this morning, as they had made no provisions for paying the cartage on or the other costs of removing them to the depot. Col. Cotton, accompanied by Paymaster Biggar, Quartermaster Pope and Capt. Ponton, visited the ranges this morning and the local officers pointed out to the D.A.G. the safety of the ranges and they think that by the representations they will make to the department that the matter will be re-considered and that the ranges will be left as they are.

A Big Purchase of Tea.

The str. Alexandria, which arrived on Sunday morning, had a large shipment of teas, in all 129 packages, for Messrs. Stroud the Tea dealers. This, they claim, is the largest single purchase of tea they have ever received into their Belleville store, having taken advantage of the low prices and the exceptionally fine qualities of this season's teas, to lay in a good supply. d&w

Obituary.

James B. Ashley.

Despite the fact that Mr. J. B. Ashley, teacher in the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, had for some months been suffering from a dangerous illness, the news of his death, which occurred on Monday at 1:30 p.m., deeply shocked his host of friends, who could scarcely realize that the strong man had at last been forced to yield up the vital spark. Yet so it was; and many will sorrow, in sympathy with the bereaved widow and child, and mourn the decease, at so comparatively early an age, of one whom a gentleman who knew him thoroughly for many years spoke of as "a grand specimen of a man; one of the noblest men I ever knew."

Mr. Ashley, who was about 53 years of age, was born of U. E. Loyalist parents on the Bay of Quinte, which he deeply loved, and to the history of which he was the largest contributor in Dr. Canniff's valuable work and in other publications. He was educated for the teaching profession and in early manhood found employment in the Public Schools of this city. Here he married, but within two years his wife died, and a short time later he sustained the great misfortune of losing his hearing as the result of an attack of scarlet fever, which also debilitated his constitution. Thus debarred from following his chosen profession, he entered upon literary pursuits and was for some years employed on the Napanee Express and the Kingston Whig, and later became editor of the Ontario, which position he filled with marked ability. About ten years ago he was appointed to the position which he held up to the close of his life.

Deceased was possessed of an elegant literary style and was, moreover, imbued with that touch of nature which makes the whole world kin, hence his writings were ever pleasing. He was for some years a highly valued occasional contributor to the Intelligencer, on non-political topics, he being a Reformer in politics.

Mr. Ashley married a second time several years ago and his wife and one child—a daughter—survive him.

We cannot better conclude than by giving an extract from the Canadian Mute (of which he was associate editor with Mr. Mathison) showing what was thought of the deceased by those who were associated with him in his last labors, for the instruction of the deaf. Our contemporary says:

"It is since his connection with this Institution we have especially known him. Here his well-informed mind, sympathetic nature and ardent zeal found a field as vast as it was precious. Bringing his varied gifts to bear fully upon the work he had longed to engage in, he being deaf, results soon proclaimed him the right man in the right place. His pupils stood well and he with them. He had energy enough, willingness enough and love enough to face each and every duty that presented itself.

"With our Superintendent as associate and principal editor, he made our paper a bright, sprightly, spirited herald of the Canadian sentiment anent the education of the deaf. As a citizen and friend, we can well say of Mr. Ashley that 'he bore without a stain the grand old name of gentleman.' The law of kindness was in his heart and hence on his lips. To praise others ever was his seeming delight. The following, which we have often seen him quote, shows his character:

'Tis only noble to be good,
True hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood.

"Mr. Ashley seems to have been suffering from a complication of diseases in which the kidneys and liver played a dire part. The whole frame was besieged in concert, our friend making a noble stand. But death had marked him as his victim, and against his forces all skill and kindness proved vain. Mr. Ashley was a fervent christian, his exemplary life being its own apotheosis. He died as he lived—a true follower of the meek and lowly Jesus. Pupils, teachers and officers all mourn the loss of a good man in every respect. His widow and child have our sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

"Friend! before thy lifeless form, our hearts break! But why weep? Is it not appointed once for all to die! Upon thy cold, peaceful brow we lay the humble tribute of our respect, gratitude and affection. Your long-enduring friendship we shall ever recall. Heaven receive thy noble soul! Farewell!

Funeral to-morrow afternoon.

Mrs. Wellington Fairman.

Mrs. Wellington Fairman, whose illness we noted some days ago, died at 4:30 yesterday. The deceased was thirty-nine years of age and was married to Wellington Fairman, liveryman, about twenty-two years ago. Her maiden name was Annie Malyea, sister of Michael Malyea, barber. She leaves a husband and five children, the youngest of whom is only two weeks old. The eldest son, Will, left here last winter with the Said Pasha opera company and has since been in New York. He is expected to arrive home this evening. The grief-stricken husband and family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement. The funeral will take place to morrow forenoon at 11 o'clock to the R. C. cemetery.

WORKS, NOT WORDS.

A National Reputation Built Up by Marvellous Works.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Its Life-saving Results In and Around Our Homes.

As sensible and thinking people, we are not inclined to lavish praise and honor on those who simply talk loudly and boastingly about their philanthropy and charitable dispositions. When we hear such individuals claiming special recognition and distinction, we are forced to say, "Show us your mighty works and good deeds and your monuments of generosity amongst our own people; then, and only then, are you deserving of the standing you claim as a benefactor of your fellow citizens."

The boastful philanthropist, who has no good home work to support his assertions, has his counterpart in the ordinary patent medicine man who claims that his decoctions and pills are blessing humanity. When through the press a medicine boasts of wonderful cures, a discerning and intelligent public demand a record of home cures and testimonials. Foreign and outside testimony is thrown aside, because it is often worthless and spurious. Our Canadian people demand proof from amongst the hundreds and thousands who live around them. Testimony, even though it be sworn to, coming from obscure parties in the United States or other foreign countries, will not sink very deeply into the hearts of intelligent and educated Canadians.

Scores of patent medicines are now brought before the notice of the public every day, all loudly proclaiming their power over disease. Amid the conflict that is being waged for popularity and supremacy in our land, there is one grand and tested medicine that stands high above all others; it stands on the impregnable of honesty and true worth, and never yet has it failed in its mission to suffering humanity. This medicine is the popular and tried Paine's Celery Compound, earth's best and grandest discovery in medical science.

In order to maintain its high credit and standing, Paine's Celery Compound relies entirely upon what Canadians say about it. No matter where you live in the Dominion you will find some of your friends and neighbors who gladly report that "Paine's Celery Compound made them well." No far-off, unknown or suspicious foreign testimonials are submitted to our people, neither are manufactured letters ever used to fill advertising space.

Paine's Celery Compound has been honored, at times, with testimony from American people who have a national fame, such as Doctors Newton, Hubbard, and Haniford, of Boston; Hon. George F. Morse, member of the Governor's Council, of Massachusetts; Hon John M. Francis, United States Ex Minister to Austria; Hon. Daniel P. Toomey, of the Massachusetts Legislature; Marie Tempest, one of America's Operatic Stars, and gallant Ida Lewis, America's Grace Darling.

The marvellous cures wrought by Paine's Celery Compound, and the lives it has saved, speak more forcibly than panegyrics coming from the ablest orators.

This is indeed the medicine—the life-giver—for every suffering man, woman and child. The proof of its great virtues as a healer come from the best people; surely, it will meet your case as it did theirs.

The proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound employ a skilled physician a graduate of one of our most noted Canadian Medical Colleges—to prescribe for, and advise all sufferers. No charge is made for this medical advice and prescribing; and our consulting physician is perfectly free to act in his professional capacity. The grand object is to relieve human suffering and save life. All correspondence is strictly confidential. Letters should be addressed to "Consulting Physicians' Department," Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, P. Q.

THE DOCTOR AND "HARVARD"

"Our spring is proving to be a very remarkable one in many ways," said a Montreal physician the other day. "We have experienced many extreme changes in weather, and our people suffered accordingly. Sudden changes in temperature have caused many to take colds, and to day there are scores of young and old suffering from coughs, sore throat, hoarseness and severe bronchial affections."

"What do you think of Harvard Bronchial Syrup as a remedy for the troubles you have mentioned?' This question was put with a view of getting a direct and honest answer.

"I have extensively prescribed Harvard Bronchial Syrup, and have used it myself," said the doctor; "and from experience I can honestly say it has no equal. It is especially valuable for children, and in cases of croup it is invaluable."

A Distinguished Visitor.

The Canadian Mute says: "Dr. P. G. Gillett, President of the American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf, came to us yesterday, and we are all very glad indeed to see him. The Doctor is an old veteran in the cause of deaf-mute education, having spent his entire life in the work. He is making a tour of the Institutions for the Deaf in the United States and Canada, enquiring into their work, and giving aid and counsel to his co-laborers."

A Sailors' Mission.

The board of directors of the Y.M.C.A. at their last meeting appoined a committee to do sailors' missionary work. On Sunday the committee visited the five vessels in port and distributed tracts, furnished by the Upper Canada Tract Society, and also invited the men out to the various services held in the city. This is a movement that should be encouraged and will no doubt be productive of much good.

A BAD TEMPER and a bad liver—you'll always find joined together. Make a note of this, and see if it isn't true.

Now, why not give your naturally sunny disposition a chance? Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will do it for you. They correct your disordered liver, clear up your system, and make life look different to you. They do it in a pleasant way, too. They're the smallest, the easiest to take, and the most natural remedy.

Keep a vial of these tiny Pellets in your vest-pocket. They'll give you a permanent cure for Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Indigestion, Sick or Bilious Headaches, and every derangement of the liver, stomach and bowels.

The makers are so sure you'll be satisfied that they'll agree, if you're not, to return the money.

For twenty-five years these Pellets have sold on their merit. Why buy other pills, when P. P. P. are "guaranteed"? There's nothing likely to be "just as good."

MAY DAY.

To-day speaks to us of summer. We think of buds, blossoms, flowers, and all that comes so welcome after the long winter. It speaks of much else too. It tells of bonnets, hats, capes, dresses, parasols and all that seems so light and cheerful after the long wearing of heavy clothes. The ladies know we have these goods.

MRS. JAS. CHASE.

Worst Kind of Scrofula.

DEAR SIRS.—I had an abscess on my breast and scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken six bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

TREASURE ISLAND.

PART V.

MY SEA ADVENTURE.

I stole round the eastern end, keeping close in shadow, and at a convenient place, where the darkness was the thickest crossed the palisade.

To make assurance surer, I got upon my hands and knees, and crawled, without a sound, toward the corner of the house. As I drew nearer, my heart was suddenly and greatly lightened. It was not a pleasant noise in itself, and I have oftened of it at other times; but just then it was like music to hear my friends snoring together so loud and peaceful in their sleep. The sea-cry of the watch, the beautiful 'All's well,' never fell more reassuringly on my ear.

In the meantime, there was no doubt of one thing; they kept an infamous bad watch. If it had been Silver and his lads that were now creeping in on them, not a soul would have seen day-break. That was what it was, thought I, to have the captain wounded: and again I blamed myself sharply for leaving them in that danger with so few to mount guard.

By this time I had got to the door and stood up. All was dark within, so that I could distinguish nothing by the eye. As for sounds, there was the steady drone of the snorers, and a small occasional noise, a flickering of pecking that I could in no way account for.

With my arms before me I walked steadily in. I should lie down in my own place (I thought with a silent chuckle) and enjoy their faces when they find me in the morning. My foot struck something yielding—it was a sleeper's leg; and he turned and groaned, but without waking.

And then all of a sudden, a shrill voice broke forth out of the darkness:

'Pieces of eight! pieces of eight! pieces of eight! pieces of eight! pieces of eight!' and so forth, without pause or change, like the clacking of a tiny mill.

Silver's green parrot, Captain Flint! It was she whom I had heard pecking at a piece of bark; it was she, keeping better watch than any human being, who thus announced my arrival with her wearisome refrain.

I had no time left to recover. At the sharp, clipping tone of the parrot, the sleepers awoke and sprung up; and with a mighty oath, the voice of Silver cried:

'Who goes?'

I turned to run, struck violently against one person, recoiled, and ran full into the arms of a second, who, for his part, closed upon me and held me tight.

'Bring a torch, Dick,' said Silver, when my capture was thus assured.

And one of the men left the log-house, and presently returned with a lighted brand.

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

IN THE ENEMY'S CAMP.

The red glare of the torch, lighting up the interior of the block-house, showed me the worst of my apprehensions realized. The pirates were in the possession of the house and stores; there was a cask of cognac, there were the pork and bread, as before; and, what ten-fold increased my horror, not a sign of any prisoner. I could only judge that all had perished, and my heart smote me sorely that I had not been there to perish with them.

There were six of the buccaneers, all told; not another man was left alive. Five of them were on their feet, flushed and swollen, suddenly called out of the first sleep of drunkenness. The sixth had only risen upon his elbow; he was deadly pale, and the blood-stained bandage round his head told that he had recently been wounded, and still more recently dressed. I remembered the man who had been shot and had run back among the woods in the great attack, and doubted not that this was he.

The parrot sat, preening her plumage, on Long John's shoulder. He himself, I thought, looked somewhat paler and more stern than I was used to. He still wore his fine broadcloth suit in which he had fulfilled his mission, but it was bitterly the worse for wear, daubed wish clay and torn with the sharp briers of the wood.

'So, said he, here's Jim Hawkins, shiver my timbers! dropped in, like, eh? Well, come, I take that friendly.'

And thereupon he sat down across the brandy cask, and began to fill a pipe.

'Give me the loan of a link, Dick,' said he; and then he had a good light. 'That'll do, lad,' he added, 'stick the glim in the wood heap; and you, gentlemen, bring yourselves to!—you needn't stand up for Mr. Hawkins; he'll excuse you, you may lay to that. And so Jim'—stopping the tobacco—'here you are and quite a pleasant surprise for poor old John. I see you were smart when first I set my eyes on you; but this here gets away from me clean, it do.'

To all this, as may be well supposed, I made no answer. They had set me with my back against the wall; and I stood there, looking Silver in the face pluckily enough I hope, to all outward appearance, but with black despair in my heart.

Silver took a whiff or two of his pipe with great composure, and then ran on again.

'Now, you see, Jim, so be as you are here,' says he, 'I'll give you a piece of my mind. I've always liked you, I have, for a lad of spirit, and the picter of my own self when I was young and handsome. I always wanted you to jine and take your share, and die a gentlemen, and now, my cock, you've got to. Cap'n Smollet's a fine seaman, as I'll own up to any day, but stiff on discipline. 'Dooty is dooty,' says he, and right he is. Just you keep clear of the cap'n. The doctor himself is dead again you—'ungrateful scamp'—was what he said, and the short and long of the whole story is about here: you can't go back to your own lot, for they won't have you; and, without you start a third ship's company all by yourself, which might be lonely, you'll have to jine with Cap'n Silver.

So far so good. My friends, then, were still alive, and though I partly believed the truth of Silver's statement, that the cabin party were incensed at me for my desertion, I was more relieved than distressed by what I heard.

'I don't say nothing as to your being in our hands,' continued Silver, 'though there you are, and you may lay to it. I'm all for argyment; I never see good come out of threatening. If you like the service, well you'll jine; and if you don't, Jim, why, you're free to answer no—free and welcome, shipmate; and if fairer can be said by mortal seamen, shiver my sides!'

'Am I to answer, then?' I asked with a tremulous voice. Through all this sneering talk, I was made to feel the threat of death that overhung me, and my cheeks burned and my heart beat painfully in my breast.

'Lad,' said Silver, 'no one's a-pressing of you. Take you bearings. None of us won't hurry you, mate; time goes on so pleasant in your company, you see.'

'Well,' says I, growing a bit bolder, 'if I'm to choose, I declare I have a right to know what's what, and why you're here, and where my friends are.'

'Wot's wot?' repeated one of the buccaneers, in a deep growl. 'Ah, he'd be a lucky one who knowed that!'

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Jas. Shannon, Leaskdale, writes:—"For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy to burns and bruises I ever used."

THE REGISTRATION BILL

Spirited Discussion on the Further Amendments Contemplated.

GOVERNMENT'S REVERSAL OF POLICY

Hon. Mr. Hardy Takes a Graceful Tumble in Connection With the Royalties on Mining—The Abolition Clause Struck Out—Algoma Elections Bill Read a Second Time.

TORONTO, May 3.—Hon. Mr. Harcourt's bill, shortening the period between nominations and elections in the district of Algoma, east and west, Muskoka, Nipissing and Parry Sound, was read a second time in the House yesterday.

Hon. Mr. Hardy's bill relating to mines and mining was referred back to Committee of the Whole House to amend. Mr. Hardy moved that the first and second clauses, abolishing royalties for a period of five years, be struck out, and a clause substituted in place of these providing that ores which are now liable to a royalty of three per cent., should be subject to a charge of two per cent. when taken from lands sold between 1st May, 1891, and 1st January, 1890, and providing also that the charge of two per cent. shall be calculated upon the value of the ores at the pit's mouth, less the actual cost of labor and explosives for mining and raising ores to the surface.

Mr. Meredith remarked that, in the proposed amendment there was a deliberate reversal of the policy which the Commissioner of Crown Lands had deliberately settled and submitted for the consideration of the House, and he thought he was therefore justified in saying that the alteration was made because of the impending election, and not because the Government had seen any reason to change their mind in regard to this question. It seemed to him that what the Government proposed to do was a mistake. They ought either to stand by the royalties at present imposed, or carry out what was contemplated in the clauses that were being dropped. He did not think there was any probability of the land falling into the hands of speculators if that were done, because there was a provision that if a certain amount of expenditure was not made upon each location sold, the lands should again revert to the province.

Mr. Conmee would prefer the amendment to the law as it now stood, because it made a fixed charge. He would, however, like the charge to apply to the net profits, instead of the market value.

The bill was amended as proposed.

Clauses granting a bonus of $125,000 to be passed within five years, for ores mined and smelted, and providing for the purchase of two diamond drills for $15,000 were added to the bill.

The bill was then reported.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt's bill granting aid to certain railways was read a third time.

The House went into concurrence on the supplementary estimates.

Concurrence was carried and a supply bill introduced.

The House again went into committee on the bill for the registration of manhood suffrage voters.

Hon. Mr. Ross explained the nature of further amendments that were contemplated. One provided that in cities where the Registration Board consisted of more than three members they should nominate three members to constitute a court of appeal, and where there was a board of only three members, the whole board should form such a court. Evidence on an appeal against refusal to register was to be taken on oath. Other amendments covered the case of absentees through illness, and provided for the registration, in their absence, of lumbermen, fishermen, commercial travelers and railway men.

Mr. Meredith thought the bill still contained a cardinal defect, which would make it his duty to persistently oppose the measure. Notwithstanding the fact that so many men had already gone to the trouble of having their names inscribed on the lists, they would be compelled to register, in order to exercise the franchise, while the rest of the community, who did not exercise the franchise by reason of the manhood qualification, would not be called upon to register. He objected to limiting the class of persons who could be registered when absent from the city. He asked what objection there would be to accepting the fact of a man's name already appearing on the list as prima facie evidence of his right to vote.

Hon. Mr. Ross argued that the bill mitigated very many of the evils that were now complained of and went a great way in the direction of making a fresh and fair registration. If young men would not take the trouble to register, they ought not to have the right to vote. He accused the Opposition of obstructing the measure.

Mr. Balfour considered the bill was fair and that the proposed amendment was reasonable.

Mr. Whitney said the Opposition were being compelled to make an agreement in order that the workingman might be allowed to vote.

Hon. Mr. Hardy cited a number of cases to show the evils resulting from the present system of placing names on the list.

Mr. E. F. Clarke claimed that the bill would practically wipe out between 10,000 and 12,000 manhood franchise voters in Toronto whose names had already been fairly and properly placed on the list.

Sir Oliver Mowat said it was not denied outside the House that great evils were associated with the present system. So numerous were the appeals from both parties laid before the judge that it was an impossibility to decide each case on its merits. It was not possible, therefore, to avoid inaccuracies. The bill would not give an advantage to either side. If the four days in which registration was to be carried out was found not sufficient, there was a provision for an extension of the time.

Mr. Clancy opposed the provisions of the bill.

Mr. Meredith said the Government did a most dishonest thing, politically speaking, by robbing the majority of electors of Toronto of one of their representatives, and they continued the system of minority representation until forced to abandon it by the protests of their supporters throughout the province.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that he did not known whether the Conservatives were in a majority in Toronto or not, but if they were, would not the minority suffer in the same proportion. As to the charge of appointing a minority representative for Toronto, was that an unheard of thing?

Mr. Meredith—Yes.

Sir Oliver Mowat—Then I say no.

Mr. Meredith—As applied under the circumstances, it was.

Sir Oliver Mowat said the experiment had been tried in England, where there were a large number of constituencies, and was it to be said that the men who there advocated it were dishonest? If minority representation was the only dishonest act the leader of the Opposition could urge against the Government, then the Administration must be perfectly pure.

Before the House rose Dr. Willoughby asked the Attorney General if he knew that Mr. Grundy, deputy registrar of Peterborough, had been dismissed. He had refused to give evidence in the Public Accounts Committee until he received a promise of protection, and he (Dr. Willoughby) had reason to believe he had been dismissed by an appointee of the Government.

The Attorney General replied that he had not heard of it.

Dr. Willoughby said it was in the papers and he had reason to believe it was true.

Hon. Mr. Hardy asked the hon. gentleman if he could state that he had been dismissed on account of the evidence he gave.

Dr. Willoughby did not reply to this question, and after some further parleying the House rose.

At the evening sitting the debate on the registration bill was resumed, a spirited discussion being kept up far into the morning.

Mr. Meredith suggested, as a compromise, that the first section be amended by dispensing with personal attendance from any man necessarily temporarily absent from the city and county in which the city was situated.

Hon. Mr. Hardy declined to accept any suggestions tending to make "plugging" possible.

Mr. White spoke against the bill.

Hon. Mr. Ross said hon. gentlemen must remember that the redistribution bill had not yet been passed, and they therefore ought to take a survey of where they stood. That the Government would not admit they were incapable of carrying on the Government was quite certain. That the Government were not capable of controlling the House could not be admitted for a moment.

Mr. Meredith dared the Government to go in the face of public opinion, and to refuse to pass the registration bill to which they were pledged.

Hon. Mr. Ross—We will pass both bills.

Mr. Meredith—The hon. gentleman sees now the mistake he made. We have endeavored to get it reasonably amended, but hon. gentlemen have rejected our proposition and upon them rests the responsibility.

Hon. Mr. Ross moved the adoption of clause three.

Mr. Meredith moved in amendment, that the committee rise.

The amendment was defeated by 37 to 19.

RIOTS IN CLEVELAND.

Thousands of Idle Workmen March in Noisy Procession.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 3.—Labor troubles in Cleveland came to a crisis yesterday when 4,000 men armed with clubs and stones marched through the low lying manufacturing district in the heart of the city known as "The Flats," closing down each factory as they came to it. There were few English-speaking people in the crowd. In fact it was a rabble made up chiefly of foreigners. Considerable property was destroyed and the destruction would have been much greater, but for the efficient work of the police.

The mob rushed on to the Standard paint works, distant about two blocks. On the way every man who was in sight was dragged into the ranks. There was short parleying and the frightened employes quickly joined the ranks of the mob. The rioters went wild as they approached the Upson nut works. There was a train load of coal standing along the side of the works. A small boy clambered upon a car, and seizing a lump of coal hurled it through the window. In a moment the cars were black with men and the air was filled with flying missiles. The windows were broken and the men in the shops were struck down before they could retreat. A number of them had their heads cut and bodies bruised. The mob rushed for the building. The gates were closed and the men rushed against them, forcing them from their hinges, and took possession of the building. The men fled in terror from the shops.

A band of two hundred Italians, armed with clubs, iron and wire rods, marched to Gat's quarry, and the men there dropped their tools and joined the marching throng. At Neff's quarry the operation was repeated and at Reader's quarry there was little opposition. The rioters then forced their way into several boarding-houses and compelled men to join them.

The Mayor held a consultation with the officers of the Fifth regiment, and as a result six companies of that regiment, together with the Cleveland Grays and the city guards were ordered to assemble at their armories subject to call for service by the Mayor.

Seven of the rioters, all with broken heads, were arrested. The people of the city are filled with fear that the mob will resort to the torch or dynamite, and attempt to destroy factories and private residences.

Fatal Result of Jealousy.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 3.—Miss Viva Castle, the only daughter of Congressman J. N. Castle of Stillwater, and a niece of J. R. Fellows of New York, was fatally shot in a restaurant by a colored woman crazed with jealousy. Miss Castle was caught in a rain storm and sought shelter in the Postal Cafe. The wife of the restaurant keeper thought she had come to meet her husband by appointment, and placing a revolver to the young lady's head fired a bullet into her brain. The wound is thought to be fatal. Miss Castle is a beautiful girl of 19 and well known in the best circles here.

Felt Factory Destroyed.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 3.—The Kenwood mill, owned by Mrs. Sarah Townsend, and operated by Huyck & Argersinger in the manufacture of felt goods, was completely destroyed by fires, together with a store house of the firm, and three tenement houses. The mill was located on the Normanskill, just outside the city limits, and employed 175 hands. Its output was the greatest of any felt mill in the United States. The loss is $250,000, on which there is an insurance of $130,000.

Libel Actions Against St. Johns Telegram.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 3.—Mr. Robinson, editor of the News, took a libel action for $5,000 against the Telegram yesterday for accusing him of being one of the promoters of the Harbor Grace Orange riots some years ago. This makes four actions now pending against the Telegram.

North Wentworth Liberals.

DUNDAS, May 3.—At the convention of Liberals for the north riding of Wentworth, held here yesterday, Messrs. A. F. Pirie, John J. Flatt and John Weir were nominated. Mr. Weir withdrew, and on a ballot Mr. Flatt was accepted as the nominee of the convention.

St. John Strikers Give In.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 3.—The mill men on strike have decided to return to work at their old wages, $1.75 per day.

BLEW OUT A STORE FRONT

Serious Explosion in a New York Scouring Establishment.

TWO EMPLOYES WERE KILLED

The Streets in the Vicinity Were Crowded With Shoppers and a Number of People Are Injured—The Building Catches Fire and Four People Are Dangerously Burned.

NEW YORK, May 3.—An explosion that shook some of the big buildings, blew out the whole store front of a building on 61 East Twelfth street, and set the building on fire, occurred yesterday afternoon. The wrecked building was the cleaning and scouring concern of C. Jolly & Son. Benzine used in their business caused the explosion. In the fire that ensued two persons perished and four were burned, one badly. The building was damaged to the extent of $10,000. The factory is a five-storey building. The explosion occurred at an hour when both these streets were crowded with shoppers. There was no warning of it however.

A sudden deafening crash, with the sensation to those near by as if they were lifted off their feet, and the street was covered with broken glass, crushed to atoms, and raining in a perfect shower on the pavement. Fire showed through the wrecked storefront and the next instant burst from every empty window space. The shrieks of men and women, frightened and hurt, filled the air. A dozen crawled upon the fire escapes, fleeing for their lives. A man with clothes ablaze ran out of the half demolished building and staggered blindly toward Fourth avenue. Behind him another crept out of the cellar and still another. Policemen running up from the avenue met them and smothered the fire in their clothes.

When the smoke cleared away enough to permit the firemen to look down into the basement, a body was discovered. It was identified as that of Leopold Geneau, a washer employed in the basement. He lay within three feet of the benzine tank that had exploded. The firemen went down again and found the body of Louise Fleurmann. Whether the dead were killed by the shock of the explosion or afterwards burned was not clear.

THEIR CLEVER SCHEME FOILED.

Three Americans Had a Long-Headed Plan for Robbing Montreal Banks.

MONTREAL, May 3.—A scheme to rob three Montreal banks has just been unearthed by Detective Silas Carpenter. Ten days ago there arrived in Montreal three Americans. One of them, named Anderson, took a room on Cathcart street; another, named Richardson, roomed on Brunswick street; where the third stranger roomed is not known. Both Richardson and Anderson were well dressed and seemed to have more money than they knew what to do with.

After being in town two days Richardson deposited in the Molsons Bank $300 under the name of Hilton T. Richards. Under the name of Copland he also deposited in the Merchants Bank $500. Money was also deposited in the City and District Saving Bank. The pair now had money in the banks, and in order to work the scheme they had in view it was necessary to get introduced to the managers of the banks by well-known business men and also to produce an impression on the minds of the banks that they were men of vast wealth.

As soon as these sharpers became known to the bankers, forged drafts, made out by themselves, would be placed by them to their accounts in the banks. With the draft the cheque they presented might be for thousands of dollars. Before cashing such a large cheque, of course the teller would go and see the bank manager, he naturally, would remember the name of the man who had been to see him, and who was going to buy out, say a $120,000 business, and of course all would be well.

Detective Carpenter arrested Richardson as being a suspicious character and searched his room, where four bank books made out in different names were found. The managers of all the banks were notified of the scheme that was to be played upon them. After being kept in custody for two days, Richardson was liberated as he had not, owing, it is thought, to his arrest, had time to work the draft dodge. As soon as he was released he drew his money out of the banks and left town with Anderson and the unknown man.

Fierce Fight With Yaquis.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 3.—A troop of Mexican soldiers sent against the Yaquis of South Sonora were led into ambush in a long, deep, narrow defile. When half way through the Yaquis appeared on the cliffs, 1,500 feet above, and rolled down masses of rock and great boulders and poured volley after volley of shots. Horses and riders were crushed into shapeless heaps. Two hundred of the soldiers were killed and 300 retreated. A young doctor going to the wounded was captured by the savage Yaquis, his feet flayed, and then forced to walk.

To Provide for Their Idle Men.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Mr. Bell (Pop. Col.) has introduced in the House a joint resolution to provide for the appointment of a committee to devise means for the employment of the idle men of the country, restrict immigration, start up the mines, increase the currency and prohibit the issue of interest bearing bonds without authority of Congress. The committee is to consist of three senators and five representatives.

Tanneries to Close Down.

PITTSBURG, May 3.—Eleven tanning establishments in Alleghany City are preparing to shut down and 600 employes will be added to the army of the local unemployed. This action is in pursuance of a plan recently developed by the members of the tanners trust, the object being to enable the companies to work off surplus stock while at the same time stimulating the demand for their product.

Well-to-Do Farmer Killed.

PERTH, Ont., May 3.—James White, a prosperous farmer living four miles from this place, while returning from the fair with the neighbor, the team took fright and ran away. Mr. White was thrown from the wagon and the wheel passed over him. He was taken up unconscious and brought back to town and he died a few hours after. He was much respected in this section.

Another Blaze in Huntsville.

HUNTSVILLE, May 3.—Fire destroyed Hughes' blacksmith shop and damaged McLean's hotel and Brown's bakery. For a time those were endangered, but a bucket brigade, working like Trojans, saved them. Hughes' loss, $700; insurance, $400. The village has bought a hand fire engine and 500 feet of hose.

USE SURPRISE SOAP ON WASH DAY; AND EVERY DAY.

CONCERNING HOME RULE.

Independent Labor Organization an Obstacle to Home Rule.

LONDON, May 3.—Lord Rosebery addressed a large Liberal meeting in Manchester last evening. He spoke at great length concerning home rule. As agrarian crime in Ireland had almost died out, he said, and there was no longer any fear of the Catholics combining against the Protestants, the conviction in favor of home rule must soon be carried to the heart of the English people.

The question ought to be and must be settled as a measure of common sense. If the people of England are to have a united empire and wished to move toward the ideal of a federation of the English speaking races, they must grant home rule.

One obstacle in the home rule cause, Lord Rosebery said, was the undertaking to found an independent labor organization which was inspired by a sort of political anarchism. The originators of this undertaking were ready to strike any party. If they would confine their efforts to pushing the claims of labor, everybody would approve their work, but not if they played the part of political freebooters. Should the leaders of the movement in question strike at the Liberal party the immediate result would be the return of the Conservatives to power and prevent needed reforms in Ireland and Great Britain.

THE MARCH OF KELLEY'S MEN.

G. M. W. Sovereign's Threat Does Not Frighten Rock Island Officials.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 3.—General Superintendent Dunlap and other Rock Island officials, who are here, express themselves as not at all alarmed at General Master Workman Sovereign's threat to tie up their road in case of a continued refusal to make special rates for Kelly's army. "Sovereign cannot tie up anything," said Mr. Dunlap. "The K. of L. and American Union are not strong enough to cause us very serious trouble."

Considerable excitement was caused by the arrival of a telegram from General Superintendent Goodrich, of the Keokuk and Western railroad, addressed to Chairman Lowrey, saying: "The special rate made to Kelly's army over this road is hereby withdrawn." This telegram increased the resentment towards the railroads. The withdrawal of the special rate by the Keokuk and Western leaves only one available route out of Iowa open to the army and that is over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. The officers of the commissary department have only about half the necessary provisions on hand. "Colonel" Baker was sent to town to hustle for food and the trades assembly committee soon had wagons out collecting. An abundance of bread was finally provided for the morning meal, but the rations served were short on other supplies.

Threatening Situation in Bluefields.

BLUEFIELDS, M.R., May 3.—Nicaraguan troops continue to pour into this place. The last batch, 130 strong, instead of going out on the bluffs, where the other soldiers are encamped, came direct to the town and were carefully quartered by Lycayo, the Nicaraguan commissioner. This was seemingly done with the consent of the captain of the British ship Magicienne, as he offered no objections. However, there has been no trouble yet, as the United States cruiser San Francisco has arrived from port Limon, where she had gone to coal, Captain Watson and the British commander immediately held a long consultation, supposedly on the invasion of the town proper by the Nicaraguan troops, but what conclusion was arrived at is not known.

Mutilating the Murdered.

VANCOUVER, May 3.—Advices from Zeol Korea, under date of April 15, say: The remains of Kin Oh Tium were hung, drawn and quartered at Yokwachin, and his head, feet and hands were exposed to public view separately, the remaining portion of the corpse lying on the ground beneath the gibbet. Many Koreans are incensed at the action of the Government.

Barnardo Boy Sentenced.

CAYUGA, May 3.—At the assizes yesterday, Charles Goldsmith, a Bernardo boy, who pleaded guilty to attempted murder and rape, was sentenced to twenty-one years in penitentiary for the former and seven years for the latter offence, sentences to run concurrently.

Murder on the City of Pekin.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 3.—On the voyage of the City of Pekin to Yokohama, a Chinese steerage passenger got into the saloon, and upon being ordered out by a boy stabbed him and Chief Engineer McClure, and then nearly beheaded Lee Shing, a Chinese passenger, who expired instantly. The Chinaman was put in irons.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

TORONTO, May 3, 1894.

Local security market is active and easier.

At the London wool sales 6,900 bales, comprising a large selection, were offered. Cross-breeds were actively competed for by the home trade.

Trading in the industrial stocks was once more the matter of chief interest in the New York market. The railroad stocks, although comparatively neglected, showed activity in several different points.

Wall street reports stocks were fairly active and irregular. Chicago Gas is a strong feature. Louisville and Nashville's net earnings for March decreased $12,115, and the stock sold down at 1 per cent.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—The market continues dull. Oats unchanged, with sales of two loads at 40 and 41c. Wheat unchanged; white quoted at 62c, red at 61c, and goose at 58c. Peas are nominal at 64 to 64½c, and barley at 42c.

Chicago wheat market opened weak. They were forced below "puts" within the first fifteen minutes, but rebounded with a decided vim. From that time until very near the close, when another dip occurred, there was a good tone to the market. Corn and oats were very strong at closing.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold, Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

RECIPROCITY NEGOTIATIONS.

The Ottawa Citizen gives some interesting details of the discussion by Canadian ministers with the Harrison administration on the question of reciprocal trade. The Government brought down last year's minutes of the proceedings of the Washington conference signed by Sir John Thompson, Mr. Bowell and Mr. Foster, and attested by Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador at Washington; their authenticity is therefore beyond dispute—and what is the story that they tell? On the first day of the meeting of the American and British representatives our Finance Minister stated that the Canadian Government would require to know whether the United States could insist on preferential treatment, or whether Canada would be free to accord the same terms to other countries. Mr. Blaine replied, "We should expect to have the Canadians to compete with in manufacturing, but no one else."

When the point was taken up again the next day, Mr. Blaine said that the obstacle to any treaty with Canada lay in the difficulty of preventing smuggling along the border line. "This could, in his opinion, only be done by making the tariff uniform for both countries." And again he said: "It was clear to his mind that no other arrangement (than unlimited reciprocity) would suit the United States, and that it must be accompanied by discrimination in favor of the United States especially against Great Britain, who was their great competitor, and that it must likewise be accompanied by the adoption of a uniform tariff for the United States and Canada, and equal to that of the United States."

What arrant hypocrisy it is for the Liberals to pretend that they can have any other trade arrangement with the United States by treaty than commercial union! In discussing the budget, the Liberal leaders took pains to denounce commercial union. Mr. Charlton said, "The Liberal party have never formulated such a policy." If that is not the policy of the Liberal party, it is at all events the only concession that could be obtained from the United States to impose their tariff upon us against all the world, while removing the custom houses between the two countries. Mr. Charlton says no. Then let them cease their meaningless clamor for reciprocity, and above all things, let them cease to proclaim our dependence on the sixty million market.

THE LORD'S DAY OBSERVANCE BILL

Receives Its Second Reading in the House of Commons—To Disfranchise Electors Who Receive Bribes—Ballot For the Northwest Territories—The Reduction of Grand Juries.

OTTAWA, May 3.—Hon. Mr. Daly has introduced a bill in the Commons to repeal the Homestead Exemption Act in the territories. The object of it is to leave the whole matter of homestead exemptions in the hands of the Territorial Assembly. The bill was read a first time.

Quartermaster General.

Hon. Mr. Patterson, in reply to Mr. Mulock, said that provision having been made during the last session of Parliament for the salary and allowance of a quartermaster-general, Lieut. Col. Percy H. F. Lake had been appointed to the position by an order-in-council dated the 15th of August, 1893. Col. Lake had entered the army from the military college, Sandhurst, and was also a graduate of the staff college. The salary was $3,200 per annum.

Lord's Day Observance Bill.

Mr. Charlton moved the second reading of his bill, entitled, "An Act to secure the better observance of the Lord's Day." He said when he had first introduced the bill into the House years ago, he had approached Sir John Macdonald and asked him to give the bill his consideration. He asked him to allow it to be discussed upon its merits in the House, and the old chieftain had done so. He trusted that the same measure of fairness would be accorded the bill this session. The bill provides that printers shall not work on Sunday; canals shall not be open for traffic: no trains shall run except they be through passenger trains, or trains of live stock or perishable goods and excursions shall be prohibited. He said that the Sunday newspaper was the anti Christ of America and an engine of the devil.

Mr. Craig seconded the motion for the second reading.

Mr. Christie spoke in support of Mr. Charlton's bill. The bill, if passed, would be a great blessing to the great mass of employes of the large corporations who now work on Sunday.

Mr. Mills did not know on what ground the Commons had a right to legislate on this question, because the publication of a newspaper was a local matter and would naturally come within the jurisdiction of the local Legislature. He thought the bill ought to be read a second time, and then the provisions of the bill confined to matters within the jurisdiction of this House. The closing of public works and offices of Canada on Sunday, of course, would fall under control of the Parliament of Canada. As a matter of law, the jurisdiction to legislate on Sabbath observance was with the Legislatures and not this Parliament.

Mr. McMullen deprecated the running of railway excursions on the Lord's day, and he blamed this fact for the demoralization which existed in the United States. He had seen more people at Old Orchard beach drunk on Sundays than on any other day of the week and this was in the state of Maine, where prohibition was in vogue. The people who were drunk came in by the Sunday excursions. On Monday mornings empty bottles and flasks could be gathered up at "Old Orchard" by the cartload.

The bill was read a second time.

To Disfranchise Bribed Electors.

Mr. Weldon moved the second reading of his bill to disfranchise electors who are found to have taken bribes. The object of the bill was not to punish anyone, but he wanted the House to say that the man who took a bribe should have no controlling power in the state.

The bill was read a second time and referred to a select committee.

Ballot for the Northwest.

Mr. Martin moved the second reading of his bill to extend the ballot to the Northwest Territories.

Sir John Thompson asked the mover to consider the particulars of the bill. There was no objection to the principle. The fact that a Government bill on this subject had been promised in the speech last session. It had been introduced and read a second time, but in consequence of the pressure of business it had been left over. Mr. Martin, if he looked carefully at the particulars of his bill, would find that the bill simply repealed certain sections of the statutes.

Mr. Martin said his object was to place the Territories in the same position as the rest of Canada.

The bill was read a second time.

To Reduce Grand Jurors.

Mr. Edgar's bill to reduce from 12 to 7 the number of grand jurors necessary to find a true bill in the province of Ontario, was read a second time.

SHARON POISONING CASE.

The Grand Jury Finds a True Bill Against the Prisoners.

TORONTO, May 3.—The grand jury has brought in a true bill against Lottie Evans, George Osman and Charles Pegg, charging them with "administering poison with intent to murder" and "conspiracy with intent to murder." This is the celebrated "Sharon poisoning case" that has excited so much interest. The charge is that they tried to poison Walter Evans, the husband of Lottie.

Each pleaded "not guilty" to the charge. The case is in progress.

Great interest in this trial is afloat and an immense crush of people will doubtless perplex the court constables. The crown has thirty witnesses and the prisoners have fifteen.

Effects of the Coal Strike.

NIAGARA, Ont., May 3.—The great coal miners' strike is already beginning to be felt here. The electric light service on the street has had to be stopped, and if coal cannot be procured very soon the incandescent house service will have to be shut off also.

TORONTO, May 3.—Manufacturers here are beginning to feel the effects of the miners' strike, and it it thought that before many days are over a number of mills will have to close down or import Cape Breton coal at a considerably extra cost. Coal dealers are also sufferers, the majority of them being unable to fill their orders.

TANNIN IN TEA.

Percentage of Tannin in Different Brands of Tea.

Some examples which have been forwarded to us, says the British Medical Journal, of the results of analyses for tannin and theine in tea indicate considerable variations in the amount of tannin, according to the quality of the tea and the state of growth at which it is picked. In some blends of China teas the percentage of tannin extracted by infusion for thirty minutes was 7.44; theine, 3.11; and a similar result was given in the examination of the finest Moying; while, on the other hand, with fine Assam tea a percentage of 17.73 of tannin by weight was extracted after infusion for fifteen minutes, and two blends of Assam and Ceylon tea, gave, respectively, 8.91 and 10.26 of tannin. On the whole, it is probable that the Indian teas are much more heavily loaded with tannin than the China and Japan teas. Moreover, the common method of prolonged infusion in boiling water is well calculated to extract the tannin, while it dissipates the flavor of the tea

To be drunk reasonably, tea should not be infused for more than a minute, and with water of which the temperature does not exceed 170° F. It should be taken without sugar or milk, which would drown the flavor of the delicate and aromatic infusion thus obtained. This, at least is how the tea is drunk both in China and Japan, whence we have borrowed the use of it. With our European method of prolonged infusion in boiling water we destroy all the best flavor of the tea, and we extract such heavy proportions of tannin as to cultivate indigestion as the result of tea drinking. Indigestion is unknown among tea drinkers in the East, and it is in all probability only the result of defective use of the leaf.

Child Inebriety.

At first thought it would hardly seem necessary to discuss this subject in respectable communities. When one remembers, however, how often a little whisky or brandy is prescribed for trifling ailments, such as colds, stomach trouble, etc., there would seem to be some foundation for the remarks of Dr. Keeley in a lecture delivered at Minneapolis, Minn. The doctor said: "Alcohol is the same liquor on the nursery table or sideboard as in the saloon, and has the same effect when given to a baby as when taken by an old person. Much has been said about the heredity of inebriety, but there is no evidence that this disease is hereditary. If it is possible that its heredity reaches back any further than the cradle and the nursery, then it certainly can reach no further than the influence that alcohol may have on the unborn child if liquor is drank by the mother. I do not doubt that inebriates are born and made in this manner. Mothers may sometimes be inebriates or take liquor as a remedy. The danger is to the child. The alcohol, no doubt, circulates through the brain of the unborn infant under such circumstances, and puts the stamp of inebriety on the delicate tissues.

"When the child is born its first crying breath is likely to inhale the odors of liquor. It enters the cradle and its cry is satisfied by opium and whisky. The method of causing inebriety in childhood is the secret of intemperance. It is to intemperance what the riddle was to the dragon slain by Jason when he recovered the golden fleece. That alcohol is a universal and general prescription for children's diseases needs no proof. I do not doubt that a satisfactory substitute can be found in each case for the alcohol given under these circumstances for children creates the disease of inebriety. Mothers should not give their children alcohol, and medical science must find us a substitute."

The Effect of Food on Milk.

Bulletin No. 80 of the Ontario experiment station, by Prof. H. H. Dean, gives results of experiments on the effect of food on milk, and Prof. Dean says: "I would warn against feeding much more than fifty pounds of silage per day to cows weighing under 1,000 pounds. We have found the following ration to give good results: Fifty pounds of corn silage, six pounds of hay, four pounds of bran and two pounds of pea and oatmeal mixed in equal proportions. If these latter become too high priced I would recommend the use of two pounds of cottonseed meal (in place of the bran or meals) per day to each cow when it can be bought for about $30 per ton. Feed liberally, though not wastefully, bearing in mind that although the per cent of fat may not be increased by liberal feeding, the total amount of fat or butter may be largely increasing by causing the cow to give a larger quantity of milk. Three things determine the value of a cow; the quality of her milk, the quantity she gives and the economical use she makes of her food. During the hot weather butter makers are frequently troubled with soft butter. This is largely due in most cases to improper handling of the milk, cream and butter; but there is a tendency during hot spells for the butter to be soft, no matter what the care taken. From the experiments reported I am led to believe that the addition of a small quantity of meal, especially cottonseed meal, has a tendency to make the butter firmer or, as we say, raise the melting point from one to four degrees Centigrade. Last summer we fed about one pound per day to each cow while at pasture and our butter maker informs me that he did not have a churning of soft butter during the whole season. Whether this was due altogether to the cottonseed meal I am not prepared to say but I think it had something to do with it. In feeding cottonseed meal it should be mixed with bran, cut hay or some grain meal."

Locomotive Attacked by a Cow.

A striking example of the instinct of maternal devotion in the animal kingdom, and at the same time a curious incident, was witnessed by scores of people at Wissahickon station recently, says the Philadelphia Record. A sleek-looking cow, with a happy-go-lucky calf at her side, wandered upon the railroad tracks just as a train pulled up at the depot. The cow got across the track ahead of the engine, but her offspring, with the recklessness of youth and curiosity of inexperience, lingered to dispute the path. The engineer crowded air on his brakes, but the calf disappeared beneath the cowcatcher. Everybody looked for veal cutlets; but as locomotive slowed up and stopped the calf calmly stood up under the boiler between the driving wheels. The cow heard the bleat of alarm and caught sight of her calf. She unhesitatingly attacked the big iron horse and vainly endeavored to horn it off the track, bawling angrily the while. A newsboy, after a deal of manoeuvering, managed to push the calf between the driving-wheels, and cow and calf moved leisurely off as though nothing had happened.

BUSY LIFE IN PARIS.

SOME MODES OF LIVING IN THE BEAUTIFUL CITY.

French Women Are Busy Women—Hotel Life Very Independent and the French Like It—A Contrast With Three Other Modes—The Morale.

In Paris one has the choice of at least four modes of living. One may keep house, live at the public hotel, in furnished apartments, taking one's meals there or elsewhere, as is most convenient, or one may board in a pension. All these modes have their advantages. The hotel and furnished apartments give one a very independent life. Housekeeping has its cares and burdens, but also its home comforts and pleasures, which cannot be obtained elsewhere. In the pension there is less independence than in the hotel or furnished apartments, because the meals are served at regular hours and one feels obliged to be on time. This is a good thing, if one is settled in any place, but if sight-seeing, the furnished apartment or the hotel is better. Since the life in the pension is a very common one in all the large towns in France it will be the first condition considered.

Because I wished to study this phase of life, and also because I wanted daily practice in speaking and hearing the French language, I chose the pension de famille. In a boarding-house of this sort one hears a great deal of French spoken at the table twice a day, and also in the salon in the evening. It is almost impossible to get into a pension where foreigners are not admitted, so that one will more than likely have the advantage of hearing a good deal of bad French as well as good.

The life in the pension de famille is very regular. Breakfast in your room at any time between certain hours; luncheon in the dining-room at twelve o'clock, and dinner in the dining-room at seven o'clock. After dinner all who have not engagements adjourn to the salon, the ladies with their fancy-work, for French women never seem to be idle. Sometimes there is music, card-playing or some other amusement. During the day, when you are in the house, you spend the time in your chamber; the salon is rarely used.

When you first come to the pension madame asks you when you will have your breakfast served. I found that I could have my breakfast at any time from half-after 7 to 9 o'clock, so I decided to have my fire made at half-after 7, and my breakfast served at 8 o'clock.

The breakfast is the same every day in the year: Two small rolls, a small piece of butter, a small pitcher of hot milk and a still smaller pitcher of coffee, and three blocks of sugar. If you wish you may substitute tea or chocolate for the coffee.

You might think that one would tire of this breakfast, but, on the contrary, you welcome it with pleasure each morning. The bread and the butter are always delicious, and the hot drink does not vary much in quantity. The French housekeeper gets everything down to a fine point, and as one studies the cost and mode of living, one realizes that this is a necessity.

Every morning the servants are up at 6 o'clock; the boots and shoes must be cleaned, fires made, hot water and breakfast must be taken to the chambers, and countless other duties must be performed. The servants are kept busy until 11 o'clock at night, except on rare occasions.

After breakfast the mistress of the house goes to market, looks after the servants, and attends to all the little details of the household, which in a house like this are without number.

The Future of the Farmer.

His present condition and his future is assuredly an enviable one compared with that of all the pursuits of the people. The home habit and the custom of conserving homes, in short, the love of home and land, is the basis of public tranquillity, prosperity and safety. Permanent homes for all the people, and as many of those homes in the country as possible, are the best instrumentalities for strengthening and perpetuating popular government. There must be a recession from city to rural life during the decade beginning with 1894, a readjustment,—rather a reapportionment of population between city and country is demanded to insure the safety of the nation. Love of home is primarily patriotism; no conspiracies, no anarchy is evolved from the quiet homes of the country, and to them, and the sincere love of them, the friends of democratic government must look for the preservation and perpetuation of civil liberty.—From U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Morton's recent Speeches.

One Thing at a Time.

Although there is some variation in the practice of good orchardists, yet all agree in the opinion that for the first few years after setting the trees the orchard should not be permitted to bear any other crop than the fruit, except it may be hoed crops, the soil of which should be kept both mellow and clean. Soils which possess much natural fertility may form exceptions to the rule that all bearing apple orchards should be treated with broadcast mulching with barn manure.

Fatal Accident on the Pennsylvania.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 3.—An eastbound train was wrecked on the Pennsylvania road eight miles east of this city. The wreck was caused by a broken axle. Thirty-nine cars loaded with coal and general merchandise were piled up. Brakesman John D. Saucerman, of this city, was buried under the wreck and his body has not been reached. Harry L. Marks, of Robertsdale, was injured internally. Several tramps are reported under the wreck.

Japan's Telephone System.

The use of the telephone is becoming more and more general in that go-ahead country, Japan. At the end of 1893 there were 1576 subscribers to the exchange at Tokio; 351 in Yokohoma; 300 in Osaka, and 162 in Kobe. This gives a total of 2389 subscribers, as against only 1167 at the end of 1892. The number, therefore, more than doubled itself during the year.—Electrical Review.

MADOC.

MAY 1.—The Madoc Cheese Board met last Saturday, when 600 cheese were listed and sold for 10c to James Whitton, of Belleville. The next meeting will take place on May 15th.—A few years have made a great change. We had but one bank and the would not accept any cheese factory accounts, so to get a factory cheque cashed it cost 25 to 50 cents. But this is all changed. The enterprising manager of Dale & Co.'s bank has provided the Board with an excellent room to meet in free of charge and cheques are paid at par.—The stock of the North Hastings stock farm was sold to-day and attracted buyers from all parts of the county. Nearly all the stock was sold, but prices ruled low; in fact good horses were sold at about what it cost to winter them.—Mr. Abraham, late of the INTELLIGENCER, was in town in the interest of his new paper, and secured a large number of subscribers.—The Oddfellows attended church last Sunday to the number of fifty. Dr. Wishart preached an excellent sermon, taking for his theme the man who journeyed from Jerusalem to Jericho, bringing out the noble and generous acts of the Samaritan, he gave an interesting and graphic description of the journey from Jerusalem, situated on a beautiful hill four thousand feet above the level of the sea to Jericho, twenty miles distant on the sea level. On the way many historical points were described with the sacred river Jordon close by with a view of the sea in the distance. MRS. GILBERT'S FATAL CALL.

WHILE INTERVIEWING HER SERVANT'S MOTHER SHE CAUGHT SMALLPOX.

The Germs Floated in Through a Window —Mrs. Gilbert Called at a Bergen Street House, Directly Back of a Place Where Seven Concealed Smallpox Cases Were Discovered by the Health Authorities—She Died in a Hospital.

The following touching narrative of the death of Mrs. A. H. Gilbert is taken from the Brooklyn Eagle of April 19th ult.: On March 26th Mrs. Martha M. Gilbert died of smallpox in the contagious disease hospital on Kingston avenue. She was the wife of A. H. Gilbert, who lives at 85 Halsey street. Mr. Gilbert is well to do and lives in a handsome brown stone house.

The facts surrounding Mrs. Gilbert's death are known to only a few. It is a story of unusual sadness. About the middle of March the Eagle reported the fact that seven cases of concealed smallpox had been discovered at 75 Underhill avenue. This nest was responsible for Mrs. Gilbert's death.

In Mrs. Gilbert's employ was a little servant girl, who lived on Washington avenue. Directly in the rear of the girl's home is the Underhill avenue house referred to above. Some question concerning the girl's wages arose in the Gilbert home, and as there seemed to be danger of a misunderstanding, Mrs. Gilbert, at the girl's request, went to the latter's home on Bergen street to arrange the matter with her mother. The call was brief and the question satisfactorily settled. The house was very warm and a window in the rear was open. Mrs. Gilbert sat near this while making her call. In this way she contracted smallpox from the Underhill avenue house.

About a week later she began to grow ill. On Sunday, March 18th, she took to her bed and Dr. Bush was summoned. He saw at once that she was suffering from smallpox. As Mrs. Gilbert was frail and delicate, the disease made rapid progress, taking the virulent form of black smallpox. On the Thursday following, with the consent of the family and mainly on account of the children, she was removed by Inspector Winfield to the Kingston avenue hospital. On Monday, March 26th, she died.

Mrs. Gilbert was 43 years old. Her death was a sad blow to the family. They have no relatives in this country. All the members of the family were vaccinated as soon as it was discovered that Mrs. Gilbert was ill and none of them has taken the disease.

Miss Gilbert was seen by an Eagle reporter at the residence on Halsey street this morning. She is a sweet faced young woman and was dressed in mourning. She stated the facts of her mother's death as given above and said that it had been a sudden and hard blow for the family to bear. She said there was no doubt about her mother having contracted the disease while making the call at the servant's home.

A Warm April.

The mean temperature at Toronto during April was 44°.39, 3°.5 higher than the average of 54 years, or 5°.18 higher than April, 1893. In reference to this Prof. Blake, assistant astronomer at the Meteorological office, writes; "From the 6th to the middle of the 11th was decidedly cool, but after the 11th weather became warm and pleasant, the average of the month reaching a point which places it as one of the warmest Aprils on the records. Four times only during the past half century was it exceeded: In 1844, 48°.1; 1870, 44°.6; 1878, 48°.7, and 1886, 44°.9."

SUNDAY CHRISTIANS.

Mr. Hunter Says a Good Many People Wear the Mantle Only Once a Week.

As usual there was a great rush to the special services last night, and when the evangelists mounted the platform they gazed into about 1,500 faces. The meeting was opened by prayer, after which Mr. Crossley and Prof. Canfield sang a duet entitled, "Home at Last."

Rev. E N Baker gave a short address, in which he spoke impressively on the death of the late J. B. Ashley, pointing out that it was God in this man's life that made it so loveable.

Mr. Hunter said "Don't be sponger, always taking in and never giving out. Go out and work. If we (Hunter and Crossley) did this we would win one soul in about a thousand years." Mr. Hunter read the lesson from 5th chapter of Matthew, Christ's sermon on the mount. "God's people," he said, "were the only bible some people read, therefore christians, be careful." "Let your light so shine." Don't ruin your character for the sake of $100. Some people wear a long face on Sunday and say Amen! Amen! Amen! but on Sunday night they say good-bye, religion, till next Sunday, but they don't always find it waiting. If you can take Jesus Christ into the dance, do it if you dare. Take Christ to the card table if you dare. Take Christ into the theatre, can you? We will talk to you in a night or two on cards, dancing, theatres, etc.

Mr. Crossley sang "A Song of Trust," after which a number of requests for prayer were read by Mr. Hunter. He asked the prayers of God's people for the bereaved families in the city so near to us. There has been a funeral nearly every day since they came.

Mr. Crossley spoke on the greatest revival on earth from the 15th verse of the 14th chapter of Joshua, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." All belong either to the devil or to the Lord and all have the power of choice. It is our duty to let others know if we do serve the Lord. The Lord said: "Who so will confess me before men, him will my father confess before the angels in heaven." He made the striking assurance that if there were only fifty christians on earth to day and they each converted one other during the year (not a great undertaking) there would be one hundred at the end of 1894, and so on in twenty five years the whole world would be converted (1,600,000,000), showing that the people leave the work to the ministers and do not do individual work as they should.

At the close a number of seekers came foward to be instructed in the way in which they had started. A spirit of deep interest was manifested by a large number of young people.

There was a very large choir last night, all the choirs in the union being represented.

THE TRAMP NUISANCE.

A Warning to Citizens to Keep Their Doors Locked.

The woods surrounding the city are swarming with the northern division of Gen. Coxey's army and the citizens are warned to be on the lookout for these human buzzards. The police received a call to the G.T.R. station last night, where a number of them were fastened in a box car, but before the officers arrived they had broken the door from the car and escaped. A car of sugar had been broken open and the head of one of the barrels smashed in.

Mrs. (Rev.) Ash, North Front St., reported to the police yesterday afternoon that a sum of money had been stolen from a sideboard in her house sometime during the forenoon and it is supposed a tramp who was seen prowling about that part of the city took it.

In the housecleaning season women very often go upstairs to work, leaving the front door open and these sneak thieves take advantage of the situation to slip into houses and help themselves to whatever they can lay their hands on. If the citizens would notify the police promptly when they see a tramp around, the nuisance would be more quickly abated.

To prevent detection in crime they often change clothes so that, if arrested, they cannot be identified.

Keep your front doors locked.

Hackmen in Court.

To-day was hackmen's day at the police court. The cases of disorderly conduct preferred against a driver and a hotel porter were withdrawn on the defendants paying $3.25 costs. The Magistrate said he had had enough of these cases before him and that after this each and every offender brought before him would be fined $20 and costs to be paid at once, in default a term in gaol corresponding to the fine. He says he is determined in the public interest to prevent any further wrangling at the station.

For years past some of the hackmen and hotel porters at the G.T.R. depot have been in the habit of getting into wordy altercations and using outrageous language. Mr. Gunn has decided to put a stop to this nuisance, and if anything of the kind occurs again he will eject the parties from the yard and not allow them to enter it for passengers.

S. H. Clark.

Kingston Whig says:—"Mr. Clark will bear comparison with any living elocutionist." Toronto Globe says:—"Mr. Clark stands among the first elocutionists on the continent." All those who are at all interested in elocution or voice culture, should accept the opportunity of hearing Mr. S. H. Clark at the opera house on Tuesday evening next, May 8th. The fact that he was chosen as instructor in elocution in Chicago University, the greatest University on the American continent, should be a sufficient guarantee that he is probably the best elocutionist on the continent; but if you wish any assurance of his worth, ask of those who heard him when here some months ago. Plan opens at Riggs' to-morrow morning.

A Successful Sidney Boy.

On Tuesday, May 1st, Mr. A. L. Crouter received a short visit from Dr. Gillett, of Philadelphia, accompanied by Mr. Mathison, Principal of the Deaf & Dumb Institute, Belleville. Dr. Gillett is a firm friend of A. L. E. Crouter, Principal of the Mount Airy Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, at Philadelphia, and of whom he spoke in the warmest and most complimentary terms. A. L. E. Crouter was a Sidney boy, and at one time a student of Belleville Grammar School.

The Liberals of North Hastings have decided not to place a candidate in the field as there are already two farmers seeking election, viz, Messrs. James Haggerty and James McComb. Mr. A. F. Wood, the present talented member, who was unanimously renominated by the Conservatives, ought to have an easy task.

The Proposed Dam.

C. F. Aylsworth, jr., C.E., who has been inspecting the site of the proposed dam to be built by the city above the railway bridge, reports that a dam at this point would have a 12-foot head and a minimum force of 100 horse power.

THE LATE J. B. ASHLEY.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY AT THE D. & D. INSTITUTE.

The Remains Laid at Rest—A Large and Representative Attendance at the Obsequies — His Demise Sincerely Mourned by Many.

The mortal remains of the late J. B. Ashley were yesterday afternoon consigned to their final resting place. Love and respect do not depart with the last breath. We may have faults, yet there is a fund of goodness and sympathy which before great trials, especially in the deserving, will manifest itself in a tangible manner. Such was demonstrated at the obsequies of the deceased. The late Mr. Ashley knew no enemy. He was talented, affable, kind and obliging, his presence always inspiring friendship and regard. Hence it was that his death was received with universal regret and large numbers of our citizens were present to pay the last tribute of respect. He was a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and a goodly number of the brethren attended his funeral.

At the hour of 2 o'clock services were held at his late residence, on Hillside street, conducted by the Rev. J. A. McCamus, Rev. E. N. Baker, of the city, and Rev. J. Faull, of Sidney. The two former divine spoke in a eulogistic manner of the many sterling qualities which the deceased possessed. He died as he lived a true christian.

The services were of an impressive character. The cortege was then formed and proceeded to the Deaf and Dumb Institute. Here a solemn service was held. While the death of Mr. Ashley is felt and deeply regretted by the general public, it has cast a special gloom over the Institution, where his genial face will not soon be forgotten. As that seat of learning was approached it was apparent to the observer that something unusual had occurred. Instead of the playground being thronged with animated scholars, enjoying their sports, the grounds were deserted, whilst from the flagstaff the Union Jack was floating at half mast. The teachers and scholars had assembled in the chapel, where the services were conducted. The coffin was deposited near the platform, being surrounded by flowers. The chapel was filled and the scene was indeed a solemn one. To see one who had so often taught and admonished the children, carried in the coldness of death, caused a scene which could not well be depicted and from many an eye the tears were seen to fall.

The proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. J. A. McCamus, which was interpreted by Prof Denys. The Principal, Mr. R. Mathison, then gave a short pathetic address. He said they were present to pay the last tribute of respect to Mr. Ashley, who had been to him (the speaker) like a brother. He was a kind and good friend. He had always been loyal to his work and had also been loyal to God. He was a man of rare attainments; he never was idle or shirked his duties. We mourn his death sincerely, for one was gone who could never be replaced. His whole heart was in his work, doing all he could for the advancement of those under his charge. He hoped all would be prepared to meet him in the better land. His memory would ever be green in the recollection of the teachers and scholars.

Rev. E. N. Baker gave a short address, speaking of the many virtues of the deceased and especially his devotion to God. Prof. Coleman interpreted the address.

The proceedings were brought to a close by the rendering of the Lord's prayer in sign language by the pupils, Prof. Balis leading. This being over, the pupils and all present were permitted to take a last look at the remains.

But no, that look is not the last;
We yet may meet him where seraphs dwell,
Where love no more deplores the rest,
Nor breathes that withering word—farewell.

The cortege was then re-formed, all the larger boys of the Institute, under the charge of Mr. Douglas, preceding the hearse to the cemetery. All wore a badge of mourning. At the grave Rev. J. A. McCamus and Rev. E. N. Baker officiated. The burial services of the United Workmen were also conducted by Messrs. W. E. Vandervoort and E. Bonter.

The floral designs were numerous and beautiful. Among them we observed a pillow bearing the word "Brother," and an anchor with the letters "A.O.U.W." The superintendent and officers of the Institute also contributed some handsome designs.

The bearers were Principal Mathison and Prof. Coleman, of the D. & D. Institute, and Messrs. J. W. Johnson, R. D. Conger, Wm. McKeown and E. L. Palen, all members of the United Workmen society.

The sympathy of the staff of the Kingston Whig was expressed in the following telegram to Mrs. Ashley;

MAY 1st, 1894.

From Kingston, Ont.
To Mrs. J. B. Ashley,
Belleville Ont

The Whig staff tender sincere sympathy to you. We have lost a loved fellow-worker and a friend whose memory will be as precious ointment poured forth.

(Signed) JOS. G. ELLIOTT.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

Dr. Theodore Cuyler, New York, says on the drink question and other public evils: "These are practical and pressing questions that not only engage the conscience, but are in the province of legislation. Into them a patriot and a christian can go with a clear conscience, and work as he prays and vote as he prays. The pulpit, the schools, and the prayer meeting, might all be invoked to strengthen men's hands for such issues. May God give us grace to carry his laws to the ballot box, and write them on our statute books. The dram shop ought to be undermined by moral influence, and barricaded by legal restraint."

Last summer, the proprietor of a large building being erected in Omaha, had a big tank filled each morning with iced oatmeal water, for the use of workmen during the day. The men testified that, while they worked there they had no desire for beer or whiskey, the oatmeal water satisfying them, and they could walk right by saloons without feeling tempted to enter them. Here is a chance for practical temperance work by builders. The workmen will not be the only ones benefited by this oatmeal water tank. Keeping men out of saloons will help contractors to fill their contracts on time.

For the sake of those who are alarmed, for the revenue, at the proposed reduction in the number of licenses, we quote the following from Mayor Hillyer's speech in Atlanta, Ga., upon vacating the chair in favor of his successor: "Is there any city where they have bar rooms that has a surplus of over $25,000 in its treasury on a clean balance sheet, and can sell four and a half per cent bonds at par? I found this city with nearly 130 saloons, I leave it with none." He then reviewed the contest with all its fierceness, and congratulated the city that even in the heat of it nothing had occurred to bring reproach on its name, and that now old wounds were healed and all again practically united. He also showed from the treasurer's report that the credit or the city had greatly advanced, and that a reduction in taxes may now be safely made.

MRS. JAS. CHASE.

Worst Kind of Scrofula.

DEAR SIRS,—I had an abscess on my breast and scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken six bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

TREASURE ISLAND

PART V.

MY SEA ADVENTURE.

'According to rules,' said one. 'Fo'k's'le council,' said Morgan. And so with one remark or another all marched out, and left Silver and me alone with the torch.

The sea cook instantly removed his pipe.

'Now, look you here, Jim Hawkins,' he said, in a steady whisper, that was no more than audible, 'you're within half a plank of death, and, what's a long sight worse, of torture. They're going to throw me off. But, you mark, I stand by you through thick and thin. I didn't mean to; no, not till you spoke up. I was about desperate to lose so much blunt, and be hanged into the bargain. But I see you was the right sort. I says to myself, you stand by Hawkins, John, and Hawkins'll stand by you. You're his last card, and by the living thunder, John, he's yours! Back to back, says I. You save your witness, and he'll save your neck!'

I began dimly to understand.

'You mean all is lost?' I asked.

'Ay, by gum, I do!' he answered. 'Ship gone, neck gone—that's the size of it. Once I looked into that bay, Jim Hawkins, and seen the schooner—well, I'm tough, but gave out. As for that lot and their council mark me, they're outright fools and cowards. I'll save your life—if so be as I can—from them. But, see here, Jim—tit for tat—you save Long John from swinging.'

I was bewildered; it seemed a thing so hopeless he was asking—he the old buccaneer, the ringleader throughout.

'What I can do, that I'll do,' I said.

'It's a bargain!' cried Long John. 'You speak up plucky, and, by thunder! I've a chance.'

He hobbled to the torch, where it stood propped among the firewood, and took a fresh light to his pipe.

'Understand me, Jim,' he said returning 'I've a head on my shoulders, I have. I'm on Squire's side, now. I know you've got that ship safe somewheres. How you done it, I don't know, but safe it is. I guess Hands and O'Brien turned soft. I never much believed in neither of them. Now you mark me I ask no questions, nor I won't let others. I know when a game's up, I do; and I know a lad's that stanch. Ah, you that's young—you and me might have done a power of good together!'

He drew some cognac from the cask into a tin canikin.

'Will you taste, messmate?' he asked and when I had refused; 'Well, I'll take a drain myself, Jim,' said he. 'I need a caulker, for there's trouble on hand. And talking of trouble, why did that doctor give me the chart, Jim?'

My face expressed a wonder so unaffected that he saw the needlessness of further question.

'Ah, well, he did, though,' said he. 'And there's something under that, no doubt—something, surely, under that, Jim—bad or good.'

And he took another swallow of the brandy, shaking his great fair head like a man who looks forward to the worst.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE BLACK SPOT AGAIN.

The council of the buccaneers had lasted some time, when one of them re-entered the house, and with a repetition of the same salute, which had in my eyes an ironical air, begged for a moment's loan of the torch. Silver briefly agreed; and this emissary retired again, leaving us together in the dark.

'There's a breeze coming, Jim,' said Silver, who had, by this time, adopted quite a friendly and familiar tone.

I turned to the loop hole nearest me and looked out. The embers of the great fire had so far burned themselves out, and now glowed so low and duskily, that I understood why the conspirators desired a torch. About half-way down the slope to the stockade they were collected in a group; one held the light; another was on his knees in their midst, and I saw the blade of an open knife shine in his hand with varying colors, in the moon and torchlight. The rest were all stooping, as though watching the manoeuvres of this last. I could just make out that he had a book as well as a knife in his hand; and was still wondering how anything so incongruous had come in their possession, when the kneeling figure rose once more to his feet, and the whole party began to move together towards the house.

'Here they come,' said I: and I returned to my former position, for it seemed beneath my dignity that they should find me watching them.

'We'll let 'em come, lad—let 'em come,' said Silver, cheerily. 'I've still a shot in my locker.'

The door opened, and the five men standing huddled together just inside, pushed one of their number forward. In any other circumstances it would have been comical to see his slow advances, hesitating as he set down each foot, but holding his closed right hand in front of him.

'Step up, lad,' cried Silver. 'I won't eat you. Hand it over, lubber. I know the rules, I do; I won't hurt a deputation.'

Thus encouraged the buccaneer stepped forth more briskly, and having passed something to Silver, from hand to hand, slipped more smartly back again to his companions.

The sea-cook looked at what he had given him.

'The black spot! I thought so,' he observed. 'Where might you have got the paper? Why, hillo! look here, now; this ain't lucky! You've gone and cut this out of a bible. What fool's cut a Bible?'

'Ah, there!' said Morgan—'there. Wot did I say? No good'll come of that I said.'

'Well, you've about fixed it now, among you,' continued Silver. 'You'll all swing now, I reckon. What softheaded lubber had a Bible?'

'It was Dick,' said one.

'Dick, was it? Then Dick can get to prayers,' said Silver. 'He's seen his slice of luck, has Dick, and you may lay to that.'

But here the long man with the yellow eyes struck in.

'Belay that talk, John Silver,' he said. 'This crew has tipped you the black spot in full council, as in dooty bound; just you turn it over, as in dooty bound, and see what's wrote there. Then you can talk.'

'Thanky, George,' replied the sea-cook. 'You always was brisk for business, and has the rules by heart, George, as I'm pleased to see. Well, what is it any way? Ah! 'Deposed,—that's it, is it? very pretty wrote, to be sure; like print, I swear. Your hand of write, George? Why, you was gettin' quite a leading man in this here crew. You'll be cap'n next, I shouldn't wonder. Just oblige me with that torch again, will you? this pipe didn't draw.'

'Come, now,' said George, 'you don't fool this crew no more. You're a funny man, by your account; but you're over now and you'll may be step down off that barrel and help vote.'

'I thought you said you knowed the rules,' returned Silver, contemptuously. 'Leastways, if you don't, I do; and I wait here—and I'm still you're captain, mind—till you out with your grievances, and I reply; in the meantime, your black spot ain't worth a biscuit. After that we'll see.'

TALES OF ROYAL FOLK.

EMPEROR WILLIAM OF GERMANY AS A MORALIST.

Even at the Request of His Grandfather He Declined to Rescind an Order Against Gambling in His Regiment—His Sentiments Still Unchanged.

The opposition of the Emperor of Germany to gambling in every form among his officers is creating something akin to consternation in army circles. The wearers of the stars, straps and gold buttons almost fear to touch cards in their own rooms for fear his majesty, in some way, will hear of it and reprimand them. This policy of the ruler is not a whim of the moment. It is in accordance with a resolution taken in his younger days, when he was suspected to be in sympathy with everything "wild" in the German capital. It is brought about by the suicide of a promising young lieutenant in the regiment to which the prince was attached and of whom he was exceedingly fond. While playing one night in the Union Club, the "swellest" organization in Germany, he staked his fortune, lost it and left the green table to send a bullet through his brain. His royal highness was much affected by the news and made a vow that, should he live to ascend the throne, he would preclude such tragedies if possible. He adopted the policy long before the unhappy death of his father, however. A short time after the suicide of his friend, he became commander of the hussar regiment of the Garde-du-Corps. Among the orders with which he surprised his subalterns one morning was that directing them to give up gambling in the Union Club or resign from its membership lists. The officers of the guard in German regiments are necessarily wealthy men, and when they ceased to play for high stakes life at the club became comparatively monotonous. A committee was appointed to call upon old Emperor William to endeavor to induce him to persuade his grandson to withdraw the obnoxious order. His majesty promised to do so, sent for Prince William and asked him to rescind the command. The prince remained steadfast. The old emperor insisted.

"Allow me to ask your majesty," finally broke out the prince, "if I am still colonel of this regiment?"

"As a matter of course," came the answer.

"Then I ask your majesty to allow me to uphold my order," he replied, "or otherwise I hand back the command into your hands at once."

The old hero, pleased with the spirit of the young soldier, patted him on the shoulder and continued:

"That is impossible. I could not get so good a colonel again. The order shall remain."

The determination showed at that time—he was then only about 26 years old—he continues to show and never misses an opportunity to give expression to his abhorrence of gambling. German fathers and mothers give the Emperor unstinted praise for his policy and pray that he may be successful in its execution. It is a policy which meets the approval even of the socialists. Nothing that he has undertaken, in fact, has gained for him more genuine friends and admirers.

Cleaning and Curling Feathers.

White or light colored feathers can be washed in benzine without losing their curl or color. They should be swung in the air until dry. Another plan for white feathers is to wash them in warm water and castile soap; rinse three times to remove fully all the soap; pass through a warm solution of oxalic acid and then lightly starch; dry in a warm room by lightly beating each feather against the hand or near the fire. Hats trimmed with feathers should be kept in a bandbox when not in use to preserve them from dust and damp. In the summer rip feathers out of winter hats and put them in a tightly-sealed box with gum camphor. To curl ostrich feathers have a dull knife, with the top hollowed out near the point if you are going to make a business of it. Hold your feather over a fire, but not sufficiently near to scorch it, shaking it gently until warm; then holding the feath in the left hand, place the fibre of the feather between the thumb and knife edge and draw it along quickly, curling the end only. If feathers are damp at any time the curl may be retained by holding the hat over the fire and waving it until dry; then place in a cool room for the fibres to stiffen. Feathers may also be curled over a knife held near a hot flatiron, the heat making the curl more durable. A little blue in the water in which white feathers are washed improves the color.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Jas Shannon, Leaskdale, writes:—' For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy to burns and bruises I ever used."

THE REGISTRATION BILL

Opposition Members Force Important Government Concessions.

REGISTRATION DIVISIONS INCREASED

Each Electoral District to be Composed of Six Instead of Four Sub-Divisions for Registration—Redistribution Bill—Mines and Mining Bill Read a Third Time.

TORONTO, May 4.—Previous to the Legislature rising yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, after passing the whole night in consideration of the registration bill, Mr. Meredith moved several amendments to the bill, which were left for the consideration of the Government during the time occupied by recess.

The morning session commenced at 11 o'clock. The third reading of the bill to amend the Street Railway Act was moved.

The House went again into committee on the registration bill.

Hon. Mr. Hardy explained the nature of the amendments the Government were prepared to make. It was thought there should be a chairman selected in advance of the meeting of the Boards of Registration, as there was considerable initiatory work to do. The Government suggested that they appoint a chairman pro tem, leaving the board to select a permanent chairman. It was intended to make provision so that owners and tenants who lost their right to vote should be able to register on the manhood suffrage lists. The Government were also willing to add a provision permitting the registration of any person outside of the classes of persons already set forth, who was unavoidably absent from the county or city in the prosecution of his bona fide necessary business for more than 30 days prior to the sitting of registration boards, and at the time of application, and who would not return in the four days fixed for making registration, to register, on satisfactory proof, by two witnesses, one of whom shall be a grown-up member of his family, or by a business partner, or partners, or some person living in the district by whom he is well known. With respect to setting apart a certain time for workmen to register, that might be arranged for.

Mr. Meredith considered the Government had not met the propositions suggested by the Conservative side to the extent they should have. He pressed it upon the Government that persons who were upon the voters' lists for municipal and parliamentary elections, and who had since lost their right to vote entirely, should be stricken off. With respect to absentees the hon. gentleman proposed to surround the clause with a good many conditions. He did not think the limit of 30 days was sufficient, and he thought the provisions requiring two witnesses to vouch for the applicant was altogether too drastic. A most important amendment, which he would like to see adopted, was in regard to the provision by which the Government took to itself the power to apportion the eight registrars as they pleased among the four divisions into which the city was to be divided. The provision as it stood might, in the hands of a corrupt Government, enable them to select subservient officials, who in a close constituency might use their power in the Government's interest. He urged the amendment of the provision by making actual bona fide residence in the electoral district at the time of election, or the issue of the writ, and three months' previous continual residence within the city, sufficient qualification. Another point was in regard to permitting the names of persons on the voters' lists, and supplementary voters' lists prepared by the city clerk and assessment commissioner, to be entered on the lists under the registration bill, unless there was good reason to believe the names were improperly there, when the persons in question should personally appear and establish the right for their names to appear on the list.

Sir Oliver Mowat, replying, said that with reference to the power of appointment by the Government of registrars amongst the various divisions that this principle was recognized under the laws at present, which required that the returning officers should be registrars or sheriffs, who are the appointees of the Government. He was afraid that if the residential qualifications were lessened it would lead to "colonizing," which the Government were very anxious to avoid. In reference to the proposition that the fact of a man's name being on the lists prepared as prima facie evidence of his right to a vote unless this right appears to be dubious, Sir Oliver pointed out that it involved enormous labor and the method proposed in the bill was much simpler.

Hon. Mr. Hardy referred to the fact that other voters who were on the assessment roll had to reside in a city for nine months, as an argument that to require a 30 days' residence in an electoral district was not a very great hardship.

Hon. Mr. Ross moved to add a provision to clause three of the bill, to the effect that in any case where the voters' lists under the Supplementary Voters' Lists Act of 1893 has not been certified to by the clerk of the peace, and the list prepared under the Voters' List Act of 1889 is the last filed with the clerk, then, only those persons possessing the combined municipal and legislative qualifications shall be entitled to vote, and those under the manhood suffrage division of the Act certified under the Voters' List Act of 1889 shall not vote, but the manhood suffrage list shall be framed under the registration bill.

This provision is to apply only to the cities of Toronto and St. Catharines, where the revision of this year's lists have not been completed.

Discussion of this motion continued until the House rose for luncheon.

After luncheon, Mr. Hardy moved the third reading of the bill relating to mines and mining.

Mr. Whitney moved an amendment to the bill. Mr. Hardy moved an amendment to the amendment, which carried on a division of 37 to 14.

The third reading was carried.

The bill respecting the election of licensees of timber limits to the Legislative Assembly was read a third time.

The House went into committee on the registration bill.

Sir Oliver Mowat said in connection with the revision of the municipal lists, said he would do all he could to facilitate the speedy revision by the county judge.

Mr. Meredith wanted the appointment of registrars for the four divisions into which the city is to be divided, put in the hands of the Board of Registrar, and not to retain the power in their own hands. Otherwise, he said, there was danger of the power being corruptly used to influence the elections.

Sir Oliver Mowat asked that the question be allowed to stand, and in the meantime he would think over it.

After recess the House resumed discussion of the registration bill.

Hon. Mr. Ross moved to act as subsection 2 of section 6, that no registrar or registrar's clerk appointed under the bill should be eligible for election to the Legislative Assembly, when he had been engaged in the preparation of the lists for such election.

Mr. Meredith asked that these officials also be debarred from voting at any election where the voters' lists used were those they had been engaged in preparing.

Hon. Mr. Ross accepted the suggestion, and the motion as amended passed.

Clause seventeen was amended by providing that the ex-officio registrars shall be assigned to the different districts by the board of registration instead of by the Government, thus accepting the amendment which had been stoutly contended for by Mr. Meredith.

Another amendment was made increasing the number of registration sub-divisions in each electoral district from four to six, thus making twenty-four in all in Toronto.

The clause was amended so as to enable the registrar to decide on the spot on the affidavit of the applicant, his answers to questions, and any evidence then produced for him.

The clause providing that applicants for registration might be photographed by or at the request of an agent was struck out.

A section was added to the bill making its provisions applicable only to the cities of Toronto and St. Thomas at the next elections.

It was also provided in another clause that the voters' lists containing the names of owners and tenants must be revised before June 5 next in Toronto and St. Thomas by the county judge.

The bill as amended was then reported.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the second reading of the redistribution bill.

Mr. Meredith said there would be some criticism of the bill from the Opposition side. He himself intended to attack the bill on account of the provisions with respect to Ottawa. It was therefore undesirable that the bill should now receive more than the second reading.

The bill was then read a second time.

The House adjourned at 11.45.

The Bi-metalic Conference.

LONDON, May 4.—At the bi-metalic conference Sir David Barbour, late finance minister fram India, read a paper on the "Finances of India," in which he said the expenditures of a country always tend to exceed the revenues. The effect of the divergence of gold and silver upon the finances of India had been a crisis involving a waste of money and mischievous fluctuations of policy, and there was a prospect of a further severe decline, when the government of India would be unable to meet their obligation. The result of attempting to introduce a gold standard in India had been to disturb the trade of India with silver standard countries, increase India's sterling debt, increase the expenditures, increase the taxation and to cause the almost total abandonment of public works. It was too soon, he said, to say whether the attempt would be successful, but it was plain that it must require time and further heavy sacrifices.

Emigration to Canada.

LONDON, May 4.—Emigration to River St. Lawrence ports from England continues to decline. The total number of emigrants from Liverpool by the first four Allan and Dominion steamships this year was 770, as against 3,100 by the first four ships last season. Emigration through agencies like the Self-help Society, Dr. Barnardo schools and charity organizations, alone seems active. These, as a rule, are sending to Canada excellent settlers. Other emigration work generally seems lifeless, although the Canadian Government and Canadian Pacific Railway Company continue an active propaganda.

The Contagious Hospital.

OTTAWA, May 4.—Some ten or twelve medical men of the city have signed a document, which has been forwarded to the Provincial Board of Health in Toronto, endorsing in the main the report of Dr. Bryce, re Porter's Island. The signers of the document think the report a very valuable one, as it covers the whole ground completely. They think Porter's Island an unsuitable place for a contagious hospital, because of the dampness and danger from the spring freshets.

Canada and the Berne Convention.

LONDON, May 4.—A letter appeared in the Times, signed by Mr. Dalbs, secretary of the Copyright Association, which charges the Canadian Government with seeking to undermine the copyright law in the interests of the Dominion. If the Imperial Government, it says, yields to the demand of Canada to repeal the British Copyright Acts, so far as they relate to Canada, and denounce Canada's connection with the Berne convention, then the whole principle of our copyright legislation will be reversed and our relations with the States included in the Berne convention will be upset or else materially changed.

Giving Up Its Dead.

TROY, N. Y., May 4.—Six bodies, including that of a child supposed to be the victim of infanticide, have been taken from the river in this vicinity within a week. The body of a man, supposed to be Thomas Cosey of Cohoes, who was drowned last winter while at work in Crescent aqueduct, was taken from the Mohawk river between Cohoes and Crescent. The body of Charles F. Brewster, the captain of a canal boat, was found in the Hudson river at Troy. Brewster had been missing since last week. There was no evidence of foul play.

American Sugar Schedule.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—It is announced that the sugar schedule has been agreed upon as 40 per cent. ad valorem on all sugars both raw and refined, with one-eighth of a cent in addition on refined sugars. A discriminating duty of one-tenth of a cent on refined sugar is allowed against sugars of this kind from countries that pay an export bounty. It is also agreed the bounty should continue to be paid this year, the date at which the sugar schedule is to take effect being changed from July 10 to January 1, 1895.

Japs in British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 4.—In consequence of the large number of Japanese laborers arriving here of late, and the limited demand for their labor, many are out of employment. A meeting of Japanese was held last night, at which the Japanese consul presided. It was decided to inform the Japanese government of the condition of the labor market in order that it may restrict further emigration.

Frontenac Patrons.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 4.—The Patrons of Industry of Frontenac county have nominated J. L. Haycock, of Cataraqui, as their candidate for the Local House.

FORMED INTO A RESERVOIR

St. Anne's River Transformed Into a Dangerous Lake.

RESIDENTS FLEE THE VALLEY

The River Certain to Break Its Bounds and a Catastrophe of Terrible Consequences is Feared—The Recent Disaster Entirely Due to the Undermining of the Ground by the Water.

QUEBEC, May 4.—Judging from all the reports of the disaster at St. Albans so far to hand, it is pretty evident that the cataclysm was entirely due to the undermining of the ground by water above the falls where the earth was thrown into the river and completely shut off the water, which was dammed back till a depth of seventy-five feet was reached. Then the river changed its course and washed away the earth for a mile and a half long and about a mile wide and to a depth of 100 feet. There were seven houses carried away and four lives lost, besides a great number of domestic animals. The river has been effectually blocked and obliged to make a detour of at least three-quarters of a mile from its former course, and does [illegible] its ancient bed for two miles [illegible] the old stream.

There is said to be great danger of another terrible disaster at any moment. Yesterday, to the general surprise, the water in the St. Anne river was found to have fallen several feet, but when the true cause of this sudden diminution of its volume was ascertained, alarm once more took the place of joy among the local population. It was discovered that the river had again become blocked and that a gigantic dam had formed above the Church of St. Alban, backing the water and giving rise to a regular lake of several miles in length and breadth with a depth of nearly 150 feet. When this dam gives way, as it is feared it may at any moment, the consequences will be terrible, if not worse than on Friday last. The inhabitants, however, have taken their precautions and have removed from the neighborhood.

COMBER CONSTABLE SHOT.

His Life Attempted by a Man Whom He Had Caused to Be Fined.

COMBER, Ont., May 4.—Constable Wm. Lindsay was shot through the abdomen last evening by James Truskey. Some time ago Lindsay arrested Truskey for cruelty to animals and he was heavily fined. According to Lindsay's statement, a few days after Truskey had threatened revenge on him, but made no attempt to molest the constable till last evening.

Lindsay was just entering the Pizer hotel, when Truskey came out and without any warning opened fire. The murderer fired three shots and then ran. The injured man, who is mortally wounded, was carried to Dr. Abbot's office. He has made a statement. The murderer is still at large and telegrams have been sent to the border towns. Lindsay has a wife and large family of small children. Truskey has a wife and small family also.

Injured by a Runaway Car.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 4.—A Polander employed in the Henry colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., allowed a loaded car to run away. A number of miners and laborers who were passing through the gangway at the time were struck by the car and three were fatally injured. A Polander named Walaski had his whole side crushed in; Anthony Duffy had four ribs broken, and Cornelius Conahan, shoulder blade broken and internally injured.

Want the Tariff Bill Rushed.

NEW YORK, May 4.—A monster meeting was held in Cooper Union to press against the delay in passing the tariff bill. The concensus of opinion was that the Democrat senators mainly were responsible. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Reform Club, but behind it giving it their hearty support stood the bankers, brokers, merchants and business men. Irrespective of party politics the foremost of the lawyers, statesmen and business men of the city were present.

They Have a Secret Designation.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 4.—The Supreme Council of the A. P. A. began its annual session here with 300 delegates present, representing every state and territory in the Union, Canada, England and Australia. In the English-speaking countries outside of the United States, the order is known as the Protestant Protective Association or by other names. A prominent member of the order states that its real name is not known to the public nor to more than 100 of the 1,500,000 members.

Memorial to Sir Andrew Clarke.

LONDON, May 4.—The Duke of Cambridge presided over a meeting which was held in Princess hall for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for the erection of a memorial to the late Sir Andrew Clarke. Mr. Gladstone offered a motion providing for the erection of a memorial and said he was glad to testify to the high and noble character of Sir Andrew Clarke, who had in recent years watched over him with almost paternal affection. Mr. Gladstone looked well, but leaned heavily on his cane in entering the hall and remained seated while he spoke.

Silver Senators and Bi-Metalism.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.—Senator Wolcott of Colorado, speaking of the absence of the names of western silver senators from the cable message sent to the London bi-metalic conference, said this did not indicate their disapproval of the scheme. On the contrary they were glad of it, but the names attached to the message were only those of men recognized in England as the advocates of gold monometalism in this country.

A strong shock which was felt throughout Greece last night completed the demolition of many houses already half wrecked, but, as far as is known, did not cause any deaths.

SHARON POISONING CASE.

Maggie Reid Tells Her Story of the Alleged Attempt to Murder Evans.

TORONTO, May 4.—The trial of the Sharon poisoning case was begun yesterday at the assizes. The indictment contains two charges against the three prisoners, Lottie Evans, Charles Pegg and George Osmond, the first being that of attempting to murder Walter Evans and the other of conspiring together to administer poison. A jury was secured without trouble, only four being challenged.

The first witness in the case and the most important one was the domestic, Margaret Reid, who took the stand in the afternoon and told her story. Her evidence was much to the same effect as that given by her at the preliminary trial. She had heard Mrs. Evans send Osmond to Bradford and when he returned he handed her a bottle containing "something that looked like salts." Osmond bought the oysters given to Evans for his dinner on January 2, and she had heard Pegg say some time previously that "the only way now would be to try it in oysters."

Mrs. Evans dished up the oysters for herself and Evans. The latter ate some, and, remarking that they were bitter, left the room. Mrs. Evans afterwards went out, and shortly after called on her (witness) and Osmond to come with her and see what was the matter with "Walt." They found him with his jaws set and "jerking and twitching and appeared to have the cramps." They put him to bed and sent for a doctor. The two plates of oysters were thrown out. Mrs. Evans had cautioned her not to put them with the swill, and went herself and placed dirt and snow over them.

She then related that the woman sent Osmond to Bradford again, after the oyster supper, and she (witness) heard Osmond say that he told the druggist at Bradford that "he wanted it to poison foxes." She saw Osmond hand Mrs. Evans a small bottle "with the same kind of stuff as was in the bottle before; it sparkled like salt." After Osmond's second visit to Bradford Mrs. Evans took some powders the doctor had left and put them in her room. Then she put a powder on a table and told Maggie that if Mr. Evans' sister or anyone asked for a powder for him he should be given the one she (his wife) pointed out. He was given that powder and became worse; his relatives and the doctor were sent for; the same symptoms were present in Mr. Evans as when he ate the oysters. She had heard the doctor mention poison and had told this to Mrs. Evans. She said, 'My God, they're not mentioning poison, are they?' She told her if Evans would die before Saturday they would not know he was poisoned.

Witness then proceeded to relate that Mrs. Evans had bribed her not to tell what she knew, and that she had promised not to unless she had to. She told of intimate relations between Mrs. Evans and Pegg and had heard the former express a desire to get rid of her husband. Intense interest is taken in the girl's story. The prisoners listened all through the recital with undisturbed interest, and showed no perturbation whatever, although such damaging evidence was being given against them.

Speaker Peel to Be Elevated.

LONDON, May 4.—It is stated on good authority that the Right Hon. Arthur Wellesley Peel will retire from the speakership of the House of Commons within a short time. THE FARMERS' MARKET.—The market continues dull. Oats unchanged, with one load selling at 41c. Wheat unchanged, one load of white selling at 62c, red quoted at 61c and goose at 58c. Peas are nominal at 64 to 64½c, and barley at 42c.

In Chicago more time was devoted to the discussion of damage to wheat from insects than to the transaction of business. The market was firm. There was a good cash demand, some wheat being taken for export.

Except in the case of American Sugar the tendency of prices at the New York Stock Exchange was downward. An active demand for refined sugar and favorable Washington rumors combined with bull manipulations led to the rise. The other industrials were firm. The railway list was weak throughout. The market was adversely influenced by the shipment of $1,500,000 gold, and a belief that about $4,000,000 additional will be exported tomorrow.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

The London Free Press proposes that any further enlargement of the Canadian canals shall be made at the expense of the United States, for which purpose that country, it advises, shall be admitted to partnership. The enlargement of our canals to 20 ft. in depth is a chimerical project, whilst the proposed partnership with the States would be possible in theory, but impossible in practice.

The British Admiralty have arranged with the Cunard, Peninsular & Oriental and Canadian Pacific Steamship Companies for those companies to hold twenty-eight of their steamships at the disposition of the Admiralty in case of emergency. Nearly £34,000 will be paid in subsidies this year for twelve of these steamships. For the remaining sixteen ships no subsidies will be paid. Last year nine vessels only were held at the disposition of the Admiralty, and for five of these £21,972 was paid in subsidies.

The Toronto Star has an admirable cartoon of Mr. McCarthy, M.P., who abused the Government's fiscal policy and then ran away before the vote was taken, although three hours' wait was all he would have had to make. The cartoon represents Mr. McCarthy in full flight, while the chalk marks upon the door of Parliament made by him calling for tariff reform, are very plain. The reason why Mr. McCarthy did not vote was well told, by a gentleman who knows Mr. McCarthy's mind pretty well: "You see Mr. McCarthy thought if he voted with the Grits he could not catch any Conservatives in the country, while he was so mixed in his contentions that any resolution he might have tried to move for himself and Colonel O'Brien would have been laughed at." Evidently the man from North Simcoe finds statesmanship troublesome.

Logical John! Wise Richard!! The farmer knows you both as lookers after the loaves and fishes.

LORD SALISBURY'S VIEW

The House of Lords Necessary as a Check on the Commons.

ROSEBERY FEARS THE ELECTORATE

The Government Apparently Shrinks From Asking the Country to Decide as to the Main Issue of Home Rule—Where Consideration Should Be Given to American Opinion.

LONDON, May 4.—Lord Salisbury spoke in Trowbridge last evening on the Government's attitude to the House of Lords and Irish home rule. As far as he could see, Lord Salisbury said, the country regarded the House of Lords as a very good institution for checking the errors of the House of Commons. The upper house did not exist for the purpose of opposing the national will, but to ascertain that will and to insist upon an appeal to the people whenever a temporary and unreal advantage had been seized by the lower house with a view to altering the constitution. On the main issue of home rule the Government had shirken repeatedly. They apparently shrank from asking the electors to pass on their declared policy. Lord Rosebery had given recently as a reason for granting home rule that it would reconcile the Irish in America. "Are we really to give up our Ulster brethren to slavery in order to please the triangle in Chicago or the Tammany bosses in New York?" continued Lord Salisbury. "Are we to sink as low as that? To my mind this is a reason rather for resisting home rule than for granting it."

"These men to whom Lord Rosebery appeals, whose friendship he is so anxious to secure are the most bitter, unscrupulous and permanent enemies of everything British that can be found in America. There is no slander strange to their tongues or pens when they refer to British things and institutions. We have many friends in America. I am proud to believe that our friends are the large majority and I hope that the friendship will always continue. If the majority of Americans would venture to speak their minds they would, I believe, describe the Irish minority, with whom they have to struggle, in language more vigorous than I would presume to use. If any class in America is to be conciliated I would rather conciliate the class that loves us, not the class that pursues us with undying hatred.

"If the object of the Liberals be to give practical independence to Ireland, the result would be that the Irish in America would be dominant in Ireland too. You would then have within four hours of your coasts the most bitter enemies of England. They would command all your trade routes and menace all your ports. You would have for your nearest neighbor an island under the domination of men who have shown their hatred of England by terms and actions which do not permit us to doubt for a moment either their sincerity or permanence. Are you going to hand your brethren in Ulster over to such tyranny, which they do not cease to dread, which they are pledged to resist by every means in their power?"

United States Smallpox.

LONDON, May 4.—The announcement that smallpox is epidemic in New York, Chicago and other cities of the United States, coupled with the confirmatory statement that the Dominion Government had imposed quarantine regulations on the frontier, has already had a visible effect in restricting travel in the direction of America. Six tourists booked in one leading office for Canada via New York cancelled their passages and the prospects are that their example will be followed.

THE GREAT COAL STRIKE.

Possibility That a Settlement Will Shortly Be Reached.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 4.—There are indications of a change in the miners' strike situation. President J. McBride, of the Miners' National Organization arrived in Pittsburg. On the same train with him were J. C. Morton and Mr. Chapman, two of the largest coal operators in Ohio. President McBride went directly to the Home hotel where he met Secretary-Treasurer McBride, District President D. Nugent, Organizer Miller and District Secretary Warren.

Messrs. Morton and Chapman went to the office of Francis Robbins, where they met several other extensive coal operators, and they went into a conference, lasting three hours. President McBride said he did not know whether a conference with the operators would succeed or not. The Ohio operators came to Pittsburg for the purpose of conferring with the operators here, and, if possible, bring about a meeting with the miners' officials.

The coal miners now believe the strike will be settled in a very short time.

DEATH BY THE CROSS.

ORIGINAL SENTENCE PASSED UPON CHRIST STILL IN EXISTENCE.

How It Has Been Retained Throughout the Ages—The Wording of the Sentence Passed by Pontius Pilate Discovered in 1280—Engraved on a Plate of Brass.

It will probably be a surprise to the majority of people to learn that the original death sentence passed upon Jesus Christ is still in existence in the form of an engraved plate dating from the very day the sentence was pronounced by Pontius Pilate, and which has been retained through all these years as one of the most precious of all relics of the Savior.

The sentence is engraved on a plate of brass in the Hebrew language, and on its sides are the following words:

"A similar plate has been sent to each tribe."

This particular plate was discovered in the year 1280 in the city of Aquilla, in the Kingdom of Naples, by a scientific commission that had been appointed to search that ancient city for the antiquities known to have been kept there. Evidence remained that this city had been the repository of many old Roman records and other documents and momentoes associated with the early Roman Empire, and for this reason it was especially made the object of the commission's inquiry.

The plate bore every evidence of genuineness and accompanying it were reliable documents, and among the records were references that placed the authenticity of the engraving beyond question. The plate is now kept in the chapel of Caserta, a little town some twenty miles north of Naples, where it is contained in a box of ebony, and shown to curiosity-loving travelers, and many voyagers en route for Naples diverge from their beaten track to visit this little chapel and look upon the everlasting memorial of the most remarkable judicial sentence ever pronounced in the history of the world. Translations in English, French and German hang upon the wall near the original, and it is thus readily understood, while the study of the engraved lines, and the appearance of the simple brass appeals to the imagination of even the most indifferent and brings before the mind's eye the picture of that memorable scene, 1,800 years ago. Aside from the sacred associations that are called forth in every Christian mind at sight of this relic, there is also the historical interest aroused by looking upon an existing object that was contemporaneous with and called forth by an incident that will be the most prominent in history so long as the world exists.

The plate reads as follows:

"Sentence pronounced by Pontius Pilate, intendant of the province of Lower Galilee, that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death by the cross.

"In the seventeenth year of the Emperor Tiberius, and on the 26th day of the month of March, in the holy city of Jerusalem, during the pontificate of Annanias and Caiaphas.

"Pontius Pilate, intendant of the province of Lower Galilee, sitting in judgment in the presidential seat of the praetor, sentences Jesus of Nazareth to death on a cross between two robbers, as numerous and notorious testimonials of the people prove:

"1. Jesus is a misleader.

"2. He has excited the people to sedition.

"3. He is an enemy to the laws.

"4. He calls himself the Son of God.

"5. He calls himself falsely the King of Israel.

"6. He went into the temple followed by a multitude of people carrying palms in their hands.

"Orders the first centurian, Quirilius Cornelius, to bring him to the place of execution.

"Forbids all persons, rich or poor, to prevent the execution of Jesus."

This constitutes the body and, of course, the interesting portion of the plate, but in addition the names of three men are perpetuated and given a value that their owners probably never anticipated would cling to them, by being attached as witnesses of the promulgation of this sentence.

The names of the witnesses and the order in which they come are:

1. Daniel Robani, Pharisee.
2. John Sorobabel.
3. Raphael Robani.

It is believed that twelve of these plates were engraved and sent to the various tribes throughout Judea and over into the Roman provinces of Europe. The remaining eleven are probably buried in widely separated points where they never will be brought to the knowledge of mankind or have long since been destroyed.

The engraving on the plate is well done. The Hebrew characters are cut deep and with perfect accuracy.

Satan's Best Substitute.

It is astonishing how these whisperers gather up everything. They know everything that happens. They have telephone and telegraph wires reaching from their ears to all the houses in the neighborhood. They have no taste for healthy news, but for the scraps and peelings thrown out of the scullery into the back yard they have great avidity. On the day when there is a new scandal in the newspapers they have no time to go abroad. On the day when there are four or five columns of delightful private letters published in a divorce case they stay at home and read and read and read. No time for the Bible that day, but toward night, perhaps, they may find time to run out a little while and see whether there are any new developments. Satan does not have to keep a very sharp lookout for his evil dominion in that neighborhood. He has let out the whole contract. These women get husbands and wives into quarrels, and brothers and sisters into antagonism, and disgust the pastor with the flock and the flock with the pastor, and they make neighbors, who before were kindly disposed toward each other, oversuspicious and critical.

S. H. Clark Recital.

Werner's Voice Magazine, organ of the national association of elocutionists, speaks thus of Mr. Clark's performance at the convention of Elocutionists held at the world's fair, August 1893: "Mr. S. H. Clark carried off the recitational honors of the Convention. His recital was the hit of the week." Some of our citizens heard him give such recital, amongst the number being Mr. L. W. Yeomans, who can vouch for the correctness of the above criticism. John St. Presbyterian Church Association, under whose auspices Mr. Clark appears, was only able to secure him owing to the fact that he was passing from Boston, where he was attending a convention of elocutionists, to his home in Chicago. Having engagements in Montreal and also in Woodstock for large amounts, that he might have a rest in his long trip, he consented to give an evening here at a reasonable figure. The citizens will no doubt appreciate the opportunity offered them of hearing such an elocutionist on May 8th, at the Queen's opera house. Plan now open at Riggs'.

A Fine Machine.

In C. F. Smith & Son's show window can be seen a work of mechanical art. It is the Brantford racing wheel presented by the Goold Bicycle Co. to Mr. B. E. Cummings, of this city, for fourth prize in the road race at Toronto, in which he rode last fall. The machine complete only weighs 18 pounds, and is of the finest workmanship. Following are its specifications: Ball bearings, with single adjustment hardened steel bushings; 28 in. wheels, geared to 68 in.; detachable cranks; tubular handle bar of new design; Brantford rat trap pedals; butt end true tangent spokes; Hagar wood rims and Palmer tire; Sager new racing saddle; Brantford wrench, perfect oiler and pump. Finished in black enamel, rims painted red - all bright parts nickel plated on copper. Mr. Cummings will no doubt win new laurels with this splendid machine.

"Blind Leading the Blind."

As some fishermen appear to be rather puzzled about the close season, the following dates will prove of interest: Maskinonge, from April 15 to June 15; bass, from May 10 to June 15, both days inclusive; speckled trout, from September 15 to May 1 —Picton Gazette.

The Gazette is mistaken as to the close season for bass, which is from May 10th to June 30th, both days inclusive. Our contemporary will doubtless make the necessary correction.

Committee Work.

The committee on electric railway met last night, when Mr. Aylesworth's report on the water power was laid before the meeting.

CROSSLEY AND HUNTER MEETINGS.

Great Interest Manifested—Many in the Enquiry-room—Everything Crisp and Bright.

The union evangelistic services in Bridge st. church last night was largely attended and was a great success in every way. The duet by Miss Canfield and Mr. Crossley, and the solo by Mr. Crossley in the opening service were excellently rendered and most impressive. Mr. Hunter read about the five foolish virgins, making running comments. He said, "Some have the lamp of profession but not the oil of grace. Christ is coming for us when we least expect Him. Be ready. None but Christ can give the grace we need, none of us has any to spare. "The door was shut." When God shuts the door what swarthy arm of hell can open it? Lamps shine for others, so we should have the light and shine and live to bless the world."

Mr. Crossley spoke about the conversion of the Governor of the gaol from the text, "What must I do to be saved?" Acts 16—30. He said, 1. "This is an intelligent question. The greatest minds ask it in life. Nearly all ask it in dying. Fools we may live, but fools we cannot die. 2. It is a necessary question, something must be done by us if we are ever saved. There is no merit in what we do, however; our salvation is all of Grace. 3. It is a personal question. Some say, "I'll stand as good a chance as others." There is no chance about it. 4. It is is a serious question. Some flippantly trifle about it. Everyone that delays to become a christian is trifling with the question. Be serious. 5 It is an answered question, the answer of which was acted upon. Here is an instance of sudden conversion. Some say, "I cannot understand how a person can be converted suddenly." Let me explain, if I have injured Mr. Baker, and he is willing to forgive me, if I will but confess my wrong, how long will it take him to pardon me when I confess and ask him? Only a moment. Will it take the Lord any longer to forgive you when you penitently ask him? 6. It is an important question. It means to be saved from sin to holiness, from hell and heaven, angels rejoice when one repents, Christ died to save us all. How important the question. 7. It is a present question every unsaved one intends to ask the question some time. Ask it now and avert the possibility of missing forever the pearly gates.

Mr. Hunter took charge of the after-meeting, which was one of great interest and impressiveness. Many of all ages pressed into the enquiry room. The lecture room of the church will be used as an enquiry room to which seekers and workers will be nightly invited.

A number of friends are expected from Brighton on the boat to-night. The service to-night will be of special interest to young men and women.

In the committee meeting last night the question of holding the meetings in the armory was discussed. The matter will be settled next week.

"OBSERVANT'S NOTES.

After hearing the Rev. Amos Campbell's remarks about the collections, a cynic observed that "the people who attended the meetings were better at praying than giving." Mr. Campbell is strong on finance. Many a church he has relieved of its "load of debt." He told the audience of a few of the ways by which he does it and then informed them that only 272 of the 1500 present the night before had given anything, as that was all the coins the treasurer got in the collection.

The meeting of to-night will be specially for students, and the boys and girls of the schools.

"Observant" is informed that at a meeting of the Committee of Management held yesterday evening, Mr. Gordon, the Secretary, stated that about 180 persons had given their names to "workers" as having been converted, and Mr. Chown, the Treasurer, said $161 had been received from collections.

This Committee also arranged to hold all the meetings in Bridge St. Church next week and not to hold any meetings in the afternoon.

Another mass meeting of men is to be held in the opera house on Sunday afternoon.

Wasted Sympathy.

A good deal of sympathy is being wasted over the farmer by people who don't know what they are talking about. The low price of wheat and the decline in the value of live stock are pointed out as reasons why the farmer is crying himself to sleep every night. As a matter of fact, the farmer who has his farm paid for is the most independent man on earth—independent of panics, of "financial stringencies" and political experiments. He may not have a great deal of ready money, but he is as sure of a comfortable living as any man can be in this uncertain world. There may, it is true, be a failure of some crops, but all the crops won't fail. His hogs may be decimated by cholera, but his sheep and his cattle are left. Times may be dull, but if the worst comes to worst he can live and live fairly well on the produce of his own farm. Clothes he must have, but fashions don't change rapidly in the country and a few bushels of potatoes or a few hogs will produce the money needed for absolutely essential clothing. The farmer is all right.

He is not at the mercy of labor unions or capitalists. All the mills in the country may shut down and he is still certain of three meals a day and a bed at night. As he is the mainspring and foundation of all material prosperity, so is he independent of all the minor disturbances that trouble the people who are, after all, dependent on him for subsistence.—Exchange.

STIRLING.

May 3—The hum of Mr. Boldrick's planing factory is the principal sound heard at present in our village. Not many farmers visit us now; all are busy taking advantage of the beautiful spring weather.

Mr. A. F. Wood, M.P.P., addressed a mixed audience in the music hall on Tuesday evening on some of the leading political question of the day. Mr. J. E. Halliwell also delivered a short address, Mr. Jas. Boldrick occupying the chair. The meeting was quite pleasant and gratifying to Mr. Wood and his friends. The same duty, with like results, at Rawdon town hall last night. We are said to have three candidates in the field this time.

A fever for bicycles seems to exist here. One would not think there was much poverty to see so many in use now.

Mr. C. J. Boldrick and Mr. Whitte, of the Stirling House, had fine sport amongst the speckled trout at Squire's creek on May 1st. They were better than gold.

THE DAISY LYRIC CLUB.

Mr. J. N. Doyle and Miss T. Cunnington Honored Last Evening.

The Daisy Lyric Club held a meeting in Institute Hall last evening, at which there was a large attendance of members and a few friends. The meeting was brought to order by Mr. Thos. Ritchie, President of the Institute, who in a few well chosen words thanked the members of the Club, on behalf of the Institute, for their excellent entertainment on Tuesday evening and their previous efforts and congratulated them on the success they had attained in aid of the Institute. He said the meeting had been called for the purpose of giving Miss Cunnington a present as a slight recognition of her services as Club accompanist by the Institute Board and the Club generally. Mr. J. N. Doyle came forward and amid loud applause presented Miss Cunnington with a ten dollar gold piece. It was a complete surprise to the recipient and she could not find words to express her feelings, but Mr. Doyle spoke in her behalf, thanking Mr. Ritchie and the directors, stating that if any person deserved it, it was Miss Cunnington.

But the greatest surprise was yet to come when Mr. W. N. Ponton took the floor and said that the directors had come to the conclusion that they must in some way recognize the earnest, unsolicited efforts in behalf of the Institute put forth by Mr. J. Doyle, not only lately but in past years, and hoped he would accept the gift which they were going to present as a slight token of the appreciation of his labors by the Institute. He then read the following address:

Belleville, May 1st, 1894.

Joseph Nevin Doyle, Esq.,
Belleville.

Dear Sir,—The Directors of the Belleville Institute and Library Association ask your acceptance of the accompanying "Works of Shakespeare" as a slight recognition of the public services you have rendered and the public spirit you have shown in connection with the Institute, to the progress and success of which you have always been eager to give your valuable services. The directors feel that in thus expressing to you their appreciation of your own successful efforts, those who have been successful with you feel the same pleasure which is felt by the directors in making this presentation and acknowledgement. (Loud applause.) With kind regards

Signed on behalf of the directors
W. N. Ponton, Treas.
Thos. Ritchie, Pres.
Curtis Bogart,
Chairman of Library Committee.

After order had been restored ex-Mayor Bogart stepped forward and presented Mr. Doyle with the works of Wm. Shakespeare in twelve volumes, handsomely bound in Morocco leather, and also made him a life-member of the Institute.

To say that Mr. Doyle was taken by surprise is not half telling it. He was completely dumfounded, but in a few moments made a feeling reply, stating that he came there under the impression that they were going to surprise Miss Cunnington and that the way in which things had turned out was not at all to his liking. He appreciated the impulse which had prompted the directors of the Institute to surprise him, but he did not want any present; it took the "cream" from the pleasure of his work. He had worked for the Institute out of pure love for it; it was a treasure house and it was the duty of every citizen to support it in every possible way. He again thanked the gentlemen for their kindness and took his seat amid wild applause from the members of the Club (who number over seventy).

An impromptu programme was composed and successfully carried out. It was as follows: Song, Mr. McLean; duet, F. Woliver, J. Petty, L. Burdette; vocal solo, Mr. Doyle; two piano solos, Miss Cunnington; song Mr. Petty; two banjo solos with piano accompaniment, Mr. Wolliver; vocal solo, Miss E. Coleman; recitation, Miss Carrie Lingham.

As the Club is composed of some of the best local talent it is their intention to hold concerts, etc. in Institute Hall at short intervals. A small admission fee will be charged and the proceeds will go in aid of the Institute.

THE DEAF AND DUMB.

An Able Lecture on the Above Subject by Mr. R. Mathison, Principal of the D. & D. Institute.

Mr. R. Mathison, M.A., principal of the Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, lectured last evening under the auspices of the Y.W.C.T.U. in the rooms of the Y.M.C.A. The subject was the Deaf and Dumb. We can only mention a few of the points so ably dealt with by the lecturer, but we hope to see the lecture published in a permanent form. Mr. Mathison alluded to the harsh treatment accorded to the deaf and dumb by the ancient Greeks and Romans, by whom the afflicted were regarded as under divine displeasure; and even among the nations dur- the later centuries this barbarous idea ing prevalled. The Old Testament allusions to the deaf and dumb, which were numerous, were quoted, and the miracles performed and the compassion manifested by our Saviour to the deaf and dumb when on earth were touchingly alluded to. Out of Christ's miracles and compassion have come the modern sympathy and provision for the education of the deaf and dumb.

It is estimated that one in 1500 persons in the population of the world is deaf and dumb and that there are over a million persons thus afflicted. The number in Canada is placed at 4800. There are 7 institutions in the Dominion devoted to the training of the deaf and dumb. The Ontario Institute at Belleville has been attended since its establishment in 1870 by 982 pupils; there are now 257 in attendance.

Mr. Mathison next alluded to the methods of instruction and the results secured, and also to the trades and occupations followed by the deaf and dumb. Many touching as well as humorous anecdotes were related; some of them having their origin in the institution in Belleville.

The lecture was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, and the hope was expressed that it would be printed and widely circulated.

During the evening the Messrs. Riggs performed on the piano and clarinet and a song was rendered by Miss Price and by Mr. Burns, the latter being interpreted in the sign language by Mr. Balis. Mr. J. W. Johnson presided at the meeting.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

In the case of Church vs. Burdett now pending before A. R. Dougall, Q. C., it has been stated on the street that he kept Church in the witness box for three days and a half, and is blamed for it.

We ought to know, as we examined and cross examined the witness, Church, that Mr. Dougall is in no way to blame, that each party had a perfect right to examine the witness till he obtained all the evidence he desired to get from Church, and Mr. Dougall, in justice to the parties, could not prevent or stop it, and that it is a mistake and highly improper to blame him in any way.

Go get the old lawn-mower out,
And polish off the rust;

SCROFULA CURED BY B.B.B.

MRS. JAS. CHASE.

Worst Kind of Scrofula.

DEAR SIRS.—I had an abscess on my breast and scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken six bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

TREASURE ISLAND

PART V.

MY SEA ADVENTURE.

'Oh,' replied George, 'you don't be under no kind of apprehension; we're all square, we are. First, you've made a hash of this cruise—you'll be a bold man to say no to that. Second, you let the enemy out of this here trap for nothing. Why did they want out! I dunno; but it's pretty plain they wanted it. Third, you wouldn't let us go at them upon the march. Oh, we see through you, John Silver; you want to play booty, that's what's wrong with you. And then, fourth, there's this here boy.'

'Is that all?' asked Silver quietly.

'Enough, too,' retorted George. 'We'll all swing and sun-dry for your bungling.'

'Well, now, look here, I'll answer these p'ints; one after another I'll answer 'em. I made a hash of this course, did I? Well, now you all know what I wanted, and you all know, if that had been done, we'd a bin aboard the 'Hispaniola' this night as ever was, every man of us alive and fit, and full of good plumduff, and the treasure in the hold of her, by thunder! Well, who crossed me? Who forced my hand, as was the lawful cap'n? Who tipped me the black spot the day we landed, and began this dance? Ah, it's a fine dance—I'm with you there—and looks mighty like a hornpipe at a rope's end at Execution Dock by London town, it does. But who done it? Why it was Anderson and Hands and you, George Merry! And you're the last aboveboard of that same meddling crew; and you have the Davy Jones's insolence to up and stand for cap'n over me—you, that sunk the lot of us! By the powers! but this stops the stiffest yarn to nothing.'

Silver paused, and I could see by the faces of George and his late comrades that these words had not been said in vain.

'That's for number one,' cried the accused, wiping the sweat from his brow for he had been talking with a vehemence that shook the house. 'Why, I give you my word, I'm sick to speak to you. You've neither sense nor memory, and I leave it to fancy where you're mothers was that let you come to sea. Sea! Gentlemen of fortune! I reckon tailors is your trade.'

'Go on, John,' said Morgan. 'Speak up to the others.'

'Ah, the others!' returned John. 'They are a nice lot, ain't they? You say you could understand how bad it's bungled, you would see! We're that near the gibbet that my neck is stiff thinking on it. You've seen them, may be hanged in chains, birds about them, seamen p'inting 'em out as they go down with the tide. 'Who's that?' says one. 'That! Why that is John Silver. I knowed him well,' says another. And, you can hear the chains a jangle as you go about and reach for the other buoy. Now that is about where we are, every mother's son of us, thanks to him, and Hands, and Anderson, and other ruination souls of you. And if you want to know about number four and that boy, why, shiver my timbers, isn't he a hostage? Are we going to waste a hostage? No, not us! he might be our last chance, and I should not wonder. Kill that boy? not me, mates And number three? Ah, well; there is a deal to say to number three. May be you won't count it anything to have a real college doctor to come to see you every day—you, John, with your head broke—or you, George Merry, that had the ague shakes upon you not six hours agone, and has your eyes the color of lemon peel to this same moment on the clock? And may be, you didn't know there was a consort coming, either? But there is, and not so long till then; and we'll see who'll be glad to have a hostage when it comes to that. And as for number two, and why I made a bargain—well, you came crawling on your knees to me to make it—on your knees you came, you was that down-hearted—and you'd have starved, too, if I hadn't—but that's a trifle! you look there—that's why?'

And he cast down upon the floor a paper that I instantly recognized—none other than the chart on yellow paper, with the three red crosses, that I had found in the oilcloth at the bottom of the captain's chest. Why the doctor had given it to him was more than I could fancy.

But if it were inexplicable to me the appearance of the chart was incredible to the surviving mutineers. They leaped upon it like cats upon a mouse. It went from hand to hand, one tearing it from another; and by the oaths and the cries and the childish laughter with which they accompanied their examination, you would have thought, not only they were fingering the very gold, but were at sea with it, besides, in safety.

'Yes,' said one, 'that's Flint, sure enough J. F., and a score below, with a clove hitched to it, so he done ever.'

'Mighty pretty,' said George. 'But how are we to get away with it, and us no ship?'

Suddenly Silver sprang up, and supporting himself with a hand against the wall: said 'Now, I give you warning, George,' he cried. 'One more word of your sauce, and I'll call you down and fight you. How? Why, how do I know? You had ought to tell me that—you and the rest, that lost me my schooner, with your interference, burn you! But not you, you can't; you hain't got the invention of a cockroach. But civil you can speak and shall, George Merry, you may lay to that.'

'That's fair enow,' said the old man Morgan.

'Fair! I reckon so,' said the sea-cook. 'You lost the ship: I found the treasure. Who's the better man of that? And now I resign, by thunder! Elect who you please to be your cap'n now; I'm done with it.'

'Silver!' they cried. 'Barbecue forever! Barbecue for cap'n!'

'So that's the toon, is it?' cried the cook. 'George, I reckon you'll have to wait another term, friend; and lucky for you I'm not a revengeful man. But that was never my way. And now, shipmates, this black spot? 'Taint much good now, is it? Dick's crossed his luck and spoiled his Bible, and that's about all.'

'It'll do to kiss the book on still, won't it?' growled Dick, who was evidently uneasy at the course he had brought upon himself.

'A Bible with a bit cut out!' returned Silver, derisivly. 'Not it. It don't bind no more'n a ballad-book.'

'Don't it, though?' cried Dick with a sort of joy. 'Well, I reckon that's worth having, too.'

'Here, Jim—here's a cur'osity for you,' said Silver; and he tossed me the paper.

It was a round about the size of a crown piece. One side was black, for it had been the last leaf; the other contained a verse or two of Revelation—these words among the rest, which struck sharply home upon my mind: 'Without are dogs and murderers.' the printed side had been blackened with wood-ash, which already began to come off and soil my fingers; on the blank side had been written with the same material the one word, 'Deposed.' I have that curiosity beside me at this moment; but not a trace of writing now remains beyond a single scratch, such as a man might make with his thumb-nail.

That was the end of the night's business Soon after, with a drink all round we lay down to sleep, and the outside of Silver's vengeance was to put George Merry up for sentinal, and threaten him with death if he should prove unfaithful.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

GHOSTLY WRESTLING.

THE SPIRITUAL CONFLICTS OF LIFE AND HOW TO WIN THEM.

The First Athletic Contest on Record—Jacob's All-Night Wrestle With a Divine Messenger—How Determination Won the Battle,

BROOKLYN, April 29, 1894.—The Tabernacle was crowded this morning with the usual throng of eager listeners. Dr. Talmage preached on the Spiritual conflicts of life, taking for his text Genesis 32: 24-26: "And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day. And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint as he wrestled with him. And he said, 'Let me go, for the day breaketh.' And he said, 'I will not let thee go except thou bless me.'"

The dust arose from a traveling herd of cattle, and sheep, and goats, and camels. They are the present that Jacob sends to gain the good will of his offended brother. That night Jacob halts by the brook Jabbok. But there is no rest for the weary man. No shining ladder to let the angels down into his dream; but a fierce combat, that lasts until the morning, with an unknown visitor. They each try to throw the other. The unknown visitor, to reveal his superior power, by a touch wrenches Jacob's thigh bone from its socket, perhaps maiming him for life. As on the morning sky the clusters of purple cloud begin to ripen, Jacob sees it is an angel with whom he had been contending, and not one of his brother's coadjutors. "Let me go," cries the angel, lifting himself up into increasing light, "the day breaketh."

You see, in the first place, that God allows good people sometimes to get into a terrible struggle. Jacob was a good man; but here is left alone in the midnight to wrestle with a tremendous influence by the brook Jabbok. For Joseph, a pit; for Daniel, a wild beast den; for David, dethronement and exile; for John the Baptist, a wilderness diet and the executioner's axe; for Peter, a prison; for Paul, shipwreck; for John, desolate Patmos; for Vashti, most insulting cruelty; for Josephine, banishment; for Mrs. Sigourney, the agony of a drunkard's wife; for John Wesley, stones hurled by an infuriated mob; for Catherine, the Scotch girl, the drowning surges of the sea; for Mr. Burns, the buffeting of the Montreal populace; for John Brown, of Edinburgh, the pistol shot of Lord Claverhouse; for Hugh McKail, the scaffold; for Latimer, the stake; for Christ, the Cross. For whom the rocks, the gibbets, the guillotines, the thumb-screws? For the sons and daughters of the Lord God Almighty. Some one said to a Christian reformer, "The world is against you." "Then," he replied, "I am against the world."

I will go further, and say that every Christian has his struggle. This man had his combat in Wall street; this one on Broad street; this one on Fulton street; this one on Chestnut street; this one on State street; this one on Lombard street; this one on the Bourse. With financial misfortune you have had the midnight wrestle. Red-hot disasters have dropped into your store from loft to cellar. What you bought you could not sell. Whom you trusted fled. The help you expected would not come. Some giant panic, with long arms, and grip like death, took hold of you in an awful wrestle, from which you have not yet escaped, and it is uncertain whether it will throw you or you will throw it. Here is another soul, in struggle with some bad appetite. He knew not how stealthily it was growing upon him. One hour he woke up. He said, "For the sake of my soul, of my family, and of my children, and of my God, I must stop this!" And behold he found himself alone, by the brook Jabbok, and it was midnight. That evil appetite seized upon him, and he seized upon it; and oh, the horror of the conflict! When once a bad habit has aroused itself up to destroy a man, and the man has sworn that, by the help of the eternal God, he will destroy it, all heaven draws itself out in a long line of light, to look from above, and hell stretches itself in myrmidons of spite to look up from beneath. I have seen men rally themselves for such a struggle, and they have bitten their lips, and clenched their fists, and cried with a blood-red earnestness and a rain of scalding tears, "God help me!"

From a wrestle with habit I have seen men fall back defeated, Calling for no help, but relying on their own resolutions, they have come into the struggle; and for a time it seemed as if they were getting the upper hand of their habit, but that habit rallied again its infernal power, and lifted a soul from its standing, and with a force borrowed from the pit, hurled it into utter darkness. First, I saw the auctioneer's mallet fall on the pictures, and musical instruments and the rich upholstery of his family parlors. After awhile I saw him fall into the ditch. Then in the midnight, when the children were dreaming their sweetest dreams and Christian households are silent with slumber, angel-watched, I heard him give the sharp shriek that followed the stab of his own poniard. He fell from an honored social position; he fell from a family circle of which once he was the grandest attraction; he fell from the house of God, at whose altars he had been consecrated; he fell—forever. But, thank God, I have often seen a better termination than that. I have seen men prepare themselves for such a wrestling. They laid hold of God's help as they went into the combat. The giant habit, regaled by the cup of many temptations, came out strong and defiant. They clenched. There were the writhings and distortions of a fearful struggle. But the old giant began to waver; and at last, in the midnight alone, with none but God to witness, by the brook Jabbok, the giant fell; and the triumphant wrestler broke the stillness with the cry, "Thanks be unto God, who giveth us the victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ." There is a widow's heart, that first was desolated by bereavement, and since, by the anxieties and trials that came in the support of a family. It is a sad thing to see a man contending for a livelihood under disadvantages; but to see a delicate woman, with helpless little ones at her back, fighting the giants of poverty and sorrow, is more affecting. It was a humble home, and passers-by knew not that within those four walls were displays of courage more admirable than that of Hannibal crossing the Alps, or the Pass of Thermopylæ, or Balaklava, where, "into the jaws of death, rode the six hundred." These heroes had the whole world to cheer them on; but there were none to applaud the struggle in the humble home. She fought for bread, for clothing, for fire, for shelter, with aching head and weak side, and exhausted strength, through the long night by the brook Jabbok. Could it be that none would give her help? Had God forgotten to be gracious? No! contending soul. The midnight air is full of wings, coming to the rescue. She hears it now, in the sough of the night wind, in the ripple of the brook Jabbok—the promise made so long ago, ringing down the sky—"Thy fatherless children I will preserve them alive, and let thy widows trust in me!" Some one said to a very poor woman, "How is it that in such distress you keep cheerful?" She said, "I do it by what I call cross prayers. When I had my rent to pay, and nothing to pay it with, and bread to buy and nothing to buy it with, I used to sit down and cry. But now I do not get discouraged. If I go along the street when I come to a corner of the street, I say, 'The Lold help me;' I then go on until I come to another crossing of the street, and again I say, 'The Lord help me!' And so I utter a prayer at every crossing; and since I have got into the habit of saying these 'cross-prayers' I have been able to keep up my courage."

Learn again from this subject, that people sometimes are surprised to find out that what they have been struggling with in the darkness is really an "angel of blessing." Jacob found in the morning that this strange personage was not an enemy, but a God-despatched messenger to promise prosperity for him and for his children. And so many a man, at the close of his trial, has found out that he has been trying to throw down his own blessing. If you are a Christian man, I will go back in your history and find that the grandest things that have ever happened to you, have been your trials. Nothing short of scourging, imprisonment and shipwreck, could have made Paul what he was. When david was fleeing through the wilderness, pursued by his own son, he was being prepared to become the sweet singer of Israel. The pit and the dungeon were the best schools at which Joseph ever graduated. The hurricane that upset the tent, and killed Job's children, prepared the man of Uz to write the magnificent poem that has astounded the ages. There is no way to get the wheat out of the straw but to thresh it. There is no way to purify the gold but to burn it. Look at the people who have always had it their own way. They are proud, discontented, useless and unhappy. If you want to find cheerful folks, go among those who have been purified by the fire. After Rossini had rendered "William Tell" the five hundredth time, a company of musicians came under his window in Paris and serenaded him. They put upon his brow a golden crown of laurel leaves! But, amid all the applause and enthusiasm Rossini turned to a friend and said, "I would give all this brilliant scene for a few days of youth and love." Contrast the melancholy feeling of Rossini, who had everything that this world could give him, to the joyful experience of Isaac Watts, whose misfortunes were innumerable, when he says:

The Hill of Zion yields
  A thousand sacred sweets,
Before we reach the heavenly fields,
  Or walk the golden streets.

Then let our songs abound,
  And every tear be dry,
We are marching through Immanuel's ground,
  To fairer worlds on high.

It is prosperity that kills, and trouble that saves. While the Israelites were on the march, amid great privations and hardships they behaved well. After awhile they prayed for meat; and the sky darkened with a great flock of quails; and these quails fell in large multitudes all about them; and the Israelites ate and ate, and stuffed themselves until they died. Oh, my friends, it is not hardship, or trial, or starvation that injures the soul, but abundant supply. It is not the vulture of trouble that eats up the Christian's life; it is the quails! it is the quails! You will yet find out that your midnight wrestle by the brook Jabbok is with an angel of God, come down to bless and save.

Learn again that, while our wrestling with trouble may be triumphant, we must expect that it will leave its mark upon us. Jacob prevailed, but the angel touched him and his thigh-bone sprang from its socket, and the good man went limping on his way. We must carry through this world the mark of the combat. What ploughed these premature wrinkles in your face? What whitened your hair before it was time for frost? What silenced forever so much of the hilarity of your household? Ah! it is because the angel of trouble hath touched you that you go limping on your way. You need not be surprised that those who have passed through the fire do not feel as gay as once they did.

Do not be out of patience with those who come not out of their despondency. They may triumph over their loss, and yet their gait shall tell you that they have been trouble-touched. Are we Stoics, that we can, unmoved, see our cradle rifled of the bright eyes and the sweet lips? Can we stand unmoved and see our gardens of earthly delight uprooted? Will Jesus, who wept Himself, be angry with us if we pour our tears into the graves that open to swallow down what we love best? Was Lazarus more dear to Him than our beloved dead to us? No. We have a right to weep. Our tears must come. You shall not drive them back to scald the heart. They fall into God's bottle. Afflicted ones have died because they could not weep. Thank God for the sweet, the mysterious relief that comes to us in tears! Under this gentle rain the flowers of corn put forth their bloom. God pity that dry, withered, parched, all-consuming grief that wrings its hands, and grinds its teeth, and bites its nails unto the quick, but cannot weep! We may have found the comfort of the Cross, and yet ever after show that in the dark night, and by the brook Jabbok, we were trouble-touched.

Again, we may take the idea of the text, and announce the approach of the day-dawn. No one was ever more glad to see the morning than was Jacob after that night of struggle. It is appropriate for philanthrophists and Christians to cry out with this angel of the text, "The day breaketh." The world's prospects are brightening. The Church of Christ is rising up in its strength to go forth, "fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners." Clap your hands, all ye people; the day breaketh. The bigotries of the earth are perishing. The time was when we were told that if we wanted to get to heaven we must be immersed or sprinkled; or we must believe in the perseverance of the saints, or in falling away from grace, or a liturgy, or no liturgy; or they must be Calvinists, or Arminians; in order to reach heaven. We have all come to confess now that these are non-essentials in religion.

During my vacation, one summer, I was in a Presbyterian audience, and it was sacramental day, and with grateful heart I received the Holy Communion. On the next Sabbath I was in a Methodist Church, and sat at a love feast. On the following Sabbath I was in an Episcopalian Church, and knelt at the altar and received the consecrated bread. I do not know which service I enjoyed the most. "I believe in the communion of saints and in the life everlasting." "The day breaketh."

As I look upon this audience, I see many who have passed through waves of trouble that [illegible] higher than their girule, in God's name I proclaim cessation of hostilities. You shall not go always saddened and heart-broken. God will lift your burden. God will bring your dead to life. God will staunch the heart's bleeding. I know He will. Like as a father pities his children, so the Lord pities you. The pains of earth will end. The tomb will burst. The dead will rise. The morning star trembles on a brightening sky. The gates of the east begin to swing open. They day breaketh.

Luther and Melancthon were talking together gloomily about the prospects of the church. They could see no hope of deliverance. After awhile, Luther got up and said to Melancthon, "Come, Phillip, let us sing the forty-sixth Psalm of David, 'God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear though the earth be removed, and though mountains be carried into the midst of the sea; though the waters thereof roar and be troubled; though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah.'"

Death to many, nay, to all, is a struggle and a wrestle. We have many friends that it will be hard to leave. I care not how bright our future hope is, it is a bitter thing to look upon this fair world, and know that we shall never again see its blossoming spring, its falling fruits, its sparkling streams, and to say farewell to those with whom we played in childhood, or counselled in manhood. In that night, like Jacob, we may have to wrestle, but God will not leave us unblessed. It shall not be told in heaven that a dying soul cried unto God for help, but was not delivered. The lattice may be turned to keep out the sun, or a book set to dim the light of the midnight taper; or the room may be filled with the cries of orphanage and widowhood; or the Church of Christ may mourn over our going; but if Jesus calls, all is well. The strong wrestling by the brook will cease; the hour of death's night will pass along; one o'clock in the morning; two o'clock in the m[illegible] four o'clock in the morning: the day breaketh.

So I would have it when I die. I am in no haste to be gone. I have no grudge against this world. The only fault I have to find with the world is that it treats me too well; but when the time comes to go, I trust to be ready, my worldly affairs all settled. If I have wronged others, I want, then, to be sure of their forgiveness. In that last wrestling, my arm enfeebled with sickness, and my head faint, I want Jesus beside me. If there be hands on this side of the flood stretched out to hold me back, I want the heavenly hands stretched out to draw me forward. Then, O Jesus, help me on and help me up. Unfearing, undoubting, may I step right out into the light, and be able to look back to my kindred and friends who would detain me here, exclaiming, Let me go—let me go! The day breaketh.

WILL HARCOURT RETIRE?

Rumor in London to That Effect—The News' Denial.

LONDON, May 5.—The Sun asserts that Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will not be a candidate for return to Parliament at the next election.

Lewis Harcourt said to-day that the statement of his father's intention to retire from office was entirely unauthorized.

The Daily News this morning says: "There is nothing novel in these rumors. They have no reference to the present or immediate future. It is no secret that the labor of preparing the budget, whilst he was leading the House, severely taxed the strength of the Chancellor of the Exchequer. He intends to see the budget through, and that is a long job. No statesman could desire a greater achievement as the crowning work of his political career, but the Liberals do not intend to lose him."

Kelly's Army Breaking Up.

DES MOINES, May 5.—The Governor has given up hope of getting transportation for the Kelly army out of this city. The men refuse to walk any further and it is thought the army will disband here. Labor officials are much concerned at the outlook. Gen. Kelly was obliged to go down in his pocket after army money before his men could breakfast. The shortage of food and unsuccessful attempts at securing transportation have led to numerous desertions and more are expected.

Attempt to Murder Chicago's Mayor.

CHICAGO, May 5.—A man named Oscar Breeken called upon Mayor Hopkins in the city hall it is believed for the purpose of killing him. But for the prompt action of Policeman Stafford he might have succeeded. Breeken was afterward recognized as the man who had threatened the late Mayor Harrison some time before his death. He was hurried into the insane court and Judge Donnelly sent him to the insane asylum at Jefferson.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review of Trade.

NEW YORK, May 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The past week has seen events which would suffice to cause or to explain much disaster; strikes of nearly all bituminous coal miners and coke workers, with numerous riots, strikes of many thousand men in other employments, stoppage of many manufacturing works in consequence, arrest of traffic on several great railroads by the lawless proceedings and the tramping of discontented men, in all numbering several thousand, toward the national capitol in the hope of controlling legislation. The lowest price ever known for wheat, and almost the lowest prices ever known for commodities as a whole, exports of $5,400,000 gold instead of abnormally cheapened products, and the fall of the treasury gold reserve below the $100,000,000 limit, are significant of widespread difficulty. It is important that prices of iron and steel products promptly advance, in answer to the stoppage of some works through strikes, since it indicates that the recent improvement in the apparent demand was of a substantial character.

Situation in Samoa.

LONDON, May 5.—Advices from Samoa announce that a suspension of hostilities has been agreed to until it is seen whether any of the warships of England, Germany or the United States intend to interfere. Natal Will Not be Represented.

RIOTING HUNS AND SLAVS

Brisk Fight Between Foreign Laborers and Deputies.

WOMEN TAKE PART IN THE MELEE

Several Hungarians Fall Before the Deadly Winchester—Superintendent of the Works Fatally Injured—The Foreigners Maddened and Thirsting for Revenge on the Deputies.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., May 5.—A riot occurred at the painter works of the McClure Coke Company, two miles from this place, yesterday, in which one stoker was probably fatally and two were seriously wounded. Sanford White, assistant superintendent, and Ewing Boddy, bookkeeper, were brutally beaten. The superintendent boss and workers were acting as deputies and were all armed with Winchester rifles. The men have not been interfering with those at work, but the women were determined to drive the workers out. As they approached, it is said, Sanford White fired a shot at them, and as soon as the men heard the report they swooped down upon the works like wild men. White opened fire on them with his Winchester and before they reached him three had fallen in their tracks. The angered strikers did not stop. They reached White and Ewing Roddy and before assistance arrived both were horribly beaten.

Superintendent White's condition is serious. A burly Hungarian was about to strike him with an axe as he lay unconscious on the ground, when James Tarr appeared and knocked the Hungarian down with a club. The Hungarians, men and women, were armed with clubs, hatchets, staves and picks, and a more blood-thirsty, desperate mob never raided in the coke regions.

A deputy engaged in the fight says that no less than fifteen fell in front of Winchesters, and that every time Sanford White fired a Hungarian went down. This same deputy says that Ewing Boddy refused to fire on the crowd when ordered to do so, and the deputies and strikers were in close quarters, that the Winchesters could not be used to advantage and the shooting was principally done with revolvers. At the time of the riot ten men were working in the mine and twenty in the yards. The determination of those at work to remain at their posts and the premature shooting by White were the causes of the trouble.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 5.—The situation is very alarming in this section of the coke region. Mobs are assembling in the Vanderbilt region and at the Moyer plant, preparing for an attack. The formidable display of deputies in those sections frightened the strikers and they concluded to wait a more favorable opportunity. Last night they sounded the tocsin for the reassembling of the mob and the strikers are gathering at the points agreed on. The painter riot has stirred up the foreign element. The Huns and Slavs are maddened at the slaughter of their countrymen and have become bloodthirsty.

The Imprisoned Tourists.

GRATZ, May 5.—The efforts to save the tourists imprisoned in the Lugloch cave was continued all day. One diver worked in the torrent at the cave's mouth for three hours, during which he was twice dragged out unconscious. When he abandoned the task he said it was absolutely impossible to dislodge the wreckage. He was confident he heard knocking inside the cave.

Killed by Falling From a Land Roller.

STRATFORD, May 5.—While driving a land roller yesterday David Armstrong, of North Easthope, was by some mishap thrown off and instantly killed, his neck being broken by the fall. He was a son of Adam Armstrong and about sixteen years of age.

What Causes Pimples?

Clogging of the pores or mouths of the sebaceous glands with sebum or oily matter.

The plug of sebum in the centre of the pimple is called a blackhead, grub, or comedone.

Nature will not allow the clogging of the pores to continue long, hence,

Inflammation, pain, swelling and redness, later pus or matter forms, breaks or is opened, the plug comes out and the pore is once more free.

There are thousands of these pores in the face alone, any one of which is liable to become clogged by neglect or disease.

What Cures Pimples?

The only reliable preventive and cure, when not due to a constitutional humor, is Cuticura Soap.

It contains a mild proportion of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, which enables it to dissolve the sebaceous or oily matter as it forms at the mouths of the pores.

It stimulates the sluggish glands and tubes to healthy activity, reduces inflammation, soothes and heals irritated and roughened surfaces and restores the skin to its original purity.

This is the secret of its wonderful success.

For bad complexions, red, rough hands and shapeless nails, dry, thin and falling hair, scaly and irritated scalps and simple baby blemishes it is wonderful.

It is preserving, purifying and beautifying to a degree hitherto unknown among remedies for the skin and complexion.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold, Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

SCARED.

The Liberal manufacturers—and there are a great many of them—have tried to help their party by declaring that they had no objection to tariff reform. Some of them went to the Ottawa convention and talked very loudly of what they could do, and what they wanted. The Government were glad to know that, in the fifteen years the National Policy has been in force, the industries of Canada had become so well established, and in pursuance of their promise to Parliament, they investigated the whole question of the tariff, and wherever they believed a reduction could be made in the interests of the consumers, without doing injustice to those who have invested their capital, they have made the reduction. Lo! then there was a noise. Suddenly every Liberal manufacturer or his friend rushed off to Ottawa to save himself, as he puts it, from ruin. And immediately the Grit press and the Grit politicians began to sympathize with them. The fact is, the Liberal manufacturer and the Liberal politician understand each other. The former knows that what the latter talks is bosh to catch votes. He remembers that in 1887, when a general election was on, the Grit party sent to every manufacturer in Canada a little circular containing one extract from a speech of the Hon. Edward Blake, saying "manufacturers need not be afraid."

The Liberal manufacturer, however, has discovered that Conservative Governments mean what they say, and so he is very much troubled in spirit because the Government have brought down such a tariff as will kill monopolies like the biscuit combine which Mr. Paterson, Grit M.P. for South Brant, joined. Let it be well understood that, as one of the speakers in the recent debate put it, the Government is favorable to a manufacturing tariff in the sense that they wish to encourage industry, employ labor, and keep here the people the farmer must feed. But they are not in favor of a manufacturers' tariff that means the encouragement of combines, and the raising of prices beyond the rates which free competition will determine. Home industry! Home markets! No combines! That is a good Canadian policy.

MY BEST SELLER AT PRESENT.

"I usually handle four or five of the best known cough remedies, and, of course, have a preparation of my own; but this year I find Harvard Bronchial Syrup is the popular leader. Once it is tried, I find that the people ask for it again, and this is the best recommendation a cough remedy can have. Harvard is my best seller just now."

These remarks come from a prominent city druggist, and are worthy of the consideration of all who require a prompt and honest remedy for curing sore throat, hoarseness, coughs and lung troubles. Harvard Bronchial Syrup has been well and severely tested in Canada, and now stands at the head of all preparations for the cure of all difficulties resulting from sudden colds.

Duty Raised on Wrought Scrap Iron and Scrap Steel.

CHANGES MADE IN COMMITTEE

Lead Duty Goes Through at Thirty Per Cent.—Hon. Robert Reid Addresses the Ottawa Board of Trade—Prohibition Argument Concluded—Judgment Reserved.

OTTAWA, May 5.—The House was again in Committee of Ways and Means on the tariff yesterday.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved the adoption of the following resolution:

"Wrought scrap iron and scrap steel, being waste or refuse wrought iron or steel, fit only to be remanufactured, the same having been in actual use, not to include cuttings or clippings which can be used as iron or steel without remanufacture, and steel bloom ends and crops, ends of steel rails, $3 per ton, and on and after the first day of January, 1895, $4 per ton."

Mr. Laurier asked for an explanation as to why the duty on scrap iron and steel had been increased from $2 per ton.

Hon. Mr. Foster said it was thought necessary to raise the scrap duties so that there might be an inducement to make puddle bar and pig iron, and to get a better quality of iron too in the subsidiary industries.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said the Government had only succeeded in raising the prices of iron to consumers.

Hon. Mr. Foster denied this.

Mr. Macdonnell (Algoma) favored the increase in the duty.

Mr. Casey said this duty would virtually prohibit scrap iron from being brought into Canada.

Sir Hibbert Tupper read a statement showing the increase of the iron industry in the eastern provinces and Quebec since the bounties had been given. Since the erection of the last iron furnaces at Ferrona, in Nova Scotia, there had been a drop on pig iron from $22 per ton to $15 per ton.

Mr. McMillan advised the Government to abolish the duty on iron and to continue the bounty.

Mr. Davies could not understand why it was that the duties should be maintained when the National Policy had done its work so well as to enable the Canadian producer to place iron as cheap or cheaper than could be done in England.

Mr. Maclean favored the increase in the duty.

The item passed.

Hon. Mr. Foster asked that the duty on ferro-manganese should be changed from 2 per cent. ad valorem to 5 per cent. The item passed as amended.

Bar Iron and Flats.

The tariff item of bar iron under four inches, and flats not thinner than 17 gauge, $10 per ton, was changed to read "16 gauge." The gauge of steel was changed in the same way. An amendment added to Swedish rolled iron rods, under half inch diameter and not less than ½ cent per pound value, the word, "and Swedish rolled iron nail rods less than a half inch in diameter, for the manufacture of horseshoe nails." Duty, 15 per cent.

The item of corset and corset fittings went through unchanged. The lead duty went through at 30 per cent. Generators, dynamos and sockets were added to the item of telephone and telegraph instruments, etc., dutiable at 25 per cent. Coffins were reduced from 35 per cent. to 25 per cent.

Mr. McMullen wanted to know whether the department charged customs on coffins occupied by corpses coming from the United States.

Hon. Mr. Wallace replied that it did not. It had only been tried once and did not work.

Duties on Sugar.

Criticism of the sugar duties was confined to Messrs. Charlton and McMullen and the burden of their objections was that notwithstanding the further decrease of 16 cents per hundred weight in refined, and the admission of West India sugars free up to 16 Dutch standard, the refiners would continue to make vast fortunes. The only change made was the inclusion of molasses, n.o.p.," in the items of syrup, etc., dutiable at half a cent a pound.

Capital Notes.

Hon. Robert Reid, Minister of Defence for Australia, met the Ottawa Board of Trade in the city hall last evening and gave a most interesting and practical address on the subject of closer relations between this country and his own. The council chamber was filled. Lord and Lady Aberdeen were present. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell occupied the chair.

The argument in prohibition case before the Supreme Court closed yesterday, and judgment was reserved. Messrs. Nesbitt and Saunders argued on behalf of the brewers and distillers, that the Scott Act as it existed was a bar to any further acts by a local legislature. That such an act when passed must be declared ultra vires, as soon as a conflict was established the act of the local legislature as conflicting with the Act of the Dominion Government must give way. Solicitor-General Curran closed the argument.

Paderewski's Daily Life.

Paderewski knows Shakespeare from cover to cover. He has a beautiful home in Paris, though his family consists only of a son, who is 13 years old. Of this boy he is passionately fond. He does not, however, take him with him on his tours. The boy remains at home with his tutor. Paderewski never signs an agreement, and he has never failed to keep an engagement except through serious illness. Among those who have been connected with him in a business capacity Paderewski's word is as good as his bond. His mail is generally of enormous proportions. A large proportion of it consists of begging letters.

A WOMAN'S RESCUE.

An Interesting Story From Paris Station —A Sufferer For Six Years Finds Relief After Many Remedies Had Failed.

Mrs. E. H. Skinner is a well known and esteemed resident of Paris Station, Ont. To a representative of the Review Mrs. Skinner recently told a very interesting story of recovery to health after long years of illness. "I had been ill," she said, "for about six years my blood had become thin and watery, bringing about a weakness amounting almost to a collapse. There were numerous distressing symptoms, such as dizziness, severe headache, and palpitation of the heart, and you can scarcely form an idea of what I suffered during that time. During the six years I was ill I was treated by four doctors in Brantford and one in Paris, but they seemed not able to do anything for me. When the physicians failed I tried many remedies, but with no better results. All this cost a great deal of money, and I derived no benefit, I was completely discouraged. I found myself growing weaker, and hardly able to go about. And yet one never wholly despairs, for seeing Dr. William's Pink Pills so strongly recommended, I determined to try them, and I have reason to be thankful that I did so. I had not been taking Pink Pills long, when for the first time in six years, I found myself improving. Gradually the troubles that had made my life miserable disappeared, and I am again a healthy woman, and have no hesitation in saying that I believe I owe not only my recovery but my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." As there are thousands of women throughout the country similarly troubled, Mrs. Skinner's story of renewed health will point to them the remedy which will prove equally efficacious in their cases. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are very valuable to women. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and eradicate those troubles which make the lives of so many women, old and young, a burden. Dizziness, palpitation of the heart, nervous headache and nervous prostration speedily yield to this wonderful medicine.

These pills are sold only in boxes, (the trade mark and wrapper printed in red ink,) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2 50 cents, and may be had of druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont, or Schenectady, N.Y.

Missionary Society.

The regular monthly meeting of the Bridge St. Auxiliary to the Woman's Missionary Society, was held in the parlor of the church yesterday afternoon. There were forty ladies in attendance. The subject for the month was The Chinese Empire. Mrs. L. W. Yeomans read a paper on Women in China, and Mrs. J. Lewis gave an address on Medical Missions in China. Both were instructive, and listened to with rapt attention. Miss Wilson, President of the Holloway St. Auxiliary, extended to this Auxiliary a cordial invitation to attend the District Convention, to be held in Holloway St. church, June 6th. Mrs. W. W. Chown and Mrs. (Rev.) Baker were appointed delegates to the said convention.

MIDNIGHT DOCTORS are the most unwelcome visitors—even the Doctor himself curses the luck that compelled him to leave his comfortable bed. Suppose you try our method, and keep a big 25c Bottle of Perry Davis' PAIN-KILLER in the house, and let Doctor Squills stay in his bed and enjoy himself.

When the system is all run down, and no hope exists of obtaining nourishment by the ordinary food supply, then take "Miller's Emulsion," the great flesh and blood maker, the kind that cures colds, coughs, bronchitis, and all diseases of throat and lungs. A DEAR DAUGHTER SAVED!

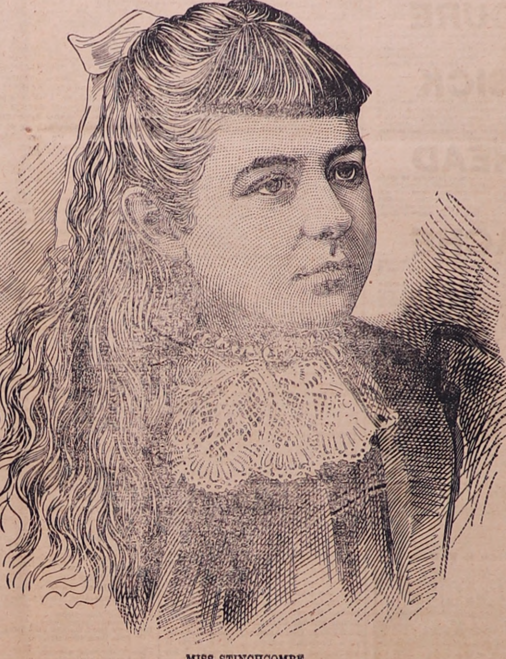
Paine's Celery Compound Makes Her Active and Strong.

ALLOPATHIC AND HOMŒOPATHIC TREATMENT PROVED ALMOST USELESS.

Fathers! Mothers! Make Your Dear Ones Healthy.



MISS STINCHCOMBE.

A loving and thoughtful mother gratefully testifies that her dear child was saved, and made well and strong through the use of Paine's Celery Compound, that marvellous medicine that always cures after physicians give up, and pronounce their patients incurable. Mrs. A. R. Stinchcombe, 19 William Street, London, Ont., writes as follows:

"I think it a duty to write to you for the benefit of all who have delicate children, and to make known what Paine's Celery Compound has done for my child. She has been delicate all her life. I have many medicines, and have had her under allopathic and homœopathic treatment with but little benefit. Almost in despair, and as a last resort, I tried Paine's Celery Compound, and after using three bottles she is now perfectly well and strong. I have also used your medicine myself for complications arising from overwork and loss of rest, and am greatly benefitted thereby. I would strongly urge all who are in anyway afflicted to do as I have done, "try Paine's Celery Compound," and be convinced of its wonderful curing power."

It makes the heart sad and sorrowful to see the young suffer when they should be so bright, strong and active, full of lively hope and pleasure, and enjoying the glorious springtime of life.

There are thousands of boys and girls in our fair Canada who are in such a condition that they cannot mingle happily with their schoolmates. They are pale, weak, nervous, listless and fretful; [illegible] blood is impure and stagnant, and they go about half dead from day to day. Such boys and girls require a nerve food and builder—a medicine that will act on the [illegible] system.

Experience and grand results have clearly demonstrated that Paine's Celery Compound is just what the young require for strengthening and building up of the body, for the making of pure and healhty blood, and for the harmonious working of all the digestive organs. Do not trifle with the common advertised nostroms of the day; they aggravate suffering, and often cause serious complications.

Paine's Celery Compound has the indorsement of the ablest physicians (many of whom prescribe it daily) in our land. You are not asked to use Paine's Celery Compound because it is recommended by those who prepare it; you have the testimony of your friends and neighbors to rely on; our best Canadian people have spoken loudly in its favor. Clergymen, lawyers bankers, members of parliament, business men, farmers—all have written in its favor and hundreds have confessed that it saved them from the grave.

Fathers! Mothers! Surely this is the medicine for your dear ones. Now is the time to strengthen and tone up the weak children. Procure Paine's Celery Compound; do not be induced by anyone to accept something else; there is only one medicine that can rescue and save the frail and perishing.

How to Cure a Corn,

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or other caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three minutes the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor.

PRINTERS vs. CLOTHIERS.

They Play a "Grand" Game of Baseball Yesterday.

After having in previous years wiped out nearly every branch of business and professional men at the game of baseball, except the clothiers, the local typos decided to try conclusions with the latter and met their doom yesterday. At about half past three a crowd of people could be seen wending their way towards the hospital lot. Although none of the big manufacturing concerns of our city had closed for the occasion and no brass band had been announced to play sweet strains of music on that spot, they were going to witness what in some respects resembled a game of baseball. The "cranks" were there as usual in numbers and their remarks on the playing of some of our typographical artists were not of a very encouraging nature, but the gallant printers stuck to it and played a hard game to the finish, as the score will show.

The printers won the toss and went first to the bat and made a fair start with four runs, but the professional "twirler" from Hog lake proved more than a match for them in the remainder of the game, and they only succeeded in compiling 6 more runs at the finish. The way in which Bob Wilson, for the printers, struck at the ball would lead the spectators to believe he was trying to turn a handspring every time the pitcher lifted his arm, his club plowing through the air in a frightful manner, and if anything had been within reach it would certainly have been rendered useless for the remainder of its days. H. McDiarmid made some splendid hits and scored several times. He was also in good form behind the bat, missing but very few. If he had succeeded in some of his attempts to hit the ball it would probably have been picked up in small pieces on some farm in Ameliasburg. The Campbell st. "artist," as pitcher, did fine work as usual, with both ball and bat, and if the fielding had been stronger the story would have been different, although Wilson, Ball and Davidson did good work on bases. Phil Harrison kept up his reputation as a heavy striker when he hit the ball, but his eyesight was poor yesterday and he failed to locate the exact position of the leather several times. The Ontario's dude made such furrows in the air that they are up there yet. The total number of runs made by the printers was 10. Each club carried their own umpire and fired him after each innings.

The word "clothiers" appeared to include hardware merchants, firemen, boot and shoe dealers, farmers and members of all imaginable trades and professions, but nevertheless the local dealers in ready-made clothing managed to show up five thoroughbred clothing men at starting the game. The imported pitcher proved a failure at the bat, as he scored an unusually large O several times and wanted to thrash the umpire every time he struck out. Hampton, Falconer and Langley did brilliant work for their side, each succeeding in getting out very gracefully, Falconer being heard to remark that he hit the ball twice during the entire game—both being fouls. McCurdy, an outsider and an old ball player, did good services, his catching in the field being especially brilliant. On the whole the "dealers" did not have such a walk over as they expected, and the typos should not have allowed them even that. They may be able to "fit you like the paper on the wall" but they will require a little more schooling to be good ball players. The game throughout was very exciting, especially when some strong armed player threw the ball over the fence and 30 minutes was wasted in fruitless search for it. The strikers on both sides seemed to be badly in need of a pair of wings to aid them in reaching the balls they struck at. Another game is on the tapis and it is rumored that the victors of yesterday intend challenging the Cobourgs. The correct score for yesterday is not known, but will probably run up in the hundreds.

The mascot, Walter McDiarmid did his share toward encouraging the "t[illegible] ers," having carried 22 pails during the encounter.

An old typo of this office and lately on the Empire staff was on the grounds, but he would not play unless his salary was paid in advance and did some loud talking on the merits of the game and how it should be played, but our typos have not travelled so extensively and seen so many professional games as he and therefore are not so well versed on how to play it.

The Lewis Combination Sprayer.

(Farmer's Advocate, May 1st, 1894)

We have made a careful test of the Lewis Combination Spray Pump which is offered for sale by W. H. VanTassel, of Belleville. It is made of brass, excepting three or four feet of strong hose, and the parts all screw together. It is handy, strong, simple and will serve half-a-dozen different purposes. It throws a solid stream twenty-five or thirty feet high, large or small, which can be changed instantly, without stopping, to a fine or coarse spray. There is a special nozzle for spraying low bushes, such as roses, currants, etc., and can be used to apply emulsion to cattle. As a veterinary syringe it is also very useful. Practically, there is nothing about it goes out of order, and Mr. VanTassel will express them to any one cheap. We can heartily recommend the Lewis Sprayer.

The Annie Lake.

With pennants flying, and looking as "spick and span" as paint could make her, the new steamer of Mr. John C. Lake—the Annie Lake—steamed out of the harbor at 2:50 yesterday afternoon, on her trial trip, with a party of some 40 gentlemen, amongst whom were the evangelists, Revs. Crossley and Hunter. The trip was not to test her speed, and yet enough was seen of that to prove that she will easily make the run between the city and Massassaga Park within 20 minutes. The party proceeded to Massassaga Park, which now looks at its best. A stroll around the Park was enjoyed by some, and one individual less thin-skinned than the others, enjoyed his first swim for the season. On landing at the city, three cheers were given for Mr. Lake and his boat.

Madoc Here on the 25th

Capt. Burrell, of the lacrosse team, received a telephone message from Madoc this morning, stating that the team of that village would play here on the 24th. Madoc has a good team and a fine game may be expected. It has also been finally arranged that the juniors will go to Kingston on that day to play a similar team in that city. The practice last night was one of the best this year, several new men being out for the first time. All who intend playing this season should turn out every night from this out, as the time is short and hard work is necessary to put the men in shape.

The Punishment Too Light.

The Minden Echo says: "Wm. Terry, of Oakley, near Lake Rosseau, was brought up before Magistrate Boyer last week, charged with killing seven deer out of season. The carcasses of the deer were produced. Terry pleaded guilty, and paid a fine of $7 for each deer killed, and $8 costs. The venison was given away. It is believed that Terry has killed forty deer since the season was closed, and as they were likely to be exterminated, the neighbors could stand it no longer, and gave the information to the constable."

Wide Awake Soap will do more washing than any other soap in the world. Try it.

RAMBLERS' ROAD RACE.

AN 8-MINUTE MAN WINS THE EVENT.

Splendid Weather and Good Roads—A Big Entry List—Fast Time by Some of the Young Riders—The Scratch Men Too Far Back.

The Ramblers' Bicycle Club successfully carried out their first handicap road race last evening and the event attracted quite a crowd of spectators. The riders were late in getting at the starting point and it was 6:45 before the first bunch was sent off, and in twelve minutes nineteen men were flying over the Trenton road at a killing pace. Lester Riggs set the pace for the 12-minute men and it was a ratling rate. E. Brasier took the lead with the 10 minute class and the whole group was soon out of sight. The 8-minute men went off easily, with Thompson slightly in the lead. The 5 minute men took things easy on the start. When Holton, the only 3-minute man, got the word he flew up the road in a cloud of dust. The scratch men knew they had their work cut out for them and Powell started off in the lead at a pace to dishearten many a good rider. This is the way they started:

Lester Riggs Levin Hyman Bert Armistead A. Wills	6:45
Leo Riggs J. Frost E. Brasier	6:47
F. Carscallen C. Ostrom J. Gibson J. Thompson	6:49
Chas. Greenleaf D. Lazier A. Vandervoort	6:52
E. Holton—6:54
B. E. Cummings H. Greenleaf L. Lockett O. Powell	6:57

Several estimates of the time the riders would make were thrown out by the spectators gratis and those who talked thirty minutes were not far astray. The first rider over the finish was John Thompson, who was allowed eight minutes. He arrived at 7:23½ and all the time men followed in a procession, with no more than a minute between any of the riders. They were a dust-covered, grimy-looking lot, they who had started looking so fresh and bright. The handicap was too much for the scratch men and they came back as they had started, with Powell leading. Powell's time for the distance, a good ten miles, was 30¾ minutes, the fastest of the lot, although Lockett was only five seconds behind him and Holton only ½ min. behind in turn. The following table is given in the time order in which the men rode:

	Starting Time	Finishing Time	Actual Time.
O. Powell	6:57	7:27¾	30¾ m
L. Lockett	6:57	7:27 5-6	30 5 6
E. Holton	6:54	7:25¼	31¼
B.E. Cummings	6:57	7:39¼	32¼
H. Greenleaf	6:57	7:29¾	32¾
J. Thompson	6:49	7:23½	34½
C. Greenleaf	6:52	7:26¾	34¾
J. Gibson	6:49	7:24¼	35¼
F. Carscallen	6:49	7:24½	35½
J. Frost	6:47	7:23¾	36¾
C. Ostrom	6:49	7:26	37
Leo Riggs	6:47	7:25	38
E. Brasier	6:47	7:25¾	38¾
Lester Riggs	6:45	7:24	39
A. Wills	6:45	7:26¼	41¼
L. Hyman	6:45	7:26½	41½

Mr. Thomas, of the Bank of Commerce, acted as starter; J. Borbridge, time-keeper; Frank Foster and F. B. Smith, handicappers, and Mr. J. B. Wallace, turning point officer. The race was devoid of accidents and was well ridden considering that only three dropped out.

[illegible] McLean returned from the west on the midnight train.

Mr. Albert Carter, of this city, left on the 11:40 train this morning for Orillia.

P. J. Connell, Port Hope; W. H. Scott, Kingston; A. B. Arnott, Trenton, are at the Anglo.

Miss Cherry, of Belleville, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. A. Dean, During the week.—Deseronto Tribune.

D. Wishart and A. W. Dingman, Toronto; J. D. Grange, Canton, N. Y.; J. E. Godin and P. McKenzie, Montreal; Fraser Aylsworth, Madoc, are at the Huffman.

S. H. Clarke's Recital.

The programmes are out for S. H. Clarke's dramatic recital at the opera house Tuesday evening, May 8th, and in addition to the selections to be rendered by Mr. Clarke there will be several numbers of vocal music by some of our best local talent. No doubt the citizens will heartily approve of the efforts being made by the John St. Church Association to provide this excellent entertainment. Plan at Riggs'. Reserved seats 50c, all other parts of the house 25c.

Arrangements for a Century.

Dr. Doolittle, of Toronto, was in the city yesterday arranging for the accommodation of a party of two hundred Toronto and other western cyclists who will wheel a century from Port Hope to Kingston on June 30th, on their way to the C. W. A. meet at Montreal. The centurions will dine at the Hotel Quinte, as it is expected it will be open by that time.

Buy Good Clothing.

Generally you can't tell until you have worn a suit of clothes whether it will hold its color or whether it will wrinkle in the rain, but you can make sure of reliable quality if you buy from a reliable house. Oak Hall guarantees every representation. And Oak Hall sells the best made, best fitting and most stylish clothing for men, youths and boys in Belleville, and at the lowest price.

Clean up Your Premises.

The time fixed by statute for cleaning refuse from yards and closets will soon expire, and the Chief of Police has orders to strictly enforce the law. It would be well for those who have not already done so to have their premises put in order at once, and save a fine.

A Wall of Tea.

A large shipment of tea, over 125 chests, arriving for Messrs. Stroud, the tea dealers, formed a regular Chinese wall in front of their store to-day. Over 70 chests of this lot comprise their celebrated 30c. and 40c. brands of tea. They make a specialty of these two prices, and find the sales of them increasing steadily. d&w

Excursion Arranged.

The Committee having charge of the Sons of England annual excursion, have arranged with the Grand Trunk Railway for a special train to Kingston, and they are about closing with the steamer for the run to Alexandria Bay. This trip for several years past has been looked forward to as one of the best that leaves Belleville.

That Pale Face.

For Nervous Prostration and Anæmia there is no medicine that will so promptly and infallibly restore vigor and strength as Scott's Emulsion.

ANOTHER GREAT MEETING.

The Interest in the Evangelistic Services Still Increasing.

Bridge st. church last night was filled to the doors with an appreciative audience. An excursion party came down from Trenton and arrived shortly after the services had commenced. Upon the platform were the Revs. Dr Gardiner, J. L. George, A. Campbell, T. Young, E. N. Baker, D. O. Crossley, and Trotter. After the singing of two hymns the Rev. Mr. Trotter led in prayer. Rev. H. T. Crossley and Prof. Canfield sang a duet entitled, "Tolling Bells." Rev. J. E. Hunter read the lesson, taking a few verses of the 19th chapter of Matthew, commenting upon it: The great and important question with all is what can we do to inherit eternal life. If we would square our lives by the ten commandments we would be good christians. He admonished all not to commit murder, adultery, steal or bear false witness against our neighbors.

Rev. H. T. Crossley before announcing his text sang "Can a boy forget his mother." He then spoke at some length from the following text, John 14th chap., 2nd verse "In my father's house are many mansions." A question often asked is, where is heaven? What evidence have we that there is a heaven? The bible says so and the universal consciousness. As the word of God is true, consciousness is also true. Where is heaven? Some think this earth will be Heaven. Heaven will be where Jesus is and where our loved ones have gone. Heaven is both a place and a state. We may known the state of heaven on earth. When we die we will be with Jesus if we are his true followers on earth. Some have a desire to die and be with Jesus. This is but a tired feeling and not a true christian's feeling. Shall we know each other there is a question often asked. We shall know our loved ones. The bible says we shall know each other. In heaven there will be no disaster or death, no temptation, trials, troubles or tears will be there. There will be no sin, no separation, no sorrow or sadness. There will be no night there. The speaker then sang with much feeling "No night in Heaven." There will be glory indescribable. The devil will not be there, hence no temptation, no one who has lived and died in sin. God loves all, but some there are who reject his love and those who do so will not find a place in heaven. Who will be in heaven? Jesus will be the chief attraction and the angels will be there. The children will be there and all who accepted Jesus when he was presented to them. Our loved ones who have gone on before are waiting to welcome us. In conclusion he made an earnest appeal for all to seek God and live so as to meet Him and our loved ones in heaven when we die.

"OBSERVANT'S" NOTES.

"My, Oh! My, Oh! What will become of some of you people in the church," remarked Mr. Hunter on Thursday night, "You are like that ship they found away up in the gulf stream. A passing ship hailed it and after repeated hailing and getting no answer a boat was sent out, its crew boarded it and there found every soul on board frozen. Its history was found in its log. It had gone on an expidition towards the north pole, had got hemmed in the ice, had been carried thither and hither by it, and finally had drifted with some icebergs into the Gulf Stream. The last record was thirteen years before. "Dead for thirteen years and yet drifting about just like you people in the church, spiritually dead and yet drifting about in the gulf stream of church life."

The Rev. A. C. Maybee, of this city, and Mr. John Carveth, of Hope township, should feel that they have not labored in vain. Mr. Hunter told on Thursday night the story of his conversion. Mr. Carveth was his Sunday school teacher. The first time he remembered ever having made a resolve to be a christian was after Mr. Carveth had in Sunday school taught him about the three Hebrew children. So well did Mr. Carveth present the character of these men that going home from it he went into the woods and prayed to God to help him to be such a man as they were. Then a short time after that the Rev. Mr. Maybee was holding revival meetings in a little church near his father's home and then under the invitation of the Rev. Mr. Maybee he yielded to Christ and became His.

Ten days in the Presbyterian churches, ten days in Bridge st. church and the last ten days in the drill shed will, it is said, probably be the programme of the Evangelistic meetings. So said a minister to "Observant."

The Rev. Mr. Hunter will preach in the Baptist church on Sunday morning.

Rev. Mr. Crossley will occupy the Bleecker St pulpit. A mass meeting for men only will be held in the opera house to-morrow at 4 p.m. The evangelists will both be at Bridge St. church in the evening.

SPORTING NEWS

Directum, the king of trotting stallions, was injured by a fall at Pleasanton, Cal., and may not race this year.

J. J. Ryan and Jos. Wright, the Toronto oarsmen for Henley regatta, have arrived in London.

Roy S. Smith and R. D. Bottom left Syracuse Thursday morning at 11:50 on their bicycles, came by way of Clayton to Gananoque and to Belleville. They arrived about five o'clock last evening and stopped for a few hours to rest. They are keeping track of their actual riding time, which is confirmed by men in the various towns they pass through.

Next Door to Necessity.

Not quite so necessary as food and clothing, although some would even rather do without breakfast—for what is nicer on a Sunday morning than fresh linen delicately perfumed with some of those lasting odors imported and sold in bulk by L. W. Yeomans & Co.

FATAL ENCOUNTER.

INGERSOLL, Ont., May 5.

Last night between 10 and 11 o'clock, while a young man of this town named Harry Aldwood was returning from escorting a young lady home, he was attacked by a mob on the north side of the river, who pelted him with stones. Aldwood, in defence it is believed, struck one of the young men, named McDermott, with a stone or something of the kind which knocked him insensible. He was then taken as quietly as possible to his home, where he lived but a very short time. The police found Aldwood at his residence and took him to the lockup. An inquest will be held today

THE ALL-IMPORTANT QUESTION.

FOOD FOR THE BABY.

The "LACTATED" Strongly Recommended.

The all-important question with careful and loving mothers is that of food for their babies. They look for a food that is easily prepared, easily obtainable, nourishing, strengthening, palatable and pure.

Lactated food possesses every virtue and quality that the mother and physician so eagerly look for. Children fed on Lactated food always grow hardy and strong. The efficacy of the nutritive quality of this perfect substitute for pure human milk has long been acknowledged by the medical profession. Lactated Food is so made that age, climate or variations of climate do not effect it. Thousands of happy babies have been brought up on it. No other food has saved so many babies lives. Give it a trial, mother, if your baby is not thriving.

Do you use Wide Awake Soap? If not, why not? It is guaranteed absolutely pure and is the best in the world.

If you are interested in Church windows or art glass for dwellings of the plainest or most elaborate character, it will certainly repay you to communicate with McCausland & Son, 70 King St. W., Toronto. World's Fair judges reported as follows:—"The specimens of memorial stained glass windows, and art glass for doors and windows of dwellings exhibited by Jos. McCausland & Son are of the highest order of merit and possess several strikingly clever and original features."

NORTH HASTINGS.

Mr. A. F. Wood, M.P.P., Holds a Successful Meeting at Harold.

HAROLD, Rawdon, May 3, 1894.

A. F. Wood, Esq., the nominee of the Conservative party, held a meeting here last night. It was a good representative meeting, but not so large as if notice had been given earlier.

Mr. Wood stated that his reasons for calling the meeting were, simply to put himself in touch with the people, and explain his platform. He spoke for an hour and a half on the questions of the day, setting forth the platform of the Ontario leader; it was highly satisfactory, and well received by the meeting. Mr. Wood was quite up to his old-time vigor. It is very safe to say that he never stood better in this section. His well known Temperance views commend him to many political opponents; his ability on the platform cannot be objected to; and the courtesy with which he treated his opponents, certainly made him no enemies. Mr. Wood said that he felt his election safe, but believed the right way was to make it so, by organizing and attending to it. It is understood that other meetings will be held throughout the township later on.

Some friends who came up from Stirling with him, stated that his prospects there were never better. There is no doubt that Mr. Wood's platform meets the wants and approval of the people, and his past record in the Legislature shows his ability to carry it out. Mr. Halliwell and Mr. Duncan were also on the platform, and spoke briefly.

Crossley and Hunter Excursion.

The Royal Templars of Temperance of Napanee have chartered the steamer Hero to run an excursion from Picton, Napanee and Deseronto on the 18th day of May, leaving the various wharves in time to arrive at Belleville at 6 45 p. m., and remaining until after the close of the services of Messrs. Hunter and Crossley.

Good morning, Mrs. Smith, I have just finished my washing, using Wide Awake Soap; it is the best soap I ever used; it washed so easily, making the clothes far cleaner than I ever had them before, and it lasts twice as long as any other soap I ever used; and just feel how nice and soft my hands are.

Mitchell-Howell.

The following is from the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: A very pretty wedding was celebrated last night in the parlors of Mrs. Smalling, 142 East Main street, when Miss Lottie M. Howell, formerly of Belleville, was married to George Mitchell, of Des Moines, Iowa. Rev. Harman Lang officiated. The bride was charmingly robed in a costume of silver gray. The parlors were handsomely decorated with foliage and flowers. The bride and groom will spend their honeymoon in New York, from which city they will go to Des Moines. The bride received many presents.

MRS. JAS. CHASE.

Worst Kind of Scrofula.

DEAR SIRS.—I had an abscess on my breast and scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken six bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Objectional Features in the Redistribution Bill Strongly Resisted.

THE HONESTY OF THE GOVERNMENT

Their Fairness and Morality Illustrated by Mr. Meredith in a Parable—Third Reading of the Bill Carried—The Registration Bill Read a Third Time—Prorogation of the House.

TORONTO, May 5.—Hon. Mr. Harcourt's bill respecting elections in outer districts received its third reading in the Legislature yesterday.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the House into committee on the bill respecting the representation of certain cities in the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. E. F. Clarke reminded the House that the voters of Toronto, according to the last revised assessment, numbered 43,000, while the strength of the voters in constituencies represented by eight members of the Government, was only 53,000. Despite this fact, the 43,000 voters were only to be given four members, whilst the 53,000 were to have a representation of ten members. This was most unfair, keeping in mind the system of representation by population. The Government had claimed a great deal of credit for the manner in which they had divided that city. The redistribution of seats, they argued, was so fair, that it was impossible for any one, in justice, to say anything against it. He ventured to say it would be impossible to devise any scheme that would be more advantageous to the administration.

Mr. Clarke went on to say that the divisions east and west had been created by drawing a line at right angles from the bay to the extreme north of the city; whilst, instead of dividing the two central districts in the same way, they were made to run from east to west. The people of Toronto would resent this treatment by the Government. He ventured to say that notwithstanding the redistribution of seats, when the Legislature again met it would contain four solid supporters of Mr. Meredith elected by Toronto.

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that if the hon. member calculated upon returning four opponents of the Government for Toronto at the next election he had not very much to complain of. In regard to the criticisms of the bill, he thought he was safe in saying the general concensus of opinion was that the bill was a fair one. The division of South Toronto was thought to be a proper one, because it was in such a position that in the nature of things it could not grow, whilst the population in the other districts would continue to increase.

Mr. Meredith said the hon. gentleman and the Government stood, with regard to this bill, very much in the position of the thief who is in the hands of the constable, and after handing over the stolen goods, says: "See what a nice moral man I am." Hon. gentlemen opposite, like the thief, have had possession of one of the seats of Toronto for eight years. The law—in the form of the people—had their hands upon hon. gentlemen, and now they are surrendering that part of the spoils, not from any consciousness of right, but because they are forced to do it. The Provincial Secretary says, because my hon. friend from Toronto expects the whole four seats will be carried by the Conservatives, therefore it proves too much. The hon. gentleman's logic is faulty there. "It is just as if a thief were to come into my house and make all the preparations with a view to robbing me, and because he is prevented by my vigilance from doing it, he says: 'See what a just and fair man I am. I have not stolen a thing.'"

Hon. Mr. Gibson—These are very happy illustrations.

Mr. Meredith—That is just the position of the hon. gentleman.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that as Mr. Meredith grew in years he did not grow any more gentle in spirit. Every session the hon. gentleman was in the habit of using stronger language and saying more offensive things. He now said the Government were burglars and thieves. The hon. gentleman was in the habit of imputing bad motives and got into such a state, he really believed what he said. The hon. gentleman talked about the division of constituencies. He forgets that his friends in the Dominion had carried on jerrymandering to such an extent that even their own friends all over the country were appalled. Then, as to the representation of Toronto. How many members had the Dominion given to Toronto?

Mr. Clarke—They are different constituencies.

Sir Oliver Mowat — But substantially the same. If four members were good for Dominion purposes, they were good for provincial purposes.

Mr. Meredith—What is the hon. gentleman's reason for not doing it in Ottawa?

Sir Oliver Mowat—I want to know the reason his own friend have not done it. He supposed there were difficulties in the way of making a division there. It had been said the Government were forced to abandon minority representation. It was tried as an experiment, but the Government never suggested it was to continue unless it could be extended to the other portions of the country as well. There had, however, been no feeling shown in favor of that system. With respect to cumulative voting, there had not yet been a general demand for it, so that the Government was not justified in adopting it, although they were asked by Toronto labor organizations to do so. As to the argument of unfair distribution, the Government never gained by it, and did that not show the argument was not sound?

Mr. Whitney—It only indicates the way of the transgressor is hard.

Sir Oliver Mowat—My hon. friend and his party have found the way of the transgressor is hard. They have been kept out of office for twenty years.

Dr. Ryerson protested against placing the Island in East Toronto.

The provision to that effect was passed.

Mr. Harty moved to add a clause to the bill: The electoral district of Kingston shall consist of the city of Kingston and the village of Portsmouth, and the township of Kingston, heretofore forming part of the electoral district of Kingston, is taken therefrom and shall hereafter form part of the electoral district of the county of Frontenac. Mr. Harty said that so far as he personally was concerned the change would be no benefit to him, because the township of Kingston gave him a majority of 138 at the last election.

After some discussion the motion was allowed to stand.

Section 7, a proposal relating to Hamilton, was added to the bill, and the House rose for recess.

After luncheon Mr. Balfour's bill to amend the Street Railway Act was withdrawn. It will be taken up next session.

A number of verbal changes were made to the registration bill, after which it was reported.

The redistribution bill was again taken up.

Mr. Meredith objected to the proposed change at Kingston.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that as far as could be learned there was no objection to the change. The township of Addington had passed a resolution favoring it, and a similar resolution had been adopted by the city council of Kingston.

The motion was agreed to.

Before the House rose for recess Sir Oliver Mowat introduced a bill relating to the clerk of the peace of Carleton county.

The redistribution bill was again taken up after recess, and a number of amendments concurred in.

On the third reading being moved, Mr. Monk moved that the bill be referred back in order to ma[illegible]on for the division of the city of Ottawa into two electoral districts, and striking out that portion of the bill taking a portion of the township of Nepean from the county of Carleton and adding it to the city of Ottawa.

The amendment was lost on a division of 29 to 12. The third reading then carried.

The House went into committee on the registration bill, which was reported.

On motion for the third reading, Mr. Meredith moved the following amendment: That all the words after "that" be struck out and the following substituted therefor: "The said bill imposes on the manhood suffrage electors who are not also municipal electors the necessity for personal attendance for the purpose of being registered as voters, but does not impose that condition on other electors, and thereby establishes an unjust and invidious distinction between different classes of persons entitled to the franchise and violates sound principles of legislation, which demand that the laws should be framed as to bear equally on all classes of the people; and this House, in assenting to the third reading of the said bill, does not commit itself to the principle of applying the system of registration to a portion only of the electorate, or to the principle of entrusting the preparation of the voters' lists to boards composed in part of officials holding their offices at the pleasure of the Government of the day."

Mr. Wood (Brant) moved in amendment to the amendment that the bill provided better safeguards and more complete facilities for obtaining pure voters' lists than prevailed under the old system.

Mr. Meredith claimed the amendment to the amendment out of order.

Mr. Speaker ruled that the point of order was not well taken.

After some discussion Mr. Woods' amendment was withdrawn, and Mr. Meredith's amendment was defeated by 29 to 13.

An amendment by Mr. Clarke (Toronto) was lost on the same division, and the bill was read a third time.

Mr. Meredith brought up the case of the dismissal of Mr. Grundy, deputy registrar of Peterborough, and hoped the Government would give assurance that an unjust dismissal would not be permitted.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that if Mr. Grundy were dismissed for the evidence he gave before the Public Accounts Committee it was a wrong thing and the Government should exercise whatever power it possessed to prevent this injury being done. It was said, however, that the reason of his dismissal was on account of a letter he had written to the press after giving evidence. He had not seen the letter himself, but he would fully investigate the causes which had led to it. Mr. Grundy was entitled to all the consideration the Government could give him.

The House adjourned.

Prorogation takes place this afternoon.

THE COMBER TRAGEDY.

The Murderer of the Comber Constable Shoots Himself When Arrested.

COMBER, Ont., May 5.—Lindsay, the constable shot by Truskey, died yesterday morning. He suffered intense agony an hour or two before death, but the closing moments of his life were peaceful.

Truskey, the murderer of Constable Lindsay, shot himself while being pursued by the officers of the law. He had been located in his own woods, and stood behind a brush heap and with a revolver in his hands defied the officers. The officers ordered him to throw up his hands, but he refused. Thereupon the officers fired several shots and advanced. Seeing that he was overpowered, Truskey pointed his revolver at his left breast and fired.

A rig was despatched for a doctor, who started immediately for the scene. It is thought he is mortally wounded. Crown Attorney Clark, of Windsor, has arrived and will watch the case for the crown at the inquest now going on.

Missing From London.

LONDON, Ont., May 5.—Joseph Boyd, brother to ex-Ald. John Boyd, left his home here on Wednesday afternoon and has not been seen since. The police were notified, but as yet have found no trace of the missing man. When seventeen years old he received a serious injury on the head, and while he completely recovered physically, he has been of weak mind ever since.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 5.—A despatch from York, Western Australia, says that the house of Rev. Dr. Gibney, a Catholic priest in that town, was wrecked with a dynamite bomb yesterday. The man who placed the bomb evidently intended to kill Gibney, but the priest had just left the house and escaped all injury.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing those troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

The trichinæ found in infected pork are sometimes so numerous that 80,000 have been found to the cubic inch.

GENTLEMEN.—Two years ago my husband suffered from severe indigestion, but was completely cured by two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. I can truly recommend it to all sufferers from this disease.

Jas Shannon, Leaskdale, writes:—'For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy to burns and bruises I ever used.'

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

DISCIPLINE IN THE RANKS

General Herbert Gives Fatherly Advice to the Volunteers.

THEIR'S NOT TO REASON WHY

The Custom Has Crept in Among the Militia of Challenging the Orders of the Superior Officers—The General's Speech Regarded as a Reply to Recent Criticisms.

MONTREAL, May 7.—Major General Herbert, speaking on Saturday night on the occasion of the presentation of a cup, presented by Sir Donald Smith to the Victoria Rifles for general efficiency, spoke in strong terms of the custom of many volunteers to challenge the orders of their commanding officers, and said that it was necessary for the efficiency of the militia that the custom should cease. A body of volunteers, he said, however highly stalled in military exercises, is worthless and unworthy to be called a military organization if it is not imbued with a spirit of discipline.

"It is hardly possible to establish a comparative test of discipline, but every man, when he puts on Her Majesty's uniform, should be given a clear conception of what is meant by discipline and should endeavor to attain the ideal of discipline in the highest degree. By discipline is meant that power of self control by which a man places his will and the exercise of his mental, as well as his physical faculties, under the direction of the person appointed to command him."

After referring to the noble example of discipline shown in the case of the British man-of-war Victoria, the Major-General said: "Every man can, if he will, put a check upon the impulse, natural perhaps, to assert his own opinion against that of his superiors, to criticize and to discuss when he should simply obey. He can compel himself to keep silent when his inclination is to talk. He can resist the temptation to acquire the transient notoriety afforded by having his name in print. He can abjure as unworthy of a man the anonymous correspondence. He can do this even in those cases 'Where each soldier knows someone has blundered,' and he will be doing his duty as nobly in the sphere allotted to him as those who rode into the valley of death at Balaclava."

General Herbert's speech is causing a great deal of talk in volunteer circles, as it is regarded as a reply to those who have been criticizing his recent actions.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS.

Two Members of the Late Government Unseated by the Court.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 7.—Ex-Receiver-General Fox and his colleague, Murphy, Whiteway representatives for St. Johns East, were unseated and disqualified by Chief Justice Carter for corrupt practices at the late general election, on the following grounds: Authorizing immediately before election expenditures of large sums of money among voters in outlaying settlements surrounding St. Johns, and construction of roads, wharves, etc. The judge held the expenditure was illegal, they having no power to allocate moneys entrusted by special government department for disbursement.

The expenditures were further corrupt inasmuch as given at the time and under circumstances to show bribery of the electorate the purpose intended and because, when made, grants for the district were overdrawn. It was also proven that Fox and Murphy paid for carriage of voters to polls and thus gave public work.

They escaped conviction on charge of treating, and also escaped conviction of charge of expenditure of public money on the streets of St. Johns, the judge holding that connection between Government and candidates was not sufficiently established, and he was compelled to give the accused the benefit of the doubt.

TRAGEDY IN INGERSOLL.

Inquest Held on the Death of Young McDermott.

INGERSOLL, May 7.—On Saturday evening an inquest was held on the death of the young man McDermott, killed on Friday night, as it is supposed, by Harry Aldwood. The circumstances of the tragedy, as brought out in the evidence, are that a number of young men of this place, who are in the habit of indulging in what they consider some practical fun, arrange to gather together in a body at night and pelt pedestrians with stones, just for the fun "of seeing them run." On this occasion young Aldwood, who had been escorting a young lady home, was the victim of their pranks.

During the melee, by whom or from where, it has not been developed, McDermott, who was one of the storming party, was struck on the head, sustaining injuries from which he afterwards died. Aldwood was arrested, as the circumstances seemed to point to him as the probable cause of McDermott's death.

From the evidence so far elicited, it cannot be ascertained just from what source the blow was received. The inquest has been adjourned till to-morrow evening.

Murder in a Drunken Carousal.

MONTREAL, May 7.—Patrick Foley, a laborer, is in the police cells on suspicion of having killed his wife in a drunken carousal that happened late on Saturday night. Foley and his wife lived on Dowd street, and during the night the neighbors were aroused by screams from the Foley house. The house was entered and Foley was found with his arms around his wife's neck. Both parties had evidently been drinking hard, and empty whiskey bottles were found strewn around. The woman's body bore marks of violence. Foley was arrested and is held for trial.

Missing from Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 7.—Mr. Wm. McKay, of her Majesty's Customs, late member of professional staff of Roman Catholic schools here, has been missing from his home, No. 72 Fortier street, since the 21st of April. The affair is a complete mystery and no clue whatever has yet been discovered. He is 56 years of age, but looks younger. Height, 5 feet 7½ inches; walks straight and erect; eyes blue, features regular; full beard and moustache of brownish hue, slightly streaked with grey. Information should be sent to John Mackay, No. 72 Fortier street, Montreal.

Town Destroyed by Fire.

CARSON, Nev., May 7.—The town of Tahoe City, consisting of fifty dwellings, has been destroyed by fire.

THE SHARON TRIAL.

Mr. Chapman, the Sick Juror, Recovers—Miss Reid's Evidence Disputed.

TORONTO, May 7.—Emannel Chapman, the juror in the Sharon case whose illness on Friday night compelled the sudden cessation of court proceedings, recovered sufficiently on Saturday to attend and the case proceeded. There was a marked difference in the demeanor of the three prisoners standing their trial on a terrible charge. On the whole Osman and Pegg preserved their hitherto calm exterior, but Mrs. Evans, the wife of he who it is charged was her intended victim, was unusually pale and haggard, showing beyond doubt that the effects of the trial are beginning to tell on her.

The first witness called was Joseph Hayes, who testified to carrying a letter from Mrs. Evans to Pegg. He swore that Pegg and Maggie Reid were on good terms and that he had seen them kissing on several occasions. This disputed the evidence given by the girl Reid.

Walter Rogers testified to hearing a conversation between Osman and Pegg in reference to the supposed intended elopement of Mrs. Evans and the latter.

Thomas Lawson said he helped to carry Mrs. Evans' trunk to the barn, and that Maggie Reid was present. This was another contradiction of Maggie Reid's evidence.

Alexander Travis swore Osman told him that Mrs. Evans intended to leave her husband, and asked if she might leave her trunk at his (Travis) house.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pegg, aunt of the prisoner, testified to finding a letter in her nephew's pocket from Mrs. Evans. The letter was read and showed that an understanding existed between Mrs. Evans and Pegg and referred chiefly to what purported to be a pre-arranged plan for the suspension of the marital relations between Mrs. Evans and her husband, in the culmination of which Pegg was to bear an important part.

Witnesses were called to identify the handwriting of the letter, but the defence admitted that evidence.

Judah Leppar, the farmer, was recalled and held to his story of seeing Pegg and Mrs. Evans in an outhouse.

The phial containing the powder was produced by Detective Hodgins. Then proceeded a long cross-examination of the doctors in the case, from which nothing was adduced more than has already been given to the public.

Dr. Ellis swore that he had analyzed the contents of the phial and pronounced it strychnine.

This closed the case for the crown, and Mr. Murdoch commenced the case for the defence.

Dr. Howe's evidence was then read to the court.

Dr. Fierheller of Markham said he had been in practice for ten years. From the symptoms he thought the illness might be caused either by tetanus exposure and debauch or to a certain extent by strychnine poisoning. He cited a case of inflammotory rheumatism, the symptoms of which corresponded with those of Walter Evans. He thought that the cases were similar and would ascribe Evans' illness to the same cause. In cross-examination the doctor did not change his opinion.

Dr. Robinson, of Markham, thought that from the symptoms described by Dr. Howe that Evans suffered from lockjaw. Had it been a case of poison by strychnine Evans would not have been alive by the time Dr. Howe arrived.

W. H. Kavanagh said that the night Leppar claimed to have seen the two together in an outhouse it was so dark that he could not tell his friends at a distance of nine or ten feet.

Walter Evans, Lottie Evans' husband, was called to the stand, but the judge considered that the time at their disposal was too limited to render further pursuance of the case that evening advisable, and adjourned the court till to-day.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Annual Press Dinner — Commutation Urged for Two Italian Murderers.

OTTAWA, May 7.—The annual dinner of the parliamentary press gallery came off Saturday evening at the Russell. It was one of the most successful yet held by the gallery. There were about sixty pressmen and guests, including Mr. Laurier and a number of members of Parliament, who sat down to dinner.

The Italian government, through their Consul at Halifax, Mr. Fisher, has communicated with the Department of Justice asking for a posponement of the execution of the two Italians, Antonio Luciano and Antonio Degidio, which was fixed for May 10. They are accused of murdering Giovano Peterella, a scissors grinder, near Grenfel, Man., on June 10, 1893. The matter of commutation was already under consideration, and this communication from the Italian government will be considered by the Cabinet. Mr. Fisher is in communication with accused's counsel, and thinks he can adduce new evidence. The trial was a very complete one and lasted thirteen days.

Shakespeare's Birthplace Admissions.

LONDON, May 7.—The annual report of the trustees of Shakespeare's birthplace shows that there were 18,000 paid admissions in 1893—materially fewer than in 1892. The falling off is ascribed to the depression in America and to the Chicago exhibition. The report shows an adverse balance of £607.

UNEASINESS IN THE EAST

Natives in India Feared to be on the Verge of an Uprising.

SIGNS OF PLOTTING DISCOVERED

Natives Said to be Suspicious and Incensed at the Ruling of the Opium Commission — Alarming Prospects of a Repetition of the Horrors of 1857.

LONDON, May 7.—During the past month frequent mention has been made in telegrams from India of the discovery of explicable signs in the native shrines. It has been explained that the signs relate to plots for a general uprising of the natives. Private letters from India say that there is a strong current of uneasiness among the natives, and some writers predict an outbreak similar to the Sepoy mutiny in 1857, the anniversary of which will occur on Thursday next.

The Spectator prints a sensational article on the subject in which the paper sounds an alarm. It warns the public that within the next few days all questions that are now interesting the country may be swallowed by the news that for the second time in half a century England has India to reconquer.

Some of the letters from India, the Spectator says, attribute the trouble to the suspicions of natives, who have been aroused by the rulings of the opium commission, while others say that if there should be an outbreak it would be found to have its origin in the recent cadastral surveys conducted by the Government, the land owners supposing the surveys to have been made with a view of imposing additional taxational or seizing the lands. The movement extends over the provinces of Napaul and Bahar and the provinces to the eastward. The Spectator is the only London paper that makes any mention of the matter.

Opening of the Antwerp Exhibition.

ANTWERP, May 7.—The World's Exhibition was formally opened here by the King and Queen of the Belgians. The weather was delightful and the display of troops and gorgeous official costumes magnificent. The burgomaster and members of the city council of Brussels were not present, as owing to the rivalry existing between the capital city and Antwerp these officials had not been invited. Count Depret, president of the executive council of the exposition, delivered an address welcoming the King and Queen. King Leopold replied briefly, complimenting the authorities on the completeness of their work. Forty thousand people were present at the opening.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 4.—At the solicitation of a prominent Presbyterian gentleman, Col. Breckrenridge has confessed his sins before the officers and pastors of Mt. Horeb Presbyterian Church of this city, which was founded by his father, Rev. J. Breckenridge. He kept back nothing from the representatives of the church and asked their forgiveness of his sins. The officers will consider the matter before any action will be taken. It had been reported that Col. Breckenridge had been expelled from the church which report was not true.

Miners Remaining Firm.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 7.—There will be a national convention of miners in Cleveland on May 14, the day before the joint convention of miners and operators, as called by the Pittsburg conference. President McBride has issued a circular in which he says: "Our ranks are firm and have been materially increased by the miners of Coal Creek, Tenn.; many places in Kentucky, Missouri and West Virginia, also that the Iowa state convention held at Albio, May 2, declared for suspension." There are now 180,000 miners idle."

King Humbert's Disease.

ROME, May 7.—Cancer of the larynx, almost identical with the disease with which the late Emperor Frederick of Germany was afflicted, has established its hold upon King Humbert of Italy. This has been known for some time among the intimate confidants of the King, but it is only recently that the secret has been divulged.

LEGISLATURE PROROGUED

The Seventh Parliament of the Province Quietly Steps Out.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR'S FORMAL SPEECH

He Prorogues the House With the Customary Expression of His Intense Satisfaction—Approval of Mr. Balfour's Bill Withheld—The Longest Session in Fifteen Years.

TORONTO, May 7.—At the prorogation of the Legislature on Saturday the proceedings were attended by none of the usual pomp and display. The attendance was large and although many ladies occupied seats on the floor of the House, it could not be considered a fashionable gathering.

Speech From the Throne.

Lieutenant-Governor Kirkpatrick, who appeared in his official uniform, though not escorted by a company of infantry, as is usually the case, arrived promptly at three o'clock and delivered the following speech:

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly,—I desire to express my appreciation of the earnestness and diligence with which you have applied yourselves to the work of the unusually long session now being brought to a close. The measures which you have passed are very important and useful, and will greatly assist in the administration of public affairs.

The important Act respecting councils of conciliation and arbitration for settling industrial disputes will, I am glad to believe, tend to prevent those conflicts between capital and labor which often result in the serious disturbance of business and loss to all parties concerned. It is gratifying to know that, owing to your wise and liberal provision for the proper representation of the province at the World's Columbian Exposition, its progress and resources were exhibited to great advantage, securing for the province in many departments a position of enviable prominence. We may confidently hope that material results of a very substantial character will accrue to the province.

The various provisions of the Acts respecting the registration of manhood suffrage voters in cities and for the prompt punishment of persons guilty of personation at elections for Legislative Assembly will, I trust, be found effective in preventing and purifying the voters' lists, simplifying the enrolment of all duly qualified electors and facilitating the suppression of corrupt practices.

The readjustment of the representation of the cities of Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, and Kingston in the Legislative Assembly will, I trust, prove satisfactory.

I notice with pleasure that you have established a provincial park at Rondeau, in the western part of the province. I do not doubt that the future will furnish abundant evidence in the establishment of this and other parks you have evinced forethought and prudence.

The Act respecting mines and mining lands and the Acts for improving the administration of justice in the districts of Nipissing and Rainy River, for facilitating local administration of justice, and for enabling boards of trade in cities to appoint general arbitrators, will commend themselves to the public as measures of practical utility.

The Acts consolidating and amending the drainage laws, mortgages and sales of personal property, the Act amending the Division Courts Act, the municipal and assessment laws, are further measures of public importance.

I thank you for the liberal appropriations which you have made for the public service. The supplies which you have granted will be expended with care, and in the public interest.

The bills of the session, 106 in all, received the assent of the Lieutenant-Governor, with the exception of the Act to amend the Street Railway Act, with respect to which it was announced:

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor doth withhold her Majesty's assent to this bill on advice of his council, it being understood that the Legislative Assembly also desires such withholding of assent thereto, by reason of the bill having been ascertained, since the passing thereof, to cover, by its terms, cases not contemplated on the passing of the bill.

The session which concluded was the fourth and last session of the seventh parliament, and was the longest in fifteen years.

English Agitation for Eight Hours.

LONDON, May 7.—English workingmen as usual made their eight-hour demonstration this year on the first Sunday after May day. All the meetings passed the resolution in favor of the eight-hour day. They also resolved that the workingmen could free themselves economically and socially only after getting control of the political machinery now in the hands of the capitalistic class. John Burns and Keir Hardie, labor members of Parliament, spoke at length each congratulating his audience upon the progress of the eight-hour movement in the last year.

The Comber Tragedy.

COMBER, Ont., May 7.—The inquest on the remains of Lindsay, the murdered constable, was held by Coroners Abott and Ferguson on Saturday. At the post-mortem examination it was found that the ball had pierced the body in three places and lodged in the hip bone. Owing to the prisoner being unable to attend the inquest was adjourned till Saturday, May 12. Tuskey, who shot himself, is resting easy, has considerable strength left, and if inflammation does not set in there is a possibility of his recovery.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

EAST HASTINGS.

The Liberal Conservative Association of East Hastings will meet at Roslin on Monday, the 14th inst., at 1 p. m., for the purpose of selecting candidates for the Commons and the Legislature. There will no doubt be a large attendance.

PERMANENT WORKS.

It has long been the opinion of thoughtful residents of Belleville that a vast amount of money has been wasted by our municipal rulers in failing to construct public works of a permanent character. That opinion has been shared by the INTELLIGENCER, and has many times been urged in these columns, but unhappily without much effect upon successive Councils. Had there been a beginning made thirty, or even ten, years ago, in the paving of Front Street, the construction of sewers, and the laying down of permanent sidewalks, we would have made great progress by this time, and the annual expenditure for public works would have been much lessened.

Instead of that, however, a hand-to-mouth policy has generally been followed, and the result has been an expenditure very much greater than ought to have been the case had a small amount of work of a lasting character been done every year, and very little work of a durable character to show for it.

Now that the city's finances are in a more satisfactory condition than they have been for some years past, we would once more urge upon the Council the desirability of beginning the systematic construction of permanent works. A good commencement might well be made with the sidewalks, which most nearly concern the great majority of the people. Our wooden platforms are neither ornamental nor sanitary, and they cost more than almost any other style of walk. They cost about 83 cents per square yard, and last about five years only, on the average, whilst hard brick can be laid at 75c, other durable materials at $1, and granolithic at $1.75 per square yard.

Our suggestion would be to make some experiments outside of the leading business streets. Presuming that the Council have determined to lay a granolithic walk on the north side of Bridge st. from Pinnacle to Church st., it would be well to have a permanent walk of a less expensive character for a block or two laid down this year to the east of this, and extend the same year by year. By following this course steadily every year and extending the system to the principal streets, a large saving could be effected and the city beautified within an astonishingly short time.

Pork and Oats.

Mr. McCarthy and his associates, Mr. Mills, Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard have been abusing the Government for fooling the country on agricultural protection.

Here is an evidence of that fooling. In 1876, when there was no tariff on oats, Canada imported 2,071,518, bushels of that cereal; in 1893, the importation was only 44,264 bushels, and most of these for seed. The effect of shutting out over two million bushels every farmer knows. Shall we admit them again?—Every farmer who isn't a blind partizan, says no.

Take pork in the same way. In 1891 the pork imported amounted to $841,352. The Government increased the duty. Last year only $377,892 worth came in, while the exports increased from $621,557 to $2-052,471. No wonder that a large deputation of County Carleton farmers waited upon the Government asking that the pork duties be not reduced, and that they should be specific. The government has changed the duties back to specific—they listen to the people and take the people's judgment.

DOGS FOR THE ARCTIC DASH.

Walter Wellman Writes About His Canine Teams.

THEY WERE SECURED AT LIEGE.

Fifty-three Beasts of Burden at an Average Price of 40 Francs Apiece—How the People of Western Europe Use Them in Place of Horses.

BERGEN, Norway, April 23.—It is a genuine pleasure to be able to report that the Wellman north polar expedition is moving along in good order. I was about to say "moving quietly along," but how could a party composed of a quartet of live Americans and 53 Belgian dogs do anything quietly? Our dogs have been a nine days' wonder over in Europe—we and the dogs together. We have been the innocent cause of so much astonishment among the natives in two or three countries and have attracted so much attention en route that we scarcely know whether we are running a polar expedition or a circus. Nor could the old fashioned country circus, flitting from town to town between midnight and morn, experience more hustling to the square inch than we have had since leaving London. We went straight to Liege, Belgium, being led thither by the kindly interest in the dog part of our project which had been taken by Colonel Nicholas Smith, American consul. We had had correspondence with the consul concerning the use of Belgian draft dogs in the arctics, and his opinion, given after a year of close observation of the animals, confirmed the conclusion which the writer had reached as a result of his own investigations in Europe last summer. Colonel Smith had made an official report on the use of draft dogs in Belgium which attracted attention all over the world, especially in the United States, in which he showed beyond question the enormous industrial value of these faithful animals. In the United States he pointed out that there are about 7,000,000 dogs living in idleness more or less luxurious. These millions of animals contribute nothing whatever to the wealth of the country. They toil not; neither do they spin. Estimating the strength of a dog at 500 pounds, a low estimate, Colonel Smith figured out that in these 7,000,000 dogs America has an idle force of 3,500,000,000 pounds, or a power which, like faith, if once exercised, could move mountains.

Colonel Smith's argument in favor of the use of draft dogs on the streets of our American cities was convincing enough, but we were interested in the draft hound as an arctic and not as an industrial beast of burden. In reply to our inquiries Consul Smith wrote as follows:

"I have no doubt these Belgian dogs will suit you to a nicety. They easily draw a thousand pounds over the rough block pavements which prevail here. They are quick in their movements, very tractable, as easily guided as one's own nose and are not subject to fits. Their feet, never tender, toughen with usage, and they can easily endure such cold as you expect to encounter in the arctic summer. They are tougher than either donkeys or mules. You know a foxhound will in a day run two or three horses down, and their cousins here are of equal bottom in harness. They are nominally fed on horseflesh and black bread, though the meat is often left out of their bill of fare. A half pound of bread, the cost of which is a cent, saturated in broth of any kind, is regarded by the dogs as a sop fit for Cerberus. A ration costing 5 cents and weighing one-half pound would be a liberal allowance per day."

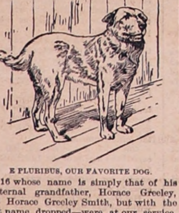
We had asked Colonel Smith to give his opinion of the draft dog as an article of food for man in case we should be reduced to the extremity of eating our friends in the arctics, and he replied in the following racy fashion:

"As to the dog's edibility, you know he is the piece de resistance of all Celestial dinner tables, and I can only ascribe our American love of free lunches to a mild form of rabies, that which comes from the biter being bitten. Be assured of the wholesomeness of his flesh. The question of appetite for him you can safely postpone till the repast is served. You remember how Juan's spaniel,

> "Spite of his entreating,
> Was killed and portioned out for eating.

"They do say there is a sauce prepared in the arctic regions so much more piquant than caviare or chatnee that it savors even an anthropophagous feast. In the selection of your party, therefore, consider their esculent qualities as well as those of your dogs. Be sure that you have no reverend Pedros in your train."

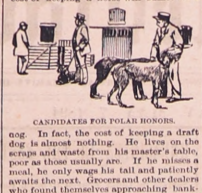
It was therefore to Liege that we went from London to have there the friendly assistance of this able champion of the draft dog. It was well that we did so, for we could not have been in better hands. The consul and his son—the latter a bright lad of 16 whose name is simply that of his maternal grandfather, Horace Greeley, not Horace Greeley Smith, but with the last name dropped—were at our service, and in a large city containing only half a dozen English speaking persons, and several thousands of dog owners, dog dealers, commissionnaires and other vampires who think every American a rich, fat pigeon to be nicely plucked, this was a tremendous advantage.



E PLURIBUS, OUR FAVORITE DOG.

There was no lack of dogs. The streets were full of them. More dogs than horses were seen in use upon the thoroughfares. Fully two-thirds of the light traffic of Liege, as of all the Belgian, Dutch, west German and Swiss cities, are carried on with dogs as motive power. Those members of our party who had never seen the draft dog in use were simply amazed at his strength. They could scarcely believe their eyes when they saw a little beast trudging briskly along with a cart containing half a long ton of coal and pulling in his collar as if he loved his work. Early in the morning the streets looked like a dog show. The butchers, the bakers, the coal dealers, the milk peddlers, the grocers, every conceivable sort of light delivery wagon was drawn by dogs. Most of them were attended by bareheaded women. Some of the carts had one dog, others two or three dogs. Market women came in from the suburbs with their carts heavily laden. Laundresses used dogs to deliver their bulky packages. In Belgium and Holland the dog is above all things the friend of the woman. In fact, it is an axiom there that dogs, horses and women are the beasts of burden, and it is only by standing on the streets of one of these cities early in the morning that one is able to realize how much help the little beasts are to the overworked mothers and daughters of the lower classes.

The draft dog is a tremendous factor in the social economy of western Europe. In all light work he is equal to a horse and costs but one-fifteenth as much for the original outlay, and only one-sixth the cost of keeping a horse will suffice for a dog. In fact, the cost of keeping a draft dog is almost nothing. He lives on the scraps and waste from his master's table, poor as those usually are. If he misses a meal, he only wags his tail and patiently awaits the next. Grocers and other dealers who found themselves approaching bankruptcy on account of the cost of maintaining delivery wagons drawn by horses changed to dog power and grew rapidly rich. The carts used for dogs cost much less than wagons suitable for horses. The harness for the smaller animal is a mere trifle. A dog needs neither shoes nor stable. He requires no care. And he will take his load of a thousand pounds and trudge along with it at a smart gait all the day long. After we get through with this north pole business, if we ever do, we think of taking a shipload of draft dogs to America and thus teach our countrymen the use of a new motive power. So far as that is concerned, the millions of idle dogs in America should be set to work. A little training would convert the great majority of them into useful draft animals. It is high time our lazy old dogs were taught a few new tricks.



CANDIDATES FOR POLAR HONORS.

These Belgian draft dogs are of no special breed. They are conglomerates. If there is any type among them, it is the long eared foxhound, though a pure pedigree is almost unknown. Their value consists not of blood or of breeding, but of the uses to which they are put, though it must be true that the employment of generation after generation for draft is gradually developing not only mental aptitude for work, so to speak, but physical adaptability to pulling heavy loads. If the thousands of men who devote their energies to the breeding of dogs for beauty, ugliness, for the chase or for pets were to turn their attention for a few decades to the production of a breed for draft, they might evolve a dog that could pull 2,000 pounds, or as much as an ordinary horse, and in so doing they would give the world a new power that would possess almost as great an importance industrially as electricity. Already the mere circumstance of use has in western Europe produced a dog with extraordinarily tough feet, heavily muscled legs, sinewy shoulders—a dog which gets himself down toward the ground and pulls like a mule. If this is the result of the chance of mere use, what could not be done with the design of skillful interbreeding of hounds, mastiffs and bulldogs?

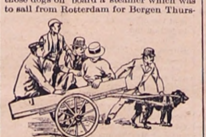
The special advantage which these dogs possess for our use in the arctics consists of their strength, which is greater than that of the Eskimo or Siberian dog; of their tractability, which is such that one team will follow another even without a driver; of their immunity from the epidemics which carry off so many of the packs heretofore used in the arctics, and of their ability to get along with so little food. We have been asked about a million times if these dogs can withstand the cold of the arctics, and about a half million times we have replied that the summer of the arctics has no severe cold, and we have further explained that the two most adaptable animals of the world are the two which we are taking with us—men and dogs. These are the creatures that are able to pass in a single season from equatorial heat to arctic cold without suffering ill effects from the violent transition. Whatever a man can endure a dog can withstand, and not much depends upon the breed in either case. Payer had with him on his sledge journeys in Franz-Josef Land four or five swarthy Italians, and they endured 40 degrees below zero without a murmur. Nor are we the first to take European dogs to the arctics. Payer had with him in Franz-Josef Land a number of dogs from Vienna, and he testified that they were of more service to him, even in extreme cold, than the Siberian animals which he had with him. The only trouble with his European dogs, he explained, was that they had not been trained to draft. In this respect our pack is ideal.

We had great sport buying our dogs in Liege. Besides we gave the lazy Liegois such a shock of astonishment as they had never before experienced. We arrived there on a Monday morning. To avoid bulling a market in which we were the only buyers we caused the report to be spread that we wanted a dozen dogs, though to our friends we confessed that we wanted half a hundred. Moreover, we wanted them quickly. A few dog experts were called into consultation. "Yes, you can get 50 dogs here," they said, "but it will take you three weeks to do it." This would not do for our expedition that is to make its dash toward the pole in the space of a single summer, and we gently suggested that three days and not three weeks would be more in our line. "Impossible, monsieur!" But we thought we would try it. That American confidence in the power of gold and hustle combined has not yet been beaten out of us. We organized our forces for a dog campaign that was to be short, sharp and decisive. Consul Smith gave us good advice and told Kentucky stories which made even the dogs laugh and coax their masters for the privilege of staying with us. Young Horace Greeley developed energy and shrewdness worthy the great name which he bears. Mr. Dodge, with Mr. Winship, a young English engineer living in Liege and who is now a member of our polar party, opened headquarters at a stable. A milkman was hired to go out and run in dogs. Half a dozen commissionnaires, dog dealers and other agents were hired for the same purpose. Advertisements were put in the daily papers which over here are written one day, the type set the second and the forms put to press on the third, so that our advertisements appeared about the time we were ready to leave town.

There were plenty of dogs to sell. Streams of dogs ran down all the thoroughfares leading to our mart. Men, women and children were the conductors. They came singly, in pairs, triplets and quartets. It seemed that every mother's son and father's daughter in Liege had heard we were Americans who wanted to buy dogs, and being Americans were, of course, full of shekels and softness. At any rate, the price of dogs took a sudden and appalling upward bound. Dirty brindle pups that ordinarily were worth 20 francs were put to us for a hundred. Really good dogs were priced at hundreds of francs, and crestfallen were the countenances of the owners when a 200 franc tender was met with a counter proposal of 30. Fond expectations of getting out of the Americans as the price of one dog enough money to maintain a whole family for a twelvemonth were rudely and quickly shattered, though not without an almost endless gabble and clatter in French and Walloons, the voices of the disconsolate and suspicious dogs swelling the din. As soon as these notions about fancy prices and flowing American gold had been dispelled the negotiations reached a common sense level. Almost with tears in their eyes owners dropped from a hundred francs by easy stages to half a hundred and then on down to 40, or even lower, accompanied by grimaces and contortions resembling the great American process of pulling teeth. The average price paid was a little under 40 francs.

One dog mart was a picture. A courtyard surrounded by stables; plenty of loafers; dogs in leash howling; all hands, human and canine, trying to talk together and succeeding almost all the time; an occasional show of paper money at the conclusion of a transaction in sous, bringing a dense and unsavory crowd round the central figures; now and then a dog fight or a series of wordy combats between owners, and in the midst of all the din Mr. Dodge, calm and critical, watching everybody and everything and occasionally giving vent to his feelings by telling some one or other to go to the hot place, a perfectly safe bit of advice when given in the English tongue. The dog sellers soon perceived that Mr. Dodge could not be fooled. He carefully examined the feet of the animals offered him, took up each individual leg and searched it for fractures and hurts, looked in every mouth and had every dog hitched to a cart and tested as to his strength and tractability. More than one man or woman who had been tempted by needed money to dispose of the household pet and cart companion bade goodby to Leon or Blancpied or Bowpier or Melord or whatever the beast's name was by means of an affectionate though moist farewell kiss upon the nose of the sacrificed canine.

At the end of the third day 53 dogs, satisfactory in size and other particulars, were tied up in our stables. How many of them were stolen from their rightful owners we never will know. We had at least the satisfaction of showing the Belgians what American hustle can do when it sets to work in earnest. Next came the question of transportation. We wanted to put those dogs on board a steamer which was to sail from Rotterdam for Bergen Thursday evening. But how? There is no such thing as an express company as we know it in America this side the Atlantic. The "fast freight" would run to Rotterdam, 150 miles, in four days. A special car could not be attached to a passenger train for love or money because the cars did not have airbrakes. The railways being under government control, a special train could not be arranged for without about a week's correspondence with the authorities. But there was one way out of the difficulty, and this was suggested by a railway official merely as an illustration of their methods of doing business and without the faintest idea that we should adopt it. Great was his surprise and the amazement of the people when we caught at his suggestion, made passengers of our dogs, bought a third class ticket for each and every one of them, put a dozen men at work making boxes and bottling up our beasts and rode in triumph and four special cars from Liege to Rotterdam Thursday afternoon.



TESTING A DOG IN THE CART.

Our dogs filled the deck of the Ingerid. And on the voyage through the North sea a fog came on, with extraordinary results. Captain Lever blew his fog whistle, and first one dog and then another took it up and echoed its long, plaintive note until the whole pack were filling the misty air with their contributions. When the dogs first took up the chorus, Captain Lever thought other steamers were answering his warning, and when a dozen canine foghorns blew he said to himself, with a true sailor's cuss word, that never before in all his experience had he known so many steamers to be gathered near together in the North sea and rang the bell to have the Ingerid's engines stopped.

And this is how we bought our pack of draft hounds in Belgium and brought them on to Norway.

WALTER WELLMAN.

The Rich Mendicants of France.

Mendicancy would apppear to be almost as profitable in the outlying suburbs of Paris as in the city itself, where beggars sometimes die leaving substantial legacies behind them for their next of kin. Victor Hayet, aged 49, was supposed to be one of the most destitute and almsworthy inhabitants of Joinville-le-Pont, where he dwelt in a hovel by night and begged on the roads by day. For the past week he had disappeared from sight, and the police, having been communicated with, went to the hut, burst open the door, as there was no answer to their knocks, and found Hayet dead on the floor inside. His body showed no marks of foul play, and it was clear that the man had died suddenly from heart disease. In a dirty cupboard of his miserable room was found a parcel of bank notes amounting in value to £720. The mendicant's dog was heard howling in the cellar. The animal was half mad with hunger, and it choked itself eating a lump of bread thrown to it by the policemen.—London Telegraph.

Importance of Little Things.

It is the little things of life that either condemn or elevate us in the opinion of others, and table manners are as essential a part of the education of a gentleman or gentlewoman as the deeper lines of thought and learning.

FODDER FROM THE STATES.

A Canadian Farmer Contradicts Secretary Bannerman's Denial.

CHICAGO, May 7.—A few weeks ago it was stated that the British had ordered 500 tons of compressed fodder, a horse food of comparatively recent invention to be delivered at the dock yards at Portsmouth as a sample consignment. In the House of Commons, Secretary of War Bannerman, in reply to a question from Col. Lockwood, denied that the War Department had ordered that or any other quantity of substance from Chicago for army purposes.

A Canadian farmer, at present in this city, and who is interested in the production in question, says: "I do not know where the information was secured, as we are seeking neither publicity nor advertising. The original information, however, was substantially correct. Mr. Bannerman's denial is a trifle disingenious, probably because English Government officials are always unwilling to admit their dependence on the United States for anything of the kind. The order was received from Ashdown & Co., contractors for Government supplies at Portsmouth, and was ordered delivered at the Government supply depot at that place. Secretary Bannerman may have replied for himself instead of for the contractors giving the original order, but the letter can be produced to demonstrate the accuracy of the despatch. The order was received in Canada and forwarded to this city, because a plant has been erected in an adjoining state for the manufacture of the product."

Killed a Desperate Character.

BERLIN, May 7.—Jacob Christ, a butcher, murdered a peasant named Osteroth by cutting his throat on the highway near Masterhausen, Coblenz district. His motive was robbery. While he was searching Ofteroth's pockets for money he was seen by several railway flagmen and switchmen. They pursued him and one of them overtook him, but only to be stabbed to death. A mounted policeman who had learned of the crime rode Christ down and shot him through the head.

Destroyed by Lightning.

NORTHPORT, Ont., May 7.—During the heavy thunderstorm which prevailed here on Saturday evening the dining hall owned by J. C. Y. Cornwall was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, together with the contents, which included furniture of every description, besides several other things of much value. Mr. Cornwall is at present in Chicago and intended coming home in a short time to open up the park for summer business.

ONE OF THE LOST TRIBES.

Hebrew and Hawaiian Burial Customs Correspond Exactly.

The manner of disposing of the dead in the Hawaiian Islands is also in accord with the Hebrew custom. The body was embalmed and covered with a glutinous substance or wash, to seal effectually the pores of the skin and exclude all air. The body was then deposited in the side of a precipice. The practice of immolating one or more wives of a chief was carried on to a considerable extent in the Hawaiian group in earlier days. As a manifestation of love and attachment, the wives of a chief would voluntarily die, which act was called moe-pu, companionship in sleep. This practice can be traced to the Vedic Hindoos, the only difference being that the wife was immolated on the funeral pyre. Some stress has been laid on the peculiar institutions, called cities of refuge, or Puuhonua, which were found to have obtained prominence among the Hawaiians, and which have been quoted as another instance of Hebrew influence upon the custom and culture of the islanders. The cities of refuge, however, were not peculiar to the Hebrews. They existed in the time of ancient Greece. We read of the temple of Ceres, at Hermione, in Argolis, which was a similar institution, and there were numerous others, both there and elsewhere, where the Cushite influence had molified the customs and molded the curts of the people on its own pattern.

Besides the traditions of the Hawaiians, their practice of incantation and divination, and many peculiarties of their language show a relation not only with the Hebrews, but also with the fire-worshippers of Persia, the Brahmins and Buddhists of India, and other branches of the Ayran race.—Abraham Fornander, in April Lippincott's.

Home of the Ostrich.

Southern Africa contains a sufficient number of large ostrich farms to keep the whole world supplied with feathers. The ostrich farming commenced in California has not proven a success thus far. Cape Town, Africa, is the largest depot in the world for ostrich feathers. Many large houses in England are represented there by agents who ship these goods to London, where they are sold at auction every two months to buyers from all countries. No imitation of the ostrich feather has ever been found, though years ago dealers unsuccessfully experimented with the plumage of the vulture for this purpose. The Egyptian feathers are the most valuable, costing sometimes four hundred dollars a pound, but such feathers last a lifetime, and will stand any amount of curling, cleaning and dyeing. The plumes are classed under the names of wild, tame, male, female, white, black, drab and byacks. They are cut from the quill stubs, which the birds shed afterward, and tied in bunches of from eight to fifty feathers, the tail feathers predominating. The wild birds are rare, and the feathers very fine and the flue of a high lustre. Byacks are of mixed shades, and the male plumage surpasses the female. The value of a feather becomes lesser or greater after cleaning it with white Castile soap, according to the quality of the flues. An ostrich feather is a colony of feathers rather than one, as may be seen by separating each flue of barbule, each being perfect in itself. Ostriches are full grown at two years, when the female selects her mate and remains constant to him as long as they both live. Ten feet high, to the top of the head, is the ordinary size.—Home Journal.

Science Notes.

Japan has one of the best engineering schools in the world, and is beginning to manufacture creditable electrical machinery.

Petroleum, by a course of experiments made by the Prussian government, has proven a reliable scale preventer in steam boilers.

A comparison of the cost of gas and electric lighting in seven German cities shows that the latter is from twenty-five to seventy-five per cent higher.

The Indian government is building a laboratory at Calcutta to thoroughly investigate the properties of snake venom and test cures for snake bites.

Zoologists claim that the strength of the lion in the fore limbs is only sixty-nine per cent of that of the tiger, and the strength of the hind limbs sixty-five per cent.

A series of experiments is to be made at Yale college to determine the relation of the nerves to the muscles of the human body and test a theory that strength depends less upon the size of the muscle than upon the strength of the nerve.

It is maintained very stoutly by expert electricians that the storage battery, is after all, a success for commercial work; that the new process for manufacturing them have cheapened their cost and that in train lighting they are especially efficient and economical. It is estimated that $85 per horse power is the annual cost of the accumulator.—Inventive Age.

French and American Women.

Mr. Max O'Reil says he has found only two nations where women are the leaders, France and America. In America, from the age of eighteen, a girl is allowed almost every liberty—she takes the rest. In France the women are not frivolous, he maintains, as is commonly supposed. They have a knowledge of their husband's business and a voice in the management of his affairs.

Horse Strength and Pavements.

A horse can draw on metal rails one and two-third times as much as on asphalt pavement, three and one-third times as much as on good Belgian blocks, five times as much as on good cobblestones, twenty times as much as on good earth road and forty times as much as on sand.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. Miller's Emulsion is "the kind that cures" colds, coughs, bronchitis and lung diseases generally. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c and $1.00, at druggists.

Mr. Grange, of Canton, N. Y., who has been in the city for some days looking over the new hotel, left for his home on Saturday. He could not come to an agreement with the company. Insomnia is fearfully on the increase. The rush and excitement of modern life so tax the nervous system that multitudes of people are deprived of good and sufficient sleep, with ruinous consequences to the nerves. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

The rush at Layton's Leading Bargain House on Saturday, was to such an extent that they had to close their doors several times so as to enable them to serve their patrons. No wonder, such prices. Alex. Pottle, New York, a sailor missionary between Montreal and Hamilton, was registered at the Huffman House to-day. He came up from Deseronto this morning and was driven to the Y.M.C.A. rooms. He went to Hamilton on the Magnet this afternoon. His son Jas. Pottle, a civil engineer, went as far as Toronto with him.

Not "the Same old Coon."

A sharp eyed boy, going home from the Crossley and Hunter meeting in the opera house yesterday afternoon, caught sight of a strange looking object in the large elm tree on Bridge st. opposite St. Thomas' church. Calling the attention of others to it, the boys decided that it was a coon, and immediately an impromptu committee of boys and men was formed. His coonship, true to his instincts, seemed to divine what was going on, and so moved several notches higher until the highest branch was reached, where not even the most venturesome boy could get. It was fortunate for the coon that Bellevillians are strict observers of Sunday, for while the sportsman was strong in many who observed "the critter" and it was "a crack shot" not a rifle was brought in requisition. Several boys mounted the tree as far as they "darst" and shook the limbs near where the coon complacently watched their futile attempts to dislodge him, others "fired rocks" at him, but the law of gravitation was too much for them and when "The shades of night were falling fast" and darkness crept o'er the scene the coon was still being gently swayed "on the tree top" by the vigorous breezes which preceded the electric storm. Many a boy and, it is said, several sportsmen were up at daybreak this morning, hoping to find the coon napping and tree him, but in the "silent watches of the night" he had metaphorically

"Folded his tents like the Arabs
And silently stole away."

Peculiar to Itself.

So eminently successful has Hood's Sarsaparilla been that many leading citizens from all over the United States furnish testimonials of cures which seem almost miraculous. Hood's Sarsaparilla is not an accident, but the ripe fruit of industry and study. It possesses merits "peculiar to itself."

Saturday Night's Rain.

The thunder shower on Saturday night has done an immense amount of good, in fact it is impossible to estimate the benefit it has been to the farmers of this locality. Vegetation has nearly doubled since yesterday morning, while the leaves and blossoms on shade and fruit trees are now well on towards full size. Another refreshing shower fell last night.

Rushed.

My, what a crowd wanting Oak Hall suits on Saturday last. Sometimes we wonder where all the suits we sell go to. The store was crowded with customers from morning until night and all went away happy, with good reliable clothing. The people come to us in crowds and the only attraction is good goods at low prices. We do not need an Italian orchestra and Museum freaks.

Keeping Everlastingly at it.

The Industrial Committee, of which Mr. W. N. Ponton is chairman, backed by Mr. H. Corby, M.P., deserve credit for the persistency with which they have advocated the early mail, as it is doubtless through their persistent efforts that the Grand Trunk Ry. was induced to again put on the early train.

A HARD DAY'S WORK.

HUNTER AND CROSSLEY CONDUCT FOUR FULL SERVICES.

Mr. Hunter in the Baptist Church—Mr. Crossley in Bleecker St.—At the Tabernacle Sunday School—In the Opera House—Bridge St. Filled to the Doors Last Night.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Baptist church was filled to the doors yesterday morning to hear Mr. Hunter preach. His lessons were the 23 Psalm and Philippians, 4 chap., commencing at 4 verse, on which he made some pungent comments. In speaking of the Psalm read as the first lesson, he said it was one of the most familiar chapters in the bible and was often quoted and read at sick beds. He said some preachers would go into a sick room and read a chapter as long as they could find and then shout and pray and excite the patient, doing more harm than good. When you go into a sick room always be bright and cheerful and try to lift the patient up rather than depress him or her. He took his text from Genesis 7—1. This whole chapter, he said, contained a wonderful history. The commission of the text was one of the most awful ever sent from heaven to earth. He imagined he could see Noah when God bade him build the ark, go out and clear the ground, lay the foundation and go to work without a murmur as to the difficulty of the work. We should not be afraid of difficulties. And after one hundred and twenty years of work he completed this monster building and Noah went out once more to warn the people to turn from sin ere it was too late, and they scoffed at him and called him a dreamer. And then he imagined he could see Noah and his family, after God's command in the text, leaving their home and going into the ark and the people crowding around and making jests. And then from the forests and skies came the beasts and birds and insects and reptiles in twos and sevens and when all had been safely housed the people outside were yet skeptical and said, "Why, there is no sign of a storm," but soon the sky was overspread and the waters came from above and below. But the door that shut Noah and his family in the ark shut the people out and they were destroyed in their sins. Sin was the only cause for this. There is nothing that can fill the longings of an immortal soul but Jesus Christ, and he urged those out of Christ to get right at once. He appealed particularly to fathers and mothers to bring in their children while they they were young. How many parents, he asked, would want to be separated from their children on the Judgment day. His words had great effect and many were moved to tears.

BLEECKER ST. CHURCH.

Rev. H. T. Crossley, the evangelist, preached an excellent sermon in Bleecker st. church in the morning, showing the great necessity of an individual consecration to God, and getting on the different lines of work in the church. A reception service was held and the sacrament of the Lord's supper administered. The services all through were inspiring and very profitable.

The pastor preached in the evening. Text, John 15: 7: "If ye abide in Me, and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it will be done unto you."

The Sunday school in the afternoon was large and took up the annual mission work. This week will be devoted by the little ones in gleaning for the missionary fund.

Rev. Mr. Hunter addressed the Sunday school of the Tabernacle in the afternoon, and his words were listened to with great attention by the scholars and teachers. He spoke on the word "watch" and arranged his address something like the following:

Watch your
W—ords
A—ctions
T—emper
C—ompany
H—eart.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

The mass meeting for men in the opera house yesterday was largely attended and the evangelists gave those present some hot shot. Mr. Geo. Thompson, of Toronto, who had been an infidel all his life, and who had been converted at Hunter & Crossley meetings at Toronto seven weeks ago, gave his experience and his story was listened to with rapt attention.

The meeting in Bridge St. Church last evening was the largest during the series and there must have been at least 2,500 people in the building. Mr. Crossley said he would sing a song that would appeal to Episcopalians, it being composed by one of their ablest clergymen. He then sang "Abide with Me" with splendid effect. Mr. Hunter said that between 250 and 300 had already been converted in these meetings. He wanted the people to come out and attend them, but he said leave your prejudices at home. He read his lesson from the 19th chapter of Luke. Speaking of Zaccheus he said it was a dangerous thing to be rich. When you saw a man piling up wealth you generally saw him lose his grip on God. The happiest men are the mechanics who work for their daily wages. Stocks or banks don't bother them. Zaccheus climbed the tree through curiosity, and he supposed a great many came to these meetings under the same impulse. He said he would give them some plain truth. Truth is distasteful to some people but he could not help it. If you expect Jesus Christ to abide with you, you must clean house, clean out the card room and save your sons. Clean out the dance room. It was an awful thing to see girls dancing with young men with whom they were not acquainted and who are sometimes the rakes of society, polluted with sin. Clean out the drink room. He had heard that some women in this city drank. Well, they had as good a right as their husbands. He wondered how some women lived with their old whiskey-soaked husbands. Clean out that quarrel room. There was nothing worse than to hear a husband and wife always spatting and he pitied the children who were brought up by such parents. Then the slander room needed cleaning. "Did you hear the news?" was the phrase with which a good many people would approach you and then they would pour into your ear the latest slander with the injunction not to tell anyone. That smoke room needed cleaning. No gentleman would smoke in the presence of ladies or on the streets.

Mr. Crossley sang "The Model Church," after which he preached a sermon from 1st Psalms 1st verse. There were four characters represented in the text. The first, the ungodly man or the moralist. They say what is the difference between me and a christian. The preacher compared them to Canadian bank bills. They might pass all right at home, but if they went to church they would not pass. Get the pure gold of christian experience. A moralist may get along on earth and be respected, but when he gets to heaven he will find that morality is not the currency there. The moralist's particular shibboleth was "what's the harm in this and that?" while the christian's was "what's the good?" The second character of the text was the man who stands in the way of sinners. The sinner's particular shibboleth is "I'm not so bad," but every one is bad enough at one time. A moralist is a hypocrite, but a sinner is not, because he flameth his sin before the world, but the moralist is ashamed of his sin and hides it. Sinners are much more easy to convert than moralists. Standing in the way of sinners meant living in sin and associating with sinners. Another class who stood in the way of sinners were inconsistent Christians. There were also those christians who were inactive. They stood in the way of sinners. Backsliders stood in the way of sinners; and he urged all those who had once known God and fallen to set themselves right at once. Sinners stand in one another's way. Sinners are not happy in life except when they forget the responsibility of life, and they are always unhappy at death. The third character, he said, was the scorner. The skeptic is the first of this class and also those who jest about religion. Some people speak irreverently of these meetings. "Blessed is he that sitteth not in the seat of the scorner." The scorner sits down while the average sinner is shifting about. The fourth character is the happy, contented man. Where does he get this happiness? In Jesus Christ. His life is running over with religion and he tries to make everybody happy. We should talk of religion and not whine as some christians do. Let our lives shine out that they may be a light to others. The christian will be happy forever. Heaven is prepared for you and you must prepare your lives to go there.

Mr. Geo. Thompson, a converted infidel, of Toronto, gave his experience. He said he had been brought up by a christian mother, but had been turned against God by a lecture he heard when a boy. He had worked against the bible and God and had even gone so far as to get up and speak in the public park in Toronto against God. He was converted in the Hunter and Crossley meetings in Toronto seven weeks ago yesterday and they had been the happiest days of his life. He made an earnest appeal to infidels and skeptics to turn from their sins.

A number of requests for prayers were read by Mr. Hunter. A large number stayed to the after meeting and the deepest interest was manifested. A large number went to the inquiry room, and a number stood up for the prayers of God's people.

Rev. Darius Crouter, ex M.P. for East Northumberland, is in the city, having come specially to attend the evangelistic services.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Notes From the Sermons in the Various Pulpits Yesterday.

Rev. Canon Burke preached an excellent sermon in St. Thomas' church yesterday morning and Rev. F. C. Powell officiated in the evening.

The pulpit of the Tabernacle was occupied by the pastor, Rev. D. C. Crossley, at both services yesterday and he preached two strong sermons. An after meeting was held at the close of the evening service and two persons came forward and declared their intention of living better lives, and several others asked the prayers of the congregation.

Rev. J. Simpson Trotter's morning subject in the Reformed Episcopal church was the Ascension, from the text, "What then if ye shall see the son of man ascend up where he was before?" After speaking of the pre-existent state of Christ, he dwelt at large on his ascension, pointing out the time, place, manner and design of this grand event. In the evening he preached from the words, "He that observeth the wind shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap." The leading thought of the sermon was that church workers must not be deterred from obvious duties by the most formidable difficulties. Holy communion was administered at morning service.

Rev. J. L. George, pastor of John street Presbyterian church, occupied the pulpit at both services yesterday. He took as the subject of his discourse in the morning "Who is on the Lord's side?" from Exodus 32—26, from which he preached a splendid sermon. His subject for the evening sermon was from I. Kings 18—21, "How long halt ye between two opinions?" A beautiful anthem entitled, "Who are these arrayed in white robes?" was rendered by the choir in the evening, Miss Annie Graham taking the solo in fine voice.

Rev. Mr. Daw, of Christ church, preached two powerful sermons in Christ church yesterday to large congregations. Miss Rathbun, of Deseronto, sang a solo at the evening service and her singing was greatly enjoyed. She has a splendid voice and uses it with fine effect.

Rev. J. A. McCamus preached at both services in the Holloway st. Methodist church yesterday. His subject in the morning was "Estrangement and Reconciliation" and in the evening "A rule for those who walk in darkness." The congregations were large at both services.

Rev. M. W. Maclean, M.A., Minister of St. Andrew's church, preached yesterday morning from the text Hebrews iv:15, "For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feelings from infirmities; but was in all points tempted as we are, yet without sin." We have an omniscient and omnipotent and omnipresent God and also an all-sympathetic Saviour the divine mediator, who being God took upon himself our humanity and lived a perfect life in the midst of sin and suffering and all human ills. In the evening an inspiring and practical sermon was based upon Proverbs xxiv:30, "I went by the field of the slothful and lo it was all grown over with thorns." We must not merely abstain from doing wrong, but we must learn to do well. Morality will not save a man. To be saved does not merely mean forgiveness for our past sins but power to go on and work in the future and so win our great reward—our harvest home. The choir, under Mrs. York, rendered an anthem at each service. Mr. Maclean left for Toronto to attend the synod to-day.

SPORTING NEWS

Belleville Cricket Club will play Deseronto on June 14th.

The Peterborough Examiner says: "The Belleville lacrosse players are evidently trying some "monkey-business," as in the Intelligencer a few days since it was stated that the senior team would play a home match on the 24th. The reporter of the Intelligencer is the secretary of the lacrosse club and Mr. C. J. Horkins is in receipt of a letter from him stating that the team will be in Campbellford on the Queen's birthday. It is hard to say what the club expect to gain by pursuing such a course of action through the medium of its secretary, but it is safe to say that the Bellevilles will file an appearance and have a try for these silver medals."

Allow us to state first that the secretary of the Belleville Lacrosse Club never wrote a letter to Mr. C. J. Horkins, and if he has such a letter in his possession it is not addressed to him. Secondly, the secretary did not state in any letter that the team would be in Campbellford, but wrote Mr. F. J. Smith, of that town, as to what clubs had entered.

A cricket match was played on Saturday between teams chosen by the Captain and Mr. Stringer. The Captain's team won after a spirited battle with a score of 93. The Captains team is known as the Bankers and were as follows: Dupre, Arnold, Thomas, Wallace, Cutler, Armstrong, Hungerford, Warren, Brown and Marks. Scratch team: Bob Hungerford, C. W. Stringer, Angus Dickson, Harry Smart, Alf Bird, Wallbridge, McFee, Laidlaw. The bowlers were Armstrong, Wallace, Smart, and Bob Hungerford. Each bowler did admirably. Umpires A.A. Roberts, barrister, and Dr. Wallbridge, of Toronto. The batting of Cutler, Thomas and W. E. Brown was beautiful and loudly applauded. As long stop, Arnold proved himself one of the best we have ever seen. Similar will be played every Wednesday matches and Saturday afternoon, weather permitting, for the remainder of the season. Visitors welcome.

The Central and B. B. C. football clubs played a game on the hospital lot on Saturday afternoon, and it ended in a draw, neither team scoring a goal.

The Peterborough Review says: Mr. Ed. Roy, of the Royal Electric Works, Montreal is in town for a few days visiting his father, Mr. R. M. Roy, tie inspector. "Ed" is a bicycling enthusiast of the first water and ranks in the first class of Canadian amateur long distance riders. He has never been beaten in the 12 mile stretch between Trenton and Belleville, though not a few cracks have tried to down him on this his favorite distance. Mr. Roy will carry the message in the relay ride from Lachine to Montreal, a distance of nine miles, and the last stage on the route.

F. Claus and Officer Morton pitched two games of quoits in the Commercial house yard on Saturday, one of 61 points and one of 30. Claus won both games.

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. Wyatt, 89 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

It was long ere I could close an eye, and heaven knows I had matter enough for thought in the man whom I had slain that afternoon, in my own most perilous position, and above all, in the remarkable game that I saw Silver now engaged upon—keeping the mutineers together with one hand, and grasping with the other, after every means, possible and impossible, to make his peace and save his miserable life. He himself slept peacefully, and snored aloud; yet my heart was sore for him, wicked as he was, to think of the dark perils that environed and the shameful gibbet that awaited him.

CHAPTER XXX.

ON PAROLE.

I was wakened—indeed, we were all wakened, for I could see even the sentinel shake together from where he had fallen against the door-post by a clear, hearty voice hailing us from the margin of the wood:

'Block-house, ahoy!' it cried. 'Here's the doctor.'

And the doctor it was. Although I was glad to hear the sound, yet my gladness was not without admixture. I remembered with confusion my insubordinate and stealthy conduct; and when I saw where it had brought me—among what companions and surrounded by what danger—I felt ashamed to look him in the face.

He must have risen in the dark, for the day had hardly come; and when I ran to a loop-hole and looked out, I saw him standing, like Silver once before, up to the mid-leg in creeping vapor.

'You, doctor! Top o' the morning to you, sir!' cried Silver, broad awake and beaming with good nature in a moment. 'Bright and early, to be sure; it's the early bird, as the saying goes, that gets the rations. George, shake up your timber, son, and help Doctor Livesey over the ship's side. All a-doin' well, your patients was—all well and merry.'

So he pattered on, standing on the hill-top, with his crutch under his elbow, and one hand upon the side of the log house—quite the old John in voice, manner, and expression.

'We've quite a surprise for you, too, sir,' he continued. 'We've a little stranger here—he! he! A noo boarder and lodger, sir, and looking fit and taut as a fiddler; slep' like a supercargo, he did, right alongside of John—stem to stem we was, all night.'

Dr. Livesey was by this time across the stockade and pretty near the cook; and I could hear the alteration in his voice as he said:

'Not Jim?'

'The very same Jim as ever was,' says Silver.

The doctor stopped outright, although he did not speak, and it was some seconds before he seemed able to move on.

'Well, well,' he said at last, 'duty first and pleasure afterward, as you might have said yourself, Silver. Let us overhaul these patients of yours.'

A moment afterward he had entered the block-house, and, with one grim nod to me proceeded with his work among the sick. He seemed to me under no apprehension, though he must have known that his life, among these treacherous demons, depended on a hair; and he rattled on to his patients as if he were paying an ordinary professional visit in a quiet English family. His manner, I suppose, reacted on the men; for they behaved to him as though nothing had occurred—as if he were ship's doctor and they still faithful hands before the mast.

'You're doing well, my friend,' he said to the fellow with the bandaged head, 'and if ever a person had a close shave it was you; your head must be as hard as iron. Well, George, how goes it? You're a pretty color, certainly: why, your liver, man, is upside down. Did you take that medicine? Did he take that medicine men?'

'Ay, ay, sir, he took it sure enough,' returned Morgan.

'Because, you see, since I am mutineers' doctor, or prison doctor, as I prefer to call it,' says Dr. Livesey, in his pleasantest way, 'I make a point of honor not to lose a man for King George (God bless him!) and the gallows.'

The rogues looked at each other, but swallowed the home thrust in silence.

'Dick don't feel well, sir,' said one.

'Don't he?' replied the doctor. Well, step up here, Dick, and let me see your tongue. No, I should be surprised if he did; the man's tongue is fit to frighten the French. Another fever.'

'Ah there,' said Morgan, 'that comed of sp'iling his Bible.'

'That comed—as you called it—of being arrant asses,' retorted the doctor, 'and not having sense enough to know honest air from poison, and the dry land from a vile, pestiferous slough. I think it most probable—though, of course, it's only an opinion—that you'll all have the deuce to pay before you get that malaria out of your systems. Camp in a bog, would you? Silver, I m surprised at you. You're less a fool than many, take you all round; but you don't appear to me to have the rudiments of a notion of the rules of health. Well,' he added, after he had dosed them round, and they had taken his prescriptions, with really laughable humility, more like charity schoolchildren than blood-guilty mutineers and pirates—'well, that's done for to-day. And now I should wish to have a talk with that boy, please.'

And he nodded his head in my direction carelessly.

George Merry was at the door, spitting and spluttering over some bad tasted medicine; but at the first word of the doctor's proposal he swung round with a deep flush and cried, 'No,' and swore.

Silver struck the barrel with his open hand.

'Si-lence!' he roared and looked about him positively like a lion. 'Doctor,' he went on, in his usual tones, 'I was a thinking of that, knowing as how you had a fancy for the boy. We're all humbly grateful for your kindness, and, as you see, puts faith in you, and takes the drugs down like that much grog. And I take it I've found a way as'll suit all. Hawkins, will you give me your word of honor of a young gentleman—for a young gentleman you are, although poor born—your word of honor not to slip your cable?'

I redily gave the pledge required.

'Then, doctor,' said Silver, 'you just step outside of that stockade, and once you're there, I'll bring the boy down on the inside, and I reckon you can yarn through the spars. Good day to you, sir, and all our dooties to the Squire and Cap'n Smollet.'

The explosion of disapproval, which nothing but Silver's black looks had restrained, broke out immediately the doctor had left the house. Silver was roundly accused of playing double—of trying to make a separate place for himself—of sacrificing the interests of his accomplices and victims; and in one word, of the identical exact thing that it was done. It seemed to me so obvious, in this case, that I cou'd not imagine how he was to turn their anger. But he was twice the man the rest were; and his last night's victory had given him a huge preponderance on their minds. He called them all the fools and dolts you can imagine, said it was necessary I should take the doctor, fluttered the chart in their faces, asked them if they could afford to break the treaty the very day they were bound a-treasure hunting.

LONDON'S POLITICAL TALK.

The Registration Bill—Mr. Gladstone on the Decline.

LONDON, May 7.—At a recent meeting at which Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Goschen and other Conservative leaders discussed the line of tactics to be followed by the Opposition, it was decided not to oppose the second reading of the registration bill, but rather to watch the bill closely, in its subsequent stages.

Those who feared that his retirement from public life would bring upon Mr. Gladstone just those evils which he designed to avoid, are beginning to find their judgment justified. The Grand Old Man has aged many years in the past three months. The picture he made at the Dr. Andrew Clark memorial meeting on Thursday was a pitiful one. He was a feeble, bent octogenarian, who leaned upon a stout stick even when addressing the audience from his chair. His words were brave, polished, well-chosen and appropriate. Not a shadow has yet crossed his shining intellect, but both flesh and spirit are breaking. He is not ill. No specific malady is undermining his marvellous vitality, but a great change, which his grieving friends cannot fail to recognize, is making rapid progress. He has lost interest in life. That is ominous. For sixty years he found rest in other forms of activity, and peace in new struggles. Work has been his only recreation. Fresh responsibilites never failed to renew his vigor. His friends are beginning to understand now what Sir Andrew Clark saw clearly, that for such a man to fold his hands meant despair and death. Every effort will be made now to provide the warrior-statesman with tasks and ambitions sufficiently important to keep alive that energy which craves and feeds upon what in most men would destroy it. If his enthusiasm can be revived he may remain many days a figure of what the nation will be most proud. If not, then nothing can long delay the end. The most remarkable effect of Mr. Gladstone's retirement has been clearly emphasized in connection with his first public appearance on Thursday. His enemies have already become his friends. He has completely ceased to be a partisan figure in English politics. The Daily News said truly yesterday: "In a few short weeks he has outlived hatred, malice and all uncharitableness. His fame stands as high to-day as if it had been purified by a half century of the tomb. Most great men have to wait for such a vindication for the passing away of an entire generation. Their appeal is to posterity. In Mr. Gladstone's case the scales have fallen from the eyes of his opponents almost at the very moment of his withdrawal from the position which made him the most commanding figure in the world."

The Court Circular credits the Queen with enjoying excellent health at Windsor, but reliable information obtained through other channels say otherwise. Though her Majesty is suffering from no distinct malady, she is far from well, and it is to be doubted that she will be able to be present at the opening of the Manchester canal. The Paris story that she is going to St. Petersburg to attend the marriage of the Czarwitch to the Princess Alice of Hesse is regarded as an absurdity. It is settled, however, that the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Coburg and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught will go. A story has been in circulation in court circles that Princess Alice, the future bride of the Czarwitch, was the first love of the late Duke of Clarence, who proposed to her and was rejected on the ground that she did not love him.

Leading financial journals admit that bi-metallism is progressing in London and gaining a strong hold in the provinces, this week's conference having stimulated the cause amazingly. The Statist, in an article on the subject, states that the conclusion that the return of the Conservatives to power will result in another international bi-metallic conference. As a reason for its belief the paper states that Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chaplin are militant bi-metallistic while Mr. Goschen would not oppose an attempt to arrive an international agreement.

It is reported that Lord Rosebery's visit to Birmingham on May 23 will begin a new movement of the Liberal party. A Midland Liberal Federation will be formed it is understood, under the special supervision of Sir William Harcourt, Earl Spencer and Henry Fowler. The aim of the new federation will be to fight Joseph Chamberlain in the Midlands, the centre of the Liberal Unionist power.

The Daily Telegraph announces, upon the authority of Sir William Harcourt himself, that the rumor that Sir William is about to resign is entirely unfounded and that he has not the least intention of abandoning his seat.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing those troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

The trichinæ found in infected pork are sometimes so numerous that 80,000 have been found to the cubic inch.

GENTLEMEN.—Two years ago my husband suffered from severe indigestion, but was completely cured by two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. I can truly recommend it to all sufferers from this disease.

It doesn't take more than three months to take away the triumphant air a young married woman wears in the presence of unmarried ones.

Jas. Shannon, Leaskdale, writes:—'For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition, It is also the best remedy to burns and bruises I ever used.'

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

PROHIBITORY RESOLUTION

Discussion of the Subject Commences in the House of Commons.

SIR OLIVER SHOULD HAVE ACTED

The Government Should Not Have Been Expected to Deliberate Upon the Question Until the Report of the Commission Had Been Received — Statutory Holiday on Labor Day.

OTTAWA, May 8 —Sir John Thompson introduced his bill yesterday providing that the first Monday in September of each year shall be designated Labor Day, and be observed as a statutory holiday. The bill was read a first time.

Several private bills were read a third time.

Weight of Cheese.

Hon. Mr. Daly, answering a question by Mr. Taylor, said that it was the intention of the Government to have some person appointed at Montreal to act as referee in case of dispute arising between buyers and sellers as to the weight of cheese having been sold either at the factory or elsewhere, subject to weight at Montreal.

Duties of Return Men.

Mr. Martin moved for an order of the House showing the names of all persons appointed to act as what are known as return men in connection with immigration work, the period during which each worked, the amount of money paid to each, the names of the settlers brought to Canada by each return man, and the places in which such settlers were located.

He said that he believed that farmers sent to England as return men did no good, and, as far as he knew, had never brought back a single settler. They went home for a holiday at the Government's expense.

Hon. Mr. Daly said that under present arrangements no return man could go home for a holiday. They were carefully selected and were doing good work. He had no objection to the granting of the return, which would be brought down as soon as possible.

Settlers From the States.

Mr. Martin moved for an order of the House showing the number of settlers brought into the Yorkton and Saltcoats district from Dakota, and into the Calgary district from Chicago, and showing in each case the nationality of such settlers, the cost of obtaining them, and the number that still remain and the occupation those remaining are engaged in.

Hon. Mr. Daly said that he would be pleased to furnish information with reference to all persons who had taken up homesteads. If Mr. Martin had looked at page 7 of the report of the interior he would have found the information desired. He would have found that the cost to the Government had been exceedingly small. Most of these settlers had been heavily mortgaged in Dakota, and had not the necessary means to get into Canada. Money was advanced to them by the Canada Settlers Company, who considered they were taking good risks having thoroughly acquainted themselves with the people, the land and the details.

Mr. Martin said that he was well-informed as to the facts. He said that he would read a letter from one of the settlers who might be expected to know his own affairs better than the official who furnished the Government report. The letter contained a clause stating that the settlers could not pay either interest or principal on their mortgages.

Hon. Mr. Daly said that the letter proved nothing but that these settlers would like the Government to pay the mortgages upon which money had been advanced to them, that they might get out of the misery and distress in which they found themselves in the United States.

Mr. Mara asked that the return should also be made to include a statement including the States of Washington, Idaho and Oregon. He had spoken to many settlers from those districts and all had told him that they had done splendidly.

Mr. Martin said that he had no objection to the addition, and while he was on his feet he would say that he was free to admit that the settlers who had taken up land in the Calgary district had done well.

The motion passed.

Inspection of Imported Teas.

Mr. Stairs moved: "That in view of the increased importations of adulterated teas into Canada, owing to their importation into England and the United States being prohibited, the provisions of the Act respecting the adulteration of food, drugs, etc., are insufficient, and it is consequently necessary to provide for the immediate inspection of all teas proposed to be entered for consumption in Canada, and the destruction or exportation of all found to be adulterated."

Hon. Mr. Wallace said that the Government had been giving a great deal of attention to this matter, and he had kept a sharp lookout so as to prevent the importation of adulterated or deleterious teas. At Montreal and other large ports, grocery appraisers had been appointed who were expert judges of tea, and they were instructed to carefully examine all importations.

The motion carried.

That Prohibition Resolution.

Mr. Flint moved: "That it is expedient that as speedily as possible this Parliament should enact a law to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in Canada except for medicinal, manufacturing and sacramental purposes."

Mr. Flint spoke until recess in support of the resolution.

After recess, Mr. Broome, in seconding the motion, said the time had come when the Government should take the matter of revenue into consideration, so that should the courts decide that the prohibitory power lies with the Dominion Government they would be ready to pass the law. He quoted the words of Sir Leonard Tilley, who, when Finance Minister, spoke in favor of prohibition, and concurred in Sir Leonard's view. One factor would be the lessening of expense in the maintenance of prisons in the country, which were filled from crimes committed owing to the abuse of liquor. Three-fourths of the people committed to the common jails of the country were there through drunkenness.

Mr. Craig supported the resolution. It was only fair that there should be some compensation to those interested in the liquor business. He did not think the temperance people could have any fear because of the passage of the French treaty, as that treaty could be terminated on twelve months' notice.

Dr. Christie and Mr. Emerson Coatsworth spoke in favor of prohibition, the latter holding that the resolution might be stronger. He thought Sir Oliver Mowat ought to have told the temperance delegation in Toronto that he would deal with them. They could not expect the Dominion Government to deal with this question until the Prohibition Commission had reported. It would be folly to do so.

Mr. Dupont in French opposed the resolution.

Mr. Maclean (East York) said the House should pay more attention to practical matters, such as the adulteration of food and sanitary reforms, and less to the liquor traffic. Bad food and bad sanitary arrangements were responsible for more misery than strong drink. People were drinking less to-day than of old. The day had come when people had no use for whiskey heads. Moral reform, in the way of temperance, in Canada, must come from force of example and moral suasion, and not from legislation. Saloon drinking ought to be abolished, and he would support it any day, but a prohibitory law would only be laughed at.

Sir Adolphe Caron moved the adjournment of the debate, as other members wished to speak on this important question.

Capital Gossip.

OTTAWA, May 8.—A report has been circulated among some politicians that the elections for the Dominion are to be held in the fall. What authority there may be for the rumor does not appear. The fact that the Government has awarded the contract for a supply of ballot boxes to J. P. Rose & Co., of Montreal, with instructions to have them ready within 90 days, gives some color to the rumor, and is given as an indication that it is the intention of the Government to go to the country shortly after that time.

Sir Leonard Tilley is in the city, and there are any number of rumors that his visit concerns the lieutenant-governorship of his province.

Hon. Mr. Foster has given notice that the items of wood and pulp, placed on the free list in the recent revision, will be taken off and the old tariff of 25 per cent. ad valorem placed on it.

A meeting of the Agriculture and Colonization Committee was held to-day when Professor Robertson appeared before the committee and gave some valuable statistics in the dairy interests of the Dominion. Mr. Robertson intends leaving during the week for Manitoba, the Northwest and British Columbia to establish dairy stations and give lectures on dairying.

Mr. Chesley, M.P., of St. John, is arranging another meeting between the New Brunswick members and the Government to further protest against the granting of the Atlantic fast line subsidy for the service between Halifax and British ports. The impression prevails in quarters interested that the resolution providing the $750,000 annual subsidy will not be passed this session.

PRAISED THE ZOUAVES.

General Herbert's Remarks Cause a Stir in Militia Ranks.

MONTREAL, May 8.—There is a good deal of comment expressed in local volunteer circles over certain remarks made by General Herbert on the occasion of the presentation of the Sir Donald Smith cups.

General Herbert, in addition to his formal speech, made some remarks in French to the 65th Battalion, in the course of which he took occasion to praise the pontificial zouaves. He reminded his hearers not to forget that they belonged to the same race as these brave countrymen who belonged to the regiment of the pontifical zouaves, the Canadians of the 19th century, which rendered itself illustrious in defending the church.

The general's remarks are evoking considerable criticism, many expressing the opinion that a British officer had no right, speaking in a public capacity, to express approval of the zouaves' course.

Narrow Escape of a Fishing Party.

RIDGETOWN, Ont., May 8.—Mr. William Perkins, of Elliott & Westland's bank, and Mr. Samuels, of the Molsons bank, had a close call for their lives on Saturday. They, in company with a number of others, went on a fishing excursion to the Eau. Messrs. Perkins and Samuels took a small duck boat and went out into the channel opposite the boat house. A strong sea was running, but by some means or other the boat sunk almost at once. They were encumbered with heavy clothing, and being thus handicapped could do very little to help themselves. They shouted lustily for help, but their comrades were inside the boat house with the doors closed and could not hear them. By the greatest of good luck, Mr. Wm. Weldon, who was half a mile distant, happened to see them and at once put off to their assistance, reaching them after fifteen minutes hard rowing. Their escape was a narrow one as they were thoroughly chilled with the icy water. Three or four minutes longer would have finished them.

Burned the Negro Alive.

LITTLE ROCK, May 8.—Reliable information reaches here of the burning of a negro in Ouachita county, supposed to have smallpox. The telegram conveying the intelligence says: A negro at Miles Switch, in Ouachita county, was taken sick with some kind of a breaking out, which was thought to be smallpox, and a doctor was summoned. For some reason he did not attend. The negro was put in a cabin, to which some one set fire, and, being unable to escape, he perished in the flames. One report says he was shot and then burned, while another report says he was burned alive. One thing is certain, and that is that the house occupied by the negro was burned to the ground and he cannot now be found. The identity of the guilty parties is not known.

To Honor the Maid of Orleans.

ORLEANS, France, May 8.—A large number of American and English visitors have arrived here in order to take part in the Joan of Arc celebrations. Many wreaths were placed upon the statute erected in honor of the Maid of Orleans. To-day is the anniversary of the day upon which Joan of Arc succeeded, in 1429, in raising the siege of Orleans. The city had been besieged by the English under the Earls of Salisbury and Suffolk, since October 12, 1428.

To Aid "General" Kelly.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 8.—At a meeting of labor leaders, Grand Master Workman Sovereign being present, it was decided to issue an appeal to the Knights of Labor of America and Canada, asking that each individual member contribute one dollar to Kelly, leader of the Industrial Army, now located here.

Ship-Wrecked Crew Rescued.

MONCTON, N.B., May 8.—The Norwegian bark Liberta arrived at Port Duchene yesterday, having on board Captain Davies and twenty of the crew of the British steamer Valetta. This steamer, laden with coal for St. Lawrence ports, was four days in ice, and on April 18 collided with a monster iceberg. Her side was stove in and she sank rapidly, barely giving the crew time to launch boats. For thirty-eight hours they were in boats, when the bark Liberta sighted them and brought them to land. The crew were badly frost-bitten, as they saved only the clothes they wore at the time of the collision.

SHARON POISONING CASE

The Court Sits Till Midnight Hearing Evidence for the Defence.

MRS. EVANS IN THE WITNESS BOX

She Denies the Truth of Her Alleged Intimacy With the Prisoner Pegg—Walter Evans Testifies—Dr. Cameron, of Toronto, Gives Valuable Medical Testimony.

TORONTO, May 8.—At the trial of the Sharon trio yesterday Walter Evans, the alleged intended victim of the prisoners, took the stand. His evidence mainly established the fact that he was a hard drinker. The most important part of his evidence was the contradiction of Maggie Reid's statement that she was present at the house on the day after Christmas. This Evans denied. He could not remember who brought in the oysters after he came home from hunting. His wife dished them out in two plates. "I ate some of the oysters," said the witness, "and then I asked my wife to eat some of mine. She tasted one and then spat it out. Then she told me not to eat mine and took them all away." He had eaten some of the oysters at noon and they had their effect on him while shooting. The oysters were of a pinkish color. He described his sickness on January 2 and said he had prepared his own oysters and used a different kind of vinegar from that used by his wife. Evans' evidence all through did not benefit the case for the defence.

Dr. Cameron, of Toronto, said that he had read Dr. Howe's evidence. He concluded from the symptoms shown by Evans there was no conclusive evidence of poisoning.

He could not say the symptoms were undeniably caused by strychnine. If a paroxysm from strychnine would last for an hour the patient would become asphyxiated. Evans' description of his attack on Friday and Saturday does not correspond with strychnine poisoning. They would be very consistent with hysteria, pure or alcoholic. The symptoms are all attributable to this cause.

In strychnine poisoning there would be no rigid muscles, it would be a complete collapse.

Oysters would become pink after decomposition, he thought, but he could not see how strychnine would have this effect. The taste of strychnine could not be hidden; it is unmistakably bitter, and causes a burning sensation in the throat.

On cross-examination he said he was more of an authority on surgery than on the points on which he had just been speaking. He would not say that the fact that Evans always recovered the next day after one of his attacks proved that it was hysteria. Fear is not associated with the symptoms of strychnine poisoning.

At the evening session of the court, Mrs. Evans, the accused woman, took the stand. She denied having acknowledged to Maggie Reed that she had been locked up in a room with Pegg, and also denied ever having been so locked up. Witness said her husband was in the habit of drinking a good deal. Her first introduction to Pegg was on one occasion when he and one John Morris came into the hotel for a drink. They had not a license then and she refused to give them a drink. Morris then introduced Pegg as being "all right" and would not sell. She denied having sent Osman to Bradford for oysters, or having sent him or anyone else there on any message She then proceeded to relate her story of the oysters. She had noticed they were pink and had herself been taken with cramps after eating some of them. In regard to the powders left by the doctor, she said the reason why she instructed Maggie Reid particularly to give a certain powder was because the other powder was not to be given unless her husband was again attacked with spasms. The powder she told Maggie Reid to give was the right one. She denied having given Maggie Reid the watch, and said she had not known where it was until she was arrested and she saw it in court. She gave the girl a ring as a Christmas box. She had intended leaving her husband, but did not know anything about the trunk in the haymow. She admitted writing two letters to Pegg, but denied ever being on intimate terms with him or considering him as a lover. He came to her house on one occasion on her invitation. She talked to him in the bar-room. He told her he believed in her innocence and would see her through.

After Mrs. Evans had concluded her lengthy evidence, Charles Pegg, one of the prisoners, was called. His story coincided with that told by Mrs. Evans in the main particulars.

It was midnight when the court adjourned.

CONSTABLE LINDSAY'S MURDER.

Truski, Who Attempted Suicide, Making a Rapid Recovery.

WINDSOR, May 8.—Joseph Truski, the murderer of Constable Lindsay at Comber, has so far recovered from the effects of the bullet he fired into his own breast when surrounded by the officers in the woods that he smoked several cigars and expressed himself as feeling pretty good. His rapid recovery brings with it extra care for the officers who are guarding him. From some peculiar actions by his wife and a conversation overheard between her and her husband, Constable Laport became suspicious that an attempt might be made to escape. Yesterday Crown Attorney Clarke received a telephone message from Laport and had Detective McKee go out to look over the ground. When he arrived he had the guard doubled and expects that Truski will soon be in a condition to be removed to Sandwich jail. The inquest on the shooting of Lindsay will be resumed to-day and Truski will be present.

Denounced the P. P. A.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 8.—Rev. W. W. Weeks, formerly of Brockville, Ont., now pastor of the First Baptist Church here, created a sensation in his sermon on Sunday by strongly denouncing the Protestant Protective Association. He hoped if ever it spread to this province no Protestant would identify himself with it; that an organization that would not support a man for office because he was a Catholic should not be recognized by Protestants who believed in extending to others the same privileges enjoyed by themselves. Such an organization as the P. P. A., he said, grew out of ignorance and misapprehension of the Bible.

The Seven Exploring Tourists Released Alive From the Cave.

GRATZ, May 8.—A diver yesterday succeeded in reaching the party of tourists who have been imprisoned in the stalactite cave at Souraich since Saturday, April 27th, owing to the sudden rise in the water which blockaded the passage into the cave with timber and boulders. The diver found all seven of the tourists alive. It was at first believed eight persons were imprisoned.

The cave explorers presented a ghastly spectacle as they were brought into the daylight, so weak from exhaustion that they were barely alive. The church bells of the village of the Luglock ran out joyous peals and the diver to whose efforts the rescue was due was carried on the shoulders of the villagers. Mrs. Fashings, one of the party, gave premature birth to a child while in the cave. Mrs. Sewer was driven mad from despair and fright.

Six of the seven persons who were at the cave have so far recovered that they are able to walk. They had a small supply of bread and cheese when they were found and they also had a few candles left. The prisoners heard the attempts to rescue them, but the slow progress the rescuers were making had made it seem certain they would die before they could be reached, and their anxiety and terror were intense. They were cheered by the noise of the explosion of the dynamite blasts, but the shocks were so violent that they were in constant fear of being killed by falling rocks.

VIENNA, May 8.—The rescue of the Lugloch tourists has thrown Gratz into a ferment of excitement. Residents unacquainted embraced one another and wept in the streets. There was hardly less excitement in Vienna. Everybody was asking for or giving information of the rescue. The Emperor immediately telegraphed congratulations to the rescued and rescuers. Among the latter are Engineer Fischer and Captain Steindi, one of the long distance riders in the race between Vienna and Berlin. Fischer was severely benumbed by his immersion. A box of provisions floated into the cave and reached the imprisoned tourists on May 2. They ate some candles also. All are likely to speedily recover.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, May 8, 1894.

The amount of wheat on passage to Europe is 44,952,000 bushels, an increase of 2,160,000 during the week. A year ago the amount afloat was 40,800,000 bushels.

At the London wool sales 6,900 bales were offered. The competition was more quiet, except for better grades of greasies. New South Wales greasies were in steady demand by continental purchasers.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain are restricted. Oats unchanged, with sales at 39 to 41c. Wheat unchanged, white quoted at 62c; red at 61c and goose at 58c. Peas are nominal at 64 to 64½c and barley at 42c.

On Wall street stocks were feverish, with good demand to cover shorts in Sugar. Cammack returned a large amount of Sugar previously borrowed. The short interest in the stock among traders is unwieldly.

It was not until within the last fifteen minutes of the session that the full extent of Chicago's weakness in wheat was felt. The close showed a loss of 1⅝ to 1¼c for the day. Corn followed wheat closing with a net loss of ⅜ to ½c. Oats closed with a loss of ¼ to ⅜c.

New York opened with dull markets at the stock exchange; sugar figured for over 50,000 shares. The bears made several attempts to depress the railroad list, but prices rallied quickly after each attack, and it was not until just previous to the close that they met with the slightest degree of success. The market closed tame and barely steady.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY MAY 8.

REDUCED IMMIGRATION.

In the five winter months of 1890 91, the immigrants into the U. States numbered 105,441; in the same period of 1892-93, they were 119,576; this season they were only 51,645. The Milwaukee Sentinel says regarding this: "It is plain that foreigners have no faith in the proposed policy of free trade bringing better conditions to this country, for if they had such faith, and their present conditions are as bad as some of our people are claiming, the foreign immigration would increase, and the people of the old world would be hastening away from the ills that now torment them to find homes in America, and be ready to reap the first fruits in the harvest of 'tariff reform' conditions. It is not a cheerful outlook when the people of Europe prefer remaining in those countries to finding homes in America; but there is no other explanation for the falling off of one half in the immigration of this country." All of which is respectfully submitted to those who blame the falling off in Canadian immigration to the policy of protection being retained.

COAL OIL.

The Dominion Government have once more demonstrated their anxiety to lighten the burdens upon the people as much as possible, while maintaining the industries of the country. Last year they dealt with the subject of coal oil, removing the costly inspection, and allowing oil to come in in tank cars. These changes had the effect of reducing the price of oil a couple of cents a gallon. But there was this further effect: the oil people at Petrolia learned that it was necessary for them to carefully guard the interests of consumers by way of establishing agencies in various parts of the country to prevent the retail men keeping up prices. The retail merchant was largely to blame in selling Canadian oil, which he had bought for 7, 8, and 9 cents, at 25 cents. The oil people went to work with a will, and in consequence the price of oil, retail, in the various towns and villages fell almost half.

The Government, this year, by action on the 1st of May, have still further reduced the duty, making it at present only 6 cents per imperial gallon, instead of 7 and one-fifth. We congratulate the Government upon this action. It shows their desire to deal honestly and squarely with the people who consume the necessaries of life.

It is instructive to compare the Grit record upon coal oil with that of the Conservative party. Up to 1877 their tax on coal oil was 15 cents per gallon—after that they charged 7 and one-fifth cents per gallon—only reducing it from the former rate when they were compelled to do so by the attack led by Mr. Colby, afterwards the Honorable C. C. Colby, of Stanstead.

A Winnipeg mother, in a letter to the manufacturers of Lactated Food, says: "When my baby was three months old, I found that I was unable to nurse it properly, and was obliged to use some form of prepared food. I bought a certain food that I had heard of, but found after a few days trial, that it did not agree with my baby. I gave up the use of this food, and went to another store, where your Lactated Food was strongly recommended. I purchased a small tin in order to try it. To my joy, baby relished it, and slept better than formerly. Now I buy Lactated Food in the large size, and must say it is a diet for babies; my child is always bright and happy, and is getting fat and plump. Your Lactated Food is the best in the world, and I strongly recommend it to all mothers."

The effect of population on price of land is shown in the United States census. In districts where the agricultural population is 18 per cent. land is worth $38 per acre; where it is 42 per cent, land is worth $30 55 per acre; where it is 58 per cent, land is worth $13.53 per acre,—and where 77 per cent, land drops to $5.18.

Consul Morse, in his report dated Glasgow, Scotland, Feb. 23, speaks of potatoes as follows: "Potatoes are still a drug on the market, and many are being fed to stock; they are bringing only from 28s to 40s a ton (18 to 20 cents per bushel), 30s (19½ cents) being about the average."

The Northwestern Cordage Company, of St. Paul, are contemplating the establishment of a branch factory in Winnipeg, Man. More competition in binder twine, evidently.

Farms in P. E. Island are to be taxed from one to six cents per acre, according to value. This will make 12,000 farmers contribute an average of $2 50 each per year.

One thousand unemployed workingmen from Irontown, Mich., asked the board of supervisors of their county for work in improving the public highways.

Twenty-two counties in Western Kansas had, in 1888, 102,639 population, and today the same counties have only 54,669.

Trinity Baptist church at Brooklyn, N.Y., offered vaccination at half rates as an attraction at its church fair. This is believed to be the very latest.

Raw Furs.

The fur market is exceedingly quiet, and unsettled. Dealers are cautious in purchasing, owing to the weak tone of foreign markets, and prices range widely. We quote nominally as follows: Beaver, per lb., $2.50 to $3; bear, large, per skin, $8 to $12; do cub, per skin, $2 to $3; fisher, per skin, $2 50 to $4; fox, red, per skin, 75c to $1.25; do cross, per skin, $1 to $1.50; wolf, small to large, per skin, 50c to $1.25; lynx, per skin, $1 to $2; marten, per skin, 75c to $1 25; mink, 75c to $1.25; otter, per skin, $6 to $10; raccoon, per skin, 50c to 75c; skunk, 50c to 75c; muskrat, 5c to 10c.—Montreal Star.

DUTY ON CANADA'S BARLEY

The Item of Equal Interest to Eastern and Western States.

NEW YORKERS WANT A SLIGHT DUTY

Eastern Brewers Draw Their Supplies From Canada's Crops, and With a Nominal Duty Could Control the Brewery Business of the Country — Westerners Want Canadian Barley Excluded.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Representative Lockwood, Tracey and other New York members are watching closely the barley item of the tariff bill, and are relying mainly on Senator Murphy's familiarity with the brewing business to secure an arrangement of the barley schedule satisfactory to New York. Several conferences have been had with the senator, during which the barley tariff has been discussed.

The New York brewers draw their supplies of barley from the great crops of Canada, and with a nominal duty the eastern men have a prospect of commanding the brewery business of the country, but the western interests, particularly those centred at Milwaukee, St. Louis and Cincinnati, draw their supplies mainly from American farmers and can get along without the low duty barleys of Canada. With the Canadian crop kept out by a high duty, the westerners have a prospect of commanding the market. The western men were well satisfied with the high rate of 40 per cent. fixed in the senate bill, but now the eastern men are at work to bring the rate down, and they feel that they will succeed.

SCATTERED THE WAFER.

An Ex-Priest Causes a Sensation in a Hamilton Church.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 8.—There was a big sensation during children's mass at St. Mary's Cathedral on Sunday. Rev. Mgr. McEvay extended the invitation to all who wished to partake of communion to come to the front. Among others who went up was James Corkery, who claims to be an ex-priest and has been lecturing in Hamilton for some time past on the false doctrines of the Roman Catholic faith. When Corkery was handed the consecrated wafer by Father McEvay he struck the priest's arm so vigorously that the contents of his hand was strewn about the floor. Corkery at the same time repeated these words: "I protest; shame upon you! This is no more the body of Christ than it is the man in the moon."

The communicants and other worshippers in the church were so astounded at Corkery's act that they did not recover from the shock of surprise until two or three of the ushers, acting on Mgr. McEvay's instruction, had conducted Corkery from the church.

A warrant was sworn out against Corkery and he was arrested. He will be prosecuted for offering violence to a clergyman while in the discharge of his duties, and is liable to imprisonment for two years if found guilty.

Valuable Steamer Burned.

OTTAWA, May 8.—The Upper Ottawa Improvement Company's steamer Dauntless, one of the finest boats on the upper lakes, was burned to the water's edge on Saturday. The fire originated in the boat through some accident, and, despite the efforts of the crew, gained great headway in a short time. The boat was turned for the shore and the crew narrowly escaped being burned. The steamer was the largest owned by the Upper Ottawa Improvement Company and was used for towing logs and rafts of timber from one rapids to the next one below. She had only commenced the season's work a short time ago. The steamer cost $25,000.

A Waterdown Man's Death.

HAMILTON, May 8.—Henry McCready, aged about 64 years, while driving to his home near Waterdown on Saturday night during the storm, got off the road with his horse and wagon, and while trying to get on the right road again was thrown from his wagon and rendered unconscious. His horse continued on its way. When some young men saw it making its way to McCready's house alone they stopped it and made search for McCready. In the meantime Mr. William Wilson drove along the road in his rig and, owing to the darkness, failed to see McCready's body on the road and was made aware of his awful predicament by the jolting of his carriage driving over the body. McCready was still alive, and was taken to Dr. Courtenay's by Mr. Wilson, but he was past human aid and died a few hours after the accident. Deceased had been married twice and leaves a widow and eleven children.

A Jealous Roman's Deed.

ROME, May 8.—A young man named Venzi, belonging to one of the Misartis Roman families, called at the house of Signor Liberalis' daughter Glorinda, to whom he was betrothed. As the girl stepped forward to greet him on entering the reception room, Venzi drew a revolver and fired two shots at her, both of which took effect, and she fell dead at his feet. Venzi then put the pistol to his head and sent a bullet into his brain, dying instantly. It is supposed the deed was caused by jealousy.

The Kaiser at a Fire.

BERLIN, May 8.—The little village of Gatow, near Spaddau, was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire department of Spaddau and a number of engines of the Berlin fire brigade were sent to the scene, but were too late to be of any service. The Emperor, at the head of the Spaddau engineers, was early on the ground and worked hard to save the burning buildings.

France and Newfoundland.

LONDON, May 8.—In the House of Commons Mr. Sidney Buxton, Under Colonial Secretary, announced that negotiations with France, in regard to a treaty regulating the fisheries along the shores of Newfoundland, still remained suspended. The inhabitants of Newfoundland, he said, were generally on friendly terms with the French.

Popular Novelists in Scotland.

The Librarian of the Public Library at Edinburgh, Mr. Hew Morison, has been giving statistics showing the number of times the works of different authors had been perused in the Edinburgh Public Library since the date of its opening. The most popular of Scott's novels were "The Bride of Lammermoor," "Guy Mannering," "Redgauntlet," "The Betrothed," "The Pirate," and "Ivanhoe." Of Hardy's works, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" had been in constant demand since its publication. Meredith's works were also extensively patronized in Edinburgh; and the difference between the highest and lowest of his works in popularity was very low indeed. Rider Haggard's also stood high in point of issue. "She" was least in demand, and "King Solomon's Mines" and "Jess" most popular. Robert Louis Stevenson's writings were in perpetual request, and the same might be said, though to a less extent, of William Black and George Macdonald. Of the lady writers "Ouida" and Mrs. Henry Wood took first place, followed by Annie Swan and Miss Yonge.—Westminster Budget.

An international exhibition of book and paper industries is to be opened in Paris in July next. It will comprise the various branches of the manufacture of books and paper, as well as the machinery, implements and material used in printing and illustrating books.

A "Bed Day" for Tired Ones.

It is told of Phœbe Cary, who was a remarkably sunshiny and loving woman, that whenever she used to feel "out of sorts," she would shut herself up in her room for rest until the serenity of soul was restored. She was wise enough to discern the physiological side of amiability and govern herself accordingly. A mother of two restless children acts upon the same principle by insisting upon an occasional "bed day." She has observed that "crossness" with them is invariably the result of too much activity; that nervous force is expended faster than muscular strength is generated, and tries to restore the balance in the manner named.

The children understand that the measure is not a punishment, but enforced solely for sanitary reasons, and are allowed plenty of playthings and quiet games. This mother testifies that the next day her small brood is "bright and chipper as young robins." The experiment for either children or adults is worth trying, especially after the excitement and irregular habits necessarily connected with a holiday season.

Ear Marks of a Musician.

"Musical down to his finger tips," is a common enough expression, but few people realize its true significance, said a musical sharp—who is also somewhat of a flat—the other day. "As a matter of fact," he continued, "a real musician, one to whose soul true harmony appeals with all its beautiful and poetic force, is so susceptible to its effects that it sends the blood to his heart; and his extremities, when such an artist is engaged in a performance of any length, become as cold as frogs. I do not know of a single exception. Did you ever shake hands with Paderewski just after he came from the piano? If you did you must have noticed that his hand was like a lump of ice. The same thing is true of amateurs who have the real artistic temperament, and if such a one hasn't cold hands under such circumstances you can know that he or she has no real musical sentiment. It is an infallible test."—New York Mail and Express.

Not Appreciated in China.

China offers a fine and as yet uncultivated field for the woman's rights movement. In that country, as we all know, the birth of a girl is regarded by a family as a real catastrophe. So somebody, with the interests of the afflicted family at heart, drops the infant into a convenient body of water. So common is this that a large pool in Foochow bears the legend, "Girls must not be drowned in this pond"—a warning which has disheartened many a Chinaman anxious to facilitate his daughter's journey to a better land.

One hundred domestic servants are killed annually in England in the process of window cleaning. An invention recently patented is a window of which the outside may be cleaned without exposing the cleaner to any chance of a tumble.

A St. Petersburg editor has hit upon the notion of printing his journal on paper suitable for making cigarettes. It is said that its circulation has been largely increased by this means, as the Russians are largely given to smoking cigarettes which they make themselves.

A "damp-detector" is the latest invention to make miserable the traveler's life. It is a silver trinket, not unlike a compass in appearance. At the back are small holes in the silver, through which the damp passes and moves the needle until it points to the word "damp." By the aid of this unaired sheets can be detected.

BRUSH AND PALATTE.

Harry Furniss, the celebrated cartoonist, has left the staff of Punch. He is to start a publication of his own.

Sir Joshua Reynolds was often annoyed by being requested to paint the portraits of ugly women of quality. He said: "If I paint them as they are they will hate me; if I don't paint them as they are I shall hate myself."

When Joseph Keppler revisited Vienna, his native city, a few years ago, an editor there offered him a salary of fifty thousand marks a year for his services, an amount deemed fabulous by the Viennese. The artist in declining remarked that he was earning two hundred thousand marks a year in New York.

The Philadelphia academy of fine arts has concluded negotiations for the purchase of the "Portrait of Mr. Gladstone at Downing street," by John McLure Hamilton, one of the features of the recent sixty-third annual exhibition. This is a duplicate of the picture recently purchased by the Luxembourg, the highest honor which can be paid to any living artist.

FOREIGN WAYS AND CUSTOMS.

A Japanese host or hostess never intrusts the making of tea to the servants on company occasions. Either he or she prepares the decoction in the presence of the guests.

The Spaniard, however courteous he may be, never invites a guest to dinner. In Italy, too, the privacy of the family is seldom invaded at the dinner hour. The members eat in silence.

The Siamese believe that the human soul requires seven days to journey from earth to heaven; hence, the prayers of the friends of the deceased person are continued for seven days after the individual dies.

A quaint custom, which has been practiced for centuries, still prevails in Holborn, England. The time of night is hourly shouted by the watchman, somewhat in this style: "Past one o'clock, and a cold, wet morning."

Names for babies are thus chosen in Egypt: The parents of the child select three candles, and to each candle the name of some dignified personage is given. The three are lighted, and the candle that burns the longest denotes the favored name.

Comfort for the Sick.

In cases of sleeplessness as well as sickness frequent changing of pillows will have a soothing influence. The case should fit the pillow and be kept smooth. A change of night-gowns is restful, and the refreshing sense of cool water or some spicy toilet water, like lavender or orange flowers, applied to the forehead, throat, hands and feet cannot be overestimated.

COTTOLENE O COTTOLENE O COTTOLENE

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

Has come not a little knowledge as to cookery—what to do, as well as what not to do. Thus we have learned to use the most pure and perfect and popular cooking material for all frying and shortening purposes.

COTTOLENE,

PROGRESSIVE COOKING

is the natural outcome of the age, and it teaches us not to use lard, but rather the new shortening, which is far cleaner, and more digestible than any lard can be.

COTTOLENE,

The success of Cottolene has called out worthless imitations under similar names. Look out for these! Ask your Grocer for COTTOLENE, and be sure that you get it.

Insomnia is fearfully on the increase. he rush and excitement of modern life so tax the nervous system that multitudes of people are deprived of good and sufficient sleep, with ruinous consequences to the nerves. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

The Defeat of Coxey.

Coxey's army may excite laughter, it may also be looked upon as a serious indication of coming trouble, or simply as a crank's craze. Such a demonstration is happily uncalled for in this country, wages here are fairly good, and living cheap, but might be cheaper. Strouds, the tea dealers, will do their share to make your dollar go a long way in supplying your Teas and Coffees. ANOTHER GOOD MEETING.

Messrs. Hunter and Crossley in Bridge St.—Great Interest Manifested.

Bridge St. church was again well filled last evening when the evangelists mounted the platform and all present manifested the deepest interest in the service. After prayer and a hymn, Rev. D O Crossley and Miss Canfield sang as a duet that beautiful hymn "Saviour, Lead me lest I Stray."

Mr. Hunter read his lesson from Acts 9th chapter beginning at the 10th verse. He gave the congregation some points to hang up in their memory. When God called Saul He called a good man. God always calls a good man to do his work. In the lesson a very bad man was made a very good man. We often see this in every day life, and he instanced Mr. Thompson, who gave his experience on Sunday evening. God sometimes picks out the most unlikely person to do service for him and shake the world. Saul visited and instructed the young converts. He liked a man who would help along young christians by a kindly word or a shake of the hand. He said he could read a man's character by his handshake. He advised ministers to put some of their best men at the doors of their churches to shake hands with visitors and welcome them to the church. Saul fasted and prayed. It would be a good idea for all christians to set apart a day for fasting and praying. Saul was tempted, but temptation was not sin. You could not prevent an evil thought passing through your brain but you could prevent it lodging there. Saul met difficulties, but every christian know what they were. But Saul was victorious and so shall all be who trust in Jesus Christ. Mr. Hunter read a number of requests for prayer and asked the people to pray specially for these.

Rev. Mr. Crossley was suffering from a bad cold and it was with difficulty that he could make his voice audible to those at a distance from him. He took his text from Jeremiah, 8–10, "The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved." If you are not saved you are in sin. If a sinner would write down his name on a slip of paper and under it write "not saved," and would look at it seriously for five minutes he would want to seek a change. If all the christians would work as they should great numbers would be saved during the next two weeks. Think of the unsaved ones and ask, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" If the people of Belleville are not christians they are worse than the Chinese, because they have privileges which the heathen have not. If you are a skeptic there is some excuse for you, but you all believe in the christian religion. What a long harvest and summer of mercies you have had and still you are unsaved. You have unbounded privileges, such as Sunday schools, christian training, etc. God has kept an exact account of all these privileges and He will hold you responsible as you have been privileged. God spares persons and gives them opportunities till He sees they do not accept, then he cuts them down. He instanced a number of cases where persons had been requested to give their hearts to God, but they had refused and they had been shortly afterwards cut down. The Lord is speaking to you now, what are you going to do?

At the request of Mr. Hunter that any who wished the prayers of the people would stand up, several took the first step. A few minutes were spent in testimonies. Several went to the enquiry room.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

What the Commissioners Propose to do this Year.

An INTELLIGENCER reporter was shown a plan of the harbor improvements to-day and if carried out as proposed they will make a decided change in the appearance of the west side of the river mouth, or what is now known as Ashery Point. The city have purchased the strip of land between Coleman St. and the river extending from the old dock south of Weese's marble works to the point just below Phippen's ashery and leased it to the Harbor Commissioners for a number of years and they will improve it.

The old ashery buildings will be removed by the first of June and the point extending out into the river eastward will be cut off and the material used for filling in and raising the whole bank. The embankment will be raised to the level of the street and trees planted thereon. This will improve greatly this portion of the city as well as doing away with that old eyesore—the ashery.

This raising of the bank, it is thought, will confine the river during the spring freshets to its natural bed and prevent further damage by overflowing in this direction.

The dredge Queen, which will be ready for work in a few days, will do the cutting and will throw the product upon the bank, so that the filling in will be done with very little cost to the city. The dredge will continue the old channel as far north as the old dock and then go down and cut another channel.

The plans for this improvement were submitted by the Commissioners to Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and he approved of them. He also approved the purchase of a steam drill and electric battery for drilling and blasting the rock bar that runs into the river a little below the lower bridge. The drill will be used in connection with and fed by steam from the dredge.

The Commissioners have several other improvements under contemplation, but they will talk of these later on.

SPORTING NEWS

The Griffo-Murphy fight at Boston last night was won by Griffo in the eighth round.

A bicycle traveller just returned from an extended trip through the province reports that no other cycling event ever created so great an interest among all classes of the community as the prospective relay ride of bicyclists between Sarnia and Montreal on June 15 and 16 next. Local districts have been arranged for as follows: Colborne to Shannonville, in charge of Captain H. O. Powell and Belleville committee. Shannonville to Odessa, in charge of Captain H. A. Dean and Deseronto and Napanee committee.

The race for the Two Thousand Guineas, 1 mile and 11 yards, will be run to-morrow, and by the latest reports Matchbox and Ladas, the leading Derby candidates, were expected to start. Ladas is a shade the better favorite of the two for the Two Thousand.

Captain H. O. Powell, of the Ramblers Bicycle Club, has been appointed consul for the Canadian Wheelmen's Association at Belleville.

Mr. Corby's Hop Field.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Empire writes: "Mr. Harry Corby, M. P., arrived here from Belleville to-day, where he has been for the past two or three days superintending an extension of his hop gardens. This year Mr. Corby will have 35 acres under pole; 20 acres more will be ready to be poled next year, and he proposes to break up 30 acres more next fall. In about three years' time Mr. Corby expects to have over 100 acres of hop gardens, using as a fertilizer the manure from 400 head of cattle which are being fed in his distillery.

SUFFERING ENDED.

Paine's Celery Compound Banishes Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

A Permanent Cure After Years of Agony.

No Failure When Natures Remedy is Used.

Mr. George Geary, of Rodney, Ont., writes as follows:

"For a number of years I was greatly troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, and tried many doctors, but got little or no relief until I purchased a bottle of your Paine's Celery Compound from our druggist, Mr. Harvey. The medicine gave prompt, and what has proved to be permanent relief; and I believe it to be unequalled for these afflictions, also as a nerve tonic. Deriving so much benefit from its use, I am pleased to recommend it to my friends, or to persons who suffer in the way I did, as a most reliable remedy for these ailments."

Paine's Celery Compound sweeps away disease with a power unknown to other medicines. It is the life-renewer that every suffering man, woman and child should use, when pain and agony make life miserable and unbearable.

This wonderful medicine is the noblest gift that medical science has ever given to the world. It is fast superseding all other medicines for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia indigestion, nervousness and general debility. It is recommended and prescribed by physicians all over the country, as the best and safest agent for the cure of all the above mentioned troubles and diseases. For true merit, worth and honest results, Paine's Celery Compound stands on the highest pinnacle of fame.

Let us say to those who are not laid up with sickness or disease—those who are merely ailing—that one bottle of Paine's Celery Compound will surely prevent sickness and serious trouble. When you feel tired, weary, worn out and overdone, a few doses of nature's life-giver will give you renewed strength, vigor and activity.

BANCROFT.

MAY 7—There has been little to disturb the equanimity of our busy community for some time, as during the winter so many are busy laying up store for the summer in the different employments of lumbering operations and of conveying their produce to distant markets; and now that these occupations are for the most part ended, the attention of some is given to the improvement of their homesteads and others in building up our prosperous village. The sound of the hammer and the clatter of timber are increasing on the numerous buildings now in the course of erection; nor is this prosperity to be attributed to the prospects of a railroad so far, as railroad communication to this place is still only a future consideration, and doubtful until realized, but to the gradual and sure advance derived from the central position and adaptation of the place for the trade of a large district, the village being well supplied with stores both in general and particular lines and numerous factories, carpenters, smiths and other workshops. The religious interests of the place are also well looked after, as there are handsome churches of the Catholic, English, Presbyterian and Methodist denominations and the last mentioned are purposing to build on a much larger scale. Daily service is conducted in the English church and the constant sound of the different bells gives a cathedral character to the place.—No inducement seems to influence the lethargic Central Ontario Company to extend their line the short seventeen miles to Bancroft, for which they have a good bonus offered for twenty miles; and now the Parry Sound line will be in running order in a few months, passing some distance north of this place and will certainly secure all the traffic where the distance between the two is the shorter. The Bancroft and Irondale line, with a bonus from both the Dominion and Provincial Governments, amounting together to the munificent sum of $6,200 per mile, has nothing to prevent it reaching Bancroft this year if due management and vigor are exerted. But we regret that these new lines will inevitably tend to divert business from our natural market, Belleville or Madoc; and the only way to retain the trade of the north country will be, as before stated, to continue the C.O.R. the seventeen miles to Bancroft, and then secure running power on that road for the North Hastings line, now built as far as Eldorado junction. Is a word to the wise sufficient?

Lodges from several other places are expected.—Nearly every one around here is through sowing and are busily preparing their corn ground. Grain is looking fine, while cherry and plum trees are blossoming out. —Mr. and Mrs. Byron Palmer were visiting at Mr. John Tibtus'.—Mr. Thomas Alexander, son of Mr. Wm. GOOD SPIRITS follow good health while low spirits, melancholia, impaired memory, morose, or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity and a thousand and one derangements of body and mind, result from pernicious, solitary practices, often indulged in by the young, through ignorance of their ruinous consequences. Nervous debility, and loss of manly power, not infrequently result from such unnatural habits.

To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of an association of medical gentlemen, who have prepared a treatise, written in plain but chaste language and treating of the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases.

A copy of this useful book will, on receipt of this notice, with 10 cents in stamps, for postage, be mailed securely sealed in a plain envelope. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Belleville Box and Basket Company.

On paying a visit to this new industry in its home in what was Burrell's axe factory we found a force of ten hands very busily engaged in all the intricate processes of box and basket making. On the lower floor was a huge knife to which the logs, smoking hot from their vaporish bath in a steam heated chamber, are brought and cut into strips of veneer. Some beautiful strips of bird's eye maple were exhibited which the firm hopes at no distant day to transform into chair seats. Beautiful white circular boxes bound with tin for holding butter, cheese and lard are made of all sizes and dimensions. Paratine coatings on the interior of the boxes prevents contact with the wood and the close fitting cover prevents the absorption of any external odors. Berry baskets of bass wood are being made in large numbers. Experienced growers it is said will only use the bass wood boxes, elm not retaining its shape. Bottle capsules, for enveloping bottles requiring to be sent a distance, have proved a great success. Henry Corby, Esq., M. P., having proved them to be the best article in use for that purpose, has ordered largely. L. W. Yeomans, Esq., has expressed his belief that the capsule manufactured here will prove so successful that he will be able to use it for his extensive shipments of Scott's Emulsion and Kennedy's Discovery and, as a public spirited gentleman, will doubtless strain a point to use the firm's production rather than order from New York. Grape and fruit baskets, and axle grease boxes are also made. The business is in its infancy and needs all the encouragement that citizens interested in the prosperity of our beautiful city can give it. It is capable of large expansion and will in all probability give employment to a large number. Every ratepayer is interested in the success of Belleville's industries, which will keep our young people at home, instead of allowing them to be forced by stern necessity to go to other lands which, will lessen our taxes. Large inducements have been offered to foreigners to locate here. In this manufactory started by our own citizens every reasonable help should be extended.

For the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR.—Some few months ago I placed a notice in the INTELLIGENCER to see if I could from among your readers obtain a housekeeper, as my poor wife was placed this last year in the asylum for insane and I was left here alone on a farm with two children—both under six years. I had a number of applications from Hastings Co. and one from Rednerville across the bay from your fair city. After corresponding with several of the young ladies I have succeeded in obtaining a most excellent girl from among the residents of Belleville and she arrived here on the evening of April 5th. My object in writing at the present time is to thank the INTELLIGENCER for the part it took in the matter of publishing my notice. I would also state that should the other girls still wish to come to Manitoba there is plenty of room here for any of them to engage themselves as domestic servants in good families at fair remuneration. I claim your city of the bay as my birthplace, but most of my life was spent in the township of Marmora, until I settled here in 1880. I would be pleased to give any information to anyone wishing to come to our prairie province, either from my old acquaintances in North Hastings or those in the more immediate vicinity of Belleville. Trusting these few stray lines may find room in your excellent paper, I remain truly and sincerely

WHAT ABOUT A TRACK?

Will the Bicyclists Have a Path on Which to Train This Season?

After the success which attended the road race on Friday evening last most of the cyclists are hot foot for a track on which they can train. There are many sites for such a track within a short distance from the centre of the city and they could be secured for a small outlay. If the different sporting organizations would unite and secure a ground for general athletic sports it would probably be the best way to secure a good track for sprinters and cyclists and would be less expensive for all concerned than for each club to go by themselves. Let all the sporting men get together and talk the matter over and see what can be done.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

TREASURE ISLAND

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

'No, by thunder!' he cried, 'it's us must break the treaty when the time comes; and till then I'll gammon that doctor, if I have to lie his boots with brandy.'

And then he bade them get the fire lighted, and stalked out upon his crutch, with his hand on my shoulder, leaving them in a disarray, and silenced by his volubility rather than convinced.

'Slow, lad, slow,' he said. 'They might round upon us in a twinkle of an eye if we was seen to hurry.'

Very deliberately, then, did we advance across the sand to where the doctor waited us on the other side of the stockade, and as soon as we were within easy speaking distance Silver stopped.

'You'll make a note of this here also, doctor,' says he, 'and the boy'll tell you how I saved his life, and were deposed for it too you may lay to that. Doctor, where a man's a-steering as near the wind as me—playing chuck-farthing with the last breath in his body, like—you wouldn't think it too much, mayhap, to give him one good word! You'll please bear in mind that it's not my life only now—it's that boy into the bargain; and you'll speak me fair, doctor, and give me a bit of hope to go on, for the sake of mercy.'

Silver was a changed man, once he was out there and had his back to his friends and the block house; his cheeks seemed to have fallen in, his voice trembled; never was a soul more dead in earnest.

'Why, John, you're not afraid?' asked Dr. Livesey.

'Doctor, I'm no coward; no, not I—not so much!' and he snapped his fingers. 'If I was I wouldn't say it. But I'll own up fairly I've the shakes upon me for the gallows. You're a good man and a true; I never seen a better man. And you'll not forget what I done good, not any more than you'll forget the bad, I know. And I step aside—see here—and leave you and Jim alone. And you will put that down for me too, for, it's a long stretch, is that.'

So saying he stepped back a little way till he was out of ear-shot, and there sat down upon a stump and began to whistle; spinning round now and again on his seat so as to command a sight sometimes of me and the doctor, and sometimes of his unruly ruffians as they went to and fro in the sand, between the fire—which they were busy rekindling—and the house, from which they brought forth pork and bread to make the breakfast.

'So Jim,' said the doctor, sadly, 'here you are. As you have brewed, so you shall drink, my boy. Heaven knows I can not find it in my heart to blame you, but this much I will say, be it kind or unkind: when Captain Smollett was well you dared not have gone off; and when he was ill, and couldn't help it, by George it was downright cowardly!'

I will own that I here began to weep, 'Doctor,' I said, 'you might spare me. I have blamed myself enough: my life's forfeit anyway, and I should have been dead now if Silver hadn't stood for me; and, doctor, believe this, I can die—and I daresay I deserve it—but wat I fear is torture. If they come to torture me—'

'Jim,' the doctor interrupted, and his voice was quite changed, 'Jim, I can't have this. Whip over and we'll run for it.'

'Doctor,' said I, 'I passed my word.'

'I know, I know,' he cried. 'We can't help that, Jim, now. I'll take it on my shoulders, holus bolus, blame and share, my boy; but stay here I cannot let you. Jump! One jump, and we'll run for it, like antelopes.'

'No,' I replied, 'you know right well you wouldn' do it yourself; neither you, nor squire, nor captain; and no more will I. Silver trusted me; I passed my word, and back I go. But, doctor, you did not let me finish. If they come to torture me I might let slip a word of where the ship is: for I got the ship, part by luck, and part by risking, and she lies in North Inlet, on the southern beach, just below high water, at half-tide she must be high and dry.'

'The ship,' he exclaimed.

Rapidly I described to him my adventures, and he heard me out in silence.

'There is a kind of fate in this,' he observed, when I had done. 'Every step it's you that saves our lives; and do you suppose by any chance that we are going to let you lose yours? They would be a poor return, my boy. You found out the plot; you found Ben Gunn—the best deed that ever you did, or will do, though you live to ninety. Oh, by Jupiter! and chief in person. Silver!' he cried, 'Silver! I'll give you a piece of advice,' he continued, as the cook drew near again, 'don't you be in any great hurry after that treasure.'

'Why sir, I do my possible, which that ain't,' said Silver. 'I can only, asking your pardon, save my life and the boy's by seeking for that treasure, and you may lay to that.'

'Well, Silver,' replied the doctor, 'if that is so, I'll go one step further, look out for squalls when you find it!'

'Sir,' said Silver, 'as between man and man, that's too much and too little. What you're after, why you left the block-house, and why you gave me that there chart, I don't know now, do I? And yet I done your bidding with my eyes shut and never a word of hope! But no, this here's too much. If you won't tell me what you mean plain out, just say so, and I'll leave the helm.'

'No,' replied the doctor, musingly, 'I've no right to say more. It is not my secret, you see, Silver, or, I give you my word I'd tell it you. But I'll go as far with you as I dare go, and a step beyond: for I'll have my wig sorted by the captain, or I'm mistaken! And, first, I'll give you a bit of hope, Silver, if we both alive out of this wolf-trap, I'll do my best to save you, short of perjury.'

Silver's face was radiant. 'You couldn't say more, I'm sure, sir, not if you was my mother,' he cried.

'Well, that's my first concession,' added the doctor. 'My second is a piece of advice: Keep the boy close beside you, and when you need help, halloo. I'm off to seek it for you, and that itself will show you if I spoke at random. Goodbye, Jim.'

And Doctor Livesey shook hands with me through the wood, nodded to Silver and set off a brisk pace into the wood.

CHAPTER XXXI.

THE TREASURE HUNT.

'Jim,' said Silver, when we were alone 'If I saved your life, you saved mine, and I'll not forget it. I seen the doctor waving you to run for it—with the tail of my eye, I did, and I seen you say no, as plain as hearing. Jim, that's one to you. This is the first glint of hope I had since the attack failed, and I owe it to you, and now, Jim, we're to go in for this here treasure-hunting with sealed orders, too, and I don't like it; and you and me must stick close, back to back like, and we'll save our necks in spite o' fate and fortune.'

Just then a man hailed us from the fire that supper was ready, and we were soon seated here and there about the sand over biscuit and fried junk. They had lighted a fire fit to roast an ox; and it was now grown so hot that they could approach it only from the windward, and even there not without precaution. In the same wasteful spirit they had cooked, I suppose three times more than we could eat; and one of them, with an empty laugh, threw what was left into the fire, which blazed and roared again over this unusual fuel. I never in my life saw men so careless of the morrow; hand to mouth is the only way that can describe their way of doing; and what with wasted food and sleeping sentries, though they were bold enough for a brush and be done with it, I could see their entire unfitness for anything like a prolonged campaign.

AN ECCENTRIC DOCTOR.

The Czar's Physician is Somewhat of a Crank.

Prof. Zakharin of Moscow, who attended the Czar during his recent serious illness, is almost as well known in Russia for his eccentricities as for his eminence as a physician. When he is called to attend to a patient, special arrangements must be made in the house; all dogs must be kept out of the way; all clocks must be stopped; all doors must be thrown wide open.

The Professor on entering begins a process of gradual undressing, leaving his furs in the hall, his overcoat in the next room, his goloshes in the next room, etc. He insists on perfect silence on the part of the afflicted relatives, except in reply to his questions, when their speech must be literally "yea" and "nay." He has a theory which he expresses in the maxim, "Take a rest before you are tired," and, accordingly, he sits down every eight or ten steps. His demeanor towards doctors with whom he happens to be unacquainted makes him greatly feared by them, and some eight years ago a kind of public agitation was gotten up in opposition to him, in which many hundreds of doctors took part.

Resolutions were passed and addresses were presented, and echoes of the gathering storm made themselves heard in the press. These manifestations of feelings were speedily supressed in a way characteristic of Russia. The then Governor-General of Moscow, Prince Dolgorukoff, sent for the editor of the Medical Journal in which the addresses were printed and told him that if he published a word more about Zakharin he would have to leave Moscow in twenty-four hours' time.

His eccentricities, however, cease at the bedside of his patient; there he is courteous and considerate, most painstaking and minute in his examinations, and very thorough in his treatment. So successful has he been in his profession that he is believed to be worth some half million sterling.—British Medical Journal.

Little Savings in the Kitchen.

If crackers are stale or moist, sprinkle slightly with salt, and heat in a moderate oven.

Dry the leaves and left-over stalks of celery, and keep them in a self-sealing glass fruit jar, to flavor soups with.

Don't pay five cents more for flour in a cloth sack, when you can buy more and better cloth for the same amount of money.

Don't throw away a lamp wick as soon as it is short, but wash it, baste a strip of white muslin to the lower end and use it a week or two longer.

If hard soap is taken from its wrappings and stood edgewise on a shelf in a warm room, or put in a bag and hung behind the kitchen range for a few weeks, it will last decidedly longer than otherwise.

Every ounce of suet, fat, cold meat and bones should be saved and utilized for making croquettes, hash-soup, drippings, or soap-grease. Break the bones before stewing them for soup, so that the marrow may escape.

A teaspoonful of molasses or soft soap, added to a saucer of blacking, which has been wet with vinegar, makes a first-rate stove polish, and the stub of an old broom does better and quicker work than an ordinary blacking brush.

The syrup left from sweet pickles or canned fruit, should be kept and added to mince-meat. The syrup from pickles needs no further preparation but that from fruit should be scalded, and put in a glass fruit jar. Several kinds can be mixed together.

This Season's Gloves.

The Reynier is the glove of the season. Its popularity is due to the slender appearance which it gives the hand, owing to the arrangement of gussets between the fingers, but not between the thumb and finger. These gloves come in all the dainty shades which combine so well with the coloring of the new dress materials. There are any variety of tans, pearl grays and the new greens.

Perhaps the most chic glove is of pearl kid, stitched with spring tan and fastened with smoked pearl buttons. Pearl gloves stitched in violet or green are also novelties. For everyday wear nothing is more genteel than a tan Reynier glove, stitched in black and fastened with large black buttons.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

GENTLEMEN.—Two years ago my husband suffered from severe indigestion, but was completely cured by two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. I can truly recommend it to all sufferers from this disease.

Jas Shannon, Leaskdale, writes:—'For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy to burns and bruises I ever used.'

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Sir John Thompson Explains the Proposed Cheese Inspectorship.

NO INTERFERENCE WITH BARGAINS

The Intention is Merely to Settle Disputes Between Seller and Purchaser — Changes in the Tariff Announced by Mr. Foster — Wood Pulp Stands as a Reciprocal Item.

OTTAWA, May 9.—Hon. Mr. Daly yesterday moved the House into committee on his bill to amend the Northwest Territories Act altering the election law. The bill provides that the elections shall not take place until three weeks after the nominations, because of the lack of railway facilities.

Mr. Martin discussed the features of the bill. The committee reported progress.

Cheese Inspector at Montreal.

Mr. McMillan said that he understood last week that the Government intended appointing a cheese inspector at Montreal to weigh all cheese manufactured in Canada passing through that port. He said that such action would be greatly against the wishes of the farmers and cheesemakers of the Dominion. Farmers and cheesemakers would not object to having their cheese inspected at the factory or station, but they would not agree to have it inspected after it had passed out of their hands. He read a letter from the Cheese Manufacturers Association in support of his contention.

Mr. Taylor and Dr. Sproule said the farmers were anxious to see an inspector at Montreal.

Sir John Thompson said that it was not the intention of the Government to have all the cheese sold passing through Montreal subject to inspection. It was simply the intention of the Government to appoint an inspector, who might be called in to settle disputes which might arise between seller and purchaser. It was not the intention of the Government to interfere in any way with the bargains which might be made between the parties, neither was it the intention that all cheese sold should be subject to inspection. It was simply intended that where disputes arose a competent man, who would be fair to both sides, might be appealed to, who would deliver an impartial decision.

Mr. Scriver agreed with the Premier.

Changes in the Tariff.

The House went into committee to consider the provisions of the new tariff.

Hon. Mr. Foster announced the following changes, which were agreed to:

"Provided all iron or steel bars, rods, strips, or steel sheets, of whatever shape, and on all iron or steel bars of irregular shape or section, cold rolled, cold hammered, or polished in any way, in addition to the ordinary process of hot rolling or hammering, there shall be paid 1-6 of a cent per pound in addition to the rates imposed on the said materials."

The item of forgings was changed to read: "Forgings of iron and steel, n.e.s., 25 per cent., but not less than $15 per ton."

To the proposed duty of 35 per cent. on rolled iron or steel, angles, channels, structural shapes, etc., weighing less than 35 pounds per yard, was added the stipulation: "But not less than $10 per ton."

To the item of iron bridges and structural iron work, 30 per cent. was added: "But not less than 1 per cent. per pound."

The item of railway fish plates and tie plates, 30 per cent., was amended by stipulating that the duty should not be less than $10 per ton.

Axles, springs, and parts thereof, axles, bars and axle blanks of iron or steel, n.e.s., were placed at 1 cent per pound and 20 per cent.

The duty on wire nails was put back to 1 cent a pound; shoe tacks (¼ oz. to 4 oz.), 1 cent per 1,000, and 1¼ cents per pound. Tacks and brads, not exceeding 16 oz. to the 1,000, 1¼ cents a 1,000, over 16 oz., 1¼ cents per pound. Brass and copper nails went back to the old duty of 30 per cent.

Lead pipe and lead shot, 4-10 of a cent per pound, and 25 per cent.

Chrome steel, copper wire, wire cloth, jewellery cases and emery wheels were dealt with as indicated on the notice of motion.

On Wood Pulp.

Hon. Mr. Foster intimated that instead of wood pulp going on the free list it would be included in the standing offer of reciprocity.

Hon. Mr. Laurier drew Sir John Thompson's attention to a statement attributed to Sir Henry Tyler, that the Dominion Government had promised reciprocity in coal.

Sir John Thompson—I noticed the statement, and I have since ascertained that Sir Henry Tyler was misreported.

Hon. David Mills—There was no such offer?

Sir John Thompson—There was no promise.

Wrought Iron Tubing.

On the items, wrought iron or steel tubing, threaded and coupled, or not, over two inches in diameter, 15 per cent. ad valorem. Other wrought iron tubes or pipes, 5-10 of 1 cent per pound, and 30 per cent. ad valorem.

Mr. Davis wanted a reduction in the duty.

After recess the discussion on wrought iron tubing was continued, Mr. McInerney, Mr. Doires, Mr. Mills and Hon. Mr. Wallace speaking. The item passed.

Another item, as amended, reads as follows: Wrought iron and steel nuts and washers, iron or steel rivets, bolts, with or without threads, nut bolts, and hinge blanks, and "T" and strap hinges, 1 cent per pound and 20 per cent. Copper wire was put back from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent., the old tariff.

Textiles were next taken up, the first item being cotton batts, batting, and sheet wadding, dyed or not, 22½ per cent. This was carried, Mr. Foster explaining that this was a reduction.

Grey Cotton Fabrics.

On the item of grey unbleached cotton fabrics, Sir Richard Cartwright wanted to know why there was a duty of 22½ per cent., when the Canadian mills were able to export cottons to China.

Hon. Mr. Foster admitted that certain qualities had been sent to China. It was a special line of goods.

The item passed.

The items "white or bleached cotton fabrics n.e.s., 25 per cent.," and "cotton fabrics printed, dyed or colored, 30 per cent.," were passed.

The item of collars of cotton, linen, xylonite or celluloid, 24 cents per dozen and 25 per cent. was introduced.

Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Davies opposed the item; Hon. Mr. Foster, Hon. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Haslam spoke in favor of it, and it finally passed.

THE INGERSOLL VERDICT.

No Evidence Found as to the Thrower of the Stone.

INGERSOLL, May 9.—The coroner's inquest in the stone throwing case came up according to adjournment last evening before Coroner Dr. McLay. The inquest took place in the town hall, which was packed to its utmost capacity.

The witness Mitchell was as difficult to get a straight story from as he was on Saturday. He denied having said the stones fell so fast about him that he ran further west. He changed his evidence as to what the deceased had said after Everett got up to him.

Drs. Williams and Lucas, who made the post mortem examination, gave very clear evidence as to the cause of death. They only found one wound on the left side of the head, a little behind; also a swelling below the jaw. There was a large cut of three by two and a half inches pressing the brain. This wound was undoubtedly the cause of death.

The other witnesses examined were Everett, who with Mitchell and McDermott, the deceased, were the leaders of the rocking gang. Like Mitchell, Everett gave very unsatisfactory evidence. He was within five feet of the deceased when he was struck and fell, but he couldn't say how or who struck him. The other members of the gang were Alex. McCaskill, Geo. Bell, Joseph McGrath, Joseph McSherry, who were from 12 to 19 years of age, went up with the other three, more as hangers-on, to see the fun than as participants.

It was shown in evidence that Aldward, the prisoner, had been hit three times, one of the stones knocking off his hat. When he stooped to pick it up he found the stone and threw it, which, he said, did not strike the ground and he had seen someone fall.

The jury retired about one o'clock this morning, and after about two hours and a half returned with the verdict as follows: "We, the coroner's jury, investigating the cause of John McDermott's death, find that the deceased received injuries which caused his death through being hit by a stone, but by whom the stone was thrown the evidence does not show. We also find that the parties who went with the express purpose of breaking the law are accomplices before the fact."

"OUTRAGE" ON UNCLE SAM.

Canadian Patrol Vessel Petrel Makes a Haul Off Point au Pelee.

SANDUSKY, Ohio, May 9.—News is received here from Kelly's Island that an outrage had been committed on the American steamers Visitor and Leroy Brooks by the Canadian patrol vessel Petrel. While cruising north of Kelly's Island and south of Point au Pelee, the latter being Canadian land, the Petrel suddenly came down on the Visitor and Leroy Brooks, capturing the vessels, their crews and many passengers, who were being towed in a small boat. The party was fishing for black bass. This is the first time hook and line fishermen have been molested.

Randall's Army's Hard Luck.

LAPORTE, Ind., May 9.—The two factions of the Randall army of Industrials met with treatment here that they did not relish. The city authorities met them at the city limits and forbade them to enter the city and Gen. Randall, his son, and two of his lieutenants were arrested and placed in jail. The citizens took pity on the starving army and sent out provisions to where it is camped, a mile south of the city, pending the release of the leaders. The two sections of the army are on unfriendly terms and marched from Westville about a third of a mile apart.

Burglary in Grand Falls, N. B.

GRAND FALLS, N. B., May 9.—The store of James McCuiskey, dry goods, groceries, etc., was broken into and his safe blown open. Several watches and a lot of gold rings, a $100 bond and some money were taken. Entrance to the store was made by prying the front door open with iron bars. Burglars drilled a couple of holes in the top of the safe and blew the door off. There is no clue as to who committed the robbery, but it is thought to be the work of professionals as the safe-cracking was done in a very neat manner.

LOTTIE AND OSMAN GUILTY

Verdict of the Jury in the Celebrated Sharon Poisoning Case.

PEGG ACQUITTED BY THE COURT

The Judge Holds the Evidence Against Him Insufficient to Convict Him as an Accessory — The Crown Prosecutor's Pointed Arraignment of Mrs. Evans—Judge Robertson Reserves Sentence.

TORONTO, May 9.—The jury in the Sharon case last evening returned a verdict of guilty against Mrs. Evans and George Osman of administering poison to Walter Evans, husband of the female prisoner.

When the jury announced their verdict Mrs. Evans turned deathly pale and almost fainted, but recovered herself and submitted to being led from the box with apparent calmness.

Judge Robertson reserved sentence.

At the morning sitting Pegg was acquitted, the judge charging the jury that there was no evidence of complicity in any intention of administering poison. The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The last sitting of this remarkable trial was held in the afternoon, when the Crown called on Walter Evens to testify as to whether he had ever been afflicted with hydrophobia or hysteria. The prisoner replied in the negative. This closed the evidence.

Mr. Clute addressed the jury amid the profound silence of perhaps the greatest crowd that has yet been in attendance. He said he wanted to get at the real issue of the case and the evidence bearing upon it. He wished to dispel any idea of a conspiracy such as is ascribed to the Evans family by Mr. Murdoch. The charge of a woman poisoning her husband is monstrous, repellant and horrible; but when it becomes probable the evidence must be cogent and clear.

In a case like this motive is all important. "Is this woman likely to say she 'would rather draw a knife across her husband's throat than that she should draw a line over her horse—one who would say, 'I hate the very name, I wish to God I knew how to get rid of him?'" The speaker said that on the second of January there existed a combination of circumstances that makes it probable that the woman would try to get rid of her husband.

At one stage of his address referring to what he styled "wantoning with her lover," the speaker remarked, "A more damnatory piece of evidence was never before presented to a court and jury. She was maddened with lust and her love for a bit of a boy was scarcely veiled with decency. She had neither shame nor pity; she did not regard the decencies of society, but utterly disregarded everything."

Throughout the arraignment the prisoner, Mrs. Evans, sat with composure, and listened attentively to the address of the Crown prosecutor. She gave no evidence of pertubation when the damaging evidence was reviewed.

The Judge's Charge.

Judge Robertson commenced his charge to the jury by cautioning them against being carried away by the eloquence of the lawyers on either side. He said that Mr. Murdoch's idea of "a vile conspiracy on the part of the Evans' family" against the female prisoner is "in defiance of the evidence. It would be an outrageous condition of society if that family knew of a great wrong being perpetrated upon their son and brother and then remained quiet." Then the charge traversed the evidence, giving it a close analysis; the fact that Evans said that the oysters were "bitter" is a most important fact; if those oysters were so bad as to make a man sick he could have smelt that they were decomposed. "No man, unless he were an Indian, who will eat almost anything, would eat oysters when they are bad."

"Was the sickness of Walter Evans the result of strychnine poison?" was the next question discussed by the judge. This brought into judicial review the medical testimony given in this case; it emphasized Dr. Howe's evidence. The judge thought it an extraordinary thing that medical men invariably take sides and are prepared to make out a case for the side on which they are called. "What a mess they made of it," said the court; "no two of them agreed."

Coming to the question of motive, the Judge said "that letter the unfortunate woman wrote in the strongest corroboration of Maggie Reid's story." After the court read from the letter, he quoted from the servant girl's evidence to show that more than was in the letter was necessary "to kick up such a trouble." Speaking of the purchase of the strychnine by Osman, his Lordship thought that the fact that no foxes were there, by evidence, is an important feature. "It is a thousand pities that Osman is not able to account for his having the poison. If you can't say the prisoners are guilty you must give them the benefit of the doubt."

The Judge concluded by saying that nothing should be considered by the jury against Mrs. Evans except as to the charge now against her. The Crown, he said, should have established how many grains there were in that bottle and would then have established a stronger case.

Two Frenchmen Drowned.

PARRY SOUND, May 9.—On Sunday George Proulx and Harry Duval, two Frenchmen employed by Poulin & Fitzpatrick on the construction work of the Parry Sound Colonization Railway, were drowned in a small lake ten miles from this place. They were out in a log canoe and upset. Duval, who could not swim, caught hold of his companion and both went down together. The bodies were recovered an hour afterwards and were interred here. The men came from the province of Quebec, Duval from Three Rivers.

Silver Saved His Life.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Jake Randolph, a well-known politician, and his body guard, Chris Buckley, the ex-Democratic boss of this city, went to the Chronicle office for the purpose of shooting M. B. de Young, its proprietor. J. H. Eliot, business manager, attempted to eject Rudolph, when he fired at him. The bullet struck some silver in Eliot's pocket, saving his life. The would-be assassin was arrested. He says he owed De Young some money and would have shot him at once if he had seen him.

Coxey Found Guilty.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The jury has returned a verdict finding Coxey, Browne and Jones guilty on the first count of the information of carrying a banner in the Capitol grounds contrary to law, and Coxey and Browne guilty and Christopher Columbus Jones not guilty on the second count of trespassing on the grass. Pending a motion for a new trial, the defendants were released on $500 bail.

AMERICAN TARIFF REFORM.

Republican Opinion is That the Wilson Bill is Doomed.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A condition most unprecedented in the history of the Senate is found in the Finance Committee of that body. Owing to the death of Mr. Vance the political complexion of that committee is equally divided and it would be impossible to make a report upon any political question such as the tariff bill is undoubtedly considered to be. Of course this condition of affairs could be remedied by the Democrats themselves by the passage of a resolution filling the vacancy, but for some reason this is not thought desirable on the part of the majority. Under the circumstances therefore the amendment to the tariff bill reported by Mr. Jones will not be referred to the Committee on Finance.

A prominent Republican states that he considers the bill doomed. He refuses to admit that the concessions made have solidified the Democratic party, and said that the rock upon which they would split would be the sugar schedule. It is an open secret that the Republicans will vote as a unit to put sugar on the free list, and in so voting they hope to have the assistance of some of the Democrats who have declared their opposition to the taxing of "The poor man's breakfast table" should this be done. It is understood the Louisiana senators will absolutely vote against the bill. Some Democrats claim they have sufficient votes to carry the bill through without the aid of the voters from Louisiana, and as a rule Democrats are sanguine of speedy results.

Absolute Prohibition in South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, S.C., May 9.—South Carolina jumped from the dispensary system to absolute free whiskey. Now, after a reign of whiskey for a few weeks, the Supreme Court has decided that absolute prohibition is in force. The Supreme Court unanimously decided on this yesterday.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 9, 1894.

At the Ingersoll cheese market 1,276 boxes of May cheese were offered at 10½c and refused. No sales.

A cable from Liverpool quotes the cattle market weaker, with heavy receipts. Finest steers 10c and 10½c and good to choice 9½c to 10c.

Opinion on Wall street is almost universal that enough Sugar has been marketed to make insiders willing to see the price down and a few short interest established.

At the London (Eng.) wool sales 8,300 bales were offered. Competition was brisk. Greasy Merinos were in good request and scoureds sold well, chiefly to continental operators.

In New York market American Sugar again led the railway and miscellaneous share list in point of activity, the stock figuring for 112,900 shares. It opened at 106¼ to 106 and closed at 105½.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain were a little more liberal. One load of white wheat sold at 62c, one of red at 61c, and goose nominal at 58c. O is steady, 300 bushels selling at 39c to 40c. One load of peas sold at 64c, and barley nominal at 42c.

The Chicago wheat market was irregular but active on rumors that the Government crop report would be bearish. Cables were weak. The market closed ⅛c lower. Corn was firm, the close showing a net gain of ⅜c for the day. Oats were quiet.

ON FIRE WITH ECZEMA

Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and two Hospitals Fail. Cured by Cuticura.

My baby boy, 5 months old, broke out with eczema. The itching and burning was intense; the eczema spread to his limbs, breast, face, and head, until he was nearly covered; his torturing agonies were pitiable to behold; he had no peace and but little rest night or day. He was under treatment at different times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in this city without the least benefit; every prescription of the doctors was faithfully tried, but he grew worse all the time. For months I expended about $3 per week for medicines, and was entirely discouraged. I purchased CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and followed the directions to the letter. Relief was immediate, his sufferings were eased, and rest and sleep permitted. He steadily improved and in nine weeks was entirely cured, and has now as clear a skin and is as fair a boy as any mother could wish to see. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

THE CONTEST IN NORTH HASTINGS.

The electors of North Hastings are not, it would appear, to be given an opportunity of pronouncing squarely upon the issues presented for and against the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat, in the forthcoming election to the Ontario Legislature.

The Conservative party challenged the public verdict in that constituency, even after the Patrons had placed a candidate in the field, by renominating their tried and talented standard bearer, Mr. A. F. Wood; but the Grits, after consulting the Toronto junta, decided to show the white feather, leaving the contest to Mr. Wood, the Conservative nominee; Mr. McComb, the Patrons' candidate; and Mr. James Haggerty, who had nominated himself as an Independent.

The Grits are playing a game by pretending to support Mr. Haggerty, a Conservative of the old style, but now an "Independent," whatever that means; but it is too transparent to deceive any one. How Mr. Haggerty and his new-found friends will fare in the contest, is another matter. After it is over, one thing is sure, he will be more convinced than ever of the hollowness of Grit professions.

That any considerable number of Conservatives will be drawn to vote against their long cherished opinions because Mr. Haggerty in the past supported Conservatism, one cannot for a moment believe. Rather will they be repelled and induced to punish him for his conduct by his action in refusing to submit his claims to the decision of the party in their nominating convention, as did Mr. John Oaskey and other gentlemen whose claims were, as he tacitly confesses, equal to his own by reason of honest fealty to party.

Mr. Haggerty—and we say it with reluctance because of old associations—has deliberately, after four years of consideration, taken the field of his own motion, with the understood object, if not by himself, at least by the Grits, of defeating one of Mr. Meredith's ablest and most trusted lieutenants at a time when the prospect of winning the Province to the Conservative cause is of the brightest. This he has done calculating upon the support of a large number of Conservatives. What claim he upon this support he himself tells us his published address to the electors, reads as follows:

> GENTLEMEN—I stated to you four years ago t the nomination that I would be a candidate t the next general election. I am now going to redeem that promise, and will be a candidate at the coming election for the Ontario Legislature.
>
> If elected I shall support any measure that I believe to be in the interests of the people, regardless of religion or politics. Your obedient servant.
>
> JAS. HAGGERTY.

Mr. Haggerty is entitled to credit for his candor, as he announces above, over his own signature, in his first paragraph that he four years ago determined to defy the action of the Conservative party as expressed in convention and in his second he reads himself out of the party. Under such circumstances no self-respecting Conservative can do otherwise than actively support the gentleman whom his party have chosen as their standard-bearer because of his ability and his public services, and by so doing, frustrate the machinations of the Mowatites and rebuke the pretensions of one whose ambition has led him to take a course so much at variance with all his former professions to capture votes. "Independent" forsooth! Chaff scattered to the wind. It won't succeed.

WOES OF LORD ROSEBERY

The British Government in a Very Precarious Situation.

THEY WILL BREAK ON THE BUDGET

Several Liberals Notify the Whip That They Will Not Support the Second Reading and the Parnellites Will Put in a Solid Opposition—A Cabinet Meeting is Held to Discuss the Situation.

LONDON, May 9.—A cabinet meeting was held yesterday to discuss the situation of the Government. The budget proposals are meeting with serious opposition and the Government's position is very unstable. It is not yet known what action was taken at the meeting, but the general opinion was that the Government would go on despite the announcement that they have no hope of carrying the second reading by a greater majority than nine. This attenuated majority is the result of the announcement that the Parnellites intend to vote solidly against the second reading. Three or four Liberals have notified the Whips that they cannot support the Government, and will abstain from voting. Three Irish Nationalists are ill, and James Keir (Labor) and William Saunders (Radical) are put down as votes for the opposition. The Conservatives assert that while the budget may pass the second reading, that it will not be carried through the committee stage.

The Bi-Metallic Movement.

LONDON, May 9.—The failure of the bimetallic movement in the House of Commons last Friday night when Samuel Smith's motion that the Government endeavor to secure a staple par of exchange for gold and silver by international agreement was counted out while Mr. Knox was in the middle of a speech supporting it, is explained by the secretary of the bimetallic league. He says its failure was not due to the apathy of the House toward the movement, but to the fact that the motion having only second place at the sitting no division could be taken on it according to the rules.

Sir Charles Tupper on Canada.

LONDON, May 9.—Sir Charles Tupper made an address at the Colonial Institute last night on Canada in relation to the unity of the Empire. The Marquis of Lorne presided. Sir Charles Tupper made a strong protest against the assertion of Sir John Colomb and others to the effect that Canada has not done anything for Imperial defence. He also restated the case of the Colonies in their plea for Imperial aid towards the Pacific Cable and the Atlantic-Australian steamer schemes.

To Slaughter Canadian Cattle.

LONDON, May 9.—The Official Gazette publishes an order directing that Canadian cattle imported to England be marked at the ports of arrival and that they be isolated and killed at special abbatoirs. The carcasses of such cattle are not to be removed without the permission of the inspector of the Board of Husbandry. In addition, the lungs of these cattle are not to be touched until examined by the inspectors. The order goes into force on May 15.

Trouble in the Argentine.

LONDON, May 9.—A rumor has reached the Argentine consulate here that a revolutionary outbreak has taken place in Buenos Ayres. The Consul-General says that, although he has received no official information the report comes to him from a trustworthy source. Nothing is known of a revolution in Buenos Ayres at the Argentine legation, the banking house of Baring Bros., or any of the other places having commercial connection with the Argentine republic.

Hon. A. J. Mundella's Position.

LONDON, May 9.—The rebuke administered to the Right Hon. A. J. Mundella, president of the Board of Trade, by Justice Williams in the latter's review of the public examination of the affairs of the New Zealand Company, is the subject of genuine comment, and the opinion prevails that Mr. Mundella must resign from the Cabinet in consequence of the disclosures.

The Baroness Pleased With the Statue.

LONDON, May 9.—Baroness Macdonald made a visit to Mr. Wade's studio and inspected the colossal statue which that gentleman has been engaged on for the city of Montreal of the late Sir John Macdonald. The Baroness expressed her highest approval of the statue, which is now ready to be cast.

Lohmann Goes to Sing Sing.

NEW YORK, May 9.—W. D. Lohmann, ex-cashier of the Brooklyn Excise Department, was sent to Sing Sing prison to serve a term of seven years and four months for embezzlement. Lohmann was recently caught in Toronto, Ont. His lawyer pleaded for mercy on the ground that all the money Lohmann had appropriated ($19,400) went in bolstering up an automatic racing machine enterprise and in theatrical ventures at the Grand Opera house.

Tragic Death of a Surveyor.

MONCTON. N. B., May 9.—A tragic story reaches here from Miramichi. On April 16 a surveyor named Robert Ellis of Bathurst, accompanied by a Frenchman Pete, left on a surveying expedition for Kennedy F. Burns. They became short of food and were lost in the woods. They took the river in Cantamaran, hoping to reach a settlement. They were wrecked, and Ellis was carried by rushing waters to one bank and Pete to the other. They were unable to rejoin each other and Ellis told Pete to go ahead and he would get out all right. Pete found his way through the bush to the settlement and help returned for Ellis. Ellis' body was found on the bank of the river where he had been washed ashore. How he got there is a mystery. He leaves a wife and six children.

Attempt to Blow Up a Prison.

JACKSON, Mich., May 9.—An attempt was made to blow up the prison with dynamite as the convicts who are locked in the new west cell block were being marched to their cells from an evening meeting. Three of the convicts, Edward Huntley, serving a term of 20 years for burglary; John Deeman, serving 15 years for murder in the second degree; and Arthur Lawrence, serving 10 years for burglary, made a break from the ranks. One of them seized the guard and another sprang up into a window and attempted to light a fuse connecting with a dynamite bomb. An alarm was given and deputies arrived in time to prevent any damage and to quell the disturbance.

The St. Albans Sufferers.

QUEBEC, May 9.—Mayor Naud, of St, Alban, the scene of the recent great landslide, is here, and in an interview with the Provincial Premier and Secretary asked for assistance for the St. Alban sufferers. He was cordially received, and there is every reason to believe that his demand will be favorably entertained.

News was received from St. Anne last night to the effect that the disaster is increasing. Houses are falling one by one and carried away by the stream which is increasing by the falling rain water. The railroad bridge is threatened with destruction.

Striking Miners Evicted.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 9.—At Blue Creek mines, Ala., yesterday, over 100 negroes were put to work and evictions of striking miners began. The strikers are very much irritated in consequence and many threats are made.

TREES AND PLANTS.

The skin of the cactus is air-tight, a marvellous provision of nature to enable these plants to live in a soil where moisture is scarce and under a sun that would speedily dry up every drop of moisture they contain.

The vitality of seeds is a constant source of astonishment to naturalists. A pine forest when cleared away is often followed by a dense growth of oaks or birches, but where the seed comes from is conjectural.

Grains of wheat found in Egyptian mummy cases have been known to germinate after lying dormant for 3,000 years. The plant they produced is almost identical with the wheat grown in Egypt at the present time.

Madagascar has a palm called the "Traveler's Tree." The footstalks of its leaves clasp round the trunk, and are filled with water, which flows out readily when the stalk is pierced with a knife. Each receptacle yields from a pint to a gallon.

Many plants are sensitive to other influences than light. Some will close their leaves on being carried in a cart. The jolting seems to disturb their equanimity, though after a time they become apparently unconscious of and insensible to it.

THE MARRIAGE BONDS.

Bride stealing or abduction is punishable by heavy penalties in all the states.

During the last twenty years in England there were 4,872,000 marriages and 6,587 divorces.

The greater portion of divorces take place between the fifth and tenth year of married life.

While Mrs. Stent, of Branford, was in a New Haven lawyer's office having divorce papers made out, Mr. Stent was dying of injuries suffered in a railroad accident.

In twenty years prior to 1886 the United Kingdom had 6,587 divorces; Russia, 21,-976, France, 57,116; Germany, 93,818; all Europe, 258,332; the United States, 328,-716.

An Indiana divorce was some years ago granted because "the defendant pulled all the covering off of this plaintiff's bed and she likewise ran a knitting needle four inches into his arm."

It is only two years ago since Thomas Courtney took Rebecca F. Stivers as his bride, in Montgomery county, Ind. Since that joyful day they have been twice divorced, and now they are married for the third time.

OBSERVATIONS.

The New York Observer suggests that clergymen really ought not to write so illegibly as to provoke the compositors to commit the sin of profanity.

It is said by experts that practical, even-tempered men usually write a plain, round hand, in which every letter is legible, and that more ambitious men write hastily and carelessly.

"I don't know when I have seen two men more at ease in a carriage," said a traveler, "than two I saw this morning; they were sitting in the seat of a buggy which was secured to the platform of a flat car in a freight train that we passed, and comfortably conversing as the train sped along across the country."

A policeman was taking a little boy to the station-house recently. The child was very small, very dirty, but not at all frightened; he carried a little red pail and a fire-shovel in his hand. "Poor little fellow!" exclaimed a lady. "His mother will miss him and find him when she wants the shovel," was the policeman's remark.

The railroads of Holland are the safest. There is only one passenger killed per annum, while only four are injured.

A suit brought by the brother of the founder of the Magazin du Louvre, in Paris, shows that the business is valued at $17,500,000.

For the first time in the history of the English univertity boat race a married man, Sir Charles Ross, rowed in one of the crews this year. He was married two years ago.

The hard times have been severely felt in religious circles in England. The Additional Curates' society which furnished funds to provide curates for poor parishes where adequate clerical services are not available, has had greatly to curtail its grants, withdrawing 170 grants in a total of 1,162. This will deprive as many curates of a large part, if not the whole of their income. The society hopes for better times this year.

Americans for Mashonaland.

CAPETOWN, May 9.—A pioneer party, under the auspices of the American Board of Women's Foreign Mission, is about to start for Mashonaland. If their report be favorable, a number of American farmers will follow. Many Americans are already in the Transvaal, and a great influx is expected there and in the country northward shortly.

The Joan of Arc Celebration.

PARIS, May 9.—The Count of Paris has written to the royalist youth of France a letter concerning the Joan of Arc celebration in Orleans. He says: "This celebration binds all France in a common bond of patriotism, but it does not allow Joan of Arc's mission to be stuffed by the party spirit of the Catholic and royalist character which she herself claimed for it."

TALES OF ROYAL FOLK.

EMPEROR WILLIAM OF GERMANY AS A MORALIST.

Even at the Request of His Grandfather He Declined to Rescind an Order Against Gambling in His Regiment—His Sentiments Still Unchanged.

The opposition of the Emperor of Germany to gambling in every form among his officers is creating something akin to consternation in army circles. The wearers of the stars, straps and gold buttons almost fear to touch cards in their own rooms for fear his majesty, in some way, will hear of it and reprimand them. This policy of the ruler is not a whim of the moment. It is in accordance with a resolution taken in his younger days, when he was suspected to be in sympathy with everything "wild" in the German capital. It is brought about by the suicide of a promising young lieutenant in the regiment to which the prince was attached and of whom he was exceedingly fond. While playing one night in the Union Club, the "swellest" organization in Germany, he staked his fortune, lost it and left the green table to send a bullet through his brain. His royal highness was much affected by the news and made a vow that, should he live to ascend the throne, he would preclude such tragedies if possible. He adopted the policy long before the unhappy death of his father, however. A short time after the suicide of his friend, he became commander of the hussar regiment of the Garde-du-Corps. Among the orders with which he surprised his subalterns one morning was that directing them to give up gambling in the Union Club or resign from its membership lists. The officers of the guard in German regiments are necessarily wealthy men, and when they ceased to play for high stakes life at the club became comparatively monotonous. A committee was appointed to call upon old Emperor William to endeavor to induce him to persuade his grandson to withdraw the obnoxious order. His majesty promised to do so, sent for Prince William and asked him to rescind the command. The prince remained steadfast. The old emperor insisted.

"Allow me to ask your majesty," finally broke out the prince, "if I am still colonel of this regiment?"

"As a matter of course," came the answer.

"Then I ask your majesty to allow me to uphold my order," he replied, "or otherwise I hand back the command into your hands at once."

The old hero, pleased with the spirit of the young soldier, patted him on the shoulder and continued:

"That is impossible. I could not get so good a colonel again. The order shall remain."

The determination showed at that time—he was then only about 26 years old—he continues to show and never misses an opportunity to give expression to his abhorrence of gambling. German fathers and mothers give the Emperor unstinted praise for his policy and pray that he may be successful in its execution. It is a policy which meets the approval even of the socialists. Nothing that he has undertaken, in fact, has gained for him more genuine friends and admirers.

For the Complexion.

Since the time when the Greeks craved personal beauty as the greatest gift of the gods and Roman matrons believed so strongly in the pre-natal influence of music, flowers and amiability upon the symmetry of their sons and daughters, how to attain this supreme gift is still the dominant thought of woman.

She craves to be goodly to look upon, and she can accomplish this—unless she be hopelessly ill-favored—by persistent use of the small aids to beauty which are everywhere accessible.

A clear complexion is, of course, rightly considered the first essential to beauty, and unless the skin be healthy and fine handsome features can not make good the blemish.

The cold water fad is essentially English, for the icy plunge is a punishment, and therefore, according to our medical men, wrong for us. Tepid and warm baths help us most, while for the face the water must be as hot as we can bear it to produce the best results. Almond meal is a delusion and a disappointment when used on a thin, delicate skin, for while usually found to be recommended for that very kind it often makes it blotchy.

Better than almond meal is the bran of Indian meal used at night. Lather the hands with the finest soap, dip them in the bran and vigorously wash the face, using quite hot water to rinse it. Mop nearly dry and rewash several times in a pint of hot water into which you have dropped twenty drops of benzoin—not benzine. This whitens the skin and closes the pores.

Horseradish grated in buttermilk will remove freckles, it is said, and quite an admissible way to get a good color is to dampen the cheeks with a little extract of ginger.

Human Nature.

THE LARGE AND CONSTANTLY growing business of this firm is due, among other reasons, to the ample capital and immense importations of diamonds, selected by their own buyers in the best foreign markets. The handling of these in large quantities enables them to import fine qualities at a lower price than in smaller deals, the poorer qualities could be bought.

Aside from this, their factory on the premises enables them, in many lines of goods, to save both factory and middle men's profits.

A speciality is made of letter orders. When correspondents give an idea of the article wanted and an approximate price desired, a careful selection is sent on approval with the understanding that nothing need be taken.

MARRIED AT PICTON.

Dr. Jas. F. Dolan and Miss Annie O'Hagan United for Life by Father O'Brien.

As stated in our issue of yesterday the marriage of Dr. Jas. F. Dolan, of this city, to Miss Annie Agnes O'Hagan, daughter of Robert O'Hagan, Picton, took place in St. Gregory's church, Picton, yesterday morning at ten o'clock. Rev. Father O'Brien, of this city, officiated, and his presence was accepted as a great compliment by the young couple. The maid of honor was Miss Minnie Dolan, sister of the groom, and the bridesmaids were little Misses Katie Dolan and Christina Teall. Mr. E. McHugh, of this city, did the honors of groomsman. The ushers were J. J. Dolan, of this city, and Mr. McDonald, of Picton. The marriage was celebrated by nuptial mass. Mr. J. N. Doyle sang the "Holy City" in magnificent voice, and Miss Redmond and Mr. Burke, of Picton, sang as a duet "Oh Salutaris." The bride, who was attired in cream silk, was escorted to the altar by her father. The maid of honor wore cream and Nile green silk and the bridesmaids (Miss Kate Dolan) crepon and buttercups and (Miss Teall) cream and blue. After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the residence of the bride's father, where a recherche wedding breakfast was served. The happy couple took the 3:20 p. m. train for Toronto and Niagara. They were escorted to the depot by the whole party, who gave them a rousing send off when the train pulled out. The bride's going away dress was a most beautiful costume, being of grey tweed, trimmed with golden brown velvet and gold passementerie.

The presents to the bride were both numerous and handsome. Following are a few of them: Groom's present was a Steinway piano; the groom's father, a very handsome bedroom suit; the groom's mother, a dinner and tea set; Miss Minnie Dolan, silver fruit basket; eight of the doctor's gentlemen friends of this city, a beautiful silver coffee service and silver water pitcher; the bride's father and brother, each $20 in gold; Mr. Geo. Reid, a marble clock; Mr. E McHugh, a silver carving set; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gormally, of Toronto, a beautiful steel engraving; C. D. Macaulay, silver fruit knives; Father O'Brien, a handsomely bound prayer book; Misses Maggie and Teresa Graham, a cream silk handpainted sofa pillow; Mr. J. N. Doyle, a silver card case; Dr. McColl, silver salt shells. A large number of other presents were received and several were sent direct to the doctor's home on Hotel St. The INTELLIGENCER joins with the young couple's many friends in tendering congratulations.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING.

The Evangelists Address Another Large Gathering in Bridge St. Church.

The church was well filled last evening to hear Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, not many vacant seats being left for late comers. The unanimous verdict was, "the best meeting yet," but perhaps this might be said of all the meetings, as they grow in power and interest.

Mr. Crossley did not sing, owing to his not having sufficiently recovered from his cold contracted on Sunday, but Messrs. D. C. Crossley and Canfield sang a duet entitled, "Art Thou Weary" very acceptably. Later in the evening Prof. and Miss Canfield sang "Nothing but Leaves."

Mr. Hunter read Ephesians 9th chap., dwelling for some time on the topic of present day evils and the danger of trifling with sin. Mr. Crossley's sermon was from the text, "Search the Scriptures," and used an acrostic on the word scripture, which he has had printed on the back of the hymn book used in these services. He said men whether christians should search the scriptures—systematically, carefully, reverently, intently, prayerfully, trustingly, understandingly, relentively every day savingly. He pleaded with the people assembled to be true to the Word of God, which is able to save souls, and to pay slight attention to higher criticism, which means lower piety. God gave the book to be used, not abused. "Bring me the book," said Sir Walter Scott. "What book?" his attendants replied. "There is but one book," said Sir Walter. So with this library of sixty-six books writen by thirty-six authors, dictated by the Holy Ghost, we have the richest mine of wealth ever given to man. Some things we cannot clearly understand, this is but a proof of its divine authorship.

NOTES.

John Wesley said, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Some people quote this as from the scripture, said Mr. Hunter.

A MIRACLE OF TO-DAY.

THE STARTLING EXPERIENCE OF A YOUNG LADY IN ST. THOMAS.

A Constant Sufferer for More than Five Years—Her Blood had Turned to Water—Physicians Held Out No Hope of Her Recovery—How Her Life Was Saved—A Wonderful Story.

(From the St. Thomas Journal)

"The Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him, and delivereth them." Such is a verse of holy writ made familiar to very many residents of St. Thomas by the well known evangelist, Rev. J. E. Hunter. In letters of gold on the stained glass fan light over the door of his residence No. 113 Wellington street, is the text "Psalm xxxiv, 7." Though we live in an age noted for its energetic, zealous Christian endeavor, this idea of Mr. Hunter's to impress the truths of the scripture upon those who read though they run, is altogether so original and so novel that it at once excites the curiosity. Those not familiar with the text make a mental note of it, and at the first opportunity look it up. This is just what was done by a representative of the Journal, who had occasion to visit Mr. Hunter's residence the other day. But with the object of his visit and the information obtained the reader will be more concerned. The reporter was assigned to investigate a marvellous cure said to been effected in the case of a young lady employed in Mr. Hunter's family by that well known and popular remedy, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. And it was a wonderful story that the young lady had to tell, and it is undoubtedly as true as it is wonderful. Last June the same reporter interviewed Mrs. John Cope, wife of the toll-gate-keeper on the London and Port Stanley road, who had been cured by Pink Pills of running ulcers on the limbs after years of suffering and being given up by a number of physicians. The old lady had entirely recovered, and could not say too much in praise of Dr. Williams Pink Pills, which had given her a new lease of life. As it was with Mrs. Cope, so it was with Miss Edna Harris, the young lady in the employ of Mr. Hunter's family who had been restored to health and strength by Pink Pills. Miss Harris has just passed her twentieth year, and is a daughter of Geo. Harris, who lives at Yarmouth Heights, and is employed by Mr. Geo. Boucher, florist and plantsman.

"I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life, and I am quite willing that everyone should know it," was the reply of Miss Harris when asked if she had been benefitted by Pink Pills, and if so would she make public her story. Continuing, she said, "When I was twelve or thirteen years of age I was first taken sick. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. For five years I suffered terribly, and was so weak that I could barely keep alive. It was only my grit and strong will, the doctors said, that kept me alive at all. If I tried to stand for a short time, or if I got the least bit warm I would fall over in a faint. My eyes were white and glassy and I was so thin and pallid that every one believed I was dying of consumption. During the five years I was ill, I was attended by five physicians in St. Thomas, two in Detroit, one in London and one in Aylmer, and none of them could do anything for me. I was so far gone that they had no hopes of my recovery. Towards the last my feet and limbs swelled so that they had to be bandaged to keep them from bursting. They were bandaged for three months, and my whole body was swollen or bloated, and the doctors said there was not a pint of blood in my body, and they held out no hopes whatever. Two years ago I saw in the Journal about a man in Hamilton being cured by taking Pink Pills. I thought if they could cure him they would help me, and I decided to try them. Before I had finished three boxes I felt relieved; the swelling went down and the bandages were removed. I continued taking Pink Pills until I had taken seven boxes, then irregularly I took three more, one of which Mr. Hunter brought back from Brockville. I am perfectly cured. I have not been ill a single day since I finished the seventh box of pills. I came to Mrs. Hunter's a year ago, and she will tell you I have never been ill a day since coming here, and I always feel strong and able to do the work. I can and do strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," said Miss Harris in conclusion. Her appearance is certainly that of a strong, healthy young woman.

Mrs. J. E. Hunter, wife of the evangelist, told the reporter that Miss Harris was a good, reliable and truthful girl, and that perfect reliance could be placed in her statements. "She looks like a different girl from what she was when she came here a year ago," said Mrs. Hunter.

The facts above related are important to parents, as there are many young girls just budding into womanhood whose condition is, to say the least, more critical than their parents imagine. Their complexion is pale and waxy in appearance, troubled with heart palpitation, headaches, shortness of breath on the slightest exercise, faintness and other distressing symptoms which invariably lead to a premature grave unless prompt steps are taken to bring about a natural condition of health. In this emergency no remedy yet discovered can take the place of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which build anew the blood, strengthen the nerves and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. They are a certain cure for all troubles peculiar to the female system, young or old. Pink Pills also cure such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration, the after effects of la grippe, and severe colds, diseases depending on humors in the blood, scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. In the case of men they affect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark. They are never sold in bulk, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud and should be avoided. The public are cautioned against other so called blood builders and nerve tonics, put up in similar form intended to deceive. Ask for Dr. William's Pink Pills for Pale People, and refuse all imitations and substitutes. Can be had from all dealers or by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y., at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

A Worthy Object.

Geo. Buskin, of the Algoma and Northwest Evangelical and Colportage Mission, is making his eleventh annual visit to Belleville, in the interest of the work. There has been supplied in the district during the past year by the mission, 852 Scriptures and scriptural books in six languages, 26 religious services conducted, religious tracts and magazines distributed,—also similar work done outside the district; 11,000 copies of new editions of rudimental scriptural books have been published in Indian and English, French, and French and English, all necessary for the work; also, improved and printed 3,000 copies of former editions, and others are being published. The missionary gratefully acknowledges $26 75 contributed in Belleville last year for the mission, and respectfully asks a renewal of christian help to continue and enlarge the work.

S. H. CLARK RECITAL.

A Splendid Entertainment in the Opera House Last Evening.

This long anticipated entertainment came off last evening at the opera house, which held a representative and discriminating audience. Miss Rathbun, Mrs. W. H. Campbell, Miss Coleman, Mr. Doyle and Mr. Fax rendered very choice vocal selections, which were rapturously encored, while Mrs. Campbell played the accompaniments in her usual faultless manner.

Mr. Clark was at his very best, and held his audience entirely under his control—at one moment laughing uproariously and at another melting to tears by the exquisite pathos of some of the selections. Robert of Sicily was the strongest piece presented. The rendition evinced deep thought and thorough study. The reciter evidently had analyzed the poem, caught the meaning of the poet and faithfully interpreted the ideas intended to be conveyed. The stern, arrogant king, humbled to the earth—made to wear the motley garb of the jester, and lead an ape—the struggle of the proud will, the submission, confession and reinstatement, all were beautifully portrayed.

The humorous selections were exceedingly good. In the scene from Stockton, where little Pat is lulled to sleep by the old Methodist hymn, the audience could not restrain their mirth, but gave way to peals of laughter. "Dick Swiveller and the Marchioness" from Dickens was admirably done—the pompous tones of Dick and the piping treble of the marchioness made you fancy if you closed your eyes that there were two personalities on the stage. "The Chariot Race" was simply grand. In the culmination, when Ben Hur urges the flying Arabian steeds, calls to them in terms of endearment, tells them of their desert home, you caught the wild rush of the horses—you saw the bounding chariot—the white, eager faces of thousands in the amphitheatre—here the great magnetic force of Mr. Clark was felt, he carried his audience irresistibly. Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blue" went to the hearts of all those who have "loved and lost" a little one. Many a mother has a drawer filled with toys, little holy worn shoes and dresses that are dearer to her than would be gold or diamonds. "Daddy's Lil' Boy," was a most finished production. It was perfectly, wonderfully natural. After the close of the entertainment a number of friends partook of the hospitality of W. W. Pope, Esq., and enjoyed a masterly reading from Macbeth by Mr. Clarke.

The pity—the great pity—is that our citizens frequently fail to patronize the best entertainments of the season. In listening to Mr. Clarke we had the pleasure of hearing the best elocutionist in all probability on this continent. F.

TRAMPS AGAIN.

Three of Them in Court This Morning—A Switchman's Sharp Trick.

The police received a call to the G.T.R. Station last evening about 11:30 to arrest two tough looking tramps who had been prowling around the yard for two days past. Michael Donovan, baggageman, laid the information and volunteered to drive the officer to where the men were. Officer Stoneberg accompanied him and when north of the station some distance they met the two. The officer grabbed one of them and handed him over to Donovan to hold while he took after the other one, but the second man proved too fleet for the policeman and he gave up the pursuit. In the meantime the prisoner in Donovan's charge managed to get away and after going off a little distance came back to the little baggageman, struck him a blow in the mouth and then skipped. Although there were a number of men and boys standing round they made no effort to prevent his escape. Officer Stoneberg gave Alex. McCaskey, switchman, a description of the man who assaulted Donovan and told him to be on the look-out for him. Shorly after the officer had left the man who was wanted came over to the switch shanty at the east end and asked McCaskey about a train west. He told him that he could not get a train then, and invited him into the shanty to play checkers, at the same time giving his mate the wink to go and telephone the police. Officers Stoneberg and Hayes were there in a short time and got their man. He appeared in the police court this morning charged with trespassing on the G. T. R. and assault. From his appearance he would be a bad man to meet after dark. The Magistrate said the county was as well off without such men and gave him two months in gaol.

Owen McDermot, another Coxeyite, was charged with trespassing on the Grand Trunk property and being drunk. It was stated by witnesses that he most unmercifully beat another tramp in his company, and the Magistrate thought the county could afford to board him for two months.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

R. B. Chisholm's Salary ordered to be paid—Miss Jack's Resignation Accepted.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education, held last evening, the following members were present: Chairman Hugh Walker, Dr. Tracy, Messrs Clark, S. A. Moore, Johnson, Martin, Wills, Gordon, I. Diamond, Tennant, Mills, Hunter, S. S. Moore, and Rev. Canon Burke.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS AND PETITIONS.

From John Johnston, I.P.S., re non resident pupils.

From the Minister of Education, re R. B. Chisholm's claim for back salary.

From H. J. Clarke, asking the Board to appoint him an examiner with Dr. Wright.

From Burnham Lott, asking to be appointed a teacher in Octavia St. school.

From J. P. Thompson, Sec. of St. Andrew's church, re the fence between the above church and the High School yard.

Mr. Johnson moved, seconded by Mr. Wills, that Mr. Chisholm be paid the amount due him.—Carried.

The communications were referred to their respective committees.

REPORTS.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of a number of accounts.

The School Management Committee recommended that Miss Jessie Jack's resignation from her position as teacher in Octavia St. school be accepted, and that Mr. McKeown, who has been supplying her place for some time, be left in charge until the mid-summer holidays.

Dr. Wright, Principal of the High School, presented his reports for the months of March and April.

The Board went into Committee of the Whole on Reports, Mr. S. S. Moore in the chair.

The accounts recommended by the Finance Committe were passed without discussion, as was also the report of the School Management Committee.

The Committee of the Whole rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

Mr. I. Diamond moved, seconded by Rev. Canon Burke, that the Board of Education unitedly express their regret that Miss Jessie Jack has considered it necessary to tender her resignation as first assistant teacher of the Octavia st. School. For many years she has rendered faithful and efficient services to the Board. Her general deportment has been such that she has endeared herself to all her pupils and was most highly esteemed by the parents of all the children. And that a copy of this resolution be engrossed, framed and presented to Miss Jack.

Several members spoke in the most complimentary terms of Miss Jack and the resolution carried by a standing vote.

Moved by Wm. Johnson, seconded by S. A. Moore, that a flag be raised on Pinnacle st. school on the 24th of May and one on Grier st. on the 1st of July.—Carried.

Moved by Wm. Johnson, seconded by Thos. Wills, that a committee composed of the chairman of the Board, the chairman of the Finance, School Management, Sites, Buildings and Repairs, Printing and Supplies, Central and High school, and Rev. Canon Burke and Rev. M. W. Maclean be appointed to confer with other committees for the purpose of tendering a fitting reception to the representative of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.—Carried.

The Board adjourned.

DEAR SIRS.—I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same in my general business. I thereupon decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking two bottles I found I was quite another man, for B. B. B. entirely cured me. I have also used it for my wife and family and have found it the best thing they can take, and from past experience I have every pleasure in strongly recommending B.B.B. to all my friends.

I write you because I think that it should be generally known what B. B. B. can accomplish in cases of indigestion.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

TREASURE ISLAND

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

Even Silver, eating away, with Captain Flint upon his shoulder, had not a word of blame for their recklessness. And this the more surprised me, for I thought he had never shown himself so cunning as he did then.

'Ay, mates,' said he, 'it's lucky you have Barbecue to think for you with this here head. I got what I wanted. I did. Sure enough, they have the ship. Where they have it I don't know yet, but once we hit treasure, we'll have to jump about and find out. And then, mates, us that has the boats, I reckon, has the upper hand.'

Thus he kept running on, with mouth full of the hot bacon; thus he restored their hope and confidence, and, I more than suspect, repaired his own at the same time.

'As for hostage,' he continued, 'that's his last talk, I guess, with them he loves so dear. I've got my piece of news, and thank him for that, but it's over and done. I'll take him in a line when we go treasure-hunting, for we'll keep him like so much gold, in case of accidents, you mark, and in the meantime, once we got the ship and treasure both, and off to sea like jolly companions, why, then we'll talk Mr. Hawkins over, we will, and we'll give him his share to be sure, for all his kindness.'

It was no wonder they were in good humor now. For my part I was horribly cast down. Should the scheme he had now sketched prove feasible, Silver, who was doubly a traitor, would not hesitate to adopt it. He had still a foot in either camp, and there was no doubt he would prefer wealth and freedom with the pirates to a bare escape from hanging, which was the best he had to hope on our side.

Nay, and even if things so fell out that he was forced to keep his faith with Dr. Livesey, even then what danger lay before us! What a moment that would be when the suspicions of his followers turned to certainty, and he and I should have to fight for dear life—he a cripple, and I a boy—against five strong and active seamen. Add to this double apprehension the mystery that still hung over the conduct of my friends; this unexpected desertion of the stockade, their inexplicable cession of the chart, or, harder still to understand, the doctor's last warning to Silver, 'Look out for squalls when you find it,' and you will readily believe how little taste I found in my breakfast, and with how uneasy a heart I set forth behind my captors on the quest of treasure.

We made a curious figure, had any one been there to see us, all in soiled sailor clothes, and all but me armed to the teeth. Silver had two guns slung about him, one before and one behind—besides the great cutlass he had at his waist, and a pistol in each pocket of his square tailed coat. To complete his strange appearance Captain Flint sat perched upon his shoulder and gabbled odds and ends of purposeless sea talk. I had a line about my waist, and followed obediently after the sea-cook, who held the loose end of the rope, now in his free hand, and now in his powerful teeth. For all the world I was like a dancing bear.

The other men were variously burdened, some carrying picks and shovels—for that had been the very first necessary they had brought ashore from the 'Hispaniola'—others laden with pork, bread and brandy for the mid day meal. All the stores, I observed, came from our stock and I could see the truth of Silver's words the night before. Had he not struck a bargain with the doctor he and his mutineers, deserted by the ship, must have been driven to subsist on clear water and the proceeds of their hunting. Water would have been little to their taste: a sailor is not usually a good shot; and, besides all that, when they were so short of eatables, it was not likely they would be very flush of powder.

Well, thus equipped, we set out—even the fellow with the broken head, who should certainly have kept in shadow—and straggled, one after another, to the beach, where the two gigs awaited us. Even these bore traces of the drunken folly of the pirates, one in a broken thwart and both in their muddied and unbailed condition. Both were to be carried along with us, for the sake of safety, and so, with our number divided between them, we set forth upon the bosom of the anchorage.

As we pulled over there was some discussion about the chart. The red cross was, of course, far too large to be a guide, and then the terms of the note on the back, as you will hear, admitted of some ambiguity. They ran, the reader may remember thus:

'Tall tree, Spy glass shoulder, bearing a point to the N. of N. N. E.
'Skeleton Island E. S. E. by E.
'Ten feet.'

A tall tree was thus the principal mark. Now, right before us, the anchorage was bounded by a plateau from two to three hundred feet high, adjoining on the north the sloping southern shoulder of the Spy glass and rising up again toward the south into the rough, cliffy eminence called the Mizzen-mast Hill. The top of the plateau was dotted thickly with pine trees of varying height. Every here and there, one of a different species rose forty or fifty feet clear above its neighbors, and which of these was the particular 'tall tree' of Captain Flint could only be decided on the spot and by the readings of the compass.

Yet, although that was the case, every man on board the boats had picked a favorite of his own ere we were half way over, Long Jim alone shrugging his shoulders and bidding them to wait till they were there.

We pulled easily, by Silver's directions, not to weary their hands prematurely; and after quite a long passage, landed at the mouth of the second river—that which runs down a woody cleft of the Spy-glass. Thence, bending to our left, we began to ascend the slope toward the plateau.

At the first outset, heavy, miry ground and a matted, marshy vegetation, greatly delayed our progress; but by little and little the hill began to steepen and become stoney under-foot, and the wood to change its character and to grow in a more open order. It was, indeed, a most pleasant portion of the island we were now approaching. A heavy scented broom and many other flowering shrubs had almost taken the place of grass. Thickets of green nutmeg trees were dotted here and there with the red columns and the broad shadows of the pines: and the first mingled their spice with the aroma of the others. The air, besides, was fresh and stirring, and this, under the cheery sunbeams, was a wonderful refreshment to our senses.

The party spread itself abroad, in a fan shape, shouting and leaping to and fro. About the centre, and a good way behind the rest, Silver and I followed—I tethered by a rope, he plowing, with deep pants, among the sliding gravel. From time to time, indeed, I had to lend him a hand, or he must have missed his footing and fallen backward down the hill.

We had thus proceeded for about half a mile and were approaching the brow of the plateau, when the man upon the furthest left began to cry aloud, as if in terror. Shout after shout came from him and the others began to run in his direction.

'He can't have found the treasure,' said old Morgan, hurrying past us from the right, 'for that's clean a-top.'

A Universal Friend.

Fruit is the poor man's friend, the rich man's luxury, the laborer's physician and the foe to patent medicine and quack doctors. There is no more royal road to health than that lined by trees of ripened fruit. The growth of trees, whether in the forest or in the orchard, takes from the soil the necessary nutriment both for the formation of wood and the development of fruit. To secure the most satisfactory development of fruit requires health and vigor of wood. But the growth of trees in a soil continually cropped is soil exhaustion, and if continued for a term of years with no restoration of fertilizing material, the conditions become unfavorable to any healthy growth of wood fibre. It is under such conditions as these that fruit rapidly deteriorates or fails of production.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. McINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

DEFENCE OF THE EMPIRE

Canada's Services Strongly Upheld at the Colonial Institute.

THE GREAT PROJECTS DISCUSSED

Sir Charles Tupper Shows Good Reason Why Imperial Aid Should be Granted—The Ottawa Conference Will Decide the Proportion of Expense to be Borne by the Different Colonies.

LONDON, May 10.—At the regular fortnightly meeting of the Colonial Institute, the paper which Sir Charles Tupper read on Canada in relation to the unity of the Empire provoked a long and animated discussion. Sir John Colomb was present and repeated his charges to the effect that the colonies had not given aid to the defences of the Empire. He said that the Canadian people fail to realize their Imperial duties. They contribute nothing to the Imperial army and navy.

The Marquis of Lorne, who presided at the meeting, G. R. Parkin of Imperial Federation fame, Mr. Dobell of Quebec, Sir Charles Tupper and several Australian speakers, among whom were Mr. James Huddart, the promoter of the fast Atlantic and Pacific steamship lines, and Mr. Giles of Victoria, stoutly defended Canada.

Sir Charles Tupper showed that Canada annually spent £3,350,000 sterling for services of vital importance to the defence and unity of the Empire.

The matter of Imperial aid to the new Pacific cable and Atlantic and Pacific steamship services, was the next subject referred to by Sir Charles Tupper. He said that the Ottawa conference, which will open on June 22, will decide the proportions which the different colonies interested will have to bear of the expenses in connection with these schemes. But seeing the paramount importance to the Empire and especially British trade, England must join hands with her colonies in aiding the projects.

The discussion on this subject brought out in the boldest relief, the generous spirit of the colonies in the Imperial cause and must certainly go a long way in stimulating the movement for Imperial aid.

AMERICAN RULE IN HAWAII.

Royalists Refuse to Take Any Part in the Pending Elections.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The President has transmitted to Congress a despatch from Minister Willis, dated Honolulu, April 14, in which he says that in compliance with the telegram from the department requiring him to keep them fully informed of the course of events, he encloses a set of resolutions adopted by a mass meeting of royalists on the 9th of April.

The meeting at which the resolutions were adopted is reported to have been quiet and orderly and the number of persons present is estimated at from 2,000 to 3,000. The resolutions declared that the convention called by the provisional government for the purpose of promulgating a constitution requires all voters to first take an oath of allegiance to the provisional government and to oppose the re-establishment of monarchy.

They characterize this as an unreasonable restriction upon the people, and say that as there is now pending before the government of the United States, a protest of the constitutional government of Hawaii against the action of those by whom that government was deposed.

They, therefore, decline to register or take any part in the election of delegates to this convention until a final reply has been received to this protest, addressed to the United States. They forwarded a copy of these resolutions to the minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Hawaii, with a request that he shall forward the same to his government.

THE STORM-BLOWN COUNTRY.

Wind and Rain Create Considerable Havoc in the South.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., May 10.—A wind and rain storm demolished the Catholic church and several small buildings at this place. A number of business places were unroofed.

UNION CITY, Tenn., May 10.—This city was visited by a terrific wind and rain storm, and reports from every section of the country indicate great destruction of property, and the loss will be heavy.

CORINTH, Miss., May 10.—Heavy rains washed away a portion of the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad near Loons, Tenn.

The Campbell Heresy Case.

CARLETON PLACE, Ont., May 10.—A meeting of the Synod was held yesterday, the moderator being Rev. J. R. McLeod, of Three Rivers, Que. Prof. Campbell's appeal was taken up. The lecture, as delivered before the students of Queen's University, Kingston, is said to contain an exposal of the professor to the grave charges contained in the libel to which he gives a general denial. Next in order came the reading of the libel, both in its perfected and incipient stage. This occupied much time, and deeply interested the audience. Prof. Campbell protested for reason "the presbytery failed to weigh the scriptural arguments presented for the defence." His protest and appeal were received by the Synod when D. McLennan, Q.C., Cornwall, moved, and Rev. Mr. Calder, Lancaster, seconded, that the case be remitted to the presbytery of Montreal, a new reason being the book of forms was not followed with sufficient minuteness. The case will be continued to-day.

Negro Miners Compelled to Quit.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 10.—The negro miners at Milldale quit work to-day because they received three formal anonymous notices to do so. The last of these was posted at the mines last night and read: "You have been given three notices to quit work. If you do not obey them to-morrow morning you will not live to disobey long." The notice was decked with skull and bones and purported to have been signed in blood with a dagger. Deputies have gone to the scene.

Killed by a Falling Chimney.

WINNIPEG, May 10.—Howard Smith was instantly killed and Aubrey Tennant fatally injured yesterday by the falling of a chimney. Both young men were in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company. A workman was also seriously injured. Tennant is not expected to live many hours.

Haldimand Liberals.

CAYUGA, Ont., May 10.—A meeting of the Liberals of Haldimand was held here yesterday to select a candidate for the Legislature. Dr. Baxter, M.P.P., was the only nominee of the convention and was chosen to again contest the seat.

ANDREWS MURDER CASE.

Trial of the Accused Trio Commenced—Doc. Andrews Looks Haggard.

TORONTO, May 10.—The Andrews murder case was opened at the criminal assize court yesterday before Justice Meredith. Mr. Clute, Q. C., represented the Crown, and W. R. Riddell, Q. C., appeared for Doc. Andrews. Andrews looked very frail and haggard. His wife and niece looked well after their long confinement. The jury was selected without much trouble. There are about fifty witnesses for the Crown and ten for the prisoners. The prisoners are charged with the murder of Lucy Denning, Nov. 2, 1893. The girl, it will be remembered, having died from the effects of an abortion procured on her by the prisoners.

The principal witness was Mrs. Lewis, sister of deceased, who went over the ground brought out at the inquest, telling in detail the story of the alleged abortion. She described the shocking incidents which lead to the death of the unfortunate girl with minuteness.

Mrs. Mary Denning, mother of Lucy Denning, took the stand, her evidence corroborating the story told by Mrs. Lewis. In telling of her grief at the manner in which her daughter came to her death, she said that Mrs. Andrews consoled her by stating that it was not an unusual proceeding. Even some of the most respectable people of the city came to the doctor for treatment. She said that Andrews said, speaking of disposing of the body, that the undertakers would do anything. They could put Lucy's body under another in a grave and then her relatives could advertise her as lost.

Detective Burroughs testified to searching the Andrews house and finding therein the instruments used for performing abortion.

Several other witnesses were examined before the court adjourned, their evidence chiefly bringing out the facts already elicited at the inquest. A great deal of interest is being taken in the case, and the court room was crowded during the trial.

THAT SANDUSKY SEIZURE.

Daytonians Claim Their Arrest Was a Misapprehension.

DAYTON, Ohio, May 10.—From telegrams received here by the Pelee Club, many of whose members were arrested off Sandusky by the Canadian fishery inspectors, the following is gleaned:

The Daytonians were aboard the Visitor, owned at Put-in Bay, and the Leroy Brooks, owned by Count William Rehberg, of Middle Bass Island. Besides the Daytonians on board were Jas. B. Peebles and party from Cincinnati and a party from Louisville, Decatur, New York and Chicago. The steamer Ina, with ex-Mayor Mosby and party of Cincinnati, anchored off Middle Bass.

On Monday these boats went to Pelee Island to visit the Lincoln Club. There Dr. McCormick, the Canadian Consul, had an assistant, Frank Walters, who gave permission to them to fish. The party construed it to mean for four days. The consul intended it for one day only. The consul refused to grant clearance papers to the boats, and while parleying with him the Government ram, Petrel, seized the Brooks and Visitor and their officers, dismantled the machinery and proceeded to Amherstburg, where the fleet now is. The fishing parties were released and proceeded to Sandusky. The Ina was warned by a passing boat that the Petrel was after her also, and escaped into American waters.

It is believed by the Daytonians that the secret of the whole affair lies in the fact that heretofore the greater part of the crowd there has been stopping at Dr. McCormick's hotel. This year they are with a rival house. Never before, they say, was the slightest objection to fish made by Dr. McCormick.

One Farthing Damages.

LONDON, May 10.—The suit for slander brought by Mr. Robert Household, auditor of the Grand Trunk Railroad of Canada, against Lord Claud Hamilton, one of the directors, has been concluded. The plaintiff contended that Lord Claud Hamilton accused him of dishonorable conduct at the Grand Trunk meeting in April, 1893, when the plaintiff was a candidate for a directorship. Mr. Household admitted that he accused the directors of the Grand Trunk railroad of issuing delusive and deceptive reports. The defendant contended that his statements were made honestly, and that he believed them to be true. The verdict was one farthing (one half cent) damages for plaintiff.

A Vicious Elephant's Record.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Tip, the big elephant in Central park, has been sentenced to death by the board of park commissioners. He was presented to the city by Adam Forepaugh in 1888. During the six years he was with Forepaugh he killed eight men and he is now so vicious that it is considered necessary to kill him. He is only fastened by a chain around one foot and no animal trainer dare approach him to fasten him more securely. If he should become enraged he might easily break away and charge with deadly effect on the big crowd that gathers every day to see him.

Americans Want the Embargo Raised.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Representative Alexander, of North Carolina, has reported to the House from the Committee on Agriculture the joint resolution seeking to secure the abrogation or modification of the regulation by which American cattle are now slaughtered at the port of entry in Great Britain. The slaughter, the report says, causes great loss to the American raiser, and adds that a Canadian bullock will bring $15 to $25 more than the American animal in Liverpool or London. Pluro-pneumonia, the report concludes, has been stamped out from the United States.

Fatal Wreck on the Illinois Central.

CHICAGO, May 10.—The through northbound New Orleans express train on the Illinois Central railroad was wrecked at Buckley, the engine, mail car, baggage car and two coaches being derailed. The engine was overturned, and Engineer Samuel Edgertle was killed. The fireman was seriously injured. The wreck was caused by a switch being clogged with a break shoe that had dropped from a southbound freight train that passed over the track at midnight.

Negro Life in the States.

WACO, Tex., May 10.—A negro who had addressed a note to a young lady of West was placed in jail there. At night masked men broke the jail down and took the negro out. While a rope was being made ready the negro ran, but was shot and mortally wounded.

Peculiar Cause of Death.

ST. LOUIS, May 10.—While Fred. Burke, aged sixteen, was playing with a small wire attached to a spool, the wire was thrown over the trolley wire of the South St. Louis Electric Street Car Company and, twisting around Burke's neck, shocked him to death.

DOINGS AT THE CAPITAL

Dr. Weldon's Bill to Disfranchise Bribed Voters Discussed.

SEIZURE OF THE AMERICAN BOATS

No Official Report Received by the Government—Washington Authorities Satisfied the Vessels Were in the Wrong—Hon. Mr. Ives' Scheme for Enlisting Indians as Mounted Police.

OTTAWA, May 10.—Dr. Weldon's bill to disfranchise voters taking bribes was discussed in the House in committee yesterday, taking up the greater part of the sitting.

Mr. Jeannotte, in French, opposed the bill. He said it was not practical, and in the event of anyone being tried and proven innocent, it would entail on an innocent man an expense hardly justifiable.

Mr. Dupont, speaking in French, and in opposition to the bill, said the result would be that the judges would be discredited by being drawn into political controversy.

Dr. Weldon, in defence of his bill, said that judges would not be discredited, since both parties would be glad to stamp out bribery and place on the black list all persons who would take the bribe. It was well known that in the past, though members had done all they could to prevent bribery, yet it would go on on both sides. He thought that public opinion would support the bill.

Mr. Davin supported the bill and thought that the measure might be given a trial. If the people did not want it, it would simply prove a dead letter, whereas if they availed themselves of its provisions great good would result.

Col. Amyot asked who was going to pay the expenses in cases where voters were brought before the courts and proved themselves innocent, after having expended perhaps $3,000 or $4,000.

Mr. Jeannotte moved an amendment to the second section, providing that in all cases particulars should be given.

Mr. Jeannotte spoke for some time in French in favor of his amendment.

Dr. Sproule opposed the bill.

Mr. Belley followed in French in favor of Mr. Jeannotte's amendment.

The amendment was lost.

Mr. Belley proposed an amendment giving power to judges to examine the petitioners. This was lost.

Mr. Aymot proposed an amendment, adding the words "provided that the court be satisfied by the affidavits produced that such extensive bribery has been practiced."

The amendment carried.

Dr. Bergeron moved an amendment which was ruled out of order.

CAPITAL NOTES.

The Seizure of the Yankee Boats by the Canadian Cutter.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper was asked if he had received any official report regarding the seizure of two American boats near Pelee Island, Lake Erie, for illegal fishing, by the Dominion revenue cutter Peterel. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries said that he was now waiting the official report, and until such time as it was to hand he would not say anything regarding it. From reports of the seizure received by telegraph there are some doubts in the minds of some of the officers of the Department as to the legality of the seizure. However, that cannot be determined until full particulars and the official report are received at the Department. A Washington despatch says that the news of the seizure created no surprise in official circles, as the vessels were clearly in the wrong.

Guelph Junction Railway.

An Act respecting the Guelph Junction railway, providing for the extension of the time for commencing the work for three years and the completion for five years, has been reported in the Railway Committee.

Two Divorces Granted.

At a meeting of the Divorce Committee of the Senate the application of William Samuel Piper, of Port Arthur, and of Joseph Thompson, of Belleville, came up for consideration. Both cases were conclusively proven. The result was that the committee decided to report in favor of granting both parties divorces.

Blackfeet as Mounted Police.

Hon. W. B. Ives, president of the Privy Council, has under consideration a scheme for enlisting the Blackfeet Indians as members of the Northwest Mounted Police. In the United States Indians do valuable service as police. Mr. Ives says no recruiting will be done in Eastern Canada this year.

A Maimed Member Shows Up.

James Livingstone, M.P. for South Waterloo, has arrived to attend to his parliamentary duties. He was detained at home by a broken leg for over two months.

Two American Steamers Fined.

PORT COLBORNE, May 10.—The American steamer Caldwell was detained here yesterday and fined $400, which the captain paid under protest. The fine was imposed for infringement of the custom laws in taking his barge through part of the Welland canal. The barge towed up from Port Dalhousie to the head lock at Thorold with teams and the Caldwell considered she had a right to tow her from there to Port Colborne, but this was a violation of law. After the Caldwell had let go the line from the barge at Port Dalhousie her right to tow ceased until the boats were outside the harbor here. The Caldwell was also fined $14 for damage to a lock gate. The American steamer Hopkins was also detained and fined $11 for damage to a lock in the canal, which the captain had to pay. Owing to the prevalence of smallpox at Chicago and communication with vessels passing to and from that part to the canal, as the United States health authorities in Buffalo are taking steps to have vessels inspected coming from Chicago. It is said the Canadian authorities should move to have vessels arriving here from Chicago inspected before they are permitted to enter the canal.

Struck a Natural Gas Well.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., May 10.—While boring for oil at Brooklyn, this county, natural gas was struck at a depth of about 1,000 feet. Much excitement exists over the discovery, and land leases are already commanding fancy prices. The gas well is owned by New York city and Pennsylvania capitalists, who will immediately proceed to develop the territory.

Fell Forty Feet.

TORONTO, May 10.—George Adams, who keeps a clothing store at 397 Queen street west, went on the roof of his store yesterday to look after some eave troughs, and apparently became dizzy and fell over the side of the house on to the street forty feet below. He was picked up unconscious and seriously injured. It is not likely he will recover.

ROSEBERY NOT DISHEARTENED.

No Matter What the Majority, He Says the Government Will Persevere.

LONDON, May 10.—The National Liberal Club gave a reception to the Ministry last evening. About every Liberal and Radical of any reputation or influence was among the 4,500 persons present. The speech of the evening was made by the Premier. The Government had but a narrow margin of supporters in the House of Commons, Lord Rosebery said, and certainly was in a critical position. It was said that a considerable section of the Irish party would vote against the Ministry. What, however, had any section of Irishmen, with the cause of home rule at heart, to gain by putting the Government in the minority. Such an ill-judged policy might arise from a fit of anger, but there was no reason for anger between the Government and the Parnellite party (hear, hear). If on the other hand the blow should be dealt in cold blood the Government was determined to fight the battle to the end. Whether the majority should be twenty or ten, or only two, the Government would persevere.

Continuing, Lord Roseberry said: "The responsibility of office is not agreeable to all of us. It is an arduous, even thankless task, but we are bound to remember not ourselves but those who placed us there; bound to remember the six years' arduous work done by the Liberals of the country, bound to remember the sacrifices they made to place us on the front bench, and we are determined to deserve the confidence that you placed in us. We may forfeit it; we may cease to possess it; but while we do possess it, as we believe we do now, we will fight the battle to the end, the combat to the conclusion."

Later, Lord Rosebery said: "We have no reason to lose faith in our cause or position. We entered office with the certain prospect of beginning to realize our cause. First, we had to face the fact of the advanced age of our great leader. His age has told. He stands aside, but the expectation of our opponents regarding that contingency was signally disappointed. They hoped that within a week after Mr. Gladstone's resignation the Government would fall to pieces, but we find no intention to fall to pieces. They also expected that a party formed of so many groups would soon become a minority. We admit the possibility, but the group now threatening to desert us will play an ill-judged and possibly disastrous part towards their cause of they take the part they indicate. That is their affair. Ours is that the Liberal Government shall not forsake the helm because the storm happens to lower."

Sir William Harcourt referred to the reports of his illness. He asked if he looked like a dying man, and added that he never consulted doctors. He was not aware that he was blind or half blind. He did not intend to desert his post.

Salmon Canning in British Columbia.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 10.—The salmon canners of British Columbia have held a conference here and have devised a scheme whereby the salmon packs this year will be limited to a certain quantity from each cannery. A fixed price at which sales will be made was also determined on lines similar to those upon which San Francisco canners work, or the rates in Eastern Canada on canned fruits and vegetables. It is expected that the canners' action will prevent the disposal of salmon at such ruinously low prices as those current at present.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

What was a menace to the Catholics' liberty when Mowat opposed it, became an enlargement of their privileges when he stamped it with his gracious approval."

BEAUTIFUL HAMILTON.

"OTTAWA" PAYS A VISIT TO THE AMBITIOUS CITY.

It is a Pretty, Bright, Thriving City—Historic Annals—Local Institutions—A Visit to Hans—A Peep at Sleepy St. Catharines.

TORONTO, May 6th.

DEAR ——— There seems a fate against the Athletic Club here getting a fair description from my pen, but the fact is that when I have time to write to you there seems so much of more interesting matter to talk about, that such stationary subjects are pushed on to a more convenient season or till that ever-expected day when I shall be glad of it to fill my pages, to make "copy" as the printers call it.

Since I wrote last I have been to Hamilton, that ambitious city on Burlington Bay, the Macassa water, as the aboriginal owners called it. What a pity we have not kept more of our Indian names. How gladly would I hail the day that the Londons, Peterboroughs, Rice lakes and a hundred other misnamed cities and lakes returned to their original and more appropriate nomenclature. But there—if I get on that subject you might be treated to a magazine article or, to what Dr. Bourinot calls hysterical history, instead of a letter.

Hamilton is a very pretty, bright, thriving city, but why it should be said to rival Toronto is an unsolved problem to me. One might as well talk of London rivalling Norwich. It is beautifully situated, the views from the mountain—(it would be a graceless return for its kindly hospitality to call it a hill)—are extensive and very lovely. The streets are rather hubbly to drive over, owing to the irregular sinking of the blocks with which they are paved, but the sidewalks are far less tiring to one's feet than the granolithic pavement in Toronto. The smell of the tar, too, came gratefully to our sea scent-loving nostrils and memories of tar-coated fishermen's cots. The Court house is a fine building and the Gore a refreshing green spot in the centre of the town. I was interested in hearing the origin of this delightful oasis in the streets. The spot, owned by a man who built one of the first brick houses in Hamilton, was judged too swampy a site to afford a good foundation or proper level for building purposes and was therefore reserved as a "green" for the city. Would that there were more such swampy spots in every town in this our broad Dominion. But, alas, if there were, such men as the original owner of the Gore are scarcer still. Rather, as in Toronto, they would fill up the hollows, drain the swamps and build future fever boxes for their grandchildren to dwell and die in. Ah me, we are all more or less short-sighted and too prone to live as if the world were only to last our day.

There are many beautiful drives about Hamilton, many localities of more than ordinary interest. Burlington heights was the "glory hold" of national independence and the great object of Yankee desire in 1812-14. From it a brave little army sallied forth against an enemy far exceeding them in numbers, to strike a desperate blow, to check that enemy's advance or die in the defence of their country.

Canadians are awaking to a realization of the value of historic annals and the societies recently established in some of our cities and counties will do much towards rescuing the memory of her battles and their history from oblivion. An item in a late issue of the Hamilton Spectator suggesting that every County Council would do well to offer some incentive to the preservation of their history, is one that should be copied into every paper in the Dominion. The County Council of Carleton has led the way by offering a prize of $100 for the best essay on its history.

Without some such encouragement much that is to be gleaned now from the aged among us, who still remember the tales and scenes of their childhood will be lost never to be recovered. It is not, however, well turned sentences, elegant phraseology and tuneful alliteration we want in these essays, but authentic records and reliable historical facts plainly stated.

"Tradition is the memory of the people" says Montesquieu, but in these days of bookmaking, newspapers and note books, tradition is fast dying out from among us and with it much of the history of the past, and if we do not seize what yet remains, the students and the historian of the future will suffer.

There is a fine public library in Hamilton. Large, bright, well lighted, well arranged reading rooms and an attentive Librarian. These and the Wentworth Historical Society, whose handsome banner hangs on the wall of the library, have done much to arouse the popular interest in Canadian history.

An electric tram line is being laid out to Stoney creek, across that historic battle ground, to Grimsby. Gage's house, the headquarters of the American officers on that memorable night, is still standing and I could not help wondering why Hamilton or the Electric Car Company has not acquired it and the few acres around it on which the battle was fought and won, and reserved it as a park or a pleasure ground. The Electric Car Co., of Ottawa, have found their parks a profitable investment as incentives to encourage traffic over their line. So profitable that it seems strange other companies have not followed their example.

We drove out to Stoney creek and on the way back paid a visit to "Hans" or as he sometimes signs himself "Gridiron," a fine, hale, handsome old man of seventy-eight. From a child he sat in the wigwam of the Mississaugas and learned their language and traditions until now, he has gathered and garnered the history of his neighborhood and to anyone interested in such lore, is a willing fountain of anecdotes and information. He was seated in the kitchen mending some farm gear when we appeared at the open door. With the true refinement of simplicity and self unconsciousness, he bade us enter, step into the parlor beyond and he would be with us presently. An hour of pleasant chat and the old man, bare headed, saw us to the gate. I see him now as he stood, the setting sun silvering his grey hair; the quiet dignity and courteous compliment at parting.

"I am honored indeed far beyond my deserts. First Anne Swan finds me out and now you have done me the honor of coming all this long way to see me."

Back to Hamilton by the Beach road we pulled up at the door of a partially demolished inn with the high sounding title "Capt. Armstrong." Surely life is full of contrasts.

However, the Captain's ginger ale was good and his good nature extensive enough to reach to ten minutes fruitless endeavor to coax a lean cat from under the shattered planks of the verandah in order to satisfy the desire of one of our party to possess it.

While in Hamilton I went to one of the most interesting entertainments I have ever had the privilege to attend, and if you have not already had the lecturer, Mrs. Mountford, in Belleville and the opportunity is still to come, do not lose it through preconceived ideas of the dryness and dullness of the average lecture on the Holy Land.

An amusing story of one such, was told me at an awkward moment, nearly robbing me of the necessary nerve to face an audience.

"A slide had been put into the lantern, the picture appeared upon the sheet, the lecturer, who had been getting rather halting in his descriptions, paused perplexed. A long silence, a cough, his audience waited sympathetically anxious, "Ahem, that is—ahem, in this picture you, ah—ahem, you see what a rocky country lay about Jerusalem." Later it was discovered to be a representation of the walls of Jerusalem upside down.

The fashionable summer resort of the Hamiltonians, Burlington Beach, is a very pretty belt of sand and gravel on a higher level than the much valued Island of the Torontonians, but its natural beauties are put to the blush by the inharmonious colors and shapes of the summer residences built upon it. This is certainly a garish age of color. What would Ruskin say if he were taken along that Beach and brought face to face with the greens, yellows, purples and pinks? (I was going to say reds, but there was nothing so honest as red among them) It was a positive relief to turn to the browns and greys of the few, whose owners had better taste or were less fashionable.

But Mrs. Mountford's lectures are as far removed from such blunderers as the east is from the west.

A large but handsome woman, graceful in every movement, having a command of words that a knowledge of many languages always gives. A sweet, powerful, well modulated voice, unusual histrionic abilities and an irresistible enthusiasm and mesmeric individuality. She carried her audience with her from the moment she appeared until the end of a two hours' lecture. A wonderful woman indeed, doing a good work, using her talent and abilities to explain the truths of the bible to the western people through a faithful representation of the life, customs and traditions of the east.

I paid a flying visit to St. Catharines, a sleepy stagnant looking place, undergoing a disruption of its roadways preparatory to a more extended electric tram service. There, as in so many cities on the line of the Grand Trunk, the station is a long distance from the business part of the town. Asking the cause of such short-sightedness on the part of the railway, I was told "the shoe was on the other foot." When the line was projected owners of land in the cities, anticipating the demand, had asked such exorbitant sums that the company were perforce obliged to locate the stations where they could obtain sufficient land at reasonable rates. Individual greed has thus robbed the many of prosperity.

The artists who exhibited on the walls of the Ontario Art Association Exhibition are, I hear, much incensed at the criticism in one of the dailies. I have not seen the first notice, but from what I can gather, it has treated some with unsparing hand. Yet is it not such criticism that we need? Have we not been in our baby clothes with regard to art and literature. It is time we gave up dealing out indiscriminate sugar plums. We have coaxed the plant into vigorous growth, and the time has arrived when the pruning knife is absolutely necessary to preserve life and prevent deformity. It may hurt to have an unsightly twig cut off, but where will the symmetry of the tree be without such pain? The trouble is we have so few possessing knowledge enough among us to prune judiciously as well as unflinchingly.

I am writing in the window, a sharp thunder storm has just burst over the city, a quick heavy shower has fallen, the broken clouds have rolled away, the glistening boughs are dripping sunshine, the horizon gleams gold and the sound of the church bells seems to voice the gloria in excelsis for the sweet refreshing rain.

Yours,
OTTAWA.

AMONG THE BOOKS.

Folios and quartos were the favorite sizes of books for 200 years.

It is said that over 200,000 books have been written about the Bible.

The German book collectors give the titles of 6,000 books about Goethe.

"Pilgrims' Progress" has been translated into 203 languages and dialects.

The "Poor Man's Bible" was so-called from the fact that it was a cheap edition.

More copies of the Bible than of any other book have been sent out by the press.

The imperial library at Paris has 72,000 works treating of the French revolution.

The British museum has 732 histories of England, covering every age of its growth.

The publishers at first refused Prideaux's "Connections" because the book had no humor.

"Rhyming ends" were fashionable in the last century. Collections of difficult rhymes were made and idle writers passed much time in filling up the lines.

Representative Lockwood's Bill Urged at Washington.

WHY THE GREAT EAGLE SCREAMS

A Delegation From Buffalo Asserts That American Labor is Being Excluded in the Lake-Carrying Trade by the Employment of Foreigners, Meaning Canadians, at Low Wages.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—E. C. Randall and Joseph Connell, of Buffalo, appeared before the House Committee on immigration and naturalization in support of the bill of Representative Lockwood of New York, for the necessary and better protection of American labor and the enforcement of the law of domicile.

Mr. Randall spoke of the extent of the lake carrying trade, and estimated at 75 per cent. of the employes were foreigners, principally from Canada. They worked cheap and by so doing excluded American labor. He declared the present immigration laws could not stop this evil and that the penalty for violating the law proposed by the bill should be put on the responsible parties—the Lake Carriers Association.

Mr. Connell said he had engaged in the lake carrying trade for the past fourteen years, and as soon as the Canadians began to enter the trade wages were reduced and now the vessels were employing this class of men altogether. Wages were reduced and the Americans driven off the lake.

Mr. Lockwood explained the condition of affairs on the lakes and said that American seamen wanted a law that would not permit ship brokers to furnish Canadian crews for American vessels.

OUR TRADE WITH ENGLAND.

Enormous Increase in Exports to the Mother Country.

LONDON, May 10.—The Canadian Gazette this week shows the continued enormous expansion of trade between Great Britain and Canada. The imports for the month of April increased 32 per cent., and the increase for the four months of 1894 is 96 per cent. Fish increased in the four months £170,000; wood, £1,600; cheese, £28,000; hams and bacon, £10,000; wheat, £22,000. The exports to Canada have declined, however. For April the figures show a decrease of 19 per cent., and for the four months 21 per cent. The chief decline is in railroad iron, steel, cotton and woollen goods.

The Board of Trade returns show that emigration to Canada declined from 8,557 in April, 1893, to 3,524 in April, 1894. For the first four months of 1894 emigration to Canada declined to 6,923 from 18,259, the figures of 1893. Emigration to the United States decreased one half, but to Australia it increased slightly. The total emigration is decreased by one half.

GERMAN EDITORS LOCKED UP.

Nine of Them Sentenced for Criticizing the Actions of the Police.

BERLIN, May 10.—Nine editors were sentenced at the end of a two days' trial for having libelled the police in commenting on their conduct at the Friedrichshain brewery on January 18. Most of the offending editors were Social-Democrats.

They received these sentences: Robert Schmidt, of the Vorwaerts, five months imprisonment; Nessler, of the Volksblatt, and Wiseberger, of the Berliner Zeitung, three months each; Zachau, of the Social-Democrat, and Harnisch, of the Lichstrahlen, two months each. The rest were fined 150 to 300 marks each.

ANTONIO LUCIANO HANGED.

Italian Murderer Suffers the Penalty for Killing a Compatriot.

GRENFELL, Man., May 10.—Antonio Luciano, one of the Italians sentenced to death for the murder of the Italian scissors-grinder, was hanged this morning.

Luciano and Antonia Degidio were both sentenced to death for the crime, the evidence against them being purely circumstantial. Subsequently, Luciano confessed to killing his compatriot, but claimed it was due to an accident. The Italian Government intervened on behalf of the condemned men. The Governor-General yesterday signed an order-in-council commuting the sentence of Degidio to imprisonment for life, but allowed the law to take its course with respect to Luciano.

The condemned man was completely broken up, and went to his death with trembling knees and a face worked into horrible contortions by the intense mental agony he has undergone ever since the trial. Radcliffe, the hangman, performed the execution.

Canadian Cattle Question.

LONDON, May 10.—In connection with the slaughter of cattle imported from Canada at the port of debarkation and the authorized examination by veterinary experts of the lungs of the slain animals, to determine whether they are free from tuberculosis, it has been ordered that all cattle before their removal from the byres where they are received shall be marked and until slaughtered kept apart from all other than Canadian cattle. Special slaughter houses are to be provided, and the slaughter shall continue during such time as the Board of Agriculture shall direct, and in no case the lungs to be removed from the slaughter house until examined by the inspector. The order provides that every precaution shall be exercised and the most ample opportunity given to test this most important question.

The St. Anne de la Parade Disaster.

QUEBEC, May 10.—A report received from St. Anne de la Parade states that two more houses were swept away during the night. The total damages from the disaster will amount to about $100,000, as most of the victims lost all their properties. Rev. Mr. Bochet, cure of the parish, and his vicar, were early on the scene yesterday morning and did all they could to help their parishioners to save their effects. The inhabitants of the parish expect that any moment the Canadian Pacific railway bridge, which is one of the finest on the eastern division, will be carried away, but the railway officials think otherwise.

Disastrous Earthquake in Venezuela.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary Gresham has received a cablegram from the United States Consul at Caracas saying that an earthquake on April 28 destroyed the Venezuelan cities of Egido, Merida and several villages, with a heavy loss of life.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

WINDSOR, May 10.—A dastardly attempt was made to wreck a Michigan Central train near Pelton. A tie was placed across the tracks and was tied down in such a manner that had the engine struck the obstruction while going at a high rate of speed it would surely have left the rails. The train was slowed up in time to strike the obstruction so lightly that the shock merely knocked the tie from the rails. Detectives are investigating the matter and it is believed that the miscreants will be discovered among the residents in the neighborhood.

Drowned in Lake Muskoka.

PARRY SOUND, May 10.—Last Saturday evening Thomas Rowe and a man named Pooler, of Point Kae, Muskoka, left Port Carling to return home. Their boat has been found upturned on Lake Muskoka. They were undoubtedly drowned. Their oars and a bag of flour they were taking home and Pooler's hat were found on the beach opposite Butler's bay. On account of the stormy weather it has been impossible to search for the bodies.

A Work of Art.

The INTELLIGENCER has secured the exclusive right for this district to run the fine art series, "Canada," a portfolio of original views of our country of the present time. The object is to provide the readers with a scenic and descriptive production of the superb national and artistic beauties of the Dominion; to show Canadians at home, our neighbors across the line, our friends across the sea, half-tone views of our rivers, lakes, mountains, forests, cities, towns and numerous other picturesque features of the land we live in, chosen here and there, extending to the fog banks of Labrador on the coast to the soft breezes of the Pacific in the West, and from the neighboring States northward. The scope in Canada is a wide one, and a field rich in materials, and this project is undertaken in the belief that Canadians are waiting for an effort of this kind and are desirous of having placed before them a work showing our unequalled natural scenery, material progress and our natural features. The work will be executed in the best manner known to the photographic, engraving and printing arts. The views are accompanied by a brief but accurate description of the subjects presented. The series will run weekly, starting with May 10th. No. 1 is now out and can be obtained at the INTELLIGENCER Office. The price each is 10 cents, accompanied by a No. 1 coupon cut from the INTELLIGENCER. See the advertisement and coupon in this issue.

The current of freight on the Grand Trunk is running westward at present.

The country looks like a garden. Rye is headed out three weeks earlier than usual.

Twelve headaches cured for 25c. Phenyo-Caffein does it. Your druggist recommends it.

The druggists of the city, have decided to close their stores at half-past six, Saturdays excepted.

J. N. Laird's, Foxboro, liabilities are $12,000, with assets of $9,000 stock and $3,000 book debts.

The street sprinklers are doing good service this season. They keep the streets moist but not muddy.

A customer writes: troubled with sick headache and neuralgia for eight years, Phenyo-Caffein cured me. 25c all druggists.

Bessie H. Bedloe, Burlington, Vt., had a disease of the scalp, causing her hair to become very harsh and dry, and to fall so freely that she scarcely dared to comb it. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave her a healthy scalp, removed the dandruff, and made the hair thick and glossy.

Four more "tie-counters" slept in Chief Newton's hotel last night. Two came in of their own accord and the other two, giving their names as Jas. Moore, a boy of fifteen, and John Connor were brought from the east end of the G.T.R. yard by the persuasive powers of Constable Garrett.

Insomnia is fearfully on the increase. he rush and excitement of modern life so tax the nervous system that multitudes of people are deprived of good and sufficient sleep, with ruinous consequences to the nerves. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. Beauties of the Woods.

Wood violets are now at their best, and in utmost profusion. They vary in color, size and length of stem, vastly more than ordinary observers suppose. They have too, seemingly, odd fancies as to where and how they should grow. Pale violets, unusually large and with very long stems, grow on swampy spots along the little brooks. Ten feet away, on higher ground, the stems are shorter, and the color deeper and richer. One sometimes finds in marshy woodlands very large dark violets, with unusually long stems. They grow in great profusion oftentimes in fields edged by woodland, where the shade of the forest protects them from the hot afternoon sun. One may count in a bunch of a hundred violets picked within an area of two acres, five or six well marked variations of color, besides delicate tints and shades that are almost imperceptible. These will include pale and dark lilac, a sort of electric blue, pale purple, dark purple, and a third purple that is almost blue. White violets are somewhat rare, and the yellow is so distant a cousin that it is hardly to be named with the familiar blue and purple violet.

Fire at Cobourg.

Cobourg, May 9.—Fire broke out in the rear of the British hotel here at 4 o'clock this morning, which for a time threatened the destruction of the business portion of the town. The fire department was quickly on the scene and succeeded in confining the flames to the one building. The loss on building and contents is large, chiefly through smoke and water. Insurance on building, $2,600 in Liverpool, London and Globe; on contents, $2,000 in Caledonia. The fire originated in an outbuilding used for putting ashes in.

Mr. Gendron, collector for P. F. Collier, was in the hotel at time of the fire and he said many of the ladies lost everything they had in the way of clothing, some of them barely escaping in their night clothes.

Marine Notes.

Mr. H. Corby' swift little steam yacht Ometa, is now ready for the season, having been given a thorough overhauling throughout and brightened up with a fresh coat of paint inside and out.

Dr. Chamberlain, of Toronto, Inspector of Prisons, is in the city trying to arrange to bring his large passenger steamer, the "Metcalf," here for the season as an excursion boat. The boat, which is now lying at Kingston, is said to be a large comfortable craft, capable of carrying four or five hundred passengers, and of good speed.

The steamer Iona has resumed her trips to Oswego.

ROSLIN

May 7.—Spring crops are looking well in this vicinity.—The dry, windy spring seems to have been injurious to fall wheat. Meadows look fairly well. Judging from the blossoms, there will be an abundance of fruit.—Mr. McLaren, the Patron candidate for the Legislature, visited this locality last week, and reports his prospects for the coming election favorable.—Miss Garrett is visiting friends in Belleville.—Mrs. Jno. Chapman, who has been ill for some time, is slowly recovering.

Light Attire.

"She wore a wreath of roses
  That night when first we met,"
So sang a gifted poet
  Of days gone by—but yet,
It seems to me (I merely
  Suggest it by the way;
I do not wish to cavil,
  So don't mistake me pray)—
It seems to me—consid'ring
  How in our native clime
The weather's always changing
  And that, from time to time,
We hear of early victims
  To sudden draughts of air—
That, after all, those roses
  Weren't very much to wear!

An Old Dun.

TORONTO, May 6th.

DEAR SIR,—While looking through some old papers which my inquisitive researches have succeeded in unearthing and saving from the pig-stye, I found the following. As it is probably as appropriate to-day as it was in 1833 I thought it worth copying :

"We'll gayly chase dull care away
  And banish idle sorrow,
Subscribers pay your debts to-day
  And we'll pay ours to-morrow."

MARRIED AT MARYSVILLE.

John M. Vanlone, of Cleveland, United to Miss Clara Doreen, of Shannonville.

A fashionable wedding took place at 10 a.m. on Tuesday in St. Mary's church, Marysville, when Mr. John M. Vanlone, of Cleveland, was married to Miss Clara Doreen, daughter of John Doreen, hotelman, Shannonville. The young couple were united in the holy bonds by Rev. Father Quinn in the presence of a large number of invited guests and friends, a number of whom were from this city. The bride was supported by her sisters, Maud and Emma, while Mr. Lyman Moore, of this city, and Mr. Frank Doreen, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen. The bride wore a beautiful costume of lemon colored silk, while the bridesmaids were attired in Nile green and salmon pink Bengaline respectively. After the ceremony the party drove to the residence of the bride's father and partook of a sumptuous wedding breakfast. The happy couple left on the evening train for the west on a short honeymoon trip, after which they will go to their future home in Cleveland.

The bride was the recipient of an unusually large number of beautiful presents, among which were a gold watch from the groom; a silver cake basket from Jas. A. Roy; fruit dish set in silver, Mr. Bullen; silver butter knife, with pearl handle, C. D. Macaulay; silver soup ladle, C. E. Lyons and Dr. Walker; ladies' companion, Lyman Moore; set silver napkin rings, Mrs. S. Eustace; silver photo holder, Mr. A. Roberts. The INTELLIGENCER extends congratulations.

SPURIOUS CHEESE.

"Margarine" or "Filled Cheese" Condemned by the London Produce Exchange.

The following circular has been issued by the cheese sub committee of the Home and Foreign Produce Exchange of London, England under date of April, 20th:

DEAR SIR,—The attention of the Committee has been called to the increasing importation of spurious cheese—otherwise "margarine," or "filled cheese"—chiefly from Germany and the United States, in edam, gouda, and cheddar shapes.

We think it right to seriously warn the trade against this article for the following reasons:

It is certainly being sold to the public as genuine, and is, therefore, an offence against the law, and we are advised that prosecutions are likely to be immediately instituted. As the importers decline giving any guarantee, the penalties will fall on the wholesale and retail dealers.

Further, this compound is calculated to greatly injure the business in sound and wholesome cheese. It really is not cheese at all, as the added fat merely disguises the poverty of the curd, and rapidly becomes itself rancid and offensive.

The consumers will be prejudiced against cheese as an article of food, as the imitation, apart from analysis, is difficult of detection from its outward appearance.

We would, therefore, urge all interested not to countenance this traffic, and to be careful to insist upon having guarantees of purity in case of doubtful offers. I am, dear sir,

Yours faithfully,
C. J. HIGGINS,
Secretary.

(By Order of the Cheese Sub-Committee)

CAUGHT AT LAST.

Wm. Dickinson Captured After a Daring Escape in Tyendinaga.

After a long search High Constable Johnson located Fred McCormick, alias William Dickinson, alias William Charles Wrandle, who was accused of stealing a suit of clothes and other articles from Charles English, of Thurlow, but had escaped arrest, as stated in a previous issue, at Deseronto. He then came home and wrote a full description of the man to Chief Gunyo and where he thought he was. Chief Gunyo made confidant of one or two mill hands, and among them they enticed the man into an engine room. The chief stepped up behind him and slipped on the irons. The prisoner took it good naturedly but said "Give me but one step and you would not see me again." He had on Mr. English's underclothes when taken. He does not deny the charge. From his own story he is an old offender, though young in years and well educated. He says that hard drink brought him down and that his parents live in Plattsburg, New York. The trial is set down for Saturday. Chief Gunyo telephoned Constable Johnson, who went down on Tuesday, brought the accused up and lodged him in the cells.

The Superiority

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is due to the tremendous amount of brain work and constant care used in its preparation. Try one bottle and you will be convinced of its superiority. It purifies the blood which, the source of health, cures dyspepsia, overcomes sick headaches and biliousness. It is just the medicine for you.

HOOD'S PILLS are purely vegetable, carefully prepared from the best ingredients.

Boutellier's Appointment.

Sergt. Boutellier, "A" battery, well known in this city, where he attended camp three years ago, has been appointed artillery instructor at the R.M.C., in the place of Instructor Burgess, who left some time ago. The position is a good one and brings $750 a year, together with free house, etc. Boutellier will rank as sergt.-major.

$5.00 Suits on Saturday.

Next Saturday the Oak Hall are going to make a clean sweep of about 100 suits for $5 each. These suits are mostly composed of broken lines worth $7 and $8. We will not offer them before or after Saturday, but wish to clear out the lot in one crack. Remember the day and come early in the morning.

"That Hankering."

At this season of the year most people have a hankering for something fresh—a change in their diet after the long winter months. A cup of Stroud's celebrated French coffee will help you make a good breakfast—it's appetising and refreshing—try it. Only 30c per lb. Ground fresh daily at Strouds', the tea dealers.

An Incipient Blaze.

At 11:20 this morning the firemen were called out to extinguish a fire in Mrs. McCaffrey's house, on St. Charles St. Some children had been playing on a bed, and it is supposed they lighted some matches which ignited it. The stream was not turned on from the hydrant, as a few pails of water sufficed to put out the blaze.

"CHRISTIAN SCIENCE" SCORED.

THE MOST DAMNABLE DOCTRINE OF THE 19th CENTURY," SO SAID THE REV. J. E. HUNTER.

Some Notable Conversions—The "Enquiry Room" Crowded—Excursion From Deseronto—The Newspapers Praised—"God Bless the Reporters.

It's unnecessary now to describe the magnitude of the evangelistic meetings. Each night is a repetition of the former ones. The tide of interest rises day by day. Each new convert means the extension of the influence of the meetings, and as some of the converts of the past few nights have been persons well known for their opposition to these things, it becomes evident, that the coming days will add to the already long list of converts, the names of men, whom everyone will be glad to see "turning over a new leaf."

Mr. Hunter's preliminary remarks at the opening of each meeting are always fresh, sometimes startling; not unfrequently racy, but always with a point. Some of his utterances last night were : "I have a letter, asking me why I talk so much about hell; well, its because the bible talks as much of hell as it does of heaven—54 times God's word speaks of hell. Not to scare people; I don't take much stock in the person who is scared into religion. That's one of the reasons why I have little faith in deathbed repentance. No, no, no, we tell of hell so that you may be warned. That's what God's ambassadors are specially instructed to do, "warn them to flee from the wrath to come."

"We are much obliged for the newspaper reports. God bless the reporters, and heaven reward the newspaper men for all their help to every good cause. Buy the newspapers and send them to your friends. We know of revivals having been started by that. Spread the good news, it encourages others.

"Someone in Brockville sent a newspaper about our meetings to a friend in New York. The Holy Spirit applied some words he read in it to his conversion."

Mr. Hunter then took as his evening lesson James, 5th chapter 7th verse to end of chapter. Some of his comments were :

"The coming of the Lord draweth nigh." You christians are you ready for that event? Have you everything packed up ready for it, I mean that metaphorically. Of course I have no sympathy for the Millerites who set Him a day for His coming. I say if you christians haven't grace to hold family prayer, or three times a day return God thanks for the three good meals He gives you every day, you are not ready for his coming."

"But above all things, my brethren, swear not." "It doesn't say sisters you say, for few, very few women swear, unless they be the abandoned. I haven't heard five woman swear in my life, but I can't go on the streets of your beautiful city for five minutes but I hear some foul-mouthed man or boy swear. I'd as soon trust a pickpocket with my money as a man who swears. Would you marry a woman that swears? Oh no, you want a wife that is pure, and yet you are rotten with impurity. You old rascals who swear every time you get mad and between times too, if your wife or daughter swore you would put her out doors, yes you would, and think you had done a christian act in doing so. "Is any merry, let him sing psalms." "Is any merry, let him go to the dance," that the way some of you Methodists have translated that.

"Confess other people's faults one to another." "Surely that's not there that way, Mr. Hunter. No, but that's the way Miss Gadabout reads it and preaches it. The people who have most faults, and are ever the last to confess them, are the ones whose business it seems to be to magnify other people's faults. My, oh! my, oh! the harm that's done by these "busy bodies in other men's (and women's) matters. Here! you old fault-finder, come to God, confess your own faults and then go and ask everybody else's forgiveness, for all the gossip and slander you have uttered about other people ten thousand times better than you are."

"And the prayer of faith," &c. Yes, I believe in that, but I have no sympathy with the cranks who run into the fad of so called christian science, there's neither christianity or science in it. That misnamed christian science is the most damnable doctrine of the 19th century. Mr. Crossley and I have read all their books about it, attended their meetings, and visited some of its victims. "Just believe that you're not sick and you're not sick." The absurdity of such a belief is illustrated by a christian scientist woman who let the window fall on her thumb, jammed it all to jelly, and who, as soon as the pain would allow her, said, "No, thumb, you're not hurt, I know you're not hurt, you can't be hurt," I don't believe you're hurt, and according to her she wasn't hurt. If you don't want to be wrecked for both worlds, I pray of you don't listen to such teachings as those. I believe that God does answer prayer. I believe that he is "The Great Physician" of soul and body. I believe we don't trust him enough. God ever works by instrumentalities. He works through doctors and medicines. We are to use everything, that wisdom and experience has proved to be beneficial. "Man's experience is God's opportunity."

NOTES.

Mr. Crossley's sermon was on "the unpardonable sin," and was pronounced by the clergy present to be the clearest and most reasonable exposition they ever heard of a subject about which there has been much controversy.

The Rev. H. T. Crossley's voice was much better last night; he, however, did not sing.

During the service Mr. Canfield sang a solo and Miss Canfield and Rev. D. O. Crossley a duet.

There is to be an excursion from Deseronto to-morrow evening. The report is that a great many are coming, and the managers of the excursion want seats reserved.

Mr. Hunter goes to Peterborough on Saturday morning to tie the nuptial knot for two friends of his from the county of Durham who will meet him there.

AMONG THE FLOCKS of people who visit the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., are many who are sent there, by those who have already, from personal experience, learned of the great Triumph in Conservative Surgery achieved by the Surgeons of that famed institution. Little heroic, or cutting surgery is found necessary. For instance, TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are removed by Electrolysis and other conservative means and thereby the perils of cutting operations avoided. PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife. RUPTURE, or Breach (Hernia) is radically cured without the knife and without pain. Trusses can be thrown away! SPORTING NEWS

The first Wednesday afternoon match at cricket was played yesterday between teams captained by Ward Cutler and Mr. Arnold, and it was a good game. Mr. Cutler's team made 52, while Mr. Arnold's men made 53 for three wickets, thereby winning the game by 8 wickets and one run, when time was called. Mr. Brown's innings of 16 (caught out) and Claud Armstrong's innings of 28 (not out), against such bowlers as Mr. Ince and Ward Cutler, was indeed good, and may not be excelled this season. Mr. Cutler also did well at the bat for his team, piling up 20 in good style. Frank Lewis also showed himself in good shape, with his score of 19, against the bowling of Claud Armstrong and A. Wallace, who bowled in great shape. A large concourse of players and spectators witnessed the proceedings. Another match on Saturday afternoon.

The close season for bass began to-day, and will continue until July 1st, inclusive.

The Kingston Whig says: "The Crescent Lacrosse club of this city is corresponding with the secretaries of the Brockville and Belleville lacrosse clubs, with a view to getting either one or other of the clubs to come to Kingston on the Queen's birthday."

While Captain H. O. Powell and other members of the Ramblers were coming from Trenton on their wheels on Tuesday night, the Capt. had a narrow escape from a serious accident. Owing to the darkness, he did not see an approaching team and before he was aware of it, he was under the horses' heads. He threw himself to one side and saved himself from injury, but his wheel was badly smashed.

There will be another quoit match on the Commercial house grounds on Thursday next. It will be open to any players who desire to enter.

The Ramblers bicycle club met last evening in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, and there was a good attendance. President Burrell having resigned, owing to a pressure of other business, Mr. F. B. Smith was elected in his place. The Club have been in negotiation with the owners of the agricultural park and have secured the privilege to use the track, which will be put in good shape at once. The club also decided to put on four races at the coming Bay of Quinte exhibition, for which liberal prizes will be offered. This is a wise move on the part of the club, and the "fast ones" will now have a good track on which to train for the events of the season. Belleville has some good riders, and with careful coaching they will bring some valuable trophies to the City of the Bay from outside meetings.

The lacrosse club had a splendid practice last evening. At 6:30 Capt. Burrell lined up the men into two teams of about fifteen players each, and for an hour and a quarter the rubber was kept hustling. The juniors are getting into particularly fine shape, and are giving some of the seniors all they want to do when it comes to checking. Every night brings out some new men, and there is no limit to the possibilities of the club. The men will practice again on Friday evening, and every week night afterwards till the 24th.

Two Elderly Couples Married—Their United Ages 250 Years and Combined Weight 800 Pounds.

And they two couples were made two, or each two one. So pronounced the Rev. Mr. McQuaig on the persons of William H. Johnson, jr., of Picton, and Miss Jennie Snider, of Ameliasburg, and at the same time and place Mr. George H. Snider, of Thurlow, and Miss Mary Casey, of Sidney. This occurred at the pleasant residence of Mr. Morly Snider, Ameliasburg, at noon on Wednesday the 9th inst. in the presence of a select number of friends. An artistic, rich and bountiful dinner was provided by the host and hostess, of which all present partook with pleasure enlivened by pleasantries, good humor and repartee. Here Mr. Sills, of Thurlow, and his young wife, a niece of Mr. Snider's, presented a beautiful child for christening, naming her May Ethel. These happy couples who have commenced life together are not juveniles, as their united ages are about 250 years, and all well physically developed, weighing about 800 pounds. We trust they all may yet see many years of life and happiness. The company broke up early, as Mr. and Mrs. Johnson wished to drive to their home near Picton and Mr. and Mrs. Snider to his farm in Sidney. Mr. Snider also has a fine home in Thurlow.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

TREASURE ISLAND

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

Indeed, as we found when we also reached the spot, it was something very different. At the foot of a pretty big pine, and involved in a green creeper, which had even partly lifted some of the smaller bones, a human skeleton lay, with a few shreds of clothing, on the ground. I believe a chill struck for a moment to every heart.

'He was a seaman,' said George Merry, who, bolder than the rest, had gone up close, and was examining the rags of clothing. 'Leastways, this is good seacloth.'

'Ay, ay,' said Silver, 'like enough; you wouldn't look to find a bishop here, I reckon. But what sort of a way is that for bones to lie? Tain't in natur'.'

Indeed, on a second glance, it seemed impossible to fancy that the body was in a natural position. But for some disarray (the work, perhaps, of the birds that had fed upon him, or of the slow growing creeper that had gradually enveloped his remains) the man lay perfectly straight—his feet pointing in one direction, his hands, raised above his head like a diver's, pointing directly in the opposite.

'I've taken a notion into my old numskull,' observed Silver. 'Here's the compass; there's the tip-top p'int of Skeleton Island, stickin' out like a tooth. Just take a bearing, will you, along the line of them bones.

It was done. The body pointed straight in the direction of the island, and the compass read duly E.S.E. by E.

'I thought so,' cried the cook; 'this here is a p'inter. Right up there is our line for the Pole Star and the jolly dollars. But, by thunder! if it don't make me cold inside to think of Flint. This is one of his jokes, and no mistake. Him and these six was alone here; and he killed 'em, every man; and this one he hauled here and laid down by compass, shiver my timbers! They're long bones, and the hair's been yellow Ay, that would be Allardyce. You mind Allardyce, Tom Morgan?'

'Ay, ay,' returned Morgan, 'I mind him; he owed me money, he did, and took my knife ashore with him.'

'Speaking of knives,' said another, 'why don't we find his'n lying round? Flint warn't the man to pick a seaman's pocket; and the birds, I guess, would leave it be.'

'By the powers, and that's true!' cried Silver.

'There ain't a thing left here,' said Merry, still feeling round among the bones, 'not a copper doit nor a baccy box. It don't look nat'ral to me'.

'No, by gum, it don't,' agreed Silver; 'not nat'ral, nor not nice says you.'

'Great guns! messmates, but if Flint was living this would be a hot spot for you and me. Six they were, and six are we; and bones are what they are now.'

'I saw him dead with these here deadlights,' said Morgan. 'Billy took me in. There he laid with pennypieces on his eyes.' 'Dead—ay, sure enough he's dead and gone below,' said the fellow with the bandage; 'but if ever sperrit walked, it would be Flint's. Dear heart, but he died bad, did Flint!'

'Ay, that he did,' observed another; 'now he raged, and now he hollered for the rum, and now he sung. 'Fifteen men' were his only song, mates: and I tell you true, I never rightly liked to hear it since. It was main hot and the windy was open and I hear that old song comin' out as clear as clear—and the death-haul on the man already.'

'Come, come,' said Silver, 'stow this talk. He's dead, and he don't walk, that I know; leastways, he won't walk by day, and you may lay to that. Care killed a cat. Fetch ahead for the doubloons.'

We started, certainly; but in spite of the hot sun and the staring daylight, the pirates no longer ran separate and shouting through the woods, but kept side by side and spoke with bated breath. The terror of the dead buccaneer had fallen on their spirits.

CHAPTER XXXII.

THE TREASURE HUNT: THE VOICE AMONG THE TREES.

Partly from the damping influence of this alarm, partly to rest Silver and the sick folk, the whole party sat down as soon as they had gained the brow of the ascent.

The plateau being somewhat tilted toward the west, this spot on which we had paused commanded a wide prospect on either hand. Before us, over the treetops we beheld the Cape of the Woods fringed with surf; behind, we not only looked down upon the anchorage and Skeleton Island, but saw—clear across the spit and the eastern lowlands—a great field of open sea up on the east. Sheer above us rose the Spyglass, here dotted with single pines, there back with precipices There was no sound but that of the distant breakers, mounting from all round, and the chirp of countless insects in the brush. Not a man, not a sail upon the sea; the very largeness of the view increased the sense of solitude.

Silver, as he sat, took certain bearings with his compass.

'There are three 'tall trees,'' said he, 'about in the right line from Skeleton Island. 'Spy glass Shoulder,' I take it, means that lower p'int there. It's child's play to find the stuff now. I've half a mind to dine first.'

'I don't feel sharp,' growled Morgan. 'Thinkin' o' Flint—I think it were—as done me.'

'Ah, well, my son, you praises your stars he's dead,' said Silver.

'He was an ugly devil,' cried a third pirate, with a shudder; 'that blue in the face, too!'

'That was how the rum took him,' added Merry. 'Blue, well, I reckon he was blue. That's a true word.'

Ever since they had found the skeleton and got upon this train of thought they had spoken lower and lower, and they had almost got to whispering by now, so that the sound of their talk hardly interrupted the silence of the wood. All of a sudden, out of the middle of the trees in front of us, a thin, high, trembling voice struck up the well-known air and words:

> 'Fifteen men on a dead man's chest—
> Yo-ho ho, and a bottle of rum!'

I never have seen men more dreadfully affected than the pirates. The color went from their faces like enchantment; some leaped to their feet, some clawed hold of others; Morgan groveled on the ground.

'It's Flint, by——!' cried Merry.

The song had stopped as suddenly as it began—broken off, you would have said, in the middle of a note, as though some one had laid his hand upon the singer's mouth. Coming so far through the clear, sunny atmosphere among the green treetops, I thought it had sounded airly and sweetly; and the effect on my companions was the danger.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy to burns and bruises I ever used.'

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

DISCUSSING TARIFF ITEMS

Important Changes Made in Several Tariff Schedules.

TWINE FOR CANADIAN FISHERMEN

The Difference Between the Position of Fishermen of This Country and Those of the States—Respecting the Auditor-General's Report—Cost of the Pier at Oakville.

OTTAWA, May 11.—In the House yesterday Hon. Mr. Ouimet, to reply to Mr. Gibson, said the pier at Oakville was reconstructed in October, 1887, at a cost of $14,280. The Government was aware that the outer end of the pier had settled, but as the lighthouse had been moved back there was no danger of it being washed away. The Government was now considering a petition from the municipality of Oakville asking that the outer end of the pier be rebuilt.

Sir John Thompson's bill to provide for the examination of witnesses on oath by the Senate and House of Commons was considered in committee and read a third time.

The Auditor-General's Report.

Some time was taken up in discussing the action of the Auditor-General in placing certain correspondence in his annual report. The Opposition considered that the whole matter referred to in the Auditor-General's report should be referred to the Public Accounts Committee, while the Government refused to accept the committee as a trial tribunal in disputes between the Auditor-General and the Treasury Board. Finally Mr. Davies assured the First Minister that he did not wish to have the Government's action passed on by the committee; whereupon Sir John Thompson suggested that the Opposition should move for any papers he desired in connection with the subject. The matter dropped there.

Discussing Tariff Items.

The rest of the sitting was taken up in the discussion of tariff items.

Mr. Coatsworth, speaking of the item of cotton velvets, stated that he had been asked by the Toronto Board of Trade to request that velveteens should be classed among dress goods with a duty of 25 per cent. After considerable discussion it was decided to class velvets, velveteens and plush fabrics under one head, with a uniform duty of 30 per cent. ad volorem. Webbing, elastic and non-elastic, was made 20 per cent. Cotton sewing thread, in hanks, was reduced to 12½ per cent. Cotton thread and crochet cotton on spools or tubes was left at 25 per cent.

Sir Richard Cartwright objected to the duty of 12½ per cent. duty on cotton in hanks. The item passed.

Cordage, n.e.s., which appeared in the new tariff at 30 per cent., was reduced to 27½ per cent.

Hon. Mr. Wallace explained that fishermen would continue to get their cordage and twines in connection with their fishing absolutely free.

Mr. McMullen objected to fishermen getting free twine.

Mr. Taylor advised the Opposition to look at the new American tariff, which they were so anxious to see obtained in Canada. Fishermen in the United States were compelled to pay 30 per cent. upon all their twines, etc., while these came into Canada free.

Mr. Foster stated that if the House desired it he would put the duty on cordage at the old figure in the old tariff, namely, 1¼ cents per lb, and 10 per cent. ad valorem. This was agreed to.

The items of rope, binder twine, bootlaces, hammocks, lawn tennis nets, damask, towels, sails, sacks, manufactures of hemp, flax and jute, jute cloth, silk, manufactures of silk and ribbons were passed.

The next item was: Leicester, Cotswold, Lincolnshire and Southdown combing wools, or wools known as lustre wools and other like combing wools, as are grown in Canada, 3 cents per pound.

Mr. Charlton said this really afforded no protection to the Canadian farmer. If the Government really wanted to help the farmer let them put a duty on wool imported from Australia and the Argentine Republic.

Hon. Mr. Ives said the duty kept a lot of wool out.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that a duty on the kinds of wool not produced in Canada would simply be a duty on raw material and would simply increase the duty to the consumer without benefiting the farmer.

Hon. David Mills supported Mr. Charlton. He said that the Government should put a tax on the fine wools which were not produced in Canada.

Hon. Mr. Wallace said that would take $500,000 out of the pockets of the people, or it would compel them to wear coarse woollens when they do not want to.

The item carried.

A number of other items passed. To "fish and products of fish" the following item was added: Fresh and dried fish, n.e.s., imported in barrels, one cent per lb.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Important Amendment to the New Insolvency Bill.

The Senate Insolvency Committee yesterday passed an important amendment to clause 62 of the bill. Its effect will be that creditors holding claims based on negotiable instruments on which the insolvent is only indirectly liable shall deduct the value at which he calculates the liability of the person primarily liable, and for the remainder come in under the same condition as other creditors. It is now generally well understood that the insolvency bill will not be put through this session.

The Amherstburg Seizure.

The official report of the recent seizure of the Visitor and Leroy Brooks at Amherstburg was received to-day at the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and action will immediately be taken. The crews of the seized vessels are still at Amherstburg awaiting definite action of the Government.

Captain Bliss' Reinstatement.

There is trouble in the Ottawa field battery over the reappointment of Mr. Bliss to the captaincy. Surgeon Bell was seen at his office and spoke very clearly on the reinstating of Mr. Bliss. He had handed in his resignation, he said, to the commander of this district yesterday afternoon for different reasons.

Balfour Will Demand His Liberty.

BUENOS AYRES, May 11.—Jabez Spencer Balfour, the absconding manager of the Liberator Building & Loan Association, of London, who has been under arrest in Argentina pending extradition proceedings, has made a demand for his complete liberty, and will claim damages for illegal arrest.

BRITISH BUDGET PASSES.

Division on the Motion to Reject It Gives the Government a Majority of 14.

LONDON, May 11.—The debate on the budget bill in the Commons was begun before a well filled house. The heavy oratorical artillery was brought out by Arthur Balfour, leader of the Unionists. Whether good or bad he said the budget was wholly inconsistent with the traditions of Liberal finance. It was not a national but a class budget. In it the government assailed certain interests to propitiate others. They dealt unjustly with brewers and publicans on the fallacious assumption that excessive profits justified excessive taxation. The graduated income tax might be good in principle but the method of application proposed by the government directly menaced trade and individual interests. Mr. Balfour said he was sure the public had not seen the absurdity of the scheme the greatest blot on which was the absurd pretension of the author that he had done away with the existing anomalies of taxation.

Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, defended his budget. The motion to reject the bill, he said, represented the land and liquor interests. The Opposition had contended that beer and spirituous liquors could not bear the additional taxation. Would they then favor taxing tea, sugar and grain or only incomes? In referring to Mr. Balfour's strictures on the new state duties and the income tax, Sir William Harcourt quoted the recommendations of John Stuart Mill and Adam Smith in support of graduation in taxation. Common sense, he said, found in such graduation a just and expedient system. Therein lay the fundamental principle of liberal finance as now submitted to the House. If the budget should be rejected the principle must survive for it was the principle of justice. He challenged the vote of the House on this principle and he was prepared when the time should come to ask the country's verdict.

When Sir William closed his speech the House was packed. The division was made slowly as the members went into the lobbies with painful deliberation. The tellers announced that 308 members had voted for the second reading and 294 against it. When the Speaker read these figures to the House the supporters of the Government burst into roaring cheers. The Unionists replied with equal vigor.

In the division all the Parnellites and William Saunders, Radical, joined the Unionists. Mark Beaufroy, Sydney Evershed and William McEwan, all Liberals, abstained from voting. Robert T. Reid, who had to stand again after his elevation to the solicitor-generalship, was re-elected yesterday, without opposition, to represent Dumfries, but he was unable to take his seat in time to vote.

FELL FROM THE FOURTH FLAT.

Shocking Accident Which Happened to a New York Woman.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Mrs. Emily Rechsteiner and Mrs. Rosalie Huerlinan were tenants of fourth-floor flats at Nos. 496 and 498 Brooke avenue, which faced each other across a narrow air shaft. To pass from one flat to the other, however, it was necessary to walk down three flights of stairs and up three flights, so Mrs. Rechsteiner laid an ironing-board from her window to that of Mrs. Huerlinan. For several days the women passed to and fro over the extemporized and fragile bridge. Yesterday, however, as Mrs. Rechsteiner was returning to her own apartment the board broke and she fell to the bottom of the shaft, striking upon her head on the flagstones and dashing out her brains. She was 26 years of age and uncommonly good looking.

Home Secretary Asquith Marries.

LONDON, May 11.—Right Hon. Herbert Henry Asquith, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, was married in St. George's Church, Hanover Square, yesterday to Miss Margot Tennant, daughter of Sir Charles Tennant of Glasgow. The ceremony was performed by the Bishop of Rochester in the presence of a company of the best known people of London. Among those present were Mr. Gladstone, Lord Rosebery, Earl Spencer, Joseph Chamberlain and Arthur J. Balfour. The crowd outside the church cheered as Mr. Gladstone arrived, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Drew. Mr. Asquith and his bride started for Mells Park, Frome, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Seal Fishery Regulations.

LONDON, May 11.—In reply to a question in the House of Commons addressed to him by Sir George Baden-Powell and having reference to the regulations for the protection of the seal fishery in Behring Sea, Sir Edward Grey, Parliamentary Foreign Secretary, said that the instructions issued to the commanders of the vessels under the flags of Great Britain and the United States were practically identical. Russia and America had renewed last year's treaty for the protection of seals in Russian waters.

TRIAL OF DR. MEYER.

The Prisoner's Offer to Plead Guilty of Manslaughter Refused.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The prosecution in the trial of Dr. Henry C. F. Meyer for the alleged murder of Ludwig Brant was surprised yesterday on the reassembling of the court after recess, by an offer by the prisoner to plead guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. The offer was made to Assistant District Attorney McIntyre by Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, counsel for the defence. Mr. McIntyre emphatically refused.

Killed by a Sentry.

BERLIN, May 11.—A young maid servant named Kaczmarck was stopped and roughly handled by a sentry in the city of Posen. The sentry tried to arrest her, but she ran away. He shouted to her three times to stop, but she continued running. He then shot her dead.

South Bruce Nominations.

WALKERTON, Ont., May 11.—At the adjourned convention of the South Bruce Liberal party, held at Formosa yesterday, Mr. Thomas Ingles of Carrick received the nomination for the local house by a majority of six votes over Mr. Truax, ex-M. P. Mr. Ingles lives in Carrick and is a prominent farmer. His opponent, Mr. Vallens, the Patron candidate, lives in the township of Kinloss and is also a farmer in good circumstances. There is no Conservative candidate in the field so far.

Farm Hand Suicides.

GEORGETOWN, May 11.—Peter Mulloch, a farm hand living with Mr. McDonald on lot 13, concession 5, Esquesing, was heard to arise yesterday morning and leave the house for the barn to do the usual feeding. Mr. McDonald's son went to the barn to inform Mulloch that breakfast was ready. Opening the barn door young McDonald was horrified to find Mulloch's dead body hanging by a rope from one of the barn timbers. Mulloch was a man about fifty years of age and unmarried.

ANDREWS ABORTION CASE

Cassie Andrews, the Doctor's Daughter-in-Law, Discharged.

RANSOME ANDREWS BREAKS DOWN

He Takes the Stand in His Own Defence and Pleads Pitifully to the Crown Prosecutor to Deal Gently With Him—He Denies Performing Any Unlawful Practices on the Dead Girl.

TORONTO, May 11.—Nellie Lafontaine was placed in the box yesterday to testify in the Andrews case. Mr. Riddell, for the defence, objected to her evidence. The court sustained the objection, and she was allowed to step out.

Dr. R. A. Payne testified that Andrews was not a regular practitioner, and was not entitled to practice. After the hearing of other medical testimony, eliciting nothing of importance, the crown rested its case.

On the defence being called, Mr. Riddell argued that the crown had not produced sufficient evidence to send the case to the jury. Justice Meredith, however, decided otherwise.

Then Mr. McGregor asked for the discharge of Mrs. Alice Andrews, wife of the doctor, arguing that she was innocent of criminal intention and acted merely in accordance with her husband's wishes.

The court held that there was sufficient evidence in her case to send it to the jury, stating that a reasonable jury might convict her on the charge.

Mr. Mills then argued for the release of Cassie Andrews, daughter-in-law of the the doctor.

Justice Meredith decided in favor of the plea and directed a verdict of not guilty to be recorded. Cassie Andrews was then allowed to go free.

Mr. Riddell, in outlining his defence of Dr. Andrews to the jury, said that Mrs. Denning insisted upon expediting matters about her daughter, the doctor examined her and said she would have a miscarriage and she was confined. No abortion was performed upon her; she had insanity of pregnancy.

John Brighton, a furniture dealer, was the first witness for the defence. He told of taking furniture to Doc. Andrews' house on October 21, and there overheard a conversation between Andrews and Mrs. Lewis, in which the doctor said, "I'll have nothing to do with your sister; she has been tampered with, she told me so; I'll have nothing to do with her; you must take her away."

Ransome Andrews then took the stand to testify in his own behalf. He told his story at first in a low, tremulous voice, but as he continued his voice became more clear. He broke down when he told of his wife's advice to have nothing to do with Lucy Denning, and exclaimed, "I wish to God I had listened to her." He allowed the girl to remain in his house only at the urgent pressing of her mother. He said she was in ordinary confinement and he treated her in the usual way, using no instruments of any form or shape whatever. He said the girl was crazy. He denied having said undertakers were devils, and it was the request of the girl's relatives that he should have her buried.

In cross-examination, Andrews went over his story again, but did not vary in any way in any of his statements. He told the crown that he had lived in Toronto for 30 years with the exception of four spent in Kingston prison for abortion. The old man pathetically asked the crown prosecutor not to be hard on him on account of his feebleness, and he was willing to answer any question with regard to Lucy Denning's death. He said the case for which he had been sent to Kingston was a similar one to the present, but he had not then the chance of defending himself in the witness box.

Mrs. Alice Andrews was put into the box by her counsel, Mr. McGregor. She is 26 years of age and married the doctor three years ago. They were preparing to go to the States when Mrs. Lewis first called. The doctor's business was "selling pills for suspension" and "private diseases." She gave an account of Lucy Denning's illness.

A long array of medical testimony followed, and notwithstanding the usually uninteresting character of this evidence to the masses, the interest in the case was kept up throughout.

In the evening the evidence for the defence was closed, and the counsels for prosecution and defence addressed the jury, after which the court adjourned.

LINDSAY'S MURDERER

He Was a Man of Bad Temper and Had Special Spite Against His Victim.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 11.—"Truskey is not insane," said Detective Campau to-day. "He is a powerful fellow with a terrible temper and his only insanity is a mean disposition, which was almost certain to result in crime at some time. Truskey has been troublesome to the constables for years, and Constable Lindsay had, of course, been obliged to correct him several times and the murderer had a special spite to vent on him. The crime was entirely unprovoked and yet Truskey did not seem to think he should be blamed. He is a brute and his crime was among the worst yet recorded in Essex county. When Murderer Veney was waiting trial a year ago he was placed under special guard while in the jail. An extra guard has also been placed over Truskey, who is kept in a ward known as 'murderers row,' and when he steps from his bed across the narrow cell he glares angrily through the steel bars at a sharp-visaged guard who sits with a rifle across his knees.

The Destructiveness of the Mannlicher.

LONDON, May 11.—The Standard's Vienna correspondent says of the fight between the police and strikers at Ostrau: "There were only nine gendearmes opposed to the strikers at Ostrau. They fired twenty-three shots. The result showed the fearful destructiveness of the mannlichers at close quarters. In some cases the ball went clear through one body and splintered the bones of another behind. The wounds were terrible. One man was shot in the thigh and his flesh hung in ribbons. All this seems to indicate that in the next war the number of dead and disabled will be enormously larger than formerly."

Dwelling Burned in Simcoe.

SIMCOE, Ont., May 11.—Yesterday fire broke out in the residence of Mr. John Crooks of this town. The building, valued at $600, was completely destroyed. Insured for $300. Fire was caused by defective chimney.

Suing for $25,000.

MONTREAL, May 11.—Lieutenant Colonel Hughes, the chief of police of this city, has taken action for $25,000 damages against the Montreal Herald on account of attacks made upon him in connection with the efficiency of the police force.

THE LANDSLIDE AT ST. ANNES.

Recent Floods Only Hastened the Calamity That Overhung the Village.

QUEBEC, May 11.—The disaster at St. Anne de la Perade is the all absorbing topic of conversation on the streets and in the clubs. Numerous startling reports were circulated during the day, but few of them were substantiated. The only well authenticated striking disaster of which anything was learned was the falling into the river at St. Anne of two more houses. The C. P. R. has trains at work hauling stones from Terrebonne to the scene of the trouble, where they are dumping in the river at its swiftest point so as to form a dam or buttress, against and parallel to the shore, and so protect it sufficiently to prevent it being eaten away by water.

A large number of newspaper men and others are on the scene. City Engineer Ballairgie left for St. Anne yesterday, accompanied by his son, to inspect the slide, and Mr. Laflamme has just returned from that place, whither he was on a special mission on behalf of the Government to whom he has to report. The geologist attributes the accident solely to the wearing effect of the water on the soft sand small gravel, of which the banks are formed. The only effects of the recent floods, he thinks, was to hasten a calamity which has for some time been overhanging the village. The bank, which is being eaten into, is from thirty to forty feet above the level of the water, and the river, which formerly ran from northeast to southwest at the place of the accident, now runs in a directly western direction. The inhabitants of the place are said to be so rattled that they can hardly give a lucid and correct account of the affair themselves.

THREE RIVERS, Que., May 11.—A gentleman returned from St. Anne de la Perade says the undermining is still going on. The river being high and current strong eighteen houses are in peril. The C. P. R. bridge is out of danger. Messrs. Mons and Cooper of the C. P. R. with their men are protecting it by placing stones on the banks which will prevent the undermining reaching the church and convent and lower portion of the village.

Lightning's Work Near Brownsville.

BROWNSVILLE, Ont., May 11.—Last evening while a very heavy storm was passing over, lightning struck and burned the entire farm buildings covering 100 feet square, including several tons of hay and one steer, owned by Mr. E. B. Brown. During the afternoon he had turned the whole of his cattle, numbering thirty-six, and several horses, out on pasture for the first time. This saved him from what would have been a much heavier loss, as absolutely nothing could be taken from the cattle sheds. One yoke of oxen was taken from the driving shed attached, which was the only things saved. Loss over $2,000, insured for about $800.

Noted Crook in Custody.

DETROIT, May 11.—For three days the police have had a mysterious prisoner in the central station, a man who says his name is Williams, and it leaked out yesterday that the prisoner is believed to be a noted safe cracker and bank robber. It is understood that his real name is James Morton, and it is known that his picture is in the rogues' gallery, but what his record is the police do not tell. He is believed to be the man who robbed the Detroit Internal Revenue office a few nights ago of $600.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, MAY 11.

THAT 60 MILLION MARKET.

Last year the Grit press was parading before the eyes of our farmers the 60 million market in the States, the opening of which it was claimed would greatly benefit them, but it appears that the farmers in the States have equally as many, if not more difficulties to contend with there as have our farmers here.

As a sample we give the following extract of a letter to a gentleman in this city from Mr. Peter Mulhern, of St. Paul, well known here: "Flour is cheap. Best patent $3.25 per bbl. For one lb. loaf we get 4c. Eggs 7c to 8c. Lard 5½c. Cooking butter 10c per lb. Everything else equally cheap."

FREE TRADERS ARE WE ALL.

The Grits are a glorious free trade party. They talk and talk, and vote and vote—that is on the general principle—but when it comes down to particular industries they forget the general principle, abandon the wise principles and vote for the wise practices of the Government. It is interesting just to look for a few moments at how these men stand. A glance at the difference between their pretensions and their practices convinces any man, of unbiased judgment, that they are convinced in their hearts of the wisdom of the Government's policy.

Mr. Davies, of P. E. I., is a very loud-mouthed free trader, but he has devoted some pages of the Hansard to an endeavor to commend and make more effectual the Government's policy of protection on pork. He is number one.

Mr. Martin, of Manitoba, is another claquer upon the glories of free trade, but he kicked like a broncho when the duty was lowered upon mutton for the encouragement of the Australian trade, and he is bound that the grain and meat products of the Canadian Northwest shall be protected.

Mr. Martin is number two.

Mr. Lister is for free trade—for the removal of every trace of the iniquitous restriction—that is, except where coal oil is concerned, and there he thinks no duty too high to encourage Canadian industry and protect Canadian capital. He is number three.

Mr. Campbell, of Kent, is number four. In theory an ardent free trader, in practice a protectionist on flour and corn. He goes for sins in the abstract but not for particular sins. Mr. Gibson, of Lincoln, is number five. An ardent free trader who wants a high protective duty upon fruits and nursery stock.

With him joins hands a statesman named Lowell, of Welland, who doesn't know much about the subject, but shouts free trade one day, and the next day, with Mr. Gibson and others, asks the Finance Minister to protect the wine industry, and not to kill the fruit growers. He is number six.

Then the member for Essex, Mr. McGregor, is also a typical Grit free trader. He wants free trade in everything but corn and wines. He is number seven.

Number eight is pious John Charlton, the loudest of them all in his cries for the removal of restrictions. Of course he wishes his remarks in this line not to refer to wrecking privileges. In this he is a protectionist, because he owns a wrecking plant.

Number nine is Mr. McMullen, who is a free trader pure and simple, with a soft spot for duties on coarse grains and meats.

Number ten is Mr. Beausoliel, who denounces protection in general terms, but wants the beet root sugar industry taken care of in particular.

Number eleven is Mr. Wm. Paterson, the Liberal stumper, who sheds tears over the iniquitous policy of the Government in public, but in private asks the Government for a higher duty on cigars and biscuits, and then goes off and joins a biscuit combine.

Next to him comes Mr. McCarthy, who wants the bars thrown down around every one except the Ontario lawyers, of whom, as Mrs. Partington would say, he is one of which. Mr. McCarthy is number twelve, though the public accounts and bonus records show that he and his firm always looked out for number one.

Number thirteen is a statesman known as the giant of Guysboro', who describes himself at Liberal bun feeds as a "free trader pure and simple," but who joins a glass combine in Nova Scotia.

Glorious and immortal thirteen—typical of the honesty and consistency of the noble Grit party!

TANNIN IN TEA.

Percentage of Tannin in Different Brands of Tea.

Some examples which have been forwarded to us, says the British Medical Journal, of the results of analyses for tannin and theine in tea indicate considerable variations in the amount of tannin, according to the quality of the tea and the state of growth at which it is picked. In some blends of China teas the percentage of tannin extracted by infusion for thirty minutes was 7.44; theine, 3.11; and a similar result was given in the examination of the finest Moying; while, on the other hand, with fine Assam tea a percentage of 17.73 of tannin by weight was extracted after infusion for fifteen minutes, and two blends of Assam and Ceylon tea, gave, respectively, 8.91 and 10.26 of tannin. On the whole, it is probable that the Indian teas are much more heavily loaded with tannin than the China and Japan teas. Moreover, the common method of prolonged infusion in boiling water is well calculated to extract the tannin, while it dissipates the flavor of the tea.

To be drunk reasonably, tea should not be infused for more than a minute, and with water of which the temperature does not exceed 170° F. It should be taken without sugar or milk, which would drown the flavor of the delicate and aromatic infusion thus obtained. This, at least is how the tea is drunk both in China and Japan, whence we have borrowed the use of it. With our European method of prolonged infusion in boiling water we destroy all the best flavor of the tea, and we extract such heavy proportions of tannin as to cultivate indigestion as the result of tea drinking. Indigestion is unknown among tea drinkers in the East, and it is in all probability only the result of defective use of the leaf.

Child Inebriety.

At first thought it would hardly seem necessary to discuss this subject in respectable communities. When one remembers, however, how often a little whisky or brandy is prescribed for trifling ailments, such as colds, stomach trouble, etc., there would seem to be some foundation for the remarks of Dr. Keeley in a lecture delivered at Minneapolis, Minn. The doctor said: "Alcohol is the same liquor on the nursery table or sideboard as in the saloon, and has the same effect when given to a baby as when taken by an old person. Much has been said about the heredity of inebriety, but there is no evidence that this disease is hereditary. If it is possible that its heredity reaches back any further than the cradle and the nursery, then it certainly can reach no further than the influence that alcohol may have on the unborn child if liquor is drank by the mother. I do not doubt that inebriates are born and made in this manner. Mothers may sometimes be inebriates or take liquor as a remedy. The danger is to the child. The alcohol, no doubt, circulates through the brain of the unborn infant under such circumstances, and puts the stamp of inebriety on the delicate tissues.

"When the child is born its first crying breath is likely to inhale the odors of liquor. It enters the cradle and its cry is satisfied by opium and whisky. The method of causing inebriety in childhood is the secret of intemperance. It is to intemperance what the riddle was to the dragon slain by Jason when he recovered the golden fleece. That alcohol is a universal and general prescription for children's diseases needs no proof. I do not doubt that a satisfactory substitute can be found in each case for the alcohol given under these circumstances for children creates the disease of inebriety. Mothers should not give their children alcohol, and medical science must find us a substitute."

Mrs. Beecher's Old Age.

At the corner of Hicks and Orange streets, in Brooklyn, in a cosy little home, whose parlor windows catch all day long the warm rays of the sun, lives one of the most remarkable women of this nineteenth century—Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher. The present home of this well-known woman is almost within the shadow of the church which for years echoed to the voice of her famous husband.

Mrs. Beecher's prominence is not entirely the reflection of the lofty position won by the eminent divine. Her own force of character and strong personality could not have failed to bring her into prominence in life. To be the wife of so eminent a man would have given prominence to even a commonplace character, but of Mrs. Beecher it is asserted that her position tended rather to dwarf her own strong individuality. Her fidelity to her husband was consistent with her nobility of character. At all times she was his "strong right hand," giving no thought to herself.

Mrs. Beecher has been a resident of Brookly since 1847. There nearly all her children were born; there are the friends who have grown old with her. She lives quietly, with but one servant. Every Sunday, the weather and her health permitting, she may be seen at church, sitting in the pew that she has occupied for so long, listening with a smile on her lips to the words of the pastor.

FATAL FIRE AT SYRACUSE

It Breaks Out in Lumber Yards on the Banks of the Oswego Canal.

TWO PERSONS LOSE THEIR LIVES

The Fire Caught on a Rescue Boat Moored Beside the Yards and its Three Occupants Forced to Jump for Their Lives in Their Night Clothes—Two Drowned in Trying to Escape.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 11.—Fire broke out shortly after midnight in the lumber yards of C. H. Baker & Co., on the bank of the Oswego canal. The result of the fire is the destruction of about $60,000 worth of property and the loss of two two lives.

The Gospel boat Good News, of the Rescue Mission, was moored beside the burning lumber piles. There were three people on the boat, Robert Wilson, its captain, his young wife and A. Dalaney a brother of Mrs. Wilson. All jumped into the water in their night-clothes. Wilson succeeded in swimming ashore, aided by Pugilist Dunfee, but his wife and brother-in-law were drowned.

FATHER AND SON LYNCHED.

The Son Committed the Crime at the Instigation of His Father.

SHARON SPRINGS, Kas., May 11.—One of the most determined mobs that ever congregated in this portion of the State lynched William McKinley and his son, Lewis, for the murder of Charles Carley, committed one week ago.

About a week ago Charles Carley, a son-in-law of William McKinley, was murdered. An investigation revealed the fact that Fred, a 17-year old son of McKinley, sr., committed the crime. The boy, when arrested, made a confession, stating that he had been induced to kill his brother-in-law by his father and his older brother, Lewis.

Motives for the murder seemed principally revenge and hatred. The murdered man only a few weeks before had married McKinley's daughter. It had been stipulated before the marriage that the groom was to pay the bride's father $200 for the privilege of marrying her. The groom refused to pay this money after he was safely married, and thus incurred the enmity of his wife's father and brothers.

The boy surprised Carley while asleep, cutting his arm and horribly mutilating him with a garden hoe.

On Monday the three were arraigned in court, when Fred pleaded guilty as charged, but his father and Lewis pleaded not guilty, waived trial and were placed in the county jail. Late Monday night a mob of several hundred took the father and son to a bridge about half a mile west of town and lynched them. They both begged piteously for mercy. Fred would probably have been hanged with the others, but instead of taking him to the jail, he was kept under guard in the hotel.

EARTHQUAKE'S MANY VICTIMS.

Ten Thousand Persons Said to Have Perished in Venezuela.

NEW YORK, May 11.—A Herald special from Caracas says in confirmation of yesterday's dispatches: A terrible earthquake took place in Venezuela on April 28. Reports which have been received here from the districts affected tell of terrible loss of life and destruction of villages and towns.

The cities of Merida, Lagunillas, Chiguara and San Juan, situated in the northwest of the republic, in the region of the Andes, are reported as having been totally destroyed by a fierce shock at 11 o'clock on the night of the 28th.

Many villages are said to be wrecked but details are not yet to be had. The convulsion extended to parts of the adjacent republic of Colombia.

The full details of the catastrophe will be learned slowly, but it is probable that 10,000 people have perished, and it is certain the greatest suffering prevails in the places visited by the earthquake.

Prof. Campbell's Case.

CARLETON PLACE, May 11.—The Campbell case was taken up again yesterday. Mr. McLennan's motion, which was to send the case to the Montreal presbytery to begin trial again, was seconded and reported by Rev. Mr. Calder, of Lancaster, who strongly objected to the hasty proceedings, during the professor's absence; also to the few conferences held with the latter. The motion was supported by Dr. McNish, of Cornwall, who referred particularly to the professor's loving disposition, scholarship and attainments, he also said that everything should be done to save him to the church. Rev. R. Campbell, the next speaker, defended the presbytery's actions, and explained that it was to Prof. Campbell's interest that procedure should be by libel. Dr. Myles Crombie objected strongly to some positions taken by previous speakers, and thought the libel action very unfeeling. Principal McVicar dealt on the harmony and good-feeling of twenty years duration. Dr. Campbell, of Renfrew, was in favor of more conferences being held. Prof. Scrimger thought the Synod should do this rather than the presbytery. Dr. Moore, of Ottawa, moved the previous question which was carried. A decision was made to meet next year at Sherbrooke, Que., the meeting to be held the second Tuesday in May in St. Andrew's church.

Emile Henry's Execution.

PARIS, May 11.—It is stated that the execution of Emile Henry, the Cafe Terminus anarchist, will take place to-morrow.

Sheriff Stabbed by a Convict.

UTICA, N. Y., May 11.—Dr. Buckley, ex-sheriff of Oswego county, was called out of his house at Sandy Creek last night and shot and stabbed by a man whom he had sentenced to jail, as justice of peace. Buckley is still alive.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 11, 1894.

The clearings of the banks at Toronto this week were $5,933,622, as compared with $5,570,570 last week and $6,155,705 the corresponding week of last year.

At the London wool sales 8,400 bales, including some fine Port Philip, were offered. New South Wales greasy and merinos attracted a fair share of attention.

There was a few moments of activity at the opening of the Chicago wheat market and a few moments at the close, but the remainder of the session was dull and featureless. Oats were in good demand with prices ¼c to ½c lower.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain were moderate. One load of straight white wheat sold at 64c, red is quoted at 61c, and goose at 58c. Oats steady, 300 bushels selling at 38½ to 39½c. Peas nominal at 65 to 66c, and barley at 40 to 42c.

New York reports lower cables from London, the poor exhibits of earnings by St. Paul for the first week of May and the Illinois Central for April, the demoralization of freight rates at the west and a belief that at least $2,560,000 gold will be shipped to Europe to-morrow, all contributed to a weak opening for stocks.

The May report of the American statisticians of the department of agriculture after consolidating the returns place the condition of winter wheat at 81.4 as against 86.7 the previous month, being a falling off of 5.3 points. In 1893 at the same date the condition was 75.3, a little over two points lower than the previous month. The average condition of barley is 62.8 against 86.6 last year.

HOME ECONOMIES.

It is the Little Extravagances That Do Harm.

Few persons are extravagant in large matters, but at the tiniest leak, will, if left unrepaired, soon cause the dam to break; so the little things in home management are the things that count, and secure a firm foundation for its financial system or leave it liable to severe inundations. The foolish or the judicious spending of the dimes mark the extravagant, or the economical, person.

Utilizing the things on hand instead of purchasing new, is one way of saving that some women do not think of. The best parts of worn tablecloths, cut and hemmed on the machine, make very good everyday napkins. For the children's napkins, especially in fruit time, checked toweling, at from ten to fifteen cents a yard, will save many a stain from better ones. Flour sacks boiled in weak lye to remove the lettering, make dish towels, bath towels or linings. The finest of the bleached sacks make comfortables just as pretty and more durable than cheesecloth. Or pretty white aprons may be made from them; and more than one mother has made tiny drawers for the little ones from flour sacks.

In making underwaists for children, after they are sewed up, stitch a straight strip of muslin down over the underarm seam; this will effectually prevent their tearing crosswise, and render one as durable as two not so stayed. Instead of paying twenty-five cents a pair for hose supporters, take a piece of stout elastic, and on each end stitch a strip of drilling, four thicknesses and about two inches long. In one end work a buttonhole to button to the waist. Fasten the other to the stocking with a safety pin. One pair of these will outwear two pairs of patent supporters, and for a child three years old costs five cents.

A generous pinch of soda in the dish water saves soap; the dishes dry easier, have a better luster, and there are no greasy settlings on the dishpan. In cleaning greasy pots and pans, or sinks and drain pipes, hot salsoda water is not only cheaper, but more efficacious than soap. If cream is so nearly sour, that pouring hot coffee on it curdles it, a tiny pinch of baking soda added to the cream in each cup will prevent this, and in no way impair the flavor of the coffee.

Perhaps in no department is economy more needed, and in so many homes so little practiced, as in the strength of the mother. She whose cares hang heavy, and whose tasks multiply with the coming years, is so apt to forget that "the body is more than meat and the soul than raiment;" that the daily rest now will add years to her life. Fortunate she who realizes these facts and saves herself in every possible way; and happy that family whose mainspring has learned that she, too, must have her recreation and good times the same as the other members of the family: and insists on her share of conveniences and labor-saving devices, realizing that money spent for these things is one of the ways of economy.

THE ART OF WAR.

The old Jefferson Davis mansion in Richmond is to be used as a museum for relics of the confederacy.

England has won eighty-two per cent. of the wars she has engaged in; but in over a century she has defeated no white nation single handed.

It costs Great Britain $20,000 to scrape the barnacles off the bottom of one of its big men of war and repaint it, and this has to be done twice a year in the case of nearly every vessel.

A devilish idea has just been suggested by a Spaniard to "improve the art of war." It is to spread illness among an enemy by showering them with bullets poisoned with germs of infectious diseases.

The American Peace society is offering this year three prizes of $100, $50 and $20 respectively for the three best essays on the "Economic Waste of War," to be competed for by the members of the senior and junior classes of the colleges of the United States. Full information is given in the January number of the Advocate of Peace, Boston, Mass.

OUR QUEEN.

Queen Victoria has a wholesome dread of fire. Whenever she goes abroad she always has a couple of fire extinguishers sent out in advance and fitted up in the house where she will reside.

When the Queen ascended the British throne more than forty-one per cent. of the English people could not write their names. The proportion in that condition has been reduced to seven per cent.

Ex-Empress Eugenie, who was not long ago a guest at dinner with Queen Victoria, has now only careworn lines and a sad, dullish expression of the face, whose beauty was once the admiration of Europe.

The Queen has a splendid collection of tablecloths, some of which are covered with the most interesting designs. One, for instance, represents the field of Waterloo, with the figures of Wellington and Napoleon faithfully portrayed.

A Millionaire.

Uncle Ezry and his wife Susan were to town one day from the plantation seeing the sights. As they stood on a street corner a fine-looking, elegantly-attired, well-fed man drove by in a handsome carriage.

"Golly!" exclaimed the old woman, "who's dat?"

The old man didn't know, and his wife sent him to a policeman near by to learn.

"Who am dat gemman, boss?" he inquired of the officer.

"He's a millionaire," replied the policeman.

"What am dat, boss?"

"That's a man who has several millions."

Uncle Ezry thanked him and went back to Susan.

"Well," she inquired. "who de gemman?"

"He am a millionaire."

"What's dat?"

"Dat's a gemman what has sev'al millions."

"An' what am millions?"

Uncle Ezry had forgotten to ask the policeman this question and he was thrown out of his reckoning by it, but he began to think.

"Why, chile," he said after a moment or two as his face brightened "doan you know what dem is? Jes' look at de fine keep ob de gemman an' you ain't gwineter be axin' no questins like dat, sho'."

"Fo' de Lawd," she burst out with the rich, spontaneous laugh of her race, "co'se I knows. It sut'ney am watermillions."

CITY'S AND MUTES.

A One-Sided Game at the Institute Grounds Yesterday Evening.

The City football club and a few friends went to the D. & D. Institute grounds yesterday afternoon and a game was played with the Mutes. The teams lined up as follows:

Mutes	Position	Citys
J. Patrick	Goal	Jamieson
Fisher Lewis	Backs	Diamond Marsh
Simard Noonan	Half backs	Weller Hardy
Smalldown LaBelle	Centre forwards	Cummings Twining
Isbister Gillam Hence Chambers	Wings	Kelso McFee B gart Nash

The Mutes won the toss and elected to kick up the field with the wind. The play began with a rush and that towards the City's goal and in less than a minute from the kick-off Isbister had shot on goal and missed. Then there was some up and down work, in which the Citys did some heavy body checking, but they generally found someone to run against. After 20 minutes play LaBelle scored by a beautiful shot. The Mutes showed their knowledge of the ground and seemed to know exactly how a ball would roll when it struck. It was 20 minutes again before another goal was scored, Labelle doing the needful again. A few minutes after the kick off from the second goal Hence, of the centre, was hurt by a charge from Weller, but soon resumed play with a limp. No more goals were scored up to half time and then the Citys put Hardy in goal and changed the position of their men considerably, and the change showed an improvement, still they were unable to score, although they had several goal shots, but Patrick was always too quick for the City forwards and relieved time and again. Two more goals were scored in the second half by the Mutes through some fine combination work, in which Chambers and Isbister showed up to advantage. At the call of time the score stood 4-0 in favor of the Mutes. For the City's, Weller, Kelso, Twining and Cummings did good work in forward, while Diamond and Nash were strong at back. Chambers is the star of the Mutes' team, with Isbister and LaBelle next. The Mutes were unusually jubilant over their victory, but the City boys think the story would have been different had they been on neutral grounds.

The unevenness of the bottom caused her to keel over considerably, but men were put on with pumps and she was soon relieved. She will be taken to the other side of the slip, where she will have a level bottom to rest on and if the leak cannot be repaired in the water she will have to be hauled out again.

THE ANTI-COMBINE BILL.

Mr. Read's Bill Read a Second Time in the Senate.

Hon. Mr. Read, in the Senate on the 10th, moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Anti-Combine Act. He called attention to the fact that when Hon. Mr. Wallace passed his Anti-Combine Bill through the Commons in 1890, when it was sent to the Senate it was greatly impaired by the amendments there made to it. He believed that no measure in recent years had discredited the Senate or evoked such severe comment as had the amendments made by the Upper House to that Act. The Senate had done good work for the country; its deliberations were conducted in a quiet and orderly manner. Eminent lawyers had told him that they would never advise clients of theirs to take action under the Anti-combines Bill as at present framed. During the past few years a large number of Government measures and private bills introduced in the Commons had been amended in the Senate, and those amendments concurred in by the Lower House. He desired the Senate to retrieve the position it had lost by emasculating the Anti-Combines Bill, and for this reason he had introduced this bill. The hon. gentleman proceeded to speak of the evil effects of combines, instancing particularly the combine amongst undertakers, which oppressed the poor people very heavily. The bill was read the second time.

"JUDGE NOT."

WHERE DID YOU GET YOUR COMMISSION FROM?

Mr. Hunter's Commentary—Uncharitable Judgment of Others—He was Born in a Revival—A Commercial Traveller's Conversion—Next Sunday's Programme.

Bridge St. Church was well filled again last night when the meeting opened and the keenest interest was manifested by the large gathering.

Mr. Hunter made some comments: Every day, yes! every day, I go through the streets of your town, some one or more meet me and say, "Mr. Hunter, I was converted in the meetings six years ago, the Lord has kept me by his grace." That's the good news we are constantly greeted with. "Three fourths of the people in the church to-day were brought to Christ in revivals," continued the magnetic conductor of the evangelistic meetings. "I was 'born again' in a revival and when revivals cease I want to go to heaven."

"We have with us to-night Mr. Whiting, of Berlin, a commercial traveller, who was converted in our meetings there a year ago. God bless the commercial travellers. God's grace can keep them in the path of right. Yes, God can keep everybody who will give up his deviltry, confess it to God and turn to Him."

Mr. Hunter, after the opening exercises, read the lesson from the 7th chapter of Matthew. He spoke very strongly on the subject of long prayers. He said the good effects of many prayer meetings were ruined by the long prayers delivered by some of the older members. Long prayers at family worship had also sickened many a boy of things religious. Many a father will read forty verses from beginning to end, enough to tire any zealous christian. Read ten verses and make your prayers short and to the point. Don't use the same old prayer every day, but begin at the other end or in the centre and brighten it up.

"Judge not that ye be not judged." Who made you a judge? Where did you get your commission of judge from? We are very uncharitable in our judgments of others. You have known a man for 20 years and he made a mistake, or perhaps did commit a wrong, and you old hypocrite you, (See, that's what God calls you "thou hypocrite") you keep that one thing up against that man and judge him by it. Say! would you like to get measured up that way yourself; if you were judged that way you would be in the penitentiary, aye! and for life too. Some of you have stolen, but nobody knows it but God and yourselves. Yet, how unmerciful you are in your judgments of others. God forgive you for it.

There is one person you can judge as hard as you please, that's your own little, miserable, selfish, uncharitable self; be as hard as your like on him, and when you are you will let him off easy.

"Thou hypocrite!" My! My! what lots of hypocrites there are. A friend of mine used to see hypocrites on every street, in every store and workshop, he considered he had a special search warrant for hypocrites and was remarkably successful in his work as special constable. But when he got converted they all left town. His occupation, like Othello's, was gone. Oh don't you see "the beam was in his eye." He judged everybody by himself. That's the way with all these fellows who cry "Hypocrites in the church."

The three steps to Jesus are: 1 Give up sin. 2 Confess it. 3 Accept God's promise.

Mr. Crossley, who has been suffering for the past few days with a severe cold, was able last evening to take part in the song service, and contributed two beautiful solos. His sermon was practical and the reasoning used by the Rev. gentleman clear and concise.

NOTES.

Mr. Whiting, of Berlin, a traveller, who was converted in one of Messrs. Crossley and Hunter's meetings about a year ago, was present last night and gave a short address, in which he testified to the saving and sustaining power of Jesus Christ.

The after meeting was one of the best of the series and the results were most satisfactory, a large number going to the enquiry room for enlightenment, "What they were to do to be saved."

A "full bill" is prepared for next Sunday. 7:30 a.m. meeting for workers in Y. M.C.A. hall; 11 a.m. Mr. Hunter in John St. Church, Mr. Crossley in Holloway St. 4 p.m. mass meeting of eleven Sunday Schools in Bridge St. Church to be addressed by the evangelists. 7 p. m. two meetings—in the Tabernacle and Bridge St. Churches. The evangelists at both.

Cost of Furs.

A skin of the sea otter has been sold for as much as $775. Sable skins, little bigger than a man's hand, have been sold for one hundred dollars each, which is proportionately more expensive than the skin of the sea otter. A mantle of the valuable sable fur was a gift to the present Empress of Russia on her coronation, by the town of Vitoutsk, in that country. It weighed sixteen ounces and is valued at sixty thousand dollars.

The skin of an elephant, when tanned, is very expensive, the tanning taking about six months, says the Boston Globe. Articles made from elephant hides are very costly luxuries.

The skin of a silver fox, otherwise called black fox, varies in prices fifty to two hundred dollars. The whole number obtained annually amounts to only two thousand, of which about sixteen hundred are imported from England. La Hontan states that in his time the skin of the silver fox was worth its weight in gold, and an unusually fine skin has been sold in the London market for $250.

Of the species of marten which is distinguished as the Russian sable, the darkest skins command $150 each. Inferior skins of the same animal fetch as little as from one dollar to two dollars.

A skin of a tiger of North China, which has hair from two to three inches long, and frequently measures from ten to fourteen feet in length, is valued at from fifty to one hundred dollars.

Among expensive furs, Mrs. Mackay owns a set of black fox which cost fourteen thousand dollars.—Chicago News Record.

CONSERVATISM AT DESERONTO.

Spirited Meeting—Election of Officers—Address by the President—Votes of Confidence.

DESERONTO, May 9.—The Liberal Conservative Association of this town held their annual meeting in the opera house last evening, J. Newton, M.D., president of the association, presiding. The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: J. Newton, M.D., president; A. A. Richardson, vice-president; E. R. Chapman secretary; R. Jack, assistant secretary; and ward committees were appointed. Dr. Newton addressed the association at considerable length on the position of the country as to trade and financially, comparing our condition to that of the United States we were in a much better state and with brighter prospects. He closed with a strong appeal to stand by the party that had in the past showed us that they had the welfare of the country at heart. He urged all to still uphold the banner of British connection and not be carried away with any of the fads of the illusionists who were preaching to be heard.

A hearty vote of confidence was given to Sir John Thompson and his colleagues in their trade policy. We are satisfied that in the future our interests will be carefully guarded. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered W. B. Northrup, M.P., for his course as pursued in the House, and trusting that he will long be spared to represent the riding in the Dominion Parliament. A vote of confidence was given to W. R. Meredith, M.P.P., for his integrity and statesmanship as leader of the Opposition in the Provincial Parliament, and to W. P. Hudson M.P.P., for his loyal support.

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

TREASURE ISLAND.

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

'Come,' said Silver, struggling with his ashen lips to get the word out, 'that won't do. Stand by to go about. This is a rum start, and I can't name the voice, but it's some one skylarking — some one that's flesh and blood, and you may lay to that.'

His courage had come back as he spoke, and some of the color to his face along with it. Already the others had begun to lend an ear to this encouragement, and were coming a little to themselves, when the same voice broke out again—not this time singing, but in a faint, distant hail, that echoed yet fainter among the clefts of the Spy-glass.

'Darby M'Graw,' it wailed—for that is the word that best describes the sound—'Darby M'Graw! Darby M'Graw! again and again and again; and then rising a little higher, and with an oath that I leave out; 'Fetch aft the rum, Darby!'

The buccaneers remained rooted to the ground, their eyes starting from their heads. Long after the voice had died away they still stared in silence, dreadfully, before them.

'That fixes it!' gasped one. 'Let's go.'

'They were his last words,' moaned Morgan, 'his last words above board.

Dick had his Bible out, and was praying volubly. He had been well brought up, had Dick, before he came to sea and fell among bad companions.

Still, Silver was unconquered. I could hear his teeth rattle in his head; but he had not yet surrendered.

'Nobody in this here island ever heard of Darby,' he muttered; 'not one but us that's here.' And then, making a great effort, 'Shipmates,' he cried, 'I'm here to get that stuff, and I'll not be beat by man nor devil. I never was feared of Flint in my life, and, by the powers, I'll face him dead. There's seven hundred thousand pound not a quarter of a mile from here. When did ever a gentleman o' fortune show his stern to that much dollars, for a boosy old seaman with a blue mug—and him dead, too?'

But there was no sign of rewakening courage in his followers; rather, indeed, of growing terror at the irreverence of his words.

'Belay there, John!' said Merry. 'Don't you cross a sperrit.'

And the rest were all too terrified to reply. They would have run away severally had they dared, but fear kept them together, and kept them close by John, as if his daring helped them. He on his part had pretty well fought his weakness down.

'Sperrit? Well, may be,' he said. 'But there's one thing not clear to me. There was an echo. Now, no man ever seen a sperrit with a shadow; well then, what's he doing with an echo to him, I should like to know? That ain't in natur', surely!'

This argument seemed weak enough to me. But you never can tell what will affect the superstitious, and, to my wonder, Geo. Merry was greatly relieved.

'Well, that's so,' he said. 'You've a head upon your shoulders, John, and no mistake. 'Bout ship, mates! This here crew is on a wrong tack, I do believe. And come to think on it, it was like Flint's voice, I grant you, but not just so clear away like it, after all. It was liker somebody else's voice now—it was liker—'

'By the powers, Ben Gunn!' roared Silver.

'Ay, and so it were,' cried Morgan, springing on his knees. 'Ben Gunn it were!'

'It don't make much odds, do it now?' asked Dick. 'Ben Gunn's not here in the body any more'n Flint.'

But the older hands greeted this remark with scorn. 'Nobody minds Ben Gunn,' cried Merry; 'dead or alive, nobody minds him.'

It was extraordinary how their spirits had returned, and how the natural color had revived in their faces. Soon they were chatting together, with intervals of listening; and not long after, hearing no further sound, they shouldered the tools and set forth again, Merry walking first with Silver's compass to keep them on the right line with Skeleton Island. He had said the truth: dead or alive, nobody minded Ben Gunn.

Dick alone held his Bible, and looked around as he went, with fearful glances; but he found no sympathy, and Silver even joked him on his precautions.

'I told you,' said he—'I told you, you had spiled your Bible. If it ain't no good to swear by, what do you suppose a sperrit would give for it? Not that!' And he snapped his big fingers, halting a moment on his crutch.

But Dick was not to be confounded; indeep, it was so plain to me that the lad was falling sick; hastened by heat, exhaustion, and the shock of his alarm, the fever predicted by Dr. Livesey was evidently growing swiftly higher.

It was fine open walking here, upon the summit, our way lay a little downhill, for as I have said, the plateau tilted toward the west. The pines, great and small, grew wide apart, and even between the clumps of nutmeg and azalea, wide open spaces baked in the hot sunshine. Striking, as we did, pretty near north west across the island, we drew, on the one hand, ever nearer under the shoulders of the Spy-glass and on the other, looked ever wider over that western bay where I had tossed and trembled in the coracle.

The first of the tall trees was reached, and by the bearing, proved the wrong one. So with the second. The third rose nearly two hundred feet into the air above a clump of underwood; a giant of a vegetable, with a red column as big as a cottage, and a wide shadow around in which a company could have manœuvered. It was conspicuous far to sea both on the east and west, and might have been entered as a sailing mark upon the chart.

But it was not its size that now impressed my companions; it was the knowledge that seven hundred thousand pounds in gold lay somewhere buried below its spreading shadow. The thought of the money, as they drew nearer, swallowed up their previous terrors. Their eyes burned in their heads; their feet grew speedier and lighter; their whole soul was bound up in that future, that whole lifetime of extravagance and pleasure, that lay waiting there for each of them.

Silver hobbled, grunting on his crutch; his nostrils stood out and quivered; he cursed like a madman when the flies settled on his hot and shiny countenance; he plucked furiously at the line that held me to him, and, from time to time, turned his eyes upon me with a deadly look. Certainly he took no pains to hide his thoughts and certainly I read them like print. In the immediate nearness of the gold, all else had been forgotten; his promise and the doctor's warning were both things of the past; and I could not doubt that he hoped to seize upon the treasure; find and board the 'Hispanola' under cover of night, cut every honest throat about that island, and sail away as he had first intended, laden with crimes and riches.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. McINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

ETHEL D. HAINES, LAKEVIEW, ONT.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing those troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs.

GENTLEMEN.—Two years ago my husband suffered from severe indigestion, but was completely cured by two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. I can truly recommend it to all sufferers from this disease.

MRS. JOHN HURD, 13 Cross St., Toronto.

It doesn't take more than three months to take away the triumphant air a young married woman wears in the presence of unmarried ones.

Jas Shannon Leaskdale, writes:—'For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used.'

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

PASSING GENERATIONS.

THEY GO AND COME WITH THE PROCESSION OF YEARS.

Dr. Talmage Gives Utterance to Some Sublime Truths While Considering the Subject—Wherein One Generation Coincides With the Next to It on Both Sides.

BROOKLYN, May 6.—This was a great day in the history of the Brooklyn Tabernacle. The figures in flowers back of the platform, 1869 and 1894, indicated Rev. Dr. Talmage's time of coming to Brooklyn, and the present celebration, and was introductory to the great meetings in honor of Dr. Talmage's pastorate to take place on the following Thursday and Friday, presided over by the Mayor of the city, and ex Secretary of the Navy, General Tracy, and to be participated in by Senators and Governors and prominent men from the north, south, east and west. The subject of the sermon to-day was the Generations, the text being Ecclesiastes 1:4:—"One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh."

According to the longevity of the people in their particular century has a generation been called a hundred years, or fifty years, or thirty years. By common consent in our nineteenth century, a generation is fixed at twenty-five years.

The largest procession that ever moved is the procession of years, and the greatest army that ever marched is the army of generations. In each generation there are about nine full regiments of days. These 9,125 days in each generation march with wonderful precision. They never break ranks. They never ground arms. They never pitch tents. They never halt. They are never off on furlough. They came out of the eternity past, and they move on toward the eternity future. They cross rivers without any bridges or boats. The six hundred immortals of the Crimea dashing into them cause no confusion. They move as rapidly at midnight as at midnoon. Their haversacks are full of good bread and bitter aloes, clusters of richest vintage and bottles of agonizing tears. With a regular tread that no order of "double quick" can hasten, or obstacle can slacken, their tramp is on, and on, and on, and on, while mountains crumble and pyramids die. "One generation passeth, and another generation cometh."

This is my twenty-fifth anniversary sermon, 1869 and 1894. It is twenty-five years since I assumed the Tabernacle pastorate. A whole generation has passed. Three generations we have known: That which preceded our own, that which is now at the front, and the one coming on. We are at the heels of our predecessors, and our successors are at our heels. What a generation it was that preceded us! We who are now in the front regiment are the only ones competent to tell the new generation just now coming in sight what our predecessors were. Biography cannot tell it. Autobiography cannot tell it. Biographies are generally written by special friends of the departed, perhaps by wife, or son, or daughter, and they only tell the good things. The biographers of one of the first presidents of the United States makes no record of the president's account books now in the archives at the Capitol, which I have seen, telling how much he lost or gained daily at the gaming table. The biographers of one of the early secretaries of the United States never described the scene that day witnessed when the secretary was carried dead drunk from the state apartments to his own home. Autobiography is written by the man himself, and no one would record for future times his own weaknesses and moral deficits. Those who keep diaries put down only things that read well. No man or woman that ever lived dare to make full record of all the thoughts and words of a lifetime. We who saw and heard much of the generation marching just ahead of us are far more able than any book to describe accurately to our successors who our predecessors were. Very much like ourselves, thank you. Human nature in them very much like human nature in us. At our time of life they were very much like we now are. At the time of life they were in their teens they were very much like you who are in your teens, and at the time they were in their twenties they were very much like you who are in your twenties. Human nature got an awful twist under a fruit tree in Eden, and though the grace of God does much to straighten things, every new generation has the same twist, and the same work of straightening out has to be done over again.

Among that generation that is past, as in our own, and as it will be in the generation following us, those who succeeded became the target, shot at by those who did not succeed. In those times, as in ours, a man's bitterest enemies were those whom he had befriended and helped. Hates, jealousies and revenges were just as lively in 1869 as in 1894. Hypocrisy sniffled and looked solemn then as now. There was just as much avarice among the apple barrels as now among the cotton bales, and among the wheelbarrows as among the locomotives. The tallow candles saw the same sins that are now found under the electric lights. Homespun was just as proud as is the modern fashion plate. Twenty-five years—yea, twenty-five centuries—have not changed human nature a particle. I say this for the encouragement of those who think that our times monopolize all the abominations of the ages. One minute after Adam got outside of Paradise he was just like you, O man! One step after Eve left the gate she was just like you, O woman! All the faults and vices are many times centenarians. Yea, the cities Sodom, Gomorrah, Pompeii, Herculaneum, Heliopolis and ancient Memphis were as much worse than our modern cities as you might expect, from the fact that the modern cities have somewhat yielded to the restraints of Christianity, while those ancient cities were not limited in their abominations.

Yes, that generation which passed off within the last twenty-five years had their bereavements, their temptations, their struggles, their disappointments, their successes, their failures, their gladness and their griefs, like these two generations now in sight, that in advance and that following. But the twenty-five years between 1869 and 1894—how much they saw! How much they discovered! How much they felt! Within that time have been performed the miracles of the telephone and the phonograph. From the observatories other worlds have been seen to heave in sight. Six Presidents of the United States have been inaugurated. Trans-Atlantic voyage abbreviated from ten days to five and a half. Chicago and New York, once three days apart, now only twenty-four hours by the vestibule limit. Two additional railroads have been built to the Pacific. France has passed from monarchy to republicanism. Many of the cities have nearly doubled their populations. During that generation the chief surviving heroes of the Civil War have gone into the encampment of the graves. The chief physicians, attorneys, orators, merchants, have passed off the earth, or are in retirement waiting for transition. Other men in editorial chairs, in pulpits, in Governor's mansions, in legislative, senatorial and congressional halls. There are not ten men or women on the earth now prominent who were prominent twenty-five years ago. The crew of this old ship of a world is all changed. Others at the helm, others on the "lookout," others climbing the ratlines. Time is a doctor who with potent anodyne has put an entire generation into sound sleep. Time, like another Cromwell, has roughly prorogued Parliament, and with iconoclasm driven nearly all the rulers except one Queen from their high places. So far as I observed that generation, for the most part they did their best. Ghastly exceptions, but so far as I know them, they did quite well, and many of them gloriously well. They were born at the right time, and they died at the right time. They left the world better than they found it. We are indebted to them for the fact that they prepared the way for our coming. 1894 reverently and gratefully salutes 1869. "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh."

There are fathers and mothers here whom I baptized in their infancy. There is not one person in this church's Board of Session or Trustees who was here when I came. Here and there in this vast assembly is one person who heard my opening sermon in Brooklyn, but not more than one person in every five hundred now present. Of the seventeen persons who gave me a unanimous call when I came, only three, I believe, are living.

But this sermon is not a dirge; it is an anthem. While this world is appropriate as a temporary stay, as an eternal residence it would be a dead failure. It would be a dreadful sentence if our race were doomed to remain here a thousand winters and a thousand summers. God keep us here just long enough to give us an appetite for heaven. Had we been born in celestial realms we would not have been able to appreciate the bliss. It needs a good many rough blasts in this world to qualify us to properly estimate the superb climate of that good land where it is never too cold or too hot, too cloudy or too glaring. Heaven will be more to us than to those supernal beings who were never tempted, or sick, or bereaved, or tried, or disappointed.

Nothing can rob us of the satisfaction that uncounted thousands of the generation just past were converted, confronted and harvested for heaven by this church, whether in the present building, or the three preceding buildings in which they worshipped. The two great organs of the previous churches went down in the memorable fires, but the multitudinous songs they led year after year were not recalled or injured. There is no power in earth or hell to kill a hallelujah. It is impossible to arrest a hosanna. What a satisfaction to know that there are many thousands in glory on whose eternal welfare this church wrought mightily! Nothing can undo that work. They have ascended, the multitudes who served God in that generation. That chapter is gloriously ended. But that generation has left its impression upon this generation.

During the passing of the last generation some peculiar events have unfolded. One day while resting at Sharon Springs, N.Y., I think it was in 1870, the year after my settlement in Brooklyn, and while walking in the park of that place, I found myself asking the question, "I wonder if there is any special mission for me to execute in this world? If there is, may God show it to me! There soon came upon me a great desire to preach the gospel through the secular printing press. I realized that the vast majority of people, even in Christian lands, never enter a church, and that it would be an opportunity of usefulness infinite if that door of publication were opened. And so I recorded that prayer in a blank book, and offered the prayer day in and day out until the answer came, though in a way different from that which I had expected, for it came through the misrepresentation and persecution of enemies, and I have to record it for the encouragement of all ministers of the Gospel who are misrepresented, that if the misrepresentation be virulent enough and bitter enough, and continuous enough, there is nothing that so widens one's field of usefulness as hostile attacks, if you are really doing the Lord's work. The bigger the lie told about me, the bigger the demand to see and hear what I really was doing. From one stage of sermonic publication to another, the work has gone on, until week by week, and for about twenty-three years, I have had the world for my audience, as no man ever had, and to day, more so than at any other time. The syndicates inform me that my sermons go now to about twenty-five millions of people in all lands. I mention this not in vain boast, but as a testimony to the fact that God answers prayer. Would God I had better occupied the field and been more consecrated to the work! May God forgive me for lack of service in the past, and double, and quadruple and quintuple my work in future.

In this my quarter-century sermon, I record the fact that side by side with the procession of blessings has gone a procession of disasters. I am preaching to-day in the fourth church building since I began in this city. My first sermon was in the old church on Schermerhorn street, to an audience chiefly of empty seats, for the church was almost extinguished. That church filled and overflowing, we built a larger one, which after two or three years disappeared in flame. Then we built another church, which also in a line of fiery succession disappeared in the same way. Then we put up this building, and may it stand for many years, a fortress of righteousness, and a lighthouse for the storm-tossed, its gates crowded with vast assemblages long after we have ceased to frequent them.

We have raised in this church over one million and thirty thousand dollars for church charitable purposes during the present pastorate, while we have given, free of all expense, the Gospel to hundreds of thousands of strangers, year by year. I record with gratitude to God that during this generation of twenty-five years, I remember but two Sabbaths that I have missed service through anything like physical indisposition. Almost a fanatic on the subject of physical exercise, I have made the Parks, with which our city is blessed, the means of good physical condition. A daily walk and run in the open air have kept me ready for work and in good humor with all the world. I say to all young ministers of the Gospel, it is easier to keep good health than to regain it when once lost. The reason so many good men think the world is going to ruin is because their own physical condition is on the down grade. No man ought to preach who has a diseased liver, or an enlarged spleen. There are two things ahead of us that ought to keep us cheerful in our work,—Heaven and the Millennium.

Most of you are aware that I propose at this time, between the close of my twenty-fifth year of pastorate and before the beginning of my twenty sixth year, to be absent for a few months, in order to take a journey around the world. I expect to sail from San Francisco in the steamer Alameda, May 31st. My place here on Sabbaths will be fully occupied, while on Mondays, and every Monday, I will continue to speak through the printing press in this and other lands as heretofore. Why do I go? To make pastoral visitation among people whom I have never seen, but to whom I have been permitted a long while to administer. I want to see them in their own cities, towns and neighborhoods. I want to know what are their prosperities, what their adversities and what their opportunities, and so enlarge my work, and get more adaptedness. Why do I go? For educational purposes. I want to freshen my mind and heart by new scenes, new faces, new manners and customs. I want better to understand what are the wrongs to be righted and the waste places to be reclaimed. I will put all I learn in sermons to be preached to you when I return. I want to see the Sandwich Islands, not so much in the light of modern politics as in the light of the Gospel of Jesus Christ which has transformed them; and Samoa, and those vast realms of New Zealand, and Australia, and Ceylon, and India. I want to see what Christianity has accomplished. I want to see how the missionaries have been lied about as living in luxury and idleness. I want to know whether the heathen religions are really as tolerable and as commendable as they were represented by their adherents in the Parliament of Religions at Chicago. I want to see whether Mohammedanism and Buddhism would be good things for transplantation in America, as it has again and again been argued. I want to test whether the Pacific Ocean treats its guests any better than does the Atlantic. I want to see the wonderous architecture of India, and the Delhi and the Cawnpore where Christ was crucified in the massacre of his modern disciples, and the disabled Juggernaut unwheeled by Christianity; and to see if the Taj which the Emperor Shah Jean built in honor of his Empress, really means any more than the plain slab we put above our dear departed. I want to see the plain fields where Havelock and Sir Colin Campbell won the day against the Sepoys. I want to see the world from all sides; how much of it is in darkness, how much of it is in light; what the Bible means by the "ends of the earth," and get myself ready to appreciate the extent of the present to be made to Christ as spoken of in the Psalms, "Ask of Me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession;" and so I shall be ready to celebrate in heaven the victories of Christ in more rapturous song than I could have rendered had I never seen the heathen abominations before they were conquered. And so I hope to come back refreshed, reinforced and better equipped, and to do in ten years more effectual work than I have done in the last twenty-five.

And, now, in this twenty-fifth anniversary sermon I propose to do two things: First, to put a garland on the grave of the generation that has just passed off, and then to put a palm branch in the hand of the generation just now coming on the field of action. For my text is true: "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh." Oh, how many we revered, and honored, and loved in the last generation that quit the earth. Tears fell at the time of their going, and dirges were sounded, and signals of mourning were put on; but neither tears, nor dirge, nor somber veil told the half we felt. But let us console each other with the thought that we shall meet them again in the land of salvation and reunion.

And now I twist a garland for that departed generation. It need not be costly, perhaps just a handful of clover blossoms from the field through which they used to walk, or as many violets as you could hold between the thumb and forefinger, plucked out of the garden where they used to walk in the cool of the day. Put these old-fashioned flowers right down over the heart that never again will ache, and the feet that will never again be weary, and the arm that has forever ceased to toil. Peace, father! Peace, mother! Everlasting peace! All that for the generation gone!

But what shall we do with the palm branch? That we will put in the hand of the generation coming on. Yours is to be the generation for victories. The last and the present generation have been perfecting the steam power, and the electric light, and the electric forces. To these will be added transportation. It will be your mission to use all these forces. Everything is ready now for you to march right up and take this world for God and heaven. Get your heart right by repentance and the pardoning grace of the Lord Jesus, and your mind right by elevating books and pictures, and your body right by gymnasium and field exercise, and plenty of ozone, and by looking as often as you can upon the face of mountain and of sea. Then start! In God's name, start! And here is the palm branch. From conquest to conquest, move right on and right up. You will soon have the whole field for yourself. Before another twenty-five years have gone, we will be out of the pulpits, and the offices, and the stores, and the factories, and the benevolent institutions, and you will be at the front. Forward into the battle. If God be for you, who can be against you? "He that spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things."

And as for us who are now at the front, having put the garland on the grave of the last generation, and having put the palm branch in the hand of the coming generation, we will cheer each other in the remaining on-sets, and go into the shining gate somewhere about the same time, and greeted by the generation that has preceded us, we will have to wait only a little while to greet the generation that will come after us. And will not that be glorious? Three generations in heaven together. The grandfather, the son and the grandson; the grandmother, the daughter and the granddaughter. And so with wider range, and keener faculty we shall realize the full significance of the text: "One generation passeth away, another generation cometh."

MANLICHER'S DEADLY WORK

Forty-three Strikers Were Wounded by Twenty-three Shots.

OSTRAU STRIKE STILL SPREADING

Miners in the Rothschilds' Mines Go Out and Many More Will Follow—Public Houses Closed After Sunset, and Sale of Intoxicants Prohibited After That Hour.

VIENNA, May 12.—The bodies of the strikers who were shot by the troops at Ostrau on Wednesday were carried to the cemetery by soldiers, the civilians having unanimously refused to have anything to do with their burial. The authorities were obliged for the same reason to dig the graves of their victims. A correspondent says that although only twenty-three shots were fired by the troops on the occasion of the killing of the men buried this morning. Forty-three persons were hit. This is mentioned to illustrate the deadly effect of the Mannlicher rifle, though it is not surprising that the bullets should have passed through the bodies of the men in front and wounded those behind them, as the firing was all done at extremely short ranges.

The Ostrau strike is still spreading. The miners in the Rothschilds and Count Larisch's pits went out to-day, and it is expected that the men in other mines will go out to-morrow. All of the mines are guarded by troops who are being strongly re-inforced. Throughout the district all public houses have been ordered closed at sunset, and the sale of intoxicants after that hour has been prohibited.

NO PUBLIC EXECUTIONS.

Agitation in France for the Abolition of Capital Punishment.

PARIS, May 12.—In the Chamber of Deputies the bill providing that the execution of criminals shall hereafter be conducted privately instead of in public passed its second reading—159 to 158.

A motion of urgency upon the question of discussing the articles prescribing the methods of executing criminals, was rejected by the Chamber by a vote of 252 to 242. This result is a victory for the Socialists and Radicals, who are advocating the abolition of capital punishment. When the debate on the bill is resumed the proposal of Deputy de Jeante, Socialist, to abolish the death penalty will be considered.

Failures for the Week.

NEW YORK, May 12.—R. G. Dun & Co. reports that for the past week the failures have been 206 in the United States against 275 last year, and 42 in Canada against 23 last year, with none of especial importance, although four bank failures are included.

THE PATRONS' CANDIDATES.

Rumors that Mr. McComb, the Patrons' candidate for the Legislature in North Hastings, had retired from the contest, have been current for some days, but as no confirmation has reached us, these reports must be held to be incorrect.

It is to be regretted that the Patrons have seen fit to put candidates in the field in the North and East Ridings of this County, as their platform is certainly no better in the interest of the farmers of Ontario than that of Mr. Meredith, which he advocated for years before the Patrons were organized; and it does not admit of question that Messrs. Wood and Hudson could, as supporters of Mr. Meredith, better serve those interests which the Patrons wish to advance, than could the candidates whom they have chosen.

The shrewdest politicians anticipate the defeat of the Mowat Government in the forthcoming election, and we put it to the Patrons, as thinking men, if it be not the wisest course on their part to assist in placing in power the party who have advocated the reforms which they are seeking to effect.

KEEP THE BABIES

Free From Summer Complaints.

LACTATED FOOD SAVES AND PROTECTS THEM.

Mothers, are you now properly fortifying and building up the physical condition of your babies, so that they may be fitted to withstand the effects of the coming hot weather?

Summer, with its terrible spells of heat, is a dangerous time for the young infant. Diarrhœa, dysentery and cholera infantum do a terrible and deadly work in the infantile ranks.

The babies cut down, are usually the weak, puny, cross and sleepless ones. They are out of condition owing to imperfect dieting—being fed with food that cannot be assimilated easily, and that destroys the organs of digestion.

Babies nourished on health-giving Lactated Food are always happy, strong and bright, and escape all the evils and dangers of the hot weather. Mothers who use common prepared food for their infants, are subjecting the little ones to terrible risks, and are directly responsible for their lives. When Lactated Food is made baby's regular diet, mothers need have no anxiety or fears; life is made pleasant for the mother, and the growth, health and future of the baby is assured.

Tired, Weak, Nervous,

Means impure blood, and overwork or too much strain on brain and body. The only way to cure is to feed the nerves on pure blood. HIGHLY COLORED CASE.

A Breach of Promise Suit at Ottawa That Promises Some Interest.

OTTAWA, May 12.—A writ has been filed at the court house for service in what promises to be an interesting breach of promise case. The plaintiff is a young lady from Pembroke named Mary Grey, and the defendant is William Black, carpenter of this city. Miss Grey last summer was a servant in the house of a lawyer in this city. Her allegation in the writ is that Wm. Black promised to marry her and that she gave up her situation, went home to her parents in Pembroke in order to make preparations for the wedding. In the meantime Black is alleged to have married another. Miss Grey now seeks redress by claiming damages to the extent of $2,000.

CAMPBELL HERESY CASE.

Differences Amicably Settled Between the Professor and the Presbytery.

CARLETON PLACE, May 12.—The Campbell case is settled, a conference having been held between the presbytery and Prof. Campbell. The latter agreed to the following: First, the statements of Old Testament writers as to the character of God were true as far as they went, but in a few cases were not the whole truth. Second, that in the great majority of cases, the Father, when smiting in judgment and in discipline or chastisement, acts in accordance with general laws or through secondary causes. The presbytery deemed this satisfactory, and reported to the Synod. The Synod ended this celebrated case by expression of thanks.

MURDER IN A PRISON.

A Prisoner in a House of Correction Murdered by a Maniac.

CHICAGO, May 12.—James Maher, who was sent to the House of Correction on a $5 fine for being disorderly on the West Side last Wednesday, was murdered in a shocking manner in his cell, which also contained the murderer, George Dunlap, a whiskey prisoner from Evanston, who became suddenly insane from the effects of his excesses. The two prisoners were confined in the same cell because of the crowded condition of the Bridewell. Maher's head was beaten to a shapeless mass with a bucket. John Farley, a watchman, was felled by the maniac, and would have been killed had not two guards arrived.

As Governor Waite Tells It.

DENVER, Col., May 12.—Governor Waite has written Colorado's representatives in Congress on the proposed attempt to secure the abrogation or modification of the regulations now in force by which cattle imported into Great Britain from the United States are required to be slaughtered at the port of entry. He said it will probably not be possible to abrogate the rule as applied to the United States and Canada, because pleuro-pneumonia actually prevails in Canada and in the Eastern and Southern States. The disease is unknown, however, in the Rocky Mountain States, and this is a good reason why the rule should be modified as regards Rocky Mountain cattle.

Beheaded by the Cable.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Gus Johnson, an oiler, was found yesterday in the conduit through which the cable runs at Illinois and Wells streets with his head severed from his body. His head had been cut off by being caught between the cable and one of the wheels on which the rope runs in rounding the corner.

Mysterious Murder in Paris.

PARIS, May 12.—A perfumer's shop near the general postoffice, kept by a young girl about 20 years of age, is the scene of another gory mystery. The body of the girl was found lying on the floor in the rear of the shop in a pool of blood. Around her neck was a rope, the noose of which had been tightly drawn, and the blade of a razor was embedded in her throat, which was horribly gashed. It is believed the crime was committed by a man the girl was known to be fond of.

Once in a While.

Once in a while the sun shines out,
  And the arching skies are a perfect blue;
Once in a while 'mid clouds of doubt
  Faith's fairest stars come peeping through.
Our paths lead down by the meadows fair,
  Where the sweetest blossoms nod and smile:
And we lay aside our cross of care
  Once in a while.

Once in a while within our own
  We feel the hand of a steadfast friend;
Once in a while we hear a tone
  Of love with the heart's own voice to blend.
And the dearest of all our dreams come true,
  And on life's way is a golden mile;
Each thirsting flower is kissed with dew,
  Once in a while.

Once in a while in the desert sand
  We find a spot of the fairest green;
Once in a while from where we stand
  The hills of paradise are seen.
And a perfect joy in our hearts we hold,
  A joy that the world cannot defile;
We trade earth's dross for the purest gold,
  Once in a while.

ANDREWS COUPLE SET FREE

The Doctor and His Wife Found "Not Guilty" of Murder.

OTHER CHARGES WILL BE LAID

The Crown Attorney Will Have the Old Man Again Indicted for Other Alleged Offences—Judge Meredith's Charge to the Jury Said to Be the Best Ever Delivered.

TORONTO, May 12.—The jury in the assize court yesterday returned a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Ransome Andrews and his wife, Alice.

Justice Meredith, in his charge to the jury, reviewed the evidence, and put in a forcible manner the special points which the jury would have to consider. The special points were: Did Andrews receive the deceased for an unlawful purpose? Was it reasonable that $15 was paid for lying in, or did it seem like the price of abortion? They must bear in mind Doc Andrews' story that deceased herself had done an act to bring on a miscarriage? Was it likelier that a dreadful crime of that character could be committed by an inexperienced young woman than by the head and hand of an old man? Was the manner in which the girl was removed from the Andrews' house consistent with the theory of the defence? If the defence was to be believed they must unhesitatingly acquit the prisoners.

In conclusion, the judge asked the jury to lay aside all they had ever heard about the case, apart from the evidence, and all preconceived ideas. The charge was said by a Queen's counsel to be one of the best ever delivered.

Mr. Riddell objected to some points in the charge, and after some discussion the jury was brought back and points in the charge elaborated.

The jury's verdict of "Not guilty" was received amid great excitement in the court. The prisoners burst into tears on hearing their innocence declared. They are not yet free, however, the county crown attorney having other charges to prefer against Andrews.

CONSERVATIVE ENGLAND.

Interesting Address by the Former Editor of the Manchester Examiner.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—At the twenty-fifth scientific session of the American Academy of Political and Social Science held here Edward Poritt, formerly London editor of the Manchester Examiner, delivered an address on the "Breakup of the old system of two parties in the House of Commons." This movement he called the most fateful in development in English politics since the great reform act of 1832.

Instead of the old Liberals and Conservatives there are now to be found in the House of Commons no less than eight groups; the former Liberals are divided into the Nationalists, the regular Liberals, the Radicals, the Welsh Radicals and the Labor and Socialistic groups. The Nationalists themselves consist of two distinct organizations—the Parnellites and the anti-Parnellites. These six groups at times become eight by the splitting off on certain issues of the Scotch Radicals and the temperance party. In place of the former Conservatives there are now two distinct parties—the regular Conservatives and the Liberal-Unionists.

The first real appearance of a third party in the House was in 1874. They were the Home Rulers. By 1885 they had secured the balance of power and forced the Liberals to take up this cause, creating thereby the fourth party in the House namely those Liberals who were not in favor of home rule and who called themselves the Liberal Unionists. The other groups in the Liberal party had been forming slowly for several years past but only really came to the front with the return of Gladstone to power in 1892.

Among the results that can be traced to this new party system are the home rule bill of 1893, the bill to disestablish the English church in Wales and eight hour bill. What will be the outcome is a matter of doubt, but the most probable result will be that England will become more and more conservative and relegate radicalism to something like permanent opposition.

Nations Buying Great Guns.

BERLIN, May 12.—Orders for guns from all parts of Europe continue to overwhelm the Krupp works at Essen, the immense resources of which are severely taxed to fill them within the required time. A monster gun, similar to the one exhibited at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago, was shipped to Cux Haven, where it will be mounted in Fort Grimmerhorn, at the mouth of the Elbe. Other guns of like construction have been ordered, and when completed will be mounted at the entrance of the Nordostee canal. The Italian government has ordered a number of heavy guns from Krupp, and Turkey has ordered 200,000 Mauser rifles.

Banquet to American Officers.

LONDON, May 12.—A meeting of the committee on banquet to the Chicago officers was held last evening with General Lord Roberts in the chair. After some discussion the members decided to hold the banquet in St. James' hall on May 24, Queen Victoria's Birthday. They made out a partial list of invited guests, among whom will be Ambassador Bayard, several members of his staff; Consul-General Patrick Collins, American consuls from the larger provincial cities, the Lord Mayor and two sheriffs of London.

Pullman Men on Strike.

PULLMAN, Ill., May 12.—Between two and three thousand workmen in the various departments of the Pullman works at Pullman have gone on strike. Their action took Pullman and his executive manager by surprise as it is understood the men were satisfied with the result of the recent conference. The men belong to the new American Railway Union, but were not called by the organization. They demand a restoration of wages to last year's scale and the redress of numerous grievances.

There Was No Fight at Tete.

LONDON, May 12.—A despatch from Zanzibar says that H. H. Johnston, Imperial Commissioner to Nyassaland has arrived there. He denies that a collision between Portuguese and British forces took place at Tete last March. The Portuguese fort saluted the British gunboat, he says, and the natives probably mistook the demonstration for fighting and spread the report.

Alarming Reports From St. Anne's.

QUEBEC, May 12.—News received from St. Anne de la Perade is rather more alarming. Although the river has considerably fallen it is still very high and the undermining it still going on. Eighteen houses were in peril but the C. P. R. is out of danger and the worst of the trouble is generally believed to be over. A strong force of C. P. R. men are protecting the bridge with stone which will prevent the undermining reaching the church and convent and the lower portion of the village.

The Samoan Islands.

BERLIN, May 12.—The Vossische Zeitung says that the statement to Congress of United States Secretary of State Gresham on the situation in Samoa indicates the probable opening of negotiations in the near future which will result in a dual control of the Samoan islands. While such an issue would be regrettable the Zeitung says what Mr. Gresham has said of America will apply equally to Germany, which can gain no honor or advantage in Samoa.

A DASTARDLY TRAGEDY.

Missouri Family Brutally Murdered in Cold Blood.

MILAN, Mo., May 12.—Gus Meeks, his wife and two children were murdered in cold blood near Browning. Another of the children of the murdered couple was so badly injured that it is not expected she will recover. She is seven years old.

In Lynn and Sullivan counties of this state there are a number of cases pending in the criminal courts against William and George Taylor, brothers. They are charged with forgery, larceny and arson. William Taylor, Gus Meeks and others were jointly indicted. Meeks pleaded guilty and was sentenced at the last term of court to the penitentiary. Governor Stone pardoned him about a month ago for the purpose of having him used as a witness against the Taylor brothers.

It is reported that the Taylors had arranged with Meeks to give him a team of horses and wagon so that he could leave the county and not be present at the time of trial. The mother of Meeks says that her son received a letter from the Taylors at Browning telling him to be in readiness to go away, and that Meeks waited until midnight when two men whom Meeks said were George and Bill Taylor came to their home in a wagon. Meeks and his family got into the wagon and started for Browning.

The only statement regarding the crime obtainable was from the seven-year-old girl. In seems that when the Meeks family and the men accompanying them reached a point on the road near the schoolhouse in Lynn county, a small distance from Browning, they were attacked by two men who were lying in wait on the roadside. The first victim of the murderers' gun was Meeks. His wife jumped from the wagon and she was murdered in the same way. The fiends then seized large stones and beat the life out of the two children leaving the third one for dead. In the morning the living child regained her senses and went to the residence of Mr. Carter near by. She told her terrible story and a boy who was sent to the Taylor farm to investigate verified the horror by finding the bodies of the rest of the family. The Carter boy happening to meet George Taylor unwittingly told him of the murder. Taylor lost no time in starting for Browning on horseback. There he met his brother and both left hurriedly on horseback. On the strength of descriptions furnished by the living girl, the sheriff has arrested Sharon McCullough of Gould and George Howlett of Lime county as accomplices in the crime.

TIP'S TRAGIC DEATH.

The Famous Central Park Elephant Dies by Poison.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Tip, the big elephant in the Central Park menagerie, died last evening after many hours of agony. Such a botched piece of work has never been accomplished by any set of men who have professed to have the slightest skill in killing wild animals or to save animals from unnecessary cruelty and suffering. From 6 a.m. until 4 p.m. the great king of the forest went shuddering from one convulsion into another under the influence of the cyanide of pottasium which had been given to him. The first dose of the poison was not sufficient to put a quick and painless end to his life. After many consultations between Supt. Smith of the menagerie, Supt. Hankinson of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and Secretary Burns it was resolved at 3 o'clock to administer another dose of poison. The second dose finally proved effective.

No Fear of an Uprising.

LONDON, May 12.—Advices from Calcutta say there is no reason to fear a native uprising, although the authorities have not relaxed their vigilance or abated any of the precautions recently taken to prevent an outbreak.

COLUMBUS, O., May 12.—The Panhandle railroad freight depot has been burned. Loss $60,000. Edward Koehl and James Wilson, employes of the company, were burned to death while trying to save freight.

THE LARGE AND CONSTANTLY growing business of this firm is due, among other reasons, to the ample capital and immense importations of diamonds, selected by their own buyers in the best foreign markets. The handling of these in large quantities enables them to import fine qualities at a lower price than in smaller deals, the poorer qualities could be bought.

Aside from this, their factory on the premises enables them, in many lines of goods, to save both factory and middle men's profits.

A speciality is made of letter orders. When correspondents give an idea of the article wanted and an approximate price desired, a careful selection is sent on approval with the understanding that nothing need be taken.

The so-called negro minstrel troupe, as they rode through the street this morning, were a sorry looking lot. Whilst merchants are scored for littering the streets with papers, such companies should not be allowed to litter the streets with their bills.

Bessie H. Bedloe, Burlington, Vt., had a disease of the scalp, causing her hair to become very harsh and dry, and to fall so freely that she scarcely dared to comb it. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave her a healthy scalp, removed the dandruff, and made the hair thick and glossy.

When Thos. McCann and bride alighted at Tweed on Thursday by the noon express, they were met by a throng of friends, accompanied by the Tweed brass band, who played several selections in honor of the occasion.

Insomnia is fearfully on the increase. The rush and excitement of modern life so tax the nervous system that multitudes of people are deprived of good and sufficient sleep, with ruinous consequences to the nerves. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. Miller's Emulsion is "the kind that cures" colds, coughs, bronchitis and lung diseases generally. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

"Faith Fenton" writes from Ottawa to the Empire in her notes of the At Home at Rideau Hall on Tuesday: "Two of the attractive debutantes are the Misses Corby, daughters of the member for West Hastings. They are pretty, picturesque, dark eyed girls, with much grace of manner, and are great favorites among the guests of both sexes at the Russell house."

Superintendent J. W. Swiler, of the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, and the Hon. Mr. Graebner, one of the State Board of Charities of Wisconsin, are visiting Supt. Mathison here. They arrived at noon and their stay will be short, but they are making the best use of their time, in looking over the buildings and making inquiries as to management, school methods, &c. We hope their stay will be a pleasant one.

1500 Expected.

The meeting to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Bridge St. church will be one of great interest. The superintendents met yesterday; mapped out the church, and estimated that 1500 scholars and teachers would be present. The scholars are to be assigned seats in the body of the church as follows: north side, Reformed Episcopal, Bleecker St. Holloway St., Tabernacle and University. Centre, John St. Presbyterian, St. Andrew's, Baptist, City Mission and Marchmont. South side, Bridge St. school. The east end of the gallery will be reserved for the public. This is not to be a "children's meeting" only, but for all over eight years old. It was requested by Mr. Hunter last night that the scholars of the Primary classes be allowed to go home after attending their own schools.

A High Compliment.

Mr. W. C. Mikel returned from Ottawa last evening. He says there is now little doubt but that Joseph Thompson will be granted a divorce from his wife. Judge Gowan, who is chairman of the select committee of the Senate on divorce, took occasion to compliment Mr. Mikel on the able manner in which he presented the case in the above application. This is considered as a great compliment, coming as it does from one of such a high order of ability.

Don't Delay.

It is your duty to yourself to get rid of the foul accummulation in your blood this spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine you need to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. That tired feeling which affects nearly every one in the spring is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great spring medicine and blood purifier.

HOOD'S PILLS become the favorite cathartic with everyone who tries them.

Work of Art.

Did you ever notice the beautiful decorating that has been done to the ceiling and walls of the butter market? The artists were a number of insects and the product of their workmanship is generally called cobwebs. They may be artistic, but when they drop on a roll of butter their beauty is lost and the value of the butter depreciated. The caretaker would do well to remove these fly catchers, if not for the convenience of patrons of the market, for the good name of the city for cleanliness.

Wide Awake Soap will do more work and do it better, than any other soap in the world. Try it.

A great advantage offered in using the Elephant ready-mixed paints is that they dry with a hard gloss which will withstand wear and exposure. You may find a thousand gallons, that comprise a large variety of bright colors, to select from at L. W. Yeomans & Co's.

Those very pretty cambric shirts all colors sold by furnishing houses at $1.50 and $1.25, can be had at the Oak Hall for $1.00 each. Now don't be foolish enough to pay more than we are offering them to you for. Call and see them—they are the newest thing, and just what you want.

INSURE YOUR LIVES.

Rev. Mr. Hunter's Advice to Every Young Man—Tobacco Gets It Again.

Mr. Hunter said in the opening of the meeting last evening that a man of a skeptical turn of mind had sent in a request for prayer as an experiment, and the next evening he was converted. The prayers of God's people had been answered. His lesson was from the 15th chapter of Luke, beginning at the 11th verse. Mr. Hunter's comments were clever and his comparisons truthful. Where there are two children in a family one is generally spoiled. If you want to spoil children for both worlds wait on them until they are young men or women and don't let them do anything for themselves. Fathers should be careful how they divide their property between their children. Many a parent, after he had given his son a clear deed of all he had, had been turned out of doors by that very son. The preacher said every man should insure his life. Some would say they could not afford it. Well, if they would give up whisky or tobacco they would save enough to carry one or two thousand dollars at the present low rates. Always have your will made. Many a man has died suddenly without a will and his family had been torn asunder through the struggle of its members for a share of the property. Then don't forget the church in your will. No matter how far you have wandered from God, He will meet you more than half way when you want to return.

Mr. Crossley sang very sweetly Longfellow's "Rainy Day."

Mr. Hunter thanked the friends who had been kind enough to bring some beautiful flowers for the pulpit. He spoke very feelingly of the death of Mrs. Wm. Alford. He said she and her husband had been converted in their meetings six years ago.

Mr. Crossley took his text from Isaiah 35—10, "And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads." Outside of Christian influence there is no such thing as music. The heathen have no music in their souls, but once they are converted they at once begin to express themselves in song. He advised parents to train their children so that they would never know any other life but Christ. They are born in Christ, always keep them there. How are we to get from guilt to glory? Look to the Lord for your salvation. The Lord says "Look unto me and be saved." He then sang in splendid voice "Look and Live." Have you obeyed this command? We should be laborers with the Lord on the way to heaven. There is not more than one in ten of the Christians who are working. The devil persuades most of them that they can do nothing. Everyone you bring to Christ will be a star in your Heavenly crown. He then sang "Come one and all." We should live in hope of heaven on the way. Some people feel they will not get to heaven. It is not a matter of feeling but knowing. Every Christian knew if they were saved. He scouted the terrors of death, saying it was only a peaceful transition from one state to another. When you get to heaven you will be welcomed by more friends than you have on earth. The angels will also welcome you. Still some of you are not on the way yet. He closed by singing "Sweeping through the gates."

NOTES.

There were only a few vacant seats in all that large church last night.

The Ella Ross brought up an excursion from Deseronto to the meeting. It was fairly patronized.

A meeting of christian workers will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

There were not so many in the enquiry room last night as usual.

TWO YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY.

Wm. Dickinson, a Man with Many Aliases, Found Guilty of House Breaking.

The young man, Wm. Dickinson, arrested by Constable Johnston a few days ago, was brought before the Magistrate this morning and a charge of house breaking preferred against him. He pleaded "Not guilty" and elected to be tried by the Magistrate. The first witness was Chas. English, from whom he stole a number of articles of clothing while in his employ. His evidence showed that the prisoner had broken open a door that was locked while the family were at church and stolen the articles. Constable Johnston gave evidence as to his arrest. There was no defence put in by the prisoner and the Magistrate decided to send him to the penitentiary for two years, which term His Worship told him could be shortened to about eighteen months by good conduct. The prisoner, who is not a bad looking youth, took his sentence like an old timer and seemed to look on it as a matter of course.

Boiling Water not Always Hot.

"Cold boiling water, indeed! Boiling water is the hottest kind of thing. Don't I know? Haven't I scalded my fingers more than once with water from the teakettle?"

James is right, and yet he is wrong. Boiling water is not always very hot water, in spite of his painful experience.

This is the way it happens.

When water boils ordinarily it is because great heat has separated the tiny particles of the water, forcing upward and outward in lively bubbles the air which is confined in them. This is done in spite of the downward pressure of the atmosphere. After the water has become hot enough to boil it can get no hotter, because the air escapes as fast as it is sufficiently heated to do so.

There are places on the earth where the pressure of the atmosphere upon the water is so slight that it requires but little heat to push apart the particles and set free the air bubbles which are confined in the water, so it begins to boil before it becomes very hot. It ought hardly to be called cold water perhaps, but it is certainly far from being as hot as ordinary boiling water. This state of things is found on all high mountain tops, as the atmosphere grows weaker and its pressure less as one ascends.

A gentleman travelling at a great elevation in the Andes Mountains put some potatoes in a pot of water over a hot fire. The water began to boil almost immediately, but the potatoes did not cook. All the afternoon and all night the water bubbled and boiled, still the potatoes were not cooked. The boiling water was not hot enough.—New Orleans Times Democrat.

TRIUMPHANTLY CROWNED.

By the Seven Provinces of Our Dominion.

Paine's Celery Compound Honored and Esteemed Above all Other Medicines.

A few years ago, that health-giving and life-saving medicine, Paine's Celery Compound, was given to the people of Canada in a quiet, honest and unostentatious way. This discovery, of a giant intellect in medicine and science, was given to the people of Canada with confidence, and the happy results are unparalleled in the annals of medical science.

The great mission of Paine's Celery Compound was to root out and banish disease and suffering, and to give new health, strength, vim, energy and activity to weak, nervous, sleepless and run down men and women.

Up to the present the career of Paine's Celery Compound has been astonishingly grand and successful. In its great battles and magnificent victories over disease, this grand scientific agent has driven to obscurity a host of quack nostrums and deceptive medicines that took away from the sick and afflicted what little physical strength they possessed, and their hard-earned money as well.

Whenever and wherever the common patent medicines of the day failed to cure—when doctors, after honest striving, gave up their patients as incurable—Paine's Celery Compound extended the mighty right hand of power, and saved from death and the grave those who had faith to lay hold of the rescuing hand.

No other medicine holds such a record of wonderful works and cures in our young Dominion, and no other has ever received such notices from physicians and the press of the country. The honors won by Paine's Celery Compound span this broad Dominion from ocean to ocean. The seven provinces have awarded it the palm of victory for its marvellous and triumphant successes.

This is a position at once high and commanding—a monument of fame and honor that time and circumstances can never dim or dethrone.

Readers, ye who are weary, brain-tired sickly, suffering and diseased, this grand discovery in medicine is offered specially for your troubles and physical burdens. It will restore to you the blessings you so eagerly crave for—a healthy body, a clear brain, bright eyes, the glow of health in the face, and the quick and elastic step. You must decide at once; your course must be marked by progress or retogression. You have the incontrovertible evidence and testimony of thousands of our Canadian people to guide you; all have testified that Paine's Celery Compound "makes people well."

The Way to Make Good Tea.

It is said the Chinese have the following poetical description of how to draw tea painted on all the teapots in their empire: "Throw boiling water upon the delicate leaves of choice tea; let it remain as long as the vapar rises in a cloud. At your ease drink the pure liquor, which will chase away the five causes of trouble." In other words the Chinese do not boil their tea like cabbage, but use boiling water and allow it to steep or infuse about three minutes. It is of the utmost importance also to have your tea of fine quality if you wish it to draw well and be pleasant to the taste. Stroud's, the tea dealers, recommend their new season's English Breakfast Blacks, Japan, Ceylon, Indian, and Oolong teas at 40c, 50c and 60c per lb. They are all tea, not insipid with astringency or earthy matter, but delicate fragrant tea, and, as the Chinese lyric puts it, they will chase away the five causes of trouble.

Do you use soap? Why not use Wide Awake then? It is guaranteed absolutely pure, and is the best in the world.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen—In April last, through the effects of a dose of strychnine taken in mistake for another drug, I was laid up in St. John, N. B., for ten days. After this I never seemed to regain my former health, and continually suffered from indigestion and heart palpitation, for which I could get no relief. I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. IRON AND STEEL FOR IMPLEMENTS

Bill to Amend the Seamen's Act Read a Third Time—Other Government Measures—Private Bills Passed—Documents Relating to the "Hard Pan" Case to Be Brought Down.

OTTAWA, May 12.—In the House yesterday Sir John Thompson said there had been a desire evinced on the part of the House to have the papers with reference to the hard pan cases. There was a motion on the paper which would cover the case. He was sorry Mr. Fraser was not present, but in his absence, with the permission of the House, he would move for all the reports, papers and orders relating to the hard pan cases, and also the findings of the judge of the Exchequer Court respecting these claims. The motion passed.

Iron and Steel for Manufacturers.

The House then went into Committee of Ways and Means to further consider the free list.

Sir Richard Cartwright asked if the Government intended allowing implement manufacturers to get their iron and steel free?

Hon. Mr. Foster said that the Government had not reached a decision upon this point as yet. The question had not even been discussed.

Mr. Sutherland asked that sheets and angles for windmills should be allowed in free. They were not manufactured in Canada.

Hon. Mr. Foster asked Mr. Sutherland to furnish him with further information on the subject.

Mr. Casey asked that iron and steel used in the manufacture of agricultural implements should be placed upon the free list.

Mr. Paterson asked what amount of protection manufacturers of implements had.

Hon. Mr. Foster said they had a fair protection.

Sir Richard Cartwright stated that in his opinion manufacturers of implements were not protected at all. He said they were compelled to pay more duty on their iron and steel than they were allowed protection on their implements, and that, therefore, as a matter of fact, they were not protected by the tariff.

Hon. Mr. Wallace produced figures to show that if Canadian manufacturers of implements paid duty on all their raw material used in manufacturing, which they did not, they would still have a protection of $13 upon every machine.

Hon. Mr. Mills made a strong plea for more protection for the implement manufacturers. He said that before the duty was reduced Canadian implements were exported in large quantities to Germany and other foreign countries. Since then this export trade had fallen off.

Hon. Mr. Foster said there never was a time in the history of Canada when so many Canadian implements were exported as last year.

Mr. Davin, Dr. Sproule and Mr. Paterson spoke.

Mr. Martin did not agree with the policy of the Government in taking machinery from the United States upon a uniform scale. A single machine coming from the United States was valued by our customs at $100 and charged 20 per cent. duty at that valuation. In many cases the machine might not be worth more than $55.

Mr. Haslam said that while the Government afforded $20 protection on each machine to the manufacturer, it also afforded the farmer an equivalent protection on butter. If a farmer invested $100 in butter he was protected by a 20 per cent. duty, and therefore he (Mr. Haslam) could not see why the farmers should complain.

The item was passed.

Other Tariff Items.

Resin oil was placed on the free list.

Flax was also on the free list.

Mr. Bennett asked if iron and steel brims, sheets, plates, angles and knees were to be free for wooden ships as well as for iron, steel or composite ships.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that the Government was considering that point, but had not arrived at a conclusion as yet.

The item of sugar not above number 16 Dutch standard was allowed to stand over for further consideration.

Third Readings.

The following private bills were read a third time:

Mr. Davis—Respecting the Calgary Irrigation Company.

Mr. Henderson—Respecting the Guelph Junction Railway.

Mr. Ross (Lisgar)—Respecting the Medicine Hat Railway & Coal Company.

Mr. Baker—Respecting the Atlantic & Northwest Railway Company.

Mr. McKay's bill to incorporate the Welland Power & Supply Canal Company (limited) was passed through the committee stage and stands for a third reading.

Government Measures.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper's bill to amend the Seamen's Act was read a third time.

These were read a second time:

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper—To amend the Harbor Masters' Act.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper—Respecting lighthouses, buoys and beacons and Sable Island.

Sir John Thompson—To amend the Acts respecting the harbor of Picton, N.S.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper's bill respecting public harbors was passed in committee.

A Sign of the Times.

The E. B. Eddy Manufacturing Company has decided to convert two of their present wood mills into another paper mill and a paper bag factory. They also propose to erect a one-story stone storehouse and one-story pail factory. The stone house and pail factory will be about 60 feet wide and 450 feet long.

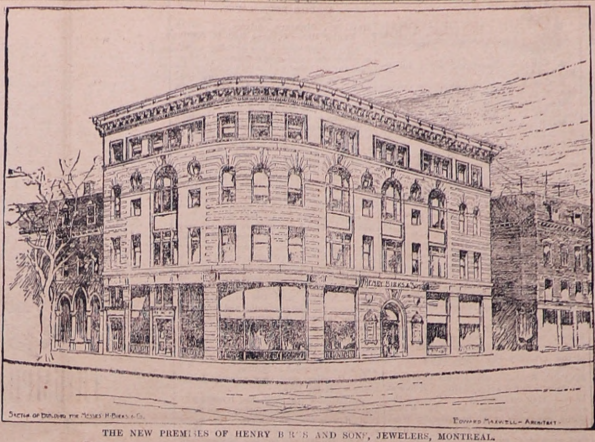
The Inter-Provincial Bridge.

The legal charges of D. O'Connor against the Government were investigated in the Public Accounts Committee yesterday. Mr. O'Connor was called and read the evidence in what is known as the "Hard Pan" cases to the Exchequer Court by the Department of Railways and Canals. It turned out from this reference and the explanation of Mr. O'Connor that when the cases were first referred to the Exchequer Court by the department, Justice Burbidge held that he had no jurisdiction to try the cases, as they did not come under the statute. In consequence of this the cases were referred by Justice Burbidge to a special commission.

Arbor Day at Ottawa.

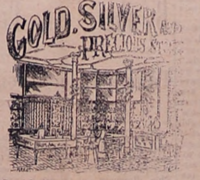
Arbor Day was celebrated on a grand scale at the Normal and Model schools. The attendance of their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Aberdeen, added to the occasion. A very choice musical and literary programme was first gone through in the convocation hall. On entering the hall the students gave a warm reception to their Excellencies. Dr. McCabe gave a brief address of welcome on behalf of the students. His Excellency Lord Aberdeen gave a very appropriate and interesting address on tree planting. After the entertainment the vice-regal party and students adjourned to the school grounds where the usual number of trees were planted by the students.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., May 12.—Samuel Darrach, aged fifteen, fell over the wharf at West River and was drowned. The accident occurred while young Darrach was mooring his boat. His body has not yet been recovered.



SKETCH OF BUILDING FOR MESSRS H. BIRKS & CO.
EDWARD MAXWELL – ARCHITECT

THE NEW PREMISES OF HENRY BIRKS AND SONS, JEWELERS, MONTREAL.



GOLD, SILVER AND PRECIOUS STONES

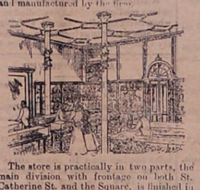
(Special Correspondence from Montreal.)

Montreal has as fine a store as there is in the world.

People who are given to pooh-poohing Canadian push and enterprise will be slow to apppreciate this fact, but it is a fact none the less, and a very pleasing one at that.

On Monday next Henry Birks & Sons will open this store in their new building at the corner of Phillips Square and St. Catherine street, and a Canadian can travel to the ends of the earth, including Chicago, and Calcutta, New York and Naples, London and Constantinople, St. Petersburg and Samarcand, Paris and Pekin, without finding any thing to excel in artistic finish, originality and elegance of design, this product of Canadian energy.

Ingenuity has almost exhausted itself in designing things which will at once be attractive to the eye and useful in displaying the gold, the silver, and the jewels, carried and manufactured by the firm.

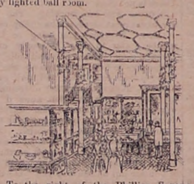


The store is practically in two parts, the main division with frontage on both St. Catherine St. and the Square, is finished in solid mahogany. On entering from Phillips Square, the visitor sees to his left, forming alcoves, wall cases of rich mahogany, highly polished and elaborately carved and inlaid. The doors, which are so balanced that they slide upwards at the least touch, are of the heaviest plate glass. The interior of the cabinets is finished in Royal blue plush and lighted from within by incandescent lamps.

Continuing from these wall cases we pass the private, bookkeepers, and factory offices. Between this last office and the massive, fireproof vault are the stairs communicating with the factory.

To the left of the St. Catherine street entrance, within walls of carved mahogany and wrought iron grill work is the diamond office, a room for quiet consultations with customers. Separated from this office by open iron work sits a designer, to catch at once the ideas of customers who wish special work done in the factory. The trays of precious stones are carefully guarded and an electric alarm is close at hand to provide against any possible emergency. In fact, by means of bells, alarms and speaking tubes there is a complete system of communication throughout the establishment.

Next to this is a room, from which the daylight is excluded, the artificial light showing the effect of jewels as in a brilliantly lighted ball room.



To the right of the Phillips Square entrance are the counter show cases of the watch department, behind which and occupying windows sit the watch repairers.

The electric light fixtures twining up the massive pillars are of wrought iron, being especially designed and manufactured by the finest London maker.

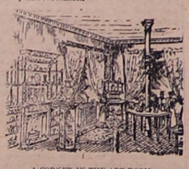
Through the arch, the western portion of the building, devoted to choice cabinets, porcelains, clocks bronzes, and statuary, is entirely distinct from the main store.

Here is the same solid elegance in design and lavishness in display. There is not a bit of cheap tawdry work throughout. Everything is rich, substantial and honest.

For many decades this store of Henry Birks & Sons will be one of the show places of Montreal.

Perhaps there are not half a thousand people in Canada who appreciate the size of the Birks establishment. Few know that the jewelled glories of its show cases, the beaten gold of its display cabinets, are nearly all the products of its own factory.

There is no more artistic work done by skilled and patient hands, and it should be a source of pride and gratification to Canadians that such delicate products are turned out right here at home.

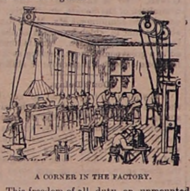


A CORNER IN THE ART ROOM.

Everything in the factory runs like clockwork. The system is as perfect as the product.

The gold, silver and precious stones are weighed out to each artisan as he begins his allotted task. When he returns his finished work he is credited with it. On printed slips a complete record is kept of each piece of work done—the value of the material, the number and size of the jewels, and the time of each artisan on it. These records not only show the exact financial standing of each piece of work, but are kept for future reference under any possible contingency.

By this gathering of artisans, and the firm's large importations of diamonds—which, being unmounted, they obtain free of duty—its retail patrons obtain all the benefits of the decreased cost of production and freedom from the high rate of duty on manufactured goods.



A CORNER IN THE FACTORY.

This freedom of all duty on unmounted diamonds gives Canadians the advantage over their American cousins, for Uncle Sam levies duty on diamonds, whether set or unset.

Certainly this store and its manufactory is an establishment in which every Canadian should feel a pride. It is a credit to the country and a tribute to the energy of its people.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. McINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

It is believed that the custom of raising the hat to ladies is derived from the days of chivalry, when the knights unhelmed before the ladies.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing those troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried it.

The trichinæ found in infected pork are sometimes so numerous that 80,000 have been found to the cubic inch.

Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs.

GENTLEMEN.—Two years ago my husband suffered from severe indigestion, but was completely cured by two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. I can truly recommend it to all sufferers from this disease.

It doesn't take more than three months to take away the triumphant air a young married woman wears in the presence of unmarried ones.

Jas Shannon Leaskdale, writes:—'For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used.'

DISSOLUTION IS IN SIGHT

The British Cabinet's Position Considered Highly Critical.

RADICAL SUPPORT NOT RELIABLE

They Will Propose Important Changes in the Registration Bill—The Closure Rule Will be Applied to Expedite Its Passage—A. J. Mundella's Resignation—Other Cable Gossip.

LONDON, May 14.—Among the most persistent supporters of the Government, the question is being seriously debated whether immediate dissolution is not the very best policy to be pursued under the circumstances. Even the most inexperienced lobby politician knows that the Government cannot rely upon passing the spirits or estates duty clauses of the budget while the Liberals who hold the best party traditions in high respect are fretting under the demoralizing situation of seeing every division taken upon an important question place the Government in a position of doubtful tenure. The supporters of the Ministry on every hand now recognize the fact that it will be impossible to pass the evicted tenants bill, the Welsh church disestablishment bill and the registration bill within the time permitted by the present session and in these circumstances it is proposed that when the House resumes its sittings after the Whitsuntide recess the supporters of the Government in the House shall meet the Ministry in consultation with a view of determining the course to be followed in the future. The Radicals have already shown their hand to the extent of intimating that when the meeting takes place they will propose that those portions of the registration bill which have aroused the greatest opposition on the part of the Conservatives be dropped. The Conservatives have already burdened the bill with about two hundred amendments, and there is therefore no doubt that the Ministers will have no difficulty in obtaining the assent of the meeting to the wholesale application of the closure rule in expediting its passage. The English Liberals are greatly pleased and encouraged by the loyalty displayed by the McCarthyite section of the Irish party. The desertion of the Parnellite faction to the Conservatives might have inflicted a mortal wound upon home rule if the main body of the Irish Nationalists had failed to support the Government in full stretch on the occasion of the division on the second reading of the budget. Instead of turning their backs upon the only friends they had in Parliament, as the Parnellites did, the McCarthyites cast their votes for the Government to a man. This fidelity to their political companions have won for them the warm admiration of the Liberals and their action cannot fail to find due recognition in the future. In view of the probable early dissolution of Parliament the election agents throughout the kingdom have been warned by their respective chiefs to get everything in readiness for a new general election. Already large party purses have been subscribed.

A. J. Mundella, President of the Board of Trade, has resigned his seat in the Cabinet, but retains his seat in Parliament. His reason is, he says, that he wishes to avoid the appearance of a conflict between his public and private interests which has resulted from his relations to the New Zealand Loan Company.

The correspondent had an interview with Ida Wells, the young colored woman from Memphis who is here on a mission to arouse British public opinion against the prevalent custom in the Southern States of summarily punishing heinous crimes of negroes by hanging, burning, etc. Miss Wells expressed herself as greatly encouraged by the success she has had in enlisting English sympathy with the brutally treated American negro and is confident that the popular outcry in England against the barbarism of the Southern whites in their treatment of their colored fellow citizens will have the effect of putting a stop to lynchings, whippings, etc., in the near future. A correspondent of the Westminster Gazette, who has just returned to London from a four years' sojourn in the Southern States, tells an entirely different story. In a letter to the Gazette he says that the attempt to agitate Great Britain over the downtrodden negro in America is ridiculous. The negroes north and south, he says, are better paid and better treated than the laborers in England, and when willing to work they have no reason to complain.

The Rev. Dr. Lunn, who recently headed a party of English clergymen on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, on Saturday issued a circular letter to the prelates and leading clergymen in England asking them to cooperate in prayer at their respective services yesterday for the unity of all the Christian churches. To this circular Cardinal Vaughan replied that it was needless for Catholics to join in special prayer for church re-union. If outsiders yearn for unity, he says, they can find it within the pale of the church. Mr. Gladstone, to whom a circular was sent, replied that he recognized the importance of Christian unity, but declined to state his views in regard to an interchange of pulpits, which was one of the details of the plan outlined by Mr. Lunn. Several prominent Congregational ministers refused to co-operate in the movement, as they decline to recognize alleged evils resulting from the present division of the church. The Archbishop of Canterbury is in entire sympathy with the movement, and sent a message to the clergy under his charge to offer prayer for unity.

The Duke of York has itimated to the admiralty his desire to resume his position in the navy, indicating his preference for duty at home stations to begin with. It is probable that after the accouchment of the Duchess, the Duke and Duchess will start on a long sea voyage in the course of which they will visit some of the British colonies.

New York's Record for Tragedies.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Last week was a record breaking week for suicides and homicides in the metropolis. Since Sunday last there have been eight suicides, a dozen bodies of men have been found in the river and half a dozen dead bodies of men have been picked up in dark hallways and alleys. Deaths from casualties, such as falling from windows and accidental shooting and from alcholism, have been unusually numerous.

The Czarwitch's Marriage.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 14.—It is reported that the marriage of the Princess Alix of Hesse to the Czarwitch will take place on November 10. The Czarwitch will accompany the Czarine to the Caucausas to see the Grand Duke George, who has long been ailing.

OTTAWA GOSSIP.

The Claim of the Onderdonks—An Appeal From St. Anne's.

OTTAWA, May 14.—Mr. Andrew Onderdonk, of Chicago, has arrived here accompanied by his son, Mr. Shirley Onderdonk. The first named gentleman built the British Columbia section of the Canadian Pacific railway for the Dominion Government, and has interviewed the Minister of Railways in regard to a claim amounting to $70,000, which he has against the Government. Mr. Onderdonk was in Ottawa some days ago and secured consideration for his claim.

An appeal for help for the villagers who were victims of the recent landslides at Ste. Anne has reached the Government informally, and probably some relief will be extended.

The matter of the two American steamers, Visitor and Leroy Brooks, seized in Lake Erie in Canadian waters for illegal fishing, has been referred to the Department of Justice for an opinion as to the validity of the seizures.

It is reported that Dr. J. D. Reid, M. P. for South Grenville, has placed his resignation in the hands of two fellow-Conservatives, Messrs. Uriah Wilson and Hugo Ross. The reason ascribed is his inability to agree with the Government on certain tariff items. Dr. Reid is connected with the Edwardsburg Starch factory. The rumor is not credited.

The Ottawa Field Battery meets this week. It is probable Acting Commander Bliss will have to receive the resignations of a score of members of the corps. In addition to Lieut. Gilmore and Surgeon Bell, Lieut.-Major Ingram and Sergeants Shouldice, Shatuck, Hood and Eldridge, and a number of gunners have resigned. The reinstatement of Captain Bliss is the cause.

A report has once more reached here that A. W. Ross, M. P., has been appointed Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba. This is denied in official circles. There will be no change in the office until after the session. This position and several others will remain as they now stand, as the Government does not desire to open any constituencies until Parliament rises.

Barrister T. C. Robinette, of Toronto, will have an interview with the Minister of Justice to-day. He will ask for a new trial for MacWherrell on the plea of important evidence not heard at the trial, and is hopeful of success. He will also make application for the release of Roland Gideon Israel Barnett, who is now serving a term of seven years in Kingston. Barnett was one of Central Bank wreckers.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS.

Party Feeling Running High on the Island—Candidates Nominated.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 14.—Four candidates, Ayer and Macpherson (Government) and Woods and Hutchings (Whitewayites) were nominated at Western Bay. The former two paid their nomination fees in gold and the Whitewayites in bank notes. The former lodged a protest with the returning officer against the Whitewayites on the ground that notes were not legal tender. The Whitewayites at St. John's did not discover till Friday that their candidates' nomination fees were not in gold and then despatched Emerson, the Speaker of the Assembly, by special train with sufficient gold. Emerson did not arrive in time and the Government lawyer thinks this may be sufficient to void the election if the Whitewayites win.

The nomination was not accompanied without some disturbances. Attempts were made to prevent the Government speakers from addressing the meeting, but most of the people insisted on hearing all the speakers. Later in the night, however, while the Government party were journeying towards Island Cove, they were attacked near Gull Island. Attorney-General Merrison, Colonial Secretary Morena and Garland were badly beaten. Their injuries are not great and they got through safely and held a meeting at Island Cove. Sir Wm. Whiteway, Hon. Robert Bond and Hon. Augustus Harvey will start the political war to-day.

A GHASTLY CRIME.

A Wife's Infidelity Leads to a Shocking and Fatal Tragedy.

CORVALIS, Ore., May 14.—Dr. J. M. Applewhite shot Charles Kenyon on Friday. The shooting grew out of Applewhite's attentions to Mrs. Kenyon. He was her physician.

On Saturday, side by side in a ravine half a mile from the scene of the shooting, were found Mrs. Kenyon and Dr. Applewhite. The woman was dead from the effects of a twenty grain dose of morphine which Applewhite had given her, and the man was suffering from the effects of the same drug which he had taken himself.

He had also cut two gashes in his neck and several across his wrist with a pocket knife in the attempt to open an artery. Kenyon's injuries are not serious.

Dr. Applewhite died yesterday from the result of his self-inflicted wounds. He never regained consciousness after being taken to his home from the scene of the tragedy.

Disastrous Benzine Explosion.

BRADFORD, Pa., May 14.—Several hundred people had a narrow escape from a terrible death here yesterday. In the course of a fire in the barrel house at the Emery Manufacturing Co. refinery, a tank of benzine on a side near the barrel house exploded. The cap of the tank was blown three hundred feet in the air, and a large volume of flame went with it. A panic ensued among the spectators who were watching the fire and they fled in all directions. Thirty people were burned about the face, hands and had their hair singed. John Crosby, an employe of the refinery is the only one severely burned.

Horse Attacked With Hydrophobia.

WESTMINSTER, Md., May 14.—About five weeks ago two heifers and a valuable horse were bitten by a rabid dog. The heifers went mad on the twenty-second day after they were bitten. The horse showed no symptoms of the disease, but was sent to a livery stable for treatment. The animal became furious with hydrophobia. He was barred against injuring any person or other animal, and so, in the paroxysm of the disease, bit furiously into the timbers of his stall, and tore the flesh from his own limbs and body by mouthfuls. He was killed to end his sufferings.

St. Thomas Man Beheaded.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 13.—The body of James Armstrong, a cabinet maker, unmarried, age about 30 years was discovered on Saturday lying on the M.C.R. track at Ross street crossing. The head and left arm were severed from the body and scattered for some distance along the track. A coroner's inquest will be held.

Child Burned to Death.

HALIFAX, May 14.—Dorothy Cunningham, the three-year-old child of the late Arthur H. Cunningham, of the Post Office Department, set herself on fire on Saturday while playing with matches and was burned to death. The mother was almost crazed with grief when she saw her child.

THAT SCOTTISH EMBARGO

Sir Chas. Tupper Insists That Pleuro-Pneumonia Does Not Exist.

THE CATTLE MUST BE SLAUGHTERED

Henry Chaplin, Replying to Sir Charles, Places the Responsibility for the Disease in Scotland on the Cattle Exported From Canada During the Year 1892.

LONDON, May 14.—The question of the admission of Canadian cattle into Great Britain and the efforts to lift the existing embargo has developed a controversy which in certain high circles bids fair to grow sultry. The letter which Sir Charles Tupper addressed to the Times on the 5th inst., combating statements made in the House of Commons on the 13th ult. by Mr. Henry Chaplin, and to the effect that cattle imported from Canada in the years 1890, 1891 and 1892 carried pleuro-pneumonia with them and infected the herds in Scotland, embraced an unqualified denial of the speaker's assertions.

Mr. Chaplin thereupon renews the attack in reply to Sir Charles' denial, and reiterates his statement that the responsibility for the disease in Scotland in 1892 was with Canadian cattle imported that year. Scotland, he adds, was absolutely free from the disease prior to that. Regarding the proposal to exempt Canadian cattle from slaughter at the port of debarkation, Mr. Chaplin says that in his opinion such a course would expose both owners and breeders to a great risk.

"No government," said he, "would be justified in sanctioning it," and concluded, "I will resist with every means in my power any attempt to give effect to the views upon the Board of Agriculture by the Marquis of Ripon."

BOY BURNED TO DEATH.

He Warned His Grandmother of Her Danger But Lost His Own Life.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 14.—The dwelling house and store of Mrs. Peter Muldoon on Garden avenue at Suspension Bridge, N. Y., was burned to the ground at an early hour Saturday morning. Mrs. Muldoon and her five-year-old grandson being the only occupants in the house at the time. The little fellow was awakened no doubt by the flames, and rushing to his grandmother's room where she was fast asleep, awoke and then ran back into one of the rear rooms. The woman barely escaped with her life and through a window. The little fellow no doubt was stifled by the smoke and perished in the flames, after saving the life of his grandmother. The woman was crazed with grief and it took three men to hold her from running back into the burning building to rescue the child. After the firemen had put out the fire the remains of the brave little fellow was found burned to a crisp. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Battered His Face With a Spade.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 14.—James B. Renshaw of Riverside made an attack on Mrs. Charles Reynold of that place. He had a spade in his hand and badly battered her face and made threats that he would burn her house. A short time afterwards the barn was discovered to be on fire. The house caught but was saved. Renshaw was under the influence of liquor. Riverside is on the line of the Intercolonial Railway and just over the border line between St. Johns and Kings counties. The constables of the latter county yesterday caught Renshaw and placed him in Hampton jail.

He stood up to cast his line when it capsized and he was drowned before he reached the shore. Deceased was forty years of age and leaves a wife and family.

Young Howitt tried hard to save her but was nearly drowned in the effort. He was exhausted when he reached the shore and had to be assisted out of the water. The body was recovered about an hour afterwards.

No Release for Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, May 14.—Home Secretary Asquith has positively refused to order the release of Mrs. Maybrick, who is serving a life sentence in Woking prison for murdering her husband, or even to reopen her case for the purpose of introducing new evidence. Mr. Asquith has personally refused to examine the signers of seven affidavits attesting their personal knowledge that Mr. Maybrick was addicted to the use of morphine. The signers of these affidavits will attempt to raise the question in parliament.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BURNED.

For the Third Time Talmage's Church is Destroyed.

BROOKLYN, May 14.—Rev. Dr. Talmage's new tabernacle, at the corner of Clinton and Greene avenues, Brooklyn, was burned yesterday. The Hotel Regent adjoining, and several dwelling houses in the vicinity were also destroyed. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

This is the third time Dr. Talmage has lost his church by fire. He was in the church when the fire started, surrounded by a number of his congregation, but all escaped. He was moved to tears as he witnessed the destruction of the beautiful edifice. Four firemen were injured during the fire, not fatally however, and there was great excitement and scenes of panic as the fire progressed.

The fire was discovered just after the congregation had been dismissed from the morning service. A small boy rushed into the church through one of the open doors and informed the sexton that he had seen smoke coming out of the windows on the Waverly avenue side of the church. The boy volunteered to go up in the back of the organ to see if it was there. He did so, and a second later he appeared before the three gentlemen with his face blackened and almost suffocated from smoke. All he could say was that he discovered the fire in the back of the organ. Dr. Talmage and Messrs. Day and Moody then started for the organ, but before they could get near it, flames burst from the top. The gentlemen then made a hurried exit.

The flames spread with lightning rapidity, and the sparks flew in all directions. The greatest excitement prevailed.

The people living in the Hotel Regent were just getting ready for dinner when the fire was discovered. They fled from their apartments leaving everything behind them. The firemen were kept busy putting out small fires which occurred in the houses near by, and in the vicinity of four blocks of the church and hotel. The Summerfield M. E. church at Greene and Washington avenues, also caught fire from flying sparks and damaged the building to the extent of $35,000.

Despite the efforts of the firemen the flames spread quickly and the adjoining houses caught fire, five on Greene avenue sustaining damage all the way from $5,000 to $15,000. While the firemen were at work on the houses on Greene avenue flames were seen coming from the roofs of the four houses on Washington. They were extinguished after having damaged each house to the extent of $1,500. Two houses and a stable on Waverly avenue were also damaged to the extent of from $2,000 to $5,000 each.

The Tabernacle and Hotel Regent were completely gutted. Nothing remains but the walls. The total loss is estimated at a little over a million dollars. The loss on the Hotel Regent, including the building, paintings, and the guests' household goods will amount to $600,000. The loss on the Tabernacle is about $400,000 and the adjoining buildings are reported to be damaged to the extent of $5,000.

Perhaps the loss which will grieve Dr. Talmage the most is that of the memorial stones which he brought from the east and which were set in the wall at the right of the organ. Russel Sage who holds a mortgage on the tabernacle of $125,000 and interest amounting to $15,000 said the tabernacle was insured and he would stand by the church and help them get on their feet again.

Dr. Talmage will start on his trip around the world to-day. The tabernacle was insured for $130,000 in four companies.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

The Ontario has adopted Mr. Haggerty as its political child. That gentleman may well pray to be saved from such a friend.

The Ontario asserts that Mr. Wood stated in 1890 that, if nominated at that time, he would, at the next election, make way for some one else. We deny the assertion, and challenge our contemporary to the proof.

During the month of April, the public debt of the United States was increased by nearly $9,000,000. And this, too, at a time when the Government is unable to expend one dollar on public works to help the unemployed.

During the past year the Australian colonies decreased very much in their trade, British commerce was less than the year previous to the extent of $133,000,000. French commerce declined $97,000,000. United States trade fell off $133,000,000. In the face of this fact it is a pleasant thing to remember that Canadian trade during the past year shows an increase of $12,185,-431, half of which was increase in the export of home products, the total trade for the year being the largest trade that Canada has ever done.

After all there is not so much difference in the height of the tariff wall raised by the Conservative Government for the purposes of protection, and by the Mackenzie Government for the purposes of revenue. It will be remembered that the Mackenzie Government placed their tariff at 17½ per cent. Taking the years since 1879 the duty collected under the National Policy, upon all the imports coming into Canada, has averaged only 19 per cent. The difference is that the present tariff is put where it can do most good to the country.

"SINFUL" AMUSEMENTS.

Youth, and old age as well, demand rational amusements, hence the question naturally arises to the thoughtful parent and the intelligent and well-meaning youth, what are sinful amusements and how they are to be avoided. Much has been said of late in the pulpit against dancing and card playing as forms of sinful amusements, and if we understand aright they are amongst the prescribed forms of amusements as set forth in the discipline of the Methodist church; but so is the wearing of golden ornaments. It is not long since that women were prohibited from entering fellowship meetings in the Methodist church in this city for wearing feathers and gold ornaments. Yet to-day one would be laughed at if he attemped to carry out the discipline as it reads regarding the wearing of ornaments.

A leading member of the first Methodist church in New York said lately that thirteen of the best families in their church had been compelled to join other churches rather than transgress the discipline which prescribed amusements that they considered were not sinful, and a leading clergy in Toronto recently said that the discipline of the Methodist church was systematically disregarded in the case of certain forms of amusement, and questioned gravely whether the discipline should not be disregarded rather than transgressed by many of the foremost members of the church. We are aware that lately certain city pulpits have been the mouthpieces of bitter denunciations of dancing, but in most cases these denunciations were suggestions of immorality, purely imaginary and altogether without the experience of those who encourage dancing in their homes as a form of innocent and healthful amusement, and as a safeguard to the morality of the young, as against the doubtful influences attending old-fashioned Methodist games. Card playing for amusement has also been strongly denounced from the pulpit as sinful, the simple and sinless pleasure of playing for the satisfaction of winning the game being strongly inveighed against as on a par with gambling for stakes—yet withal this form of amusement is growing and will grow in popularity, in those families whose heads wish to give the young home amusements, and keep them from seeking other and often evil associations. Hence the question is often asked, will the discipline of the Methodist Church ever be amended to allow amusements that fathers and mothers, who must care for their children, consider innocent? or is it to be systematically disregarded, as it is in the clause prohibiting the wearing of golden ornaments? And, are people of other denominations to continue to be offended by pulpit denunciations of amusements such as card playing, dancing and theatre going, which are not so condemned by their own churches, but left as matters of conscience?

BUSY LIFE IN PARIS.

SOME MODES OF LIVING IN THE BEAUTIFUL CITY.

French Women Are Busy Women—Hotel Life Very Independent and the French Like It—A Contrast With Three Other Modes—The Morale.

In Paris one has the choice of at least four modes of living. One may keep house, live at the public hotel, in furnished apartments, taking one's meals there or elsewhere, as is most convenient, or one may board in a pension. All these modes have their advantages. The hotel and furnished apartments give one a very independent life. Housekeeping has its cares and burdens, but also its home comforts and pleasures, which cannot be obtained elsewhere. In the pension there is less independence than in the hotel or furnished apartments, because the meals are served at regular hours and one feels obliged to be on time. This is a good thing, if one is settled in any place, but if sight-seeing, the furnished apartment or the hotel is better. Since the life in the pension is a very common one in all the large towns in France it will be the first condition considered.

Because I wished to study this phase of life, and also because I wanted daily practice in speaking and hearing the French language, I chose the pension de famille. In a boarding-house of this sort one hears a great deal of French spoken at the table twice a day, and also in the salon in the evening. It is almost impossible to get into a pension where foreigners are not admitted, so that one will more than likely have the advantage of hearing a good deal of bad French as well as good.

The life in the pension de famille is very regular. Breakfast in your room at any time between certain hours; luncheon in the dining-room at twelve o'clock, and dinner in the dining-room at seven o'clock. After dinner all who have not engagements adjourn to the salon, the ladies with their fancy-work, for French women never seem to be idle. Sometimes there is music, card-playing or some other amusement. During the day, when you are in the house, you spend the time in your chamber; the salon is rarely used.

When you first come to the pension madame asks you when you will have your breakfast served. I found that I could have my breakfast at any time from half-after 7 to 9 o'clock, so I decided to have my fire made at half-after 7, and my breakfast served at 8 o'clock.

The breakfast is the same every day in the year: Two small rolls, a small piece of butter, a small pitcher of hot milk and a still smaller pitcher of coffee, and three blocks of sugar. If you wish you may substitute tea or chocolate for the coffee.

You might think that one would tire of this breakfast, but, on the contrary, you welcome it with pleasure each morning. The bread and the butter are always delicious, and the hot drink does not vary much in quantity. The French housekeeper gets everything down to a fine point, and as one studies the cost and mode of living, one realizes that this is a necessity.

Every morning the servants are up at 6 o'clock; the boots and shoes must be cleaned, fires made, hot water and breakfast must be taken to the chambers, and countless other duties must be performed. The servants are kept busy until 11 o'clock at night, except on rare occasions.

After breakfast the mistress of the house goes to market, looks after the servants, and attends to all the little details of the household, which in a house like this are without number.

Cleaning and Curling Feathers.

White or light colored feathers can be washed in benzine without losing their curl or color. They should be swung in the air until dry. Another plan for white feathers is to wash them in warm water and castile soap; rinse three times to remove fully all the soap; pass through a warm solution of oxalic acid and then lightly starch; dry in a warm room by lightly beating each feather against the hand or near the fire. Hats trimmed with feathers should be kept in a bandbox when not in use to preserve them from dust and damp. In the summer rip feathers out of winter hats and put them in a tightly-sealed box with gum camphor. To curl ostrich feathers have a dull knife, with the top hollowed out near the point if you are going to make a business of it. Hold your feather over a fire, but not sufficiently near to scorch it, shaking it gently until warm; then holding the feath in the left hand, place the fibre of the feather between the thumb and knife edge and draw it along quickly, curling the end only. If feathers are damp at any time the curl may be retained by holding the hat over the fire and waving it until dry; then place in a cool room for the fibres to stiffen. Feathers may also be curled over a knife held near a hot flatiron, the heat making the curl more durable. A little blue in the water in which white feathers are washed improves the color.

Remodeling Feathers.

Thin, worn-out tips or plumes may be improved by fastening two together and then curling the fibres as though they were one. Other worn-out feathers are curled up to be very narrow, using a tight curl, like the Prince of Wales cluster. If only the ends are good cut the quill shorter and use for a tiny tip. Pompons, like a huge rosette, are made of two or three tips twisted to form the soft ball, and aigrettes added in the centre. Buy good feathers in the beginning for their wear and appearance. The shaded feathers are about fifty per cent. more costly than the ordinary ones, but they are always extreme novelties. Long plumes can be doubled up to disguise their length when desired. Tips can be pieced out in length, as well as added in the way of thickness, using glazed thread for fastening them securely together. Working with feathers requires patience, and deft and neat fingers, but all of these are easily obtained with a will and experience, and nothing will excel them as ornaments of use and beauty in the dress and millinery lines. Feathers are now mixed with fur, lace, velvet, ribbon, flowers, straw, etc., and are worn almost as much during the summer as in the winter months, owing to the caprice of "Dame Fashion."

The Coming Dividend.

I hear it whispered that Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Morgan are about to declare another $250,000 dividend. It will be remembered that, according to the terms of the late Governor Morgan's will, that sum of money was to be paid to the present E. D. Morgan upon the birth to him of every child. Mr. Morgan has already declared two dividends, and this third one is expected almost any day now!—New York Recorder.

Bread and Dyspepsia.

The conclusion that wheat bread is unfit for dyspeptics, sometimes jumped at because ill effects are noticed after its use, is erroneous. On the contrary, it has been pointed out by Bouchard and others that farinaceous food is peculiarly adapted to some dyspeptic patients. It is the microbes in the starch, which is capable of producing irritating acids, that cause the trouble. To avoid this, Bouchard recommends that only the crust or toasted crumbs of the bread be used by dyspeptics, particularly those whose stomachs are dilated. The reason for this is explained by the fact that baking temporarily, though not permanently, arrests the fermentation of dough. When it is again heated by the warmth of the stomach the fermentation is renewed. In cases where the bread is toasted brown through the fermentation is stopped permanently.

JUMPING THE GEARY ACT

Smugglers of Chinese in the States Issue Fraudulent Certificates.

SENT INTO CANADA AND CHINA

Thousands of These Bogus Certificates Discovered to Have Been Given to Chinese Who Have Never Been in the States, for the Purpose of Securing Their Entrance Into That Country.

NEW YORK, May 14.—There has come to the notice of the authorities of the United States Treasury the most gross and glaring frauds in Chinese registration under the Geary law. It is believed, from evidence in the possession of the authorities, there have been issued in this city alone several hundred, perhaps a couple of thousand, of fraudulent certificates.

It is alleged that smugglers of Chinese are selling registration certificates to Chinese who are now waiting in Canada and Havana to get into the United States. Large numbers of registration certificates, it is claimed, are being sent to China to secure entrance into the United States of Chinese who have never been here before.

The frauds are perpetrated by Chinese who register, and it is alleged that some of them have registered from twice to a score of times. Professional witnesses have admitted under oath that they have been making a good thing out of their swearing for Chinese applying for certificates, and that they have received from 50 cents to $5 in each case.

NATIONAL LEAGUE CONVENTION.

Annual Convention in Liverpool—Public Controversy Will be Discouraged.

LIVERPOOL, May 14.—The annual convention of the Irish National League of Great Britain was held in Liverpool on Saturday. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., president of the league, presided. There was a full attendance of the leaders of the Irish party, among them John Dillon, Timothy M. Healy, Arthur O'Connor, Timothy D. Sullivan, Thos. J. Condon and others of lesser note. The report of the treasurer was read, showing that the income of the league for the past year had been £3,513. Addresses were made advising the Irish party to maintain a close and constant alliance with the Liberals.

The convention passed a compromise resolution. The delegates expressed in this resolution their regret that dissensions had divided the members of the league and recommended that all difficulties be settled within the league's councils, whose decisions the members should accept loyally and finally. The convention resolved also to appeal to the Irish people to discourage public controversy as injurious to the national movement. T. P. O'Connor was re-elected president.

Delegate Quinn, on behalf of Glasgow branch, moved to rescind the rule compelling Irishmen to vote for Liberal candidates in municipal elections, and allow them to vote for labor or other candidates.

Mr. O'Connor said that would be equivalent to a severance of the Irish from the Liberal party. The delegates from Glasgow, Edinburgh and several other cities opposed the motion, and it was lost by a large majority.

Delegate Sullivan, of Bradford, moved a resolution that the convention condemn the dissentions in the Irish parliamentary party, which are the greatest obstacles to the cause of home rule. A number of branches presented similar resolutions, but one branch at Liverpool offered a resolution which declared that factionism was preferable to bossism, and that it would rather be ruled by Redmond and Harrington than by Dillon and O'Brien. The reading of the resolution was interrupted several times by protests.

Delegate Dunn, of Bermondsey, said the minority had a right to guard against the intrigues of the majority with the Parnellites.

At the National League mass meeting last evening resolutions were passed expressing full confidence in the judgment, integrity and patriotism of the Irish party leaders. Justin McCarthy said in his address that the Irish situation was as hopeful as ever. John Dillon and Michael Davitt exhorted all home rulers to unity.

Chasing the Taylor Brothers.

MILAN, Mo., May 14—The Taylor brothers who are suspected of murdering Gus Meeks, his wife and two children, near Browning, Thursday night, are closely pursued by a well-mounted and heavily-armed posse. As it will be certain death to the Taylors when caught it is believed they will fight until their ammunition is exhausted and will sell their lives as dearly as possible. The little girl who survived the attempt at assassination is doing nicely and will recover.

MORE WONDERS TO COME.

When the Kinetoscope is Perfected T'will be a Marvel.

The completion of the kinetoscope is but the first stage in the series of experiments being made by Mr. Edison, which if successful, will result in an apparatus which will dispense with traveling theatrical companies, operas, gymnasts, lecturers, variety shows and athletes. His aim is to combine the kinetoscope with the phonograph.

"It is in the traveling expenses of a large number of persons that the profits of theatrical companies are used up," said Mr. Edison, the other day. "With this machine, when perfected, a couple of men could travel from place to place, hire a hall, and show upon a white screen all the scenes from a play or opera. The phonograph at the same time could give the words or music. Selections from various operas could be given, or four of the most striking acts from Shakespeare's plays, as an evening's performance. Chauncey Depew could live forever in one of his finest orations in this machine, for you would not only hear his words, but see the expression of his face at the same time. Historic scenes could also be made imperishable, battles with the noise of cannon, horse-races and prize fights."

The kinetoscope, however, has not yet reached this state of perfection. In its present condition, which presents the scene without the sound, it is perfect, and it represents the work of several years. The difficulties to be surmounted were numerous and novel and many pieces of expensive machinery had to be made to meet the various exigencies as they arose. In this Mr. Edison was assisted by Mr. W. K. L. Dickson, who explains the various parts to the many visitors who have heard of the furore in scientific circles the machine has stirred up, and have gone to Orange in order to see it in operation. Scientists from Europe and from the leading universities in this country have inspected the kinetoscope and the kinetograph, and all have marveled at their perfection and the certainty with which they do the work desired.—New York World.

Only Once Lucky.

"What is the luckiest thing that ever happened to you?" somebody asked of the millionaire.

"Do you mean sheer, unadulterated luck—something that just happens without any seeking on your part?" replied the millionaire, throwing away a half smoked Perfecto and taking another out of his case.

"Well, yes; let it go at that."

"I am generally accounted a very lucky man by the thousand and one people who know more about me than I do myself. But, on my honor, what I call a genuine piece of good luck happened to me only once in my life. It didn't amount to much, though it meant much to me at the time. It was when I was filling my first job—that of an errand boy at three dollars a week—and I tell you I have never since felt so rich as when I carried home my first three dollars.

"I had been given a check to cash and a bill to pay. After paying the bill I had $37 of my employer's money left. I had just crossed Broadway when, happening to look back, I saw two men fighting in the street. I was enough of a boy then to take a keen interest in anything like a 'scrap.' I retraced my steps to see what it was all about. To my amazement and surprise I discovered that the two men were fighting about the $37 and the receipted bill, which in some mysterious fashion had dropped out of my pocket. A policeman happening along at that moment I was able to prove that I had a better right to the property in dispute than either of the two combatants, and recovered it forthwith. They had each grabbed for it at the same time, and each was bound to get all or none—luckily for me. I have often speculated upon what might have happened if they hadn't quarrelled. I should never have recovered the money, and in consequence I should certainly have lost my situation. That might have changed the whole current of my career, and instead of being a rich man I might to day have been a poor devil, or I might have been twice as rich as I am. Who knows? Anyway, I regard it as the only piece of downright, simon pure, unmistakable piece of good luck that ever befell me. But any Tom, Dick or Harry that you chance to meet will be able to tell you lots of luckier things that have happened to me. Some of them things that I had worked at for years."

A slight delegation from the Northern Missouri districts arrived Friday night and another delegation, several hundred strong, arrived overland. Nearly Shot a Dutchman.

Vanrensellaer Sills, who keeps a pawn broker's shop near the upper bridge, came very nearly placing himself in an uncomfortable position on Saturday. A Dutchman, so he says, and he ought to know, came into his shop to buy a gun. The customer picked out one to his liking, but did not know how it worked, it being a breech-loader, so Sills sent him out for some shells to show him how to load it. When he returned the affable dealer proceeded to show his customer how it worked, but the result was not at all pleasant to the would-be purchaser. In closing the gun one of the shells was exploded and the charge passed within an inch of the Dutchman's head and buried itself in a bedstead near by, which it tore up in great shape. The Dutchman congratulated himself that his head was not the bedstead.

No Bugs this Year.

A resident of Sidney says that there will not be any potato bugs this year. It is to be hoped that our informant is correct in his opinion.

So says Dr. Curlett, an old and honored practitioner in Belleville, Ontario, who writes: For Wasting Diseases and Scrofula I have used Scott's Emulsion with the most satisfactory results."

'ANOTHER BUSY DAY.

THE EVANGELISTS HOLD SEVERAL SERVICES YESTERDAY.

At the Y.M.C.A. Hall at 7 a.m.—Mr. Hunter at Holloway St. Church—A Union Sabbath School Meeting—Double Services Between the Tabernacle and Bridge St. Church in the Evening.

The evangelists were out early yesterday morning and held a meeting at 7 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. hall, at which there was a good attendance, and a number of those present testified to the good effects of the meeting upon themselves.

HOLLOWAY ST. CHURCH.

It was a large congregation that faced Rev. Mr. Hunter in Holloway St. church yesterday morning. After the usual opening exercises, Prof. Canfield sang a solo, "Calling to Me." Mr. Hunter's lessons were from the 103d Psalm and Luke 22nd, commencing at the 44th verse. He described Peter's downward march from Christ mentioned in the last lesson, as seven steps. The first step was sleeping—not taken in its literal sense, but sleeping in the christian life—not active christians. The second step (50th verse) he lost his temper, and smote a servant. Bring your tempers to Christ to be tempered. The third step is described in the 54th verse, where Peter followed afar off. He was afraid to confess Christ. Don't be afraid to confess your Saviour. The fourth step was where Peter got among the enemies of Christ and listened to them blaspheming Christ's name without so much as speaking a word for his master. The next three steps were his three denials of Christ and these completed his downfall. He liked Peter's character, he said, but he had his failings like all of us.

The reverend gentleman's sermon was based on the words found in John 19—6. I want you to linger around the cross of Jesus Christ this morning. When we think what Christ has done for us it is wonderful to find so many who do not trust him. Jesus Christ, by Pilate's own testimony, was blameless, yet he was put to death. Jesus cares for you even if you are within one step of the other world and unsaved. If I could make you all believe that Christ died for you, I don't think one of you would leave this Church without giving your heart to Him. He died that you might live. He is offering you salvation. Will you accept it? He related a touching experience he had while visiting the Kingston penitentiary and holding services there. He said many of the convicts were converted during that one service and they had received many letters from such after they were liberated. Continuing he said if you unsaved ones leave this service this morning you will have to walk over the body of Christ and trample in his blood. A man who would go through a service like this could not be converted by a death bed. Christ is knocking at the door of your heart. Will you let him in?

UNION SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The meeting of different Sunday Schools of the Churches in the Evangelical Union, gathered in Bridge Street church yesterday afternoon, and such a gathering of bright young faces is seldom seen. Each class, accompanied by its teacher, sat together, and although the whole body of the church was reserved for the scholars, many had to go to the gallery, and before the service opened, the church was filled. "Bringing in the Sheaves" was sung as the opening hymn, and it was never sung with more enthusiasm than by this vast assemblage, and the sweet young voices blended harmoniously with those of the older ones. Mr. Hunter gave an address on the five open doors of the Bible, and related many an appropriate anecdote to illustrate his subject. Mr. Crossley and Master Charley Ramsay sang a beautiful duet, after which Mr. Crossley gave an address, taking for his text the four words "I am the Way." He said Christ was the way to

Pardon,
Peace,
Purity,
Pleasure,
Paradise.

His address was comprehensive for the young as well as the old and his many illustrations kept the attention of the large gathering throughout. Mr. Hunter asked how many would like to have a similar meeting before they left the city, and nearly every hand in the audience was up in a moment. The children were dispersed by singing a hymn.

The returns given by the superintendents or Secretaries of the Sunday schools that participated in the afternoon meeting of the registered attendance at their schools yesterday is as follows: Baptist, 70; Bleecker st., 80; Bridge st., 607; Holloway st., 157; City Mission, 62; John st., 135; Kingston Road, 47; Marchmont, 22; Reformed Episcopal, 67; St. Andrew's, 139; Tabernacle, 224; University, 53; total, 1663. With the exception of some of the smaller scholars, all these were present, so that it is safe to say that over 1,600 Sunday school officers and teachers took part. These were all crowded into the ordinary and extra seats on the ground floor, excepting the senior division of Bridge st. school, which occupied the eastern ends of both sides of the galleries.

BRIDGE ST. IN THE EVENING.

In the evening the evangelists held a double meeting in the Tabernacle and Bridge St. also. Bridge St. was filled to the doors when Mr. Hunter rose to read his lesson. He prefixed the reading by a short talk on what he called three popular sins commencing with B—the Ball room, the Billiard room and the Bar room. He scored those who attended these fancy balls and said many a girl went to her ruin through associating with acquaintances made there. He characterized the Billiard room as the devil's drawing room and dwelt at some length on the vicious influence wielded by these places. The bar-room, he said, was the devil's back kitchen and his remarks on this subject bristled with stinging anathemas. His lesson was from Daniel 6th chapter, 1st to 10th verses.

When Mr. Hunter had finished Mr. Crossley came down from the Tabernacle and Mr. Hunter went up that church to finish the meeting. Mr. Crossley sang very sweetly the "Holy City," after which he preached from Matthew XXII:21. "Then say unto him Cæsar's. Then sayeth he unto them render thou unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's and unto God the things that are God's. Many stood up for prayer and during the after meeting a large number went to the enquiry room.

The evening service in the Tabernacle last night was full of interest and resulted in several conversions. The service was opened by the pastor, after which Rev. H. T. Crossley sang "The Holy City" in excellent voice. Then followed a sermon from the text "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." After preaching Mr. Crossley retired and in a few minutes Mr. Hunter put in an appearance and took charge of the service. After a bible service of some length on Daniel there followed an after meeting in the lecture room, which was well filled and quite a large number decided for Christ.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Interesting Convention of the South Hastings Educators.

This Association met in the High School this morning at 10 a.m. Mr. J. Johnston, I.P.S., occupied the chair. After the usual routine business had been transacted, the Association proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year, with the following result: President, J. Johnston, I.P.S; Vice-do., Mr. Cole; Sec.-Treas., S. A. Gardner; Directors, Mr. Winterbourn, Trenton; Mr. Fairman, Sidney; Mr Simpkins, Thurlow; Mr. White, Tyendinaga; Mr. Bell, Hungerford; Miss Robertson, Deseronto.

Mr. Wm. Houston, M.A., Director of Teachers' Institutes, is in attendance and will conduct the exercises of the Association. Mr. Johnston, the President, on introducing Mr. Houston, alluded to the very effective work done by him when in attendance at this Association six years ago. The first subject discussed by Mr. Houston was, "The teaching of primary reading and writing." In introducing the subject, Mr. Houston said that when the child enters school at five years of age he has already learned the language and knows how to use it, and he has already a large vocabulary of words, and the teacher's duty is not at first to teach new words, but apply those he already knows.

The unit of a language is the sentence and teachers should begin with a sentence. He then proceeded to discuss the various methods of teaching reading and writing to primary classes and compared the method of teaching these subjects as used formerly with those in use at the present time. He also proceeded to show the great advantage which the latter has over the former. He then entered into a close analysis of the methods of teaching reading.

A great many questions from the teachers were answered by Mr. Houston.

There were in attendance about 120 teachers.

On the platform were Mr. Aylesworth, Rev. Canon Burke, and Mr. E. Gould, of Plainfield.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

William H. Bullen, Shoemaker, Dropped Dead About noon To-Day.

The many friends of William H. Bullen, shoemaker, were startled to hear of his sudden death at noon to-day. He left his house for his shop this morning in his usual health and returned shortly before noon for his dinner. Before sitting down to the table he went out and got a pail of water. When he came in he said he did not feel well, and asked for a dose of medicine that a physician had given him during a bad spell he had some two weeks ago. Before the medicine had been brought him, however, he fell over dead. Dr. Tracy was at once summoned and said his death was due to heart disease. Deceased, who was a son of the late Roche Bullen, for many years a resident of this city, was born in London, Eng., in 1828 and came to this country with his parents while quite young and he had lived here ever since. He married Margaret Todd, and his wife and seven children survive him. Four sons are in Chicago and were telegraphed the sad intelligence at once. Deceased was a brother of Wesley Bullen, liquor dealer. He was an adherent of the Methodist church and a life long Conservative. The date of the funeral has not been arranged.

BURGLARS AT TRENTON.

They Get Into a Hardware Store and Steal Revolvers.

The hardware store of Geo. White, Front St., Trenton, was burglarized this morning about 12:30. Mr. White went into the store last evening and when he unlocked the door he noticed two men standing in the doorway. When he came out they were gone. Shortly after 12 o'clock Chas. Leslie, foreman of the telephone construction gang working in that town, was passing the store when two men ran out of it. He grappled with one of them and threw him down and began kicking him, while the other man fired two shots from a revolver to frighten him. After a lively struggle the man who had been caught managed to escape and the two midnight mechanics were soon out of sight. Upon examination of the front of the store it was found that the lock had been removed, which could only be done from the inside. It is supposed that one of the two men standing in the doorway when Mr. White entered in the evening slipped in behind him and remained there until they were discovered. The only articles missed are two revolvers, although there was a small amount of money in the till. They also broke into a blacksmith shop and took some tools, which they likely intended to use in breaking open some other places.

There's a new wrinkle out in the base ball line. The hollow bat is the latest. It is made of regulation wood, and in it are placed two or three heavy iron balls. The batter holds the club in a vertical position until the ball comes within striking distance; when he strikes at it the weights inside the bat fly towards the tip and the impact is so tremendous that it is good-bye ball, every time, and a home run. The new bat is only half the weight of the old style.

SUNDAY SERMONS.

Notes of Services in Some of the City Churches.

The minister of St. Andrew's church, Rev. M. W. Maclean, M.A., preached an admirable sermon yesterday morning on the Presbyterian faith in the atonement as the truth. Apart from ordinances, apart from means of grace, apart from morality, there is the belief in the life giving spirit of life which is essential to true salvation. The food of the soul must be from God himself. It is the spirit that quickeneth. The text was John, 6 53, "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood ye have no life in you." This passage does not refer to the Lord's supper. After the sermon the choir rendered the most beautiful anthem which has been sung since Mrs. York assumed the direction a year ago. In the evening Mr. Maclean preached from Proverbs 3—13, "Happy is the man that findeth wisdom and the man that draweth out understanding."

Yesterday being Whit Sunday, the Rev. J. Simpson Trotter preached in the Reformed Episcopal Church a Pentecostal sermon from Acts, 2: 1—5. In the afternoon he conducted a funeral service for the late Mrs. Alford, and in the evening improved her death from Rev. 14: 13. The evening service was very impressive and listened to with marked attention.

Rev. J. L. George, pastor of John St. church, preached at both services in his church yesterday, taking for his subject in the morning "What think ye of Christ?" from Matthew 22—43, and in the evening "See that ye refuse not Him that speaketh," from Hebrews 12—25. The choir rendered very acceptably the anthem "Come unto me."

Rev. J. A. McCamus occupied the pulpit of Holloway St. church last evening and preached a sound sermon to a large congregation from the subject "Servitude and Freedom."

There were two very interesting services in the Tabernacle yesterday. A large number were present at the morning love feast, and many beautiful testimonies were given to the power of saving grace. There were quite a number of new voices heard, the result of the evangelistic services now being held. At 11 o'clock Dr. Carman preached to a large congregation from the text, "Give account of thy stewardship." The sermon will not soon be forgotten. It was vigorous, pointed and practical.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co. Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

Shaken as I was with these alarms, it was hard for me to keep up with the rapid pace of the treasure-hunters. Now and again I tumbled; and it was then that Silver plucked so roughly at the rope and launched at me his murderous glances. Dick, who had dropped behind us, and now brought up the rear, was babbling to himself both prayers and curses, as his fever kept rising. This also added to my wretchedness, and, to crown all, I was haunted by the thought of the tragedy that had once been acted on that plateau, when that ungodly buccaneer with his blue face—he who had died at Savannah, singing and shouting for drink—had there, with his own hand, cut down his six accomplices. This grove, that was now so peaceful, must then have rung with cries, I thought; and even with the thought I believe I heard it ringing still.

We were now on the margin of the thicket.

'Huzza, mates, altogether!' shouted Merry; and the foremost broke into a run.

And suddenly, not ten yards further, we beheld them stop. A low cry arose. Silver doubled his pace, digging away with the foot of his crutch like one possessed, and the next moment he and I had also come to a dead halt.

Before us was a great excavation, not very recent, for the sides had fallen in and grass had sprouted on the bottom. In this were the shaft of a pick broken in two and the boards of several packing-cases strewn around. On one of these boards I saw, branded with a hot iron, the name 'Walrus'—the name of Flint's ship.

All was clear to probation. The cache had been found and rifled—the seven hundred thousand pounds were gone!

CHAPTER XXXIII.

THE FALL OF A CHIEFTAIN.

There never was such an overturn in this world. Each of these six men was as though he had been struck. But with Silver the blow passed almost instantly. Every thought of his soul has been set full-stretch like a racer, on that money; well, he was brought up in a single second, dead; and he kept his head, found his temper, and changed his plan before the others had had time to realize the disappointment.

'Jim,' he whispered, 'take that, and stand by for trouble.'

And he passed me a double-barrelled pistol

At the same time he began quietly moving northward, and in a few steps had put the hollow between us two and the other five. Then he looked at me and nodded, as much as to say, 'Here is a narrow corner,' as indeed, I thought it was. His looks were now quite friendly; and I was so revolted at these constant changes, that I could not forbear whispering, 'So you've changed sides again.'

There was no time left for him to answer in. The buccaneers, with oaths and cries, began to leap, one after another, into the pit, and to dig with their fingers, throwing the boards aside as they did so. Morgan found a piece of gold. He held it up with a perfect spout of oaths. It was a two-guinea piece, and it went from hand to hand among them for a quarter of a minute.

'Two guineas!' roared Merry, shaking it at Silver. 'That's your seven hundred thousand pounds, is it? You're the man for bargains, ain't you? You're him that never bungled nothing, you woollen-headed lubber!'

'Dig away, boys,' said Silver, with the coolest insolence; 'you'll find some pig-nuts I shouldn't wonder.'

'Pig nuts!' repeated Merry, in a scream. 'Mates do you hear that? I tell you, now, that man there knew it all along. Look in the face of him, and you'll see it wrote there.'

'Ah, Merry,' remarked Silver, 'standing for cap'n again? You're a pushing lad, to be sure.'

But this time every one was entirely in Merry's favor. They began to scramble out of the excavation, darting furious glances behind them. One thing I observed, which looked well for us, they all got out upon the opposite side from Silver.

Well, there we stood, two on one side, five on the other, the pit between us, and nobody screwed up high enough to offer the first blow. Silver never moved; he watched them, very upright on his crutch, and looked as cool as ever I saw him. He was brave, and no mistake.

At last, Merry seemed to think a speech might help matters.

'Mates,' says he, 'there's two of them alone there; one's the old cripple that brought us all here and blundered us down to this: the other's that cub that I mean to have the heart of. Now mates—'

He was raising his arm and his voice, and plainly meant to lead the charge, But just then—crack! crack! crack!—three musket shots flashed out of the thicket. Merry tumbled head foremost into the excavation the man with the bandage spun round like a teetotum, and fell all his length upon his side, where he lay dead, but still twitching, and the other three turned and ran for it with all their might.

Before you could wink Long John had fired two barrels of a pistol into the struggling Merry; and as the man rolled up his eyes at him in the last agony, 'George,' said he, 'I reckon I settled you.'

At the same moment the doctor, Grey and Ben Gunn joined us, with smoking muskets, from among the nut-meg trees.

'Forward!' cried the doctor. 'Double quick, my lad. We must head 'em off the boats.'

And we set off at a great pace, sometimes plunging through the bushes to the chest.

I tell you, but Silver was anxious to keep up with us. The work that man went through, leaping on his crutch till the muscles of his chest were fit to burst, was work no sound man ever equalled, and so thinks the doctor. As it was, he was already thirty yards behind us, and on the verge of strangling, when we reached the brow of the slope.

'Doctor,' he hailed, 'see there! no hurry!'

Sure enough there was no hurry. In a lower part of the plateau, we could see the three survivors still running in the same direction as they had started, right for Mizzen mast Hill. We were already between them and the boats; and so we four sat down to breathe, while Long John, mopping his face, came slowly up with us.

'Thank ye kindly,' doctor says he. 'You come in about the nick, I guess, for me and Hawkins. And it's you, Ben Gunn!' he added. 'Well, you're a nice one to be sure.'

'I'm Ben Gunn, I am,' replied the maroon, wiggling like an eel in his embarrassment. 'And,' he added, after a long pause, 'how do, Mr. Silver! Pretty well, I thank ye, says you.'

HERBERT AND THE ZOUAVES

Hon. Mr. Patterson Disclaims Responsibility for Those Opinions.

VALUE OF CRUCIBLE STEEL IMPORTS

The Premier's Ready Retort to the "Member for the United States"—Extra Copies of Indian Departmental Report to be Distributed Among the Various Tribes—Capital Notes.

OTTAWA, May 15.—In the House Hon. Mr. Patterson, at the request of Mr. Hughes, read in French the words used by Major General Herbert on the occasion of his recent visit to Montreal in reference to the pontifical Zouaves. The Minister of Militia at the same time disclaimed any responsibility for the utterances of any officials of his department.

The Voters' Lists.

Mr. Gnay asked; Have instructions been issued to the revising officers, under the Dominion Franchise Act, to prepare for the revision of the voters' lists this year; if not, why not?

Sir John Thompson—No instructions have been issued to revising officers, who have been newly appointed, which requires them to begin their duties of revision on the 1st of June. No instructions otherwise have been issued.

A Quebec Postmastership.

Mr. Brodeur moved for copies of all correspondence in connection with the dismissal of Postmaster Loiselle of Ste. Angele, Que.

Sir Adolphe Caron said that he had been dismissed on the report of the proper official, and in any case it would certainly be unjust to dismiss the present postmaster, who was giving satisfaction.

Sir John Thompson advised that the evidence taken at the civil trial should be obtained before judgment should be pronounced in the House. The motion was amended in accordance with this suggestion and adopted.

Crucible Steel Import.

Mr. Charlton moved for an order of the House showing the amount and value of crucible steel imported into Canada free of duty in each year since 1885, under the provisions of the order in council of 6th November, 1885; also the amount and value of lastings and mohair cloth imported into Canada free of duty in each year since 1885, under the provisions of the order in council of 6th November, 1885.

Sir John Thompson said that some of the papers asked for dated back for years.

Mr Charlton replied that before long the Opposition would get all the misdeeds before the public which had been committed by the Government. "The mills of the gods grind slowly but surely."

Sir John Thompson replied that the mills seemed to grind the Opposition finer each time.

The motion carried.

Mr. Charlton's series of motions for returns showing the value of hatters' bands, steel strip, wire rops, felloes of hickory wood, etc., imported under orders in council were also carried.

Maritime Fisheries.

Mr. Bowers moved for copies of correspondence since January 1, 1892, from fishery officers in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, regarding the taking of lobsters and the limitation of the size, and of all recommendations in regard to the the same.

Literature for the Indians.

Mr. Paterson, of Brant, moved that 300 extra copies of the report of the Department of Indian Affairs be sent yearly to the various tribes or bands of Indians having trust funds in the hands of the Government, such distribution to be in proportion to population, and sent to the different councils and local superintendents for the use of the Indians, and that all future reports of the department shall contain the items of expenditure from the funds of each such tribe or band during the year. He explained that there were many intelligent Indians in the country now who took a deep interest in their own affairs.

Hon. Mr. Daly agreed to the motion, which was adopted.

Mr. Mill's motion that the franchise be extended to women was dropped.

Settlement of Disputes.

On the motion to adjourn Mr. Edgar asked Sir John if it was not rather early to adjourn the House. He was prepared to go with his motion regarding peaceful settlements of disputes between Canada and the United States by diplomatic agency.

Sir John Thompson replied that it was in the interests of the hon. gentleman he had moved the adjournment of the House. It would be unfair to Mr. Edgar to attempt to discuss universal peace at half-past nine o'clock at night.

Capital Gossip.

Dr. Wickstead, the dismissed official, has removed his books from the department in which he was employed. He has no intention of withdrawing the statements published in his letter.

A deputation consisting of Jas. Crankshaw, J. Winer and H. Rosenthal, of Montreal, had an interview on Saturday with the Minister of Finance and the Controllers of Customs and Inland Revenue on the subject of the duty on waterproof cloths. There is a manufactory in Montreal, which it is represented cannot compete with old country goods with the tariff as at present. The Minister promised to take the matter into consideration.

It has been learned from good authority that a new officer ranking probably as major is about to be appointed to the command of Ottawa Field Battery in the place of the late Lieut-Col. Stewart. The one who is expected to get the appointment is Major Coulee of the Winnipeg Field Battery. The appointment is expected to partly allay the trouble in the ranks at present over Captain Bliss' reinstatement.

G. A. Mountain, chief engineer of the Canada, Atlantic and Ottawa and Parry Sound Railway, has returned from the far end of the latter line. In conversation with the reporter he said that the construction of the Parry Sound road is advancing rapidly. The contract to Killaloo is winding up and the track from Eganville to Golden Lake has been thoroughly ballasted. This part of the road will be ready for Government inspection in a few days and when this is over the O. A. & P. S. Railway will be in operation eighty-four miles from Ottawa.

Coming to the Conference.

CAPE TOWN, May 15.—Cape Colony will send Sir John de Villier, Chief Justice and Sir Charles Mills, Attorney-General in London, as her delegates to the conference which will be held in Ottawa to arrange for closer trade relations of British colonies. Sir John de Villiers sailed from this port to-day.

TEN YEARS AT KINGSTON

Mrs. Evans' Sentence in the Sharon Case—Osman Gets Two Years.

TORONTO, May 15.—Mrs. Lottie Evans and George Osman were up before Justice Robertson at the Assize Court yesterday to receive their sentence in the Sharon poisoning case.

His Lordship sentenced Mrs. Evans to ten years in the provincial penitentiary at Kingston. Mrs. Evans, who has been remarkably cool and collected throughout the course of the whole trial, took the sentence with the utmost composure. On being asked the usual question, "Have you anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon you?" she replied in a steady voice, "Nothing, except that I am innocent of any crime."

Mr. Murdoch, her counsel, applied for a new trial, which application His Lordship refused.

George Osman took his sentence coolly. "If poison was administered it was without my knowledge," he said. He was sentenced to two years in Kingston penitentiary.

ELCTION ROWS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Bay de Verde Said to be in a State of Petty Warfare.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 15.—The various newspapers are full of the most conflicting accounts of the trouble at Bay de Verde. All indications point to very serious outbreaks. The Telegram charges that Colonial Secretary Morine drew a revolver on the inhabitants of Broad Cove because they refused to allow him to speak, and declares that very serious consequences would have ensued but for the forbearance of the people.

The Herald denies this altogether, and declares that Morine and Morrison held a successful meeting there—that Moores, the disqualified Whiteway member, was not allowed to speak, and that Henry Wood, late Surveyor-General, was afraid to attend the meeting.

There was renewed disorder at Bay de Verde yesterday. Further conflicts are expected. The whole district is in, practically, a state of petty warfare. The police force is inadequate to control the mob.

CRUSHED BY A WATER WHEEL.

Terrible Accident to an Employe of a Gatineau Mill.

OTTAWA, May 15.—A sad fatality is reported from Chelsea, up the Gatineau. Moise Joaneisse of that village was crushed and drowned in the turbine of one of Gilmour & Houston's water wheels.

The exact circumstances of the accident are not known, but it seems the victim, who was employed as a millwright, went down into the wheel in the evening to repair some damage, and while he was in that position some party above let in the water, the revolving wheel crushing him in a terrible manner. Finding that the wheel did not revolve properly, the person who turned on the water investigated the cause and Joaneisse was pulled out of the box. He died in a few minutes.

North Waterloo Reformers.

BERLIN, Ont., May 15.—The Reformers of North Waterloo held their convention here yesterday to nominate a candidate for the coming local election. Mr. E. W. B. Snider, the present representative, received the unanimous vote of the delegates, but declined to run. The names of R. Y. Fish, of Waterloo; Conrad Bitzer, of Berlin, and J. F. McKay, of Bloomingdale, were then voted on. On the first count Fish stood first, Bitzer second and McKay third, when the two first were balloted for, which resulted in favor of Mr. Bitzer. The final ballot was then between Messrs. Bitzer and McKay. Some of the delegates, however, claimed the mode of procedure was irregular, and the meeting adjourned until Friday next without finishing the nomination.

Prof. Dean's Portable Dairy.

GEORGETOWN, May 15.—The Esquesing farmers, with their wives and daughters, turned out in large numbers to meet Prof. H. H. Dean, of the Guelph Experimental Farm, who had his portable dairy plant working in the town hall here. Some forty samples of milk were tested, butter churned, worked and put up in pound prints. The professor explained the different stages as the work advanced. Many questions were asked and answered and great interest was manifested throughout the three hours' exhibition, and good results will be forthcoming in the dairying of this township.

Postoffice Burglarized.

SUNDRIDGE, Ont., May 15.—The express and postoffice here was broken into and burglarized on Sunday night. The burglars gained an entrance by breaking and getting through the front window. They pried the desk open but were not very richly rewarded for their trouble as they only got a little change amounting to a dollar and a half or two dollars. They were probably on the search for registered letters but got none. A number of suspicious looking characters were around town but no clue to the midnight visitors as yet.

A London Man Gives Himself Up.

BAY CITY, Mich., May 15.—Beverly Murray, of London, Ont., a brother of Geo. Murray, the alleged accomplice of Chas. W. Thayer, the embezzling clerk now serving five years in prison, walked into the police station here on Saturday night and asked if there was a warrant out for his arrest, as he had been so informed. He was answered in the affirmative. He was charged with having received $50 in gold from Thayer last January. Murray denies all knowledge of the affair and says he is ready for trial. He refuses to divulge the whereabouts of his brother.

Drowning at Perth.

PERTH, Ont., May 15.—The body of Miss Kate Brennan was found in the river here by two fishermen. She was missed from her home on Sunday evening, and it is supposed that she wandered to the river and waded out beyond her depth. Her mind has been affected for some time.

Scottish Poet Dead.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Thos. C. Latto, the best-known Scottish poet in this country, died at his residence in Brooklyn on Saturday evening. He was born in Scotland in 1818, and was one of the group of litterateurs that contributed to Blackwood's Magazine in the palmy days and helped to make it famous.

FELL OVER THE PRECIPICE

Shocking Death of a Fifteen-Year-Old Boy at Niagara Falls.

DECEIVED BY A ROTTEN LIMB

He Leaned Over the Edge to Survey the Bottom of the Precipice—The Limb Gave Way Beneath His Weight and He Dropped Like a Shot to an Awful Death.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 15.—A sad and fatal accident occurred yesterday near a point known as the "Indian path," on the bank of the river between the railway and carriage suspension bridges, in which Frank, son of John Ellis, met a terrible death.

It seems that the lad, whose age was 15 years, with another lad about his own age, named Cole, were exploring for a new path to the water's edge from the top of the precipice. Young Ellis, in order to make a survey of the bottom of the precipice, placed one foot on a limb of a tree that hung over the precipice, braced the other against the ground and leaned over to look down. As his full weight came on the partly rotten limb it gave way and his body was dashed on the rocks about 100 feet below.

His companion spread the news. A number of men, including the lad's father, soon descended to where the lad's body was, and found it terribly mangled, having struck on the side of the head, dashing his brains out. Death must have been instantaneous, his neck, both arms and legs being broken and one side of his face crushed in. The body was carried to the base of the precipice, then raised to the top of the bank.

THEY WERE OLD OFFENDERS.

This Was the Reason the American Tug Boats Were Seized.

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 15.—Ad. Bakhaus, one of the fishermen arrested last Tuesday for fishing in Canadian waters, explains that while Dr. McCormick's petty jealousy had something to do with the arrest, the chief cause was that the two tug boats seized had been blacklisted for repeated law breaking, and that the revenue cutter had been on the lookout for them for some time.

Bought Up the Senators.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The Press prints a full page article under Washington date, which it claims is a "full history of the compromise tariff bill introduced in the Senate last Monday and a full and true account of the surrender to the great trusts." The article states that the Sugar Trust not only paid $500,000 for the legislation it wanted, but also guaranteed United States Senators who speculate a rise of thirty points in Wall street on Sugar Trust stock. It is also claimed that the Standard Oil, Lead and Whiskey Trusts were cared for in the same way.

Attempt to Blow Up a Tunnel.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 15.—An attempt by the strikers to blow up the Morgan tunnel on the State Line branch of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has been made. A large quantity of dynamite was found in the tunnel, but information of a plot to destroy it was received in time to prevent the plan from being carried out. The Baltimore & Ohio Company are daily bringing hundreds of cars of coal in the region from the West Virginia mines, and to destroy the tunnel would stop such shipments for months.

A Fifteen-Year-Old Suicide.

FINDLAY, O., May 15.—Paul Ewing, aged 15, son of Dr. M. J. Ewing, of this city, committed suicide by taking 40 grains of morphine. He was in love with a young girl who would not reciprocate his affections, and so he ended his trouble. Before losing consciousness he informed his parents that two other boys had agreed with him to do the same act. The others failed to do so, however, and say they were only joking, but they are now prostrated at the result.

Butt Mill Workers Strike.

McKEESPORT, Pa., May 15.—Five hundred men and boys employed in the Butt mill of the National works struck yesterday. The strikers say the men employed in the Lapweld department joined them last night, increasing the force of strikers to several thousands. The strikers demand the restoration of a 20 per cent. reduction made when the men went to work last February. The company is unable to give an answer to the men at present.

Lumber Camp Wiped Out.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 15.—The lumber camp of Emery & O'Brien, situated in the woods back of Cammal, this county, has been wiped out by a forest fire together with a saw mill and two million feet of lumber. The drought had rendered the woods dry as tinder and the flames spread with alarming rapidity. The fire was attended by several narrow escapes.

The N. Y. Central's Coal Supply.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Referring to the Albany despatch to the effect that the N. Y. C. has only sufficient coal to last three or four days, Third Vice-President Webb yesterday said, "There is no truth in the story. We have not ordered any coal from Wales, but if it comes here people are likely to buy it."

"DINK" WILSON ELECTROCUTED.

He Leaves a Statement Clearing His Brother of Complicity.

AUBURN, N. Y., May 15.—On the morning of July 31, 1893, Detective James Howey of Syracuse, undertook to arrest two men whom he suspected as burglars. They walked along quietly with him until within 200 feet of the police station. Then suddenly one of the two men hit the detective on the head with the butt end of his revolver and the other shot him in the head. The detective was killed instantly. The men ran, and a block away separated.

Lucius R. Wilson, or "Dink" Wilson, as he is better known, one of the men, was convicted of the crime and sentenced to death. He was electrocuted in the prison here yesterday. It was a brave and painless death.

The statement given by Wilson to his attorney is as follows:

"I desire to make as my dying statement as follows: That Charlie F. Wilson, otherwise known as George Calhaun, his real name being Charlie F. Wilson, introduced as my brother, who is jointly indicted with me for the killing of James Harvey, is entirely innocent of any connection with the said Mr. James Harvey's death. He is not the man with me at the time said James Harvey met his death.—(Signed) L. R. WILSON."

This is supplemented by another communication asking Chief Wright to deliver all his goods, guns, etc., to his brother, Frank. He concludes with a postscript to Frank telling him to take things as coolly as possible, not to grieve any more than is necessary and to send tokens to the folks.

The electrocution of "Dink" Wilson was the sixth in the history of the institution, and it was as successful from a scientific point of view as any that has taken place since the law went into effect in 1889.

Not a sound was heard nor a movement observed after the fatal current was turned on beyond the usual stiffening of the body. Dink's nerve never deserted him. There was not a tremor in his voice when he spoke nor any nervous twitchings of the fingers, but he was not one whit cooler than Johnson, the colored man, who was his immediate predecessor.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

D. M. WATERS Agent, Belleville.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY MAY 15.

EAST HASTINGS.

The Conservative convention which assembled at Roslin on the 14th inst. paid to Mr. W. B. Northrup, M.P., the high but richly deserved compliment of renominating him unanimously for a second term as their representative in the House of Commons. Mr. Northrup has, as we predicted, gained a prominent place in Parliament by his eloquence and ability as one of the foremost orators in the land, and a dazzling future lies before him, to all human seeming. We heartily congratulate the brilliant young member for East Hastings on having secured so signal a mark of favor from his constituents, and trust that the brightest promise of his opening career may be fully realized.

The unanimous support of the party was tendered to Mr. W. P. Hudson, M.P.P., who has for the past three terms served the people so ably and faithfully, that he is today more popular than ever before; but, as was anticipated, he did not accept the nomination. Having removed to Belleville and entered into a new line of business, which demands his constant attention, Mr. Hudson feels that now he must give more time to his private affairs, which he has of necessity neglected to a large extent; and he has, besides, fought such hard battles that he regards with aversion the idea of taking part in a three-cornered contest which would be very severe, and of which no one could accurately foretell the result.

We hope that Mr. Hudson will once more lead the Conservatives of East Hastings to victory; but should he decide otherwise, he will retire with the respect and esteem of every elector in that riding, regardless of politics or creed.

Forewarned is Forearmed.

County Constables Johnson and Cowle left the city yesterday morning at 1:30 for Shannonville, with a warrant for the arrest of Albert Young, charged with a heinous offence. Immediately on arrival there, they were told that a rival Constable, who had accidentally become aware of the proceedings, had sent down word the day before by a man from Shannonville that a warrant was out and for Young to skip, and skip he did. He was seen during the afternoon, but soon after word got there, he was seen no more. The constables first searched the houses of the father and mother, who live apart, then the houses of some of his friends, without success. Evidently he had gone. The constables are much chagrined, as they felt sure of their man, and the crime is a monstrous one, if committed. Mr. Johnson says that a number of similar attempts have been made to thwart him, and this time he is determined to have an investigation.

BABIES HANDICAPPED

When Fed on Common Food.

Lactated Food Produces Healthy Development.

The progress and development of the infant is very often handicapped at the very beginning of its career, through ignorance and want of care. When proper nursing from a healthy breast is impossible, it is of the greatest importance to know just what to use in order to sustain and develop life. Every day, every hour, is of the utmost value in the early days of life. The infant should not be merely kept alive; it must make continual progress in growth and general development.

All starchy, heavy and irritable foods should be avoided. Common sense should dictate the use of a food easily assimilated, non-fermenting, and that will not cause bowel disorders. Science has given mothers the well-tested Lactated Food, free from all injurious ingredients, highly nutritious, non-irritating, and suited for the weakest stomach. Physicians admit that Lactated Food is the nearest approach to pure and healthy breast milk, therefore the safest and surest food for the weak and struggling infant.

At this season of the year, it is imperatively necessary to use Lactated Food for the baby, if mothers desire to preserve their dear ones from fatal summer complaints.

A Veteran of 1812.

(From the Week.)

Every addition to the historical literature of our country has its particular value to the present, in that it displays and commends to our notice the solidity of the foundation on which the superstructure of the future of Canada is being built, and by its records of the difficulties and dangers that have been overcome such literature encourages to strenuous endeavor, and nerves our people for those stern encounters that are alike the lot of nations as of individuals.

We, therefore, welcome with much cordiality the advent of such an addition to our bookshelves as "A Veteran of 1812" by Mary Agnes Fitzgibbon, of which we have been favored with a sight of the advance sheets.

Both subject and author have special claims on the attention of Canadians. The latter comes of a literary stock, the Stricklands, among whom are found several contributors, both of the ladies and gentlemen of the family, to the literature of England and Canada — notably, Miss Agnes Strickland, the well known author of "The Queens of England," a work which, as well as several others of like character, placed her in the highest rank among English writers of the fore part of the present century.

Two sisters of this lady are so well known in Canadian literature that it is hardly necessary to do more than mention their names here. Mrs. Moody, the author of "Roughing it in the Bush," and a frequent contributor to our earlier magazines; and Mrs. Traill, whose "Canadian Crusoe" is still called for, and whose splendid volume, "The Wild Flowers of Canada," is a monument of scientific and loving study of the flora of our country.

Miss Fitzgibbon herself is the daughter of Col. Fitzgibbon's eldest son and his wife, Agnes Moody, now Mrs. Chamberlain, of Ottawa, and is thus doubly equipped, both by literary inheritance and military tradition, for the task she has so gracefully performed in giving us this record of the career of one of the ablest and most remarkable officers Canada has yet known.

Inheriting her grandfather's papers, the present work has been to the author a labor of love, and in order to make it trustworthy as a history and, as a narrative of bygone times, as attractive as possible, she has spared no pains in her researches into official documents, letters, and other records which are to be found in our Dominion archives as well as scattered through the various public offices and libraries where such matter finds resting places.

The career of Col. Fitzgibbon covers an exciting period, both in England and Canada, and very wisely the authoress lets Col. Fitzgibbon, as far as possible, tell his own story. As a sergeant in the 49th—a regiment to whose laurels he was to add much in after years—he was present, under the Duke of York—at the battle of Egmont-op-Zee, where also were Brock and Sheaffe, and was there taken prisoner. Later he was with Nelson, under Sir Hyde Parker, at the battle of the Baltic in 1801. In June of the following year, the 49th, under Col. Isaac Brock, were sent to Quebec and here Fitzgibbon's services to Canada began; and his painstaking endeavors to fit himself to such work as might fall to his lot show the conscientious and faithful character of the man—an example of especial value to the young. His most remarkable service to the province of Upper Canada, where the 49th was very soon stationed after their arrival, was during the war of 1812, when owing to information received of an intended night attack upon his little company of forty-nine men who were in charge of stores at Beaver Dam, through the intrepidity of that noble and patriotic woman, Laura Secord, his rapid movements and prompt daring secured as prisoners the contingent of six hundred men, with artillery, sent under Colonel Boerstler to entrap him. This action saved the Province, and won the gallant Lieutenant a captaincy.

He was also present at Fort Schlosser, Black Rock and Lundy's Lane.

On the disbanding of the Glengarry Regiment, which he had joined during the war, Fitzgibbon received a civil appointment and his services in this capacity, as well as during the troubles of 1837, when a man of his loyalty was doubly of value, are recited in three chapters full of incident and interest alike to the general reader and the student of history.

Of Fitzgibbon's retirement from public life, his residence as a Military Knight of Windsor, and his death in England, we learn in the concluding chapter of this very fascinating book, for which we prophesy a popularity that few books yet published in Canada have attained.

To the Militia of Canada, "A Veteran of 1812" may be particularly recommended. Not only does its story captivate, but its beautiful examples of duty nobly done, of dangers bravely met, and of impossibilities made possible—of which last a very pertinent anecdote is given alike to the credit of officers and men—together with its vivid portraiture of military life, both regular and militia, in the beginning of the century, must make it at once a story and a study.

The book will be illustrated with a portrait, map and several views.

PELAGIC SCHOONER CAUGHT

The Sealer Triumph the First to Violate Sealing Regulations.

ALLOWED TO GO WITH A WARNING

She Was Boarded and Relieved of Her Gun, Spars and Log—Captain May Effectually Putting a Stop to Pelagic Sealing, Although His Actions Are Considered Illegal.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 15.—The schooner Triumph, the first of the sealing fleet to be warned against violating the new international agreement, has arrived at this port. She was spoken off Cross Sound on May 7 by H.M.S. Hyacinthe, six days after the beginning of the closed season. There was a general feeling of relief among the sealers here when the Triumph returned with a simple warning, for, from an American point of view, she was clearly liable to seizure, as she was sealing in prohibited waters.

It is an open question whether the sealer Triumph will be prosecuted for being caught in prohibited waters in the close season. The intention of Captain May, of H.M.S. Hyacinthe, was not clear when he boarded the Triumph and took the guns, spars and log from her. The proceedings were entirely unwarranted by any act. He ordered Captain Cox to report to Collector Milne, but failed to give any written instructions to either that officer or to the dockyard official. The vessel was regularly entered at the custom house, and the owners will receive the cargo of sealskins. The Hyacinthe will return to port on May 24. If Captain May desires to prosecute, it is believed the seizure will be found to be legally void. However, if Captain May is not doing business legally, it is generally conceded that he is effectively stopping pelagic sealing.

RIOTING IN DUBLIN.

Catholics Attack an Orange Funeral and a Fight Ensues.

DUBLIN, May 15.—A Catholic mob attacked an Orangemen's funeral procession on Sunday at Portadown, on the Bann. The Orangemen fought back. Revolvers and clubs were used on both sides and before the police arrived one man was shot dead and several were severely injured. The police separated the combatants, arrested fourteen men who were in the thick of the fight, and were retreating with their prisoners when the mob turned on them and tried to rescue the men under arrest. The police charged and the mob fired revolvers at them. More police were summoned and they arrested more rioters. The mob was then dispersed.

A CONSUMMATE VILLAIN.

Attempted the Life of His Prospective Bride For Her Money.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Yesterday the employes of the New Jersey Trap Rock Company, while on their way to work, discovered in the bushes along the road the insensible body of a young and fine-looking woman. Dr. King found two pistol bullets, one in the breast and the other behind the right ear of the girl. The doctor succeeded in reviving his patient. In weak gasps she gave her name as Sadie Werts of Kraft, and said she lived at Rome, N.Y., and had come to Jersey City yesterday morning with her betrothed to be married. She said the man's name was Bernard Holenberg, 22 years old, a tailor, also of Rome. He induced her to draw all her savings from the bank and leave Rome to be married. They stayed in Jersey City all day Sunday and attended church. After supper Holenberg took her for a walk and then shot her.

Everything was stripped from her body by her assailant, who doubtless left the girl for dead, and took everything that might lead to her identification or by which he might himself be traced.

Prof. Henry Morley Dead.

LONDON, May 15.—Prof. Henry Morley, L.L.D., the distinguished author and lecturer, is dead. Prof. Morley was born in London September 15, 1822. He was educated at the Moravian school on the Rhine and at King's college, London, of which college he was an honorary fellow. He practised medicine a short time in his early life, and was later editor of the Examiner in London. He was the author of a large number of works on various subjects. He was English lecturer at King's college from 1857 to 1865, professor of English language and literature at University college, London, from 1865 to 1882, and upon his retirement to Carlsbrooke in 1889 he was made emeritus professor.

A Very Remote Possibility.

LONDON, May 15.—The Times contains a letter from its Canadian correspondent which is five columns in length and treats of live Canadian matters in a most lucid and intelligent manner. Speaking of the French Canadian question the correspondent, says it is quite possible for Mr. Laurier, with the loyal support of the Liberal party throughout the Dominion, and in view of the state of the public feeling in Quebec and other eastern provinces, to become Prime Minister after the next general elections. The French Canadian question, he says, has become the crux of politics in the Dominion.

German's Want Samoa.

BERLIN, May 15.—Chancellor von Caprivi has received a petition from the German Colonial Society asking that Germany annex Samoa. The German South Sea Islands Trade and Plantation Company has declared against the action of the society, although the support was sought by the company in the first instance. The society claims that the company will be the greatest gainer by the annexation of the Islands, and will persist in its petition.

Campaign Against the Lords.

LONDON, May 15.—The executive committee of the National Liberal Federation has issued a call for a conference to be held at Leeds, on June 20, for the purpose of formulating a plan of campaign against the House of Lords. The circular calling the conference declares that the Upper House of Parliament is a standing menace to the liberties of the people and it is necessary to practically determine how that obstacle can be surmounted or removed.

Electrical Storm in Minnesota.

FERGUS FALLS, Minn., May 15.—An electrical storm of cyclonic character passed over the eastern part of this county near Henning. The cyclone lifted a section of the Northern Pacific track bodily into the air and scattered it over the surrounding country. The westbound train has been delayed in consequence and is still at Wadena. No loss of life is reported.

Seven Sailors Drowned.

BUENOS AYRES, May 15. — The small Argentine steamer Thyria, carrying 350 tons of wheat, collided three days ago with the Italian steamer Remo from Genoa, of San Pedro, Rio Grande do Sul. The Thyra went down almost immediately, and seven of her crew were drowned.

Flooded by an Open Tap.

HAMILTON, May 15.—One of the employes in Smith's clothing store left a water tap on the second storey open on Saturday night, and the sink overflowed. When the store was opened yesterday the place was flooded and several hundred dollars worth of damage done to the goods

A New Use for the Compass.

A man who has decided theories on hygienic subjects is said to carry a compass in his pocket for the proper placing of his bed when traveling. He thinks this of the utmost importance in securing perfect repose, and urges his friends to form the habit of sleeping with the head towards the north, in order to get the benefit of the electric currents which are constantly passing from north to south.

This is a very old theory, and it certainly would be well for poor sleepers to test it.

In the absence of a compass it is said that a watch may do duty for one by pointing the hour hand to the sun, when the south will be exactly half-way between the hour and the figure XII. on the dial of the watch, and of course the point directly opposite would be the north.

In houses which face east or west this method of placing the bed in sleeping-rooms is generally the one best adapted to the shape of the room, but where the exposure is north or south it might have an awkward effect.

To remedy this, set a projecting brass rod in the wall a short distance from the ceiling, and of a length equal to the width of the bed. Throw over it a long scarf, tent fashion, and push the bed up under it close to the wall.

This scarf may be made of two widths (for a single bed) of dotted Swiss or any delicate white goods, ruffled all around, or of one of the dainty colored chintzes which will bear laundering. It should reach within a foot or so of the floor, and serves to cover the back of the bedstead, which, if not of brass, might be unsightly set in this way.—Harper's Bazar.

Mothers.

As I am my mother made me.—John Q. Adams.

The mother's heart is the child's schoolroom.—H. W. Beecher.

All I am, or hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.—Lincoln.

An ounce of mother is worth a pound of clergy.—Spanish proverb.

The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother.—Napoleon.

Unhappy is the man for whom his mother has not made all other mothers venerable.—Richter.

Youth fades, love droops, the leaves of friendship fall, but a mother's secret hope outlives them all.—Holmes.

If the whole world were put into one such scale and my mother into the other, the world would kick the beam.—Lord Langdale.

I think it must be somewhere written that the virtues of mothers shall occasionally be visited on their children as well as the sins of the fathers.—Dickens.

Things That Are Told.

Soft and flabby skin gains firmness of texture by the use of cold water, to which has been added a little common salt. Vinegar and spirits of any kind used as a wash about twice a week help to keep the skin firm.

Brushing stimulates the growth of the hair and makes it glossy and soft. It also stops the hair from falling out and is the best tonic for the scalp.

To Stop Nose-Bleeding.

Chewing will stop the ordinary nose-bleeding, and the shock of dropping a cold key or a handful of pennies down the back will often give relief. In case of a severe attack syringe the nasal cavity with cold salt water. If this does not stop the flow of blood, throw the head back, raise the arm up as far as possible, and apply cold sponges to the bridge of the nose and the back of the neck.

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 15.—The bodies of W. M. Rogers and W. McDonald were found on Harquhala desert, sixty miles from here. The men were prospectors and perished from thirst while attempting to cross forty miles of desert on foot.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, May 15, 1894.

The exports of wheat from the United States for ten months ended April 30 were 141,370,000 bushels.

Foreign capital continues to flow home owing to the stagnation of business in the United States, the floating of European loans and recuperation of trade in Great Britain.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain almost nil and prices nominal. White wheat is quoted at 62c, red at 61c, and goose at 58c. Oats are quoted at 39c, barley at 40c to 42c, and peas at 65c to 66c.

The Chicago wheat market was steady, owing to the absence of English cables, and trade was up. The close showed a net gain of ¼ to ⅜c. Corn was dull, closing with a gain ⅛c. Oats were active and closed with a net gain of ¼ to ⅜c for the day.

Buffalo cattle market had 130 cars on sale. Good butcher's cattle sold at a slight advance, while heavy and export grades were dull and weaker and thin, poor cattle hard to sell. Sheep and lambs 100 cars on sale. Sheep steady, fairly active. Lambs weak, and in some cases at a decline of 10c.

In New York the Stock Exchange election overshadowed speculation. The activity was confined entirely to Sugar and Chicago Gas. Manipulators were in control of the former. It closed fractionally higher than the lowest price of the day. Chicago Gas was the only stock which showed sustained strength. The Grangers were weak and exceedingly dull. St. Paul scored the biggest decline under pressure. Burlington was almost completely neglected in the afternoon.

"She Looketh Well to the ways of her household." Yes, Solomon is right; that's what the good housekeeper everywhere does, but particularly in Canada.

But her ways are not always old ways. In fact she has discarded many unsatisfactory old ways. For instance, to-day she is using the New Shortening, instead of lard. And this is in itself a reason why "she looketh well" in another sense, for she eats no lard to cause poor digestion and a worse complexion.

Cottolene

COTTOLENE is much better than lard for all cooking purposes, as every one who has tried it declares. Have you tried it?

MONDAY, May 14th.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Association re-assembled at 1:30 p.m.

Mr. Houston gave a short talk on phonetic spelling, advocating the advisability of changing the spelling of such words as can be changed without doing violence to their history, so as to make them phonetic, illustrating by numerous examples. He then took up the subject of teaching composition, and during the discussion he said that he considered this one of the most important subjects in the curriculum for the intellectual training of pupils. When children start for school at the age of five years, they have already acquired a knowledge of the language and can use it to express their ideas and it now becomes the duty of the teacher to correct any unconventional usages they may have acquired. One of the first subjects, and one of the most important, is the careful training of children in oral composition. This should begin the first day they enter school and continue through their entire course, as a preparation for the introduction of written composition.

During a few minutes between the different parts of the subject Mr. Johnston spoke on some of the defects in teaching reading, writing, hygiene, Canadian history, geography, and how to remedy such defects. He spoke against the practice of giving notes to pupils to copy down, advised teachers to hold at least two public school examinations every year, and to spend a part of each Friday afternoon in readings, recitations and such exercises.

On resuming, Mr. Houston said the teaching of composition should form a part of every lesson taught. Pupils should be taught to think and speak while standing up, thus giving them confidence in themselves. The teaching of written composition is without doubt one of the most laborious in the whole school course, as it requires so much examining and correcting of errors. When the subject is assigned let the pupil write on it without any limitation as to form or amount written. All compositions should be written at home and in a book kept for that purpose and as far as possible corrected in class and finally re written. He then proceeded to explain his method of correcting errors and teaching the class how to avoid them.

The Institute then adjourned to meet at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday morning.

SPORTING NEWS

The Shamrocks of Peterborough defeated the Millbrook lacrosse team on Saturday, by 4 goals to 1.

In an account of a baseball match between the Dukes of Toronto and the Maple Leafs of Guelph, the Guelph Herald has the following to say of George Bradford:—Bradford stepped up to the plate and made the last hit and the last run of the day. It was the longest drive ever made on the grounds, and as the ball sailed upward and outward far beyond the reach of any fielder, and the white-haired boy legged it around the bases, deafening applause went up from the spectators, and George was the hero of the hour. He was home long before the ball reached the diamond.

The lacrosse club had so many out to practice last night that the captain decided to run two games at once in future. There were about forty stick handlers on the ground.

The "White Wings" and the "Crown" lacrosse clubs played a match yesterday. The score being 8 to 1 in favor of the "Crowns."

The bicycle track at the agricultural grounds has been put in order and several of the fast men took good substantial work last evening. One or two did fifteen miles and they say the track has a very good surface.

THE CITY WATER.

A Fair showing made in a Test at Toronto.

Prof. Shuttleworth, of Toronto, last week concluded a test of samples of water from twenty-three cities and towns, including Belleville, and the results, which are detailed in Saturday's issue of the Telegram, show that the Belleville city water is much above the average.

First was the bacteriological test, in which Belleville stood eighth. In the germ test, Belleville ranked No. 4.

Mr Bull and the "Ontario's" Report

Of the so-called failure was about as near the truth as most of the Ontario's reports are. The Bell Organ and Piano Company, of Guelph, were anxious to have somebody handle their goods here, and they sold largely to Mr. Bull. The times were hard and sales had to be made at long dates, but like most of the manufacturers, they were anxious to crowd as many of their goods upon their customer as possible, and then they wanted to see their money back as rapidly as possible. To do this sales had to be made for cash at a very little margin, and if on time, the paper had to be discounted at quite a loss. Mr. Bull found that in this way he was running behind, and so advised the firm, but they paid no attention, but kept sending him goods. A new general manager was lately appointed by the company, and he came to Belleville, and saw the situation, and agreed to take back the goods that were on hand, including five organs, two pianos, and a large stock of small goods, and Mr. Bull also gave him his horses, waggons and sleighs, and the money he had on hand. He has accepted the position of travelling salesman for another firm. He has no creditors except the Bell Company, and in time hopes to pay them the balance he owes them. Mr. Bull might have expected a more kindly report from the Grit organ, as he has been unfortunate enough for the last twenty-five years to be a supporter of that party, but like many another he may say, "spare me from my friends.

Police Court.

The wage case against Irvine Rose, which was to have been heard to day, was postponed until to-morrow, on account of the absence of the defendant.

Mrs. Clark Taylor charged Mary Smith with assaulting her little boy George, six years old, by hitting him in the face with a stick. It appeared some older boys were calling Mrs. Smith names and she struck at one of them and hit the little fellow Taylor, inflicting two severe cuts on his face. On account of the accused's weak intellect she was allowed to go, as she promised never to do it again, and the magistrate said she had better go to Trenton.

Wm. Irvine, a drunk and disorderly tramp, was dismissed.

The many years which Mr. Ray served with zeal and fidelity as assistant to the late Dr. Willson, won for him not only confidence in his probity, but his carefulness as a pharmacist, and since entering the wider spheres of merchant, a greater number of our citizens know of his reliability and have accorded him a business he has every reason to be encouraged with.

EAST HASTINGS.

MEETING OF THE CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION AT ROSLIN.

A Large and Representative Gathering—Mr. W. B. Northrup Renominated for the Commons—Mr. W. P. Hudson Tendered the Nomination for the Legislature—He Will Give an Answer Later.

Monday, the 14th inst., was the day on which nominations were to be received in the Conservative interest in East Hastings for both the Ontario Legislature and Dominion Parliament, and Roslin was the place chosen for the convention. There was a fair representation from the different parts of the riding. Amongst those present we noticed:

From Thurlow—Messrs. P. R. Daly, Pres. L. H. Con. Asso'n.; Henry Denyes, Pres. Thurlow Con. Asso'n.; Wm. Chapman, James Hamilton, C. S. Sutton, J. Buscard, Jas. Carson, S. Dominick, Jos. Haslip, Wm. Merritt, R. Vivian, Wm. Little, Geo. Barnham, J. F. Davis, Chas. Weese, R. McDonald, Wm. McDonald, Jas. Dotlin, Wm. Brownbridge, Chas. McDonald, Geo. McDonald, H'y Atkins, Jno. Carson, Erastus Davis, Edwin Davis, Wm. Moorman, Ed. McDonald, D. Sing, Wm. H. Melburn.

From Hungerford—Jno. Wilson, Wm. Elliott, sr., Wm. Elliott, jr.

From Tyendinaga—M. Hill, Henry Little, H. Geddie, D. Whillman, Robert Hill, Thos. Creeper, Jno. Blondin, Richard Lazier, A. D. Slute.

From Tweed—Wm. White, Chas. J. White, A. Robinson, Wm. Wray.

From Hungerford—Thos. Barber, Jno. Stokes, W. H. Davis, Andrew V. Kirk, S. Elliott, Wm. Elliott.

From Deseronto—Dr. Newton, W. J. Mally, A. L. Chandler, W. R. Bedford.

The President, Mr. P. R. Daly, was in the chair and in opening the meeting said that from the large attendance it was evident that the great Conservative party would never die. When they last met it was for the purpose of nominating Mr. Northrup, who carried the riding by an overwhelming majority (cheers) and he doubted not but that whoever was nominated at the meeting would be equally successful. As a practical farmer he felt that there was only one policy in the interest of the country and the farmer as well, and that was a policy of protection. (Cheers.) The farmers in Canada had a better market and received better prices than the farmers in the States, with whom the Reform party is asking us to annex our trade, if not our national interest. He deprecated the idea of a third party, which, he said, was not a success in other countries and would not be here. (Cheers)

The following resolutions were then proposed by Mr. A. L. Chandler, seconded by Mr. Elliott, and carried unanimously:

Resolved—That we, the Liberal Conservative Association of East Hastings, declare our absolute confidence in the trade policy of the Dominion Government, our complete faith in the aims of the National Policy and our full belief that in the future continuation of this fiscal policy to the trade necessities and industrial interests of this country, the present administration will not depart from the patriotic idea under which it was conceived or the lines upon which it has heretofore been carried out; and we are confident that the wise legislation which has been so marked by Sir John Thompson and colleagues, will be continued, and such legislation adopted from time to time as will advance, develop, and protect the progressing and changing interests of this country, producing still further and greater results, and widening our field of trade.

We, as an Association, have watched with pleasure the active part taken by the representative from East Hastings, Mr. W. B. Northrup, and assure him of our confidence and support.

And be it further resolved, that this Association greet with much pleasure our trusted representative in the Ontario Legislature, Mr. W. P. Hudson, and do assure him of our undiminished confidence in his integrity and worth as a representative, and also gladly endorse his actions while a member of the Legislative Assembly. And we do repose complete confidence in the integrity and high statesmanship of the honored leader of the Opposition, Mr. W. R. Meredith, and express our fervent hope that in the next Legislature of the province he will occupy that exalted position which his noble character and commanding talent have so eminently qualified him to fill and adorn.

On motion of Mr. Gillespie, seconded by Mr. Clarke, all present pledged themselves to give their hearty support to those who should receive the nomination of the convention.

Dr. Newton said that it had been his pleasure to nominate the present member for the Dominion, Mr. Northrup, and he felt that East Hastings could be proud of their representative, whom he would nominate as their standard bearer at the next Dominion election.

The nomination was seconded by Mr. Wm. Wray and carried unanimously.

Mr. Wm. White nominated Mr. W. P. Hudson for the Local Legislature, seconded by Mr. Turkington. after which the following received nominations: Messrs Wm. White, John Stokes, T. C. Lazier, Dr. Newton, N. B. Falkiner, J. F. Wills, W. C. Mikel, and P. R. Daly

Mr. Northrup, on rising, was received with loud cheers and said that it afforded him great pleasure to receive the unanimous nomination for the third time at the hands of the electors of East Hastings. He had felt for years that the party had not had justice in the lists, as prepared and that he had attempted to secure them justice and as a result at the last election there were 638 more Conservatives on the list than at the previous election. He referred to the Patrons of Industry, the members of which body, he said, had a perfect right to band themselves together in their own interest; but he felt that it was playing into the hands of the Grit party and instanced the municipal election in Hungerford, where the Conservative Patron was defeated, which would not have been the case had the Grit members of the order voted for Mr Casky. He then referred to Lanark, which formerly carried a large Conservative majority, but by splitting up the vote with a Patron candidate, whilst the Patrons did not carry the seat the Grits did. He then cited a section vote of Montague, which always gave 23 solid Grit votes and when the Conservatives ran a Patron candidate it was supposed that this vote would change, but the division gave its old time 23 Grit majority, no more, no less.

The plank of the Patron's platform tariff for revenue only was the platform of the Mackenzie Government, which a hundred thousand farmers asked them to amend and put them out of power for not so doing. He believed that a protective policy was the only policy in the true interest of the country and it was evident that Sir Oliver Mowat thought so too, for he had bonused the mining industry to the extent of $125,000. When the tariff changes were talked about we found the strongest advocates of free trade on the Reform side of the House, opposing a reduction of the duties on articles grown or manufactured in their particular locality, that would be affected by a reduction, even to Sir Richard Cartwright, who opposed a reduction of the duty on agricultural implements. He said that he would do all he could to carry the Conservative banner to victory, and if elected he would go to Ottawa pledged to support the Conservative leaders as long as their policy was, as it is now, in the interest of all classes of the community, and that they were true to the traditions passed to them by the grand old man sleeping his last sleep at Cataraqui. (Cheers.)

Mr. W. P. Hudson was received with loud cheers. He said that he felt grateful at receiving the nomination, but that he missed the faces of some of his old friends, who had joined the Patrons, and although they had wandered, he felt that they would in time return. In his position as member he had done his duty to the best of his ability, and felt that the time had come when Mr. Meredith and his supporters would occupy the treasury benches in the best interests of Ontario. (Cheers) The platform which the Conservatives had advocated for years was almost identically the same as that which the Patrons had adopted. Therefore he could not see why the Patrons were now seeking to defeat the Conservative farmers who had sat in the House during the past four years. The Patrons had a right to their opinions, but he had it from Wilson himself, he (Wilson) professed to have no politics, but that leaders in the movement were bound not to work against or defeat the Mowat Government. Mr. Curry, the Patrons' spouter, was a farmer in the west and a poor one at that, whose farm was not only mortgaged but against whom there were chattel mortgages recorded when he went into the movement, and he asked what had become of the mortgages now? Mr. Mallory, of Northumberland, was another poor farmer who was gathering his sheaves from the farmers throughout the country. The last published financial statement of the Patrons showed that they had collected $60,000, of which only $16,000 was on hand, and he asked who had benefitted from the difference? The leaders in the movement, he claimed, were the foremost in the hull-less oats swindle; and we find Mr. William Anderson, of Prince Edward, going about the country poisoning the minds of Conservatives, and supporting a platform which declares that the Senate shall be abolished, —for the reason that he is a disappointed applicant for a seat in the Senate. One clause of the Patrons' platform was that they were not fairly represented in the Legislature, when the fact was that in a House of 91 members in Ontario there 30 farmers and one manufacturer actively engaged in the business, which he considered a representation of which they should not complain. He noted that the patrons put up candidates against Conservative farmer candidates, but guarded well the interests of Grit candidates. His business interests and home obligations prevented him from feeling at liberty to accept the nomination, but when pressed to accept he asked a few days longer to consider the matter. (Cheers.)

Messrs. Stokes, White, T. C Lazier, Dr. Newton, N. B. Falkiner, J. F. Wills and W. C. Mikel all offered their best services to Mr. Hudson if he would consent to be a candidate.

Hon. Robt. Read eulogized the services of Mr. Northrup in the Commons, and hoped that Mr. Hudson would consent to be a candidate.

Mr. H. Corby, M.P., expressed the pleasure he experienced in being in East Hastings, which honored his father in the past and so nobly elected Mr. Northrup and Mr. Hudson before, and he felt would do so again. He referred to the Patrons briefly and asked why they did not put a candidate in the field in West Hastings, which he was told they would leave open for fear of defeating Mr. Biggar, the Grit member, should he be the candidate.

The meeting was closed with the usual cheers for the nominee and heads of the Government, to be again convened at the call of the President.

A REVIVAL INDEED.

Last Night's Meeting was One of the Best of the Whole.

"A splendid meeting" was the expression of many a man and woman while leaving Bridge St. Church last night. The church was well filled and the attention, as usual, was centered on the two evangelists. Mr. Hunter said they were going to visit the city commencing to-day and if you hear your door bell ring and find one of us there don't be surprised. The city has been divided into sections and will be canvassed systematically. Mr. Hunter read his lesson from Nehemiah and some of his comments thereon were: Fasting is a good thing for the soul and body. It would do these meetings good if a day was set apart for fasting and praying. Every great revival started by prayer. When God's people get on their knees then will the city be moved. Everyone can share in this good work of leading people to Christ. God has commissioned each of you to go out and bring in some unsaved soul. In many towns in which they had previously held meetings the Episcopalians had taken an active part in the services and he and Mr. Crossley had preached in the Church of England pulpit. 'Why shouldn't we? We're as good as any of them." Some people with a houseful of girls don't know what to do with them. Set them to work for God! Some people come to these services just to look on and criticize what they see and hear. They are always giving advice but never doing anything themselves. I take advice from everybody and then do as I please.

Mr. Crossley and Miss Canfield sang as a duet "Though your Sins be as Scarlet."

Mr. Hunter spoke feelingly of the death of Mr. Bullen, saying that he and his wife had sat in the meeting on Sunday night and he was then in apparent good health.

Mr. Crossley's sermon was based on Genesis xix:16, the two words being "He lingered." Lot was warned of impending danger, yet he lingered. You unsaved ones have also been warned, yet you linger. Lot believed in his danger, yet he lingered. Some of you may be like the Sodomites, who apprehended no danger. You can smile when your loved ones get anxious about your souls. But some of you, like Lot, believe in your danger. Some of you are trying to disbelieve and you will succeed in spite of the belief that you have. Lot was directed to a place of safety, yet he lingered. God does the same for you in many passages of scripture. There is only one way and that is Jesus. Lot knew how he was to secure his safety, still he lingered. You can't see how you are going to get through, but the way will open as you advance. Is it not strange that you are not saved when you know the way? Lot was laid hold of, still he lingered. Everyone of you have been laid hold of by some influence or another. Some of you are trying to do better still you linger and do not take the important step. The Lord is waiting for you. How much longer are you going to keep him waiting? Lot intended to escape, still he lingered. Many of you intend to be converted, still you linger. Lot did not like to give up Sodom. Some of you hate to give up something that is necessary before you can be saved. But Lot did decide and escaped. Some of you may decide to-night. If you are lost from Belleville, where your priveleges are so great, you will surely sink into a lower hell. Upon this decision may depend your eternal destination. There is a reporter here, not a representative of one of the local papers I refer to, but God, who is taking notes of all that transpires in these meetings.

Many stood up for prayer and the enquiry room contained one of the largest crowds of seekers in it at the close that have been there since the opening.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. MCINTEE.

TREASURE ISLAND

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

'Ben, Ben,' murmured Silver, 'to think as you've done me.'

The doctor sent back Gray for one of the pick axes, deserted, in their flight, by the mutineers; and then as we proceeded leisurely downhill to where the boats were lying, related in a few words, what had taken place. It was a story that profoundly interested Silver, and Ben Gunn, the half-idiot maroon, was the hero from beginning to end.

Ben, in his long, lonely wanderings about the island, had found the skeleton—it was he that had rifled it; he had found the treasure; he had dug it up (it was the haft of his pick ax that lay broken in the excavation); he had carried it on his back in many weary journeys, from the foot of the tall pine to a cave he had on the two-pointed hill at the north east angle of the island and there it had laid stored in safety since two months before the arrival of the 'Hispaniola.'

When the doctor had wormed this secret from him, on the afternoon of the attack, and when, next morning, he saw the anchorage deserted, he had gone to Silver, given him the chart, which was now useless—given him the stores, for Ben Gunn's cave was well supplied with goat's meat salted for himself—given anything and everything to get a chance of moving in safety from the stockade to the two-pointed hill, there to be clear of malaria and keep a guard upon the money.

'As for you, Jim,' he said, 'it went against my heart, but I did what I thought best for those who had stood by their duty; and if you were not one of those, whose fault was it?'

That morning, finding that I was to be involved in the horrid disappointment he had prepared for the mutineers, he had run all the way to the cave, and, leaving the squire to guard the captain, had taken Gray and the maroon, and started, making the diagonal across the island, to be at hand beside the pine. Soon, however, he saw that our party had the start of him; and Ben Gunn, being fleet of foot, had been dispatched in front to do his best alone. Then it had occurred to him to work upon the superstitions of his former shipmates; and he was so far successful that Gray and the doctor had come up and were ambushed before the arrival of the treasure hunters.

'Ah,' said Silver, 'it was fortunate for me that I had Hawkins here. You would have let old John be cut to bits, and never given it a thought, doctor.'

'Not a thought,' replied Dr. Livesey, cheerly.

And by this time we had reached the gigs The doctor, with the pick-ax, demolished one of them, and we all got aboard the other, and set out to go round by the sea for North Inlet.

This was a run of eight or nine miles Silver, though he was almost killed already with fatigue, was set to an oar like the rest of us, and we were soon skimming over the smooth sea. Soon we passed out of the straits and doubled the south east corner of the island, round which, four days ago, we had towed the 'Hispaniola.'

And we passed the two-pointed hill, we could see the black mouth of Ben Gunn's cave, and a figure standing by it, leaning on a musket. It was the squire; and we waved a handkerchief and gave him three cheers, in which the voice of Silver joined as heartily as any.

Three miles further, just inside the mouth of North Inlet, what should we meet but the 'Hispaniola,' cruising by herself. The last flood had lifted her; and had there been much wind, or a strong tide current, as in the southern anchorage, we should never have found her more, or found her stranded beyond help. As it was, there was little amiss, beyond the wreck of the mainsail. Another anchor was got ready, and dropped in a fathom and a half of water. We pulled round again to Rum Cove, the nearest point for Ben Gunn's treasure-house; and then Gray, single-handed, returned with the gig to the 'Hispaniola,' where he was to pass the night on guard.

A gentle slope ran up from the beach to the entrance of the cave. At the top, the squire met us. To me he was cordial and kind, saying nothing of my escapade either in the way of blame or praise. At Silver's polite salute he somewhat flushed.

'John Silver,' he said, you're a prodigious villain and impostor—a monstrous impostor, sir. I am told I am not to prosecute you. Well, then, I will not. But the dead men, sir, hang about your neck like millstones.'

'Thank you kindly, sir,' replied Long John, again saluting.

'How dare you to thank me!' cried the squire. 'It is a gross dereliction of my duty. Stand back!'

And thereupon we all entered the cave. It was a large, airy place, with a little spring and a pool of clear water, overhung with ferns. The floor was sand. Before a big fire lay Captain Smollett; and in a far corner, only duskily flickered over a blaze, I beheld great heaps of coin and quadrilaterals built of bars of gold. That was Flint's treasure that we had come so far to seek, and that had cost already the lives of seventeen men from the 'Hispaniola.' How many it had cost in the amassing, what blood and sorrow, what good ships scuttled on the deep, what brave men walking the plank blindfold, what shot of cannon, what shame and lies and cruelty, perhaps no man alive could tell. Yet there were still three upon that island—Silver, old Morgan, and Ben Gunn—who had each taken his share in these crimes, as each had hoped in vain to share in the reward.

'Come in, Jim,' said the captain. 'You're a good boy in your line, Jim; but I don't think you and me'll go to sea again. You're too much of the born favorite for me. Is that you, John Silver? What brings you here, man?'

'Come back to do my dooty, sir,' returned Silver.

'Ah!' said the captain; and that was all he said.

What a supper I had of it that night, with all my friends around me; and what a meal it was, with Ben Gunn's salted goat, and some delicacies and a bottle of old wine from the 'Hispaniola.' Never, I am sure, were people gayer or happier. And there was Silver, sitting back almost out of the fire-light, but eating heartily, prompt to spring forward when anything was wanted, even joining quietly in our laughter—the same bland, polite, obsequious seaman of the voyage out.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

AND LAST.

The next morning we fell early to work, for the transporation of this great mass of gold near a mile by land to the beach, and thence three miles by boat to the 'Hispaniola,' was a considerable task for so small a number of workmen. The three fellows still aboard upon the island did not greatly trouble us; a single sentry on the shoulder of the hill was sufficient to insure us against any sudden onslaught, and we thought, besides, they had had more than enough of fighting.

SOME IMPORTANT CHANGES

Considerable Headway Made in Committee of Ways and Means.

DISCUSSION OF THE TIMBER ITEM

Dr. Sproule Argues for the Re-imposition of an Export Duty on Saw Logs—Why Mr. Charlton is Anxious That the Duty Should Not be Imposed — Charges Against Mr. Turcotte.

OTTAWA, May 16.—The charges against A. J. Turcotte came up in the Commons yesterday, when Mr. Bruneau arose to a question of privilege, and said he believed he could establish these facts:

First, that Arthur Joseph Turcotte, a member of this House for Montmorency, and while he was a member of the House was a partner in the firm of Turcotte & Provost, which said firm, during said period, held, enjoyed and executed a contract with or for the Government of Canada, on behalf of the crown, in the name of Jean Baptiste Prevost, one of the members of the said firm, and to the said A. J. Turcotte, when a member of said firm, which said contract was for the supply of groceries and similar goods for the use of the Militia Department at Quebec.

Second, that the said A. J. Turcotte, while a member of this House, was carrying on business for his own benefit in the city of Quebec, under the firm name of Turcotte & Prevost, and during the same period he held, enjoyed and carried out a contract with or for the Government of Canada, on behalf of the crown, which said contract stood in the name of Jean Baptiste Prevost, but was in reality held for the sole use and benefit of the said A. J. Turcotte, and large sums of the public money of Canada were paid under said contract to the said A. J. Turcotte; and, although the cheques were issued therefor to the said J. B. Prevost, the proceeds thereof were received by the said A. J. Turcotte, which said contract was also for the supply of groceries and similar goods for the use of the Militia Department at Quebec.

Third, that the said A. J. Turcotte, while a member of this House, was carrying on business for his own benefit at Quebec under the firm name of "A. J. Turcotte & Co.," and during the same period he held and enjoyed and carried out a contract with, or for, the Government of Canada, on behalf of the crown, which said contract stood in the name of Jean Baptiste Prevost, but was in reality held for the sole use and benefit of the said Arthur Joseph Turcotte, and large sums of the public money of Canada were paid under said contract to said Arthur Joseph Turcotte and the benefit was received by the said Arthur Joseph Turcotte, which said contract was also for the supply of groceries and similar goods for the use of the Militia Department at Quebec.

Fourth, that the said Arthur Joseph Turcotte, while a member of this House, some time in the year 1893, was interested in contracts and argreements with the Department of Marine and Fisheries for the Government of Canada, on behalf of the crown, and large sums of public money of Canada were paid under said contracts and were received by the said Arthur Joseph Turcotte, which said contracts were for the supply of groceries and similar goods for the use of the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

I therefore move: That the matters I have stated be referred to the Select Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, to enquire into the said allegations, with power to send for persons, papers and records, and to examine witnesses under oath or affirmation, and that the said committee do report the result of their enquiries and whether the said Arthur Joseph Turcotte has vacated his seat.

On the suggestion of Sir John Thompson, the motion was allowed to stand till to-morrow as a notice of motion.

Revision of the Voters' Lists.

Hon. Mr. Laurier stated that it was within fifteen days of the time appointed by law for the revision of voters' lists, and asked if it was the intention of the Government to revise the lists?

Sir John Thompson replied that the revision would take place under the present system. No instructions had been given, except to those newly appointed, or would be given, for the reason that the law provided all that was necessary. The officers had simply to conform with the law. The bill which would shortly be introduced would not interfere with the present system. The bill was designed to make the Franchise Act conform to the redistribution of last session.

To Amend the Territories Act.

Hon. Mr. Daly moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Northwest Territories Act.

Mr. Martin complained that when the bill was before the House upon a previous occasion Hon. Mr. Daly had conducted himself in a bumptious and nasty manner, unbecoming a gentleman. By so doing he did not bring any strength or respectability to his party or the Government. He (Mr. Martin) was always willing to discuss matters of detail in a friendly spirit, but if necessary he would take hard blows from the other side and give just as hard blows in return.

Sir John Thompson said he distinctly objected to the hon. gentleman's proposition that blows should be struck. The bill itself was intended to promote good feeling and prevent blows at elections. It would seem peculiar, to say the least, if members of Parliament should come to blows over it. Probably no one member possessed the combined intelligence of the House, and the Government at least would be willing at all times to accept suggestions from the other side.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Alterations Made in the New Tariff—Duty on Saw Logs.

The House went into Committee on Ways and Means.

Picks, mattocks, grubhoes, adzes, hatchets, and poles and edge tools, n.e.s., of all descriptions, were put at a uniform rate of 35 per cent. ad valorem.

The item "shovels and spades, shovel and spade blanks and iron or steel cut to shape for same, 50 cents per dozen and 25 per cent. ad valorem" was next discussed. The item passed.

Iron, structural and special sections, weighing less that 35 pounds per lineal yard, were taken out of the 35 per cent. list and placed in the 12½ per cent. list, thus giving the preference to Canadian builders.

Celluloid lamp shade blanks were changed from 20 to 10 per cent.

The duty on stereotype plates, electrotypes and celluloids of newspaper columns and bases for the same, composed wholly or partly of metal or celluloid, was reduced from ⅞ per cent. to ⅝ per cent.

Jewel cases when not more than $2 in value will be taxed 5 cents each and 35 per cent.

Cane, reed, rattan, split or otherwise unmanufactured, was placed at 17½ per cent.

The duty on glucose or grape sugar, glucose syrup and corn syrup, or any syrups containing any other mixture thereof, was reduced to 1 cent per pound.

In textiles the item regarding shirts was made to read: Shirts costing more than $3 per doz. 25 per cent. and $1 per doz.

The item "cotton clothing and other articles made from cotton clothing, and other articles made from cotton fabrics, n.e.s., 32½ per cent." was adopted.

The Free List.

The free list was taken up. Creosoted lumber was placed on the list.

When the item of logs and round manufactured timber in the free list was reached, Dr. Sproule spoke in favor of the re-imposition of an export duty on saw logs. Since the removal of the export duty the export of logs had largely increased. The Georgian Bay district was being denuded of its best timber at the rate of fifty townships a year. The taking of these logs out of the country deprived Canada of this labor. The Americans estimated that they would this year take out of Canada 450,000,000 feet of lumber in the shape of logs. Eight thousand men were thrown out of employment every summer owing to the export of these logs. As a result of the removal of the duty fifty big mills in the Georgian Bay district had closed down. The railways and vessels of Canada lost the carrying trade under the present policy, because American tugs and tackle were brought over to Canada free of duty to tow logs to the United States ports on the lakes. The Georgian Bay fishermen complained that their nets were destroyed by the towing of the logs through Georgian Bay. Mr. Charlton was anxious that free logs should obtain because his mills were in the States. The United States alien labor law prevented Canadians following the logs to saw them in the States. He allowed his financial interests to influence his vote in Parliament.

Mr. Charlton said the re-imposition of the duty on logs would rob the many and benefit the few. He denied that Canadians were excluded from working in the United States mills.

Mr. Ingram—Will you say that the American government will allow Canadians to work in your mills at Tonawanda?

Mr. Charlton said he did not own a saw mill at Tonawanda or any place else on earth. He said he owned a planing mill at Tonawanda.

Mr. Bennett said Mr. Charlton was talking for dollars. He had made a splendid plea for American limit holders in Canada and the Ontario Government. The Ontario Government had the power to advance the dues on logs.

Mr. Charlton denied this last statement.

Mr. Bennett quoted from a speech of Mr. Charlton in the House a year ago to show that he himself then made the same assertion. He read an advertisement from a Tonawanda paper to show that Mr. Charlton did deal in round timbers. If the Government would impose a duty of $5 per 1,000 on logs 15,000 Canadians would come back from Michigan. He asked the Government not to listen to such American capitalists as Mr. Charlton. All the benefit that accrued to Canada from the present policy was that Mr. Charlton's tugs were permitted to take logs from Canada to the States on Sunday as well as other days.

The committee reported progress.

Capital Notes.

At a meeting of the Agriculture Committee yesterday Prof. Robertson, Dairy Commissioner, finished his examination, dealing principally with his experience at the World's Fair. Mr. D. M. Radcliffe, from Calgary, addressed the committee, and asked that the Government give some assistance to the small farmers of Western Alberta to purchase dairy cattle.

D. O'Connor, Ottawa, appeared before the Public Accounts Committee and was examined in regard to his legal charges. Mr. Lister conducted the examination. It appeared from investigation that the firm of O'Connor & Hogg were charging counsel fees for both members of the firm when it appeared by the record of the court that only one of them was present at the trial. This O'Connor explained by saying that he would be doing something else if not present in the court attending to the case at the department. The cases inquired into were the Hardpan and Quebec slide cases. In the latter case the fees of the firm were $2,421.

One thousand stand of the newly-converted Martini-Metford rifle, with ammunition for the same, have arrived in the city from England. This is the first instalment of the ten thousand promised by the Militia Department. Practice at the ranges with the new weapon is promised in the near future.

BASEBALL SUDDENLY STOPPED

The Fire Originated by Children in the Baseball Grounds During a Match Between the Bostons and Baltimores and Spreads With Great Rapidity—Hundreds of Families Homeless.

BOSTON, Mass., May 16.—Some small Roxbury boys set themselves up as rivals to Mrs. O'Leary's cow on the Boston baseball grounds yesterday, and as a result in less than three hours some twelve acres of territory was burned over. The baseball grand stand and bleachers, a large school house and engine house, one hundred and sixty-four wooden buildings and thirteen brick buildings were destroyed and several hundred families rendered homeless. As it had not rained for some days the spot furnished excellent ammunition for a fire. The boys set the fire and getting scared ran away, and the flames got a good start.

The second of the series of games between the Boston and Baltimores had begun when the contest was interrupted by flames which could be seen rising from the right field bleachers. The fire department was slow in getting to work, and the flames attacked the house outside the grounds on the east side and crawled along the fence. Fifteen minutes after the fire was discovered the house in the rear of the ball grounds were attacked and within an hour the whole fence on the right field side, all the seats on the bleachers, the grand stand and the ticket office, with all the wooden structures contiguous, had been destroyed.

The fire had also burned through to Tremont street, and then proceeding southerly had taken all the wooden dwellings on Burke, Coventry and Berlin streets. Having practically consumed everything on the right hand side of Tremont street, it leaped across to the other side of that thoroughfare and proceeded in the direction of Roxbury crossing. At six o'clock it had reached as far as Walpole and Sterling streets, and was burning as if not a drop of water had been put on it.

When the houses began to go before the flames the scene there beggared description. Children were crying for their mothers, and mothers wailing for their offsprings, and it was greatly feared that some of the youngsters were lost in the flames. A number of women fell on the street from exhaustion and had to be carried into the various houses in the vicinity.

Before six o'clock help had been summoned from all cities and towns within a radius of ten miles of Boston, and at 6.15 the first out-of-town apparatus arrived. Soon afterwards control of the fire was secured and the call was rescinded.

A few minutes past six a woman was seen coming from a house on Cabot street with her clothes all on fire. She made a frantic rush from the street towards the ropes, when Patrolmen Green and Lewis caught her in their arms, rolled her in the street and she escaped with only a few slight burns.

The cry was raised that five small children were in one of the burning buildings. They were rescued. Michael Welsh entered his home to save some personal effects, but the flames spread so rapidly that his escape was completely cut off. He rushed to the roof of the building and when enveloped in flames jumped to the ground, about 30 feet. He will probably recover. A number of firemen were slightly injured, and Chief Webber, who was badly injured, was taken to the city hospital.

At a special meeting of the board of aldermen in the evening it was voted to request the trustees of the Johnstown flood fund to expend through the overseers of the poor, the balance remaining in their hands for the relief of the sufferers by the conflagration. The loss is reservedly estimated at from $300,000 to $500,000, although one authority puts it at $1,000,000.

RIOTS IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Political Situation on the Island Becoming Very Serious.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 16.—The disturbances at Bay de Verde continue. Popular excitement is increasing by leaps and bounds and the whole situation is regarded as very grave, especially as it is feared that sectarianism will be dragged into the contest. This, was carried on years ago, and its resurrection at the present time may be ruinous to the future of the colony.

The Telegram accuses Morine and Morrison with trying to make sectarian capital out of the attacks on them, and also that Morine insulted the clergymen of several denominations in Bay de Verde on Saturday. The police entered the Telegram office by orders of the Chief of Police and forced employes to tear down from the windows inflammatory placards which were declared dangerous to the public peace.

On Sunday at Gull Island, Bay de Verde, the police tried to arrest the rioters, but abandoned the attempt and retired to await reinforcements. Parties accompanying the police were attacked by the Gull Islanders and stoned and beaten. The authorities have determined to arrest the rioters at all hazards, as other sections of the district might take the law into their own hands if they did not.

MARKED FOR SEIZURE.

An American Schooner Ignores the Warning of a British Patrol.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 16.—One pelagic sealer which is certain of seizure and confiscation is the American schooner Helena, of Puget Sound. News is just received that she was boarded on May 5th by Capt. May of H. M. S. Hyacinthe, and that a formal notice of warning was served on her by the captain of the British warship. The captain of the American vessel said he did not know the Britisher, and would not recognize him nor his ship, flag, warning, or orders, in any shape or form. He refused to leave the sealing grounds, and did not even call in the small boats which were working around the Helena.

The vessel is certain of seizure, the next time a British warship speaks to her, or any American patrol runs across her.

International Miners Congress.

BERLIN, May 16.—At the opening of the session of the International Miners' Congress there were present forty-one German, thirty-eight English, four French, three Belgian and two Austrian delegates, representing 1,170,000 workmen in mines. Great indignation has been aroused among the German delegates, Herrensinger, Liebknicht and the others who are also members of the Reichstag, by the remarks of the English delegate, Pickard. Mr. Pickard declared it was not the intention of himself and his fellow English delegates to support any movement to incite class against class.

LONDON, May 16.—Their old comrades and friends of the Royal Military College of Canada have just placed in the south transept of Rochester cathedral a handsome memorial to those officers of Royal Engineers who were graduated at the college, namely Capt. W. C. Stairs, Capt. H. B. Mackay and Capt. W. H. Robinson. The first two officers died of fever in Africa and Capt. Robinson was killed in an action near Sierra Leone in March, 1892. The college at Kingston has given to the army some excellent soldiers.

Canadian Sentenced in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, May 16.—John Post, a 36-year-old Canadian, was sentenced by Judge Hatch to seven years and four months in Auburn State Prison for the crime of highway robbery. Post and an unknown pal lured David Moore to Childs street on April 21 under pretence of helping him to find work, and when they reached a lonely spot, pounced upon him and relieved him of $19, all his worldly wealth.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

THE ELECTIONS.

The suspense which has been felt as to the date of the elections for the Ontario Legislature, has been relieved by the official announcement that the Legislature has been dissolved, and that the nominations will take place on Tuesday, June 19th, and the polling one week later.

The time allowed for the contest is short; but so much the better, as there will be less disturbance of business, and the time is suitable for the farmers.

It is incumbent on our friends to get their candidates into the field at the earliest possible date; and with due exertions the Bay district will improve on its record at the election of 1890, and aid in the overthrow of the Mowat dynasty, which seems to be assured.

Prime beeves sold at from 4 to 4½c per pound, pretty good stock at about 3¾c, and half fatted beasts at from 3 to 3½c per pound. There seems to be considerable enquiry for thrifty half fatted young cattle for stockers to put on grass for two or three months, but very little of this sort are being offered. Bulls were rather plentiful to-day, and some of them were very fine animals, while others were rather hard-looking. Prices ranged from a little over 2½c per pound up to nearly 4c. There was a fair demand for calves at prices ranging from $2 to $8 each.

CHEESE BOARD.

No Weighman to be Appointed—A Large Board—A Good Price.

The regular meeting of the cheese board was held on Tuesday afternoon, President John Tanner in the chair. The auditors' report for 1893 showed: Receipts, $117 55; expenditure, $106.34; balance on hand, $11 21.

The committee appointed at last meeting to report as to the appointment of a public weighman, presented the following report:

BELLEVILLE, May 12th, 1894.

We find the general causes of light weight are as follows:

1 The anxiety of cheese makers to show a big average yield.

2 The weighing and boxing of cheese two or three days before shipping.

3 From cheese being weighed on scales which are not properly balanced, or which have been used in weighing salt and other things.

We do not entirely blame the cheese makers for the aforegoing, as we consider the presidents largely to blame for not providing suitable scales and expecting the cheese maker to give too large a return for the milk.

Neither do we entirely blame the cheese makers and presidents, as we know of cases in which buyers, when they have paid too high a price for the cheese, have tried to reduce the price by claiming weights to cover up the excess paid in price.

We also find the majority of the presidents have no complaints to make regarding the present system of weighing. We have carefully considered the matter of appointing an independent weigher in case of dispute between buyer and seller, and while admitting the advisability of appointing a special weighmaster, we have come to the conclusion that it is not right that factorymen who habitually give correct weight should pay anything towards the maintenance of the weigher, and that the entire cost should rest on factorymen giving short weight.

J. M. HURLEY,
WM. MEIKLEJOHN,
(Signed) M. ROBINSON,
J. R BROWER,
JOHN T. WARRINGTON, JR.

It was decided by a vote of those present not to appoint a public weighman.

BY THE SOUNDING SEA.

Terrible Experience of a Liverpool, N. S., Man—Fell a Victim to Ill Health—Discusses His Illness and the Remedy That Cured Him.

We have heard of many instances in our locality, says the Liverpool, N. S., Times, where much benefit has followed the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and lately one of our citizens, Mr. J. F. Jayne, has been so much benefitted that his case is worthy of special mention. To the editor of the Times Mr. Jayne said that he had suffered very much and frequently felt like giving up. His whole system was badly run down; his blood thin and watery, and the least exertion completely used him up. His appetite failed him, and a feeling of almost continual drowsiness troubled him. He tried several remedies said to be good in such cases, but without any benefical results. Hearing of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, he procured a couple of boxes, and before the second was gone, he felt the beneficial effects. He continued their use until he had taken seven boxes, by which time he felt better than he had been in years. To use Mr. Jayne's words, he said: "The result following the use of Pink Pills was really wonderful. I feel better than I have in years, my appetite has returned, the drowsiness and lassitude which formerly made me miserable have disappeared, and I feel as though new blood were coursing through the veins. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be kept in every family, and having felt their remarkable virtue in my own case, I cannot too highly recommend them."

An impoverished condition of the blood, or a disordered condition of the nerves are the fruitful sources of most ills that affect mankind, and to any thus affected Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a speedy and certain cure. No other remedy has ever met with such great and continued success, which is one of the strongest proofs that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills accomplish all that is claimed for them. Sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark. They are never sold in bulk, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form should be avoided. These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail at either address, at 50 cents or six boxes for $2 50

KILLED BY HER CRAZY SON

He Caressed His Aged Mother, Then Stabbed Her to the Heart.

OTHERS WOUNDED BY HIS KNIFE

In a Desperate Frenzy the Maniac Chases Madly Through the Streets Stabbing and Striking All in His Way—He Severely Wounds Four People Before Being Overpowered.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 16.—Eugene Brady, a maniac, killed his mother, aged 65, in a fit of violence and attempted to kill four other persons. With three knives in his hands he ran wildly around the streets cutting right and left, assaulting every one whom he met. Before the police overpowered him he had cut his sister-in-law, Mrs. James Brady, Alfred J. V. Werner, Mrs. John Kelly and Patrick Rice. Mrs. Kelly's wounds are serious but it is not thought they will prove fatal.

Eugene Brady began quarrelling with his mother and sisters for no apparent reason and they soon determined that he was not in his right mind as Brady's father had been insane and was released from an asylum but a short time ago. The daughter Jennie went to a near-by lumber yard and asked that some of the employes be sent to the house to quiet her brother. The proprietor and two employes repaired to the house and found Brady in the kitchen on the ground floor yelling at those around him and threatening to kill them. When the men entered the house Brady ran upstairs and jumped from a second story window. The men ran outside and picked him up, carried him into the house, placed him on a lounge and bathed his head. He revived in a few minutes and before he could be stopped, jumped up and grabbed a common case knife, a can opener and carving knife.

He then ran out of the house and began a wild and terrible chase through the neighborhood. He carried the case knife and can opener in one hand and the carving knife in the other. His mother and sister had followed him, and at the corner of Vine and Green street, a man tried to strike Brady. The sister held his hand and cried "Don't strike him," preventing him from doing so. But for her act the murder might have been prevented.

The mother now came running up and caught hold of her son's arm. The infuriated man now became calm and dropped all but the carving knife. The two then walked back to the house and when they reached the yard in which his home was Brady threw his arms around his mother's neck and kissed her. He then plunged the long knife into her breast, striking her to the heart, and she died in a few minutes. His sister-in-law was standing near and he slashed at her, the knife catching her on the right arm. At least 200 people saw the murder. Brady then started on another wild chase for a number of blocks. He was followed by a dozen men who wanted to capture him, but when he turned upon them they fled. A. J. V. Werner who tried to stop him received a bad knife wound on the arm. On Gansevoort street, Patrick Rice was painting the stoop of a house. As he was bending over Brady came up on him and plunged the knife into his right hip. The wound is not serious.

Brady continued on and his next victim was Mrs. John Kelly, who ran into her house as Brady approached. The latter followed and plunged the knife into her back twice as she was running up the stairs. Her wounds are not fatal. His pursuers were closing in on him now, when the police patrol wagon then came along. It took four men to get him in the patrol wagon. He was taken to the jail and locked up. He was a horrible sight, being covered with blood and his clothes being torn from his back.

MONTREAL LIBEL SUIT.

Judge Taschereau's Judgment in the St. Louis v. Ayotte Case.

MONTREAL, May 16.—Justice Taschereau has rendered an interesting judgment dismissing a reply in law to defendant's plea in the action of Horace St. Louis v. Ayotte, editor of Le Trifluvien, of Three Rivers. Le Trifluvien published an article commending Father Lacasses' work, "Dans le Camp Ennemi," particularly that part of it wherein Mr. St. Louis was stigmatized a bad Catholic and deserving of excommunication on account of his occupying the position of counsel for the Canada Revue Company in their now celebrated action against Archbishop Fabre. Mr. St. Louis sues Le Trifluvien's editor for $200 damages. The latter pleads mainly the truth of the statements that Mr. St. Louis is a bad Catholic. Mr. St. Louis' reply in law asked that the defence be rejected on the ground that the truth of an injurious statement was no justification for its circulation. The judge expressed himself strongly in favor of this view, but declared he was obliged to be guided by the jurisprudence established by the Court of Appeal in recent decisions and reserve the case for trial on its merits, to give the defendant opportunity to prove, if possible, the truth of the alleged injurious statement.

TAKING COAL FROM CANADA.

Coal Companies Intend Fighting the Strike to a Finish.

NEW YORK, May 16.—There has been 50,000 tons of English and Nova Scotia coal sold to arrive in New York, a portion of which has already been shipped from Cardiff, Liverpool and Glasgow, and from Sidney, Nova Scotia. The cost is within 45 to 50 cents per ton of the ordinary price of soft steamer coal delivered alongside New York. The bulk of this has been taken by the companies supplying steamers to fill their contracts.

Negotiations are on foot for the purchase of 100,000 tons more to be delivered here between the first and tenth of June by the same parties for the same purpose. From this fact it is inferred that coal companies intend fighting the strike to the finish. The present low rates of ocean freight make the operation possible to bring coal from England in unlimited quantities and at competing prices even by steam, as very little freight is now coming this way.

Brazil's Offence at Portugal.

LISBON, May 16.—Two ministers' councils were held for the purpose of considering the situation of the diplomatic relations between Portugal and Brazil. At the final meeting it was resolved to publish officially all documents and correspondence bearing on the subjects which led up to the rupture. The government of Portugal considers that it has done its utmost to satisfy the demands of Brazil in dismissing the commanders of the warships Mindella and Alfonso Albuquerque for the offence of allowing the insurgent officers on board those vessels to escape at Montevideo, and believes that the present differences will be settled amicably, Portugal earnestly desiring to maintain friendly relations with Brazil.

The War in Salvador.

SAN SALVADOR, May 16.—Gen. Joaquin Lopez, who displayed great bravery at the battle of Chalchuahua, has been ordered to take command in San Sonate, where it is thought the rebels will make their last stand. The greater part of Santa Ana is destroyed. The rebels there are said to be surrounded. President Ezeta has returned and turned over the command of the army to his brother, Antonio, who is still suffering from wounds. At a banquet on Sunday leading army officers pledged loyalty to the President. It is believed that he will go abroad later, leaving the government in the hands of his brother.

The lapels in the Eton reefer are of exaggerated size, and give the garment a very novel air.

All-white Irish-point embroideries are of open pattern, and many of them are wrought in Vandykes. They are the handsomest of this class of trimmings.

A silk season is predicted for the next summer, especially of the very light silks that are made in this country, the taffeta, demi-taffetas, lute-string, foulard, or the so-called China silks, and the useful surahs.

Soft gray effects are charming in the new silks, and will rival the clearly-defined white and black silks that came into favor last summer. These grays are very effective in bengaline stripes of satin and moire pointille with yellow or rose color, or else with the gay pompadour blossoms strewn upon them.

Lightning Claims Many Victims.

BERLIN, May 16.—A terrific thunderstorm passed over a portion of Prussian Silesia, killing a number of persons and doing much damage to property. At Buntzlau, the burgomaster, Werner, and six others were struck by lightning and killed, and several other fatal cases of lightning stroke are reported from the interior.

Variety Store Destroyed.

HAMILTON, May 16.—A fire broke out in H. C. Chappell's hardware and general variety store and in a very short space of time the lower flat, containing goods to the value of about $1,400, was destroyed. A couple of small kegs of powder exploded and blew the windows on to the street. The loss will be between $1,500 and $2,000 on stock, which is insured for $2,000.

Brockville Patrons.

LYN, Ont., May 16.—The Patrons of Industry of Brockville riding met yesterday to consider the advisability of nominating a candidate for the coming election. It was decided at present not to place a candidate in the field.

An Artist Suicides.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Henry Alexander, an artist, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. He was in poor circumstances and was despondent.

British Columbia Farming.

MONTREAL, May 16.—Right Rev. D. D. Ridley, D.D., Anglican bishop of Columbia, is in the city on his way to England with his wife, and is to remain away a year. In an interview he said that the Chinese in British Columbia can outdo the small farmer, and he would not advise the latter to go there. What is wanted is farmers on a large scale to go in for ranching. There is a large labor supply and he does not advise settlers going there.

Six Excursionists Drowned.

LONDON, May 16.—A party of eleven Whitsuntide excursionists started from Ipswich for a boating trip on the river Orwell. Through mismanagement the boat capsized and six of the party were drowned.

Coxeyites Will be Sentenced.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Judge Miller has denied the motion for a new trial in the cases of Coxey, Browne and Jones, the commonwealers, and has ordered the defendants to appear to-morrow for sentence.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 16, 1894.

Cables report the Liverpool cattle market depressed with large supplies. Best Canadians sell on a basis of 9¼ to 9½c Liverpool.

The amount of wheat on passage to Europe is 45,344,000 bushels, an increase of 392,000 bushels for the week. A year ago the amount afloat was 41,264,000 bushels.

At Buffalo cattle were quiet. Sheep and lambs—Active trade about cleaned up the receipts of sale stock, which with late arrivals swelled amount to 117 cars. Market steady and firm with good demand.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain were limited and prices steady. Two loads of white wheat sold at 60c and 63c straight; red is quoted at 61c and goose at 58c. Oats steady, 400 bushels selling at 38½c to 39½c. One load of peas sold at 66c.

In Chicago wheat declined and at the end of the session was 1 to 1½c below Monday's final figures, breaking the record for low price again. Selling out of long wheat propelled prices on their descent, lower cables being the main feature of the discouraging news. Corn followed wheat and closed with a net loss of ⅛ to ¼c for the day. Cash oats were stronger, closing ⅛ to ½c higher.

The most significant feature of the day's operation at the New York Stock Exchange was the impression the bears were enabled to make on prices because of moderate liquidations. There were dribblings of long stock in Missouri, Pacific, Atchison and Sugar. Missouri Pacific was the feature and fell off 2¼ per cent. The Grangers, Trunk lines and anthracite coalers lost ¼ to 1¼ per cent. The general market closed weak and 1-8 and 2¼ per cent. lower for the day.

COOPER.

Everything looks beautiful in this corner of Madoc township. The fruit trees are in full bloom and if the high winds we are having do not hurt them the crop will be over the average this year. The grain is good and the meadows are the better of the showers that fell last week.—The Gilmour and Rathbun companies have men driving their logs through Black Creek, but the winds have not been very favorable for them this past week.—The carpenters are going to be busy with us this summer, some of our wealthy farmers are tearing down their old barns and are going to build greater. Mr. Jas. Cassidy is the first to think his old barn too small and has it torn down, and on Saturday last raised a new one—the largest in the township. The building is 40x70, with 34 feet post, with hip roof. There were about ninety men to lend a helping hand and everything went smoothly with the exception of a slight injury to W. K. Blair. He may have a sore arm and shoulder for a few days.—Our cheese factory is turning out a good number of cheese and a good deal more milk is received than at this time previous years. The lucky farmers that sent milk through the month of April are smacking their lips at the returns they will receive for that month.—Our famous school teacher, P. D. Vankleek, has introduced the first wheel in this part. He can go where he likes, but the mistake he made when buying it is that it "was not built for two."—Mrs. Wm. Mcknight was very ill, but we are glad to learn that she is recovering.—Mr. James Laffan, of Everett, Mich., is at home visiting his father and finds he has been away twelve years, and no doubt notices a good many changes in that time around the old homestead.—Mr. Wm. John Allen has added a new piece of furniture in his house, a first-class piano. This is the first in the neighborhood, still there's more to follow.—Mr. Robt. Caskey, of Hungerford, and John Caskey, of Madoc, were visiting their sister, Mrs. Wm. J. Allen, on Saturday last.

CAMPBELLFORD.

May 15.—Burglars were at work here last night. The stores of Mr. Jas. Benon and Patrick Heaney were broken into, and a lot of boots, shoes, and groceries were taken from the former, and from Mr. Heaney a quantity of liquors. The parties are well known in this town, and were found in an old house a little below the village in a state of drunkenness, and were easily captured. They were brought before the Police Magistrate, Mr. Lynch, this morning, and not being in a fit state for examination, were remanded until 4 p. m.

HENRY BIRKS & SONS, Jewellers,

—IN THEIR NEW BUILDING—

Phillips Square and St. Catherine St.

THE LARGE AND CONSTANTLY growing business of this firm is due, among other reasons, to the ample capital and immense importations of diamonds, selected by their own buyers in the best foreign markets. The handling of these in large quantities enables them to import fine qualities at a lower price than in smaller deals, the poorer qualities could be bought.

Aside from this, their factory on the premises enables them, in many lines of goods, to save both factory and middle men's profits.

A speciality is made of letter orders. When correspondents give an idea of the article wanted and an approximate price desired, a careful selection is sent on approval with the understanding that nothing need be taken.

THE TIDE RISES.

'IF THERE'S NO DEVIL, WHY ALL THE DEVILTRY?'

Another Full House—Strangers From a Distance—The Inquiry Room Filled—House to House Visitation—A Trenton Excursion.

A great many new faces were seen amongst the hundreds in Bridge St. church last night. Amongst others were noticed Sheriff Broddy, of Brampton, the Rev. W. F. Wilson, of Toronto, and a number of well known citizens of Trenton.

The Rev. J L George in making the announcements said that a canvass of the city had been commenced that day, that everywhere the ladies and gentlemen who were visiting from house to house had been received in the kindest way, and the result of the visits was to show that the city was in sympathy with the meetings.

Mr. Hunter prefaced his reading of the scriptures by asking the question, "If a boy was drowning in the bay, what would you think of the man who would stand criticising and fault-finding with the methods of those who were trying to save him? So it is with some; in these meetings some whom everybody ought to be glad to see were giving up a life of sin that was ruining them for both worlds, and yet they stand finding fault with the way it was being done instead of rejoicing at the fact. Luke 8: 40 to end was the lesson. A few of Mr. Hunter's remarks were: As soon as you are converted go and tell someone else. Jesus was a very busy man. His eye was ever open for those in sorrow or trouble. Jesus Christ had his favorites. Peter, James and John were the inner circle of the circle of the twelve apostles. So we can't love everybody alike. We are not to hate anybody, but there are degrees of love. Whatever God sends to us is in love. Many a person has been led to think of God in trouble, bereavement or grief who had not thought of Him before. In this lesson Christ conquered three things,

Devil
Disease
Death

We must invite Jesus. He won't force Himself upon us. He will knock, it is for us to open. Some of us have no room for Jesus in our homes. God pity the boy or girl brought up in a home where Jesus is not a guest. Some of us have no room for Jesus in our politics. I say turn the rascals out on both sides. I will not vote for anyone who will not promise to do away with the drink traffic. I hate it; it broke my mother's heart. If the christians of this country would rise and unite the politicians would soon be glad to give us prohibition. Some of us have no room for Jesus in our amusements. If Jesus Christ came to earth to day there are some churches that wouldn't let him in because he was not ordained their way.

Mr. Crossley's sermon was a song sermon during which he sang several beautiful and appropriate hymns. His text was Exodus xxxii:26—"Who is on the Lord's side?' There are only two sides, the right and the wrong — God's side and the devil's. If there is no devil, as some say, how is it there is so much deviltry? Who are on the Lord's side? 1, All children; 2, all boys and girls who have not wilfully gone from right; 3, all who have turned from wrong, given it up and asked and received from Christ pardon. You need not be in any doubt about this, test yourself by the question, "Whom do I yield to?" Why is it that everyone does not come to God? One says "I couldn't stick to it." Why, it is not you that keeps yourself, it is the mighty grace of God and He says, "My grace shall be sufficient for you." Another says, "I don't know how to come," Jesus says to that one "I am the way, the truth and the life," come to Him and assuredly you shall find Him. Some object to the tests put in meetings of this kind, the tests to "stand up," "come forward," "go into the inquiry room." These are but another way of putting the tests made by Moses and Elijah "Who is on the Lord's side?"

NOTES.

Bro. Young, of the Trenton Courier, was a conspicuous figure in the meeting.

The Rev. F. Johnson, of Colborne, was present.

In response to Mr. Hunter's request all joined in singing the Doxology, expressive of their gratitude for the over 500 names now received of those who said they were going to live Christians.

No less than three excursions on Friday evening.

There is to be a reception service in Bridge st. church on Sunday morning.

Over sixty names were given to the secretary as a result of Monday night's meeting.

Mr. Crossley's and Mr. Canfield's duet "Come to Me, ye Weary" was much admired. Mr. Crossley's voice is again all right.

An Improved Dressing-Comb.

The need of some material to replace horn or rubber for dressing-combs has long been felt. The use of nickel silver for this purpose has been recently tried, and it proves superior in several respects, being more durable than other material, and no more expensive. A stock of these direct from the factory, was yesterday received by L. W. Yeomans & Co.

CARMEL.

Benedict on Saturday and Sunday.—Miss Nellie Meyers, of Sidney, has been spending a few days with her cousin, Miss Aggie Hawley, —Mr. and Mrs. H. Cummings, of Plainfield, spent Sunday at Albert Ross's.—Mr. and Mrs. F. Garrison spent Sunday here with friends.—A large proportion of the Carmel people went to the city on Sunday evening to attend the services held by the evangelists, Crossley and Hunter.—The fruit trees are in blossom, and one would judge by the looks of the trees that there would be an abundance of fruit this year.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gilbert spent Saturday and Sunday at Point Ann.—Mr. and Mrs. Nobes, of Plainfield, attended services at Carmel on Sunday evening.

ADAMS.

South Hastings Teachers' Association.

TUESDAY, May 15th.

FORENOON SESSION.

The Association met at 8:30 a.m. The first subject taken up by Mr. Houston was the teaching of grammar. He explained the difference between grammar, philology, rhetoric and prosody. He then compared the present system of teaching grammar with the one in use thirty years ago.

Just at this time Mr. Armistead, who was to take the subject of teaching music in the public school, entered with a class of pupils from his school. Mr. Houston gave way and Mr. Armistead read a very interesting paper on the subject of music, showing the benefits to be derived from teaching it in the school. He then proceeded to illustrate his method of teaching this subject by his class, explaining each step. By means of a series of charts, which Mr. Armistead has specially prepared for use in his school, he gave a practical illustration of what wonderful progress can be made in a few months with a class of bright little boys and girls. The class then sang The Maple Leaf Forever, in which Miss Violet Durand and Miss Addie Harkins sang the air and the rest of the class joined in the chorus, in which the different parts were sung. In closing they sang the Lord's Prayer. The class consisted of the following pupils: Violet Durand, Gracie Cook, Vivian Gill, Freda Chapman, Ella Mills, Isa Moore, Lillie Elvins, Ella Hudgins, Arthur Northrup, Wilber Cornelius, Harry Finkle, Cecil Madden and Alfred Luscombe.

In continuing the subject of grammar Mr. Houston said that he would not put a text book on grammar in the hands of a pupil, because it precludes the possibility of original investigation. He gave a very instructive talk of over two hours' length on the teaching of grammar, philology, rhetoric and prosody, illustrating by numerous examples. In closing his address he spoke strongly against the practice that prevails of cramming pupils for examinations, for those that are intelligently taught would stand a far better chance of passing than those who had been crammed for these examinations.

Dr. Wright followed and said that he fully concurred in all that Mr. Houston had said concerning the practice.

The Institute then adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The first subject taken up was literature. Mr. Houston said that the study of literature should be confined almost entirely to poetry, and that whole poems should be given for study and not extracts. This study should tend to the culture of skill, knowledge and a literary taste. He then entered into a critical study of Longfellow's Resignation, and Lowell's Changeling.

On motion of Mr. O. S. Hicks, seconded by Mr. J. W. Dafoe, and supported by short speeches from Dr. Wright and Mr. Mackintosh, I.P.S., North Hastings, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Houston for his very able and instructive addresses.

Mr. Houston gave a suitable reply.

Mr. Fairman moved, seconded by Mr. Solmes, that a vote of thanks be also tendered Mr. Armistead for the efficient manner in which he explained his method of teaching music, and also to his pupils, who acquitted themselves so well in the presence of such a large number as was assembled there.

Short congratulatory speeches were given by Rev. Mr. McCamus and Mr. Mackintosh, I.P.S., and the Institute adjourned.

Mr. Houston took the evening train for Toronto.

On Thursday and Friday he holds an institute in Madoc.

Faull at the parsonage, Belleville, on Wednesday. Congratulations are offered by their many friends for a happy married life.—Mr. and Miss Guffin, of Halloway, spent Sunday with their sister Mrs. P. M. Fairman.—Our rural pedagogues are in attendance at the teachers' convention.—Mr. and Mrs. Blake Fletcher, of Trenton, spent Sunday with their father, Mr. Geo. Brooker, of Deseronto, spent Sunday with friends.—Mr. Harry and Miss Harry and Miss Amy Foster, of Chapman, spent Sunday with friends.—Miss Baker attended the teachers' convention.

A SURGEON'S KNIFE

gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that RUPTURE or Breach, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, chafing trusses can be thrown away! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. For pamphlet, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Obituary.

ROBERT PATTERSON

After a lingering and painful illness of three years, which he bore with patience and resignation, Robert Patterson passed peaceably away on April 15th, at the residence of his son in law, Robt. Kingston.

He was a great sufferer, the result of a broken limb, but was always cheerful and patient. It was a pleasure to visit him during his illness, to see how resigned he was, and satisfied to wait the Lord's time. He never seemed to think of himself, but to pity those that were waiting on him. He was a man of exemplary habits, genial and sociable, respected by all who knew him.

Deceased was born in the County Tyrone, Ireland, in 1815; he came to this country in 1837, lived a few years in Fredericksburg, and served as a volunteer at the time of the Invasion at Prescott. He was one of those sent to Toronto to guard the specie sent by the English Government. In politics he was a staunch Conservative. In the year 1842 he married Miss Elizabeth Armstrong, sister of Henry and the late Thos. Armstrong, Bath; after marriage he settled in the township of Rawdon and lived there until his family were all grown up and married except the youngest son; sold his farm and removed to Roslin, residing there until the death of his wife in 1885, which was a severe trial to him. She was a noble christian woman of quiet, unassuming manners, beloved by all. He then settled his business, retiring with a competency, and spent the remainder of his days with his eldest daughter, Mrs. R. Kingston, who waited upon and nursed him faithfully for the three years of his illness, assisted by his other daughters, striving to do all they could to alleviate his sufferings. He leaves three sons and three daughters to mourn the loss of a kind father, viz, Samuel Patterson, Stirling; Mrs. Robt. Kingston, West Huntingdon; Mrs. Philip Brown, Ivanhoe; J. H. Patterson, Newburg; Mrs. Geo. Hagerman, Stirling; and Thos. A. Patterson, Minneapolis. The funeral took place on Tuesday, April 17th, at West Huntingdon, where a large circle of relatives and friends gathered to pay the last tribute of respect. The Rev. T. P. Steel preached a very impressive sermon from 1 Cor. xv., 55, 56, after which the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery, there to await the resurrection morn.

Rest, weary head!
Lie down to slumber in the silent tomb;
Light from above has broken through its gloom;
Here, in the place where once thy Saviour lay,
Where He shall wake thee on a future day,
Like a tired child upon its mother's breast,
Rest, sweetly rest.

Rest, spirit free!
In the green pastures of the heavenly shore,
Where sin and sorrow can approach no more;
With all the flock by the good Shepherd fed,
Beside the streams of life eternal led,
Forever with thy God and Saviour blest,
Rest, sweetly rest.

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time travelling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. McINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Jas Shannon Leaskdale, writes:—'For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used.'

TREASURE ISLAND

PART VI.

CAPTAIN SILVER.

Therefore the work was pushed on briskly. Gray and Ben Gunn came and went with the boat, while the rest during their absence piled treasure on the beach. Two of the bars, slung in a rope's-end, made a good load for a grown man—one that he was glad to walk slowly with. For my part, as I was not much use at carrying, I was kept busy all day in the cave, packing the minted money into bread-bags.

It was a strange collection, little Billy Bones hoard for the diversity of coinage, but so much larger and so much more varied that I think I never had more pleasure than in sorting them. English, French, Spanish, Portugues, Georgees, and Louises, doubloons and double guineas and moidores and sequins, the pictures of all the kings of Europe for the last one hundred years, strange Oriental pieces stamped with what looked like wisps of string on bits of spider's web, round pieces and square pieces, and pieces bored through the middle, as if to wear them round your neck—nearly every variety of money in the world must, I think, have found a place in that collection; and for number, I am sure they were like Autumn leaves, so that my back ached with a stooping and my fingers with sorting them out.

Day after day this work went on; by every evening a fortune had been stowed aboard, but there was another fortune waiting for the morrow; and all this time we heard nothing of the three surviving mutineers.

At last—I think it was on the third night—the doctor and I were strolling on the shoulder of the hill where it overlooks the lowlands of the isle, when, from out the thick darkness below, the wind brought us a noise between shrieking and singing. It was only a snatch that reached our ears, followed by the former silence.

'Heaven forgive them,' said the doctor, ''Tis the mutineers!'

'All drunk, sir,' struck in the voice of Silver from behind us.

Silver, I should say, was allowed his entire liberty, and, in spite of daily rebuffs, seemed to regard himself once more as quite a privileged and friendly dependent. Indeed, it was remarkable how well he bore these slights, and with what unwearying politeness he kept at trying to ingratiate himself with all. Yet, I think, none treated him better than a dog unless it was Ben Gunn, who was still terribly afraid of his old quarter-master, or myself, who had really something to thank him for; although for that matter, I suppose, I had reason to think even worse of him than anybody else, for I had seen him meditating a fresh treachery upon the plateau. Accordingly, it was pretty gruffly that the doctor answered him.

'Drunk or raving!' said he.

'Right you were sir,' replied Silver; 'and precious little odds which, to you and me.'

'I suppose you would hardly ask me to call you a human man,' returned the doctor, with a sneer, 'and so my feelings may surprise you, Master Silver. But if I were sure they were raving—as I am morally certain one, at least, of them is down with the fever—I should leave this camp, and, at whatever risk to my own carcass, take them the assistance of my skill.'

'Ask your pardon, sir, you would be very wrong,' quoth Silver. 'You would lose your precious life, and you may lay to that. I'm on your side now, hand and glove; and I shouldn't wish for to see the party weakened, let alone yourself, see as I know as I owes you. But these men down there couldn't keep their word—no, not supposing they wished to; and what's more, they couldn't believe as you could.'

'No,' said the doctor. 'You're the man to keep your word, we know that.'

Well, that was about the last news we had of the three pirates. Only once we heard a gunshot a great way off, and supposed them to be hunting. A council was held, and it was decided that we must desert them on the island—to the huge glee, I must say, of Ben Gunn, and with the strong approval of Gray. We left a good stock of powder and shot, the bulk of the salt goat, a few packets of medicines, and some other necessaries, tools, clothing, a spare sail, a fathom or two of rope, and, by the particular desire of the doctor, a handsome present of tobacco.

That was about the last thing on the island. Before that we had got the treasure stowed, and had shipped enough water and the remainder of the goat meat in case of any distress, and at last, one fine morning, we weighed anchor, which was about all that we could manage, and stood out of North Inlet, the same colors flying that the captain had flown and fought under at the palisade.

The three fellows must have been watching us closer than we had thought for, as we soon had proved. For, coming through the narrows, we had to lie very near the southern point, and there we saw all three of them on a spit of sand, with their arms raised in supplication. It went to all our hearts, I think, to leave them in that wretched condition, but we could not risk another mutiny, and to take them home for the gibbet would have been a rather cruel sort of kindness. The doctor hailed them and told them of the stores we had left, and where they were to find them, but they continued to call us by name, and appeal to us for God's sake, to be merciful, and not leave them to die in such a place.

At last, seeing the ship still bore on her course, and was now swiftly drawing out of ear shot, one of them—I know not which it was—leaped to his feet with a hoarse cry, whipped his musket to his shoulder, and sent a shot whistling over Silver's head and through the mainsail.

After that we kept under cover of the bulwarks, and when next I looked out they had disappeared from the spit, and the spit itself had almost melted out of sight in the growing distance. That was, at least, the end of that, and before noon, to my inexpressible joy, the highest rock of Treasure Island had sunk into the blue round sea.

We were so short of men that every one on board had to bear a hand—only the captain lying on a mattress in the stern and giving his orders; for, through greatly recovered, he was still in want of quiet. We laid her head for the nearest port in Spanish America, for we could not risk the voyage home without fresh hands, and as it was what with baffling winds and a couple of fresh gales, we were all worn out before we reached it.

It was just at sundown when we cast anchor in a most beautiful land-locked gulf, and were immediately surrounded by shore-boats full of negroes, and Mexican Indians and half-bloods, selling fruits and vegetable, and offering to dive for bits of money. The sight of so many good-humored faces (especially the blacks), the taste of the tropical fruits, and above all, the lights that began to shine in town, made a most charming contrast to our dark and bloody sojourn on the island; and the doctor and the squire, taking me along with them, went ashore to pass the early part of the night. Here they met the captain of an English man-of war, fell in talk with him, went on board his ship, and, in short, had so agreeable a time, that day was breaking when we came alongside the 'Hispaniola.'

Ben Gunn was on deck alone, and, as soon as we came on board he began, with wonderful contortions, to make us a confession. Silver was gone. The maroon had connived at his escape in a shore-boat some hours ago, and he now assured us that he had done so to preserve our lives, which would certainly have been forfeited if 'that man with one leg had stayed aboard.' But this was not all. The sea-cook had not gone empty-handed. He had cut through a bulkhead unobserved and had removed one of the sacks of coins, worth, perhaps, three or four hundred guineas, to help him on his further wanderings.

I think we were all pleased to be so cheaply quit of him.

Well, to make a long story short, we got a few hands on board, made a good cruise home, and the 'Hispaniola' reached Bristol just as Mr. Blandly was beginning to think of fitting out her consort. Five men only of those who had sailed returned with her. 'Drink and the devil had done for the rest' with a vengeance; although, to be sure, we were not quite in so bad a case as that other ship they sung about:—

'With one man of the crew alive,
What put to sea with seventy-five.'

All of us had an ample share of the treasure, and used it wisely or foolishly, according to our natures. Captain Smollett has now retired from the sea. Gray not only saved his money, but, being suddenly smit with a desire to rise, also studied his profession; and he is now mate and part owner of a fine full-rigged ship; married besides, and the father of a family. As for Ben Gunn, he got a thousand pounds, which he spent or lost in three weeks, or, to be more exact, in nineteen days, for he was back begging on the twentieth. Then he was given a lodge to keep, exactly as he had done on the island; and he still lives, a great favorite, though something of a butt, with the country boys, and a notable singer in church on Sundays and saints' days.

Of Silver we have heard no more. That formidable seafaring man with one leg has at last gone clean out of my life, but I dare say he met his old negress, and perhaps still lives in comfort with her and captain Flint. It is to be hoped so, I suppose, for his chances of comfort in other world are very small.

The bar silver and the arms still lie, for all that I know, where Flint buried them; and certainly they shall lie there for me. Oxen and wain-ropes would not bring me back again to that accursed island; and the worst dreams that ever I have are when I hear the surf booming about its coasts, or start upright in bed with the sharp voice of Captain Flint still ringing in my ears:—'Pieces of eight! pieces of eight!'

TO PUNISH BRIBED VOTERS

Dr. Weldon's Bill Discussed in Committee of the House.

LIMIT OF TIME FOR PETITIONING

An Amendment Adopted Making This Forty Days and Not More Than Sixty Days—Another Amendment to the Second Clause Defeated—An Animated Discussion Lasting Till Midnight.

OTTAWA, May 17.—Sir John Thompson, replying to Mr. Taylor in the House yesterday as to whether the Government intended adjourning the House on Wednesday until the following Monday in order to permit the members to enjoy a few Queen's Birthday holidays, replied that he would accede to the wishes of the members, but that he would expect that in that case Wednesday should be given to the Government for public measures. Hon. Mr. Laurier objected to giving Wednesday, and Sir John Thompson replied that that was an end to the adjournment.

These bills, which had been received from the Senate, were introduced and read a first time: Sir John Thompson—To amend the Insurance Act. Mr. Davis—To incorporate the Red Deer Valley Railway & Coal Company. Mr. Ross (Lisgar)—Respecting the Manitoba & Northwestern Railway Company. Sir John Thompson—Respecting the arrest, trial and imprisonment of youthful offenders.

These bills, which had been passed in the Senate, were read a third time. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper—To amend the Harbor Masters' Act. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper—To amend the Act respecting lighouses, buoys and beacons of Sable Island. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper—Respecting public harbors.

To Disfranchise Bribed Voters.

The House went into committee to further consider Dr. Weldon's bill to disfranchise voters who have taken bribes.

Mr. Joncas thought that the bill should not pass unless provision were made to punish the party offering the bribe as well as the receiver.

Dr. Weldon pointed out that it would be difficult to secure evidence if both parties were to be punishment.

Mr. Jeannotte moved, in amendment to the second clause, that the time for presenting a petition for the purpose of making an enquiry be limited to thirty days after an election instead of sixty days, as in the bill.

Dr. Weldon, with a view to keeping clear of election petitions, moved that the clause read: "On a day not less than forty days, and not more than sixty days, after the election is held."

The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Jeannotte moved another amendment to the second clause, that before a petition shall be received it shall be shown that the cases of corruption are to the personal knowledge of the petitioners.

The amendment was lost on a vote of 50 to 25. The second clause was carried.

After recess the House continued in committee on Dr. Weldon's bill, taking up section 6: "It shall be the duty of the judge to endeavor by all lawful means to ascertain the persons who have taken bribes at the last election."

Mr. Joncas moved an amendment to make the section read "Given, offered, or taken bribes."

Mr. Jeannotte spoke two hours. Dr. Weldon protested against his taking up the time of the House, saying that the hon. gentleman talked four hours when the bill was up before, and that there was no telling how long he would talk this time.

Mr. Jeannotte spoke till 11.05 and the amendment was lost.

Mr. Jeannotte moved that the committee rise.

Sir John Thompson said he hoped the committee would not rise. It looked as if the discussion of the bill would last several days, and as the days for the discussion of bills were few, the House should sit up all night for the purpose of securing the passage or defeat of the bill whatever it might be.

The motion to rise was lost.

Col. Amyot wished to move amendment to section six, but Mr. Bergeron (chairman) ruled him out of order.

Section 7 was taken up, defining the powers of the judges under the Act.

Col. Amyot moved as an amendment: "It shall also be the duty of the judge to be satisfied that parties implicated in the charges of corruption have been served with a notice of the charge and have had an opportunity of offering their own defence."

The chairman ruled the amendment out of order, but finally allowed it to stand. It was then lost.

Sections 8, 9, 10 and 11 went through and Mr. Moncrieff moved that the committee rise.

Sir John Thompson thought they had better go on. The motion to rise was carried, Sir John Thompson and other members of the Government voting with the minority.

The committee having risen, Mr. Mulock said it seemed as if there was no desire on the part of the House to proceed with the business of the House. The scenes of the past day were not creditable, but the time would soon come when the country would say whether or not the proceedings of the House would degenerate into a farce.

Sir John Thompson did not think these remarks were called for. He would like to have seen the bill disposed of, but the bill was an important one and had, he thought, provoked earnest opposition. For his part he would like to see the bill pass, so that it could have a trial at least. Members who had opposed it, however, should not be charged with insincerity. He hoped the bill would be disposed of as soon as possible.

Mr. Laurier said Sir John Thompson's previous remarks justified Mr. Mulock in describing the opposition to the bill as insincere.

Mr. Dupont protested against the charge of obstruction.

Col. Amyot said Mr. Mulock could not understand the French discussion and therefore took it upon himself to insult the French. He wanted Mr. Mulock to understand that the French had just as many rights in the House as he had.

The House rose at 12.30 a.m.

Capital Notes.

At a meeting of the Private Bills Committee the bill to give a divorce to Caroline Jane Downey was passed.

Mr. Turcotte, M.P., states that to-day he will make his declaration to the House regarding the charges of violating the Independence of Parliament Act.

Mr. Lariviere has returned from the Northwest, having settled up his private affairs, and the stories of his having resigned are all silenced. The fact of the matter is that he was absent on his own affairs solely, and all the tales as to disagreements between him and the Government are so much bosh.

The Government has decided to ask Parliament to ratify the French treaty this session and in reply to objections which the Opposition undoubtedly will allege, will point out that if the treaty is found to militate against Canada's interests it may be abrogated at the end of one year. This decision has been arrived at under the advices of Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner.

At a meeting of the Railway Committee an act to incorporate the Cariboo Railway Company was passed. The bill provides for the building of a narrow gauge railway from Kamloops, on the C. P. R., to Bakerville, in the Cariboo district. There was some opposition to the building of a narrow gauge road, but it was finally agreed to. The power asked to build branches was restricted to the building of one to the Fraser river.

BEHRING SEA REGULATIONS.

American Patrols Will Seize Every Sealer Found Poaching.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—By direction of the Navy Department the American seal patrol fleet, under command of Captain Clarke, of the flagship Mohican, has sailed from Port Townsend. The government has officially been informed that 54 sealing vessels have left coast ports, and the names of these have been given to the captains of the patrol ships with special instructions to seize every one of them that has violated the law, and to warn others found within the proscribed waters to return to port at once.

Naval officials are excited over the news that the crew of the Canadian schooner Triumph had been caught with over 1,300 sealskins on board by the British cruiser Hyacinthe, and had been sent into Victoria. It was also reported that the Hyacinthe had similarly warned 24 other poaching vessels. Captain Clarke was notified by telegraph to seize any of these vessels he could intercept if they had skins on board which had been taken since May 1.

The State Department announces that the American patrol fleet will issue no warnings where newly-taken skins are found aboard poachers, but will seize them in every case and send them to port under a prize crew.

Bolt Works Close Down.

HAMILTON, May 17.—The Grand Trunk railway bolt works and foundry located here have closed down for an indefinite period. Mechanical Superintendent C. K. Domville says the railway company has only three weeks' supply of coal on hand and the shut down is caused by the big strike by coal mine operatives in Pennsylvania. Instructions were received from Montreal after closing hours, and when the men came to work they found the notice posted and the gate locked. Two hundred men are affected by the order.

The War in Salvador.

PANAMA, May 17.—A despatch from San Salvador says that Santa Ana is still held by the revolutionists. General Antonio Ezeta, the commander of the government forces, was dangerously wounded in a recent engagement and is reported to have died. Another despatch from San Salvador says that 300 persons have been killed in a railroad accident, resulting from a train running off the track. Gen. Carlos Ezeta, the president of the republic, was aboard the train, but was not hurt.

Baby Ruth's Affliction.

DETROIT, Mich., May 17.—A special from Washington gives a sad reason for the non-appearance of Mrs. Cleveland in society this season. It states that little Ruth Cleveland is almost deaf and dumb. It is understood that everything possible is being done for the child and that Mrs. Cleveland spends hours in trying to teach it to articulate. The little one's mind is said, in some quarters, to be backward, but that is believed not to be the case.

Canadian Oarsmen Win.

AUSTIN, Tex., May 17.—Six thousand people witnessed the second day of the regatta. The principal interest centred in the three-mile professional dash. The entries were Gaudaur and Durnan against Teemer and Hosmer. The second crew rowed so strong and so well that the old-timer, Gaudaur, and his partner were completely done for when they landed at the safety line. Gaudaur and Durnan won by a boat length. Time, 17.50.

A Bicycle Rider's Hard Luck.

PARIS, May 17.—The Desbats says the American bicycle rider, Cahs. W. Ashinger, not having won a single one of the races in which he had engaged in Paris, and having no capital but his muscles, is in a condition bordering upon extreme poverty. On the strength of this announcement the professional bicyclists, bicycle makers, journalists and others started a fund for his benefit yesterday and the subscriptions already amount to 500 francs.

For the Ottawa Conference.

MELBOURNE, May 17.—Sir Henry John Whixson, member of the Legislative Assembly, and ex Attorney General of Victoria, and Messrs. Simon Fraser and Nicholas Fitzgerald, members of the Legislative Council, have left for Ottawa, Canada, to represent the colony of Victoria. They will sail for Vancouver on the steamer Arawa, which is to leave Sydney to-morrow.

International Dynamite Plot.

BRUSSELS, May 17.—The arrest of the German anarchist Mueller, who has confessed that he placed the bomb in the hallway of the residence of Dr. Ranson, in Liege, on the night of May 3, is believed to furnish a clue to an international dynamite plot. It is alleged a self-styled Baron Sternberg in acting in concert with the London and Paris anarchists, and that he directed the recent explosions in Liege. The police are following up the clue.

French and Belgian Workmen Fight.

PARIS, May 17.—The violent quarrels which have recently occurred between the French and Belgian workmen employed in the brick works at Ivry Sur Seine, culminated in a riot in which a number of the combatants were hurt. The police quelled the disturbance, but the feeling among the men is very bitter and it is feared the disorder will be renewed.

Wanted to See Henry Die.

PARIS, May 17.—A number of persons remained in the vicinity of La Roquette prison all night in expectation that the execution of Emile Henry, the Cafe Terminus anarchist, would take place at dawn, though no announcement had been made to warrant such expectation. It is believed that Henry will be executed next week.

The Coal Question.

LONDON, May 17.—In consequence of the coal strikes in the United States, several Scotch coal owners were asked to tender a number of ship loads of coal for New York.

BABEL IN THE CONVENTION

International Miners' Congress Disputes in Three Tongues.

ALL CONFUSION AND UPROAR

An English Delegate Is Called Down by the Germans, Whereupon the Latter Are Requested to Take Themselves Away—The Condition of the Miners Hardly Advanced at This Sitting.

BERLIN, May 17.—There was war in the International Miners' Congress yesterday in consequence of a misunderstanding of the translations of the official interpreters. Delegates Wilson, Lamendin and Strutz, representing English, French and German, had been selected as presiding officers for the day. Delegate Lamendin, in a very theatrical and highly offensive manner, refused to serve. M. Lamendin's remarks were translated by interpreter Ledebur, and Delegate Wilson arose to accept his appointment as one of the presiding officers of the day.

While Wilson was speaking the German delegates noisily protested against Lamendin's remarks, the protest being translated and conveyed to the meeting by Interpreter Ledebur. Wilson turned upon Ledebur and virtually told him to mind his own business by demanding that he confine himself to translation and refrain from meddling with the order of the day, with which he had nothing to do. At this the Germans shouted: "Withdraw remarks," "apologize," "come down," etc. The English retorted with cries of "Germans get out of the room," "go home," etc. Deputies Singer and Liebknecht tried in vain to pacify the excited German and English delegates, and the uproar became deafening. Finally an English delegate succeeded in making himself heard and moved to take a recess of ten minutes.

Before the motion could be put a Catholic miner named Wallstein sprang to his feet and demanded that his resolution be discussed. In stentorian tones he shouted that he had been delegated by the Christian and monarchist majority of the German miners. He and his friends, he declared, shared the views of the English delegates (riotous denials). In common with the English and his friends he desired peaceful and legal reform of the condition of the miners, and he protested against the Socialists ruling this international congress. In conclusion he exhorted the congress to stand by the Kaiser, the Empire and the Pope. This speech created a tremendous uproar. The Socialist delegates had endeavored to howl Wallstein down, but without success. Singer, Leibknecht and others had repeatedly interrupted him and tried to induce him to withdraw from the congress, but he steadfastly refused and continued his speech to the end. The scene at his conclusion was indescribable.

KATIE RUPP DIES.

Altenberger Makes a Confession of Committing the Crime.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., May 17.—Katie Rupp, who was shot on Sunday at Snake Hill by Altenberger, died late last night. Altenberger made a confession yesterday in which he stated the facts in connection with the case entirely in accordance with the story told by the deceased girl. He admitted shooting the girl and left her for dead.

The news of Altenberger's capture was received with much satisfaction by the people of Rome. A prominent German said that Altenberger was fortunate in not being able to get to Rome, for if found here he might have met with violence at the hands of the friends of Miss Rupp. In an interview with a reporter Altenberger denied absolutely that he was ever at Snake Hill or around Jersey City before. He said it was by mere chance that they happened to stroll into the county house grounds. He also denied that he had premeditated shooting her. According to his story she planned the whole plot against herself.

Uprising Feared in Servia.

VIENNA, May 17.—News from Belgrade indicates that a popular uprising is feared in Servia. Great excitement prevails among the people, who are indignant at the arbitrary and oppressive acts of the government in prohibiting meetings which it was proposed to hold to protest against the reinstatement in power of ex-King Milan. The government, in giving notice that such meetings would not be allowed, declared that troops would be used to prevert them. The radicals, however, declare their intention to hold meetings on Sunday and conflicts are expected.

An Artist and Four Sisters Suicide.

VIENNA, May 17.—An artist named Kollarz and his three unmarried sisters attended divine service in the church of Lanzandorf and returned to the hotel where they resided. Nothing further was seen of them until the dead bodies of all four were found in their apartments. They had committed suicide by taking cyandide of potassium. They left a letter explaining that they had taken their own lives, fearing that they might outlive one another. To this they preferred to die together. All were over fifty years of age.

REPLY TO TUPPER.

Sir John Pender Objects to Some of Sir Charles' Statements.

LONDON, May 17.—Sir John Pender, chairman of the Eastern Limited Telegraph Company, writing to Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner, yesterday, on the subject of the proposed Pacific cable, says:

"After a careful perusal of the paper read by you at the Royal Colonial Institute recently, I feel that I cannot permit one statement at least to pass unchallenged. That statement is embraced in the assertion that the protest against the proposed cable enterprise is based upon fallacies. If you would carefully study our figures you would soon discover that the arguments which you treat so lightly are based upon a foundation of actual facts, and you would soon arrive at the conclusion that the fallacies are not upon our side but upon yours. In stating that thirty-per cent. of the cable forming the system of the eastern extension telegraph is more than twenty years old you are entirely mistaken. As a matter of fact, nearly the whole of the cables have been renewed and some entirely within a much shorter period. In your estimate of the traffic you quite ignore the fact that at the Wellington conference it was decided to levy a tariff of three shillings instead of three shillings and threepence, as proposed by Fleming. Your description of the existing system as a monopoly cannot be justified by facts. The proposed cable, viewed commercially, can be regarded only as a needless luxury, the expenditure for which may be characterized as an unwarrantable waste of money."

Sir Charles Tupper in an interview yesterday said that he would reply to Sir John's communication to day at furthest.

MR. FRASER'S REWARD.

He Will be Inspector of Registry Offices and Forestry.

TORONTO, May 17.—Hon. C. F. Fraser has been appointed inspector of registry offices and of forestry. These two offices have been combined into one, Mr. Johnston, the former inspector of registry offices, retiring voluntarily. The forestry office has been vacant ever since the death of the late R. W. Phipps. Mr. Fraser takes both offices, and will enter upon his duties at once.

It is also stated, though not officially, that Hon. G. M. Gibson will succeed Mr. Fraser as commissioner of Public Works, and that Mr. Harty, of Kingston, will succeed Mr. Gibson.

Brazil and Portugal.

LISBON, May 17.—The course of the government in regard to Brazil meets the approval of the entire press. All the newspapers agree in expressions of hope that Portugal may be able to effect a reconciliation with the South American republic. Despatches from Rio de Janeiro say Count de Paraty, the Portuguese Minister, handed the keys of the legation to British Minister Wyndman and, accompanied by his staff, went on board a Portuguese warship. The commanders of the warships Minello and Alfonso de Albuquerque will be court-martialled.

Mr. O'Dell Resigns.

LONDON, Ont., May 17.—Mr. O'Dell has resigned the Liberal candidature in East Middlesex because he finds that he is disqualified from being an M.P.P., as he is postmaster of Belmont. A convention to select a candidate to take his place will be held on Saturday next.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course, generally prove the forerunner of more dangerous diseases. Nine tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold, and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state.

A PERTINENT QUESTION.

In discussing the position of Mr. Hudson as to East Hastings, the Kingston News makes the following well considered remarks: "As he is thoroughly identified with the interests of the farmers of East Hastings, we fail to see what the Patrons could gain by displacing him. Are they opposed to the Mowat administration? So is he. Do they want a man who can be relied upon to befriend the tillers of the soil at Toronto, regardless of party? They have him now. Nothing can be more absurd than their determination to nominate anywhere only a Patron, and their refusal to admit to membership among them any man connected with either of the regular parties. Such a course, if they would obtain universal success, would obliterate the whole of the present Legislature. Could they carry on the Government of the Province without an atom of legislative experience?"

Salvation Army Jubilee.

This week's issue of the War Cry, the official organ of the Salvation Army, sets forth fifty schemes for advancing the work in Canada, the first of which is a jubilee celebration of General Booth's fiftieth year in the work. The gathering will take place in Toronto on June 2nd, 3rd and 4th and will, according to the War Cry, be the largest gathering of the kind ever held in the world. The other schemes are for the building of new barracks and other forward movements in towns and cities throughout the Dominion and Newfoundland.

A Spoiler of Sport.

An Oswego paper announces that Mr. D. M. Kittle, of that place, has lately invented a combination fish hook for live bait, which is a simple contrivance, and the bait is put on in such a way that a fish striking it cannot get off, and is certain to get caught. Mr. Kittle's invention will not find much favor amongst the devotees of the gentle craft, for not only would it put the skilful and unskilful fishers on a par, but it would also "knock out" that class of fish stories which relate to the size of the fish that escaped after being hooked. No, no, Mr. Kittle! Anglers won't consent to have the skill, pleasure and romance of their favorite sport destroyed by your dire invention.

OLD SMOKERS.

We are confronted with this declaration: 'I know of a man [or woman] who lived to be a hundred years of age, and smoked till the day of their death,—and how is it that smoking can abridge life, or injure the smoker?'

Read the following, and see if there is any resemblance to your old tobacco sots:

'George Trask once gave a lecture in Massachusetts, showing that the common use of tobacco, by diminishing appetite, blood, etc, must inevitably abridge life. At the close, a clergyman rose and observed: 'I believe the argument in this lecture conclusive. But I have a difficult case to solve, and I wish the lecturer to solve it. I knew a man, within ten miles of this place, who smoked his pipe till the day of his death; and he lived to be one hundred and four years of age!'

The lecturer was puzzled, and the audience laughed at his expose. At last, he hit upon the Socratic style of argument and said, 'Sir, are you sure the old man lived and smoked till he was a hundred and four?' 'Yes,' was the reply. 'How did he look?' 'He looked like an Egyptian mummy.' 'Had he moral sensibilities?' 'Oh, no; he appeared to have no sense of God or religion whatever.' 'Did he manifest any public spirit; did he like good schools, good roads, good order and the like?' 'Oh, no; no more than a mud turtle or oyster.' 'Had he a family?' 'Yes, a large one, and a mean one, altogether too large.' 'Did he love his family?' 'No; I think not.' 'Did he hate his family?' 'No; I think not.' 'All, in a word—did he love anybody, or hate anybody, dead or alive, in this world or in any world?' 'No; I think not.' 'Well, well, brother; the conclusion of the whole matter is simply this—the old man was dead fifty years ago, only you did not bury him."

AN OLD MAN'S TESTIMONY.

An old man recently died. He had lived a century; and such a man must have seen things worth seeing, heard things worth hearing, learned things worth learning, and said things worth saying. A few years ago he wrote to the Christian Witness from Perth Amboy, N J.

'Bradford, Mass., is the old hive of Kimballs. My great grandfather, Peter Kimball, removed from there to Boscawen, N. H. He was captain in the Revolutionary war. I am a member of the Presbytery of Cleveland, Ohio, and an alumnus of Dartmouth College, class of 1822. My twenty-four classmates all smoked. They invited me to join, saying that no one ever went through that college without smoking. Said I: 'I will be the one to do it.' The smokers died years ago and I live. I was sick in 1883 and the doctors ordered whiskey. I said: 'No, if I cannot get well without whiskey I will die.' I got well.

"As you bear witness, so do I. The witness must state some things of self which would ill become him if not a witness. Though in ninth month of ninety-sixth year, I read as always and write by natural sight; enjoy apples as when a boy. In boyhood we all drank rum. I quit at 18, but drank cider. Soon quit cider. Never used tobacco. Saw its fatal curse in my father, killed by tobacco cancer. Have known ten cancers caused by chewing, and eight by smoking tobacco. So I thank you for your war on this foe. Push him hard.

With fraternal greeting, yours a little along in the best part of life

PETER KIMBALL."

And if you wish to know of another old man that is young at 90 go and see the Hon. Neal Dow, of Portland, Me., who is one of the clean, true, temperance old man, neither debauched with tobacco or liquor.

TUFTSVILLE.

MAY 15.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Bird, of Thurlow, have been visiting at their brother's, Stephen Bird. This old couple are between eighty and ninety years of age and are still active members of society and enjoying a vigorous old age in affluence and comfort, a reward of their industry when they were young and active.—Mr. I. Smith, of Crookston, spent Sunday at Halloway with his sister, Mrs. Pickering —Mr. and Mrs. H. Ashley spent Sunday with relatives at Tweed —Mr. Stapley applied a match to an isolated stump in his field. The wind carried the fire to his woods, causing considerable trouble and expense.—Mr. Jeremiah Bird's residence came near being destroyed. During a high wind the roof got on fire, but a level head, activity and a few buckets of water prevented what might have been a serious disaster.—One of our farmers, on going to his barn last week, found one of his cows apparently dying. He at once telegraphed to veterinary Jose, of Foxboro, who promptly responded and saved the life of a useful animal. If farmers would call in professional aid when their cattle are ailing they might have more cows to sell and fewer hides.—A new siding at Crookston to accommodate the ballast train has been put in. Work will commence at once.—Crookstonians are agitating for the reopening of the post office there.

DEVASTATED BY FLAMES

Two Summer Resorts in New York Completely Wiped Out.

FIFTY HORSES ALSO BURNED

All the Large Coal and Lumber Yards in Pawtucket, Rhode Island, Swept Away Within a Few Hours—Estimated Loss Nearly Half a Million Dollars—Forest Fires in New York State.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Empire Coliseum and Washington Park, the two adjoining resorts for summer dancers, long famous under the name of Jones' Wood, were yesterday wiped out by fire. All the buildings in the two parks are gone excepting a portion of the Washington Park structure at the northeast corner. Outside Jones' Wood there were seven dwellings totally and one partially destroyed, two docks, the buildings at the tunnel mouth of the East River Gas Company, all that could burn in a stoneyard, a number of squatters' shanties, nearly 200 trucks and about 50 horses. The horses were locked in their stable and could not be saved. The loss is estimated at $250,000, fully insured.

Big Loss in Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., May 17.—Fire yesterday swept away all the large coal and lumber yards in Pawtucket. The property on either side of the river, from the Division street bridge on the north to the works of the Pawtucket Gas Company on the west and the Pawtucket Boat Club on the east, was destroyed within a few hours. Estimated total loss, $436,000; probable insurance, $325,000.

Forest Fires in New York State.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., May 17.—Fierce forest fires are raging near Cascade Lake. The Cascade House is being guarded and no fears are entertained for its safety. The report that the hotel was burned is untrue.

THE BIG MINERS' STRIKE.

Prospect of an Early and Peaceable Settlement of the Trouble.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 17.—The second day of the great coal conference opened with two meetings behind closed doors. The miners held a consultation together and so did the operators. It was nearly eleven o'clock before the session at Case hall opened some of the operators were of the opinion that there were more hopeful signs of an agreement being arrived at during the conference. The statement that some of the Pennsylvania and Ohio men had agreed upon a rate to offer to the miners was looked upon as a favorable indication. President McBride, of the miners, announced that the miners had selected their conference committee and that it was prepared to meet the operators. Mr. Morton made a similar statement in behalf of the operators. The convention decided to adjourn until two o'clock, in order that the two committees might be given an opportunity to confer with each other. The committees then proceeded to the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce for a discussion of the questions at issue.

SHOULD ENGLAND TAKE TANGIER

The Worst Naval War Ever Known Will be Precipitated.

MADRID, May 17.—In the Cortes yesterday the policy of the government in regard to the hostilities of the Riffians at Melilla was severely criticized by a number of deputies. In the course of debate ex-Premier Canovas del Castillo mentioned the possibility of an attempt on the part of England to seize Tangier with the object of controlling absolutely the passage of vessels through the Straits of Gibraltar. Should such an attempt be made, he declared, all Europe would protest in such a manner as would precipitate the most disastrous naval war ever known to humanity.

Killed His Wife's Insulter.

DENISON, Tex., May 17.—Henry Shields, a young farmer, shot and killed Dr. Obera at Lynn, I.T. Shields joined a party of friends on a fishing trip and placed his pretty wife under the care of the doctor's family during his absence. Dr. Obera attempted to debauch Mrs. Shields, but she resisted and told her husband when he returned. Shields said nothing, but waited until the doctor went away, when he endeavored to enter the sleeping apartment of the doctor's wife, who called for help and Shields fled. The doctor was told of the circumstances when he returned, and securing a pistol swore that he would kill Shields at sight. The men met, when Shields said, "Doctor, we are even, let the matter drop." Dr. Obera, however, reached for his gun, when Shields filled him full of buckshot.

Fell From a Moving Train.

MONCTON, N.B., May 17. — George McGinn, baggage master on the Campbellton accommodation, whilst near Barti Bouge station, leaned out of the car door to see if the smoke he perceived was due to a hot box. In doing so he lost his balance and was thrown to the ground, rolling down a high embankment. Conductor Hunter, who saw the accident, stopped the train and McGinn was picked up in an unconscious condition. His head was covered with blood. He was brought to Moncton, where a medical examination discovered a long and deep cut on the back of his head, but the skull was not fractured. McGinn is suffering intensely from pains in his back and neck, but it is hoped the fall will not prove fatal.

Welsh Members Dissatisfied.

LONDON, May 17.—David Lloyd George, Welsh Nationalist M.P. for the Carnarvon district, addressed a large meeting at Bangor, Wales, last evening on the parliamentary situation. The time had come, he said, when the Welsh members of Parliament would be unable to give their unswerving support to the Government. The Welsh disestablishment bill was a miserable measure, which no loyal Welshman could accept as in any way satisfactory.

Disastrous Floods in Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, May 17.—A despatch from River Falls, Wis., says a flood is sweeping down Black River Valley. A great number of dams, mills, iron buildings and other property have been destroyed. A despatch from Chippewa Falls reports great destruction in property in the Chippewa River Valley. All the railroads report washouts.

West Lambton Reformers.

SARNIA, May 17.—The West Lambton Reform Association met here yesterday in convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the coming provincial elections. Many names were put in nomination, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Charles Mackenzie, the present member.

Fighting With Kellyites.

ELDONIA, Iowa, May 17.—The Kelly army is encamped two miles below this place. A battle occurred between the local guards and the men on one boat. The Kellyites attempted to land outside of the prescribed limits. The guards ordered them off. A fight followed, in which clubs and stones were used. Several men on both sides were injured.

Fighting in Brazil.

LONDON, May 17.—Advices from Rio de Janeiro say the Brazilian government forces, under command of Generals Juca and Tigre, have been defeated in a battle with the insurgents near Iguazu, on the river of that name, which divides the States of San Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul. The federals had 140 men killed.

AVOIDABLE FARM EXPENSES.

It costs money to neglect repairing the fences while the ground is soft.

It costs money to have a poor fence around pastures, for the cattle to break through.

It costs money to allow the manure to lie under the eaves and fertilize the roadside or nearest stream.

It costs money, in the extra feed required, to keep cattle and horses together loose in the same yard.

It costs money to let the cows become poor during the winter, and take all summer to recover condition.

It costs money to let the manure lie in piles all winter when labor is cheap and work scarce, and draw it out in spring when labor is high and work abundant.—American Agriculturist.

WITH THE ELECTRICIANS.

The Bell Telephone company of Missouri is putting in a number of cables in St. Louis and the citizens are rejoicing over the reduction of aerial wires thereby.

Something new in the telephone line, intimates the Electrical Review, may be announced any day. It will be a practical telephone system, backed by a name that will convince all who are at all familiar with telephone history of its value and importance.

The Bernese Oberland Railway company of Switzerland is said to be contemplating the substitution of electric traction for steam. The scheme is a very important one, comprising two hundred horse-power locomotives, with ten trains on the line simultaneously.

He Got Even.

The melodrama proceeded in its cyclonic course, and the villain had taken violent measures for three acts to dispose of the hero, only to be confronted and discomfited by that mirror of virtue whenever the curtain rose. Although built on the good old plan, it was a bad play and worse players.

Finally one man, whose countenance grew sadder with each passing moment, turned to the auditor on his left and remarked, "Bad play, eh?"

"Yes, sir," returned the other, forcibly, chuckling at the same time at some bon mot of ancient Rome.

"But you seem to enjoy it," objected the sad man.

"Well," was the answer, "I do—because I know I'm getting my money's worth. It's a bad play, as you remark, but (with a chuckle) I gave a bad half-dollar at the box-office for my seat."

An Eastern Diamond.

The traditional diamond of the East is the Great Mogul. The original weight was 787 carats, and it disappeared in the last Tartar invasion, when treasures to the amount of $350,000,000 were captured by Nadir Shah. The Shah of Persia has in his treasure room jewels valued at $40,000,000. His crown contains a mass of diamonds surmounted by a ruby as big as a hen's egg. His royal belt weighs 20 pounds, and is a solid mass of diamonds, rubies and emeralds. When the Shah was in Europe he wore a variety of diamonds and gems, the smallest of which would have been a fortune to the lucky possessor. The buttons of his coat were five in number, and each button was a diamond larger than the kohinoor.

Luck in the Number.

Spencer—I saw a man pay $36 in cash for a silver dollar the other day.

Ferguson—Some old coin collector, I suppose.

Spencer—No; a man who kept a roulette table.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 17, 1894.

Two million dollars in gold was shipped to New York to-day.

Total European supplies of wheat the past week were 6,853,000 bushels.

The earnings of Grand Trunk for the week ended May 12 were $331,309, a decrease of $20,614 as compared with the same week of last year.

At the London wool sales 5,700 bales were offered. The quality of the offerings was fair and the bidding spirited. Yorkshire buyers purchased crossbreeds liberally and at steady rates.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain were small and prices steady. Two loads of wheat sold at 62c for white and 61c for red; goose nominal at 58c. Oats steady, 300 bushels selling at 39c. Peas are quoted at 66c, and barley at 40c to 42c.

Chicago wheat market advanced under conditions which ordinarily would cause a decline. July wheat closed with a gain of ⅛c to ¼c. Corn was active, closing a shade lower. Oats were firm and gained ⅛c to ¼c for the day.

Lower prices were the rule at the New York Exchange. The bears had it all their own way. At the opening, brokers identified with the leading bear interests were liberal sellers of the industrials, and London at the same time disposed of some of its specialties. At the close, however, there was a good borrowing demand for stocks, which indicates a material increase in short interest.

Buffalo cattle market was again quiet for the amount of stock to sell; the late receipts were only one load of sale out of 113 cars received the last twenty-four hours. Sheep and lambs were almost at a standstill, both markets being reported as filled up with Southern lambs, the best of them selling at $6.25, and choice yearlings selling at $5.

Cottolene

A SHORTENING.

Down the street through the busy way
A lady passed on marketing day.
Who, pausing at a grocery store,
Stepped quickly in at the open door.
With bated breath and anxious mien
She queried: "have you COTTOLENE?"

The grocer, leaving off his work,
Interrogated every clerk;
But none up to that time had seen
An article called "COTTOLENE."

"What is it?" said he to the dame,
"That answers to this curious name.
What is it made of? What's its use?
My ignorance you'll please excuse."

"You're not the merchant for my dimes,
I see you're quite behind the times.
For COTTOLENE, I'd have you know,
Is now the thing that's all the go,
An article of high regard;
A healthful substitute for lard.
Its composition pure and clean;
For cooking give me COTTOLENE."

As from his store the lady fled,
The grocer gently scratched his head—
On his next order, first was seen,
"One dozen cases COTTOLENE."

Have you cut out and sent in to the INTELLIGENCER office a coupon to get one of the parts of "Canada," the great scenic publication? If not, do so at once.

Every person having fruit trees with black knot growing on them should have it removed at once. They are liable to a heavy fine if this is not done. Take a look over your trees.

Thousands of dollars may be saved by spraying fruit trees, the only protection against the codling moth and curculio. Big returns are sure for the time and money thus spent.

The funeral of the late Wm. H. Bullen took place from the family residence, Grove St., at 3 o'clock this afternoon and was largely attended. Numerous floral tributes were sent by friends.

The joint committee of several societies met last night to arrange for the annual decoration day, but owing to the lack of support by the different lodges, it was decided to drop the matter and have no decoration.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring" are not more vigorous than are those persons who purify their blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The fabled Elixir Vitæ could scarcely impart greater vivacity to the countenance than this wonderful medicine.

Have you seen parts One and Two of "Canada," the great scenic publication? If not, call into the INTELLIGENCER counting room and have a look at what you are missing by not enclosing coupons from the paper, accompanied by 10 cents. The pictures are beautiful.

The Governor-General will visit Belleville on May 29th and 30th. He will receive a yard or so of addresses in the drill hall, will meet the school children at a given point and then the report adds, "He will be driven to the hospital." The reception committee has certainly shown much forethought.—Kingston Whig.

If ever a man feels like "a poor worm o' the dust," it is when he suffers from that tired feeling. Ayer's Sarsaparilla removes this discouraging physical condition and imparts the thrill of new life and energy to every nerve, tissue, muscle and fibre of the whole body.

A son of the notorious Jenny Graham reported to the police last night that his mother was now keeping a most disreputable house at Rossmore, to which parties from Belleville go daily. Something should be done for the removal of this woman from the community.

The Superiority

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is due to the tremendous amount of brain work and constant care used in its preparation. Try one bottle and you will be convinced of its superiority. It purifies the blood which, the source of health, cures dyspepsia, overcomes sick headaches and biliousness. It is just the medicine for you.

THE FEE COMMISSION.

The Evidence Taken This Morning Mostly Favored the Present System.

The Fee Commissioners, Hon. Chancellor Boyd, Hon. ex Governor Robinson, J. J. Mason, J. J. Hobson and Thos. Brooks, to whom has been entrusted the duty of enquiring into the views expressed as to the mode of appointing and paying Provincial officers, such as Sheriffs, Registrars, &c., met this morning in the City Council chamber at 10 o'clock to take evidence of men invited by the Secretary, Mr. Fleming, to attend.

The first witness was John Parker Thomas, Esq. He had no fault to find with the present system in most respects, but thought that Justices of the Peace should be paid by salary instead of fees, and medical health officers appointed by the Provincial Board of Health. More Inspectors of Division Courts were needed. Judicial and executive officers should be paid by salary, and ministerial officers by fees.

Mayor Walmsley believed that appointments should be made by the Government of the day, and that stated salaries should be given instead of fees.

Thos. Wills, Esq., County Treasurer, supported generally the present system, both of appointment and payment by fees, but thought that the tariff of fees needed revision, some being too high and some too low. Clerks of the Peace and County Attorneys had perhaps better receive salaries instead of fees.

N. Vermilyea, Reeve of Thurlow, favored the present system of appointment of all the officials mentioned. He was also strongly in favor of the fee system of payment, but the overplus of fees should be taken for public purposes. He said the County Council had passed a resolution at its last session favoring the appointment by the County Councils of all these provincial officials, except county judges, but claimed that the Conservatives and Patrons of Industry combined to carry it.

Wm. McLaren, Reeve of Tyendinaga, favored the present system both of appointment and payment, although he thought some registrars and judges were too well paid.

Ald. Pouton believed generally in the present system. County judges should have something to say in the appointment and supervision of Division Court bailiffs and the city should have two representatives on the police commission.

H. G. Bleecker, ex-Warden, thought when everything was taken into consideration, that the present system of appointing officials was preferable, but he thought the former did not get a fair proportion of the emolument. If there was a change he would favor the elective system. He thought the fee system the best mode of paying the officials. He thought the officials should not take an active part in politics. The towns of the county, he thought, monopolized the offices.

The Commission adjourned until 2 o'clock. Upon resuming this afternoon J. W. Johnson, F.C.A., gave evidence. He thought that the offices should continue in the hands of the Government. The duties are not municipal; they are provincial. As a rule we have competent officials. A change would bring no improvement. The argument that the officers in these positions perform local service and should be under local control is no more applicable than in the case of Custom House and Post office officials. The municipality could not afford an inspector. He was opposed to the fee system of paying officials. Under it certain favored members of the community receive an income from the people and render no equivalent in services. A bank or loan company would never appoint a man to the management and suffer him to derive an income from the position and do the work by deputy. Dominion officials are not allowed to do it, and Provincial officials do it not because it is right, but because it is possible under the fee system. He thought the fees collected were reasonable. Deputies should be paid out of the Provincial Treasury.

The commission was still in session as we went to press.

AN ESTEEMED PASTOR.

The Tabernacle Quarterly Board Compliment the Rev. D. O. Crossley on his Great Work for the Church.

At the last regular meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Tabernacle Methodist Church, held on Wednesday afternoon, 16th May, the following resolution was unanimously adopted by a standing vote:

That the members of the Quarterly official Board of the Tabernacle Methodist Church desire to place on record their very high appreciation of the labors of their pastor, the Rev. D. O. Crossley. During the three years of his pastorate, the church, in all departments of its work, has been greatly blessed and prospered. By his indefatigable efforts the debt upon the building has been greatly reduced. His pulpit efforts have been much appreciated by the people, and have been blessed of God in quickening the spiritual life of the members of the church, and in the salvation of many others. We shall always cherish the highest regard for both the Rev. D. O. Crossley and his estimable wife, and shall pray that God may still more and more make them a blessing.

During Mr. Crossley's pastorate the debt on the church has been reduced by about $4,000, mainly through his exertions.

Police Court.

Stephen Burton was charged with taking sod and eath from McDonald St. He admitted the charge, but said it was done for local improvement. He claimed that he filled up the hole made with coal ashes. The Magistrate fined him $2 and $2.50 costs, but suspended sentence.

Ald. LaRoche was charged by Stephen Burton with calling him out of his name. Case dismissed.

Lewis Tolliver, a colored vagrant from Blyth, was told to either get work or leave the city.

Wm. Orr, hack driver, for furious driving was let off by paying $1.50 costs, the Magistrate considering the circumstances extenuating.

Wm. Nicholson, of Sidney, charged his father in-law, Peter Smith, with taking his horse from him. The case was settled between the parties by Smith giving back the horse and paying the costs.

A Husband's Troubles.

A. J. McEwen, of Mille Roches, writes us that he left home early in March to work at Niagara Falls, leaving his wife and young child of four months at her mother's home, near Belleville. Without any known cause Mrs. McEwen took the baby and $500 of money, besides several valuables, about the middle of April, and went to a sister in Easton, Maryland, since which time nothing has been heard of her or the child. Her husband is quite distracted.—Kingston Whig.

"Satisfactory Results."

So says Dr. Corlett, an old and honored practitioner in Belleville, Ontario, who writes: For Wasting Diseases and Scrofula I have used Scott's Emulsion with the most satisfactory results.

IN YANKEELAND.

A CORRESPONDENT WRITES OF WATKINS VILLAGE, NEW YORK.

Lovely Watkins Glen the Great Tourist Resort—Famous Sanitarium—A Busy Manufacturing Centre—Plenty of Schools, but Inferior to Those of Canada.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—As may be expected of callow youth abroad, I am seized with an uncontrollable desire to write, and hence these lines.

I left Belleville April 8th and made my way to this place via Kingston, Oswego, Syracuse and Geneva, arriving here in the midst of a snow storm said to be the heaviest of the season. My first impression was not at all roseate, being inclined to suspect that some how I had been spirited away to the arctic regions. But a change came soon. In a few hours the sun rose in regal splendor and made short work of the 22 inches of snow that had fallen the day before. Many apprehended a flood, but it came not. The soil hereabouts is a peculiar composition with an insatiable thirst capable of absorbing any amount of water. A few days sufficed to transform a magnificent winter into the loveliest of springs, and to-day the sun shines on one of earth's fairest and busiest scenes. Trees are blooming, birds are singing, lawn mowers are at work, the tall smoke stacks of factories, foundries and forges are giving forth unmistakable tokens of activity and all nature is "happy as a big sun flower."

Watkins is a village of about 3,000 inhabitants, situated at the foot of the Chemung Valley and at the head of Seneca Lake. To the south lies the broad, serpentine valley of Chemung. To the north Seneca Lake stretches away for 30 miles, whilst east and west of the town great hills tower up hundreds of feet and triumphantly overlook the scene below. Though but a mere village in respect to population, Watkins enjoys far greater fame than many larger places. Watkins Glen, famous the world over, is here. Sixty thousand tourists annually visit this rare work of nature. Nor is it to be wondered at that such is the case. This glen or cleavage of the earth is one mile and a quarter long with walls of rock from 50 to 150 feet on either side and at some points only a few feet apart. The width of the glen varies so peculiarly and suddenly from point to point as to give the whole the appearance of a variety of spacious, sky-lit apartments connected by a series of narrow corridors. The largest apartment is Glen Cathedral, especially noted for its peculiar acoustic properties. A musical solo, either vocal or instrumental, performed here is always accompanied by a beautiful alto echo about a half note slow. Through the glen runs a charming stream at times smooth and noiseless, at other points it rushes, tumbles and roars as if impatient to reach the outlet. Professor Agassiz once remarked that by the process of natural wear and tear 100,000 years would be required to produce this glen.

I am constrained to say I really like the Americans. They are a trifle vain, perhaps, and have a strong notion that they can whip all creation, but they are sociable, kind, obliging and progressive. As to how they live I have space to say but little. The poor of this village do as the poor do the world over—the best they can. The wealthy indulge in very fine residences, artistically laid out grounds and gardens and drive superb equipages. One residence here, the home of a many times millionaire, is the most palatial I have ever seen. The dwelling proper cost $100,000 to build, the stables, which house 14 blooded horses, cost $40,000, green house, etc., $38,000. Much might be said of this marvellously handsome residence, upon which about $30,000 is annually expended. An institution of great interest here is Glen Springs Sanitarium, a group of peculiarly designed buildings situated on the west hill and overtopping the village about 300 feet. A very high toned place is this Sanitarium, no one being cared for there for less than $25 per week. Some pay as much as $60 per week. The patrons, usually about 150 in number, comprise wealthy invalids and cranks who want to grunt expensively and are willing to pay well for the privilege. The institution is owned and operated by a stock company and is a highly profitable investment. I am told the stockholders realize annually a gilt edged dividend of 25 per cent. Last season Sir Oliver Mowat and daughter recuperated here for several weeks.

The village contains also a large canning establishment, extensive salt works, carriage factory, two large malt houses and minor industries without number. There are five churches and as to schools—well, they are very good but scarcely comparable with the schools at home. It is a fact more apparent to me than ever before that the Canadian school system stands alone and unrivalled in excellence. The children are here taught a smattering in many subjects but acquire proficency in none. They carry stacks of books and do an immense amount of eye work, resulting in a thriving business for the oculists. About every other child wears glasses furnished mainly by Hebrew "professors."

A notable feature of this village is its superior fire department. Here, in a place of only 3000 inhabitants, are two fire companies of 60 and 85 members respectively. They have first class apparatus, elegantly furnished rooms and splendid uniforms. The largest company is one of the best drilled organizations I have ever seen. The superior efficiency of this fire department is accounted for by the fact that some years since the tough element was relieved and the department turned over to the better class of citizens, an example which might be advantageously followed in other places.

CHARLES P. MCDONALD.

BLUNDERS IN RELIGIOUS MATTERS

Was the Subject of Rev. Mr. Crossley's Remarks Last Night.

The Bridge St. church was filled again last night with an eager audience and the remarks of the different preachers were listened to with attention. There was an excursion from Picton on the Varuna and Mr. Hunter said he was glad to see so many from that town present. That was one of the most beautiful towns on earth. He was glad to see the railroad boys attending the meeting. May they come and get on the heavenly railroad. God bless the railroad men. His lesson was from Acts 8—26 to end of chapter, and some of his comments were: A desert was a poor place to send a city preacher. If some of our city preachers were told to go out into a desert to preach they would tell God He had made a mistake. It is a good thing to trust in the Lord, no matter where he sends us. The best place to fight anything out with God is on your knees. Philip did not know what God had for him to do, but he went down into the desert, and God showed him there. The spirit will guide you in the same way. Don't, you preachers, be afraid to go where God sends you. Shouting is the cheapest thing in religion. Use courtesy in religious matters. He said they had up west a body called the Plymouth brethren, but they were no good. They would run against a new convert and turn him right around. Use common sense in religious matters. Don't do like the man passing tracts, who gave a legless man a tract on dancing. Philip used courtesy when he asked the eunuch if he understood what he was reading, and through this courtesy won the favor of the man. If you come as an anxious seeker Jesus will meet you more than half way. Missionary work can be done any place.

Mr. Crossley and Mr. Canfield sang as a duet, "Oh, Tolling Bells!" after which Mr. Hunter read forty-six requests for prayers.

Mr. Crossley spoke on certain blunders made by people in religious matters. His text was in Hebrews, 10—23. Backsliders make three mistakes. First mistake was to go back on God. The Lord calls this spiritual adultery. The second mistake is that they are afraid they will go back again if they started. Third, despairing of the mercy of God. God is married unto the backslider. He will pardon you if you return. Skeptics make the mistake of cavilling about certain parts of the bible. There is not a promise in the bible that has been broken. Skeptics make a blunder when they think they are skeptics. There is not one skeptic in this city. They only think they are skeptics. If you are a skeptic you still search the scriptures daily to seek if these things are not so. Some of you here are not christians and are undecided. You think there is time enough yet. You don't know how much time you have. Some of you blunder in wishing. The feeling will come after you have started. Feeling is only moral perspiration. Go at what you know to be right and you will get feeling. Those undecided make a blunder in having wrong views of Christ. Some christians make the blunder of comparing themselves to one another, to their own disparagement or enhancement. The man who does the most shouting is not always the best christian. Some christians make the blunder of pandering to the world to curry favor. Be a christian out and out. Do not go where Jesus is not a welcome guest. Doubting ourselves is another blunder some people make. You are thinking of yourselves not of God. Those who are about decided make a mistake in not pushing on till they get through. Seeking for experience is another blunder. They see some one converted and he is quite jubilant and they want to have the same experience. Unconverted ones make the mistake of trying to feel they are saved before they are. Don't seek for the feeling before you accept Jesus. Will you not be willing tonight to receive Christ?

The after meeting was one of unusual power and a large number went to the enquiry room.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—Your "Golden Medical Discovery" has proved a blessing to me. It was recommended to me by Rev. P. A. Kuykendall. THE "GOOD OLD TIMES."

Prices 40 and 60 Years Ago—Travel Then and Now—A Contrast in Wedding Ceremonies—What the Early Settlers had to Endure.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—In a recent issue you stated that 40 years ago wheat in Ontario was 50 cents per bushel and cotton prints 25 cts. per yd. The first year of the Crimean war flour in Ontario was $6 per bbl. and the next year, 1855, it rose to $8 and cotton prints were about the same as now. But go back 60 years, if you please, and wheat was 50 cents and coarse unbleached cotton was 25 cents per yd. and very common prints were 30 cts; English broadcloth of common quality was $6 per yard and a 6 shilling hat in England was worth $6 in Canada, but farmers' wives and daughters wore homespun flannel for their best dresses and cow hide boots, and members of parliament from the old Midland district padded it to York on foot, carrying their grub with them, before the days of stage coaches, when the mails were carried on horse back. This was in the days of the old Family Compact and solid Toryism, but young people got married just the same and girls made good wives—no fashionable weddings then with five bridesmaids with their initials to form the word M A T C H. I was present at a wedding in Prince Edward county. Her father was a member of Parliament and the wealthiest farmer in in the county in those days. Their wealth was like Job's, it consisted in horses and oxen and other domestic animals, and last, but not least, sons and daughters, of which they had a good supply. This party drove to church in a lumber waggon 6 miles, to the English church at Hallowell, now Picton. The bride was dressed in a brown merino dress, which her father had brought her from York expressly for the occasion. No wedding tours then, but go to work with a will and try to make some headway in the world. I am sadly afraid our fashionable damsels of to-day think more about spending than saving. Too many Florence Birchalls among them, looking forward for a gay life only to end in a blight. I have written this for the information of the present generation and to show what the primitive settlers had to undergo. People nowadays would think it a great undertaking to walk a dozen miles. I once walked 64 miles for a ball of shoe thread that cost 3 pence.

Untold Misery—What a Well Known Commercial Traveller Suffered And How He Was Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at the time traveling for Messrs Walter Woods & Co Hamilton, and I was treated by some of the best physicians in this country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure was complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY believing that the persistent use of it will cure Dyspepsia.

Signed, T. S. McINTEE.

HAVING SUFFERED over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

GENTLEMEN.—Two years ago my husband suffered from severe indigestion, but was completely cured by two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. I can truly recommend it to all sufferers from this disease.

Jas Shannon, Leaskdale, writes:—'For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used.'

A PECULIAR CUSTOM.

THE HIGHEST DECORATION OF A CARIB BELLE.

The Strangest and Possibly the Most Cruel Feminine Adornment in the World is the Garter of the Guianans of South America—Proud of Their "Sapuru."

Probably the strangest feminine adornment in the world is the garter of the Guianans of South America. The Caribs are one of the five tribes inhabiting that country, and are a fine race of people. The women are intelligent and uncomely. They wear very little clothing, and so, as is usual in such cases, they devote great pains to what they consider the highest decoration of their bodies and limbs. The garter, or sapuru as they call it, is an ornament that can well be entered into a competition for ugliness with the compressed foot of China, or the wasp-like waist of a society belle. While the Carib girl is still young and her limbs have not attained their full development, a band of rattan is bound tightly just under the knee, and another is similarly placed just above the ankle. To give them an ornamental appearance they are dyed with a bright red dye obtained from berries, but they are, in fact, an instrument of torture beside which tight shoes pale in envy, and a twisted hairpin becomes a luxury. Deprived of its natural powers of extension, the limb has to expand as it can, and the consequence is that it is obliged to develop itself in the comparatively narrow space between the two bandages. To obtain a correct idea of the accurate shape of the leg of a Carib belle, when the sapuru is completed, take an ordinary broomstick, eighteen inches long, and push it through the middle of a small Stilton cheese. The cylindric shape of the cheese represents the shapeless calf of the leg, and the broomstick the attenuated part immediately above and below, where the bandages have cut and compressed the flesh. Wrap the stick round with red bandages, and trace blue varicose veins on the cheese, and the semblance is complete. The Carib women are inordinately fond of the sapuru, and those who do not wear it are treated with even greater scorn and contumely by her own sex than is the Chinese woman who does not wear the "golden lilies."—Household.

Wives and Mothers-in-Law.

The blame for so much of the misunderstanding which exists between wives and the mothers of their husbands cannot be justly placed upon the mothers any more than it can upon the daughters. I fancy that in most cases "honors are easy." Concessions come as hard to the one as to the other, and yet in their hearts both desire to meet on equal terms. Things seem not exactly to come together. And as "Mecenas paid the freight" in Eugene Field's Horacean ode, so the husband stands the blows, and is asked to decide between his mother and his wife—in every respect the most trying position in which a man can be placed. I am inclined to believe one cause of discontent finds its roots in the unwillingness that is often present on the part of the mother to accept the daughter. Of course, mothers will differ with me in this statement. But it must not be forgotten that where the encouragement is not held out by the elder, the response cannot come from the younger. The happiest instance that I know where a wife love's her husband's mother almost as fondly as she does her own, is one where the mother unreservedly received the daughter into her life at the very start, and made her a part of herself. I fancy it is in this, as in a great many things in this world: much depends upon how we begin. But no matter what the relation or the cause of other feelings than those of true affection, there should never be any other attitude on the part of a wife toward her husband's mother, or from the husband to the wife's mother, than that which youth owes to maturity: a respectful deference.

No Longer a Mere Plaything.

The bicycle, to sum the thing up, is no longer a plaything or a luxury. It has become a necessity. Where the roads are good it assures rapid transportation at a minimum outlay of physical exertion. It is easier to propel a wheel than to govern a spirited horse—to say nothing of the healthfulness of the exercise. Is it any wonder, therefore, that young and old, men and women, take kindly to the sport? I know one lively gentleman of sixty, who, whenever the weather permits, rides from his suburban home to his office in the morning and rides back in the evening—nearly twenty miles a day. Of course he is an exception; but his remarkable vim and energy show what a person imbued with the bicycle fever can and will do. The exercise has not only benefited his health, but is giving him real enjoyment which robs routine duty of some of its wearisome features.

THE DOMINION PARLIAMENT

Saw Log Item Again Discussed in Committee of Ways and Means.

OTHER ITEMS OF THE TARIFF

The Charges Against Mr. Turcotte—His Straight Denial of the Allegations—A Statement That Exonerates Him of Any Wrongdoing—Action Postponed Pending Decision of the Quebec Courts.

OTTAWA, May 18.—In the Commons yesterday Mr. Bruneau moved that his charges against Mr. Turcotte be referred to a committee of investigation. The motion gave the committee power to report on the facts of the case and whether the said Arthur J. Turcotte had vacated his seat.

Mr. Turcotte replied, denying the charges brought against him by the member for Richelieu. He had not become a contractor with the Government. In so far as the present charges were concerned, he read a declaration published by Mr. J. B. Provost, the contractor at that time, and the present, for supplies furnished the citadel at Quebec, and the Marine Department in that city, and who is mentioned in the charges. The declaration was dated Quebec, April 21, 1894, addressed to the editor of L'Evenement, and by it Mr. Turcotte was completely exonerated. He further stated, in order that the House might have official information of the same, that he is defendant in a law suit, taken the 30th day of April last, by which he is asked to pay the penalties to which he may be liable for having sat in this House in contravention of the Act concerning the independence of Parliament.

Sir John Thompson thought that the matter should go to a committee for investigation, but, inasmuch as the courts of Quebec were dealing with the question also, it would not be proper to give the committee power to say whether or not the member has vacated his seat. He moved an amendment accordingly, striking out the clause giving the committee this power.

Hon. Mr. Laurier disagreed with the First Minister.

The House divided on the amendment, which was carried by 103 to 69.

A Member's Death.

Sir John Thompson announced with regret the death of Hon. John Hearn, late a member of the House, paying a tribute to his high qualities.

Hon. Mr. Laurier, on behalf of the Opposition, expressed regret at the late member's death.

Committee of Ways and Means.

The House again went into committee of Ways and Means, the item under discussion being sawlogs on the free list.

Mr. Macdonnell (Alpena) spoke in favor of the reimposition of the duty on sawlogs. He hoped the Government would reimpose the duty. It would require 7,000 men to cut the timber taken to the States annually. This 7,000 men with their families would mean a population of 35,000 souls to add to the wealth of Canada. Mr. Macdonnell also spoke of the damage done to the Georgian bay fishing industries by the towing of sawlogs to the United States ports.

Col. O'Brien thought if the duty were re-imposed it would paralyze the Canadian lumber industry. The loss to the country by the export of logs had been exaggerated.

Mr. Masson said they had no right to assume that the lumber trade of Canada would be paralyzed if the export duties were re-imposed. The very men who were buying the Canadian logs were the owners of the Michigan limits. They were depleting our forests and preserving their own. He believed the export duty on logs would bring about an immediate and visible benefit.

Mr. Bennett said it was a remarkable thing that the only members who were opposed to the re-imposition of these duties were those directly interested in the business. He hoped before the session passed the saw mill industry on the north shore would again be in full blast by a change of policy.

Mr. Devlin opposed the reimposition of the duty and after some further discussion the item passed.

To the item "sawed boards, plank deals and other lumber," Hon. Mr. Foster proposed to add the words, "undressed or dressed upon one side only."

The item as amended was adopted.

The item "pine clapboards" was next discussed and carried.

The proviso was then reached which empowered the Governor-General in council to issue a proclamation charging export duty upon logs according to a schedule, provided any country shall impose duties upon the articles on the free list as fixed in the tariff.

Mr. Charlton held that this was a power the Government should not have. The Government might decide to charge export duties without proper consideration, and it was too great a power to put into the hands of thirteen men.

Mr. Bryson said the House knew that Mr. Charlton had no confidence in the present administration, but he also knew that the Government supporters in this House had full confidence in the Government, and, if under the Wilson bill duties were charged on articles in our free list, the Government would be in a position to re-impose an export duty on logs.

The clause passed.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved that elm-logs be included among the logs upon which the Government will have power to put an export duty not exceeding $3 per thousand feet. The logs coming within the schedule are pine, Douglas fir, fir, balsam, cedar and hemlock.

The amendment was passed.

Sir Richard Cartwright took strong objection to this clause: "Provided that the Governor-General in Council may by proclamation published in like manner from time to time remove and reimpose such export duty," but the clause was passed without further discussion.

The item in the free list of "cane, rattans and reeds not further manufactured than split," was made to read, "cane, rattans and reeds not manufactured."

"Wood pulp" was struck out from the free list, a duty having been placed on "wood pulp" of 25 per cent.

Further clauses in the tariff were carried and the House adjourned at 12.10 a. m.

CAPITAL NOTES.

The Government's Intention With Regard to the Trent Canal.

In reply to the Trent Valley canal delegation, Mr. Haggart declared himself a believer in the work. The first cost of the canal was estimated at between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, but a revised estimate placed it at $4,000,000. It was his intention to put a portion of the work under contract this fall. He believed the Government should carry out the promise made before the last general election, and if the Conservative Government remained in power the Trent Valley canal would some day be completed. Sir John Thompson said that Mr. Haggart spoke the sentiments of the whole Government. He also said he did not believe that Sir John Macdonald sent his telegram two days before the general election to influence the elections. He thought the undertaking could be justified on its merits, and he hoped before he left office to go through the completed canal, which would be built "as fast as the resources of the country permitted." In conclusion the Premier reminded them that in return the Government could not live by "moral and intellectual support alone."

Aberdeen's Latest Purchase.

Lord Aberdeen has purchased a summer residence on the Grand Cascapedia. It was formerly occupied by Lord Derby. It is understood that the price paid is $4,600.

Banking and Commerce.

The Banking and Commerce Committee met and the Consumers' Cordage Company's bill was once more proceeded with. The bill was reported after some unimportant amendments had been made. The next bill taken up was an act to incorporate the Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Company. The bill was reported. Dominion burglary bill was also passed.

Queen's Birthday Honors.

With the approach of the Queen's birthday comes the talk of who is likely to receive the honor of knighthood from Her Majesty. The first spoken of is Hon. Frank Smith, a member of the Government without portfolio. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, leader of the Senate and Minister of Trade and Commerce, is also mentioned as one likely to be knighted. Mr. Bowell, whose special pride is that he rose from a "devil" in a newspaper office to his present position, does not desire the honor, but owing to his associations if his name is put forward he will accept.

The Adjournment.

Mr. Taylor again brought up the question of the adjournment over Friday after the Queen's birthday.

Sir John Thompson said he would be willing if the House would give up Wednesday for Government days.

Mr. Laurier and Mr. Davis favored the adjournment. Although no action was taken, it looks as if the adjournment will take place from Wednesday until Monday.

ITS EFFECT IN CANADA.

The Big Coal Strike Closes Down all the Grand Trunk Shops.

MONTREAL, May 18.—To day all the shops on the Grand Trunk system without exception will close down owing to the coal famine. The close down may last ten days or three weeks. The passenger and freight trains will be curtailed as much as possible. There will be nothing done on new work and the working staff of the engineering department will also cease work. In Montreal alone there are fully 1,700 men affected by the change.

Officials of the Grand Trunk in Chicago have announced that pending a settlement of coal strike, no more grain would be received for shipment. Any coal received by the system, it is announced, will be reserved for passenger trains and perishable freight.

Gurney Works to Close.

HAMILTON, May 18.—On account of the scarcity of coal the Gurney-Tilden Stove Company will close down at the end of this week. They have about three weeks' supply of coal on hand and this will be reserved for rush orders. About 200 men will be affected. Several other manufacturing institutions in the city are considering the advisability of similar action.

GAUDAUR AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

He Does the Three-Mile in 19, 1 1-2, Breaking the World's Record.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 18.—The first race of the international regatta was the final three-mile heat professional single scull for a purse amounting to $2,100, the first money being $1,000.

Entries—J. G. Gaudaur, Orillia, Ont.; H. Peterson, San Francisco; E. Durnan, Toronto; John Teemer, St. Louis; George Hosmer, Boston, and Ed. Rogers, Saratoga.

The race was terrific, Gaudaur and Peterson both hustling for first place, though Ed. Durnan pressed them hard for honors on the first dash out of the box. Gaudaur turned the even mile and started back down the course like mad. He led slightly on the down course, though Peterson pushed him hard. Gaudaur shot over the home line into safety only four feet in the lead of the silent oarsman from the Pacific slope, making the race in 19.01½, thereby breaking his record of 19.06 of last year, which broke the world's record. Peterson made the run in 19.02½, which broke the run of Gaudaur last year, and Gaudaur acknowledges that he was never pushed so hard in a race in his life as he was yesterday.

Suffocated by Gas.

TORONTO, May 18.—John Coulter, a farmer from near Bolton, came to the city and put up at the Kerby house. The proprietor took him to his room and before leaving showed him how the gas was turned off. Coulter said it would be all right as he knew how to do it. Yesterday morning when the proprietor went to his room he found it full of gas and the unfortunate man lying dead. The deceased was a man between 35 and 40 years of age.

South Toronto Nominations.

TORONTO, May 18.—Mr. Oliver A. Howland, barrister, was nominated last night by the Conservatives of the constituency of South Toronto to contest the coming elections for the provincial legislature. There is some talk of the P.P.A. nominating a candidate also in this riding, and of asking Capt. J. A. Currie to stand. In this event there will be three candidates in the field in this constituency.

Teeswater Mill Destroyed.

TEESWATER, Ont., May 18.—The sawmill of W. R. Thompson here was discovered on fire yesterday and was completely destroyed. Large quantities of shingles, maple blocks and broom handles were burned. Loss about $5,000; insured in Gore Mutual for $1,500. Lightning is supposed to have been the cause, as a violent thunderstorm was taking place at the time.

An Old Man's Fall.

ROCKWOOD, May 18.—Richard Cook, a carpenter, about 75 years old, fell off a driving house at Squire Strange's and was almost killed. He had been shingling and fell a distance of about twent feet, alighting on a large flat stone. His arm is broken at the wrist, two ribs are broken, and he is cut on the head and it is feared that he is hurt internally. It is not likely he will recover.

Henry Tries to Escape.

PARIS, May 18.—La Libre Parole says Emil Henry, the Cafe Terminus anarchist, now awaiting execution, attempted to escape from Mazas prison a few days ago by bribing his keepers. One of the keepers reported the fact to his chief, and Henry is under constant surveillance.

A CALL FROM THE CLOUDS

Three Men Working on a Stone Barn Struck by Lightning.

ONE OF THEM KILLED INSTANTLY

They Took Refuge in a Barn From the Storm Where the Lightning Found Them—The Other Two Escape—The Unfortunate Man at One Time Was a Salvation Army Captain.

PETROLEA, Ont., May 18.—Mr. R. T. Thompson of this town, a stonemason and bricklayer, who was engaged in erecting a stone foundation for a new barn on Mr. John Mertin's farm, near Glenrae, was instantly killed by lightning yesterday.

It appears that Mr. Thompson and his brother, J. J. Thompson, and another man, saw a storm coming up while at work, and ran to a barn for safety. They were in the building about ten or fifteen minutes when the corner of the barn was torn off by lightning, knocking the other two men senseless and killing Mr. R. T. Thompson. When his brother came to, he found Thompson standing up with his hand around a post in the barn. He went to his assistance but was too late, death being instantaneous.

He was at one time captain of the Salvation Army here and is well-known in many places. He leaves a young wife and two small children

DISSATISFIED WITH AWARDS.

An English China Company Declined Their Diplomas.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Additional evidences of the dissatisfaction caused by the system of awards at the World's Fair in Chicago is furnished by correspondence just received in this city, between the Coalport China Company of England and Sir Henry Trueman Wood, secretary to the British common awards.

Upon receiving the list of awards, the company wrote to Sir Henry on April 24 appraising him of their intention to decline the diplomas and medals awarded them as exhibitors on the ground that "every exhibitor appears to have received an award." In reply, Sir Henry said he had already pointed out to the awards committee that the list "carried its own condemnation on the face of it, since awards were given to amateurs for exhibits of the most trifling character which were equal to those made to the largest and most important exhibitors."

BOTH LEGS CUT OFF.

Fatal Accident on the Grand Trunk Track in Toronto.

TORONTO, May 18.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday on the G. T. R. tracks, near the foot of Portland street. A train was backing up from the Esplanade, and when at the foot of Portland street a man named John Dickey was seen to jump on the end of a car and attempt to put on the brakes. In some manner his foot slipped and he fell in front of the train, which passed over him, cutting off both legs at the hip joint. He was at once removed in the ambulance to the General Hospital, but the shock he received was so great that he died a few hours after.

They May Criticize the Shah.

BRUSSELS, May 18.—A journalist named Osquerr in an article in his paper recently critized the Shah of Persia severely, and was arrested and tried. The prosecution showed that Osquerr had characterized the Persian monarch as a swinish brute and had advised his arrest as an altogether obnoxious person should he visit Belgium, as it was reported he intended to do. The public prosecutor demanded Osquerr's conviction on the ground that Belgium had received important commercial concessions from Persia, which might be revoked. The jury rendered a verdict of acquittal, based upon the belief that a verdict of conviction would be an abridgement of the freedom of the press.

On the Track of Smugglers.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Major John A. Butter captured a trunk smuggled through from the City hotel at Montreal containing 250 pounds of Sumatra tobacco, worth here $3 per pound. The trunk was consigned to S. Kohl and was cased at the tobacco warehouse of Jacob Hirsch. When informed of this by the officer the manager for Jacob Hirsch denied all knowledge of the trunk and its contents. The officers are confident they are on the track of persons who have been smuggling thousands of pounds of fine tobacco across the Canadian border.

Against Disestablishment.

LONDON, May 18.—The Episcopal archbishops and bishops of England have issued a circular letter protesting against the proposed disestablishment of the Church of Wales, which, they declare, would endanger the unity of the Church of England. The bishops particularly denounce the disendowment proposals, which, they say, appropriate to secular purposes ancient gifts intended for the service of God.

Electric Storm at London.

LONDON, Ont., May 18.—A terrific electric storm broke over the city yesterday. Rain fell in torrents, accompanied by hail stones the size of a marble, which did a great deal of damage by smashing conservatory glass. Trees also suffered considerable damage. A number of houses were struck by lightning, but the damage was comparatively slight.

Line Between Halifax and West Indies.

HALIFAX, May 18.—A new steamship line has been established between Halifax and the West Indes, the vessels stopping at Haytian ports and bidding for trade, which is now carried on by the United States merchants. The American consul reports to the State Department that the goods left by the first steamer consisted of fish, flour, potatoes and buckets.

Frontenac Conservatives.

KINGSTON, May 18.—The Frontenac Conservative Association met in convention for the selection of a candidate for the Local Legislature yesterday. Mr. J. L. Gallagher received the nomination.

SITUATION IN BLUEFIELDS.

England and United States Hand in Hand —Aguella Escapes.

BLUEFILDS, M.R., Nicaragua, May 12, via New Orleans, May 18.—Word reached here from the San Francisco, which is anchored off the Bluffs, that Robert H. Clarence, the Mosquito chief, would be brought back here from Pearl Lagoon on board the British man-of-war Magicienne and domiciled in Bluefields to stay, or in other words that he would be reinstated in his rights as chief of the Mosquitos by the English.

In the afternoon the Magicienne arrived, and immediately Captain Clark came ashore with Clarence and a few of his natives and he was domiciled at his old home in the city. I asked Captain Watson the meaning of this, but all he would say in reply to my questions was, "You will be safe in saying he has come to stay."

He added that everyone should understand that England and the United States were not working against each other, but, as Minister Blake had put it, "The white people had combined to meet the advances of the Latin race."

Last night the San Francisco departed for Greytown to take Consul Braide to his post of duty, leaving this place without an American official representative, though it is expected Consul B. B. Seat will return shortly from the United States.

Aguella, the murderer of Wm. Wilson, escaped on Wednesday last. Governor Ruelling, the new official at Rama who supplanted Torres, immediately started on a hunt for him, but was unable to head him off. Ruelling arrived here last night and reports that Aguella is located in a dense jungle two miles from Rama, where it is almost impossible to get at him.

ALLEGED BRIBERY OF SENATORS.

Investigation of the Recent Newspaper Publications Demanded.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The recent newspaper publications as to the alleged attempt to bribe two senators to vote against the tariff bill as to the sugar provisions in that bill, having been inserted in consideration of the gift of half a million dollars to the Democratic campaign fund in 1892, were brought up in the senate and occupied its attention throughout the morning hour.

Mr. Hunton (Dem., Va.), one of the two senators whose votes it was sought to buy, expressed the hope that the matter would be investigated and probed to its depth, and Mr. Harris (Dem., Tenn.,) joined in like request on behalf of the other senator interested.—Mr. Kyle (Pop., S.D.,) absent from Washington. Senator Hansbrough (Rep., N.D.,) presented a letter from the reputed bribery agent, C. W. Buttz, also inviting the speediest investigation and denouncing the whole story as a falsehood and slander.

The resolution was finally agreed to without a division, considerably widened in its scope from the one originally offered by Mr. Lodge.

Horrible Suicide in New York.

NEW YORK, May 18.—A horrible case of murder and suicide was unearthed last night. Mrs. Lena Samsmuller, aged 90 years, was found in her bedroom in the rear tenement house, 641 East Tenth street, with her throat cut from ear to ear, and the body of her son Charles, aged 50 years, lying close by with his throat also cut.

Painter—There, now, is my new picture! What's the matter with that, eh? Quiet Friend—I don't know, but I should say that it was a case of art failure.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which, cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

THE STRIVING OF GOD'S SPIRIT.

Mr. Crossley Preaches a Powerful and Lucid Sermon on This Subject.

The congregation was perhaps not as large as usual in Bridge St. church last evening, but the enthusiasm and attention were if anything more intense. Mr. Crossley sang a beautiful solo at the opening, after which the Rev. Mr. Trotter made the announcements for the Sunday meetings.

Rev. Mr. Hunter took occasion to compliment the local papers again on the splendid reports they had been giving of these meetings and said it would be well for the citizens to send away four or five copies every day to their friends, as many conversions had been brought about in this way in other places. He said to-night's meeting would be especially interesting. They expected four excursions, and if the friends wanted a seat they must come early. It will be announced to-night when the meetings will close, but they will continue next week at any rate. His lesson was from Luke 14: 16. C—o—m—e! I like that word come. If you do not obey the comes of Jesus you are lost. He spoke on the excuses made by the men invited to the great supper. One man had bought land and had to go and look at it. It's a bad policy to buy land before you see it. He had known of some men who did this in Manitoba and they were badly bitten. But this was only an excuse—a lie. Another had married a wife and could not come. God bless that man. Perhaps he married one of those powdered, puffed, painted society women. There are lots of them in this city, and if you take the paint off I don't know what would be left of them. I have heard that some parties have been tampering with some of the young converts, and trying to lead them astray again. Hell is too good for the person who will give any man liquor after he has tried to do better. These men will sink to the lowest depths of hell. If I get your name, you might as well leave the city within six hours. Unconverted people sometimes say they don't believe the bible. Generally these people don't read the bible, and don't know where to find the most frequently quoted passages. You can generally tell by the face of a man or woman what sort of a life they are leading. Christianity is not gloomy, and a countenance will show it. Some people are always looking for hypocrites in the church. They are the worst hypocrites, as a general thing. I don't know of any hypocrites in the church. I don't care what road a man is on or what church he belongs to, if he is on the road to heaven. If you go to hell, you will go in spite of God. He wants to save you. God is merciful.

Mr. Crossley sang "Some will Enter the Pearly Gates," after which he preached from the text "My spirit will not always strive with man," Gen. vi:3. This text should stimulate the christian workers to renewed activity. The spirit strives with every man in some way—through your children, your husband or your wife, or your friend, and everybody feels the striving; but some misunderstand it. God strives to win you just as a man strives to win a bride, by gently drawing you. Some of you are like a horse or a mule; you wait to be yanked. God spoke to Elijah in the still small voice and so He is speaking to you. We all possess the power, if we choose to exercise it, of resisting the strivings of God. God can't save you against your will. You have veto the power. You are resisting the Lord when you wilfully do that you know to be wrong. The results of resisting are stubborness, spiritual blindness, spiritual deafness, apathy or indifference, and the final result is that the spirit will leave you. If the spirit leaves you, you will not care to be saved and no one will speak to you of salvation. How thankful you ought to be that people are struggling with you to win you. When you are left of the spirit you are as sure of perdition as if you were there. The Lord never leaves an individual until he sees that he is incorrigible and no possibility of his becoming a christian. Some of your hearts to-night are like the flaming wick, others like the spark in the wick that has gone out and some of you may think you have not even the spark left. Have you any fear? There's hope for you if you have.

NOTES.

The after meeting in the inquiry room attracted a large number and many seekers were there also.

The programme for Sunday will be: At four o'clock a meeting for men only in the opera house and one for women only in Bridge St. church at the same hour. In the evening the evangelists will be at both Holloway and Bridge St.

Rev. Mr. Trotter rapped the congregation on the knuckles last night about the small collections. "The servant is worthy of his hire. Don't be stingy," said he.

THE FEE COMMISSION.

Conclusion of the Evidence Taken Yesterday Afternoon.

The Fee Commission continued yesterday afternoon and following is a summary of the evidence taken:

P. R. Daly, of Thurlow, would give County Councils the appointment of Registrars of Deeds, and also the power to fix the scale of fees. The County Court Judges should appoint Division Court officials. Other appointments should be made by the Government.

Ex-Mayor Wallbridge believed in payment by salary instead of fees. License Inspectors and Registrars, and perhaps some others, should be appointed by the County Councils.

James M. Farley, Warden of Hastings and Reeve of Sidney, said he was in favor of the people electing the Registrar of Deeds Sheriff, Clerk of the Crown, Clerk of the Peace, Clerk of the County Court and County Attorney. He would leave Division Court officials as at present. He would continue the fee system, but lessen the remuneration of some officers.

Wm. R. Aylesworth, Clerk of the County Council, favored the present system of appointment and payment by fees.

The commission meets at Cobourg today.

SPRAYING FRUIT TREES.

Valuable Information Given by Mr. Craig, of the Experimental Farm.

In response to a resolution passed by the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, at its last annual meeting, asking the Dominion Government, through the Experimental Farm, to undertake experiments in this line, and fully recognizing the importance of such work to the fruit interests of the country, the Minister of Agriculture commissioned Mr. Craig to meet fruit growers in some of the important centres of Ontario with a view to obtaining their co-operation and support in carrying out the details of the various experiments.

The Grimsby and St. Catharines districts were selected and the work commenced last week.

Mr. Craig reports that he was met with the utmost cordiality by the fruit growers, who expressed great satisfaction at the institution of the work, and promised hearty support in every instance. Experiments were inaugurated at seven different centres in the Grimsby and St. Catharines districts, the unusual forwardness of the season preventing operating on a large scale. Peaches, cherries and plums were treated with the twofold object of preventing loss from a fungous disease, causing the fruit to rot on the trees, and insect attacks. Apples and pears have also for some years past been seriously injured by "spotting" and "cracking," due to the presence of fungous disease, and by the attacks of codling moth and curculio. These were sprayed with the hope that the injuries caused by the pests mentioned might be greatly lessened. For early spraying, before the buds open, copper sulphate, 1 lb., disolved in 25 gallons of water, is used. The next application is made just before the blossoms open with dilute Bordeaux mixture. This is prepared by dissolving 4 lbs. of copper sulphate in as many gallons of water, and slacking 4 lbs. of lime in the same quantity of water. The lime is then added to the copper sulphate solution and the whole diluted with water to 45 gallons, or the capacity of an ordinary coal oil barrel.

The third spraying should take place immediately after the blossoms have fallen and the fruit has set. Bordeaux mixture is used as before with the addition of 4 ounces of Paris green to prevent the attacks of leaf-eating insects: another application of the same mixture should be made three weeks later.

Copper carbonate is recommended for the last spraying, which is made two or three weeks later. This is prepared by dissolving 5 ounces of copper carbonate in two quarts of ammonia and diluting with 45 gallons of water. The treatment just outlined is recommended for pears, apples and grapes. In spraying the stone fruits, the quantity of Paris green is reduced to 3 ounces per barrel of water, as the foliage is more susceptible to injury.

A GALA NIGHT IN CAMP ROB ROY.

Last Reunion of the Season, and One to be Happily Remembered.

Camp Rob Roy Sons of Scotland presented a most attractive bill of fare to their patrons last evening at their closing reunion for the season. The series of entertainments provided by this young but vigorous and progressive society has proved highly interesting, and a general feeling of regret was expressed that they have come to a close for the present at least. It is expected that they will be resumed in the autumn or early fall, as the chairman held out hopes, with possibly an excursion on the bay in the interval. The bagpipes would doubtless sound fine on the water, possibly equal to the

Bells of Shandon
That sound so grand on
The River Lee.

The audience last night was fairly large, the programme varied and interesting and everyone seemed well satisfied. Splendid songs were sung by Professor Canfield (who was introduced by the chairman as a musician of more than local repute) Mr. W. C. Maclean and Miss Falconer—all heartily encored. Miss Jessie Robertson recited some humorous stories in her own happy style. Dr. Wright gave a most interesting address on British history, relating more especially to the union of the two kingdoms England and Scotland, which was evidently enjoyed by the intelligent audience, judging by their hearty applause. Mr. John McIntosh, the vocalist, par excellence, of the Camp, was down on the programme for a couple of songs, but owing to a hoarseness was unable to sing, which was a disappointment. With Misses Falconer and Edwards and Mr. John Falconer, however, he danced as nimbly as of yore—and a most graceful dancer he is. Mr. Wm. McIntosh manipulated the pipes with his usual taste and skill. All joined heartily in singing Auld Lang Syne with true Scottish fervor.

THE PLAN OF SELLING MEDICINES ON TRIAL IS PECULIAR TO PIERCE

Remember These.

Plutarch couldn't have put on a pair of two-shilling suspenders, made a horse shoe nail answer for a button, nor rejuvenated a celluloid collar from a comatose state. He travelled extensively and yet any bunco-man of to day would have found him in a fat take. He delivered lectures on philosophy, but tried to pull a wick through a cold tallow candle. He could speak twelve languages, but was silent in all when he saw a wheelbarrow for the first time.

Diogenes never went a-fishing, never stole harvest apples or melons, never attended a husking bee or spelling school, and he passed away without a suspicion that the barbed wire fence was to come after him.

Pythagoras gave us the problem of Euclid, and he was welcomed in the councils of the wisest men, but when he saw a sliding hog pen door for the first time he was so taken back that a friend had to lead him home.

King Solomon couldn't have hung a screen door to save his neck, and if he had been asked to hang a roller-curtain or put a new leg on the family lounge he would have been as helpless as an infant.

Empedocles was called the greatest of all Greek philosophers, but he couldn't tell where the material went when he found a hole in the heel of his stocking.

Helen of Troy couldn't have sharpened a table-knife on a stove-pipe nor hit the head of a ten-penny nail once in forty times.

Demosthenes died without knowing that three deuces beat two pairs, and he never saw an educated hog in his life.

Cicero shook a nation with his words, and yet he could not bridle a donkey or tack down a carpet.

Joan of Arc couldn't have set a rat-trap, pickled a jar of cucumbers nor cut the baby's hair.

Cato never sat down on a carpet-tack or touched a buzz saw to see if it was running.

Rome in its palmiest days knew nothing of buckwheat cakes or codfish balls.

Nero couldn't have guessed the use of a wooden clothes pin.

Plato never rode down a toboggan slide.

More of the Big Cheese.

The big Canadian cheese, which was cut in London a short time ago for the delectation of about fifty guests, is to be subdivided into one-hundred pound portions for general distribution, and some of these portions are to be sent back to Canada to be sold for general consumption. It will be remembered that the cheese stood the test at the close of the Chicago Fair, and was pronounced by competent judges there to be sound and merchantable, but on its arrival at Liverpool, the trader who had offered to buy it went back on his offer, pleading that it was not in good condition It was then sold to Mr Jubal Webb, at 4d. per pound, and was sampled at Kensington lately, in the presence of Marquis of Lorne, Sir Charles Tupper, and about fifty guests. Within a ring of four or five inches, the big cheese was found to be of excellent flavor, and speeches were made upon it, and the fact emphasized that of the 414 awards for cheese at the Chicago Fair, Canada obtained 369 and the United States 45 only. The big cheese of 22,000 pounds, kept its quality all through the semi-tropical heat of the Liberal Art Buildings, and when cut up in London was found still in such good condition that samples of it will be sent broadcast over England as evidence of what Canada can produce, and, as said before, a quantity of it will come back to Canada, in order that our people may be satisfied of its genuineness.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY MAY 18

CHARGES AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

Campaign lies: That Mr. Dryden allowed a calf afflicted with tuberculosis or of tuberculous parentage, to be taken from the agricultural farm.

That Mr. Scully received commissions on the sale of Central prison products, to which he was not legally entitled.

That Mr. Stratton advised Mr. Grundy to give false evidence before the public accounts committee.

That criminal alterations were effected in documents registered in Peterborough, with the connivance of the registrar.

That Mr. Awrey sought to deceive the House in regard to Mr. Grundy's offer to again give evidence.

That—by the way, what are the other charges?—Toronto Globe.

To which an exchange replies:

It is easy to say that certain statements are lies. It is less easy to prove them lies. Official records show that cattle were imported for the agricultural farm at Guelph which developed tuberculosis; that those cattle were placed near others, and that the others contracted the disease; that calves which were the offspring of diseased mothers and which had otherwise been exposed, were offered for sale; and that at least two of them were found to be diseased after the sale.

2. It is matter of record that a contractor purchased brick from the officials of the Central prison without the agency of any middleman or broker; and that Scully was paid a commission on the price of the brick he did not sell.

3. It is matter of record that Mr. Stratton advised Mr. Grundy not to give testimony calculated to injure the Mowat Government, and that Mr. Harcourt, a member of the Government, censured Mr. Grundy for being willing to answer questions—that he "had no objection to being cornered so far as Mr. Stratton was concerned."

4. Documents registered at Peterborough were altered after they were registered. We cannot say whether the act was criminal or not.

5. Mr. Awrey did not deceive the house in respect to Mr. Grundy's desire to again give evidence. The Globe's own editorial statement shows that Mr. Awrey said he received the telegraphic despatch on Wednesday, the last day on which the committee sat, when in fact he received it on Tuesday, which was not the last day on which the committee sat.

As to the other charges, they are so numerous that it is impossible even to give a list of them here. But let us content ourselves with a single addition to the Globe's list to day.

The Ontario Government gives a monopoly in school books to certain favored publishers. No other books are permitted in the public schools of the province—no other publishers are permitted to print the authorized books, and parents are compelled to buy books from the monopolists. The Government permits the monopolists to charge a certain scale of prices, though often publishers have offered to do the work at one half those prices. There is an average attendance of 250,000 pupils at the public schools of the province. The expenditure for books on account of each pupil is about $2 annually, or $500,000 for all. One half of that is plunder—money stolen from the public for the benefit of the monopoly created by Sir Oliver Mowat. The monopoly is for ten years, representing robberies from the public of $2,500,000

PETITION FOR A NEW TRIAL

The Last Hope of the Condemned Williams Murderer.

REASONS FILED BY ROBINETTE

Sufficient New Evidence, He Claims, Has Been Obtained to Establish MacWherrell's Innocence—His Conduct Before and After the Murder Claimed to Have Been Unlike That of a Guilty Man.

TORONTO, May 18.—T. C. Robinette filed his reasons for a new trial on behalf of William Walter MacWherrell in the Court of Queen's Bench yesterday. The grounds upon which the appeal will be made are:

That the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

That sufficient new, important and material evidence has been obtained, which, in case a new trial is granted, will establish MacWherrell's innocence.

That the new evidence clearly shows that MacWherrell was in Toronto about 7.30 on the evening of the 14th December, the day he was said to be on Williams' farm.

That the learned trial judge in his charge did not sufficiently lay before the jury the law of reasonable doubt.

That a necessary and material witness, named Harry Irwin, on behalf of the crown, could not be found at the time of the trial, but has now reappeared and will give evidence in case a new trial is granted.

That the learned judge erred in his statement of law to the jury that the possession of the horse and cutter by MacWherrell so soon after the crime had been committed was not only presumptive evidence that MacWherrell had stolen the horse and cutter, but that he also committed the crime.

That no motive in order to fasten the crime on the prisoner has been shown and his conduct both preceding and subsequent to the murder renders it very improbable that he should be the guilty man.

That the bias and prejudice of the people of the county of Peel against the prisoner rendered it impossible to obtain twelve men from the jury panel whose minds were not already either partially or wholly made up as to his guilt.

DESTROYED BY A CYCLONE.

An Ohio Village Almost Entirely Wiped Out—Seven Lives Lost.

BRYAN, Ohio, May 18.—The village of Kunkel, in Williams county, was almost entirely destroyed by a cyclone yesterday. Seven lives are known to have been lost. Thirty persons were injured, some of them fatally, and more than fifty houses demolished.

Kunkel is a town of about 300 inhabitants in the extreme northwestern part of the state, on the Detroit and Logansport branch of the Wabash railway. Montpelier, Ohio, the nearest telegraph station, was closed when the report came in, and there is no telegraphic communication between Bryan, the county seat, and Kunkel.

Her Majesty Reviews the Troops.

LONDON, May 18.—The Queen, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge, journeyed to Aldershot yesterday to witness the annual review of the troops on Lafan's plain. They were received with appropriate ceremony by Gen. Sir Redvers H. Buller, Sir Henry Evelyn Wood and Sir Francis Wallace Grenfell. Twelve thousand troops, under the command of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, marched past the reviewing stand. The horse artillery came first, and in order named followed the cavalry, militia and marines. Afterwards the infantry brigades marched in column, the mounted troops trotted and cavalry galloped past the reviewing stand. The lines were then formed and the troops advanced in front of her Majesty in review order and gave the royal salute.

Riot on a Race Track.

PARIS, May 18.—At the Long Champs track Edmond Blancs Toujours, the favorite for the Prix Heissit, broke from the course and did not finish. The crowd became riotous. They swarmed down over the course, dragged Toujours' jockey to the ground and began to maltreat him. He bolted and some 200 angry losers gave chase. The police checked the disturbance for a few minutes, but it was renewed at the paddock. The jockey and horse were pelted with dirt and stones, and fully 400 men got into a free-for-all fight. The jockey's friends were worsted, but they got him beyond the crowds reach before he could be injured.

The Pacific Cable.

LONDON, May 18.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner and Sir John Pender, M. P., have been exchanging letters concerning the proposed Pacific cable. The correspondence arose from the paper which Sir Charles read before the Colonial Institute on May 8. Most of it concerned technical matters, but in a letter published this morning Sir Charles emphasizes the strategic importance of the cable, whose construction and operation, he believes, could easily be secured upon the lines suggested by the conference at Wellington, with such modifications as may be adopted at the Ottawa conference.

Depression in Argentine.

LONDON, May 18.—A Times despatch from Buenos Ayres says that the high gold premium is partly due to the distrust of the commercial community in the immediate future, and partly to persistent rumors of impending resignations of members of the cabinet. Business in the produce markets is paralyzed on account of the cheapness of cereals, and the result is that all commerce is depressed.

A New and Destructive Bug.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 18.—Prof. Entner, the state entomologist has received some samples of a very destructive bug, or beetle, now for the first time found in Central New York, devastating the asparagus crop. It is reported to have almost destroyed the crop in Monroe county. It is known generally as the twelve-spotted asparagus beetle.

Will Colonize Siberia.

ODESSA, May 18.—The government has decided to settle 4,400 peasants from Southern Russia and 100 Cossack families in Ussuri, Siberia, during the coming summer. The transfer of these colonists will be made entirely at the expense of the government.

An Absconding Secretary.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 18.—W. H. Simsrott, the grand secretary and treasurer of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, is missing. Grand Organizer Barrett thinks Simsrott may have been waylaid by persons supposing he carried the order's funds.

Tom Leary Released.

DUBLIN, May 18.—Through the efforts of William Redmond, M.P., Tom Leary, who had been serving a ten years' sentence in Clare prison, has been released. Leary was sentenced two years ago for alleged agrarian crimes.

To Please the Yankee Officers.

LONDON, May 18.—Twelve hundred invitations have been issued for the banquet in St. James' hall on the Queen's birthday in honor of the officers of the United States cruiser Chicago.

No Representative From Natal.

LONDON, May 18.—A despatch from Cape Town says that Natal has declined to send a representative to the Ottawa colonial conference, owing to the shortness of the notice.

CARING FOR THE POOR.

By a canon of the church all bishops were formerly required to keep almoners, or officials to distribute their alms.

One charitable society in London has thirty-eight offices where inquiry is made into all cases of distress presented.

The grand almoner of France was, prior to the revolution of 1789, the highest ecclesiastical dignitary in the kingdom.

Queen Victoria's almoner, the dean of Windsor, distributes special gifts from the queen to the poor on Maunday-Thursday.

The value of property now held in France for charitable purposes amounts to the enormous sum of seventy million pounds.

The Lazarists, a religious benevolent order, received their name from their first being located in the priory of St. Lazarus in Paris.

The Austro-Hungarian refuges for the aged and infirm support their inmates at an average expenditure of fifteen cents a day.

One of the largest hospitals in the world is the Misericordia of Rio Janeiro. It receives annually over thirteen thousand patients.

In 1880 the value of property held for charitable purposes in England was fifty-one million pounds, an average of two pounds to each inhabitant.

LITERARY BREVITIES.

Japan has 700 newspapers and magazines and produces annually 18,000 books, or booklets.

Ex-President James McCosh, of Princeton, has completed the manuscript of his own biography, but has not decided if the work shall appear during his lifetime.

The statement that F. Marion Crawford is the most popular American novelist is confirmed by the report that he receives the sum of $10,000 on the publication of each novel which he writes.

Swinburne, the poet, and Theodore Watts, the painter, live together in an English manor house. The poet is said to have grown so deaf that he hears an ordinary conversation with great difficulty.

The biography of Abraham Lincoln, written by President Sarmiento, who was Argentine minister to the United States at the time of Lincoln's assassination, is used as a text book in the Argentine public schools.

Of Prof. Drummond's "The Greatest Thing in the World," 312,000 copies have been sold; of his "Natural Law in the Spiritual World," 114,000; of his "Tropical Africa," 28,000, and of his "Baxter's Second Innings," 25,000.

The popularity of novels is probably nowhere so great as in Australia. It is said that ninety per cent. of the female and seventy-five per cent. of the male frequenters of the public libraries read novels almost exclusively.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A piece of charcoal put into the pot when cooking cabbage will prevent all offensive smell.

A small teaspoonful of powdered borax added to a bowl of cold starch will give more stiffness to linen than any of the numerous things that have been tried.

Add a tablespoonful of borax to a pan of hot soapsuds; put your table silver in and let it stand for two hours; rinse it with clear water and polish with a soft cloth or chamois.

Lemonade, says the doctors, is best when made of boiling water, covered up closely and allowed to cool. In this way it is more full of flavor and goodness and best suited to invalids, and one lemon will go as far as two.

A new method of cleaning clothes is suggested. Dip the clothes brush in the yolk of an egg, so that the bristles are quite wet. Allow it to dry and then use. This treatment has, it is said, the effect to make the brushing especially effective.

The Princess of Wales has one accomplishment which has commended her warmly to her royal father. He says with pride that she can concoct a more tempting Welsh rarebit than any other woman in England. She is an excellent housekeeper and her mother's right hand in such household management as falls to the lot of Her Royal Highness.

Baker to the Queen.

There is at Perth, in Scotland, an old woman who might use the sign "Baker to the Queen" in a much more literal sense than those dignified words usually have. She can make shortbread to Her Majesty's liking, and no one else can. Consequently, 365 days in the year she makes, bakes, packs and sends to the Queen a loaf of that dainty.

Boarding-House Item.

"Did you notice how our new boarder is always looking lovingly at me at the dinner table," said the landlady's daughter to her mother.

"Yes; I noticed how he winks at you when you are cutting the pie. He is hinting for a big piece.

A Suitable Epitaph.

It is related that a chronic office-seeker died a few years ago, and his friends asked a well-known journalist for an epitaph for his tombstone. The journalist suggested the following, which was not, however, adopted: "Here lies John Jones in the only place for which he never applied!"

Griffiths expected to cover the distance in 60 days.

Earthquake in Scotland.

EDINBURGH, May 18.—Slight shock of earthquake were experienced in the Annandale and Esdale hill near Dumfries yesterday.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 18, 1894.

Bradstreet's latest available supply of wheat in the United States and Canada is placed at 86,718,000 bushels, a decrease of 23,394,000 bushels since January 1.

The bank clearings here this week amount to $5,730,330, as compared with $5,933,622 last week and $5,407,840 the corresponding week of last year.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Receipts of grain were limited to a load of oats, which sold at 39c. Wheat is quoted at 62c for white, at 61c for red, and 58c for goose. Peas quoted at 66c, and barley at 40 to 42c.

At the London wool sales 7,500 bales were offered, the better grades being actively competed for. Queensland greasies sold readily to continental buyers and scoured wools were in good demand with the home trade and buyers for Germany.

In Chicago another slump in the price of wheat took place owing to the absence of export demand and heavy receipts. The close showed a net loss of 1¼c for the day. Corn followed wheat closing with a loss of ⅛c. Oats were quiet. At the close July was a shade higher, whilst May and June were ⅛ to ⅜c lower.

Buffalo cattle market reports nothing doing. Tone steady. Sheep and lambs, 35 cars on sale, weak. One load of prime selected 75 pound lambs brought $4.70, but the best of the lambs generally sold at $4.50 to $4.60, with choice 60 and 70 pound lots at $4.25 to $4.40 for the general run of butchers' sheep.

Cheese Markets.

BROCKVILLE.

BROCKVILLE, May 17.—The cheese market to-day was brisk. Offerings were 1,995 boxes colored and 1,190 white, a total of 3 185 boxes. Sales were 890 white at 10⅛c, 1,441 colored at 10⅛c.

LISTOWEL.

LISTOWEL, May 17.—The annual meeting and the first fair of the Listowel cheese board was held here to-day. Mr. S. McAllister, Donegal, was elected president. Eleven factories offered 902 boxes of May cheese. Three lots sold at 10⅛c. Most of the factories had sold previously to the fair. A resolution was adopted by a vote nearly unanimous among the salemen not to adopt the rule of allowing half a pound up beam and no fractions in weighing cheese; after which Mr. R. Ballantyne rose and read an agreement signed by the buyers of western Ontario, binding themselves to buy cheese only by that rule, viz.: all cheese to be weighed half a pound up beam more than the weight marked on the boxes, and no fractions to be taken into account. The agreement was signed by J.T. Brill, T. Ballantyne & Son, C. W. Riley, Hodgson Bros, John W. Cook, for Warrington; Hibbert, for Ayers, and J. L. Grant. The rule was adopted at Woodstock, Brantford and Shelburne, and rejected at London, Ingersoll and Listowel. All the boards have taken action on the matter, and this is the first announcement of the position assumed by the buyers.

"Stop My Paper."

After you get angry and stop your paper, just poke your finger into water, pull it out and look for the hole. Then you will know how sadly you are missed. A man who thinks that a paper cannot thrive without his support ought to go off and stay awhile. When he comes back, half his friends will not know he has gone, and the other half will not care a cent, while the world at large kept no account of his movement. You will find things that you cannot endorse in every paper. Even the bible is rather plain and hits some hard raps. If you were to get mad and burn your bible, the hundreds of presses would still go on printing it; and when you stop your paper and call the editor names, the paper will be published, and what is more, you will read it on the sly.

Ask your druggist his opinion of Phenyo-Caffein for headache or neuralgia.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,

It is believed that the custom of raising the hat to ladies is derived from the days of chivalry, when the knights unhelmed before the ladies.

SKIN DISEASES are more or less directly occasioned by bad blood. B. B. B. cures the following Skin Diseases: Shingles, Erysipelas, Itching Rashes, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Eruptions, Pimples and Blotches, by removing all impurities from the blood from a common Pimple to the worst Scrofulous sore.

The Medicine for Liver and Kidney Complaint.—Mr. Victor Auger, Ottawa, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending to the general public Parmelee's Pills, as a cure for Liver and Kidney complaint. I have doctored for the last three years with leading physicians and have taken many medicines which were recommended to me without relief, but after taking eight of Parmelee's Pills I was quite relieved, and now I feel as free from the disease as before I was troubled."

M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Manitoba writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here, and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day."

Somehow a man feels much worse the day after he has lost an hour's sleep on account of the baby than he does the day after he has lost five hours' sleep at the club.

I HAD a severe cold, for which I took Norway Pine Syrup. I find it an excellent remedy, giving prompt relief and pleasant to take.

SMALL OBLIGATIONS.

A WARPED MORALITY IS THE RESULT OF LAXITY.

Carelessness in Paying What One Owes Very Often Causes Inconvenience, Embarrassment and Even Misery—Avoid Debt as You Would Disgrace.

Few women, let us hope, are intentionally dishonest. The majority of women are fastidious in the conduct of their finances, shrinking from debt as from disgrace, and preferring to pay fully and honorably as they go. Yet, now and then one hears a wail of complaint from people who suffer needlessly because of the heedless manner in which other people keep them waiting for money which they have earned. A dressmaker said, recently, to one of her patrons: "I am nearly frantic when I think how hard I worked and how late I sat up to finish Miss ——'s graduation gown, and now I am afraid I will never be paid. I have waited six months for that bill, and I cannot get one cent, though I have almost begged for it, even offering to take it in instalments. I am distressed in these hard times, when everybody is retrenching, because people do not have so many new things, and others who have had them put off paying me."

On her way home the sympathetic customer thought about it, happening to know that there were no indications of want or strained means in the family of the delinquent debtor, inferring that the thing was due to an ingrained indifference to paying for work when done. Probably there was at first a temporary inconvenience in settling the bill, and it was postponed for a day or two, and then the period lengthened insensibly, other creditors brought their bills, large amounts were paid, and still the poor dressmaker waited and wondered, and grew frantic with worry, poor thing?

To defer even for one day the paying of the laundress who has acceptably finished her day's work in your kitchen is, it may be, to force her to ask credit, grudgingly given to such as she, at the grocer's shop where she deals, or else to send her children meagerly fed to their beds. People who have a comfortable balance in bank do not comprehend the strained circumstances of the people who live from hand to mouth.

Coal-bins filled to the overflow are a different thing from coal purchased in the dearest way, by the pailful at a time, yet thousands of poor women can buy their coal only in very small quantities or go without. Think of being calmly told to wait till to-morrow for one's wages, when neither stick of wood nor ounce of coal was on hand for the family fire!

Apart from the inconvenience, embarrassment, and misery entailed by laxity in paying what one owes, especially when the creditors are the poor, and the debts are small, there is evident a serious lack of principle in persons who can comfortably continue in debt.

Any lapse in the rigid honor which insists on meeting each demand and paying it in full at the moment of its maturity involves a loss of self-respect, and brings in its train a warped morality.

There are few things more important in the education of children than the fostering in them the right estimate of personal obligation. The child should be enjoined against borrowing and begging in his small transactions. Let him be held to strict account and responsibility as to his management of his allowance. Fidelity here will tell in years to come, when his dealings are no longer small, but affect great commercial interests.—Harper's Bazar.

The Patent Medicine Habit.

"The cologne habit is rather common, especially among women, the Jamaica ginger habit is heard from occasionally, and cases of even the vinegar habit are reported once in a awhile. But I can tell you of one that is more absurd, and yet much more common." The speaker was a Buffalo druggist.

"What is it?"

"It's the patent medicine habit. Men have it a little oftener than woman, and one rarely recovers from it, so far as my observation goes. Try one kind of patent medicine and that's all right. Try another kind and maybe that's all right. Try a third and you're a goner. In all my experience of many years I never knew of a person who had tried three different patent remedies, one right after the other, who had not by that time become a confirmed patent medicine fiend, given to reading newspaper advertisements in search of new remedies and diseases to fit them. In time the habit wipes out its victim, same as morphine or drink would. It is a fact, though—I speak as a friend and not as a druggist—that a few of the patent medicines really contain valuable ingredients and effect wonderful cures. They are carefully prepared on a scientific basis, but most of them are frauds, containing cheap, harmless, useless drugs, and sold at high prices. But people insist on buying them, and we have to sell them. What is more, some insist on being cured by them, whereas they wouldn't be helped a bit if they knew what the medicine was made of. That's patent faith cure."—Buffalo Express.

A Mistaken Idea.

Women have the mistaken idea that men are opposed to their advancement. Now, really, they are not. In fact, I do not believe they think very much about it. They just go on calmly, and we make all the fuss about it. Woman may come out and expand in the sunlight of her public progress, but I believe she loses just a little of the perfume of her womanhood, just as flowers grows more gorgeous in the sun but lack the delicate perfume of those that bloom more in the shade. The shade for woman is in the path of quiet, intellectual progress.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Painter—There, now, is my new picture! What's the matter with that, eh? Quiet Friend—I don't know, but I should say that it was a case of art failure.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which, cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Speaks through the Boothbay (Me.) Register, of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are in need of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills. They will do good."

"A CHEERFUL CHURCH,"

TURNED BY FIRE INTO ONE OF MOURNING FOR THE THIRD TIME.

How Solomon's Song is Regarded by the Great Brooklyn Divine—How the Words Fitted the Tabernacle, Its People and Its Pastor During the Past 25 Years.

BROOKLYN, May, 13, 1894.—The Tabernacle was crowded to the doors to-day when Rev. Dr. Talmage took for the subject of his forenoon sermon a passage of Scripture which has been made the subject of much discussion and various interpretation by modern theologians. His theme was, "A Cheerful Church," and the text was selected from Solomon's Song, 4, 1: "Behold, thou art fair, my love."

"Higher criticism" says that this book of Solomon's Song is a love scene, a forlorn maiden sighing for her beau. If so it is an unclean and debauched utterance inserted in the pure Word of God, and is not fit for common reading. My opinion is that it is an inspired ode setting forth the feeling of Christ toward the church and of the church toward Christ. Christ is the bridegroom, and the church is the bride. The same words we can utter to-day truthfully whether in regard to the church of God in general or this church in particular: "Behold thou art fair, my love." The past week has been one of prolonged congratulation for that we have for twenty-five years been permitted to associate with each other in the relation of pastor and people. When I came to Brooklyn I found a small band of Christian disciples who from various causes had become less and less, until they stood upon the very verge of extinction as a church; and the question was being agitated from time to time whether it would be possible to maintain a church life longer. Indeed, had not those men and women been consecrated and earnest, they would have surrendered to the adverse circumstances. They marshalled a congregational meeting, and gathering up all the forces possible, they cast nineteen votes for a pastor, all of which I am happy to have received.

It was not through any spirit of personal courage or reckless adventure that led me from one of the warmest and most congenial pastorates in Philadelphia that a man ever enjoyed to this then most uninviting field; but it was the feeling that God had called me to the work, and I was sure He would see me through.

I have thought that it might be profitable to us to state briefly what kind of a church we have been trying to establish.

In the first place, I remark that we have been trying to build here a Christian church—distinctively such; in other words, a church where we should preach the Lord Jesus Christ and Him crucified. My theology is all gone into five letters—Jesus. Jesus the pardon of all offences. Jesus, the foundation of all structures. Jesus, the balm of all wounds. Jesus, the eye-salve for all blindness. Jesus, the hope for all discouragements. Jesus, the reform of all wrongs. I have faith to believe that there is more power in one drop of the blood of Jesus Christ to cure the woes of the world than in an oceanful of human quackery. Jesus is the grandest note in any minstrelsy. He is the brightest gem in any crown. Height overtopping all height. The centre of every circumference. The circumference to every centre. The pacifier of all turbulence. The umpire of all disputes. Jesus! Jesus! At His table all nations are to sit. Around His throne all worlds are to revolve. He is to be the irradiation of the universe. Jesus! Jesus! It is that truth that we have tried to preach in this Tabernacle.

Do you ask more minutely what we believe? I can tell you. We have no dry, withered, juiceless theology. We believe in God, the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth, the Deliverer of the distressed, the Home for the homeless, the Friend for the friendless. We believe in Jesus Christ, able to save to the uttermost, pardoning the guilty, imputing His righteousness to the believer. We believe in the Holy Ghost, the Comforter, the Sanctifier, cheering up the heart in life's ills, and kindling bright lights in every dark landing place. We believe that the whole race is so sunken in sin that nothing but the omnipotent arm of God can ever lift it out. We believe in grace—free grace, sovereign grace, triumphant grace, eternal grace. We believe in a Bible—authentic in its statements, immaculate in its teachings, glorious in its promises. We believe in heaven, the abode of the righteous; and in hell, the residence of those who soul-suicides—of their own free choice, refusing the Divine mercy. We believe in the salvation of all men who accept Christ by faith, be they sprinkled or immersed, worship they in cathedral or in log cabin, believe they in Presbyterianism or Episcopacy, dwell they under Italian skies or Siberian snow storms, be they Ethiopian or American. All one in Christ, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, on the way to one heaven. We built this Tabernacle for the purpose of setting forth these great theories of the Gospel of the Son of God. Would that we had been more faithful in the pulpit! Would that we had been more faithful in the pew!

I remark, further, that we have tried here to build a church distinctively unconventional. Instead of asking, as some people are disposed to do, how other people do it, we have asked the question how people do not do it. Imperious custom has decided that churches shall be angular, cheerless, gloomy, unsympathetic, forgetting that what men call a pious gloom is impious, and that that church has the best architecture where the people are most comfortable, and that that is the most efficient Christian service where the people are made most sick of sin, and most anxious after Christ and heaven. And so we called the architects together for our first church building, and said, "Give us an amphitheatre"—that is, a large family circle, gathered around a fireplace. For many years we had felt that an amphitheatre was the only proper shape for an audience-room. The prominent architects of the country said, "It cannot be done. You need a churchly building." And so we had plan after plan of churchly buildings presented; but in due time God sent a man who grasped our idea and executed it. So far from being a failure, it satisfied our want, and all our three churches were built on the amphitheatre plan, and scores of churches all over the country have adopted the same plan.

And, my brethren and sisters, we fail in our work just in proportion as we try to be like other churches. We believe that God intended every church, like every man, to be individual, gathering up all its peculiarities and idiosyncrasies, and hurling them all toward some good and grand object. In other words, no two churches ought ever to be just alike. Here is a church, for instance, whose object it is to prepare philosophers, and artists, and critics for heaven. God speed them in the difficult work! Here is a church, on the other hand, that proposes to bring only the poor into the kingdom of Jesus Christ, looking not after the rich. God speed such a church in its undertaking! But there is a larger idea that a church may take—bringing in the rich and the poor, the wise and the ignorant, the high and the low; so that kneeling beside each other shall be the man faring sumptuously every day, and the man who could not get his breakfast. God speed such a church!

Oh! my friends, we need to break away from slavery to ecclesiastical custom. We dare not sing if anybody hears us. We dare not preach unless we have rounded off our sentences to suit the criticism of the world. We dare not dress for church until we have examined the fashion plates, and would rather stay at home than appear with a coat or a hat not sanctioned by custom. When will the day of deliverance come to the Church of God, when, instead of a dead religion, laid out in state on a catafalque of pomp and insincerity, we shall have a living, bounding, sympathetic, glowing Christianity?

I remark, further, that we have tried here to build and to conduct a cheerful Church. While, as you know, we have not held back the terror of the law, and the sterner doctrines of the Gospel, we have tried in His house to present to this people that the gladdest, brightest, happiest thing in all the universe is the Christian religion. There is so much trouble in the world; business men have so many anxieties; toiling men have so many fatigues; orphans have so many desolations—for God's sake, if there be any bright place on earth show it to them. Let the Church of Jesus Christ be the most cheerful spot on earth. Let me say that I do not want anybody to come whining around me about the Christian religion. I have no faith in a religion made up of equal parts of wormwood, vinegar, and red pepper. If the religion that is presented to us be a depression, we will get along better without it. If it be a joy, let it shine out from your face, and from your conversation. If a man comes to my house to talk of religion with lugubrious countenance, and manner full of sniffle and dolorousness, I feel like saying to my wife, "you had better lock up the silver before he steals something." I have found it an invariable rule that men who profess faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, priding themselves in their sanctimoniousness, always turn out badly. I never knew an exception. While those who are the most consistent, the most useful, and the most consecrated, have perfume in their conversation, and heaven in their face.

The happiest Christians that I have ever known have been persons from sixty to eighty years of age. By that time people get over the shams and pretenses of society, and have no longer any patience with anything like imposture in religion. O Christian! how dare you be gloomy? Is not God your Father? Is not Jesus Christ your Saviour? Has not your path all through life been strewn with mercies? Are you insensible to the fact that there are glories awaiting you in the better land?—doxologies of celestial worship, eternal chorals, tearless eyes, songs that resound under arches of strength, and hosannas that clap their hands at the foot of the throne? Is it nothing to you that all the hills of heaven are radiant with the faces of those who have gone up from you, and who are waiting for your coming, ready to keep with you eternal holiday? Is there nothing in songs that never cease, in hearts that never ache, in splendors that never die, to make you glad? Then take no more mercy at the hand of thy God! Give back the marriage ring of love that Jesus put on your finger in the day of your espousal! Plant no more of the flowers of heaven where there ought to be nothing but nettles and nightshade!

We try to make this church a cheerful church. A man, on Saturday afternoon, stands in his store, and says, "How shall I meet these obligations? How can I endure this new disaster that is coming upon me?" He goes home. Sabbath morning finds him in the house of God. Through the song, through the sermon, through the prayer, the Lord Jesus Christ says to that man, "O, man! I have watched thee; I have seen all thy struggles. It is enough; I will see thee through; I will stand between thee and thy creditors. I will make up in heavenly treasures what you have lost in earthly treasures. Courage, man! courage! Angels of God, I command you to clear the track for that man; put your wings over his head; with your golden sceptres strike for his defense: throw around him all the defenses of eternity!" What is the consequence? That business man is strengthened. He goes to the store next day feeling that God is with him and ready to deliver.

That same Sunday there is a poor old woman in the church hearing the Gospel. Oh! how shrunken she is! She wears the same dress she wore twenty years ago. How faded it is, and how out of date! She sits and listens as well as she can. Her eyes are so dim she cannot see half-way across the church. Her ear is so imperfect that she can only catch occasionally a note of the psalm or a word of the preacher. Some one sitting next to her gives her a book and finds the place for her. She holds the book close up to her eyes, and with a voice all full of tremors, sings:

> Jesus, lover of my soul,
> Let me to thy bosom fly,
> While the billows near me roll,
> While the tempest still is high;
> Hide me, O, my Saviour hide,
> Till the storm of life is past.
> Safe into the haven guide—
> Oh! receive my soul at last.

And Jesus says to her, "Mother, are you weary?" And she says, "Yes, Jesus, I am very tired." Jesus says, "Mother, are you poor?" And she says, "Yes, I am very poor. I cannot sew any more; I cannot knit any more. I am very poor." Jesus says to her, "Mother, would you like to rest?" She says, "Yes, Lord, that is what I want—rest." "Courage, mother," says Jesus, "I will see thee through." She goes home. The next morning, in the tenement-house, some one dwelling on another floor comes to her room and knocks. No answer. The door is opened. She is dead! The night before the chariots of God halted at that pillow of straw, and Jesus kept His promise. He said that He would give her rest, and He has given her rest. Glory be to God for the height, the depth, the length and the breadth of such Christian comfort.

I remark, further, that we have here tried to build a church abreast of the times. It is all folly for us to try to do things the way they did fifty or a hundred years ago. We might as well be plowing with Elijah's crooked stick, or go in battle with Saul's armor, or prefer a canal boat to an express train, as to be clinging to old things. What we most need now is a wide-awake church. People who are out in the world all the week, jostling against this lightning-footed century, come into the church on the Sabbath, and go right to sleep, unless they have a spirited service. Men engaged in literary callings all the week, reading pungent, sharp writings, cannot be expected to come and hear our ecclesiastical humdrum.

Did I say that the church ought to be abreast of the times? I take that back. The Church of God ought to be ahead of the times—as far in advance as the Cross of Christ is ahead of all human invention. Paul was a thousand years ahead of the day in which he lived.

I remark, further, that we have tried here, in the love and fear of God, to build a church that would be characterized by conversions. I have heard of very good people who could preach on for fifteen or twenty years and see no conversion, but yet have faith. It takes a very good man to do that. I do not know how a man can keep his faith up if souls are not brought to the Lord Jesus Christ. That church that does not bring men and women to the feet of the Saviour is a failure. I care not how fine the building or how sweet the music, or how eloquent the preaching, or how elegant the surroundings—it is a failure. The Church of God was made for just one thing—to get men out of the world into the kingdom of heaven. The tendency in churches is to spend their time in giving fine touches to Christians already polished. We keep our religion too much indoors, and under shelter, when it ought to be climbing the rocks or hewing in the forests. It is high time that we threw off the Sunday clothes of sickly sentimentality, and put on the work-day dress of an earnest, active Christianity.

Here is Brooklyn, here is New York, here are the United States, here is the whole world, to be converted. It is eighteen hundred and ninety-four years since Christ came, and yet Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America, are still unevangelized. More people born every year into the world than are born into the kingdom of God. At that rate, I ask any one who can do a simple sum in arithmetic to calculate when this world will be brought to Jesus. At that ratio, never! never! never! And yet we know that it is to be brought to Christ. But the church will have to change its tact, and take a wider sweep with the Gospel net than any it has yet taken. I believe that the great masses of the people are now ready to receive the Gospel, if we give them a chance.

Some years ago two hundred men were buried in the Hartley colliery of England. The Queen of England, from her throne, telegraphed, "Is there any hope for the men?" After a while the answer came over the wires:—"No hope; they are dead." Here is a whole race buried in sin, and darkness, and woe. The question that thrills up to the throne of God, to-day is, "Is there any hope for the men?" Answering intelligence comes back from the throne of God, thrilling through the world's darkness, thrilling through the world's woe, "Yes; hope for one! hope for all. Whosoever will, let him come. And the Spirit and the Bride say, Come. And let him that is athirst, come."

If this world is ever to be brought to God, it will not be by the handful of ministers we have in this country. It will be by the great masses of Christian men and women discharging their duty. If the private church membership of this country would but put on their armor, and go forth, I believe that in fifteen years this whole land would be redeemed for Christ. Would God that all the people were prophets! I am never afraid to hear a man say that he is going to preach. If he cannot preach, people will not go to hear him. If he can, he has a message from the Almighty; and I would have him deliver it. Look out how you interfere with him.

Since we have been together as pastor and people how many have been promoted to the glories of heaven. They die sweetly, calmly, as only Christians can die. They have put down the staff of their pilgrimage, they have taken up the palm of the victor. The Lord Jesus has swung His arm through this church a good many times. He has been up and down all these aisles. He has taken the little children—the dear little children. He came down into the garden to gather the lilies, and the aged as well. One who sat right here, so that when I used to preach I could almost put my hand on his head, when I came back from my summer vacation was gone. Oh! how the glories of heaven shone around that old man's face as he sat here Sabbath after Sabbath! Gone now. Happy spirit! Happy with all those who have passed the flood!

> One army of the living god—
> To His command we bow;
> Part of the host have crossed the flood,
> And part are crossing now.

I thank you for all your kindness, for all your sympathy, for all your prayers for me as pastor. It is a sorrow to me that I am to be absent even for a few months. I have worked to the full extent of physical, mental and spiritual endurance for this church.

Now we start out on our twenty-sixth year. How many of us will close it here I know not. But, living or dying, let us cling to Christ. Oh! that all the people would love Him! I wish that I could take this audience this morning and wreath it around the heart of my Lord Jesus Christ. Oh! He is such a dear Saviour! He is such a loving Jesus!

My closing prayer this morning is that God will have mercy on the dying population of our great cities, and that the whole earth will put on bridal array for the coming of her Lord. Ride on! King Jesus! Ride on! Blessed by the Lord God of Israel, from everlasting to everlasting, and let the whole earth be filled with his glory! Amen! and Amen!

THE TIMES ON CANADA.

Future of the Empire Depends on Canadian Problems.

LONDON, May 19.—The Times to-day comments editorially on the series of articles concerning Canada, which it has published recently. The writer says:

"It seems manifest that of the large problems on the successful solution of which the future of the British Empire will depend, there are very few which are not more or less directly illustrated by Canadian experience, and the probable solutions that Canada will find, whether for good or evil, will largely affect the organic structure of the empire. It is certain that the influence of Canada on the international relations of Great Britain and the United States have tended more than anything else to a peaceful settlement by arbitration of questions which, under less favorable conditions, might have proved intractable to diplomacy. It is not, perhaps, altogether fanciful to surmise the beneficent results achieved in this direction. Possibly they will be the germ of future developments almost too vast and far-reaching for the political imagination of living men to conceive. What may be the future of Canada's relations to the United States on the one hand, and to Great Britain on the other, no man can yet say; but none can doubt that the problem here propounded is big with the fate of untold generations."

The Samoan Question.

LONDON, May 19.—Sir George Grey, ex-Premier of New Zealand, in an interview in the Pall Mall Gazette, expresses the opinion that the annexation of the Samoan Islands to the colony would be to the benefit of the former. He thinks that German acquisition of the islands should be distasteful to the United States, because of the menacing position it would occupy to their Pacific coast.

SIR TUPPER MAKES REPLY

Sir Charles Pender's Statements Met With an Able Argument.

WHY THE SCHEME SHOULD BE AIDED

Sir Charles is of Opinion That There Will be No Difficulty in Promoting the Construction of the Pacific Cable—The Appeal for Imperial Aid Will Receive Strenuous Opposition.

LONDON, May 19.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canada's High Commissioner in London, has promptly replied to the strictures of Sir John Pender, chairman of the Eastern Telegraph Company, on the proposed Pacific cable, the subject being treated in a paper read by the former at a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute. With regard to Sir John's protest against the proposed enterprise receiving any Government recognition, Sir Charles retorts that the evidence is conclusive that the existing companies received substantial state aid, and combats the statements regarding the lasting qualities of the cables by quoting Sir John himself, who stated not long ago that one of the existing cables was twenty years old.

Referring to Sir John's repudiation of the charge of monopoly, Sir Charles quotes Mr. Fleming's report to the Canadian Government, and further supports his contention by recalling the Colonial Conference in London in 1887 where the Hon. Cecil Raikes, Postmaster-General, in addressing the meeting said it was impossible for the Government to recognize any such monopoly as that which the cable company seemed to claim. Sir Charles is emphatic in his opinion that there will be no difficulty experienced in promoting the construction of the Pacific cable on the lines suggested at the Wellington conference.

Sir John Pender is at present absent in France. Mr. Denison, managing director of the Eastern Telegraph Company, to whom Sir Charles Tupper's statements were submitted, says it undoubtedly is the intention to oppose to the uttermost any attempt to secure financial aid from the Imperial Government for the proposed Pacific cable, as it was believed to be not altogether for the country's good that the project was being pushed with such vigor. The benefit to individuals to be derived from the completion of the cable is what causes some people to so strongly support the scheme.

Killed in a Boxing Match.

LONDON, May 19.—A boxing match with five-ounce gloves took place at Aberdare, Wales, when one of the competitors, a young man named Rees, was knocked over the ropes and received a fracture of the skull, from which he died, in a few minutes. Rees' opponent was arrested on a charge of murder, and seventeen of the attendants were taken.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

"I appeal to you all, my fellow countrymen, to band yourselves together for the supreme struggle; I appeal to you all without regard to nationality, race, or creed; I appeal to you, Scotchmen, who have led in the van of freedom; to you, Englishmen, Irishmen, Germans, who have come from a despotic land; I appeal to you, my fellow countrymen of French origin; rise up for the occasion"—From Mr. Laurier's speech at Pembroke.

But where does the common, every-day Canadian come in, Mr. Laurier?

At Philadelphia, under a revenue tariff about 35 per cent. of the exhibitors of manufactured goods from Canada received awards; at Chicago, although all did not get the awards the jurors gave them, 87 per cent. were so honored. At Philadelphia, 42 per cent. of all exhibitors in all classes, received awards. At Chicago, only 36 per cent. were successful. Relatively the protected manufacturers of 1893 did three times better than the revenue tariff men of 1876. This is a sufficing answer to the Grit allegation that our manufactures have deteriorated under the N.P.

The Ottawa Free Press says: "First fruits of Mr. Foster's tariff tinkering; About one thousand men dismissed from employment on the Canadian Pacific railway; reduction of ten per cent in the wages of Grand Trunk employees." If this is the effect of a slight reduction in the tariff, what would be the result of adopting free trade?

Insurance in Canada, both fire and life, is greatly on the increase. This will be more apparent when the facts are presented in tabular form. The amounts of fire insurance in Canada in 1879 and 1893, respectively, were as follows:

	1879.	1893
Canadian Companies..	$158 824 631	$154 614,280
British " ..	208,265 359	561,840,939
American " ..	40,267,995	120,638,075
Total.............	$407,357,985	$837,033,294

The amounts of life insurance in force in Canada in 1879 and 1893 respectively, were as follows:

	1879.	1893
Canadian Companies..	$33,246,543	$167,483,872
British " ..	19,410 829	33 572 699
American " ..	33,616,330	94,602 966

There are only six States in the Union in which there are more horned cattle than are found in Ontario. These are Texas, New York, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas. And with the exception of Texas and Iowa, —mainly grazing States—none of them are very much ahead of us. Kansas leads us by 500,000; Missouri by 300,000; Illinois, which includes the great stock yards of Chicago, by 800,000, and New York, with treble our population, by less than 300,000. On the other hand Ohio, which has 80 per cent more people than this province, and Pennsylvania, which ranks next to New York in population, are from two to three hundred thousand behind.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

The Government Cruiser Constance Secures a Valuable Prize.

THE CREW FIGHT DESPERATELY

One of the Violaters of the Law Attempts to Repel the Boarders With an Axe and Succeeds in Wounding Some of the Constance's Men—The Notorious Captain Blouin Found on Board.

QUEBEC, May 19.—The Government cruiser Constance has fallen in lately with a suspicious schooner and put the grapplings to her. Yesterday the Constance was observed sailing into port with a prize, a deeply-laden fore and aft schooner. The correspondent boarded her at once and Capt. May, the commander of the Constance, readily gave him the information required.

Wednesday evening the lookout man reported a schooner south-eastward. The wind was abeam, so that the craft, having slack sheets, scampered away nicely. The Constance was then standing northward of the schooner at equal distance from Seven Islands and the south-west point of Anticosti. The steamer bore down on her and hailed the suspicious craft. No one would answer satisfactorily. There seemed to be no master on board of her.

Captain May put out a boat with a crew of five men. This was the boarding party. The boat pulled up close to the schooner, and the first officer of the Constance, who was in charge of the boat, hailed the captain of the schooner to heave-to. No one on board of the suspected smuggler heeded the officer's command. The boat tried to pull close to the schooner, but the craft boarded its fore and aft sheets inboard and stood towards the reef-bound shores of the Anticosti close hauled. The boat now having a head sea on could not reach the schooner so that the Constance had to take the boat in tow and drop her ahead of the smuggler. This time the boat managed to reach the smugglers' side, but a resolute set of men, all of whom were animated with fighting disposition, lined the lee rail.

The Constance's men boarded her, nevertheless, and received wounds from an axe wielded by a sailor who seemed bent on destruction. One of the Constance's sailors was wounded on the back of the head, two pieces of skin being cut off. Others were more or less wounded or scratched. One of the sailors of the Constance who was put in charge of the schooner alongside of the wharf said he did not believe that the smugglers intended to kill anyone. The cargo is worth about $5,000. It consists of twenty-eight barrels of alcohol and forty cases of brandy and rum. Captain May has taken warrants against the men in charge of the schooner. Captain Phidelem Blouin, a well-known smuggler, was found on board. He is believed to be the skipper of the smuggler.

TWENTY LIVES LOST.

A Fierce Storm Creates Serious Havoc on Lake Michigan.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Lake Michigan has not been lashed and churned for months as it was yesterday by the fierce wind that has been sweeping down from the north for the past thirty-six hours. Twelve or fifteen lives have been lost along the shore of this city and its suburbs. The only other point reporting loss of life is Milwaukee, where six of the schooner Cummings' crew were drowned before they could be rescued by the life-saving crew. Half a dozen schooners and smaller craft foundered off this city during the day, a score or more are dismantled and stove in in making an almost hopeless fight against the gale and the huge waves that every few minutes swept over them, endangering the lives of those who are still on board.

At least thirty vessels are anchored outside the harbor waiting for the storm to subside. All are more or less damaged, and the signals of distress that have appeared among them from time to time during the day have kept the life savers busy. Twenty-five or thirty men have been brought in all exhausted and suffering immensely from the exposure and cold. In several cases help has arrived too late and a corpse was found among the half conscious sailors.

The John Loomis McLaren, which had been riding at anchor about a mile out, parted her chains and commenced to come for the shore at Twenty-ninth street. Darkness was coming on, but it was seen that eight men were clinging to the rigging. The boat was carried on to the piling. She rebounded like a rubber ball, while another wave came sweeping over the rigging. In the meantime the life saving crew, reinforced by half a dozen of their men, had made ready their lines. The first rocket took effect, and one by one the men were brought ashore.

In the evening the lumber fleet, about two miles out, was throwing out distress rockets and was apparently coming ashore. About the same time the schooner Myrtle was seen drifting ashore near 29th street. Six half-frozen men were clinging to the rigging. The life-saving crew was busy a mile away and could give no assistance. Nine officers with plenty of ropes were on the shore, but having no rockets with which to cast their lines they could not help the doomed sailors. The captain, whose name is Warner, was the first to go. A huge wave swept him overboard and he was not seen again. The schooner had drifted to 34th street when her mainmast was carried away, taking with it as it fell one side of the cabin. Deprived of this shelter, the remaining sailors were washed overboard one by one until but one was left. He took off his clothes during a lull in the storm and jumped overboard, striking out for the shore. He had gone but a few yards, however, when he was carried under by the waves and did not reappear. The schooner foundered 200 feet off 35th street.

One member of the crew, Reinardson, had broken his arm and was unable to reach the lifeboat. The crew climbed into the boat and floated to within 200 feet of shore when it was overturned for the third time. The men, with the aid of their life preservers, floated ashore. The life saving crew went out again and finally managed to reach the boat. Only three members of the crew, numbering seven in all, could be seen still clinging to the rigging, and Frank Guardin of the life-saving crew had also been able to hold on. Two of those above water were dead and were not brought to shore. The only two finally saved were Robert Patterson, of Buffalo, whose parents live in Kingston, Ont., and Frank Guardis, member of the life-saving crew. The six dead are: Capt. McCullogh, 35 years old, single, Oswego; Mate Tom Bessot, of Buffalo; Thomas Tercott, Kingston; two unknown sailors from Buffalo; unknown woman cook from vicinity of Toronto.

Forty lives were saved by the crews of the life saving boats and the tugs of the Chicago company during the day. At midnight the velocity of the wind was 45 to 50 miles an hour. The members of the various life saving crews and the officers from the police stations on the south side of the city are patrolling the beach.

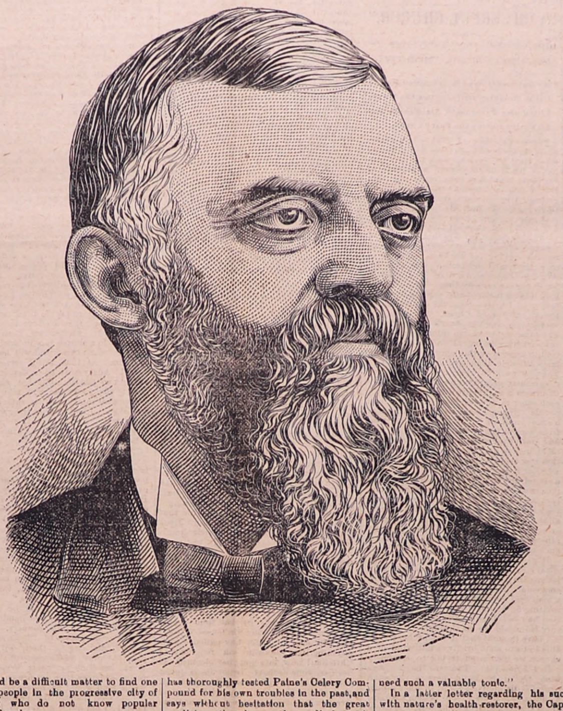
Eloped With His Employer's Wife.

BERLIN, May 19.—Clemence Schrieber, managing clerk in the employ of a prominent lawyer, has absconded in company with the lawyer's wife, who has been living apart from her husband. It is understood that the couple have gone to New York. Schrieber also took with him a bank book belonging to his employer's mother, which he abstracted from the safe and upon which he drew 1,000 marks.

THE CAPTAIN'S REMARKABLE STATEMFNT.

He Says: "Paine's Celery Compound Knocks Out the Medical Practitioner."

Encouraging Testimony from a Popular Winnipeg Resident.



It would be a difficult matter to find one hundred people in the progressive city of Winnipeg who do not know popular Captain Douglas.

The genial and whole souled Captain is the proprietor of the famous Leland House, amongst the best appointed of Canada's modern hotels. The weary and dust stained traveller, who had once experienced the comforts of the "Leland," and the kind attentions of its worthy proprietor, invariably goes back to the popular house when business or pleasure leads him again to the prairie city.

Capt. Douglas is an enthusiastic believer in the efficacy of Paine's Celery Compound. He daily recommends it to his fellow citizens, when they complain of troubles such as rheumatism, weakness, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles and impure blood. The Captain has thoroughly tested Paine's Celery Compound for his own troubles in the past, and says without hesitation that the great medicine "knocks out the medical practitioner." It was through the Captain's influence and strong recommendations that Mr. G. Swain, the well known C.P.R. station master, of Winnipeg, used Paine's Celery Compound, and found a cure, when the doctors and other medicines had failed to banish his rheumatism.

Captain Douglas, in order to encourage and benefit Canadians, writes as follows:

"It gives me very great pleasure to say a word in favor of your excellent preparation known as Paine's Celery Compound. I was troubled for some time with indigestion and dyspepsia, and a general feeling of lassitude, all of which have been banished after using your Compound. I can recommend it with confidence to all who need such a valuable tonic."

In a latter letter regarding his success with nature's health-restorer, the Captain says:

"You know well what I think of Paine's Celery Compound. It is a most valuable medicine, and I can truly bear testimony to its excellent restorative and invigorating qualities; in fact, it knocks out the medical practitioner. A person has only to use it to know its worth to the human family.

"Through its use I now feel like a boy, and may Paine's Celery Compound long live to go on with its good work. I am pleased to lend my name to the grand work of extending a knowledge of this valuable Compound, and can never say too much in its favor, and you may be sure I shall never cease to sing its praises."

A GREAT COMET COMING.

A Tall Half-way to the Moon—Still 2,500-000,000 Miles Off.

Halley's comet is coming back—the comet which in the year 1066 (says the New York Sun) shed a celestial splendor over the Norman conquest, and whose terror inspiring visit was commemorated by the hand of Queen Matilda in the Bayeux Tapestry; the comet that in 1456, the year of the battle of Belgrade, scared the Turk and Christian alike, and was anathematized by a bull from Pope; the comet whose strange scimitar form still chilled the marrow of the ignorant and superstitious at its latest return in 1835 It is yet far away, but the eye of science sees it, already within the orbit of Neptune, rushing sunward and earthward with constantly increasing velocity as it falls along the steep curves of its orbit. And a call to arms, a call for preparation, has just been issued from one of the chief watch towers of astronomy.

Professor Glasenapp announces that the computing bureau established by the Russian Astronomical Society has undertaken the calculation of the true path of Halley's comet, with a view to predicting the exact date of the next return. He hopes that astronomers acquainted with unpublished observations of the comet will communicate the information to the society.

After its perihelion the comet was watched retreating out into space until May, 1836, when it was finally swallowed from sight. It will be in perihelion again about 1911, but with the great telescopes now in existence, and the greater ones that may then have been constructed, it is probable that the comet will be detected coming sunward a year or more earlier than that. The fact that the labor of computing the precise time of its return is already to begin, gives assurance that the next time it will not be a question of how many days, but rather how many hours, or even minutes, the calculations will be in error.

HENRY BIRKS & SONS, Jewellers,

Phillips Square and St. Catherine St.

THE LARGE AND CONSTANTLY growing business of this firm is due, among other reasons, to the ample capital and immense importations of diamonds, selected by their own buyers in the best foreign markets. The handling of these in large quantities enables them to import fine qualities at a lower price than in smaller deals, the poorer qualities could be bought.

Aside from this, their factory on the premises enables them, in many lines of goods, to save both factory and middle men's profits.

A speciality is made of letter orders. When correspondents give an idea of the article wanted and an approximate price desired, a careful selection is sent on approval with the understanding that nothing need be taken.

The following is taken from the Quebec Chronicle of the 16th inst: "Major Farley, owing to the absence of Col. Montizambert, is acting Commandant of the Citadel. The gallant Major, after a pretty stiff examination at Halifax and here, in which he acquitted himself with great distinction, not long ago, received his Majority. He is one of the most efficient as well as one of the most popular officers in the military service of the Dominion, and everyone views his success with pleasure and satisfaction."

Well Worth Seeing.

In one of the windows of S. A. Lazier & Sons' office, Front st., can be seen two very interesting pictures. One is an outside view of Packer Colliery No. 4, of the famous Lehigh Valley coal mines, while the other shows the interior of Packer Breaker, WHERE EVERY POUND OF COAL IS CAREFULLY PICKED OVER BY HAND. This process, though very tedious and laborious, is the only thorough way by which the impurities can be separated from the good coal and a first class article obtained. The sale of this renowned coal is increasing to a wonderful degree, owing to its rare purity and freedom from slate. S. A. Lazier & Sons are the sole agents.

A Bad Job.

Whoever is responsible for the imperfect job in laying a water-main on Albert Street north of Bridge St., should be made to level it, or the city will be held responsible for damages, which could easily occur as a result of a class of work that the Street Surveyor should not allow.

EXCURSION NIGHT.

Many People From Surrounding Towns Attend the Hunter and Crossley Meetings.

Three excursion parties last night helped to swell the audience at Bridge St. to the capacity of the church, and the meeting proved very interesting throughout. Rev. Mr. Hunter took his lesson from Matthew, 6th chapter from 19 to 34. He laid special stress on the three phrases of the 31st verse. "What shall we eat?" was the thought uppermost in the minds of many people. The first question they ask when they enter the house to their meals is "What have you got to eat?" "What shall we drink?" "What have you been drinking to day?" said the speaker. "Wherewithal shall we be clothed?" He liked to see people well dressed, but he did not like to see flashy clothing, something that would attract attention.

Miss Canfield and Mr. Crossley sang a beautiful duet. Mr. Crossley's sermon was to young men and women and he emphasized the necessity for an equal standard of morality between men and women.

NOTES.

The committee in charge of the evangelistic meetings, has arranged to-morrow's programme as follows: Workers' meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall from 7 to 8 a.m. Mass meeting for men and boys in opera house at 4 p.m., and at same hour mass meeting for women and girls only in Bridge st. church. At 7 p.m. evangelistic meetings in Holloway st. and Bridge st. churches. Both the evangelists will be present at these two meetings, and the services will be alike.

The evangelists will hold an open air meeting at the post office corner at 8:15 this evening, weather permitting.

The meetings will close next Friday night.

Mr. Crossley will preach in the Tabernacle to morrow morning.

GIVEN ONE MONTH TO LIVE.

The Wonderful Story of a Johnville, Que., Miller—Attacked With Inflammatory Rheumatism and Paralysis—How He Found a Cure After Hope Had Been Abandoned.

There are few men, says the Sherbrooke Gazette, more widely known in this section than Mr. A.T. Hopkins, of Johnville, Que. Mr. Hopkins resided at Windsor Mills and was for three years a member of the municipal council of that place. When a young man Mr. Hopkins was noted for his strength and activity as a wrestler. His strength stands him in good stead, for he works hard at his business, carrying heavy sacks of flour in his mill for many hours during the day. Active as he is, there was a time not long distant when he was as helpless as an infant and suffered intolerable agony. About three years ago, he was attacked by inflammatory rheumatism. It grew worse and worse until, in spite of medical prescriptions, after a year's illness he had a stroke of paralysis. His right arm and leg became quite useless. Sores broke out on both legs. He suffered excruciating agony and had rest neither day nor night. He sought the best medical advice but no hopes were held out to him by the physicians. "He will certainly die within a month," one well known practitioner told his friends. "He will be a cripple for life," said two other doctors. It is no wonder that, as he says, life became a burden to him and he longed for death to relieve him of his sufferings. He heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and determined to try them. He did so, and before long was able to take outdoor exercise. He persevered with the treatment, and is to day nearly as strong as when a young man, and is able to follow successfully the laborious calling by which he gets a living. Such was the wonderful story told the Gazette by Mr. Hopkins, who attributes his recovery solely to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he is willing to satisfy any person who may call on him as to their wonderful effects. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills strike at the root of the disease, driving it from the system and restoring the patient to health and strength. In cases of paralysis, spinal troubles, locomotor ataxia, sciatica, rheumatism, erysipelas, scrofulous troubles, etc., these pills are superior to all other treatment. They are also a specific for the troubles which make the lives of so many women a burden, and speedily restore the rich glow of health to sallow cheeks. Men broken down by overwork, worry or excesses, will find in Pink Pills a certain cure. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Beware of imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

Thos. Ford and Geo. McCaffrey, two tramps charged with begging on Taylor's hill, were allowed half an hour to get out of the city.

Don't Delay.

It is your duty to yourself to get rid of the foul accummulation in your blood this spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine you need to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. That tired feeling which affects nearly every one in the spring is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great spring medicine and blood purifier.

HOOD'S PILLS become the favorite cathartic with everyone who tries them.

A Rumor.

There is a rumor on the street to-day that Mr. Alex. Sutherland will be asked to be the candidate for the East Riding of this County, in the Conservative interest. Mr. Sutherland is a popular retired lumberman, and would make a good showing if he could be induced to be a candidate.

To-morrow morning at eleven o'clock, Bridge St. Church will welcome to its membership many new members. The reception of these will be public and will be followed by the administration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

FIRES AT ROBLIN'S MILLS.

A Blacksmith Shop, a Store and a Dwelling House Burned.

Roblin's Mills has suffered severely during the past two days from fires. On the night of the 17th inst. S. Allen's carriage and blacksmith shop were consumed, entailing a loss of about $3000, upon which there was an insurance of $1,900. The cause of the fire is unknown.

On Friday afternoon, Mr. Spafford's store house was destroyed by fire, supposed to have taken from the remains of the last fire, which was smouldering, with the result that it demolished the store-house and store, entailing a loss of over $3000 and upon which there was an insurance of $2000. The building belonged to the A.O. U.W. and cost $1,200 and was insured for $1000. The fire continued to the residence of Donald Roblin, which was also consumed and upon which there was an insurance of $800. Mr. Roblin estimates his loss over insurance at $600.

OUR CRICKETERS BEATEN.

They Fall Before the Campbellford Men—A Cold Day and Wet Grounds.

The Belleville cricketers were beaten at Campbellford yesterday in the first out-of-town match this season. The team was composed of the following players; Cutler, Arnold, T. S. Clark, J. D. Clarke, C. Armstrong, J. B. Wallace, J. Brasier, W. Thomas, H. T. Thomas, H. Smart and Frank Lewis. The team went on the grounds early and had to wait until they were nearly frozen before the Campbellford men showed up. Owing to the lateness of the start only one innings was played and Campbellford won. Strange to say none of the local men remembered the score, but that may not seem surprising when it is learned that the runs stood 106 to 32 in favor of Campbellford. Mr. Thomas, of the Bank of Commerce, did splendid work at the bat, while Claude Armstrong and W. Thomas were in good bowling form and did some good work, Armstrong securing ten wickets out of eleven. The team returned last evening, beaten, but not discouraged, for they promise to make it lively for their opponents when they get them on their own grounds.

Saturday Night.

PLACING the little hats all in a row,
Ready for church on the morrow you know;
Washing wee faces and little black fists,
Getting them ready and fit to be kissed;
Putting them into clean garments and white,
That is what mothers are doing to-night.

Spying out holes in the little worn hose,
Laying by shoes that are worn through the toes,
Looking o'er garments so faded and thin—
Who but a mother knows where to begin?
Changing a button to make it look right—
That is what mothers are doing to-night.

Calling the little ones all round her chair,
Hearing them lisp forth that sweet evening prayer;
Telling them over that story of old,
How the dear Lord would gather the lambs to His fold,
Watching, they listen with childish delight—
That is what mothers are doing to night.

Creeping so softly to take a last peep
After the little ones all are asleep;
Anxious to know if the children are warm,
Tucking the blankets round each little form,
Kissing each little face, rosy and bright—
That is what mothers are doing to-night.

A DEPUTATION FROM TRENTON

Ask the Minister of Public Works for Improvements to Their Harbor.

A deputation from Trenton composed of Mayor Jacques, Messrs. G. W. Ostrom, Crowe, Mayhew, Weddell, Armstrong, Parks, O'Rourke, Kinsella, Young and Crews, while in Ottawa this week as part of the Trent Valley Canal deputation, waited upon the Minister of Public Works and asked that a channel be dredged from the Trenton harbor to the Murray canal west of Indian Island. The Minister promised to send up an engineer to look into the matter.

Mr. H. Corby, M.P., with his usual forethought and courtesy, lunched the deputation at the Rideau club. There were present, besides those above mentioned, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Senator Read, Messrs. W. B. Northrup, M.P., A. C. Miller, M.P., Uriah Wilson, M.P., E. Cochrane, M.P., Jacob Wilson and W. L. Hamilton, and with toasts and speeches a pleasant time was spent. The genial host was thanked very kindly.

Coutts' Acid Cure.

We suppose that there are very few hailing from the "Land o' Cakes or the British Isles generally, who do not know of the Acid Cure or spinal system of treatment." Originated by Mr. F. Coutts, of Aberdeen, Scotland, about 40 years ago, the treatment has become popular all over the world and there are very few places where the "Acid Cure" cannot be found. As a simple but effectual household remedy, it has no equal and its marvellous efficacy in nervous diseases, rheumatism and kindred diseases, as in many minor complaints, explains the readiness with which it sells. Used by rich and poor alike, advocated by physicians and supported by clergymen, it is not surprising that its success has been so great. Messrs. Yeomans & Co., the well known druggists, have been appointed special agents here and they are displaying Coutts' "Acid Cure," as the remedy is called, most prominently in their window. We would advise all who suffer from acute or chronic diseases to call on Messrs. Yeomans & Co. for the book of directions, buy a bottle and sponge and cure themselves. As witnessed by the testimonials at the end of the pamphlet, patience and regular application, even in chronic cases, is all that is required to effect a cure.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The Opposition Scored for Their Persistent Obstruction.

PROGRESS OF ITEMS IN COMMITTEE

The Leather Item Raised—Woollen Duties Changed—Other Items Altered—Mr. Daly's Bill Read a First Time—Other Government and Private Measures—The Downey Divorce Case.

OTTAWA, May 19.—In the House yesterday Hon. Mr. Daly moved the first reading of a bill from the Senate to further amend the Indian Act; also of a bill from the Senate for the preservation of game in the unorganized portions of the Northwest Territories.

Hon. Mr. Wood moved the first reading of his bill respecting the units of electrical measures.

Sir John Thompson moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Insurance Act. The bill was read a second time and referred to the Committee on Banking and Commerce.

Ways and Means.

Leather was the first item taken up. Under the provisions of the new tariff leather and skins, belting leather, sole cordovan, kid, lamb, sheep and calf, were placed at 15 per cent. ad valorem. This was changed to 17½ per cent.

Lumber upon which a duty of 20 per cent. was imposed was changed to take in all lumber not on the free list.

Manufactures composed wholly or in part of wool, worsted, the hair of the alpaca goat, or other like animals, blankets and flannels, overcoatings and felt cloth, n.e.s., were changed to 5 cents per pound and 25 per cent. ad valorem.

Fabrics, composed wholly or in part of wool, worsted, the hair of the alpace goat, was changed to 30 per cent.

The duty on yarn, woollen or worsted, was changed to a simple duty of 30 per cent. Mr. Henderson urgently advocated adding a specific duty, saying that unless this were done this important industry would be ruined. Sir Richard Cartwright strongly supported this contention.

Ready-made clothing, wholly or part of wool, was made 5 cents per pound and 30 per cent. ad valorem.

Shirts, n.e.s., were made 35 per cent. ad valorem.

Window shades, in the piece or cut or hemmed, were made 35 per cent. ad valorem, but not less than 5 cents per square yard.

Enamelled floor, stair, shelf and oil cloth, cork matting or carpet and linoleum was made 30 per cent., but not less than 4 cents per square yard.

Socks and stockings of all kinds, n.e.s., were made 10 cents per dozen pairs, and 35 per cent. ad valorem.

The slate duty was amended to read that the duty should not be more than 75 cents per square for black or blue slate, and 90 cents for colored slate, when split or dressed only, and school or writing slates 30 per cent.

On the item of mining machinery in the free list Mr. Mara said he wished to see the most liberal construction given to this class of articles, and proposed to add to the tariff a list of articles not made in Canada, which prospectors and capitalists could see could be brought in free.

At the suggestion of Hon. Mr. Foster Mr. Mara handed his list to the Controller of Customs, who will furnish collectors of customs throughout the country with copies.

Mr. Patterson continued the debate on the proposition of the Finance Minister to change the duty on woollens to 5 cents per pound and 25 per cent. ad valorem. After Sir Richard and Mr. Mulock had had their say the item passed.

Mr. T. C. Robinette, counsel for Wherrell in the Williams murder case, is in the city, and will have an interview today by appointment with the premier. Upon new material he will ask for a new trial. Failing this he will endeavor to secure a commutation of the sentence, this failing a postponement of the execution until after the trial of Walker.

Prof. Robertson has sent several large pieces of the famous mammoth Canadian cheese to the House of Commons, Senate and press gallery. The big cheese was cut up in England and a portion sent back to Canada, arriving a couple of days ago on the Parisian. Though over two years old the cheese is of excellent quality. The report that was sent out from England to the effect that the whole cheese when cut was found to be in a state of decay were untrue. Only a couple of inches on the top were spoiled.

Cape Parliament Opened.

CAPETOWN, May 19.—In the absence of Sir Henry Loch, the governor, the colonial parliament was opened by the official next in rank, who, in referring to the Ottawa colonial conference expressed his approval of the plan for an imperial customs union. J. Hofmeyer is consulting his constituents as to the expediency of his going as delegate to Ottawa.

Carriage Factory Destroyed.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., May 19.—Yesterday the carriage factory and blacksmith shop, owned by Samuel Allen, was destroyed by fire. The cause is unknown, but it is supposed to have been spontaneous combustion starting in the paint shop. The loss will be between $3,000 and $4,000.

Confiscated the Poachers.

AMHERSTBURG, May 19.—Deputy Marshal Campbell, of Windsor, confiscated the seized boats Leroy Brooks and Visitor by order of Deputy Minister of Justice, at Ottawa. They cannot be bonded. The owners will have to apply to the Admiralty Court for redress.

Killed Near Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 19.—William Varcoe, of Seymour East, was suddenly killed while at work on a roller. The seat gave way and he fell backwards breaking his neck. Death was instantaneous.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 19, 1894.

The earnings of the Canadian Pacific for the second week of May decreased $21,000.

The clearings of Winnipeg banks for the week were $778,042, as against $837,572 the previous week.

Clearings of Montreal banks this week were $11,373,500, as compared with $11,945,080 the same week last year.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Business dull, with a sale of a load of white wheat at 61c. Red is quoted at 60c and goose at 58c. One load of oats sold at 39c. Barley is quoted at 40c to 42c and peas at 66c.

Chicago wheat market opened weak, but soon revived on reports of cold weather in the southwest. Corn made a slight gain from yesterday on storm reports. Oats were steady. Receipts to-day: Wheat 80 cars, corn 500 cars, oats 250 cars, hogs 12,000.

Buffalo cattle market reports local trade limited to a few lots of oxen and cows, which were taken at weak former prices. Sheep and lambs, 60 cars on sale; 5 to 10c lower for lambs. Good to best wethers, $4 to $4.40. Good to fancy lambs, $4.25 to $4.50. Good to best spring lambs, $5.50 to $7.50.

The bear campaign at the New York stock exchange made further progress. The sales of stocks were the heaviest for any one day this week. The bearish feeling was in the ascendant, the engagement of gold for export and the steady depreciation in the price of wheat having had an adverse influence. Manhattan and Sugar were the special cards.

IDLE MEN IN MONTREAL.

All the Grand Trunk Shops Close Down—Economizing in Fuel.

MONTREAL, May 19.—For the first time in the history of the Grand Trunk railway all its fires are out, all its hammers are idle, and all its mechanical employes walk the streets. There have been temporary closings down, reductions of wages have taken place, and now and then strikes have produced temporary dislocation, but this silence in paint, in car, in mechanical and in locomotive shops is the first and oppressive experience to the 3,000 men or more who have been depending upon the company for their livelihood. Over 1,200 men are thrown out of employment and the shops are all closed. There is not likely to be any change until the coal strike is settled.

Coal shippers in Montreal are receiving enquiries from several American cities, but up to the present few orders have been received. A large coal shipper says that the output of the Canadian mines could at present be doubled if necessary. He wished it distinctly understood that the Grand Trunk Company could get all the coal it wanted in Canada. They would be delighted to supply them. It was not fair, he said, that an impression should go abroad that Canada was in any way mixed up in the closing down of the railway's work shops. The mines were not working up to their capacity of last year. There was no fear of coal being dearer in Canada at present. One of the agents of the Dominion Coal Company said that both the C.P.R. and G.T.R. were customers of the company. The C.P.R. bought more than the G.T.R., but the latter had been making enquiries lately. The only difference the strike made to the company was the fact that it had been receiving numerous enquiries since it began.

Another coal shipper said if the strike continued in the States he would import soft coal from the Old Country. He said it was quite in the power of the Dominion Company to divert all their coal to the States if it so pleased, as it was merely an American company. He had heard that the company had received one order for 50,000 tons for New York.

General Manager Seargeant, of the G.T.R., when asked the latest in the situation said the most interesting feature to us is how the Canadian railways will be able to keep the traffic going if the strike continues any length of time. So far as the Grand Trunk is concerned we have not been desirous of increasing our stocks of coal at the different points along the system because of the uncertainty of the coal duty and in order to see whether the duties would not be abrogated by joint action on the part of the Canadian and United States Governments, but we had about an average stock on hand and we, to a large extent, have been drawing on it since the beginning of the strike. Pressure in the United States became so pronounced that we found it impossible to get our coal through from the mines, it being confiscated en route by the American road over which it had to pass. The general commercial public need be under no apprehension as to our ability to carry on their operations, but we may want their assistance. It is simply a question of prudence in the face of a possible dire calamity.

Freight Traffic Curtailed.

HAMILTON, May 19.—An order has been issued by the G. T. R. authorities that on and after Monday next no freight, except such as is of a perishable nature, will be accepted for shipment. This action, it is announced, is taken on account of lack of coal. The announcement was received with consternation by Hamilton manufacturers, wholesale dealers and other big shippers. The rolling mills, rail works and sewer pipe works closed down to-day for an indefinite period. The rolling mill people had plenty of coal in transit, but it has been seized by railway companies in the United States.

The Fight Will Go On.

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—The striking soft coal miners held a final convention yesterday, at which it was decided to continue the fight until the operators agree to restore the old scale. President McBride made an address to the delegates urging them to use only peaceable means to gain the desired result, and to strengthen their lines by extending their organization.

Howard Abortion Case.

LONDON, Ont., May 19.—Alva Everett and wife who were arrested here last Tuesday on the charge of attempting an abortion on a young girl of about 18, named Sarah Dove, daughter of a Howard farmer, were arraigned before Reeve Byer, at Thamesville, on Wednesday. The hearing was with closed doors. The prisoners were committed for trial, but were let go on furnishing bail for $1,500.

A Point in Prohibition.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 19.—The Supreme Court has decided that every dollar paid for liquor that is sold contrary to law may be recovered from the person or firm to whom it is paid; that under the law the money is received with that express understanding.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

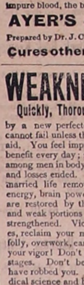
Only the Scars Remain.



"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., "none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

ENDED ALL WITH A BULLET

A Son of the Famous "Joe Beef" Suicides in Montreal.

DESPONDENT AT HIS HARD LUCK

Thrown Out of Work by a Temporary Depression in the Iron Trade, With a Sick Wife to Care For, He Finds Relief From the Woes of Life in the Pistol of the Suicide.

MONTREAL, May 21.—Yesterday the report of a revolver was heard on Craig street near the News office. Watchmen Burns and Emery, who were in the vicinity at the time, hurried to the spot and on their arrival they were horrified to find a man lying in a pool of blood with a twenty-two calibre revolver beside him. A crowd soon gathered and several persons recognized the prostrate man as Thomas McKiernan, a son of the late "Joe Beef." The watchman at once rang for the ambulance. When it came it was found that the man was dead. He had sent a bullet through his brain.

The deceased was twenty-seven years of age and was a stove plate moulder. He had been employed in Clendinning's foundry for about thirteen years. Recently he was laid off on account of the depression, which is felt in several branches of business, particularly in the iron trade. This circumstance, together with the fact that his wife had been ill for some time, had made him rather despondent, and to this cause is attributed the desperate and fatal act.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA.

MacWherrell's Case—Further Decline in Imports and Exports.

OTTAWA, May 21.—Mr. T. C. Robinette, who defended W. W. MacWherrell, sentenced to be hanged on June 1 for the murder of the old Williams family at Port Credit, had an interview with Sir John Thompson as to the obtaining of a new trial. Among the petitions and affidavits produced was one from William Hamm, a pharmacy student. It sets forth that on the evening of Friday, December 15, the deponent "saw a horse and cutter standing in front of Scholes' hotel on the King street side facing towards Toronto, with two men sitting in the cutter and one at the head of the horse. That since it was published in the newspapers that MacWherrell had purchased the horse from the three men at Scholes' hotel on the Friday night, I called to mind the horse and cutter with the three men whom I had seen on the Friday night, and said to my father and mother that I had no doubt that this was the horse and cutter, and the two men from whom MacWherrell had bought the horse and cutter that evening." Sir John Thompson promised to give the subject his consideration.

There was a decline in both the exports and imports for the month of April, the revenue for the month showing a decrease of about $200,000.

A meeting of the executive of the Conservative Association was held, but it is reported that nothing was done towards bringing out candidates for the provincial elections.

The Liberals will hold a caucus on Wednesday morning, when a further plan of campaign for the session will be adopted. A number of the members of the Opposition advocate facilitating work after the tariff is gone through. Others desire to continue obstruction. It is not probable that the majority will consent to an early prorogation. Ontario members desire to participate in the provincial campaign.

Quebec West Elections.

QUEBEC, May 21.—The news of the death of Hon. John Hearn was scarcely known before the names of candidates for the vacant seat of Quebec West began to be whispered about. The two probable candidates will be Hon. T. McGreevy (Independent) and Mr. Lawrence Lynch (Liberal). The former, who represented the constituency for a number of years, made known his intention of seeking re-election at the first opportunity, while Mr. Lynch has been chosen as the Liberal standard-bearer. The name of Mr. R. R. Dobell is also mentioned as a Conservative candidate, but the gentleman has not yet arrived from Europe.

Hooper Still Confident.

THREE RIVERS, Que., May 21.—J. R. Hooper is counting the days that still have to be passed before his trial takes place. Very little is heard of his trial in the city and apart from the interest taken in it by those directly interested, not a word is heard of it. It will take place on June 1. Hooper is looking much better and is gaining in flesh. He occupies himself with his hobby, postage stamps, and takes exercise regularly in the yard. He expresses the opinion that no jury will convict him of a crime of which he is not guilty and for which there is no direct proofs.

A Temperance Candidate.

PICTON, Ont., May 21.—A mass meeting of temperance workers was held in the Royal Temperance Hall on Saturday to select a candidate to contest the constituency of Prince Edward at the approaching provincial election in the temperance interests. Mr. John Laird, Mayor of Picton was selected. Mr. Laird is a Liberal in politics, but will seek election as an independent supporter of the Mowat Government, pledged to promote and support all legislation looking to the suppression of the liquor traffic.

Big Fire at Athens.

ATHENS, Ont., May 21.—Fire destroyed T. Berney's postoffice, loss $500, insurance $200; Miss Hanna, millinery, loss $300, no insurance; Samuel Boody, harness, loss $1,500, no insurance; F. Mysterious Disappearance Explained.

NIAGARA, Ont., May 21.—The body of Joseph Shaw, a laborer, who has been working in the stone quarries at Queenston, has been found near that place. Shaw disappeared about May 1, and no trace of him could be found till he was picked up in the river. It is supposed he committed suicide. The body will be taken to Niagara Falls for interment.

Fell Under a Train.

HAMILTON, May 21.—William Ferguson, a man 38 years of age, tried to board a G. T. R. freight train bound east, and fell under the wheels of the car. His left leg was cut off below the knee and he will not recover. Ferguson lives in Hamilton, and was partly under the influence of liquor when he tried to get on the train.

TO HARNESS NIAGARA.

An Invention Which a Niagara Falls Man is Asking a Patent For.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 12.—Police Magistrate A. G. Hill of this town is asking for a patent in Canada and the United States for what he calls Hill's automatic folding water-wheel paddle which he has invented, and claims he will harness Niagara's great power with. The water-wheel consists of an axle which can be made in any length; on four or six sides of this axle posts are placed at a uniform distance, and on these posts, gates which work on hinges, which work similar to a common under-shoot wheel, the wheel to be placed at the bottom of the river near Buffalo, and as the force of the current drives the fan or paddle around, and as it ascends the current above closes the paddle like a leaf and thus escapes the force of the current above the axle, and as it drops down the current opens the paddle and receives the force of the current as it passes below the axle, each paddle doing its portion of supplying power to revolve the axle. Mr. Hill has no fear but he will be able to supply all the power to drive Buffalo's machinery at a far less cost than even the great Niagara tunnel can supply it for, and being at the bottom of the river be clear of all navigation and ice and be continuous power. The paddles can be made any size and the shaft any length.

THE VENEZUELA EARTHQUAKE.

A Town With All Its Inhabitants Disappeared—It Was a Terrible Disaster.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Advices received at the State Department from Consul Plumacher, at Maracaibo, dated May 5, show that the greatest damage of the Venezuelan earthquake was done on the famous San Carlos & Merida Railway nearly completed in the Andes. The axis of the disturbance, which lasted at some points three days, was along its line. Several splendid bridges were totally destroyed and others were considerably injured. Several stations were thrown down, the rails were twisted and bent and in some places broken apart, and a number of lives were lost. La Guillos, with all its inhabitants, disappeared entirely, a lake now occupying its site. In some places black water having a fetid odor was expelled from crevasses in the earth. The earthquake is said to have been much worse than those of 1849 and 1875.

THE ELORA ROBBERY.

Rose Confesses to Having Invented the Story of Highway Robbery.

GUELPH, May 21.—Chief Randall and Ald. Peterson, son of the Crown Attorney, have returned from investigating the robbery of $1,600 from William Rose. They brought Rose's horse and buggy back with them. It was found near Philipsburg. Rose has confessed to the authorities that he made up the story of the robbery himself as a blind to cover the loss of the money which he lost in business transactions.

Military School for Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 21.—A meeting of the special committee of the city council appointed to consider the establishing of a military school in Montreal decided to recommend the council to make a grant of $25,000 to that end. It was pointed out that city officers in having to go to St. John's had to give up their civic occupation and that four men would come from the country to qualify where one would go to St. John's; besides they would have the advantage of a permanent school and a military spirit infused into the citizens, as well as the assistance of a permanent force in case of trouble. The city has already spent $147,000 on the Champ de Mars and handed it over to the Government at $1 a year.

Four More Victims at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Four more victims were added to the death list from the Lake Michigan storm, which has not ended yet, by the finding of a row boat on the beach yesterday. The dead were young mechanics who were out of employment and hired the boat to go fishing on Thursday afternoon just before the great gale came from the north. They were last seen rowing out in the lake. Their bodies have not washed ashore.

Archdeacon McMurray Dead.

NIAGARA Ont., May 21.—On Saturday the Ven. Archdeacon McMurray, rector of St. Mark's church, Niagara, passed quietly away, in the eighty-fourth year of his age after an illness of several months. The deceased was a native of Ireland, and was born in the parish of Seagol, near Portadown, September 19, 1810, and was brought to Canada by his parents in the following year. The family settled in York, now Toronto. When eight years of age he entered the school of Dr. Strachan, with whom he afterwards read as student of divinity and under whose care he remained until he was ordained.

Did He Attempt Suicide?

HAMILTON, May 21.—David Dow, contractor, was found in the cellar of a house on Bold street with his throat cut from ear to ear. The workmen say Dow fell twice from the second story of the building into the cellar. The first time he received only a few bruises, and the second time had his throat gashed by a saw. It is alleged however, that Dow tried to end his life with a hand saw. He is now at his home, and the physician in attendance says he will recover.

High Water in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 21.—The Mississippi river is on a tear at Minneapolis. The rain has risen four inches in the last twenty-four hours and is still on the rise. If the water rises even a few inches higher a number of dwellings will be wrenched from their foundations and the occupants will be homeless. Almost all of the saw mills closed down Saturday on account of the high standing of the water.

The Tragedy at Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, May 21.—Bernhardt Altenberger, the murderer of Katie Rupp, has arrived at police headquarters. When told that his victim was dead, Altenberger's face became pale and he appeared to be on the verge of fainting, but soon recovered his composure and refused to discuss the matter further.

Confessed on the Gallows.

EUTAW, Ia., May 21.—Armstead Rice was hanged here for the murder of Burrell Kimbro last Christmas night. On the scaffold Rice confessed the crime; also to having murdered a man in Mississippi several years ago, and afterwards another in Birmingham and to shooting a woman in Green county last fall.

Mrs. Meyer to Be Tried.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Mrs. Meyer, wife of Dr. Henry C. Meyer, who was convicted of murder in the second degree for poisoning Ludwig Brandt, to obtain insurance money, will be put on trial for murder early in June. The testimony of Kiefel, who turned states evidence, will be largely relied on.

EMILE HENRY GUILLOTINED

The Hotel Terminus Bomb Thrower Suffers the Penalty of His Deed.

"LONG LIVE ANARCHY" HE SHOUTED

The Unfortunate Man Goes to His Doom With All the Bravado of Vaillant, But Not With the Firmness of the Notorious Anarchist He Imitated—There Was No Disorder.

PARIS, May 21.—Emile Henry, who on February 12 threw a bomb in the cafe of the Hotel Terminus, was executed at 4.10 o'clock this morning.

The news that Henry would be executed in the morning spread so slowly that few signs of public interest were apparent in the late afternoon and early evening. Shortly before 2 o'clock the guards, 1,000 strong, marched into the square and took positions that blocked ingress and egress through the streets leading into it.

At 3.10 o'clock fifteen mounted policemen formed a piquet d'execution facing the guillotine.

At 4.07 o'clock the little door of the prison creaked on its rusty hinges and the fifteen policemen of the piquet d'execution bared their swords. Every eye turned towards the big gateway and every eye was strained to catch the first glimpse of the prisoner. The iron doors swung slowly apart. Chaplain Valadier walked in front. Henry was corded more tightly than is usual and over his shoulders was a close blue jacket. He was ghastly white, but he walked with a firm step. As he approached the platform he shouted: "Courage comrades; long live anarchy!"

His voice was not as loud as Vaillant's, and trembled noticeably. Deibler's assistants whipped off his jacket. As they pushed him against the plank he shouted again, "Courage; long live Anarchy!"

His neck did not fit the lunette properly as he fell and Deibler gave him a little tug forward. The click of the knife was heard the next moment and Henry's head dropped to the ground. The blood from the trunk spurted high as the body revolved into the basket.

Deibler himself picked up the head from the sawdust and threw it viciously into the basket with the body.

FOUR LIFE-SAVERS LOST.

They Make a Brave Effort to Save the Crew of a Helpless Schooner.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 21.—The lives of four volunteer life-savers were sacrificed on Saturday in an attempt to save the crew of the schooner Wm. Schupe, which was drifting helplessly off the shore eight miles north of here. Those drowned were Capt. Barney Mills, married; Angus King, married; Capt. Henry Little, single, nephew of Capt. Nelson Little, of the Schupe; Wm. Lewis, married.

The Schupe ran on a sand reef about a quarter of a mile from shore. The sea was running very high and she soon lost her steering apparatus and was in imminent danger of going to pieces. The tug Thompson went out to the wreck, but was unable to get near enough to the disabled schooner to render any assistance to her crew. She returned for more help and started out again with a yawl and six men who volunteered to make the perilous attempt to board the Schupe.

The boat was launched with Barney, King, Lewis, and Wm. Linn as the crew and managed to reach the Schupe in safety. A painter was thrown to the vessel and made fast, but just as the almost exhausted sailors started to avail themselves of the life line the yawl capsized and all its occupants were thrown into the water. Of the five men but one (Wm. Linn) was rescued. As the boat went over he grasped the rope and was drawn to the Schupe. The others were drowned. The tug returned to the shore and the life saving crew at Island Beach, ten miles distant, was telegraphed for. They came by a special train and succeeded in rescuing those who were aboard the disabled schooner.

A Painter's Fall for Life.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., May 21.—Martin Corker painted the stack at the electric light plant. The stack is 150 feet high, and when the work was finished he adjusted the pulleys and rope to lower himself to the ground on the inner side of the lofty structure. When a little more than two-thirds of the way down the wheel over which the rope passed stopped. Corker pulled, but it didn't yield. He jerked at it, then attempted to mount again to the top of the stack, but in vain. Then he called for help, but the thick walls imprisoned his voice. Louder and louder he cried, but no one heard him. Without waiting longer he resolved to let go of the rope and fall to the bottom. He loosened his grasp and like a flash he dropped down the gloomy pit. He was fearfully crushed and bruised on the stone floor below and he is now in a critical state. Corker's home is at Kenilworth.

Stopped the Funeral Procession.

PARIS, May 21.—A serious dispute arose a day or two ago between the Mayor of St. Denis and the pastor of one of the Catholic churches in that place. The difference arose from a funeral, at which religious emblems were displayed. The mayor ordered the emblems to be taken away, but the clergyman refused to permit their withdrawal, whereupon the mayor detained the cortege until the orders were complied with. The matter was referred by the mayor to the council of state, which decided that the funeral was a procession in the meaning of the law and the mayor could therefore legally prohibit it. The archbishop of Paris has ordered the clergy of St. Denis to submit to the civil authorities without question.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN A TUNNEL.

A Freight Crashes Into a Construction Train—Seven Instantly Killed.

PRINCETON, Ky., May 21.—Seven persons were instantly killed in a collision on the Newport News and Mississippi Valley railway, seventeen miles east of this city, on Saturday. The dead are: J. Crisp, Westport, Ky.; R. L. Bower, Paducah, Ky.; J. Coundrey, Mayfield, Ky.; Bess Butler, Westport; Nick Hill, conductor; John B. Duncan, Dulaney, Ky.; John Whitehead, Paducah, Ky., skull crushed; and a number of passengers received minor injuries.

The disaster occurred in the Standing Rock tunnel between an extra freight westbound and the bridge construction train in charge of Conductor Nick Hill. Hill expected to take the siding just at the junction. He took the precaution of sending a flagman ahead to warn the freight or any other train which might come up.

Hill was backing up with a boarding car in front, but had followed the flagman too closely. Just as his train had entered the tunnel, Engineer Jones, with the extra freight, entered the other end of the tunnel. His train was going at thirty miles an hour. The fireman and Jones saw their danger in time to jump and save their lives. The engine crashed into the boarding car, where the six doomed men were imprisoned. The car was smashed into kindling wood, the engine of the freight train plowing almost through it and filling the tunnel with wreckage. Access to the wreck was impossible on account of the eleven flat and box cars being piled in a mass to the rear.

A wrecking train and crew were put to work at each end of the tunnel, and the bodies will soon be reached.

WHAT THEY HAVE TO FEAR.

The St. Thomas Times is one of the most moderate Conservative journals in Ontario, therefore its utterances on the electoral campaign which is now in progress, are entitled to consideration. Our contemporary says, in the course of a long article on the subject:

It is his record that has made Sir Oliver fear and quake, in view of facing the electors of Ontario. Twenty years ago he came down from the Chancery bench to assume the Premiership of this Province. He was a judge in Equity then, he is a mere political trickster now. The earliest years of his administration were beset with no difficulties. It was all plain sailing. With a full treasury and a strong party at his back, it required no effort of statesmanship to govern a prosperous and law-abiding people. As the years rolled on, a canny disposition to make his administration as strong and safe as possible began to develop itself. On the corrupt American principle that to the victors belong the spoils, public offices were made rewards for party services, and all over the country the centres of influence were garrisoned by a force virtually in the pay of the Government. The public domain was put on sale to furnish the sinews of war, keep the treasury full, and make taxation low. The liquor interest was pressed into the service and support of the administration.

But Sir Oliver's crowning achievement as a statesman, was winning over to his side the Prohibitionists of Ontario, so that he goes to the polls in a chariot drawn by a team of which one horse is the Liquor Traffic and the other Prohibition!

Sir Oliver began his premiership as the humble servant of the people, he ends it as their would-be dictator. He pays no heed to their demands, but takes his own despotic, absolute way. If ever a ruler received a mandate from a people, Sir Oliver has had one in the direction of a more economical administration. Has he paid any attention to it? Not the slightest. He has economized in nothing. On the contrary he has put the country to a large amount of expense quite unnecessarily.

Sir Oliver, like Mr. Gladsone, has survived his usefulness, but he had not, like the English G.O.M., the grace and sense to retire. So the people will have to put him out, or else permit him to hug the delusion that they regard him as a faithful public servant. Had he retired, a mantle of charity might have been drawn over his short-comings, but now they must be dragged to the light of day. The country must be told of his extravagant squandering of the public lands, of his unpatriotic gift of our lumber trade to the Americans, of his truckling to the Separate School system, of his shameless nepotism, of his playing fast and loose with the temperance people, while at the same time bribing the liquor-sellers, and last but not least of his clinging to the patronage system of appointment, thereby saddling the country with a horde of officials, once fierce partisans of his, and under bond to continue such as long as they live. The general drift and tendency of the Mowat administration has been to sap our liberties, to make the electors hangers-on and dependents in connection with a policy of paternalism, to destroy patriotism as the great motive to vote well, and to centralize our affairs in the hands of a few officials.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works.

ROSEBERY'S TIME ABOUT UP

Parliament Meets Under the Shadow of an Early Dissolution.

SUDDEN DEATH OF EDMUND YATES

The Famous Author and Correspondent Stricken With Apoplexy and Breathes His Last—West African Slave Trade Continues Although Portugal Pledged Herself to Put a Stop to It.

LONDON, May 21.—Parliament resumed its sitting to-day under the shadow of dissolution. Sir William Harcourt, the Government leader in the House, has informed the leaders of the McCarthyite section of the Irish Parliament, that the next general election will probably take place in July, and other Liberal authorities have conveyed similar intimation. Mr. Richard Haldene, M. P., in his speech to his constituents, also predicted an early dissolution, and added that in his opinion it ought to have occurred ere now in order to have the election of such a majority as would stamp unmistakably the desire of the country to pass Government measures without further hindrance. While the opinion is general that the dissolution is imminent, not one of the best informed of the Liberal party knows whether the Government will attempt to carry the clauses of budget, the registration bill and the evicted tenants bill before appealing to the country.

If the present feeble majority would persistently adhere to the Government the session would be prolonged until all important bills, including the measure of the disestablishment of the church in Wales, would be passed by the House of Commons and sent to the House of Lords for rejection, but the possibility of defeat lurks in every proposal submitted by the Government to the popular legislative body. An electoral struggle may be precipitated at any moment, and all that the Ministers can do is wait and prepare for it. The coming anti-Lord's conference in Leeds will sound the trumpet of battle. The Cabinet are resolved to make the question of the survival of the House of Lords, as it is at present constituted, the first plank in their election programme. This assurance has caused the National Liberal Federation to take action to obtain from all constituencies picked delegates to the conference.

Several members of the Cabinet have very reluctantly given their assent to the adoption of a bold and determined policy in opposition to the House of Lords, but the majority of the Ministers are thoroughly convinced that further liberal legislation is impossible unless the Upper House is controlled, and those gentlemen are heartily en rapport with the popular feeling. The principal reason which will engage the attention of the anti-Lords conference will propose the limitation of the peers to a single session. Any bill required by the House of Lords which shall again be passed by the House of Commons at a subsequent session need not go to the Upper House. Though the resolution has the sanction of the Cabinet it will fall very far short of satisfying the radicals, but in Government circles it is believed that such a change can be more easily effected than the complete abolition of the peers' veto power.

A London paper, which has been gleaning the ideas of number of peers on the coming doom of their body, has elicited the opinion of the Duke of Fife, son-in-law of the Prince of Wales, who expresses himself as in favor of infusing popular elements into the Upper House without breaking its historic continuity. The Duke declines to discuss the question whether the new elements shall consist of elective or life peerages, but suggests that a committee, comprising the best men in both Houses of Parliament, be appointed to study the subject. The other peers who responded to the newspaper's invitation to express their views on the subject, included Viscount Harrington, Earl Delamere, Lord Norton, the Earl of South and Lord Sherborne, all of whom are opposed to any concessions on the part of the House of Lords and in favor of a determined fight for the integrity of that body. Earl Stanhope shares to a certain extent the views expressed by the Duke of Fife, believing that it would be well to add to the Upper House a limited number of life peers. Lord Windsor advises the abolition of the present House, and the formation of a new one on the basis of elective and selective. The responses as a whole, however, show that the peers are wholly ignorant of the strength of the popular determination to amend or end their legislative body.

The party organizers are energetically at work in preparing for the inevitable election. The lists of candidates, the most laborious of the preliminary work, are nearly completed. The Liberals have offered to defray the election expenses of six labor candidates, provided they will pledge themselves to support the Government under all circumstances.

EDMUND YATES DEAD.

The Noted Newspaper Correspondent and Satirist Passes Suddenly Away.

LONDON, May 21. — Edmund Yates, author and journalist, was stricken with apoplexy on Saturday evening at the Garrick Theatre, where Lytton's "Money" was playing. He was removed to the Savoy hotel, where he died last evening.

Edmund Yates was well known in journalistic circles both on the continent and in America, and had acquired a world wide reputation as a correspondent of extraordinary ability.

Slavery in Africa.

LONDON, May 21. — The anti slavery society has learned that the slave trade between West Africa and the Islands of Sao Thome and Princep continues despite Portugal's pledge at the Brussell's conference to end it. No Portuguese steamer leaves Benguella or Novo Redondo without a partial cargo of slaves for Loando or Sao Thome. In most cases the slaves are sold to owners of coffee plantations. The trade in young children is especially large.

A Word of Advice.

Place the arm under the pillow and gently force the invalid into a position between lying and sitting. Medicine cups and porcelain spoons are now in general use and save considerable torture.

Value of Swamp Muck.

The chief value of swamp muck is obtained when it is used as an absorbent. If thoroughly dried during the summer months it can be employed to good advantage in stables and in composting with nitrogenous manures. It has but little manurial value in itself.

In Russian theatres, when the auditors desire to express extreme disapprobation, they throw dead cats at the actors.

Twin Sisters Elope.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The village of Flatland's, L.I., is excited because Bessie and Ruby, handsome twenty-year old twins, young daughters of Farmer Daudsworth, have eloped, and with the wrong men. Ruby ran off with Bessie's intended husband on the very evening of the day set for the wedding, and Bessie in a moment of pique eloped with a former flame a few days after her sister's disappearance. The old farmer made a bonfire of his daughter's belongings and declared that they should never more cross the threshold of his house.

DAMAGE BY RAIN.

Juniata Valley in Pennsylvania Flooded by a Four Days' Rain.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 21.—Yesterday's great flood has been exceeded only once in the history of the Juniata Valley, the last four days' rainfall having raised the Juniata river and Raystown branch 21 feet above low water mark and caused great destruction to property. In this place the waters flooded the lower streets, driving the people from their homes and in the lower farming districts whole families are imprisoned in their houses, unable to be reached owing to the turbulence of the streams. Three new iron county bridges spanning the Juniata and Raystown branch have been swept away. The destruction of scores of minor bridges and washouts on public roads have closed all rural approaches to this place. The gas company plant here is submerged and the lower floors of many business houses flooded.

Mrs. Jacob Miller was drowned at Soxton while trying to save some property.

A landslide at Ryde station on the Pennsylvania road covered the south track for a distance of nearly a mile and a portion of the track was washed away. Great damage to property along the Raystown branch is reported.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 21.—For forty-eight hours rain has been falling heavily throughout the west branch water shed, and the river is twenty-one feet high and rising rapidly. Profiting by the experience of five years ago, those in prospective danger spent the day removing their effects to places of safety. Thousands of men worked like beavers removing goods to high ground or the upper stories of their buildings. At least 10,000,000 feet of logs have gone down the river, but the big boom, with its 150,000,000 feet, remains intact.

BRITANNIA RULED THE CONGRESS.

How the English Delegates Controlled the Miners Convention.

LONDON, May 21.—Long daily reports, furnished from Berlin of the international miners' congress, would not naturally be looked to for diversion, but they have been really funnier than any comedy. The English delegates are numerically only a handful, but they were the only ones present who knew anything about parliamentary procedure and the management of meetings. They got a clause in the rules adopted that voting should be, not by individuals, but on the basis of the miners represented; then it turned out that the Englishmen represented 525,000 as against 462,000 for the whole of the other countries combined.

The result was a succession of English chairmen who ruled out most of the things that the continental members brought forward and defeated the rest. The French and Belgians revolted early in the week; even the German worm turned, but the cold cheek of the Briton, impervious to Latin clamor and Teutonic objurgation alike, declared its own resolutions carried and everybody else beaten. Finally it was decided that the congress was at an end on the solitary ground that the British delegates wanted to go home.

It is, perhaps, not surprising that leading continental economists and reformers regard the labors of the congress as inconclusive.

HINTS ON THRIVING.

He who can wait will win. Stick-to-it is the conqueror.

A great deal of water can be had from a small pipe, if the bucket is always there to catch it.

Hard work is the grand secret of success. Nothing but rags and poverty can come of idleness.

Alternative is not always improvement, as the pigeon said when she got out of the net and into the pie.

Elbow grease is the only stuff to make gold with. Shirt sleeves rolled up lead on to the best broadcloth.

In getting rich, the more haste the less speed. Haste trips up its own heels. Hasty climbers have sudden falls.

A good article, full weight, and a fair price, brings customers to the shop, but people do not recommend the place where they are cheated. Cheates never thrive.

Until the millenium comes we shall all have a deal to put up with, and had better bear our present burdens cheerfully than to run helter skelter where we may find things a deal worse.

Don't give up a small business until you see that a larger one will pay you better. Even crumbs are bread. In these hard times he who can sit on a stone and feed himself had better not move.

Look most to your spending. No matter what comes in, if more goes out, you will always be poor. The art is not in making money, but in keeping it. Little expenses, like mice in a barn, where there are many, soon make great waste.—Ram's Horn.

PERSONALS.

Edwin Booth's administrators have inventoried his personal property at $602,675.

Mrs. George W. Childs will make her future home in Washington. She has purchased a lot on K street next to the handsome colonial residence of Senator Hale.

Emil C. Hammer, who died the other day in Boston, was Danish consul in that city for thirty-four year, and for his long service at the post was knighted by the king of Denmark.

The remains of Edwin Forrest, the tragedian, will soon be removed from the old vault in St. Paul's churchyard, Philadelphia, where they now rest, to the Forrest home at Holmesburg.

The lord mayor is the only person, other than the queen and constable, who knows the password to the tower of London. The password is sent to the Mansion house quarterly, signed by her majesty.

Rosa Bonheur has had the ribbon of the Legion of Honor since 1865. She has now been raised to the rank of officer. Many women have the ribbon, but she is said to be the only one to reach the higher grade.

FRUIT BUDS.

That fruit which is worth having is worth planting.

Are you after money in apple culture? Plant quite a proportion of good early fall sorts.

A little protection in fruit growing often goes a great way. An instance is told of an apple tree standing near the barn, at one edge of a large hot pile of manure. The side warmed by the manure was loaded with fruit, the other side barren.

Protecting Buds from Birds.—An English gardener, whose currant and gooseberry bushes were being stripped of buds by the birds, and who was unable to get cheap netting, kept the birds off by covering the bushes with white worsted, twisted and tangled in all directions.—American Gardening.

The southern states may have a monopoly on profits in pecan culture, but not on nut culture generally. As the Rural says, nut growing will pay in forty-three other states besides Louisiana. There will be a time when chestnuts and walnuts, and possibly butternuts and hickories, are quite commonly planted in orchards and groves.

Earthquake Shocks.

The average speed of the transmission of earthquake shocks is nearly 16,000 feet per second.

Further Respite for Prendergast.

CHICAGO, May 21. — Patrick Eugene Prendergast, the murderer of Carter Harrison, will get another continuance for ten days or two weeks, on the grounds that his counsel are employed in other cases.

HILLIER.

Dr. H. H. Post, of Melville, by his successful operation on a horse, owned by Mr. J. Port Davidson, has proved himself to be a veterinary surgeon of great ability. The horse had been rendered useless from ring bone. It could not be cured, and Dr. Post tried the difficult operation of high neurotomy. The experiment was most successful and the lameness has gone. Dr. Post has been practising but one year, but his successful work is putting him to the front, and he is now one of the most skillful veterinaries in the county.

MANY NEW CONVERTS.

A RECEPTION SERVICE IN BRIDGE ST. CHURCH.

Ninety-Two New Members Added to the Rolls—Remarkable Conversions—Meeting for Men and Women—Two Church Pulpits Filled by the Evangelists Last Night.

"We have so much to praise God for. He has been saving so many from sin, that we will bow before Him, and Bros. Holton and Sergeant will lead us in praise and thanksgiving" said the Pastor of Bridge St. Church yesterday to a congregation that was not much less than the ordinary morning one even if the rain storm was an almost unprecedented one. Then followed several earnest souls breathing out the language of most all hearts present, thanking the giver of all good for the showers of spiritual blessings he had been giving to the city. A testimony meeting followed in which scores of men and women told of the change in their lives, and rendered thanks to God for His love to them. Following it nearly a hundred persons made public profession of their faith in Christ, of their resolve to lead new lives and were received by the Rev. E. N. Baker and the Rev. J. E. Hunter into membership in the church. The sacrament of the Lords Supper was afterwards administered, those who partook of it numbering a full half thousand.

Rev. H. T. Crossley preached in the Tabernacle yesterday morning, on the subject of "Perfect Love" and treated the subject in a masterly manner. Rev. Mr. Hunter and family attended the reception service at Bridge St. church and, as he says, enjoyed the service very much.

The meetings for ladies only in Bridge St. Church at 4 o'clock, and for men only in the opera house at the same hour were well attended, considering the weather. Mr. Hunter addressed the ladies and Mr. Crossley the men.

The evangelists conducted services in both Bridge St. and Holloway St. churches last night, and the lesson and sermons were the same. Owing to the downpour of rain, the congregations were not as large as they would otherwise have been, but the churches were both comfortably filled. Mr. Hunter opened the meeting in Holloway St. church and read for his lesson Genesis xxviii., from 10th verse to the end. His comments were pungent and practical. God will not forsake you, young convert, if you don't leave Him. Some people made vows when they were sick, that if they were spared they would serve God, but when they got better the vows were forgotten. A man who does not give one-tenth of his income to the Lord is a robber. The ladder in Jacob's dream came to him, and so will the heavenly ladder come to you. You cannot make your own ladder. The ladder of morality will not save you; it is not long enough. The ladder of formality will not save you either. No one has a monopoly of the religion of Jesus Christ. It is for black as well as white. Jesus Christ is the only ladder between earth and heaven. The happiest people are those who serve God. This heavenly ladder is broad and strong. It will bear all sects and has withstood the hacking of the little hatchets of such men as Bob Ingersoll and Voltaire. Mr. Hunter said he was practical and could not talk in the abstract. Some christians are trying to get to heaven by hanging on with one hand. Take hold with both hands. Hang on tight to the ladder or the winds of temptation will blow you off. Don't come down to help some one else up, but keep on going up. Don't push anyone off the ladder, or hinder anyone going on. Don't go to sleep on this ladder. The christian is like a bicycle you must keep going on or you will fall. There are some difficulties to be met with in climbing this ladder, but you make them yourselves. You can't climb it with a money bag or a whiskey jug in your hand.

Mr. Crossley came up from Bridge St., and Mr. Hunter went down there. Mr. Crossley sang "Eternity! Where?" He said if he had a message from Queen Victoria for that congregation they would feel much elated and the papers would publish it and it would be generally spoken of. I have not one from the Queen, but from her father. Judges 3-20 "I have a message from God unto thee." I have a message to the young man. Young man, are you impure? If your sister or mother were as bad as you are you would feel yourself disgraced. You can be purified. I have a message to the unconverted parents. If you are not in the right way you cannot put your children right. They will follow your example in spite of the Sunday school or other christian influence. I have a message to the christian. "It shall be well with thee." Some unsaved people have such a high ideal of what a christian should be that they refuse to become one lest they should disgrace the church. They are not the ones who will disgrace the church, but those who have no fear of doing so that will do it. I have a message to the unconverted one, "Him that cometh unto Me I will in no wise cast out." It don't make any odds how you come so long as you do come. I have a message to the tamperer with strong drink, "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." Men will drink and be merry and sing "We won't go home till morning" and then cheer for the "Red, white and blue!" They buy the red and get the blue for nothing. Many a man works hard all the week and on Saturday night he takes his earnings to the saloon and leaves it there to enrich the proprietor, where he gets no returns. A man is a fool that will tamper with strong drink. You may not have the appetite now, but by tampering with it you will acquire it. I have a message for you unconverted husbands, "Husbands, love your wives." You say you love your wives. You are not showing it if you are not converted. If your wife is not a christian, she will follow you, if you become one. If you don't help your wife to be a christian you are hindering her and bringing grief to her you little know.

Many stayed to the after meeting and a number decided to live better lives.

NOTES.

To-night the Evangelists talk on the Parlor Dance. Tuesday afternoon they visit Stoney Loney Mission. Wednesday afternoon they hold a meeting at Bleecker St. church. On Wednesday the meeting in the evening will be a peculiar one, as all men and boys will be seated down stairs, and all women and girls in the gallery of the church, the subject that evening will be "The theatre and card playing." On Thursday afternoon, the Evangelists hold a meeting in the Salvation Army Barracks, and that evening give addresses to the Young Converts. Friday afternoon a mass meeting of children will be held, and that night the farewell meeting will be held.

A Great Rain Storm.

A rain storm of three days' duration is a rarity at this season, but such an event has just been experienced here. Commencing at about 3 a.m. on Friday, there were frequent showers up to Saturday night, and thence forward the fall of rain was almost constant up to an early hour this morning. The amount of water that fell must have been very great, but it is likely to prove beneficial.

THE CITY PULPITS.

Notes of the Services in the Different Places of Worship.

Services in St. Andrew's church were well attended yesterday despite the inclement weather. The choir under Mrs. York are showing constant improvement in leading the service of praise and in the rendering of sacred anthems. Rev. M. W. Maclean, M.A., preached two practical and vigorous sermons upon Christian Work—individual and congregational—emphasizing the need of steadfast perseverance that fruit may abound. The evening text was II. Thessalonians 3: 13, "Be not weary of well doing." Why is it more active good is not done in this city, where two thirds of the citizens are professing christians and there is more church accommodation than there are people to use it? It is because so many are spectators and talkers only while some are leaning on their oars and drifting. Let us beware that our light be not taken from us. There is no summer sailing and halcyon serenity in the christian struggle. We must be up and doing constantly as good citizens spreading a manly liberal christianity.

Rev. J. L George, pastor of John St. church, preached two excellent sermons yesterday on the line of evangelical work now being carried on by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter. His text in the evening was Philippians, 1x26. The choir rendered the beautiful anthem "Gracious Spirit, Love Divine" in the evening, Miss Ethel Coleman and Mr. Geo. Fax, conductor, taking the solos.

St. George's church was re-opened for divine service yesterday. It is proposed to hold evening service here every Sunday and Sunday school at 3 p.m. Considering the inclement weather the attendance at Sunday School and service was good. The service was conducted by Rev. A.L. Geen, who preached a plain and practical sermon upon Confirmation from I Thess., 5 chap., 21 verse. "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good." The congregation joined very heartily in Psalms and prayers as well as in the singing.

The services at Christ church were as usual. In the morning prayer was said by Rev. Mr. Geen. The Rev. Mr. Daw preached upon the subject of the day, Holy Trinity. At evensong Mr. Daw again preached. Notice was given that the Archbishop of Ontario will on Sunday morning next be in Christ church to administer the rite of confirmation.

Rev. D. O. Crossley preached a splendid sermon in the Tabernacle last evening. The congregation had many new faces as a result of the evangelistic meetings.

Rev. J. A. McCamus, pastor of Holloway St. church, preached in the morning, taking for his subject "The Kingdom of God and all other things."

The Raw, Cutting Winds

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees marks the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nerviline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain whether internal or external. 25 cents a bottle, at druggists.

The Father of Manhood Suffrage in Ontario.

Many young men have this year been put on the voters' lists for the first time, and they will be taught that they are indebted for this manhood suffrage to the Mowat Government. They need not be surprised to learn, however, that the measure originated with Mr. W. R. Meredith, whose championship of popular privilege in this matter was tardily translated into law by the Government after long opposition and indifference.

It was Mr. W. R. Meredith who first moved in the House of Assembly that Manhood Suffrage should be the law of this Province. For years the Mowat party opposed it on the plea that the people "were not ripe" for such a measure. Mr. Meredith was called a "revolutionist" for introducing his motion and forcing it upon the attention of the House. When the Government found it was useless longer to hold out, they yielded, and not before.—London Free Press.

Consumption—Low Condition
Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 89 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The Medicine for Liver and Kidney Complaint—Mr. Victor Auger, Ottawa writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending to the general public Parmelee's Pills, as a cure for Liver and Kidney complaint. Somehow a man feels much worse the day after he has lost an hour's sleep on account of the baby than he does the day after he has lost five hours' sleep at the club.

GIRLS IN BUSINESS.

Anything But Quiet Dignity Lessens Her Usefulness.

A girl never enhances her business prospects by putting aside her dignity toward her employer. It may seem to her that other girls, adopting a different course, enjoy more advantages and make speedier progress. But this is in the seeming, never in the reality. Familiarity here breeds absolutely nothing but contempt. This is one of the most unfortunate elements in the entrance of women in the business world, and one of the principal reasons why I oppose her doing so except where actual and dire necessity compels it. I know of all too many cases where girls have been placed in the most trying of positions in this respect. It is unfortunate, but it is true, that there are men who are all too ready to take advantage of their positions in life. And under the wrong impression that it means a surer hold upon their positions the employee tolerates the familiarity of the employer. It is the position in which many a girl in business finds herself. Inexperienced, she believes her position is at stake, not knowing that her tolerance brings that end closer than would her assumption of the position her own feelings dictate. Respectability is a girl's greatest safeguard everywhere, but nowhere is it such a vital safeguard to her as when she must rub up against the world and be, in a measure, her own protector. Business men, generally speaking, draw a sharp distinction between their acquaintances of the office and their social friends. They do it because experience has taught them it is the only wise course. From this attitude on the part of the employer the girl in business should profit. Let her keep her social life and her business life as distinct as possible. Anything but an assumption of quiet dignity on her part takes away just so much from her own usefulness in the business world, and lessens, rather than increases, the respect of her employer. I do not mean by this that a young woman should assume a chilling manner toward her male superiors or equals in business. Woman's greatest charm is in her ability to be womanly, and womanliness means exactly what the word implies and nothing more. But, likewise, nothing else. It is, perhaps, because business is still a novelty to woman that so many girls have yet to learn the lesson that coquetry has no place in the commercial world, and that to presume upon a kindness extended is a fatal mistake. The girl whom the man of business respects most highly is the girl who carries herself so as to win his respect. And a man's true respect for a good woman means the very best that is within him.

Rules for Track-Laying.

The question is often asked, "What are the rules for laying out mile and half-mile tracks?" The following simple directions will be found useful: For a mile track draw a line through an oblong centre 440 yards in length, setting a stake at each end. Then draw a line on either side of the first line, exactly parallel with and 417 feet two inches from it, setting stakes at either end of them. You will then have an oblong square 440 yards long and 835 feet 4 inches wide. At each end of these three lines you will now set stakes. Now fasten a cord or wire 417 feet 2 inches long to the centre stake of your parallelogram, and then describe a half circle, driving stakes as often as you wish to set a fence-post. When the circle is made at both ends of your parallelogram you will have two straight sides and two circles which, measured three feet from the fence, will be exactly a mile. The turns should be thrown up an inch to the foot.

A half-mile track: Draw the parallel lines 600 feet long and 452 feet 5 inches apart. Half-way between the extreme ends of the two parallel lines drive a stake, then loop a wire around the stake long enough to reach to either side. Then make a true curve with the wire, putting down a stake as often as a fence-post is needed. When this operation is finished at both ends of the 600-foot parallel lines the track is laid out. The inside fence will rest exactly on the line drawn, but the track must measure a half-mile, three feet from the fence. The turns should be thrown up an inch to the foot. The stretches may be anywhere from forty-five to sixty feet.

Defamers of Men.

The work of masculine whisperers is chiefly seen in the embarrassment of business. I will undertake to say that in nine cases out of ten of business trouble it was the result of some whisperer's work. The whisperer uttered some suspicion in regard to your credit. You sold your horse and carriage because you had no use for them, and the whisperer said: "Sold his horse and carriage because he had to sell them. The fact that he sold his horse and carriage shows that he is going down in business." One of your friends gets embarrassed, and you are a little involved with him. The whisperer says: "I wonder if he can stand under all this pressure? I think he is going down. I think he will have to give up." You borrow money out of a bank and a director whispers outside about it, and after a while the suspicion gets fairly started, and it leaps from one whisperer's lip to another whisperer's lip until all the people you owe want their money and want it right away, and the business circles come around you like a pack of wolves, and though you had assets four times more than were necessary to meet your liabilities, crash went everything! How much business men have suffered. Sometime in the circle of clergymen we discuss why is it that a great many merchants do not go to church. I will tell you why they do not go to church. By the time Saturday night comes they are worn out with the annoyances of business life. They have had enough meanness practiced upon them to set their whole nervous system atwitch. My chief wonder is that our business men control their tempers and retain their good health as well as they do.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Only the Scars Remain.

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., "none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

THE DOMINION PARLIAMENT

Resolution Favoring Peace Between Britain and the United States.

CANADA'S INTEREST IN THE MATTER

The Resolution Provokes an Interesting Discussion, in Which the Premier Scores Disgruntled Politicians for Their Dissatisfaction With the Behring Award—Alleged Discrimination in the Customs.

OTTAWA, May 22.—Replying to Mr. Delisle yesterday Sir John Thompson said the Government was aware of the cataclysm involving widespread devastation in the counties of Port Neuf and Champlain and along the course of the St. Anne river. They had heard this with very great regret, but up to the present time they were not aware of a call for a vote of Parliament to recoup the victims of the disaster.

Carrying Mails by Street Car.

Mr. McMillan wanted to know if a contract had been entered into with the Ottawa Street Railway Company for the carriage of the mails from the railway station to the postoffice, and why the mode of carrying the mails was changed from a horse vehicle to a street car?

Sir Adolphe Caron replied that such a contract had been made. The service by street cars was much superior to the wagons. The mails were delivered at the post-office with greater certainty and with greater safety. The large amount of space in the cars enabled the company to carry all the mails in one trip. The mail clerks were not exposed to the inclement weather under the new system.

Claims Against the Government.

Hon. Mr. Haggart, in reply to Mr. Mulock, said the total amount of claims against the Government in respect to the works known as the Wellington and Grand Trunk railway bridges, from the commencement of the works to their completion, was $490,754, and the amount paid on account of these claims was $394,796.

Pensions for Militia.

Mr. Prior moved the following resolution: "That in the opinion of this House it is expedient that a scheme should be devised by the Government whereby the permanent corps of the Canadian militia, and the headquarters and district staffs of the same, may, after a certain number of years' service, become entitled to receive from the Government adequate pensions, and thus be placed on a more equal footing with similar organizations in other countries, and with members of the civil service in Canada." The permanent corps were the Canadian regulars and formed the nucleus of the militia. They did the same work as the Imperial regulars, and came under the same discipline, but there the similarity ended. The Imperial troops got better pay and a pension.

Mr. Davin seconded the motion, saying that he had seen the good results of the pension system in a similar force, viz.: the Northwest mounted police. He believed the same result would follow the carrying out of Mr. Prior's proposal.

Col. Tisdale supported the motion. The present state of affairs was not of such a nature as to encourage the young men of the country to enter the permanent corps.

Hon. Mr. Patterson admitted there was much to be said in favor of the pension, but said the Government was not prepared to submit to the country and advocate a system of pensions. He asked that the motion be withdrawn and he would lay the matter before his colleagues on some future occasion.

Mr. Prior withdrew his motion.

The Peace of Nations.

Mr. Edgar moved his resolution favoring peace between Great Britain and the United States. After quoting the resolution passed by the Imperial House of Commons, Mr. Edgar's resolution continued: "Therefore this House, believing it to be in the interest of Canada that the present friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States should be cultivated and maintained, views with the highest satisfaction the disposition shown by both countries to promote the peaceful settlement by arbitration of any disputes or differences between them which cannot be adjusted by diplomatic agency."

In arguing the matter he said that the time had arrived for some practical action on the part of Canada, not to imitate but to promote the movement already made by Great Britain and the United States, in the interests of permanent peace between these two countries.

Mr. Dickey seconded the resolution. He thought the resolution should be passed to show the world that Canada possessed friendly feelings for the country to the south. It might be considered an ebulition of colonial vanity for the Canadian Parliament to pass such a resolution, but Canada's 5,000,000 people were equal to any other 5,000,000 on earth, and it should therefore be adopted.

Sir John Thompson said as far as Canada was concerned the resolution was one of sentiment rather than utility, and yet he did not think its passage by the Canadian Parliament could be made a subject of ridicule. Canada had a great interest in preserving harmonious relations with the United States, and Parliament would be doing right in extending the hand of fellowship to the republic. It should be remembered that on a former occasion, while the United States were actually sending propositions of peace to England, they were at the same moment seizing Canadian vessels in the Pacific and subjecting Canadians to extreme cruelties. Sir John went on to say that most of the eight arbitrations which had taken place between England and the United States had related to Canada. It looked as if another arbitration would take place between the United States and England over the question of compensation of sealers. He thought that the House should pass the resolution for another reason—that of showing that the expressions made use of by dissatisfied politicians in this country, belittling the Behring Sea arbitration and condemning the results thereof, were insincere and unwarranted.

Hon. Mr. Laurier justified the unfavorable criticisms of the Behring Sea award, and stated that Canada had failed to obtain justice in the matter. Still even unsatisfactory as that arbitration proved, it was a thousand times better than the arbitration of war.

Mr. Gillmour supported the resolution, and it carried unanimously.

The Woodstock Customs Case.

Mr. McCarthy moved for correspondence with respect to the admission of Roman Catholic vestments free when consigned to the Rev. Father Brady, of Woodstock, while (as was alleged) similar privileges had been refused to the Rev. G. C. Farthing, Anglican rector at Woodstock.

Hon. Mr. Wallace accused Mr. McCarthy of inspiring the charges made against him in the Mail regarding this Woodstock case. This was a matter with which he (Mr. Wallace) had nothing to do, and he did not know of the violation of the Custom's Act till recently. Mr. Wallace read correspondence to show that he had had nothing whatever to do with the violation.

Col. O'Brien denied that Mr. Wallace had been charged with anything.

Hon. Mr. Wallace—We will accept the apology.

Mr. McCarthy said he had nothing to do with the Mail. He simply wanted to lay the blame on the proper officials. He did not want to attack Hon. Mr. Wallace. He twitted Mr. Wallace with occupying an "inferior position in the Cabinet."

Hon. Mr. Wallace—A higher position than you ever occupied.

Mr. McCarthy said he would not accept such a position.

Sir John Thompson said the papers would be brought down, and then it would be seen if there was diabolical work. The motion carried.

To Amend the Franchise.

Mr. Mills (Annapolis) moved: That it is expedient to amend the electoral franchise so that it should not be lawful for any person to vote at any election for a member or members to represent the people in the Parliament of Canada who at any time within twelve months before the day of such election was an employe or appointee, receiving pay or emolument, a holder of a commission for the expenditure of money, or intercept of wages or emoluments of any kind, or from any of the Provincial Governments of Canada which have enacted or hereafter may enact a similar disfranchisement as to their election, of employes, etc., of th eFederal Government.

Around the Capital.

A gentleman in the city from Quebec says that McGreevy will certainly run for Quebec West.

This, it is estimated, will save about 40 per cent., as only the lists as finally revised will be printed.

Sir George Dibbs, Premier of New South Wales, cabled to Hon. Mackenzie Bowell that the Australian delegates to the Ottawa conference have sailed by the Arrowa for Vancouver, B. C.

After June 1 a new fire insurance tariff will come into effect with regard to retail dry goods stocks, and this is said to be but a forerunner of an increase all along the line. The new tariff raises the rate from $7.50 to $9 per $1,000.

The Department of Public Works has issued orders to stop work on the new bridge across the Gatineau river. It seems a number of the owners of barges which will float on the Gatineau have complained to the Government concerning the location of the piers, and particularly of the fact that their boats will not be able to pass between the draw piers at low water. So far $14,000 has been expended on the construction of the piers, which are almost completed, by the contractors.

The new franchise bill will likely be introduced early next week. Besides providing amendments to conform with the boundaries established by the Redistribution Act of 1892, the bill will aim to reduce the cost of revising the lists. It is said the plan is to dispense with the printing of the preliminary list. Instead, the provincial voters' lists will be used, and the revising officer having fixed dates in the several districts for the hearing of applications for the addition of names, or the striking off of names which appear on those lists, will attend at the places named and have the necessary corrections made.

BARCELONA ANARCHISTS SHOT.

Condemned for Complicity in an Attempt to Assassinate General de Campos.

BARCELONA, May 22.—Codina, Cerezuela, Sogas, Bernat, Villarubia and Mir, the anarchists who were condemned to death for complicity in the attempt of Pallas to assassinate General Martinez de Campos, were shot yesterday in the presence of but few spectators. The absence of a crowd was due to an announcement that the execution would take place later in the day.

The troops formed three sides of a square from the wall of Mont Juich, where the pinioned convicts were placed. The priests connected with the prison chapel remained with the prisoners until the end, though no attention was paid by the anarchists to their exhortations. Cerezuela, Sogas and Cardinall remained silent throughout, but Mir, from the moment he appeared in the square, shouted: "Long live revolution," etc. When the firing party was formed the prisoners were made to kneel and the priests retired. Villarubia shouted "Murderers, await our revenge" and Bernat cried "Death to the inquisition."

The platoon fired from a distance of three metres. The convicts had their backs turned toward the troops, and their eyes were bandaged with handkerchiefs. Codina and Villarubia resisted the attempts of the troops to blindfold them, and called upon the onlookers for help. The guards were obliged to use force to compel them to get on their knees.

Sogas and Codina were still kneeling after the volley was fired, and were struggling to get upon their feet when they received the second shot which stretched them beside their companions. The bodies were placed in plain wooden coffins and buried inside the fort.

Later in the day thousands of people ascended Mont Juich in expectation of seeing the execution. The event deeply affected the anarchist prisoners who are confined on board the warship Navarra.

A Servian Coup d'Etat.

BELGRADE, May 22.—King Alexander has accomplished another coup d'etat. A royal proclamation issued abolishes the constitution of 1888 and restores that of 1869, giving the king the right to appoint one-third of the members of the Chamber of Deputies. With restoration of the old constitution, the secret ballot and the election system of scrutin de liste is abrogated. The Skuptchina will now be dissolved. The king has taken this step upon the advice of his father, ex-King Milan. The Radicals are intensely excited over the action of the king, and drastic measures will be required to preserve order.

The Cattle Embargo.

LONDON, May 22.—The support given by Lord Ripon, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to the demand of the Dominion of Canada that the edict requiring Canadian cattle to be slaughtered upon landing be withdrawn, has raised a feeling of expectancy that these restrictions will be removed before the re-opening of the trade for the coming season. The Canadian authorities here have reason to believe that the period of special examination of Canadian cattle ordered by the Board of Trade will terminate in June.

Canadian Dies Abroad.

HAMILTON, May 22.—J. N. Travers, formerly manager of the Bank of Montreal in Hamilton, died in Paris, France, on Sunday. Mr. Travers had been manager for the Hamilton branch of the bank for fifteen years, and resigned in September, 1892, on account of ill-health. He had been 43 years in the service of the bank in the cities of Montreal, Hamilton and Brockville, and was held in high esteem.

THE HAVOC OF THE STORM

Some American States Suffer Heavily From Incessant Rain.

SWOLLEN RIVERS SWEEP PROPERTY

Destruction of Crops in New York State Complete — Pennsylvania Experiences the Greatest Inundation Ever Known—The Loss at Williamsport City Alone Reaches Over a Million.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 22.—The entire city is under water from four to twenty feet. The water is still rising at the rate of six inches an hour. All the logs at the boom which broke yesterday have been swept away, as well as many sawmills and houses in the lower part of the city. All telegraph and telephone communication with the outer world is now suspended, the offices being flooded and closed. In the business portion of the city the water has reached a depth of eight feet and shows no signs of receding. The rain is still coming down in torrents. The loss has already reached more than $1,000,000 and unless relief soon comes it will be three times that amount. No trains have arrived or departed from the city for twenty four hours.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., May 22.—The breast of the dam at Springton has broke. The dam covered fifty acres and the vast body of water swept everything before it down the valley. No deaths have been reported, but the damage to farm property is large.

DUNKIRK, N.Y., May 22.—It will take many thousands of dollars to cover the damage by the flood in this city alone, while reports from the surrounding country say acres and acres of garden land were torn out along the banks of the creek and bridges, culverts, etc., were carried away. At Fredonia the Water street iron bridge was lifted from its foundation and many narrow escapes from drowning are reported. While Henry Tilley, of the Colgan farm, was absent from home and his wife sick in bed, his three-year-old boy wandered away and was carried down by the currents. All railroads in the city excepting the Lake Shore are badly crippled on account of washouts.

DANSVILLE, N.Y., May 22.—The water in the Canesaraga rose rapidly and is now two feet above the high water mark of five weeks ago. The destruction of growing crops is complete, and the loss to farmers will agregate hundreds of thousands of dollars. Bridges are carried away, and the highways are washed out for rods in many places, rendering them impassable. In Stoney Brook Glen the gorge is damned in several places, and great damage is being done by the inundation. At Cumminsville Bradner creek has swept everything along its banks. The road between here and Mt. Morris is under water for miles.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—Since Friday night four and one half inches of rain have fallen in Philadelphia. The Schuylkill river is twenty feet above the low water mark at Manayaunk, a suburb of this city, and several of the streets are flooded. The Pencoyd iron works, which are situated on comparatively high grounds, are flooded and were compelled to suspend operation. The river is rising seven inches an hour, and the overflow is believed to be the greatest since 1869.

HOLIDAYSBURG, Pa., May 22.—Reports of bursting reservoirs kept 3,000 Blair county people houseless and homeless all night. At midnight a Pennsylvania railroad locomotive brought the warning to Gaysport that the Kilkenning Point reservoir, the source of Altoona City's water supply, had given way, and the valley below would soon be covered by 200,000,000 gallons of water. A Gaysport telegraph operator later received this message from Kitaling: "The dam has burst; for God's sake tell Gaysport people to fly." The result of these warnings was that the entire population at Gaysport, Duncansville and West Hollidaysbury deserted their homes and spent the night on the hill.

THE STORM IN ONTARIO.

The Incessant Rain Affects Crops in Some Places—Damage in Tilsonburg.

TORONTO, May 22.—Reports coming in from various places throughout the western part of the province show that the incessant rain of the past five days, though pretty general, has not been as disastrous in its effects as might have been expected. In some places, it is true, crops have suffered considerably, although in those sections which boast of a good drainage system, little or no apprehension exists. In the city the continuous downpour caused the postponement of the O. J. C. races until Thursday. In one part of this city the laundry of a Chinaman, a building which had long been looked upon as dangerous, gave way before the storm. The Don river has swelled to a greater extent than has been known for years, and the Winchester street bridge was for a time considered to be in danger of giving way. No great damage is reported in this vicinity.

SARNIA, Ont., May 22.—The continuous rains which have occurred in this district heavily for five days, accompanied by heavy winds and hail storms, have caused great anxiety to the farmers as regards their fruit and crops. In many places the ground is covered with sheets of water, the drains being quite insufficient to carry away the water. The principal damage, so far as can be ascertained at present, will be to the corn and potato crops. Many of the farming districts in this neighborhood are well supplied with draining facilities and save great damage. Other places not so well supplied are suffering and many fields are damaged beyond estimation.

TILSONBURG, Ont., May 22.—The storm created sad havoc with bridges in this vicinity, many of them having been washed away entirely in Dereham, Bayham and Middleton, which has interfered with traffic considerably. In town, the damage done is not so serious as first imagined. It will take $1,200 or $1,400 to repair the Lisgar avenue fill and the bridges on the eleventh concession and John Pound road. The dam at Wood's Little Red Mill was washed away and many of the other dams had very close calls.

Dillon's Advice to the Irish.

LONDON, May 22.—John Dillon, anti-Parnellite member of Parliament, in speaking in Bally Brook denounced the land grabbers and expressed approval of the Government's policy. The Irish ought not to defeat the Ministry, he said, as an election now would return Lord Salisbury to power with 100 majority in the Commons.

Monck Conservatives.

WELLANDPORT, May 22.—The Liberal-Conservatives of the county of Monck met here yesterday and decided not to nominate a candidate for the coming provincial elections, in view of the fact that there are now two candidates in the field.

Painter—There, now, is my new picture! What's the matter with that, eh? Quiet Friend—I don't know, but I should say that it was a case of art failure.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which, cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

A BACK BONE WANTED.

Whilst the city is supposed to be entertaining the Governor General, at least that is the supposition of the citizens, who are called upon to foot the bill, they, the citizens, would like to know why all the correspondence, copies of the addresses, &c., are being forwarded through an official of the Ontario Government. The committee wants a back bone.

AN "INDEPENDENT" CANDIDATE.

The appearance of Mr. W. H. Biggar in the field as an "independent" candidate for the Legislature, after having some weeks ago declined re-nomination by the Reform Association, is a matter of great significance.

Mr. Biggar, who declines to make public at present his reasons for his action, promises to lay before the electors a full statement of the motives which have actuated him. It is to be hoped that he will do so at a very early day, in order that it may be learned what his future attitude will be. In the words of that eminent Reformer the Hon. Edward Blake, "you had better speak now," Mr. Biggar.

MADOC.

The A.O.U.W., of Stirling and Madoc attended church here. Dr. Wishart preached a very instructive sermon. After the service the Madoc members entertained the visiting brethren to a dinner at mine host Moon's. The order in Madoc are one hundred strong, showing a steady growth.—Mr. Whit Huber has again got control of the Flinton stage. This insures a much better service than we've been having.—A Sunday School Institute will be held in the Methodist church of this place on June 20th.—Thursday the dwelling of John Geen caught fire from a defective flue and part of the roof was destroyed. The timely arrival of the firemen saved the building.—Two men, who go by the romantic name of Love, engaged on Friday in a free fight and after the battle looked anything but lovely.—Hart Bros., of Stirling, have started a pump factory in the old foundry. The prospects are bright for their doing a large business.—A much needed rain came Saturday and Sunday which insures a large hay crop. With the exception of fall wheat crops are looking good for this season of the year.—The mill property at Downing's rapids has again been sold, this time to John Conlin, farmer, and he has started the mill.

The Raw, Cutting Winds

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees marks the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nerviline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain whether internal or external. 25 cents a bottle, at druggists.

Raw Furs.

There is no quotable change in furs, the market continues in the same unsettled condition, and dealers buy cautiously. Quotations range widely, and are more or less nominal as follows: Beaver, per lb., $2 50 to $3; bear, large, per skin, $8 to $12; do cub, per skin, $2 to $3; fisher, per skin, $2 50 to $4; fox, red, per skin, 75c to $1.25; do cross, per skin, $1 to $2 50; wolf, small to large, per skin, 50c to $1 25; lynx, per skin, $1 to $2; marten, per skin, 75c to $1.25; mink, 75c to $1.20; otter, per skin, $6 to $10; raccoon, per skin, 50c to 75c; skunk, 50c to 75c; muskrat 5c to 10c.—Montreal Star.

MR. MEREDITH AT LONDON

The Leader of the Opposition Opens the Provincial Campaign.

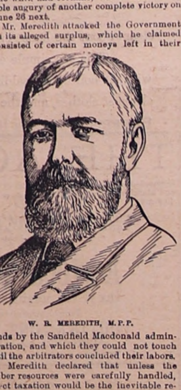
EXISTING ABUSES KEENLY CRITICIZED

A Large and Enthusiastic Crowd Assemble to Do Honor to Ontario's Gifted Statesman — Some of the Important Questions on Which His Policy is Clearly Defined.

LONDON, Ont., May 22.—Mr. Meredith opened the election campaign for the province last night in a splendid manner. Notwithstanding the continuous rains and the deplorable condition of the roads, an immense crowd assembled to hear the brilliant leader of the Opposition present his views on the various questions now occupying a foremost place in provincial politics.

Mr. Meredith was greeted with the wildest enthusiasm. When he came forward on the platform the demonstration was such as to give no occasion for the supposition that the esteem and confidence in which the "honest statesman" has always been held by his constituents had abated one whit, and certainly was a most favorable augury of another complete victory on June 26 next.

Mr. Meredith attacked the Government on its alleged surplus, which he claimed consisted of certain moneys left in their hands by the Sandfield Macdonald administration, and which they could not touch until the arbitrators concluded their labors. Mr. Meredith declared that unless the timber resources were carefully handled, direct taxation would be the inevitable result. Biennial sessions he strongly advocated. There were too many laws, and a saving of $70,000 or $80,000 could be effected. There were no iron mines in operation in Canada because there was no encouragement.



W. R. MEREDITH, M.P.P.

Mr. Meredith dealt at considerable length with the Government's prohibition policy and said that the Government should bow to the will of the people. Before making a law the legislature should submit the bill to the people for final decision. After the ballot system had been denounced, the speaker proceeded to take up the Separate School question, which he dealt with at considerable length. The Separate Schools were guaranteed by the British North America Act and could not be dispensed with without Imperial legislation. But the Catholics enjoyed a great many privileges which were not guaranteed by that Act, and these should be looked into. Because he advocated certain reforms in this direction he had been called a fanatic and a bigot.

Mr. Meredith concluded his speech by taking up local matters and satisfactorily explaining his position as City Solicitor for Toronto, which has been the subject of a great deal of discussion in this city.

WAS NOT JOE BEEF'S SON.

The Man Who Suicided Was Not McKernan, But an Unknown.

MONTREAL, May 22.—A mystery surrounds the suicide of the man who blew his brains out on the streets, here on Sunday morning. It was at first believed that the man's name was McKernan, and that he was the son of the notorious Joe Beef. It now transpires that though he bore a striking resemblance to McKernan, he was not the man. It is suspected that there is foul play in the case, and what lends force to this is a statement made by Father Shea to the coroner. Father Shea stated that on Saturday night a man called on him and stated he was from near Quebec, and that he was afraid of being killed. He would not give his name. The appearance of the suicide corresponds with the man. The coroner is investigating the case.

Fatal Fire in Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 22.—A fatal fire took place yesterday in the stables of T. W. Foster, proprietor of the Foster house, and a well-known horseman. In the stable were two valuable trotting horses belonging to Mr. Foster and valued at over $1,500. The fire was discovered at an early hour, and after the firemen had extinguished it and entered the stable they found the body of Thomas Orphan, the hostler. The man was breathing when found, but expired on his way to the hospital, having been suffocated by the dense smoke. Orphan was an Englishman, about twenty-five years of age. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Ingersoll Stone-Throwing Case.

INGERSOLL, May 22.—In the stone-throwing case, in which John McDermott lost his life about two weeks ago, which was again up before the police magistrate yesterday, nothing new transpired. The testimony of the doctor who made the post mortem was given as well as that of one of the younger boys. Aldward, the prisoner, was also examined, and gave a straightforward recital of his version of the case. The case was further remanded for two days, Aldward being allowed to go at liberty on his own recognizances.

International Bicycle Race.

PARIS, May 22. — The international bicycle race between Bordeaux and Paris ended when the Frenchman Lesna crossed the finish line and was declared the winner. He had covered the distance in 25 hours, 11 minutes. Lucas finished at 11.11, Samson at 12.50, Lumsden and Beribier came in next and the rest were strung out for miles. There were 87 starters. It was windy and wet, and the roads were in a terrible condition. Frank Waller's pneumatic tire gave out repeatedly, and he finally abandoned the race when he was one hour behind Lesna.

She Could Not Decide.

VANDALIA, Ill., May 22.—At the inquest on the body of Miss Lucy Sefton, who committed suicide last Tuesday in Sefton township, it developed through a note she had written that the real cause of her trouble was a love affair. She was engaged to be married to a young man in her neighborhood, but a former lover stepped in and pressed his suit. The girl could not decide which to accept and concluded to end her trouble by taking her life.

Coxeyites Get Twenty Days.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Coxey, Browne and Jones were sentenced by Judge Miller in the Washington police court to twenty days in jail for violating the statue of the United States, prohibiting the display of partisan banners in the Capital grounds, and Coxey and Brown were fined $500 each additional for trespassing on the grass, the alternative being another ten days in jail. Jones was acquitted on this last charge.

MANCHESTER CANAL OPENING.

Her Majesty Attends the Proceedings Amid Great Enthusiasm.

MANCHESTER, Eng., May 22.—The formal opening of the Manchester ship canal to to the traffic of the world was accomplished amid the greatest enthusiasm. When the Queen arrived at the station the cheering of the crowds which occupied every inch of available space was deafening. Her Majesty at once entered one of the royal carriages which had been sent to this city in advance for the purpose, and was driven to the town hall, where she was presented with an address. From the town hall the Queen and her party were driven to Trafford wharf. All along the eight miles of streets through which the Queen was driven the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. Hundreds of thousands of people lined the way. Banners, flags, floral arches and venetian blinds were visible everywhere, and the air resounded with cheers. The Queen was escorted from the station to the town hall and thence to Trafford wharf by a guard of honor, consisting of a field officers' escort of the 14th Hussars. The guard comprised Major Hamilton (in command), two captains, four subalterns and one hundred non-commissioned officers and men. As the procession left the station a troop of yeomanry fell in at the rear and accompanied the royal carriage to Albert square. Other guards of honor were stationed at the town hall, All Saints' church, Trafford wharf, Salford and St. George's church, Chester road and Hulme. The various guards of honor comprised about 1,000 men and about 5,000 troops guarded the streets through which the royal procession passed.

Arriving at Trafford wharf the Queen embarked on board the royal yacht Enchantress, which at once steamed up the canal in the vicinity of Salford docks, where she formally declared the Manchester ship canal open to commerce.

Returning to Trafford wharf, her Majesty re-entered her carriage and was driven to Salford, where she was presented with an address by the Mayor and the other authorities of the corporation. The enthusiasm of the people of Salford was manifestedly quite as marked as that of the people of Manchester. The streets and buildings were magnificently decorated and the inhabitants turned out en masse to take part in the celebration of the occasion.

After leaving Salford her Majesty was escorted to the station and started for Balmoral. During the exercises the Queen conferred the honor of knighthood upon the Lord Mayor of Manchester, the Mayor of Salford, and Joseph Leigh, M.P., son-in-law of David Adamson, chief promoter and first chairman of the Manchester Ship Canal Co.

The Fast Atlantic Liners.

LONDON, May 22.—The specifications for the five new vessels for the fast Atlantic line between Canada and England have been forwarded to the leading shipbuilding firms: The Armstrong Company, of Newcastle; the Fairfield Company, of Glasgow; the Naval Construction Company, of Barrow; Swan & Hunter, of Newcastle; and J. & G. Thompson, of Glasgow. They are to be 572 feet in length, 62 feet beam, and depth of hold 42 feet, with a draught of 30 feet, and machinery indicating 21,000 horse power. Managing Director James Huddart says that the only claims for the English port of call which will be considered are those of Liverpool, Milford Haven and Southampton.

Mystery Still Unexplained.

CAYUGA, Ont., May 22.—It was reported on the 8th instant that an old lady, Mrs. L. Lintsen, of Kohler, a small village near Cayuga, had disappeared from her home. A thorough search has been made, but thus far no clue of her whereabouts has been found. A reward is offered to any one who will give any information that will lead to her recovery. She was dressed in black and wore a red handkerchief on her head. She is a small person, very thin, and weighs less than 100 pounds. She had on felt shoes; thick neck, hair partly grey and a little bald on top of the head.

Children Murder Their Father.

BUDAPESTH, May 22.—A boy of thirteen years and his sister, two years younger, have been arrested in Borkut for murdering their father. They killed him while he slept and hid his body in the woods.

LONDON, May 22.—The officers of the United States cruiser Chicago have received invitations to visit all the large towns in England. Admiral Erben and Captain Mahan have accepted invitations to a dinner at the Royal Naval Club on June 2. This is the most conservative one in London. Nobody under the rank of commander can become a member.

Cheese Board.

The cheese board met at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Fifty two factories boarded 3095 boxes—1965 white and 1130 colored.

The board decided to engage an inspector at $200 for the season to visit all the factories twice.

Senator Read brought to the board a sample of the big cheese that was exhibited at the Chicago fair last season and was subsequently sent to England. It was passed among the members of the board this afternoon. The sample was not of a very good quality. The INTELLIGENCER got a piece of it.

A bicycle dealer says that in his opinion there will be no women's wheels made in three or four years, for all women riders will then be wearing "bloomers" or something corresponding thereto, and will mount their wheels just as men do. Does Not Receive Sixty Thousand Dollars a Year.

In his recent speech at Pembroke, the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Dominion Opposition, stated that Senator Drummond was in receipt of sixty thousand dollars a year as salary for managing the Redpath Sugar Refinery, and commented thereon. The Senator, under date May 16th, wrote the Hon. Wilfred Laurier denying the statement and asked that a retraction be made in as public a manner as the statement was. On May 17 the leader of the Opposition replied, withdrawing the statement so far as he personally was concerned in view of the Senator's denial, at the time intimating that it had been the subject of newspaper comment for the past three years and that it had never been challenged before in any way.

Where is the Daughter?

A despatch in these columns yesterday from Niagara announced the finding of the body of a man named Joseph Shaw, a laborer in the Queenston quarries. The Chief of Police this morning received a letter from Chief Young, of Niagara Falls, stating that the deceased had no doubt committed suicide and that he has a wife and daughter. The wife is living in Toronto and the daughter is supposed to be living with a family named Lloyd, back of Belleville. The Chief would like to hear of her whereabouts.

Not Yet Settled.

The Kingston News says: "A Belleville paper gives currency to the report that Dr. Ackerill, of that city, had been appointed Principal of the Veterinary department of the School of Mining and Agriculture, to be established, and adds that the Doctor will remove to this city in September. Enquiry proves the statement to be at least premature. A committee has in hand the work of making appointments, but no recommendations have yet been made to the Board of Governors."

"DANCING."

Mr. Hunter Strongly Condemns the Social Dance.

Last evening, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, Bridge St. church was filled to overflowing. The meeting opened with prayer by Rev. D. O. Crossley. Then the vast audience sang "There is rest for the weary," after which the Rev. R. Wallace prayed. Mr. Crossley sang "The Better Land."

"Many come here out of curiosity," said Mr. Hunter, "We do not try to be popular but to tell you straight truths. Doctors have to cut and probe to get proud flesh away. Don't squirm now, dogs that get hit yelp, so don't run away. Some have an idea that it is only the Methodists that are opposed to the dance, but that is a mistake, all churches that have power with God are opposed to dancing. There are five D's. I want you to notice. First, 'Debt,' it tears up carpets, closes the piano and sends people out of the back door. Second D, Dirt, you men just clean up a bit, the women don't need this advice like the men. Why, there are some of you have not had water touch your bodies for 40 years. Clean up your homes. 3. "Drink," Lord hasten the day when this terribe curse will have passed away. 4. Devil, when he calls on you and knocks, tell him you are not at home to visitors. 5. Dance, reasons why we should not dance: crowded rooms and late hours; close contact with evil company; anxiety of parents and friends. It is not pure, it leads to drinking. There is a well beaten path from the ball room to the saloon. It is a temptation to young men; it unfits the mind for prayer. The text was Exodus 15: 20, "And Miriam the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand, and all the women went out after her with timbrels and dances." Not once in the bible is there mention of the sexes dancing together. Even the heathen never dance together. Only in this age of civilization men and women hug each other in the dance. Imagine a person returning from a modern dance, and then looking up in the face of God and thanking Him for the good time they had. Some people do not dance in Lent, I hope some of you will die in Lent, for six weeks you do not dance, and then do all the devil's work the rest of the year. Look at these dandies after a night's dance eating cloves and candy. Girls, girls! look here! never give your hand to a man that tampers with liquor; eating, drinking and dancing, they all go together. Thousands of our best young men are ruined through the ball room. God have mercy on the mothers that let their pure girls go to dances. Mothers, mothers! what under the heavens are you thinking of, to send your pure little girl to dancing schools. There are a number of reasons why we should not dance. It injures the health, through late hours and colds, causes extravagance and needless expenditure. Oh! dear, dear! the ball dresses that some of you wear, if you went down street in it, all the small boys in town would be after you. Do nothing that will aid others in a life of sin. Do nothing that leads to bad company, you cannot shut out of a public ball room bad men. Girls, look here! if a fallen woman should appear at a ball, you would soon take your hat and cloak and leave, but you will dance with a man as impure as the devil can make him.

Do nothing that will cause others to stumble; do not do that about which you have a doubt; do nothing that will bring dishonor on the Church of Christ. Mr. Crossley sang "My Mother's Prayer." A great number of requests for prayer were read by Mr. Hunter.

Mr. Crossley's text was "Consider what I say, and the Lord give me understanding in all things." As some respectable people uphold parlor dancing, that is the thing I shall talk about. They say, young people must have recreation. It is not a recreation, it is a dissipation. They say, better to dance than to do worse. No need to do worse. Better to dance than to slander. Dancing people talk slander quite as much as those who do not dance. Dancing is an accomplishment. Not at all, the dancer is not at ease among cultured, refined, intelligent people.

My church does not condemn it! The leading men in every church represented in this city, denounce dancing. If we don't dance what will we do? I answer, "Get more brains." Will a christian want to dance? If a person have Christ in the heart they will not want to dance, because of the expulsive power of a new affection. There is a difference between a church member and a christian and no christian wants to dance. Ladies! let men dance with each other to their hearts' content, and it will not take much to content them, teach men that your person is too sacred for them to encircle your waist. Dancing leads to backsliding, it hinders from coming to God, it ruins for time and eternity so many. People generally who want to dance do not ask "Lord, what will thou have me to do?" because they know what the answer will be. So I appeal to you as a church not to engage in the dance, not to allow the dance to interfere with your salvation, I appeal to you as parents, not to patronize, or engage, in the dance lest you hinder some from giving their hearts to the Lord. Let your influence be such, that the blood of others be not found on your skirts. Mr. Hunter then gave an earnest appeal and many responded by going to the enquiry room.

NOTES.

The evangelists Crossley and Hunter will conduct a meeting in the Salvation Army barracks on Thursday at 3 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend. At night the Army will have a very special meeting viz., "The life story of a Salvationist," in eight parts. There will be what they term a gipsy gingle band in attendance. You had better not miss this.

Salaries or Fees.

Rev. Principal Grant appeared before the fee commission at Kingston and gave his opinion that the fees should be put into a general fund. "The work" he said, "should not be farmed out to deputies except for good reasons, and when deputies are appointed the chiefs should pay them." But farming out is the rule. Dominion Government officials have to work; Provincial officials draw the pay while others do the work.

Paine's Celery Compound and Kidney Disease.

THE GREAT MEDICINE A PERFECT CURE FOR THE DANGEROUS TROUBLE.

Mr. James C. Sears, of Lower Woods Harbor, Shelburne Co., N.S., says:—

"For some months I have been troubled with kidney and bladder complaint, with a dragging pain, which, at times, was almost unbearable and always accompanied with headache. I was recommended to try your Paine's Celery Compound for my troubles. After using two bottles I have received most wonderful benefit."

Many physicians of long practice assert that kidney troubles are alarmingly common in Canada. The causes of kidney troubles are very prevalent. The various symptoms arise from our fast and modern ways of living. Nervousness, impure blood and constipation, contribute wonderfully fast to the cause of kidney disorders.

The medicines and means ordinarily used for the banishment of the first causes of the terrible disease, are almost worthless. There is only one sure and effectual cure for kidney disease in all its stages—it is Paine's Celery Compound—a medicine that physicians themselves now use and prescribe. Thousands in the past have been saved from wreck and death, through the marvellous agency of the great compound, and to-day it has the same life saving power for all sufferers.

When there is indigestion, backache, headache, a weak and weary feeling, nervousness and impure blood, rest assured there is danger ahead. A prompt use of Paine's Celery Compound will speedily remove every dangerous symptom.

The regular annual meeting of the North Hastings Teachers' Association was held in the Model School at Madoc on Thursday and Friday, May 17th and 18th, the chair taken by President Mackintosh.

The following officers were elected: Wm. Mackintosh, P.S.I., President; E.T. Williams, 1st Vice Pres.; Miss Breakell, 2nd Vice-Pres.; Mr. Morton, Treasurer; John R. Brown, Secretary; Miss Campbell, Librarian.

After routine business Mr. Wm. Houston, M.A., Director of Teachers' Institutes, was introduced and took as his first subject, Primary reading and writing.

Miss McCarthy was then called upon and gave an interesting lesson on Number.

Mr. Sager next spoke on the subject of Commercial Arithmetic. He held practical education is necessary in the battle of life and that a knowledge of account keeping should be given in the public school.

Mr. Houston closed the afternoon session with a discussion of composition.

The evening session was held in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church. Mr. Houston delivered an address upon St. Agnes' Eve and Sir Galahad, two selections from Tennyson.

Friday's session began with Mr. Snell dealing with the subject, Vertical Writing. The advantages over Spencerian or Slant writing were adduced, less time and space required, easier to do, more natural, more useful, etc.

Mr. Houston continued the subject of Composition, after which followed Mr. Mackintosh's subject, Mental Arithmetic. Mr. Mackintosh claimed that it was one of the best means of intellectual training and gave it credit for the superiority of the German schools. By it, more work can be done, more questions can be solved, reasons can be given, expertness can be attained and expression of thought can be attended to. Large numbers can be used in written arithmetic but is not so important or valuable as some other subjects. Mental arithmetic should come first, central, and last, and be taught in all the classes.

Mr. Houston next discussed Grammar, Philology, Rhetoric, and Prosody and their relation to Composition.

Mr. A.F. Wood, M.P.P., being called upon gave an interesting address complimenting Mr. Houston on the practical value of his work and encouraging the Inspector and teachers in their efforts.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Houston for his valuable assistance.

At the afternoon session Mr. Mackintosh resumed the subject of Arithmetic.

Mr. Johnson, P.S.I., South Hastings, addressed the Association briefly. He emphasized the importance of Mental Arithmetic, referred to the almost inaudible answers of many pupils and asked teachers to deal with the difficulty.

The meeting was closed by singing "God Save the Queen."

The session was a very successful one, over eighty teachers being in attendance. Among the visitors were noticed Mr. F.E. Seymour, M.A., and Rev. Mr. Brown.

WEARINESS in women, that nervous, aching, worn-out feeling, comes to an end with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores your strength; it puts new life into you; it brings you back into the world again.

It is a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, especially adapted to woman's delicate wants. It regulates and promotes all the natural functions, and builds up, invigorates, and cures.

Creston, Iowa.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Sir—My wife improved in health gradually from the time she commenced taking "Favorite Prescription" until now. She has been doing her own housework for the past four months. When she began taking it, she was scarcely able to be on her feet, she suffered so from uterine debility. I can heartily recommend it for such cases.

Queen's Bench Division. — The Divisional Court—Before Falconbridge, J., and Street, J.

Coulson v. Carman.—A. G. Murray, for the plaintiff, appealed from an order of Armour, C. J., in Chambers, allowing an appeal from an order of the master in chambers, and changing the venue from Toronto to Belleville, in an action of libel. The alleged libel was written upon a postal card, sent by mail by the defendants from Belleville to the plaintiff's solicitors at Toronto. Clute, Q C., for the defendant, contra. Appeal dismissed with costs.

Foster v. Collins; Collins v. Smith.—Clute, Q C., for Collins, appealed from the judgment of Armour, C.J., in favor of the plaintiff in the interpleader issue of Foster v. Collins, and from the judgment of the same learned judge, dismissing the action of Collins v. Smith and Foster, which was brought to set aside a chattel mortgage made by Foster in favor of Smith. Collins is an execution creditor of Foster, and charges that the chattel mortgage is preferential and fraudulent. Moss, Q C., and Flint (Belleville), for Foster and Smith, showed cause. Motions dismissed.

Revenue Reform.

The New York Sun, which is troubling itself and its readers daily with the annexation question has given its views on our tariff as follows: "The average customs duty collected upon imports into the Dominion for the year 1892 was 17½ per cent. Any marked reductions from this rate would paralyze the manufacturing industries of Canada if not destroy the industrial investments, without in the slightest degree enlarging the market for her surplus natural productions. Why thus mislead the electorate with the disingenuous cry of revenue reform?" It declares that any nearer approach of Free Trade would produce a disastrous financial and industrial revolution in Canada, leading to commercial stagnation.

A VANCOUVER BABY STORY.

THE MOTHER HAS SOMETHING TO SAY.

There is to-day in the city of Vancouver, B. C., a wonderful baby boy. Four months ago its mother had but small hopes for its life; to-day, it is a living monument of what Lactated Food can do for puny, weak and half-dead babies. The grateful mother writes as follows:—

"When my baby boy was eight weeks old it made my heart sore to see its weak and emaciated body. Its sickness and decline commenced when it was a month old. Just then, owing to a sickness I had, baby had to be bottle fed. He did not seem to like his food, and grew thinner from day to day. My husband, meeting the doctor on the street one day, told him of baby's condition. The doctor at once suggested using your Lactated Food. My husband brought home a package, some of which was prepared and fed to baby. My darling seemed to like it, and it agreed with him. After a week's trial of Lactated Food, baby was getting better and stronger, and did not have as many crying spells. Well to-day, he is a real wonder. My friends are all astonished when they see little Arthur; he is big, fat and healthy; his flesh is hard and firm, and he is always laughing and prattling. He is heavier and bigger than some babies who are three months older. Your wonderful Lactated Food saved his life, and I will ever remember it."

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim,

The cover of the eggshell has nothing whatever to do with the quality of the egg itself.

Skim milk, buttermilk and whey, mixed with bran and corn meal, should be used freely for laying hens.

The Asiatic breeds of fowls lay very dark shelled eggs, while the Mediterranean varieties lay clear white eggs.

Clover for fowls should be chopped finely, steamed for some time, and then mixed with grain and meat scraps.

The proper way to catch a fowl is to grasp both legs at once with a firm, tight, quick hold and then raise free from the ground and hang the body down clear of any obstacle.

It is proposed that the large slaughter-houses should add poultry to their other business and ship it along with dressed beef and provisions to their customers. If the movement were successful it would revolutionize the poultry trade.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., "none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

FRENCH CABINET RESIGNS

Socialist Members of the Chamber Score a Decided Triumph.

M. CASIMER-PERIER'S ASPIRATIONS

The Defeated Prime Minister Looks to Succeeding President Carnot—He Takes His Overthrow With Rather an Unusual Display of Satisfaction—The Radicals Boisterous in Their Joy.

PARIS, May 23.—There was great excitement in the Chamber of Deputies when Deputy Guesde introduced the miners eight hour bill, and demanded a vote of urgency upon it. The bill was, by a vote of 401 to 94, referred to the ordinary labor commission.

Premier Casimir-Perier demanded the order of the day, pure and simple, and the demand was rejected by a vote of 265 to 225. All of the ministers thereupon withdrew.

The cause of the crisis, though seemingly trifling, related to the general policy of Premier Casimir-Perier, and also to the Premier's aspirations to the presidency. The workingmen's syndicates, under the law of 1884, had become a powerful and terrorizing machine under Socialist control. The government had determined to repress the system, and, therefore, by continuing M. Dupuy's policy of closing the labor exchange, endeavored to preven the railwaymen's congress.

Premier Casimir-Perier took the defeat of the Ministry calmly, turning his face in the direction of his colleagues and laughing as he was leaving the Chamber. As the Ministers left the Chamber, the Radicals acted like a crowd of schoolboys, clapping their hands and jumping up and down, shouting and indulging in all sorts of antics indicative of delight. Several deputies rushed across the Chamber and embraced Miller and Ouvre. The deafening noise within the Chamber was heard outside. The Socialists deputies acclaimed their victory with shouts of "This is our revenge for the outrageous treatment of Thivrier (the communist deputy who was arrested and suspended for shouting "Vive la Commune" in the chamber a few months ago. M. de Ramel's final words from the rostrum were: "The Government must not take democratic attitudes at banquets and then, when they come to act, refuse workingmen the right to join syndicates."

In the evening the ministers left the private room, in which they had been conferring, and proceeding in a body to the Palais d'Flysee formerly tendered their resignations to President Carnot. As they left the Chamber the Socialists shouted: "Long live the social republic" and "Long live the commune."

Some spectators say that M. Casimer-Perier clapped his hands for joy when the vote against the government was announced. Whether he did so or not it is certain that he welcomed the defeat. He is apparently convinced that the combined efforts of his enemies to upset his candidacy for the presidency have recently been covertly abetted by President Carnot.

Canadian Cattle Pass the Inspector.

LONDON, May 23.—The first shipment of Canadian cattle to the British Isles has arrived and passed the special Government inspector. There were 370 head in this shipment and not one animal is reported to have been regarded as suspicious. The beasts in this herd, which are useful, but not of the best quality, brought from 4¾ to 5 pence per pound. It is now thought that if the 6,430 Canadian cattle afloat pass the same examination, it should enable Hon. Herbert Gardiner, President of the Board of Agriculture, to remove the obnoxious embargo. This course he will undoubtedly pursue if no further suspicion arises. The Lancet in this week's issue gives medical support to Canada's case.

Entertained an American Officer.

LONDON, May 23.—Captain Alfred T. Mahan, commander of the United States cruiser Chicago, was entertained at a banquet given in his honor by the English publishers of his works, Sampson, Low, Marston & Co. A large number of guests were present. Mr. Marston, in the course of a speech, said that the French translation of Capt. Mahan's "History of Sea Power" had been completed and that the German translation of the work was progressing rapidly. Capt. Mahan said he was engaged in the preparation of a third section of naval history, reaching to 1815 and covering the busy life of Lord Nelson.

King Alexander's Fiat.

VIENNA, May 23.—King Alexander says in his proclamation that when the passions of the disloyal shall have been allayed and order restored throughout the kingdom, he will, in harmony with his people, frame a new constitution. The Polische Correspondence Universalle, official, says that Prince Karagorg, the pretender to the Servian throne, has left St. Petersburg for Roumania.

Russia and Austria have exchanged notes on the subject of the Servian coup d'etat and have agreed to act in concert if intervention is necessary. It is understood Russia does not think of supporting Prince Karageorgevitch.

The Brokerage Swindling Case.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Herman Clarke, the third member of the firm of La Montagne, Clarke & Company, the brokerage firm accused of swindling Florence M. David, of Montreal, was arraigned before Justice Taintor in the Tombs police court. Clarke, through Joseph Moss, of Hough & Hummel's office, waived examination. Justice Taintor made his bail $15,000, instead of $10,000, in which La Montagne and Fulton were held. He did this because Clarke is under another indictment on another criminal charge.

Solicitor Thomas Committed.

LONDON, May 23.—Howell Thomas, the solicitor who recently acted on behalf of Col. Jacques, the American claimant of the Townley estates, and who was arrested at Brighton on April 11, charged with obtaining money from Jacques by fraudulent pretenses, was fully committed for trial yesterday.

A Scare for an Editor.

PARIS, May 23.—A large can, containing a gallon of petroleum, a quantity of gun powder and other explosives and bits of iron, nails, etc., with a lighted fuse attached, was found outside the main entrance to the house of Abbe Garnier, editor of Le Peuple Francais.

Mr. Mundella's Successor.

LONDON, May 23.—Prof. James Bryce has been appointed President of the Board of Trade in succession to J. Mundella, who resigned a few days ago. Baron Tweedmouth succeeds Prof. Bryce as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

ISAAC PITMAN KNIGHTED.

Victoria Honors the Inventor of Shorthand—Also the Y.M.C.A. President.

LONDON, May 23.—The Queen has knighted Isaac Pitman, the inventor of the Pitman system of phonetic shorthand.

Isaac Pitman was born in Trowbridge Wilts, England, Jan. 4, 1813. He was obliged to leave school at the age of twelve years and entered the counting house of a clothing manufacturer. After a six years' service as a clerk he received six months training in the Normal College of the British and Foreign Schools Society, and in 1831 was appointed master of the British school at Barton-on-Humber. He established the British school at Wotton-under-Edge in 1836. His first treatise on shorthand "Stenographic Sound Hand" appeared in 1837, and he thus became the originator of the spelling reform to which, and the propagation of his system of phonetic shorthand, he devoted his entire attention since 1843 when the phonetic society was established. His system of shorthand was renamed in 1840, and was entitled "Phonography, or Writing by Sound," and his "Phonographic Reporter's Companion" appeared in 1846. Mr. Pitman's phonetic institute at Bath is really a phonetic printing office and a publishing house for the despatch of phonetic books to all parts of the world. He edits and prints the Phonetic Journal, besides printing his own instruction books for teaching phonetic shorthand. Mr. Pitman has issued a little library of about eighty volumes printed entirely in shorthand, ranging from the Bible to "Passelas."

The Queen has also knighted Mr. George Williams, president of the Young Men's Christian Association.

THE NEW AMERICAN TARIFF.

Iron Ore on the Dutiable List at Forty Cents a Ton.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—During the session of the Senate eight items of the metal schedule were disposed of. The most important of them being that which puts iron ore on the dutiable list at the rate of forty cents a ton. This item has been discussed for the greater part of two days and was eventually agreed to without a division and by a practically unanimous vote a proposition to make the rate sixty cents a ton having been laid on the table by a vote of 32 to 21. This result was not reached until after a couple of hours discussion, during which a good many bitter remarks were exchanged between the opposite sides of the chamber.

The most noticeable speech of the day was one made by Mr. Teller (Rep., Col.,) in which he discountenanced the practice of taunting Democratic Senators with inconsistency. They had explained, he said, the cause of their inconsistency and their defence was absolute and perfect. He declared that he would join them in putting the bill through in the best possible shape, that the bill was ample for the protection of American industries, and that it was a better bill than he had expected, or that any which the Republican side of the chamber had hoped to get.

Rather a Peculiar Case.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 23.—William Fullerton, aged 24, of Amherst, was being brought to Halifax to be placed in the insane asylum. He was on a lounge in the baggage car in charge of his brother. The latter went out of the car for a time and when he returned the man was dead. The body was brought to Halifax and given in charge of an undertaker, who embalmed it, and was to send it back to Amherst by the train in the morning. Last night another undertaker and the coroner went to the first undertaker's establishment and took the body, which was encased in a handsome casket, the coroner saying he proposed holding an inquest into the cause of death. The first undertaker thereupon swore out a warrant against the coroner and the other undertaker for stealing the casket and body-snatching, and they were arrested.

A Chance for the Miners.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 23.—All the bituminous coal miner operators in the Central Pennsylvania or Clearfield and Allied districts met here and voted unanimously to give their men until May 28 to return to work. If they do not then come back at the old rate of 40 cents a ton the operators will throw open their mines to whoever seeks employment, and will protect the workers by every means in their power. Between 10,000 and 12,000 miners are employed in these districts, and though they have been out of work for five weeks, have had no help from the outside and are suffering much. The operators think more than half of the men will return to work if not interfered with.

A Shot at Col. Breckrenridge.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 23.—The resolution bearing on the Breckenridge case was reported back to the Presbyterian general assembly by the committee on bills and overtures, to which it was referred, and passed without opposition. The resolution makes no direct reference to Col. Breckenridge, but is a pronounced declaration for purity in the lives of church members, and expresses condemnation of those who do violence to the seventh commandment.

Dangerous Anarchist Arrested.

PARIS, May 23.—The police have arrested an anarchist who has been in communication with the anarchists responsible for the recent bomb explosion in Leige, Belgium. The man's identity has been established as the organizer of an international association of anarchists, whose members are chosen by lot to destroy by means of the bomb the enemies of the anarchy in Europe.

Plans for Torpedo Boats.

OCEAN RATES FOR CATTLE

Mulock Presses His Bill on the Government's Attention.

SIR HIBBERT SEEKS INFORMATION

Representatives From the Cattle Shippers Promised This, but Thus Far Have Failed Him—The House Will Stand Adjourned Until Monday in Honor of the Queen's Birthday.

OTTAWA, May 23.—The question of the House standing adjourned until Monday in honor of the Queen's birthday came up in the House yesterday, when Sir John Thompson moved that Government orders have precedence over other business today, and when the House adjourns it should stand adjourned till the following Monday.

Hon. Mr. Laurier agreed and the motion was adopted.

Ocean Freight Rates.

Mr. Mulock made a long speech upon the question of ocean freight rates on cattle. He emphasized the arguments he had used speaking upon this same subject a month ago. He desired the Government to take charge of his bill dealing with this question.

Sir Charles H. Tupper said that upon two occasions he had met representatives of the cattle shipping industry in the presence of Mr. Mulock. They were urging legislation of the character embodied in Mr. Mulock's bill, and had promised to furnish him (Sir Charles H. Tupper) with certain documents which would prove the clearness of their position and furnish certain information regarding the subject. The information promised had not been forthcoming and he supposed that the cattle shippers were still looking for it. The Government would have to receive this information before they could undertake the responsibility of such a bill. It was evident that the cattle men were not so urgent now as they were a few months ago, else their information would have been forwarded.

Dr. Sproule thought that the cattle shippers should immediately send authentic information, as promised, to the Government.

Sir John Thompson said that he would give the bill his earnest consideration. He could not promise, however, that the Government would adopt the measure.

Mr. McCarthy thought the bill one of the most important of the session. He saw the difficulties in the way of passing such a bill. No measure should be passed which would injure the shipping trade of Montreal. He did not agree with the Government in taking private members' day for the discussion of the tariff. A bill which he had introduced had not yet been reached on the list of private members' bills.

Col. Amyot said that it was all very well for members who were daily in their seats in the House to complain of delay, but for a man such as Mr. McCarthy to make such a complaint was ridiculous, since he spent the greater portion of his time attending to his private business, and only came to the House when he desired to make trouble.

Hon. Mr. Curran said that Mr. McCarthy's bill had been reached, but that he was absent, and the bill had been allowed to stand at the request of Mr. McCarthy's friend, Mr. Martin, of Winnipeg. If Mr. McCarthy had been in Parliament attending to his duty his bill would have been argued before the House long ago. It was his own fault if the bill had been placed down on the list.

Mr. McCarthy said that it was true that his bill had been reached, but he was absent because of sickness in his family.

Bills to Be Introduced.

Hon. Mr. Laurier asked if the Government intended to introduce other measures in addition to those, notice of which had already been given by the Prime Minister.

Sir John Thompson, in reply, said that there would be other bills introduced by the Government besides those of which notice had already been given. The Government proposed to introduce bills relating to the French treaty, the fast Atlantic steamship service, and joint stock companies, and there would also be the insolvency bill from the Senate. He could not remember any more at present that the Government had formed the intention of introducing. Whether they would deal with the question of the redistribution of Quebec would depend largely upon the length of the session.

Hon. Mr. Foster announced that the tariff was about completed, and that with the exception of the consideration of two or three unimportant items the tariff was decided upon, and that there would be no more changes of great moment.

The House then went into committee of supply to consider the estimates.

Ways and Means.

After recess the House went into committee of ways and means, but no important business was done. The House rose at 10.30 p.m.

Three Young Men Drowned.

STE. ARMAND, Que., May 23.—Three young men named George Spaulding, an engineer on the Philipsburg Junction railway, Chester Fleming and Wm. Symms, went out boating on Missisquoi bay on Sunday. On Monday, as none of them had put in an appearance at their homes, search was begun and has been going on ever since, without revealing their whereabouts. It is quite certain they were drowned, as the boat, sail, oars, etc., were found on the sandbar near the mouth of Pike river. No one, however, saw the accident and there is no trace of the bodies. When the boat and sail were found they were at quite a distance from each other and the former was overturned. The sail boat when last seen was making its way towards Jamieson's Point, near which place it was found on Monday. Fleming was a married man, the other two unmarried. All three were steady, industrious men.

Bay de Verde Elections.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 23.—The Bay de Verde contest is over, and result will be made known to-night. Although voting closed yesterday the ballot boxes were not taken to Western Bay, the counting place, until this forenoon, the officers being unwilling to travel at night time fearing an attack and destruction of boxes.

SCROFULA 12 YEARS

Always Sore. Face Burned Like Fire. Ashamed to be Seen. Four Doctors but Little Benefit. Cured by Cuticura.

For about ten or twelve years I have been troubled with scrofula. My head was always sore, my face was dry and scaly, and burned like fire most of the time. My body had big red spots on it, and I did not know what to do. I went to four different doctors and they helped me at first. In the fall I got worse again; then I tried other remedies, but they did me no good. I was ashamed to go into public. I was a sight to look at. Every one would say, "What is the matter, why don't you take something?" Even at my daily labor I had to wear a sort of cap to keep the dirt from getting into the sores. After I would wash, I would be covered with big red pimples all over my neck and face. Some two or three people advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I did try them, and am glad I have done so. Glad to say I am a well man, and in the best of health since. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too highly. I enclose my portrait.

BELLEVILLE. WEDNESDAY, MAY 23

HER MAJESTY'S BIRTHDAY.

Seventy five years has Victoria the Good passed upon earth, and for nearly fifty-eight years has she reigned over the greatest empire the world has ever seen. Her influence, whether as a constitutional ruler, or as an exemplar of true womanhood, has been incalculable. The Victorian era has, beyond all others, been productive of benefit to and elevation of the human race, and it is not claiming too much on behalf of our venerable sovereign to say that to her influence more than to any other human agency are those grand results to be ascribed. Hence the people of all civilized nations have come to love this noble lady almost as well as do her subjects, and they will to-morrow unite with Britons the world over in their loyal acclaim "GOD SAVE THE QUEEN."

WHAT ARE "SINFUL AMUSEMENTS?"

In view of the extreme position taken by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter on the subject of amusements, and their unsparing and often bitter denunciation of people who differ from them while exercising the inalienable right of Protestants, in matters of this kind, namely, private judgment, we deem it expedient to produce in our columns the paragraphs below, taken from the Toronto Mail of Monday last; one of which shows that a Methodist minister in Toronto (the Methodist stronghold in this Dominion) has an opinion radically different from the evangelists.

The advantage that evangelists and ministers possess in being able to dogmatize and even threaten from the pulpit without reply is not altogether for good. It produces a feeling of antagonism in people who do not agree with them, but who are precluded from discussing subjects [illegible] them in public. Man-made creeds [illegible] conduct are binding only so far as each one's conscience recognizes their force. We often find that men

"Excuse the follies they are inclined to,
By denouncing those they have no mind to."

If a ministerial association can discuss a proposition to amend the rules of a church, we respectfully submit that the members of it should be equally privileged and should exercise the privilege.

There are periods when the 13th chapter, first Corinthians, should be read and its precepts acted upon. It should be read extensively in this city just now, and allowed to leaven the lives of all of us.

Following are the extracts above referred to:

The Methodist Ministerial Association met yesterday morning. The subject treated was "Discrepancies in the Discipline of the Methodist Church." Rev. Thos. Manning wanted the clause against dancing, card-playing, and theatres omitted from the book of discipline. He did not think christians could be made by rule, and religion should be positive, not negative. Quite a number of the clergymen present took part in the discussion, among them Rev. Messrs. Speer, Blackstock, Langford, Phillips, Barkwell, Henderson, Bishop and Chambers.

* * * *

Theatre-going, card-playing, and dancing have always been objects of reprobation in the Methodist Church, and hitherto have been thought to be an inseparable part of the discipline. The movement in favor of expunging the footnote dealing with these presumed pitfalls for the young is another [illegible] more liberal sentiment is [illegible] tenets of the creed, [illegible] by many a gre[illegible] liberty of action is looked upon with favor.

IMPORTANT POINTS.

The speech with which Mr. Meredith, the leader of the Conservative party in Ontario, opened the campaign at London on the 21st inst., was worthy of the man and of the occasion. It was a fair, eloquent, and candid discussion of the issues of the contest, and formed a powerful arraignment of the Mowat Administration. Two of the more prominent topics were thus touched upon:

ONTARIO'S FINANCES.

Twenty-two years ago, Mr. Sandfield Macdonald had laid the foundations of honest administration. After four years of his government the province had unfortunately turned him out of office, and the present Government had succeeded him. Mr. Sandfield Macdonald had administered the affairs of the country ably. He had built asylums for the care of the insane, the deaf and dumb, and the blind. He had provided means for the purpose of reclaiming waste lands in the western section of the country. At the end of the four years he had left a surplus of three millions of dollars in the treasury of Ontario. To day every dollar of that $3,000,000 had been swept away. Millions of dollars of the timber wealth of this province had also been swept away; and though it had been proclaimed that the [illegible] out of debt, it had actually a [illegible] way indebtedness of [illegible] annuities and rail[illegible] of two and a quarter millions of dollars. This the Government of Ontario had not included in the [illegible] of the province, because they said [illegible] recently payable.

[illegible] of many in this community and throughout the Province of Ontario, for the purpose of using the liquor traffic in the interests of their political party (applause). He wanted to know where, in any place where it was to the interest of the Government of the day to manipulate the liquor traffic, they had not done that. Did it not stand to reason that the liquor traffic ought not to be chained at the wheels of any government he did not care what, or how good, or how pure? The temptation to use that liquor traffic for the purpose of making grist for the political mill was great, and Governments would, as they had in the past, succumb to it. They had the extraordinary spectacle on one hand of the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat appealing to the country for support because it was the friend of temperance, and they had the Government at the same time obtaining the sinews of war from men who sold liquor! This was a well known fact, and one which could not be controverted. In the city of Toronto, especially, the sinews of war in an election had been provided by the hotel keepers for the Administration of Sir Oliver Mowat. * *

What the Opposition said with regard to this matter was that they were first and foremost, so long as the license system prevailed, against the power of holding these licenses being in the hands of the Government of the day, and what they said was that commissioners should be elected in cities and towns by the people. (Hear, Hear.) Who should have the determining of those who should have licenses and of the number? In the rural districts let the licenses be issued by commissioners appointed for that purpose by the different County Councils of the province. He asked whether boards so appointed would not be likely to be more free from political influence—would not be freer from being likely to be used at election times than the present political boards. He ventured to say that everyone who approached the subject intelligently would come to the conclusion that he was right and that the only fair way, as long as the licensing system prevailed, was to remove it entirely from the Government of the day.

The Journal of Commerce says that according to the government experts there was $172 000,000 invested in dairy farming, and as it is admitted that a gross return of $13,000,000 or nearly 8 per cent., was made to the farmers by the manufacture of cheese alone, beside the returns from butter, eggs, milk, and live stock, it can readily be seen that the lines of the dairy farmer in Canada have fallen in pleasant places.

Mrs Ora Van Tassel, Dead.

One of the oldest and most esteemed residents of the County died last night, the 22nd inst. at the residence of her son, Mr. Salyer Van Tassel, at Moira, at the ripe old age of 87. The deceased lady, Phoebe Van Tassel, was a daughter of the late Wm. Ketcheson of Sidney, and the last member of one of the most notable families in the County, a family whose descendants are now numbered by scores if not hundreds. Her brothers were Colonel Wm. Ketcheson, of Sidney, John Ketcheson of Sidney, Thomas of Sidney, Benjamin of Belleville, James of Huntingdon, and Colonel Elijah Ketcheson of Sidney. She had two sisters, Sarah and Deborah. The former married Mr. Thomas Caton, of Napanee, the latter to Mr. Salyer Reed, of Corbyville. Mrs. Vantassel had eight children, four sons and four daughters, Mr. Wm. H., of this city, Salyer, of Moira, Isaac Warner, of Brandon, Man., and John, of Michigan, Mary, who married the late Richard Newton, of Huntingdon, Sarah, of this city, who was married to the late Philip Clapp. Letitia, who married the late Peter Bryant, of Napanee, and Melissa, who married the Rev. Henry Jackson, went with him as a missionary to Japan, and died there. Mrs. Vantassel was a more than ordinary woman; left a widow at a comparatively early age, with a large family, by her own industry she provided for them, and amidst the hardships of farm life fifty years ago in the Township of Huntingdon, kept a brave heart and loved to see her children grow up to be an honor and blessing to her. She was from girlhood a consistent and honored member of the Methodist church and no matter where placed, her brave spirit, her meek and quiet manner, her unflinching confidence in God, and her affectionate nature won for her hosts of friends, and made her companionship to be desired by young and old. The funeral takes place to-morrow morning at ten o'clock at Moira.

MAYNOOTH.

MAY, 21ST, 1894.—Spring work is nearly completed. The whip poor-will has just announced his arrival. The weather has been quite cold this spring.—The McClure cheese factory will be opened on Tuesday. It is a fine building and is pronounced the best factory north of Madoc. Mr. Bartlett paid us a visit last week and photographed the building.—The Roman Catholic Bishop paid this place an official visit last week. The streets were decorated with green trees and flags in honor of the occasion, and seven tastefully decorated arches bearing appropriate mottoes spanned the public way. The village presented a bright and attractive appearance, which should go far to stimulate our citizens to plant trees and make it still more attractive. The work of decorating the village is still more commendable, as both Roman Catholic and Protestant joined in as brothers to help on the undertaking.—The funeral of John Creighton, who died on May 9th, took place on the 12th inst. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Bartholomew assisted by Mr. Woods.—Quarterly service was conducted in Grace Church by Rev. Mr. Smith. Owing to the heavy rain, the attendance was small.—There is to be a school concert in S.S. No. 2, McClure, on May 24th.—The football club is progressing, and some of the local teams may get a challenge soon.—The cricket club will go to Combermere on the 24th.

DESERONTO.

Hubbs of Peterboro, is visiting friends in town.—Mr. Geo. E. Mordon has returned home from the Ontario College of Pharmacy.—Mr. P.J. Wims will take a business trip to Toronto to-morrow.—Mr. Wm. Rogers has opened a fruit store on East Main St.—Mr. W. S. Mora of Napanee, has bought the bakery business from Bogart Bros., and will open a confectionery shop and restaurant on St. George St.—The Bogart Bros. have moved their fine stock of crockery and groceries into Mr. John Dalton's new block, St. George St.—Mr. W.J. Malley goes to Picton to-night, as a delegate from the Deseronto Cricket Club, to help arrange the matches for District No. 5, O C.A., for this season.—The Royal Military College Cricket Club will play the Deseronto Cricket Club here on the 24th, weather permitting.—Mr. Thos. Gault and Miss Emma Solmes, daughter of Mr. Alva Solmes, all of Deseronto, were married at St. Marks' church, yesterday afternoon by Rev. T. Stanton, assisted by Rev. Mr. Patton, after which the happy couple took the train for Toronto.

GILEAD.

MAY 21.—If the nightly Jack Frosts are to continue it must prove greatly detrimental to the fruit crop. As yet, however, no serious damage has been done.—Potato bugs are on hand already. One man reports having found them eating seed-cuts which had been dropped only about ten minutes before. He has witnesses to prove it, too.—Very little interest is taken in the coming election, as yet, here.—On the morning of the 14th, Edward Walsh drew in one load to the Bronk Factory, 4430 pounds of milk, besides cans and wagon. Though this may not seem at first thought to be any great load, if the doubting ones will go over his road, they cannot but be convinced.—Mr. W. Robinson and family spent Sunday with friends at Lonsdale.—Owing to the bad weather there were small congregations at both churches Sunday.—A number from this vicinity have been to hear Crossley and Hunter. All speak highly of the great evangelists.

CHAPMAN.

MAY 21.—The farmers have about completed planting operations. The three days' rain greatly freshened nature and developed pasture.—David Beatty's horses ran away as he was returning from the cedar factory on Thursday, upsetting the phaeton and breaking loose, ran home before being captured. Fortunately Mr. Beatty escaped unhurt and no damage was done beyond breaking the top and a few braces.—The Rev. Mr. Phillips, a returned missionary to the Indians of the North West, will lecture in the Bethel church on Friday next at 8 p.m.—Miss S. A. Gabourie, of Stoco, spent a few days last week with Miss Laura Trampour.—Henry Jones, of Ivanhoe, visited his uncle, Mr. Samuel Barker, on Saturday last.

The Way to Tell an Orange.

Big oranges are not good. They are all skin and fibre. If you want a "yellow cup of wine" buy small fruit; that is fruit that runs 175 or 200 to the box. Weigh it in the hand and take the heaviest. Sweet, sound oranges are full of wine and sugar and very heavy. A thin smooth skin is a good sign. Wide, deep-pore skins are unmistakable signs of a coarse spongy article. Bright yellow oranges usually cost more than russet, because they are prettier. When the commission merchant buys in a hurry he [illegible] time by taking an orange between his hands and squeezing it to death. If it runs a soup of wine he takes as much of the cargo as he needs; if it runs dry he cuts the price or refuses to [illegible] surer way to tell the [illegible]ge, mandarin, or grape [illegible]

Methodists Want a Dollar Newspaper.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

It were almost impossible to estimate the value of a properly edited, rightly managed, and largely circulated religious newspaper. No church in this day can afford to ignore this powerful adjunct to its growth and usefulness, and further, it almost goes for the saying that the Christian Guardian is without a rival on its claim upon the support and patronage of the Methodist public of this Dominion. In regard to form, style, finish, and editorial management, one would have to travel far to find its equal, yet the fact abides that at the close of the last quadrennial the circulation was only a little over 13,000 copies. From the report of the Western section of the book committee presented to the last general conference I quote the following sentence: "Wherever the Guardian is read by our people they are brought into intelligent sympathy with our missionary, educational, publishing and evangelistic work." But a line further on in this same report we meet with the disheartening statement that the circulation of the Guardian, between 1886 and 1893, suffered a decrease of one thousand, seven hundred and sixteen copies.

With such a record the hope of intelligent sympathy throughout the connection becomes a greatly diminished quantity. If, after an existence of fifty years, only so small a proportion of our people take the Guardian, there must be something radically wrong somewhere. I cannot think it is in the "make up" but rather in the price of the paper. In reaching the masses of our members and adherents, the Guardian has signally failed. Now in making such a statement some may accuse me of disloyalty. My answer to all that do question me, is this, "I am far more convinced that Methodism shall have a people thoroughly informed on all matters relating to our church, work and policy, than that she shall continue the existence of a high-toned, high-priced and non-read paper." I am well aware that the Guardian cannot be published, as it now is, for the price named in the heading of this article. But, surely the Methodist church is not wedded to form and style. An experience of over sixty years has demonstrated the fact that Dominion Methodism has but little use for a newspaper such as the Guardian now is. Wherein lies the wisdom of prolonging this policy of failure, I am unable to discern. Our persistency in keeping up the style and price of the Guardian has opened the flood gates to a half a score of other religious periodicals obtained for a dollar a year.

Thousands of such publications enter the homes of our people every week, simply because the Methodist church will not supply her connectional organ for that price. Many of these papers are anti-British as well as anti-Methodist. I plead for a Methodist paper for our people from ocean to ocean which shall not cost over one dollar per year. Even if there should be the loss of a few thousand dollars in starting such an enterprise, the issue would result in greater gain. The claims and workings of the various connectional funds of the church, especially the missionary and educational funds, should be set forth so forcibly and so frequently, that all the children of our homes would grow up with a thorough knowledge of the inner working of the church, and thus from their very youth be more liable to become intelligent and sympathetic members in later years. The idea or possibility of reaching our people and imparting sound and healthful information on all questions affecting our vital interest with a circulation of 13,000 copies is simply a farce. I plead for a cheaper paper for the masses of our Methodism. A paper that shall be large and good enough to convey needed help and information, if not so elaborate as the one now issued. Such a paper the Methodism of this Dominion must have, if it is to keep pace with the onward march of a sound and abiding evangelism, and may I not express the conviction that such a paper we shall have in the not far distant future? A paper that will be so cheap and yet so full of Methodist information and dealt out in such attractive style as to quickly find its way into nearly every Methodist family from Halifax to Vancouver. Such a paper is a possibility and for its advent I earnestly plead.

O. R. LAMBLY.

Bloomfield, April 11th, 1894.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Regarding my appointment to the honorable position of Principal of the Vet. College at Kingston, I wish to make known the following facts, to set the public mind at rest: The committee of four gentlemen appointed to choose the officials of the College, namely, Rev. Principal Grant, Mr. B. Folger, Dr. Knight, and another gentleman, whose name I have forgotten, chose me for the Principalship, solely on the recommendation of some of the most prominent citizens of Kingston, who have employed me for the past three or four years to do their veterinary work, and in consequence of the satisfaction I have given in every case, "notwithstanding that each and every case was one which others had failed to benefit." They have been constantly asking me to go to Kingston to live, but I could not for a moment entertain the idea, as I have here the best veterinary practice in Central Ontario—a practice extending from Kingston to Toronto; and it is with feelings of extreme regret that I leave my old home, where my late father practiced his profession for nearly sixty years. But I feel that the honorable and responsible position which I have accepted is the place for me, and also that I am just fitted for the position, and already I have had four applications from young men who wish to study the vet. art under my instruction, the last application having come in but a few moments ago and I have no doubt but what I can take a goodly number of students from this midland district with me next October. There is a growing desire amongst farmers' sons to obtain a knowledge of the diseases of farm animals in order that they may take more interest in well bred stock, and one term at the Kingston College under my tuition will give them this knowledge in its most practical form.

Your truly,
D. H. ACKERILL, V.S.

ANOTHER GOOD MEETING.

The Evangelists are a Drawing Card—The Services Increase in Interest.

Bridge St. church was filled to the door again last night, and the audience was representative of every denomination in the city. Mr. Crossley opened the meeting by singing in splendid voice, "Calvary," after which Mrs. D. O. Crossley led in prayer.

Mr. Hunter read his lesson from Matthew xiv., 22 to 31, and made running comments. During his address he took a shot at the Plymouth brethren, and if any of that religious persuasion were present, they must have felt either humiliated or chagrined. He said they were of no use on earth, and gave some of his reasons for saying so.

Miss Canfield and Mr. Crossley sang as a duet, "I shall be satisfied."

Mr. Crossley's sermon was based on part of the 26th verse of the 11th chap. of Acts. He said there was only one christian church on earth or in heaven, the church of Christ. He was glad there were so many christians. "I want to speak to you, christian," said the speaker, "be steadfast, and remember the good old verse, Romans xiv. 4.; be uniform, always the same, Isaiah xxvi., 31; be a Church christian. Sometimes you find people who live outside the church, yet they call themselves christians. If you do not belong to some church, I would call you an ecclesiastical tramp. Then be working christians. Go out and work in the Master's name, and try to win souls to Christ. Then be a covenanted christian.

NOTE.

The service to-night will be peculiar, in one respect. The ladies are requested to occupy the gallery, and the gentlemen the lower portion of the church. The subject for this evening will be, cards and the theatre.

The Year's Results.

Ministers and Laymen of the Methodist church in the Belleville district are in session at the Tabernacle. Yesterday the Ministerial session of this yearly meeting met and transacted the business of interest to the clergy, little of which is of public importance. This morning the lay delegates elected by ballot by the different quarterly official Boards met with the ministers and presented the annual returns, showing the progress or otherwise of each church. A committee is now passing those under review. We are given to understand that they are deemed satisfactory and evidence progress.

Ministers present—Rev. J. A. McCamus, Chairman; Rev. W. D. P. Wilson, Sec.; Rev. W. J. Saunders, Asst. Sec.; W. J. Young, Fin.-Sec.; and Rev. E. N. Baker, E. R. Doxsee, G. J. Dingman, W. P. Dyer, E. Woodcock, A. C. Maybee, A. Campbell, Geo. Robinson, James Faull, Samuel Sing, E. Farnsworth, A. L. Adam, and H. B. Kenny Zufelt; Foxboro, Henry Fenn; Plainfield, W. Sills; Canifton, F. Brenton and W. C. Farley; Shannonville, J. Bouldrick; Lonsdale, Irvine Roy.

The attendants at public worship are given approximately as Bridge St. 2200, Tabernacle 500, Holloway St. 400, Bleecker St. 250, total for city 3350; Sidney 800, Bayside 500, Foxboro 600, Plainfield 600, Canifton 800, Shannonville 600, Lonsdale 500, total for District 7250.

These several churches and circuits have contributed for all purposes during the past year, Bridge St., $6511; Tabernacle, $4205; Holloway St., $2717; Bleecker St., $1380, total for city, $14,813; Sidney, $2170; Bayside, $1387; Foxboro, $2104; Plainfield, $1788; Canifton, $1861; Shannonville, $1449; Lonsdale, $951.

The value of the church property is estimated as follows: Bridge Street, $53,690; Tabernacle, $21,900; Halloway St., $12,300; Bleecker St., $3,132. Total for city, $91,022. Sidney, $10,150.

As we go to press Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. D. O. Crossley, Mrs. E.N. Baker and Mrs. W. W. Chown, a deputation from the Woman's Missionary Society of the church were attending the meeting as a deputation from the Society in whose weal and objects these ladies are deeply interested. Mr. John Lewis read a beautifully worded address, and replies are now being made to it.

The game will be called at 2 p. m., sharp. The following players will represent Belleville: Binion, Geen, Nash, Holton, R. Weller, Phippen, Twining, Hartley, Powell, Burrell, Taber, and McIntosh.

B. Cummings, H. Greenleaf, L. Lockett will go to Kingston to-morrow to participate in the bicycle races. Lockett is entered in three events and Cummings in four.

The junior lacrosse team for Kingston have been finally decided upon and they will give a good account of themselves. Following are the team; Vanderwaters, Jamieson, Jordan, A. McFee, Clark, Pitney. F. Weller, C. Rous, Bogart, J. McFee, Simmons and McDonald. They will leave by the morning train and arrive back in the evening.

The Peterborough Examiner says that S. W. Patterson, Manager of the Port Hope lacrosse team, has secured two more ringers to play on his team. Well, that makes about ten on the team now; better make it a dozen.

THE CITY WATER.

It Stands a Highly Satisfactory Test as to its Bacteriological Character.

Repeated qualitative analyses of the water supplied to consumers by the Belleville Water Works Company have shown that it is a wholesome fluid of good quality; but the question as to how would it stand the test as to its bacteriological character was unanswered until a few days ago.

Then it was answered in a highly satisfactory manner by Professor Shuttleworth, of Toronto, an eminent expert, who was commissioned by the Evening Telegram of that city to make a test. Our contemporary states that Prof. Shuttleworth was given a free hand as to the number of places to be included in the scope of investigation. All that was asked was that he should select representative towns and cities, secure samples of water from each place, subject these samples to the same tests be applied to the water taken from the tap in his own laboratory in Toronto, and then state the results.

Samples of the Belleville water, selected with the utmost care, were forwarded by Mayor Walmsley and Mr. L. W. Yeomans to Prof. Shuttleworth, who reported the result of his tests—bacteriological and germ—as follows:

	Colonies of Bacteria per Cubic Centimetre.	Germs per Cubic centimetre.
1 Buffalo..........	130	5
2 Barrie..........	160	2
3 St. Catharines..	365	6

This shows that the Belleville water is not only of excellent quality, but is free from any ingredients of a dangerous character, and all doubts in that regard may henceforward be abandoned.

DEAR SIRS.—I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same in my general business. I thereupon decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking two bottles I found I was quite another man, for B. B. B. entirely cured me. I have also used it for my wife and family and have found it the best thing they can take, and from past experience I have every pleasure in strongly recommending B.B.B. to all my friends.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

Signed, MELVILLE B MARSH,

The Medicine for Liver and Kidney Complaint.—Mr. Victor Auger, Ottawa, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending to the general public Parmelee's Pills, as a cure for Liver and Kidney complaint. I have doctored for the last three years with leading physicians and have taken many medicines which were recommended to me without relief, but after taking eight of Parmelee's Pills I was quite relieved, and now I feel as free from the disease as before I was troubled."

REPUBLIC IN THE PACIFIC

Americans in Hawaii Framing a New Constitution.

NATIVES STILL LOYAL TO THE QUEEN

Rumors Are Current of an Attempt to be Made by the Royalists to Corrupt Servants of the New Regime—Still Deluded in Their Confidence in Grover Cleveland's Honor.

NEW YORK, May 23.—A Honolulu special says: The new constitution has been drawn up by the council and will be presented to the convention on May 30. The new government is to be called the Republic of Hawaii. There are to be a President and an Executive Council of five. Fifteen Senators will comprise the Upper House of the Legislature. The Lower House, to be the Assembly, shall consist of fifteen members. Meetings of the Legislature are to be held every two years, each session to last no longer than ninety days.

President Dole will probably retain his office for two years, the next president to be chosen by the people.

It is asserted that the Royalists are ready to make a bold move for the reinstatement of Liliuokalani as soon as the new Republic is declared. They believe Admiral Walker will aid them, thinking he will carry out the original policy of President Cleveland.

From inside sources it is learned that Minister Thurston will not return to Washington, but will accept the portfolio of Minister of Foreign Affairs in Dole's Cabinet. A. S. Hartwell, a prominent lawyer, will succeed Thurston at Washington.

Minister Willis is gaining in favor among Hawaiians, and his recent actions have tended to allay the feeling of distrust against him.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Advices from Honolulu of May 15, per steamer Gaelic, say: President Dole has issued a proclamation calling upon delegates and other members of the constitution convention to convene on May 30, in the Judiciary building at Honolulu. There have been rumors for several days of a proposed attempt by Royalists to capture the executive building by corrupting the guards. The loyalty of the commanding officers is relied on and the Government is not apprehensive of any untoward act.

FOUGHT A PITCHED BATTLE.

Fatal Set-To Between the Law and the Whitecaps.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 23.—One killed and three seriously wounded is the result of a pitched battle between officers of the law and a gang of whitecaps at Forest City, St. Francis county, Ark., yesterday. Several weeks ago Detective Webster, of Memphis, was employed by the sheriff of St. Francis county to run down the whitecaps, and as a result forty arrests followed some of them being prominent citizens. The people demanded that speedy justice be meted out to the whitecaps.

A special term of the criminal court was ordered and the court convened at Forest City to try the cases. Shortly after the adjournment of court Detective Webster, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Sherman and two or three court bailiffs, stepped in to a saloon to get a drink. As the officers entered they met several members of the gang of whitecaps who are out on bail. Henry Gore, who is charged with being a member of the whitecaps, opened fire on the officers, which was the signal for a general fusilade.

After the smoke had cleared away, Detective Webster was found with a bullet hole through his heart, while beside him lay Deputy Sheriff Sherman and P. D. Gowling with serious wounds, while a few feet further Henry Gore was seriously wounded. The sheriff soon arrived and arrested the whitecaps.

DAMAGE BY THE STORM.

Deluged Districts Estimating the Damage Done by the Flood.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Now that telegraphic communication has been practically restored to all points in the State, an estimate of the damage done by the flood of the past three days can be made. Reports received from all parts of the State, with the exception of Johnstown, show that the flood is going down. At Johnstown it rained heavily yesterday and fresh torrents are pouring down from the mountain and again swelling the Conmaugh and threatening another overflow. Williamsport emerged from beneath the water today and took an account of the damage done. The loss in that city and Lycoming county is about $3,000,000.

Lockhaven was also badly washed out and there, as at Williamsport, the greatest loss resulted from the breaking away of the log booms. Many people at Lockhaven were driven from their homes for three days, but no lives were lost. The few casualties all through the State resulting from the flood is particularly to be rejoiced at. A dozen deaths from drowning will cover the loss of life from the freshet.

The railroads were badly washed out, but are rapidly recovering. The Pennsylvania railroad to-day resumed its train service on nearly schedule time on all its divisions except the main line to Pittsburg. Public meetings have been called in many cities to aid the homeless.

East Kent Reformers.

RIDGETOWN, May 23.—A convention of Liberals for East Kent was held here yesterday. Mr. Robert Ferguson of Thamesville was unanimously chosen as the candidate to contest the coming provincial elections. Hon. R. Harcourt and W. D. Balfour, M.P.P., were present and addressed the meeting.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 23, 1894.

Local security market is quiet and firm.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Business very dull, owing to unfavorable weather, and prices are nominal.

Cables from Liverpool report receipts of cattle light, with the tone of the market firmer. Finest steers 10c, and good to choice 9½c.

Chicago wheat market was unsettled. Lower cables and contradictory reports as to damage by frost led to this condition. The close showed a loss of ⅛c for the day. Corn closed easy. Oats were active, closing ½c above yesterday.

At the London wool sales the better parcels sold readily. Melbourne and Victoria greasies were in active demand by continental buyers and cross breeds sold readily, especially to Yorkshire buyers. Some of the best New South Wales scoured wools were brought in. There was also keen bidding for Queensland scoured wools.

At the Buffalo cattle market outside of some held over stock there was nothing offering and the hold overs were of classes not wanted. Trade nearly nominal. Sheep and lambs—Twelve cars on sale; steady to firm; good to best wethers, $4 to $4.40; fair to good mixed, $3.25 to $3.85; good to fancy lambs, $4.40 to $4.65; good to extra spring lambs, $5 to $7.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Painter—There, now, is my new picture! What's the matter with that, eh? Quiet Friend—I don't know, but I should say that it was a case of art failure.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., "none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

A TRAVELER'S LAMENT.

THAT OF TALMAGE ON THE EVE OF HIS ROUND-THE-WORLD TRIP.

An Eloquent Sermon on Families That Are Broken, and the Glad Hope That Ere Long They Will be Reunited—A Moving Picture.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 20.—On his way to California, whence he will start on May 31 on his round-the-world journey, Rev. Dr. Talmage, having halted here, preached to-day to a large audience on the subject of "Recovered Families." The text chosen was I. Samuel 30: 4, 19: "Then David and the people that were with him lifted up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep. . . . David recovered all.

There is intense excitement in the village of Ziklag. David and his men are bidding good bye to their families, and are off for the wars. In that little village of Ziklag the defenceless ones will be safe until the warriors, flushed with victory, come home. But will the defenceless ones be safe? The soft arms of children are around the necks of the bronzed warriors until they shake themselves free and start, and handkerchiefs and flags are waved and kisses thrown until the armed men vanish beyond the hills. David and his men soon get through with their campaign, and start homeward. Every night on their way home, no sooner does the soldier put his head on the knapsack than in his dream he hears the welcome of the wife and the shout of the child. Oh, what long stories they will have to tell their families! Of how they dodged the battle-axe! and then will roll up their sleeve and show the half-healed wound. With glad, quick step they march on, David and his men, for they are marching home. Now they come up to the last hill which overlooks Ziklag, and they expect in a moment to see the dwelling-places of their loved ones. They look, and as they look their cheek turns pale, and their lips quiver, and their hands involuntarily comes down on the hilt of the sword. "Where is Ziklag? Where are our homes?" they cry. Alas! the curling smoke above the ruins tells the tragedy. The Amalekites have come down and consumed the village, and carried the mothers and the wives and the children of David and his men into captivity. The swarthy warriors stand for a few moments transfixed with horror. Then their eyes glance at each other, and they burst into uncontrollable weeping, for when a strong warrior weeps, the grief is appalling. It seems as if the emotion might tear him to pieces. They "wept until they had no more power to weep." But soon their sorrow turns into rage, and David, swinging his sword high in the air, cries, "Pursue, for thou shalt overtake them, and without fail recover all." Now the march becomes a "double-quick." Two hundred of David's men stop by the brook Besor, faint with fatigue and grief. They cannot go a step farther. They are left there. But the other four hundred men under David, with a sort of panther step, march on in sorrow and in rage. They find by the side of the road a half-dead Egyptian, and they resuscitate him, and compel him to tell the whole story. He says: "Yonder they went, the captors and the captives," pointing in the direction. Forward, ye four hundred brave men of fire! Very soon David and his enraged company come upon the Amalekitish host. Yonder they see their own wives and children and mothers, and under Amalekitish guard. Here are the officers of the Amalekitish army holding a banquet. The cups are full, the music is roused, the dance begins. The Amalekitish host cheer and cheer and cheer over their victory. But, without note of bugle or warning of trumpet, David and his four hundred men burst upon the scene. David and his men look up, and one glance at their loved ones in captivity and under Amalekitish guard throws them into a very fury of determination; for you know how men will fight when they fight for their wives and children. Ah! there are lightnings in their eye, and every finger is a spear, and their voice is like the shout of the whirlwind! Amidst the upset tankards and the costly viands crushed underfoot, the wounded Amalekites lie—their blood mingling with their wine—shrieking for mercy. No sooner do David and his men win the victory than they throw their swords down into the dust—what do they want with swords now?—and the broken families come together amidst a great shout of joy that makes the parting scene in Ziklag seem very insipid in the comparison. The rough old warrior has to use some persuasion before he can get his child to come to him now after so long an absence; but soon the little finger traces the familiar wrinkle across the scarred face. And then the empty tankards are set up, and they are filled with the best wine from the hills, and David and his men, the husbands, the wives, the brothers, the sisters, drink to the overthrow of the Amalekites and to the rebuilding of Ziklag. So, O, Lord, let thine enemies perish!

Now they are coming home, David and his men and their families—a long procession. Men, women and children, loaded with jewels and robes, and with all kinds of trophies that the Amalekites had gathered up in years of conquest—everything now in the hands of David and his men. When they come by the brook Besor, the place where stayed the men sick and incompetent to travel, the jewels and the robes and all kinds of treasure are divided among the sick as well as among the well. Surely the lame and exhausted ought to have some of the treasures. Here is a robe for a pale-faced warrior. Here is a pillow for this dying man. Here is a handful of gold for the wasted trumpeter. I really think that these men who fainted by the brook Besor may have endured as much as those men who went into the battle. Some mean fellows objected to the sick ones having any of the spoils. The objectors said, "These men did not fight." David, with a magnanimous heart, replies, "As his part is that goeth down to the battle, so shall his part be that tarrieth by the stuff."

This subject is practically suggestive to me. Thank God, in these times a man can go off on a journey, and be gone weeks and months, and come back and see his house untouched of incendiary, and have his family on the step to greet him if by telegram he has foretold the moment of his coming. But there are Amalekitish diseases, that sometimes come down upon one's home, making as devastating work as the day when Ziklag took fire. There are families you represent broken up. No battering-ram smote in the door, no iconoclast crumbled the statues, no flame leaped amidst the curtains; but so far as all the joy and merriment that once belonged to that house are concerned, the home has departed. Armed diseases came down upon the quietness of the scene—scarlet fevers, or pleurisies, or consumptions, or undefined disorders came and seized upon some members of that family, and carried them away. Ziklag in ashes! And you go about, sometimes weeping and sometimes enraged, wanting to get back your loved ones as much as David and his men wanted to reconstruct their despoiled households. Ziklag in ashes! Some of you went off from home. You counted the days of your absence. Every day seemed as long as a week. Oh! how glad you were when the time came for you to go aboard the steamboat or rail car and start for home! You arrived. You went up the street where your dwelling was, and in the night you put your hand on the door-bell, and, behold! it was wrapped with the signal of bereavement, and you found that Amalekitish Death, which has devastated a thousand other households, had blasted yours. You go about weeping amidst the desolation of your once happy home, thinking of the bright eyes closed, and the noble hearts stopped, and the gentle hands folded, and you weep until you have no more power to weep. Ziklag in ashes!

One day in Ulster County, New York, the village church was decorated until the fragrance of the flowers was almost bewildering. The maidens of the village had emptied the place of flowers upon one marriage altar. One of their number was affianced to a minister of Christ, who had come to take her to his own home. With hands joined, amidst a congratulatory audience, the vows were taken. In three days from that time one of those who stood at the altar exchanged earth for heaven. The wedding march broke down into the funeral dirge. There were not enough flowers now for the coffin-lid, because they had all been taken for the bridal hour. The dead minister of Christ is brought to another village.

He had gone out from them less than a week before in his strength; now he comes home lifeless. The whole church bewailed him. The solemn procession moved around to look upon the still face that once had beamed the messages of salvation. Another village emptied of its flowers—some of them put in the shape of a cross to symbolize his hope, others put in the shape of a crown to symbolize his triumph. A hundred lights blown out in one strong gust from the open door of a sepulchre. Ziklag in ashes!

I preach this sermon to-day, because I want to rally you, as David rallied his men, for the recovery of the loved and the lost. I want not only to win heaven, but I want all this congregation to go along with me. I feel that somehow I have a responsibility in your arriving at that great city. Do you really want to join the companionship of your loved ones who have gone? Are you as anxious to join them as David and his men were to join their families? Then I am here, in the name of God, to say that you may, and to tell you how.

I remark, in the first place, if you want to join your loved ones in glory, you must travel the same way they went. No sooner had the half-dead Egyptian been resuscitated than he pointed the way the captors and the captives had gone, and David and his men followed after. So our Christian friends have gone into another country, and if we want to reach their companionship we must take the same road. They repented; we must repent. They prayed; we must pray. They trusted in Christ; we must trust in Christ. I know, now that they are gone, there is a halo around their names; but they had their faults. They were sometimes rebellious, sometimes cast down. They were far from being perfect. So I suppose that when we have gone, some things in us that are now only tolerable may be almost resplendent. But as they were like us in deficiencies, we ought to be like them in taking a supernal Christ to make up for the deficits. Had it not been for Jesus, they would have all perished; but Christ confronted them, and said, "I am the way," and they took it.

Our friends have gone into glory, and it is through much tribulation that we are to enter into the kingdom. How our loved ones used to have to struggle! how their old hearts ached! how sometimes they had a tussle for bread! In our childhood we wondered why there were so many wrinkles on their faces. We did not know that what were called "crow's-feet" on their faces were the marks of the black raven of trouble. Did you never hear the old people, seated by the evening stand, talk over their early trials, their hardships, the accidents, the burials the disappointments, the empty flour barrel when there were so many hungry ones to feed, the sickness almost unto death, where the next dose of morphine decided between ghastly bereavement and an unbroken home circle? Oh, yes! it was trouble that whitened their hair. It was trouble that shook the cup in their hands. It was trouble that washed the lustre from their eyes with the rains of tears until they needed spectacles. It was trouble that made the cane a necessity for their journey. Do you never remember seeing your old mother sitting, on some rainy day, looking out of the window, her elbow on the window sill, her hand to her brow—looking out, not seeing the falling showers at all (you well knew she was looking into the distant past), until the apron came up to her eyes, because the memory was too much for her?

Oft the big, unbidden tear
Stealing down the furrowed cheek,
Told in eloquence sincere,
Tales of woe they could not speak.

But this scene of weeping o'er,
Past this scene of toil and pain,
They shall feel distress no more.
Never, never weep again.

I remark, again, if we want to win the society of our friends in heaven, we will not only have to travel a path of faith and a path of tribulation, but we will also have to positively battle for their companionship. David and his men never wanted sharp swords and invulnerable shields and thick breastplates so much as they wanted them on the day when they came down upon the Amalekites. If they had lost that battle they never would have got their families back. I suppose that one glance at their loved ones in captivity hurled them into the battle with tenfold courage and energy. They said, "We must win it. Everything depends upon it. Let each one take a man on point of spear or sword. We must win it." And I have to tell you that between us and coming into the companionship of our loved ones who are departed, there is an Austerlitz, there is a Gettysburg, there is a Waterloo. War with the world, war with the flesh, war with the devil. We have either to conquer our troubles, or our troubles will conquer us. And yet is not the fort to be taken worth all the pain, all the peril, all the besiegement? Look! Who are they on the bright hills of heaven yonder? There they are, those who sat at your table, the chair now vacant. There they are, those whom you rocked in infancy in the cradle, or hushed to sleep in your arms. There they are those in whose life your life was bound up. There they are, their brow more radiant than ever before you saw it, their lips waiting for the kiss of heavenly greeting, their cheeks roseate with the health of eternal summer, their hands beckoning you up the steep, the feet bounding with the mirth of heaven. The pallor of their last sickness gone out of their face, never more to be sick, never more to cough, never more to limp, never more to be old, never more to weep. They are watching from those heights to see if through Christ you can take that fort, and whether you will rush in upon them—victors. They know that upon this battle depends whether you will ever join their society. Up! strike harder!

If this morning while I speak you could hear the cannonade of a foreign enemy, which was to despoil your city, and if they really should succeed in carrying your families away from you, how long would we take before we resolved to go after them? Every weapon, whether fresh from the armory or old and rusty in the garret, would be brought out; and we would urge on, and, coming in front of the foe, we would look at them, and then look at our families, and the cry would be, "Victory or death!" and when the ammunition was gone, we would take the captors on the point of the bayonet or under the breech of the gun. If you would make such a struggle for the getting back of your earthly friends, will you not make as much struggle for the gaining of the eternal championship of your heavenly friends? Oh yes! we must join them.

You say that all this implies that our departed Christian friends are alive. Why, had you any idea they were dead? They have only moved. If you should go on the 2nd of May to a house where one of your friends lived, and find him gone, you would not think that he was dead. You would inquire next door where he had moved to. Our departed Christian friends have only taken another house. The secret is that they are richer now than they once were, and can afford a better residence. They once drank out of earthenware; they now drink from the King's chalice. "Joseph is yet alive," and Jacob will go up and see him. Living? are they? Why, if a man can live in this damp, dark dungeon of earthly captivity, can he not live where he breathes the bracing atmosphere of the mountains of heaven? Oh, yes, they are living!

But I must not forget those two hundred men who fainted by the brook Besor. They could not take another step farther. Their feet were sore; their heads ached; their entire nature was exhausted. Besides that, they were broken-hearted because their homes were gone. Ziklag in ashes! And yet David, when he comes up to them, divides the spoils among them! He says they shall have some of the jewels, some of the robes, some of the treasures. I look over this audience this morning, and I find at least two hundred who have fainted by the brook Besor—the brook of tears. You feel as if you could not take another step farther, as though you could never look up again. But I am going to imitate David, and divide among you some glorious trophies. Here is a robe, "All things work together for good, to those who love God." Wrap yourself in that glorious promise. Here is for your neck a string of pearls, made out of crystalized tears, "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Here is a coronet, "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life." O ye fainting ones by the brook Besor, dip your blistered feet in the running stream of God's mercy. Bathe your brow at the wells of salvation. Soothe your wounds with the balsam that exudes from trees of life. God will not utterly cast you off, O broken-hearted man, O broken-hearted woman, fainting by the brook Besor.

A shepherd finds that his musical pipe is bruised. He says, "I can't get any more music out of this instrument, so I will just break it, and I will throw this reed away. Then I will get another reed, and I will play music on that." But God says He will not cast you off because all the music has gone out of your soul. "The bruised reed He will not break." As far as I can tell the diagnosis of your disease, you want Divine nursing, and it is promised you: "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you." God will see you all the way through, O troubled soul, and when you come down to the Jordan of death, you will find it to be as thin a brook as Besor; for Dr. Robinson says that, in April, Besor dries up, and there is no brook at all. And in your last moments you will be as placid as the Kentucky minister who went up to God, saying, in the dying hour, "Write to my sister Kate, and tell her not to be worried and frightened about the story of the horrors around the death-bed. Tell her there is not a word of truth in it, for I am there now, and Jesus is with me, and I find it a very happy way; not because I am a good man, for I am not; I am nothing but a poor, miserable sinner; but I have an Almighty Saviour, and both of his arms are around me."

May God Almighty, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, bring us into the companionship of our loved ones who have already entered into the heavenly land, and into the presence of Christ whom, not having seen, we love, and so David shall recover all, "and as his part is that goeth down to the battle, so shall his part be that tarrieth by the stuff."

TYNAN WRITES A BOOK.

The Notorious "Number One" Will Tell of the Phoenix Park Murders.

LONDON, May 26.—The St. James Gazette announces the approaching publication of a book written by James Tynan, the notorious "Number 1" who was so long sought after in connection with the Burke and Cavendish murders in Phœnix Park, Dublin, in 1882. The book, it is announced, will give the full story of the murders and deal exhaustively with the movements of the Irish revolutionary and parliamentary parties since 1861.

The Gazette, in commenting on the book, says: "It is not generally realized in England how tired the American revolutionists have become of the constitutional home rule movement. These disclosures are a symptom of the increased unrest of the physical force party, and are not unlikely to hasten the breaking up of the Irish party."

Daly Not to Be Released.

LONDON, May 26.—In the House of Commons James O'Connor asked Home Secretary Asquith to reconsider the case of John Daly, the dynamiter, with a view of releasing him from confinement. The extreme penalty imposed upon the Anarchist Poiti was only ten years, while Daly had already been in prison more than ten years. Mr. Asquith said the comparison between the two sentences was misleading. It should be remembered that the Anarchist Farnara was condemned to twenty years in prison and by the same judge who sentenced Daly. The time had not yet come when Daly's sentence could be remitted. William Redmond said the Government had broken faith. During the last general election they had promised amnesty to Daly and other Irish prisoners. It was an outrage to detain Daly in prison a day longer.

Worsted Spinners Fail.

LONDON, May 26.—Craven & Craven, worsted spinners in Bradford, have failed for £200,000. Their assets are large. The failure is said to be due to their loss in the American market owing to the prolonged agitation of the tariff question.

ANOTHER FLAG INCIDENT

Stars and Stripes Pulled Down From the St. Thomas Consulate.

THE QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES BLAMED

Consul-General Riley Informs His Government That Ottawa Authorities Are Having the Matter Investigated—Queen's Own Officers Deny That Their Men Had Anything to Do With It.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 26.—The American flag in front of the United States consul office, this city, was torn down and destroyed by some members of the Queen's Own Rifles of Toronto while under the influence of liquor. Some other members of the regiment who were in the crowd protested against the outrage, but were unable to prevent their excited companions from carrying out their intention. Lieut.-Col. Smith, D.A.G., apologized to United States Consul Willis for the act, but Mr. Willis would not accept the apology and notified the heads of his department at Washington and Ottawa. The incident is looked upon here as merely the result of too much whiskey, and while it is generally deplored by the citizens it is hoped that nothing serious will result.

TORONTO, May 26.—The officers of the Q.O.R. here say that the flag was not taken down by the men of their regiment, but by some youths who were under the influence of liquor.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The State Department last evening received a despatch from Consul-General Riley at Ottawa, stating that the Canadian authorities officially disavowed any knowledge of the alleged insult to the American flag at St. Thomas and gave him assurance that an investigation into the affair had already been instituted by the police. The consul says the occurrence was probably the act of some irresponsible individual and in nowise reflecting Canadian feelings.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, MAY 26.

NO ARGUMENT AGAINST MR. WOOD.

The Globe points out that during three years Mr. A. F Wood, M.P.P. for North Hastings, received from the Dominion Government $12,086 for service as land valuator. What if he did? The service which he rendered used to employ two men and a lawyer. Now it is done by one trustworthy man, and the Government saves from $2,000 to $2,000 a year. The case furnishes no argument against Mr. Wood whatever.——Empire.

The Empire's statement is quite correct, but it rather understates the facts. Mr. Wood is not only one of the most experienced and capable of land valuators, but he has also effected a large saving to the country and caused material improvement in the public service, by the investigations which he has held into the management of certain of the canals.

The value of Mr. Wood's services has never been excelled by those of any one employed in a similar capacity by the Government, and no other person so employed has ever discharged the duties at so low a cost to the public treasury. If Mr. Wood's opponents think that the statement of there facts is to his discredit, or will injure his candidature, they are at perfect liberty to use them. All we ask is that they state all the facts.

A FEW WORDS TO MOTHERS.

Baby's Friend and Protector Found in Lactated Food.

Only a few words, dear mothers, about baby foods; this is a matter that you are interested in. If your baby is not gaining in flesh, health and strength, depend upon it, you are using the wrong food. Baby's life depends upon the quality of i s daily nourishment.

The majority of prepared foods are unfit for infantile life; they are indigestible, produce irritation and inflammation, and cause serious disturbances of the digestive organs.

Mothers, you have a perfect substitute for breast milk in Lactated Food—a diet possessing all the constituents that are found in human milk. Physicians know this, and strongly urge mothers to use Lactated Food for their infants.

It is well-known that cholera-infantum and dysentery result from poor foods. It is an established fact that ordinary cow's milk often carries with it disease and death. In the hot weather it is imperative to avoid poor food and suspicious cow's milk. A daily diet of pure and life giving Lactated Food is baby's only salvation, its only security against prevailing summer troubles. Lactated Food justly claims to "Save Babies' Lives."

World's Columbian Exposition

Will be of value to the world by illustrating the improvements in the mechanical arts and eminent physicians will tell you that the progress in medicinal agents has been of equal importance, and as a strengthening laxative that Syrup of Figs is far in advance of all others.

FROM SUFFERING TO HEALTH

THE EXPERIENCE OF A WELL-KNOWN BRUCE COUNTY FARMER.

He Tells the Story of the Disease That Afflicted Him, the Sufferings he Endured and How he Found Release—Other Sufferings May Take Hope From His Release.

From the Teeswater News.

Of all the ills that flesh is heir to perhaps none causes the sufferer keener anguish, and few are more persistent and more difficult to eradicate from the system than that nervous disease known as sciatica. The victim of an aggravated form of this malady suffers beyond the power of words to express, and it is with the utmost reluctance that the disorder yields to any course of treatment intended for its cure. Hearing that a rather remarkable cure had been effected in that case of Mr. William Baptist, a respected resident of the township of Culross, a News reporter called upon that gentleman to ascertain the facts. Mr. Baptist is an intelligent and well-to-do farmer. He is well known in the section in which he resides and is looked upon as a man of unimpeachable integrity. He is in the prime of life, and his present appearance does not indicate that he had at one time been a great sufferer. He received the News representative with the utmost cordiality, and cheerfully told the story of his restoration to health, remarking that he felt it a duty to do so in order that others afflicted as he had been might find relief.

Up to the fall of 1892 he had been a healthy man, but at that time while harvesting the turnip crop during a spell of wet, cold and disagreeable weather, he was attacked by sciatica. Only those who have passed through a similar experience can tell what he suffered. He says it was something terrible. The pain was almost unendurable and would at times cause the perspiration to ooze from every pore. Sleep forsook his eyelids. His days were days of anguish and night brought no relief. Reputable physicians were consulted without any appreciable benefit. Remedies of various kinds were resorted to and his condition was worse than before. The limb affected began to decrease in size, the flesh appeared to be parting from the bone, and the leg assumed a withered aspect. Its power of sensation grew less and less. It appeared as a dead thing and as it grew more and more helpless it is little wonder that the hope of recovery began to fade away. All through the long winter he continued to suffer and towards spring was prevailed upon to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He commenced using them and soon felt that they were doing him good, and hope began to revive. By the time he had taken three boxes the pain was eased and the deceased limb began to assume a natural condition. He continued the use of the remedy until he had taken twelve boxes. In course of time he was able to resume work, and to-day feels that he is completely cured. He has since recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to others with good result.

An analysis shows that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for all diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood, or from an impairment of the nervous system, such as loss of appetite depression of spirits, anæmia, chlorosis or green sickness, general muscular weakness, dizziness, loss of memory, locomotor ataxia, paralysis, sciatica, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, the after effect of la grippe, and all diseases depending upon a vitiated condition of the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, building anew the blood and restoring the glow of health to the pale and sallow cheeks. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville. Ont., and Schenectady, N.Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all dealers or direct by mail from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company at either address.

COAL STRIKERS DISORDERLY.

They Destroy Property and Intimidate Non-Union Miners.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., May 26.—The striking miners destroyed much property near this town, but notwithstanding that many conflicts seemed inevitable all were averted and there was no bloodshed. All is now quiet, but hostilities will doubtless be renewed. Seventy deputies have left here to guard the mines four miles distant at Victor. Twenty of them were surrounded there and their arms and ammunition taken away. Twenty-three managed to reach the Independence mine, where they remained. The shaft house was next surrounded by 300 armed men and the alternative submitted the deputies to stack their arms and surrender or be blown up with giant powder which had been placed in beer kegs with fuses attached and ready for business on an adjoining hill. The guards agreed to leave and were escorted about a mile by a heavy guard and then permitted to return to the city. The balance ot the force returned here by a circuitous route.

COAL BLUFF, Ind., May 26.—Five thousand miners held a meeting here yesterday and decided to march en masse to Pana, Ills., and force the miners there to quit work. The hour of departure is kept secret. The situation in this district is becoming serious.

OTTAWA, Ill., May 26.—Great excitement prevails here on account of a rumor that a mob of 1,000 strikers from Spring Valley and La Salle are on the march to this city to liberate the two ring-leaders imprisoned in the county jail. Mayor Schoch has a guard of 1,000 special policemen detailed to watch the roads leading into the city. The condition of affairs at Marseilles, where the miners are still at work and prepared to defend themselves, is about the same as in this city. Five hundred strikers from La Salle marched into Utica and stopped a small gang of men from digging coal. The wagons, tools, dump-carts and clothes belonging to the miners were burned by the mob. Ex Representative David Ross is in the city on behalf of the strikers, endeavoring to have the two men now in jail liberated. The mob want the men to have a hearing at La Salle, but Sheriff Taylor says they will get a preliminary hearing.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., May 26.—A special from Cripple Creek states that when the 200 deputies arrived in Victoria at noon they were surrounded by 400 miners and a battle ensued immediately. The deputies hid behind rocks and fired, scattering those who retreated. No injuries are reported. Miners are now moving on the Pharmacist Burns Summit and other mines to blow up the buildings. The Independence shaft has been destroyed.

DECATUR, Ill., May 26.—All but twelve of the miners working in the shafts near here were forced to quit work by a mob of 200 strikers. The non-union men made a show of resistance and ten of them were severely pounded by the miners. They re-crossed the Missouri River bridge and massed their forces about the Kansas and Texas shaft. Here they induced about one-third of the 2,500 employes to join them, and with this encouragement they went to the North Leavenworth shaft, the largest in the district, and 300 of the employes joined the union.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 26.—The 4,000 miners of the Coal Creek district who went out on strike on April 21 have all returned to work. They were compelled to return to work or starve.

Comments on the Banquet.

LONDON, May 26.—The comments of the evening newspapers on the banquet in honor of Admiral Erben and the officers of the United States cruiser Chicago, expresses the most friendly sentiments toward the people of the United States. The following from the Evening Standard is a fair sample of the references to the event: "The sentiments of good-will expressed towards America must have the effect of leaving, as time goes on, the inclination to expect good-will and kindness from Great Britain. It would be useless to deny that many citizens of the United States feel no such inclination at the present time. We have but to continue proving to them the fact which to us seems too absurd for demonstration, that every Englishman feels friendly towards the United States and its people. In due time that will be understood, and so soon as the truth is grasped the kindness will assuredly be returned."

Justin McCarthy's Appeal.

LONDON, May 26.—Justin McCarthy, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party has issued an appeal to the Irish people in pursuance of a unanimous resolution of the party, declaring that without immediate and generous help they cannot hope to maintain for the remainder of the session the constant attendance of the Irish members in Westminster. The appeal says: "Our friends in the United States and Canada have contributed most generously to our Parliamentary fund during the past year. But, in view of the industrial depression there and in Australia, we cannot expect large assistance from abroad." He adds: "Without a prompt and generous response, it is impossible to prepare for the general election, which cannot very long be delayed."

Germany's Silver Coinage.

BERLIN, May 26.—Ludwig Bamberger has submitted to the imperial currency commission his work on the history of the German currency. Dr. Arendt made a statement that 42,000,000 marks worth of silver thalers had been coined on private account, and had been circulated illegally in response to the denial of the public for more silver coins. This fact alone, Dr. Arendt said, illustrated clearly the necessity of extending Germany's silver coinage.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, May 26, 1894.

Receipts of wheat at Liverpool the past three days were 121,000 centals, including 33,000 centals of American. Receipts of American corn same time 137,000 centals.

The Vanderbilts and Grangers were very strong on Wall street the first hour. The St. Paul statement gives evidence that earnings will be near if not quite 4 per cent. on the stock. Insiders are accumulating stock.

The Chicago wheat market was weak. A weakening feature was the offering of freight room for wheat free from Baltimore to Antwerp without takers. The market closed with a net loss of ⅛c for the day. Corn was easy; prices were ¼ to ½c lower. Oats were quiet.

At the Buffalo cattle market two cars were on sale; steady. Sheep and lambs, 85 cars; slow but fair clearances; good to best export wethers, $4 to $4.75; good mixed sheep, $3.75 to $4; good to best lambs, $4 75 to $5.10; spring lambs, common to best, $3 to $6. CUT HIS WIFE'S THROAT

Terrible Deed of a Jealous Husband in New Jersey.

TOOK HER LIFE WHILE SHE SLEPT

The Brute Then Cut His Own Throat but is Not Expected to Die—A Ten-Year-Old Son Witnessed the Horrible Crime—His Suspicions of His Wife's Infidelity Were Entirely Unfounded.

KEANEY, N.J., May 26.—Ed. Bull cut his wife's throat while she was asleep and then after watching her die cut his throat. Bull wrote a letter, in which he declared his wife was in a delicate condition as a result of intimacy with his brother. Mrs. Bull and her ten-year-old son retired about 12 o'clock. The boy was awakened by a struggle in the dark between his mother and father. He saw in the dim light his father kneeling on the bed, grasping his mother by the right shoulder, and in his hand a razor, with which he was gashing her throat. The boy shrieked in terror and ran to an adjoining room, where an older brother was stopping. The two returned and as they entered the room they saw their father fall with the blood streaming in torrents from his throat. The mother was dead. Bull was taken to the hospital and may recover.

The charges made in the letter are denied by every member of the family and the family physician. The dead woman was industrious, but her husband was shiftless and surley.

Nouri Will Sue the States.

LONDON, May 26.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes the story of the alleged grievances of Nouri, archdeacon of Babylon, who accuses Dr. G. S. Smith and others of having wrongfully secured his incarceration in an asylum at Oakland, Cal. Nouri declares his purpose of suing the United States Government for $5,000,000 damages and demands the intervention of Great Britain on the ground that the time of his detention in the asylum he was an ambassador from the Queen's subjects in Malabar.

Finding Buried Cities.

NEW YORK, May 26.—A Recorder special from Mapami, Mexico, says: The party of American archæologists who left here a week ago on an exploring trip to the recently discovered silent and deserted city in the Sierra Madre mountains have just returned. They bring a sensational story of the discovery of another hidden city in the same locality, about five Spanish leagues north of the first find. The leader of the party is C. W. Pantione, who states that the second of these cities is very similar to the first in appearance, and that they were evidently at one time twin capitals of a great and wealthy empire that existed long before the time of the Aztecs. The two cities are connected by a series of underground passages, hewn out of the solid rocks in the precipitous mountains.

Explosion Among German Soldiers.

BERLIN, May 26.—A terrific explosion occurred in the balloon department of the army in the Tempelhoffer field. The explosion took place in a section of the department where the field cylinders were being charged with gas. One of the cylinders exploded, causing the explosion of a number of other charged cylinders, and the flames from these communicated to the gas reservoir containing the main supply. Although pieces of glass were flying in every direction, not one of the soldiers was hurt. The explosions were almost simultaneous.

Romanian Nationalists Sentenced.

BUDA PESTH, May 26.—Twenty members of the executive committee of the Romanian National party were sentenced in Klausenburg to terms of imprisonment varying between eight months and five years. Three others were found not guilty and were released. The twenty-eight prisoners were accused of sedition and treason in publishing a pamphlet which denounced the act of union of Austria and Hungary.

Coal Collieries Drenched.

PITTSTON, Pa., May 26.—Owing to the recent heavy rains the Pennsylvania Coal Co.'s reservoir at Avoca, containing 350,000 gallons of water, broke and the water flooded the Last Chance and Dry Bread mines of the Hillside Coal and Iron Co. The collieries were completely drowned out, and 500 men and boys are thrown out of employment. The damage cannot be estimated.

Those Stolen Plans.

LONDON, May 26.—In the House of Commons Sir Ughtred-Kaye Shuttleworth, Secretary of the Admiralty, said in reply to an interrogation by Mr. Robert G. Webster that the Government had no information as to whether or not the stolen plans of the torpedo destroyer Havoc had found their way to the United States navy department.

Dun & Co.'s Report.

NEW YORK, May 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Storms and floods, prolonged strikes and large export of gold have done their utmost this week to give business a vacation. But the wants unsatisfied during the past year belated and much lessened, and yet greater than those of any other nation have caused a volume quite large for the season. Lack of fuel has stopped practically the whole of the Edgar Thompson and parts of the other Carnegie works; many establishments of great variety between the Hudson and Mississippi, and even the waterworks of a few western cities. Railroad traffic is as yet affected comparatively little, but weeks of idleness for so many either participating or affected by the strikes must lessen purchasing power and demand for goods and so cloud an outlook which had begun to seem brighter.

Horsethieving Gang Arrested.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O.T., May 26.—Thirty well-known citizens of Tecumseh, an Indian town fifty miles east of this place, have been indicted for horse-stealing. Seventeen have been arrested. The organization extends from Arizona to Arkansas. Many murders have been committed by the gang.

The Strike in Egypt.

Arab Slavers Attack British.

LONDON, May 26.—Advices from West Africa state that the Arab slave trader Makanjira with 2,000 men recently made an attack upon Fort Maguire, a British stronghold near Lake Yassa. The fort was garrisoned with 200 men, who opened fire at the Arabs and after a sharp battle repulsed them with a loss of 110 killed. Makanjira was pursued and compelled to surrender.

Cattlemen Must Wait.

LONDON, May 26.—Mr. A. Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, replying in the House of Commons to Mr. Henry Chaplin, said that it was probable the expert examination of the lungs of imported Canadian cattle now in progress would not be concluded before the end of June, when the report would at once be submitted to Parliament.

The police received a message last night about 8 o'clock from Deseronto Junction, asking them to be on the look-out for two boys, aged 15 and 10 years, roughly dressed, who had left there on a freight train which would reach here about 5:30 p. m. THE MEETINGS WILL CONTINUE.

Messrs. Crossley and Hunter Decide to Stay Until Wednesday Night.

Last night's meeting was generally believ d to be the last of the evangelistic series, and crowds fl cked to the church as early as seven o'clock. The bell did not ring, as every inch of available space was filled before the time of opening. Mr. Crossley sang "Rock of Ages" at the opening and during the service also sang Longfellow's "Rainy Day" and "The Hand-writing on the Wall."

Mr. Baker stated that Thursday night's meeting had been one of the most successful since the beginning and the committee did not feel they could allow the meetings to be closed, so they had prevailed on Messrs. Crossley and Hunter to stay a few days longer. The meetings will close on Wednesday evening next. The Governor General will be asked to be present for a short time and address a few words to the congregation on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Hunter read his lesson from the 90th Psalm. Some of his comments were: Home should be a place of shelter. It should be made as much like heaven as possible. Home was a place of supply. Some of you don't feed and clothe your children properly and many are poisoning their young minds with trashy literature. The most of people would rather read a good sermon than the account of a prize fight, and he was glad the newspapers of to-day were taking more interest than formerly in spreading the gospel. Patronize your city papers. Every family should take a church paper. Keep good books on your shelves for your children to read. Boys, don't marry a girl who reads novels and vice versa. By novels I dont mean the better class of literature, but those cheap, trashy, blood and thunder books, with yellow covers, and some of these so-called ladies' magazines are not fit to read. He admonished his hearers to have music and enjoyment in their homes to make their children happy. He quoted figures to show the length of life in the different trades and professions and showed that at its best life is short.

Mr. Crossley preached a sound sermon from Acts xxvi., 27, 28. He spoke especially to those who were almost persuaded. Some, he said, were not sinful in a moral sense, but they were committing an awful sin in refusing to accept God—the sin of ingratitude "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities." Is it not strange that we do not accept him? You all understand the old story which you have heard so often. Jesus suffered and died for you, will you not trust Him? Mr. Crossley sang "The Pearly Gate."

The after meeting was particularly interesting, and a large number went to the enquiry room.

Wide Awake people buy Wide Awake Soap, because it is the best and cheapest they can get. Try it.

Between forty and fifty carrier pigeons were sent down to the city this morning by the Queen City Homing Club, of Toronto, and were liberated at noon to day at the lower bridge by Chas. Cook, driver for the Canadian Express Co. The birds at once rose high in the air and struck out towards the west, but shortly afterwards six of them came back and circled around for a time and then started after their comrades.

Died In Tyendinaga.

It will be sad intelligence to many friends of Mrs. Andrew Denike, of Tyendinaga, to hear of her death, which took place last night. Mrs. Denike was a daughter of Mr. Geo. Snider, Murney street, one of the oldest residents of the city, and leaves a husband and seven children—Mr. Frank Denike, of this city, Dr. Denike, of Clinton, N. Y., Mrs. O. Graham Adams, Jeffersonville, Ind., and the other four children living in Tyendinaga. The funeral will take place on Monday next at 10 a.m. to the Salem burying ground.

Clerical Appointments.

In the diocese of Ontario, the Rev. T. J. Stiles, of Kitley, has been appointed to Iroquois, at the request of the congregation. The Rev. L. B. Stephenson, late curate at Cornwall, has been appointed to the mission of Stirling. The Rev. G. R. Beamish, recently returned from Europe, has been chosen assistant minister of St. George's cathedral, Kingston.

The City Address.

The address to be presented to the Governor-General by the City, will in every way be worthy of the occasion. In both illumination and pen and ink work and binding, it promises to be one of the finest art productions seen in Belleville, and it is the work of a Belleville young lady who has completed her task in a little over a week. The address will be on exhibition Tuesday morning.

New Arrivals.

A party of girls from the Rosen Hallas Home, accompanied by Miss Smethurst, have arrived at Marchmont Home. These will be followed by two others in the early part of June from the Painswicke and Bristol Cottage Homes. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, of the Marchmont Home, can give any information.

The Raw Cutting Winds

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees marks the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nerviline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain whether internal or external. 25 cents a bottle, at druggists.

Dr. Oronhyatekha and family are now enrolled as members of the Mohawk band of the Tyendinaga reserve. As the resolution admitting the doctor and his family into the band was passed in 1892 their share of the annuity for 1893 was, in accordance with the Indian Act, paid them last week. The department concluded to retain the doctor's name on the roll, as he had made such large improvements on the reserve, and it would be to the disadvantage of the band, both financially and otherwise, should his name be removed. The doctor has always been proud of his Indian name and lineage.

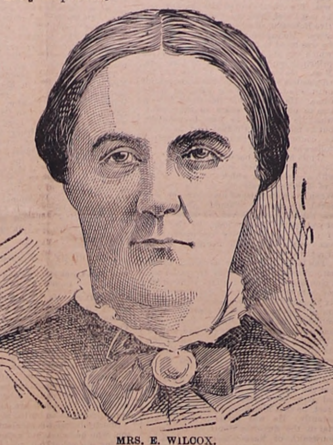
WITHOUT SOLICITATION.

Paine's Celery Compound is Strongly Indorsed by an Ontario Lady.

Three Bottles of the Wonderful Compound Effect a Great Change—Nervousness and Constant Sick Headache Banished—Sleep is Sweeter and Better—General Health Vastly Improved.



MRS. E. WILCOX.

Mrs. E. Wilcox, of Creemore, Ont., is one of the best known ladies in that section of country. Young and old in and around Creemore are acquainted with this worthy and honored lady, and implicitly rely on any statement she makes.

Mrs. Wilcox for some years suffered terribly and keenly from nervousness and continual sick headache. Her condition was serious and alarming at times, owing to the fact that she was unable to get sufficient sleep to rest a weary and run down body.

For a long time money was spent for medicines and doctoring that wrought no good results. A grand and happy change was effected when Mrs. Wilcox commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. The virtues of the great medicine proved as efficacious in her case as it has in thousands of others.

Mrs. Wilcox, desirous of recommending Paine's Celery Compound writes as follows:

"I take this opportunity to express my gratitude for the good I and my friends have received from your valuable discovery Paine's Celery Compound.

"For years I have suffered from nervousness and constant sick headache; at times I have been so bad that I have been unable to sleep two hours a night for weeks.

"I have tried many medicines and doctored a great deal, but never received a hundredth part of the value from them that I obtained from Paine's Celery Compound. After using three bottles I can sleep well, my headaches have ceased, and I feel healthier and fresher than I have done for years.

"Being one of the earliest settlers in this place, I am known to all the surrounding country. I feel it a duty to let others know about the medicine that has done me so much good. I send this testimonial without any solicitation."

Belleville, May 25, 1894.

Our present term ends the early part of next month. Residents of the city and friends staying with them, are cordially invited to come and see us prior to the closing.

The vast facilities of the J. C. Ayer Co., of Lowell, Mass., enable them to place The Superior Blood-purifier—Ayer's Sarsaparilla—within easy reach of the poorest invalid. Don't be induced to take a "cheap" substitute. Always remember that the best is the cheapest.

The marvellous success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is based upon the corner stone of absolute merit. Take Hood's throughout the spring months.

The Superiority

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is due to the tremendous amount of brain work and constant care used in its preparation. Try one bottle and you will be convinced of its superiority. MINISTERS ENDORSE IT.

Donnoha, Forsyth Co., N. C.

Dr. R. V. Pierce: Dear Sir—For some six or seven years my wife had been an invalid. Becoming convinced that it was her only hope, we bought six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and "Golden Medical Discovery." To the surprise of the community and the joy of myself and family, in one week my wife commenced to improve, and long before she had taken the last bottle she was able to do her own work (she had not been able to do it before for seven years), and when she had taken the last of the medicine she was soundly cured.

Mrs. Stimpson.

Yours truly, Rev. T. H. Stimpson.

For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down or overworked; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and, later, at the critical "change of life"—"Favorite Prescription" is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates, and cures.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat any thing and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

CRAZY CRIMINAL CAPTURED

A Massachusetts Murderer Captured by Montreal Police.

HE HAD LONG BAFFLED PURSUIT

Officers of the State Had Been Looking for Him for Some Time—His Capture by Means of a Photograph in the Possession of the Canadian Officers—Story of His Crime.

MONTREAL, May 26.—Yesterday a tall fair man, dressed in a rough gray suit, walked into the Central Station and asked Capt. Smith where the detective's office was. The officer showed him the way, and he met Chief Detective Ouimet and Detective Robinson, to whom he told a strange story. He explained that a few years ago he was hired to help unravel a conspiracy which was afoot to burn up some of the principal public buildings of Chicopee, Mass. He was successful in this and the ringleaders were sent to the state prison, but the reward which was expected never came. He asked the detectives to help him to obtain his share of the reward, which he declared to have been $5,000, but he modestly intimated that he would be content with two or three hundred dollars as his share.

While he stated his case, however, the detectives had been comparing his face with a photograph which the chief detective has been carrying in his pocket. When the man finished his story, he was asked his name. "Samuel Alexander," was the reply. "Oh, yes, we have heard of you before," for the name on the back of the photo was Charles Alexander. His name was written on the list and a charge of murder made.

The facts of the case as given to the authorities are that Charles Alexander and a man named James Nesbitt enlisted together in the British army and served for six years in the 27th regiment. They emigrated together to this continent and settled in Chicopee, Mass. Both were married and their wives were like sisters. Alexander wanted to leave the place, but his wife refused, as he had such a violent temper and she did not wish to go where she had no friends.

Alexander got the idea into his head that the Nesbitts were the cause of this, and one day, meeting Nesbitt on the street, he shot him four times, killing him instantly. He was arrested and at his trial in the Superior Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the plea of insanity was raised and he was committed to the sheriff of Hampden county with an order signed by the Chief Justice the Hon. Albert Mason and Justices Newry and Hopkins, to confine him in the State lunatic hospital at Worcester until released by order of the court. He was received there by the superintendent, Dr. Quimby, on July 1, 1892, and remained in the institution for a little over a year, when he escaped.

The matter was not reported at the time and it was only when his friends received letters from him dated from Montreal, in January last, that his escape became known. Mr. J. H. Whitney, one of the State officers, came here in search of him. Decoy letters were sent to him at the Montreal postoffice, but he was not to be caught. The letters were not called for. Mr. Whitney was obliged to return without having secured any further clue. It was then believed that he had left the city, but it was recently found that he was still here. Alexander is 38 years of age. The American officers have been wired and are expected here to-day.

THEY ARE NOW KNIGHTS.

Four Distinguished Canadians Honored by the Queen.

LONDON, May 26.—The Gazette announces that the Queen has conferred the honor of Knighthood upon the following gentlemen: Mr. Frank Smith, member of the Canadian Senate; Judge Le Casault of the Superior Court of Quebec; Arthur Renwick, Commissioner of Sydney, New South Wales, to the World's Fair at Chicago, and J. J. Grinlinton, Commissioner of Ceylon to the World's Fair at Chicago. These honors have been also announced: William C. Van Horne, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, appointed Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George; C. E. de Boucherville, Canadian Senator, Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George; Viscount Wolseley, Commander of the forces in Ireland, and Sir Donald Stewart, Commander-in-chief of Her Majesty's Forces in India, field marshals.

Politics in Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 26.—Ex-Premier Whiteway's supporters here decided to give him a public welcome and reception on Thursday. Bands were engaged, banners and transparencies were prepared, and a throng gathered at the railway depot to greet him. But when the train arrived it was found that neither Whiteway nor his lieutenant, Bond, were aboard, they being ashamed to face the ridicule of the city. All St. John's is laughing over the fizzle. It has done Whiteway's cause great harm. Even some of his supporters admit that his chances of ever recovering the Government are slight.

Captured Illegal Fishers.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., May 26.—The steamer Northern Belle, which has arrived, brings news of the capture of two fishing boats and twenty-two trap nets by the Government steamer Cruiser for illegal fishing at the Bustards. The trap nets were burned. An attempt was made to capture the fishermen with some success. One man who jumped in the water to escape was fired at, but gave himself up and was taken to French River, and there tried and fined $40. One of the captured fishermen named Noisly turned Queen's evidence. Further particulars are not known here, but serious trouble is expected.

The Samoan Question.

LONDON, May 26.—In the House of Commons J. A. Pease gave notice that on Monday he would ask the Government as to the truth of the report that they had informed the agents of Australia in London that Great Britain was taking steps to reconsider the Berlin agreement in regard to Samoa; also whether it is true that United States Ambassador Bayard had intimated that his Government desired to retire from participation in the operation of the Berlin Act.

Shot a Desperado.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 26.—Ben Hoffenbach, a notorious desperado, who was wanted at Monroe, La., for murder, was shot and killed by a sheriff's posse near Greenwood, Miss., while resisting arrest. Hoffenbach was from Buffalo, N.Y., and his mother and sisters now reside there.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., May 26.—Felix Morin, aged about 70 years, hotelkeeper in the Township of Malden, hanged himself last evening in his barn. He is an old resident of this section and leaves a number of daughters and sons in different parts of the county.

Another Gas Gusher Struck.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., May 26.—Another gas gusher has been struck at Mr. Reeb's new well, two miles west of this place, at the depth of 675 feet, throwing water and cuttings off the well high into the air. Flow of gas about half a million.

Dufferin Conservatives.

SHELBURNE, May 26.—At the Conservative convention held here yesterday Dr. Barr, M.P.P., was chosen to again contest the riding in the approaching elections.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Teachers Favor Establishment of Industrial Schools for Incorrigibles.

OTTAWA, May 26.—The Ottawa Teachers Association has passed a resolution favoring the establishment of industrial schools for incorrigibles.

W. R. Meredith, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, is in the city. He is here on Supreme Court business, and refuses to say anything of the prospects of the approaching provincial election.

John Bruce, contractor for the city contagious disease hospital, which has gained considerable notoriety through its condemnation by Provincial Health Inspector Bryce, has applied for the issue of a mandamus to compel the city to hand over to him again the buildings on which the city ordered work stopped on May 3, pending an investigation into alleged irregularities. He wants the buildings returned in the same condition as when work was stopped. This is practically impossible, as the foundations have since so crumbled that to replace them would cost almost as much as the buildings are worth.

The Countess of Aberdeen has left for New York en route to England. She is accompanied by her secretary, Miss Wilson, and Mr. Erskine, A.D.C. Her Excellency will return to Canada in July, when she will join Lord Aberdeen at Halifax. His Excellency intends to remain in Ottawa for the intercolonial conference which commences June 22.

At the meeting of the Royal Society Archbishop O'Brien of Halifax read a paper on "The Supernatural in Nature Considered in the Light of Metaphysical Science." Prof. Prince, Commissioner of Fisheries for the Dominion, and Sir James Grant of Ottawa gave a technical account of the process by which the yolk sac is absorbed by young fishes.

KILLED BY A FALLING HOUSE.

One Man Loses His Life and Three Buried Under the Ruins.

BROOKLYN, May 26.—Yesterday a four-storey brick building at No. 201 and 203 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, caved in. Fourteen men were at work in the building at the time. One of them, Emil Erickson, was killed almost instantly.

The house was used as a storage warehouse by Lattimer & Sons, dealers in furniture and dry goods. After the crash came most of the men succeeded in escaping from the cellar, where they were working. Three men are still missing and are supposed to be buried in the ruins.

Shortly before the accident Henry Johnson, who had charge of a gang of men concreting the cellar, felt the building shaking. He went upstairs and after sounding the walls returned to work. Twenty minutes later one of the walls facing Court street caved in, carrying the upper two floors with it. Johnson succeeded in getting all of his workmen up through the coal hole in the street.

FRANCE TAKES ACTION.

A Million Dollar Claim for Damage to Goods of French Subjects.

CHICAGO, May 26.—Suit for $1,000,000 damages was begun in the United States Circuit Court yesterday by the French Republic against the World's Columbian Exposition.

The litigation grows out of the French government's claim for damages to exhibits of French subjects injured during the manufactures building fire.

Mme. Joniaux's Fourth Victim.

BRUSSELS, May 26.—The Independence Belge prints a report, with reservation, that the authorities are about to exhume the body of a fourth victim of Madame Joniaux, the prisoner—that of her nephew, Lionel Ablay, who was supposed to have been drowned in a pond at Wingheim in November, 1890, while training for a sack race.

The French Cabinet Crisis.

PARIS, May 26.—M. Brisson has been asked by President Carnot to form a Cabinet. He promised the President to talk with his supporters and to-day will give his decision whether or not he would undertake the formation of a Ministry.

Mrs. Cleveland's Mother's Denial.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 26.—A Buffalo paper publishes an interview held with Mrs. Perrine, mother of Mrs. Cleveland, as to the alleged trouble between the President and his wife. In regard to the story Mrs. Perrine said: "It is probably the work of some malicious person who wishes to spoil my daughter's visit, and I refused to allow her to read it or to think about it at all. All through the season in Washington Mrs. Cleveland entertained at the White House. There was a constant round of gayety; so much, in fact, that when the season closed she was thoroughly tired and much in need of rest and quiet. But she has continued to give her Monday receptions even after the season had closed and nearly all of the Cabinet ladies had left the capital."

A London Editor's Victory.

LONDON, May 26.—The trial of the action for libel brought against the Westminster Gazette by Mr. Henry Seymour Foster, M.P., has resulted in a verdict for the defendant. Mr. Foster asked for £5,000 damages, claiming that the paper had libelled him in an article on the management of the Industrial Investment Corporation of London, of which he is managing director, and the Colonial Finance Company, of which he is deputy chairman. Mr. Foster also brought suits on similar grounds against the Chronicle, the Statist, the Financial Times and other papers, but it is not likely that they will be tried.

Kemp's Balsam stops the Cough at once.

ABOUT two months ago I was nearly wild with headaches. I started taking Burdock Blood Bitters, took two bottles and my headaches have now altogether disappeared. I think it is a grand medicine.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

The title admiral is a modification of a Latin word signifying commander. In the sense of naval commander it was introduced into Europe by the Venetians.

SIRS,—I had such a severe cough that my throat felt as if scraped with a rasp. On taking Norway Pine Syrup I found the first dose gave relief, and the second bottle completely cured me.

MISS A. A. DOWNEY, Manotic, Ont.

In order to give a quietus to a hacking cough, take a dose of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil thrice a day, or oftener if the coughing spells render it necessary.

What will be the largest bucket hopper dredger in the world is now building in Scotland. It is to be used in the work of deepening the Danube.

"For Years,"

Says CARRIE E. STOCKWELL, of Chesterfield, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of the chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was laid on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."

BRITISH POLITICAL GOSSIP

Sir William Harcourt Makes a Huge Blunder in the Budget.

POSITION OF THE POLITICAL PARTIES

Welsh Malcontents Returning to Their Former Allegiance—Disunion in the Unionists' Ranks Raises the Hopes of the Liberals for the Safety of the Budget—The Power of the Lords.

LONDON, May 28.—The Government, strengthened by a series of defeats of the Opposition on the budget, hopes to pilot its way through the session. The sudden weakness displayed by the Opposition has been a surprise all around. Various causes have been assigned for this, but probably none of them is the real one. The Unionists' whips say that no strenuous efforts has yet been made on their part to muster the full strength of their party, the leaders preferring to bide their time until some other contentious proposal is made up for consideration upon which the Government can more easily be defeated. The truth is, however, that a section of the Unionist party, chiefly Unionists Liberals, decline to follow the lead of the Tories in offering root and branch opposition to the budget, and will not allow themselves to be controlled by the Tory leaders merely for their gratification in annoying the Government.

Lord Salisbury's eagerness to defend the interest of the land owners has affected the states duties proposal. In this course the Conservative ex-premier has not the sympathy of the followers of Mr. Chamberlain, and the London and other urban Conservative members with feelings similar to those of the Unionists have been voting with the Opposition only under strong compulsion. Numbers of these gentlemen have absented themselves rather than to vote against their convictions. On the other hand the Welsh malcontents are abandoning their menaced hostilities to the Government and returning to their allegiance to the Liberal party. The Redmonites (Parnellites) have over-reached themselves. They have split over their irreconcilable policy, and part of them now vote with the Conservatives and part with the Government. Unless the position thus outlined shall change materially, of which there is no indication, the budget is out of danger. With the subsidence of the storm and consequent lessening of the likelihood of an immediate crisis, the talk of dissolution is less frequently heard.

Some over sanguine supporters of the Government now express their belief that the Ministry of Lord Rosebery will hold on until the programme outlined at the beginning of the session is completed, but the Ministerial preparations all point to a dissolution in July. Mr. Balfour, speaking before the Junior Conservative Club, predicted that the circumstances would become too strong for the Ministry before many months.

With a view of securing the labor vote in the next general elections, Lord Rosebery has made overtures to John Burns, M.P., and other leading laboring men on the subject of their accepting office in the Cabinet. Mr. Burns was offered a post in the Ministry and report says that he declined it with thanks.

The committee of the National Reform Union has prepared a resolution which will be submitted to the conference of the union on June 5, declaring that the House of Lords must be abolished. Apparently under the realization that the demand for the total abolition of the Upper House is putting it a little too strong the resolution goes on to say that the Government ought to introduce in the House of Commons during the present session a bill depriving the peers of power to reject or alter any bill that has twice passed the House of Commons. The enormous number of adhesions to the union from all parts of the country promise to make the union a very formidable body and compel the National Liberal Federation to advocate stronger anti-lord measures than that organization is now committed to. Any milder treatment of the Lords will fail to satisfy the Radicals.

According to Conservative reports Sir Wm. Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has made a huge blunder in the budget. Under the calculation of the Treasury officials Sir William stated in the house that the estate duty would realize for the current year an increase of £1,000,000. As a result of inquiry instituted by Lord Salisbury it is shown that the increase will not be £1,000,000, but probably £10,000,000. Lord Salisbury communicated his discovery to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, but Sir William Harcourt contests the ex-Premier's estimate and adheres to his own statement.

Mr. Gladstone's recovery from the effects of the operation performed upon his eye has been so marvellously swift that many of his old colleagues are hopeful that he will resume public life in the early autumn and take part in the election contest. An interesting incident of the operation has been related. There were four persons in the rooms besides the patient, three doctors and two nurses. Counting them Mr. Gladstone said, in mock terror: "What, five of you to hold me down?" He continued his jocular mood until Dr. Hettleship began to scrape the film from his eye, to which cocaine was applied prior to cutting. Immediately after the operation was over he resumed his lively conversation as though nothing had happened.

The Queen celebrated her birthday at Balmoral in a very quiet manner. After the family dinner in the evening her Majesty was entertained with tableau vivants, in which Prince and Princess Henry of Battenburg and the Princess of Saxe-Coburg took part. Her Majesty received hundreds of congratulatory telegrams, many of them from America.

Mr. James E. Huddart, the chief promoter of the Canadian Pacific mail route to Australia, by way of England, says that no contracts for vessels will be given out until the Government at Ottawa decides upon the amount of subsidy to be granted the company. The contracts, however, will stipulate that the vessels must be delivered by the spring of 1896. Their required draft, thirty feet, will possibly have the effect of throwing Liverpool out of the competing as an English port of call, owing to the difficulty vessels of that draft would have in crossing the Mersey bar.

Committed for a Heinous Crime.

NORWOOD, Ont., May 28.—John Huffman, a part negro from Campbellford, was arrested on the charge of criminal assault committed on Bertha Warner, a little twelve-year-old daughter of Peter Warner of this place. Reeve J. B. Pearce, J. P., held court here, and after hearing evidence, committed Huffman to the county jail to stand his trial at the next assizes.

DEATH OF SIR FRANCIS JOHNSON.

He Was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Quebec.—His Useful Life.

MONTREAL, May 28.—Sir Francis Johnson, chief justice of the Supreme Court of the Province of Quebec, died at his residence in this city yesterday after a lingering illness. Chief Justice Johnson was one of the oldest and most eminent members of the Canadian judiciary. He was in England in 1806 and was the son of General Johnson, a prominent English military officer. His mother was a daughter of Sir George Bishop, who distinguished himself at the battle of Queenstown Heights. He was educated in France and Belgium, and came to Canada at an early age, where he took up the study of the law and was admitted to the bar before he was twenty one years of age. He was, in his younger days, one of the most eminent criminal lawyers in the country and took a prominent part in the famous seignorial beats in the fifties. He was also employed by the Canadian Government in many important matters. After the first northwest insurrection in 1871 Judge Johnson was appointed by the Government to proceed to the Northwest as commissioner to settle the claims arising out of the rebellion, a task he successfully fulfilled. He also took a leading part in establishing the judicial system of the Northwest shortly after the Northwest was erected into a province. Judge Johnson was offered the governorship, but declined, preferring his judicial position. In 1890 he was formally appointed chief justice and was knighted in 1893.

Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., May 28.—Richard Mercer was shot and instantly killed by David S. Randall in the Board of Trade rooms in this city. Mercer, who is a cotton manufacturer, and Randall, a cotton broker, both members of the board, were seated in the rooms, and Randall was showing his friend a new revolver when the weapon, which he supposed was empty, was discharged, the bullet passing through the palm of Randall's left hand and lodging in Mercer's abdomen, causing instant death. Randall, who is a son-in-law of State Secretary Clark, was placed under arrest, but when it was shown that the shooting was entirely accidental he was released. Mercer leaves a widow and one child.

The Murder of Patrick Donovan.

DUBLIN, May 28.—Upon the strength of facts given to the police by an informer John Twiss and Eugene O'Keefe have been arrested and locked up in the Clare jail charged with murdering Caretaker Donovan on Glen Lara farm, in County Cork, late in April. The prisoners' food has been taken to them daily by O'Keefe's friends. After eating breakfast yesterday Twiss went into convulsions. The jail physician said he showed symptoms of strychnine poisoning. Twiss recovered somewhat under treatment, but is still in a critical condition. The motive of those who administered the poison is not known.

Death From a Kick.

TORONTO, May 28.—On Queen's birthday a sad accident occurred at the farm of Mr. Robert Green, Scarboro Township. James Spence, an employe of Mr. Green, was kicked in the stomach by a horse which he was grooming in the stable. Dr. Clapp was called in, but he was unable to save the young man's life. He died within 24 hours after the accident happened. The funeral took place on Saturday. Mr. Spence was 22 years of age and was one of two sons of a widow.

Mrs. Cleveland at the White House.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Mrs. Cleveland and her children have reached the White House. As soon as the carriage appeared Mr. Cleveland hurried out and white the maids were taking care of the babies Mrs. Cleveland leaped nimbly from the vehicle and running quickly into the corridor embraced him affectionately. The President then gave the children a genuine fatherly welcome. The whole day was given up to the family reunion.

Newfoundland Political Crisis.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 28.—The Whiteway party has played a desperate card. The Telegram published an article demanding the home authorities to recall Governor O'Brien and remove Justice Winter from the bench. It declares the former's action subversive to the principles of the constitution and antagonistic to the wishes of the people.

The Cruelty in the Cameroons.

HAMBURG, May 28.—Herr Leist, the author of the atrocities in the Cameroons, has arrived here and was immediately served with a summons from the government ordering him to surrender himself to the authorities in Berlin and prepare to defend the charges against him, which will be tried before a special court to be held in Potsdam.

Death of a Famous Savant.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The Rev. Dr. Alexander Kohunt is dead. He was identified with many institutions, especially the Jewish Theological Seminary. His principal work, and the one by which he is best known in the scientific world, is the "Aruch Completum," a Talmudic dictionary, which was completed after 23 years' labor.

Spanish Bull Fighter Killed.

MADRID, May 28.—In the end of a bull fight here the matador (Esparetdo) was about to plunge his sword into the neck of the bull when the brute made an unexpected movement, threw him down and gored him. Esparetdo died in a few minutes. He had a national reputation as a bull fighter.

A Foolish Wife's Deed.

BATH, N.Y., May 28.—Mrs. William Andrews, of Mitchellville, a little settlement a few miles from this village, committed suicide by taking a dose of poison. The only known reason for the commission of the rash act is that her husband went to prayer meeting against her protests, leaving her at home alone.

A Quebec Farmer Suicides.

ST. HILAIRE, Que., May 28.—At Petit Rang, about two miles west of St. Madalins, a well-to-do bachelor farmer named Aime Bynaime arose in the morning and proceeded to his barn, where about an hour after he was found hanging from a beam. He had been sick for some time, which seems to have affected his brain.

German Professor Dead.

PRINCETON, N.J., May 28.—Earnest Otto William Mildner, professor of German in Princeton College, is dead. He was born in 1848 in Silesia, Prussia. For the past eight years he had been practically the musical director of the college. He formerly lived in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Pulp Mills Destroyed.

BULSTRODE, Que., May 28.—The Dominion Paper Company's pulp mill at Maddington Falls was burned and is a total loss.

SENATORS ABOVE A BRIBE

Special Committee at Washington Investigates the Affair.

AN EFFORT TO DEFEAT THE TARIFF

Two Senators Were Approached, But Declined to Sell Their Votes—Buttz's Little Game Given Dead Away by the Men He Attempted to Corrupt—They Are Exonorated.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The special committee appointed to investigate the charges of attempted Senatorial bribery on the part of Charles W. Buttz have, submitted their report to the Senate. Buttz is found by the committee to have made the attempt at bribery despite his denial, and Senators Hunton and Kyle are exonerated from all blame.

The report of the committee says in part: "It appears from the testimony submitted that a certain Charles W. Buttz, of North Dakota, but domiciled in Washington since December last, at the house of Senator Hunton, in Warrenton, Va., during the absence of the Senator, said to his son, Eppa Hunton, Jr., that he would pay him a contingent fee of $25,000 if he would, by presenting arguments as to the pending tariff bill, induce his father, Senator Hunton, to vote against it.

"This offer was declined at once and peremptorily by Eppa Hunton, Jr., and the whole matter was communicated by him to his father. Senator Hunton availed himself of the first opportunity to disclose the matter to certain of his friends in the Senate.

"It is also established that the same Charles W. Buttz approached Senator Kyle, of South Dakota, with a proposition that $14,000 would be paid to him (Senator Kyle) if he would vote against the pending tariff bill.

"Senator Kyle is shown by the testimony to have communicated his interview with Buttz and the offer made to him to several Senators shortly after the said interview took place."

WRECK ON A RAILROAD.

An Express Dashes Into a Landslide—Two Men Killed.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 28.—Yesterday a disastrous wreck occurred near Pine Grove, two and a half miles east of Rockwood, Pa., on the Pittsburg division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. The train was the New York and Pittsburg express, which left this place with two express cars, a common express and a mail car and several day coaches.

The coaches were well filled with passengers, and the train was running at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Suddenly the engine dashed into a large landslide, sending the engine down into the creek, where it still lies. The combination express and mail car and regular express cars were crashed into the engine with terrific force and in a few minutes were on fire. The coaches were jammed together but did not leave the track, and none of the passengers were injured.

As soon as the train stopped the passengers rushed to the burning express cars, where they found Messenger Stahl struggling to escape from his car. He was rescued, but not until he had received serious injuries about the head and body and probably internally, but it is thought he will recover.

The dead body of Fireman Rhinehart was found under the locomotive. One of his feet was burned off. Here was also found the charred body of Engineer Nicholson. The remains of Engineer Nicholson and Fireman Rhinehart were taken to Glenwood, Pa., where they leave families. All traffic was suspended for five or six hours.

Heavy Storms in England.

LONDON, May 28.—Heavy storms were reported from many points along the south of England coast. Much wreckage has gone ashore at Broadstairs and Ilfracombe. The camp of the East Kent militia regiment at Shorncliffe has been flooded. The tents were blown away and the bedding and clothing were drifting about last evening in some eighteen inches of water. The grain crops and fruits further inland have been badly damaged. Off Fecamp, north of France, two vessels have been wrecked. A sailor was swept off the deck of a ship at Bologne.

French Cabinet Crisis.

PARIS, May 28.—M. Brisson having informed President Carnot that it would be impossible for him to form a ministery the President again summoned M. Bourgeois, who repeated his refusal to undertake the task of cabinet making, though he expressed his willingness to accept a portfolio in a ministry formed by some one else. M. Carnot then summoned M. Dupuy, who consented to attempt the construction of a cabinet in order to end the period of uncertainty. It is not known whether M. Dupuy intends to accept the premiership or merely to bring together a stop-gap ministry with some one else as the responsible head.

Murdered a Norwegian Sailor.

LONDON, May 28.—Hamilton Spree, the first mate of the German barque Paul Isenberg, which has just arrived here from Sufrao, was arraigned in the Bow street police station, charged with murdering a Norwegian sailor named Peterson. It is alleged that Peterson was systematically tortured by Spree until he died.

French Conspirators Arrested.

BUENOS AYRES, May 28.—Three Frenchmen have been arrested in connection with the plot which was discovered to blow up the Parliament House and Stock Exchange with dynamite. This makes six persons who have been taken into custody for complicity in the conspiracy and the police are on the track of others.

BLOCKING COAL TRANSPORTATION.

Strikers Seize and Sidetrack Cars Loaded With Coal.

TERRE HAUTE, May 28.—The striking Indiana coal miners are still determined that no coal shall be shipped through this district. All trains on the Evansville and Terra Haute railroad were held up at Shelburne, south of here, and examined by the miners. If no coal was found the trains were allowed to proceed, but when coal was found the cars were side-tracked. At Lyford, on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, there was some excitement early in the morning when a train crew from Danville, Ill., attempted to recover a number of cars captured from the Terre Haute detectives. The miners refused to let the coal be moved. They climbed on the cars and set the brakes. The crew were compelled to return without the coal.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., May 28.—Governor Altgeld has received telegrams from Elmwood and Minonk calling for arms, as trouble was feared from the striking miners. A later telegram from Minonk said the mob had seized an Illinois Central train.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., May 28.—The report sent out from Denver that sixteen men were killed in a battle between striking miners and deputy sheriffs yesterday was exaggerated. The latest news from the scene of the trouble is that one miner was killed and four wounded. A report that a deputy sheriff had been killed has not been verified. The deputies took eight of the strikers prisoners.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., May 28.—The first destruction of property in this section as a result of the miners' strike took place at Woodland, when a number of miners completely destroyed the tipple at Overley's mine, which had been at work for several days shipping coal by rail. Several deputy sheriffs were on guard, but the striking miners managed to draw the deputies away, and the property was destroyed.

PANA, Ills., May 28.—The city is in a state of wildest excitement over the news that 700 strikers are en route from Terre Haute, Ind., to Pana. The home guards and 500 deputies are getting in readiness. Preparations have been made to close the mines and place 100 guards around each mine. The miners will be taken out of the mines by operators to protect their property. Every citizen is armed with a gun or a revolver. Mayor Hayward has wired Governor Altgeld for 300 guns and ammunition. As soon as it is learned that the mob is approaching the town the home guard with 200 Winchesters will march east two miles, tear up tracks and endeavor to drive off the mob.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 28.—Three thousand miners attended the funeral of the victims of the Washington Run battle. There was no disturbance.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., May 28.—Another skirmish has occurred between the miners and the deputies in the vicinity of Victor and three miners were killed.

Painter—There, now, is my new picture! What's the matter with that, eh? Quiet Friend—I don't know, but I should say that it was a case of art failure.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which, cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, MAY 28.

HOW THE MONEY GOES.

The way in which the colonization roads fund is used by the Mowat Government to purchase support is well known. The Empire remarks that the Opposition have had few opportunities of looking into the details of this expenditure, but whenever they have done so they have always unearthed some queer facts. The journals of 1891 furnish some samples of how the money is expended:

B. Wickett, the overseer of the Combermere bridge, received $259 for 74 days, while $565 went to the men who did the work.

B. Wickett, as overseer of the Commanda bridge, received $119 for 34 days' work, while $123 was all the laborers got.

B. Wickett, as overseer of the East River bridge, received $196 for 50 days' work, while labor cost only $183.

B. Wickett, as overseer of the Stephenson town line bridge, for 68 days' work got $238, while the workmen received but $137.

Thomas Halliday, overseer of the Draper bridge, was paid $241 for 69 days, and the men who did the work received $312.

B. Wickett, overseer of the Musquosh bridge, secured $171 and the workmen $92.

It is rather a rich system by which the overseeing costs more than the actual work, but for fear it might be thought that 1890 was an exceptionally good year for overseers, we go back a few years and find similar cases. Take, for instance, in the journals of 1882:

Edward Rodden, overseer of the Opeongo road, received $309 of the appropriation for superintending and supplies, while only $88 went to the men doing the work. In another item Mr. Rodden is shown employing his whole family and connections on road work, for which they were paid $450 out of $499, the balance of $49 being all that went to outsiders.

On the Eganville and Foy road the overseer and his family captured $300 out of an appropriation of $348, while only $48 went outside of the family. On the Grattan road the overseer and family secured $166, while only $23 went to others.

We could quote many other items from the same source, but these are sufficient to show that the colonization funds are distributed not in the interest of good roads, but that party workers may be kept solid for the Government. What the people want is to have the money spent on the roads, but they will never get this till they turn out the men who refuse to change the system.

STEAD ON AMERICAN GIRLS.

He Tells an English Reporter What He Thinks of Them.

Mr Stead has been interviewed in London on the timely topic of "The American Girl." His views will interest her, while they may soften the pangs his recent departure from America may have caused her. The reporter's questions and Mr. Stead's answers are given in The Sketch:

"I'm going to ask you, Mr. Stead," began a representative of The Sketch, "a somewhat delicate question. What do you think of American women and girls?"

"That," replied the editor of the Review of Reviews, "is a somewhat large order. Perhaps what struck me most is the way in which Americans treat their womenkind. We have all heard of the great place held by women in the United States and of the extraordinary courtesy shown them by all and sundry. Now, it is quite true that they are outwardly more respectful and polite; but they carry this to the length of never contradicting them. An American lady may—I do not say that she does—but may talk any nonsense, with none to say her nay."

"No woman likes to be contradicted, Mr. Stead.

"She may not like it," returned he, vigorously, "but it is good for us all to be put right when we are in the wrong. When I am talking to a woman I treat her exactly as I should do a man. I think it more respectful, and, in fact, right, from every point of view."

"But you acknowledge that American ladies have a better time than their English sisters?"

"I am not even sure of that, and do not mind confiding in you that I am very glad my own daughters were each born a happy English child."

"But surely the American girl enjoys a far greater degree of liberty?"

"I do not think so. Take any working girl. I should say that she was quite as sure of good treatment and respect when walking in a London street or riding in a London omnibus as on the New York pavement or riding in New York Park."

"Do you find the Americans more prudish than the English?"

"Yes; although I did not find any pianos with frills round their legs. I did hear a story of a girl who, being left a legacy, always referred to it as a 'limbacy,' for American girls, like Spanish queens, are not supposed to have any legs."

"And had you ever an opprtunity of addressing a meeting of American girls?"

"Yes, and on one occasion I adopted the English plan of saying what I really thought. I was asked to meet a number of very charming and highly cultivated girl graduates. They met to discuss the all-important subject of cookery. My contribution may not have been very palatable, but it was at least honest. I pointed out that any Frenchman coming to the United States would regard much of their cooking barbarous. English cooking was bad, but it seemed to me that American cooking was worse, although I am, of course, no connoisseur, and pointed out that in France you could call at any village inn and in a few minutes have placed before you a meal which would be from every point of view a work of art. I think you will admit that it was better for me as a stranger to tell them my mind on this matter than to carefully hide what I really thought."

Using Waste Products.

The stomachs of hogs, instead of being sent to the rendering tanks, are now used for the manufacture of pepsin.

Pigs' feet, cattle feet, hide clippings and the pith of horns, as well as some of the bones, are used for the manufacture of glue.

The choicer parts of the fat from cattle are utilized for the manufacture of oleo oil, which is a constituent of butterine, and for stearine.

Large quantities of the best of the leaf lard are also used for the manufacture of what is known as "neutral," also a constituent of butterine.

The intestines are used for sausage casings; the bladders are used to pack putty in.

The undigested food in the cattle stomachs is pressed and used for fuel.

The long ends of the tails of cattle are sold to mattress makers.

The horns and hoofs are carefully preserved and sold to the manufacturers of combs, buttons, etc.

Many of the large white hoofs go to China, where they are made into jewelry.

All of the blood is carefully preserved, coagulated by cooking with steam, then pressed and dried and sold to fertilizer manufacturers.

All of the scrap from rendering operations is carefully preserved and dried and sold for fertilizers.

Bones are dried and either ground into bone meal or used for the manufacture of bone charcoal, which is afterward utilized for refining sugar, and in some other refining processes.—Facts and Figures.

Freaks of Fashion.

The oldest and quaintest of pictures show us ostrich feathers in all kinds of bonnets and head-dresses. Half of the beauty of the Gainsborough belles may be credited to the lovely ostrich plumes drooping over the upturned brim of the picturesque hat, and all know what a perfect finish Rembrandt's heads always have with the "darkly dim" hat laden with feathers as a background to a striking and characteristic face. Women of the present day are just as keenly alive to the flattering effects of feathers, so we see them worn even by the grandmothers, whose bonnets are adorned with the demure pompon, while the matron, the young girl and the little child have their hats trimmed with bunches of tips or the long plumes. All ages, sizes and complexions patronize the ostrich feather, and in every clime within civilization it will be found, as well as in the head-dress of the African king. Of late years the fashion has sprung up for feather-trimmed hats during midsummer, which incongruity no milliner can explain except by saying, "The trade wants them."—Home Journal.

RIOT IN A POLISH PARISH

Members of the Church Engage in a Bloody Combat.

CLUBS AND GUNS FREELY USED

Four of the Rioters Fatally Shot and a Number Seriously Injured — The Poles Attack the Priest and Prevent Him Saying Mass—The Father Shamefully Treated by the Mob.

HAZELTON, Pa., May 28.—The trouble over which the congregation of St. Casimir's Polish Catholic church at Freeland has been divided for a year or more, culminated in a bloody riot in which four men were shot, two of whom will die. A number of others were seriously injured. A large number of parishioners sustained numerous cuts and bruises, being hit with clubs and to escape fled.

The priest, Father Mazzokas, is a Lithuanian and a number of the members are Poles. It was rumored that the Poles would attack the priest if he attempted to say mass. Father Mazzokas was determined to say mass however, and escorted by Police Officer Jones, he approached the sacristy of the church. As he mounted the steps a number of Poles hurled themselves upon him and threw him to the ground. The priest then tried to gain entrance to the front door, but was again repulsed by Poles who stood guard. An attack was made, and Officer Jones was hit in the face with a stone. Chief Gallagher, who had detailed other officers to preserve order, endeavored to control the mob, but only precipitated the attack. Chief Burgess McLaughlin escorted the priest home, and while drafting recruits and deputies the fighting became general, and guns and clubs were used with terrific effect. When order was finally restored the place resembled a battlefield. Most of the belligerents fled.

THE INSULT TO THE FLAG.

American Authorities Will Not Make Special Inquiry Into the Matter.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—"The Stars and Stripes have been torn down and insulted in this city," was the substance of a despatch received here at the State Department from the American Consul at St. Thomas, Ont. When further particulars were received from the American Consul-General to Canada the flag incident was shown to have been of little moment.

It appears that a Canadian looked upon the wine when it was red and then tore down the flag. The Canadian Government is making a full investigation and has given assurances that the offender will be severely dealt with.

State Department officials say that in view of the stand taken by the Canadian Government, they will not make a special inquiry into the matter.

Stole a Seven-Year-Old Child.

THREE RIVERS, Que., May 28.—Delima Charette, a servant at Louiseville, stole away from her mistress' roof and took with her the 7-year-old daughter of the house. On missing the child and girl the next day the mother drove towards St. Barnaby, following the tracks of the fugitive. She came up with her child at 11 at night and took her home and laid a complaint with the clerk of the parish here. On Thursday High Constable Bellefeuille caught the servant at midnight and took her into custody. The girl says she took the child with her for company's sake. It appears that a few years ago this same girl abducted a child some three years of age and took her in a hand cart as far as Louiseville, when the child was taken away from her.

Mr. Chickering's Retaliatory Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The representative of the Canadian Pacific railway, A. C. Raymond, of Detroit, has submitted to the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, a protest against the bill introduced by Representative Chickering, of New York, for retaliation in case of discrimination against American interests by Canada. He says that this is no occasion for placing the arbitrary power proposed in the president's hands, and that his bill is opposed to the provisions of the treaty of 1871, providing for reciprocity, and would prove a boomerang to American interests by diverting to Canadian ports and transportation companies wholly within Canadian territory through the United States in bond.

Unknown Man's Body Found.

THOROLD, Ont., May 28.—The body of an unknown man was found in Davy's pulp mill raceway of the Welland Canal here Saturday evening. It had evidently been in the water several days, and was that of a man about 60 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, bald headed and weighed about 140 pounds. He had on a dark coat and vest and light striped trousers. The chief of police is inclined to believe it to be the body of a tramp named James McLaughlin, although he is not positive.

South Essex Conservatives.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 28.—Dr. Allworth, president of the South Essex Conservative Association, has called a meeting of the party at Kingsville for Wednesday, when it will be decided whether Candidate Buchanan will be given the support of the party or another candidate named. Buchanan was the nominee of the Conservative party, but a large number have withdrawn their support from him since he declared himself a member of the P. P. A.

Verdict for Eighteen Thousand.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Mrs. Ada Dow Currier, who was the directress of the Julia Marlowe Company, and sued Theatrical Manager David Henderson to recover damages of $50,000 for injuries she received at the Chicago Opera House in 1887 by the fall of one of the scenes, recovered a verdict for $18,000 in the Supreme Court.

Steamer Cambria Ashore.

KINCARDINE, Ont., May 28.—The steamship Cambria went aground about four miles north of this port in a fog. She is in about five feet of water. It will be some days before she is taken off as the tugs in this neighborhood are not powerful enough to move her.

OTTAWA NOTES.

The MacWherrell Case—Gauthier Sentenced to Three Years.

OTTAWA, May 28.—A letter was received on Saturday at the Department of Justice from Mr. T. C. Robinette, counsel for MacWherrell, the condemned murderer, stating that he had abandoned his application to the Court of Appeal at Toronto for a new trial and now relies entirely on the action of the executive at Ottawa.

John Connolly, a Canada Atlantic railway brakesman, on Saturday morning fell from a moving freight train at Bearbrook and had his head split open. He will probably die.

John J. Gauthier, an inmate of St. Patrick's Orphans' Home, Ottawa, who set fire to the orphanage a few weeks ago, was on Saturday sentenced to three years' imprisonment in Kingston penitentiary.

Inquest on Fullerton's Death.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 28.—The coroner's inquest on the body of the young man Fullerton, who died on the train on Tuesday, has been concluded. This is the case in which Coroner Hawkins created so much talk by forcing an entrance into the undertaker's premises and carrying away the body. The verdict was: "That deceased, Wm. H. Fullerton, came to his death last Tuesday while under the influence of narcotic drug while on the train from Amherst to Halifax, not having the attendance of a physician which he should have had, and this jury recommends that the Provincial Government should take some steps for the transportation of violent lunatics to the insane asylum from their homes." It was brought out in evidence that two grains of morphia had been injected into the patient before leaving Amherst.

The Worth of His Brain Power.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 28.—The unique suit of Gallagher vs. Horne just concluded has been followed with great interest. Horne is a wealthy citizen of Vancouver with political aspirations. He made overtures to W. H. Gallagher, editor of the Vancouver Telegram. Gallagher was to supply "the brains" and he was to supply the money. Horne's pocket paper cost him some $10,000 before it collapsed, but he was elected to the Provincial Assembly. Gallagher then put in a bill for $1,600 for writing all Horne's election speeches, hearing him recite them and coaching him in committee work. Horne refused to settle and Gallagher sued him. The jury, after a trial of three days, awarded Gallagher $500 for the "brain power" supplied to Horne.

Spinoza as a Boy.

Saul Morteira and Isaac Aboab, the Talmudists, were Spinoza's teachers in rabbinical subjects. The renowned scholar and writer, Manasseh ben Israel, who in 1656 successfully pleaded before Cromwell for the readmission of the Jews to England after their 400 years' banishment, taught him Hebrew grammar and philosophy. His father, Michael Spinoza, who wished him to study divinity, instructed him in the knowledge of human nature and showed him not to mistake superstitution for solid piety.

He once sent him, we are told, when he was yet but 10 years old to collect money which a woman owed him. When the boy entered her room, she was just engaged in saying prayers. She beckoned him to wait until she had finished her devotions. When this was done, Spinoza delivered his message. Having counted the money on the table she took it in her hand and said: "Here is what I owe your father. May you be some day as pious a man as he is. He has never deviated from the faith, and heaven will bless you if you become like him."

Then she was going to put the money in his purse, but discerning in her face features of false piety against which his father had warned him, he put the money on the table and counted it in spite of her remonstrances. He found that two ducats were wanting, which the pious woman had let fall into a drawer through a slit in the table.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Real Old Fashioned Chairs.

Edward the Confessor is portrayed in old manuscripts seated on a box with the inevitable cushion to mitigate its hardness. Sometimes the legs and arms of these seats were elaborately carved in the form of the legs of animals and surmounted at the arms by balls or knobs. This fashion continued with little variation from the time of the early Saxon kings to that of the early Norman sovereigns of England, and if palaces were thus scantily supplied with the means of comfort what must have been the bareness of the dwellings of the common people?

Chairs with high backs first appeared in England and continental monasteries, whose occupants lived in a state of comparative luxury, but the boxlike form of the chair and stool continued into the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, when chairs with arms and high backs came into general use. In a portrait of Henry VIII in one of the London museums that monarch is depictured seated in a large and solid armchair with legs, arms and back carved after a design said to have been furnished by Hans Holbein.—San Francisco Chronicle.

It Is an Unjust World.

How weary one becomes of the continual newspaper paragraphing of women. A woman does this, a woman does that, woman as the sunshine of home, woman our comfort in adversity, and so on ad infinitum, ad nauseam. Why does not some enterprising writer occasionally dilate upon the virtues and charms of men?—man as the consolation of weary hours, man as a "ready relief" from boredom, man as the sender of flowers, as the escort to theater or concert, as the wide awake entertainer.

Surely there are many capacities in which man shines, and why should he be ignored so coldly and scornfully? The woman who makes a silk quilt of 5,000 pieces gets a half column notice. The man who whittles a toy village out of empty spools is dismissed with a paragraph. It is an unjust world, and it is time to raise a protest against this unseemly neglect of one-half of creation.—Boston Advertiser.

The Origin of the Word Restaurant.

A French newspaper attributes the origin of the word restaurant to the humor of a Parisian innkeeper, who in 1874 displayed a sign bearing the invitation in Latin, "Come all ye hungry, and I will restore you" (restaurabo vos). This is interesting, and the etymology is sound, but the word "restaurant" was old when this humorous French host was young. Perhaps the best of the fanciful stories about the origin of restaurants is that accredited to the wag who remarked that the word was derived from the Latin res, a thing, and taurus, a bull, because it is a "bully thing," which nobody can deny.—New York World.

A Perfect Home.

The following, from a Florida newspaper, refers to a former well-known resident of Belleville: "While in Pensacola a few days ago, we were "picked up" by Mr. C. W. Hagerman and given the first view of that "city by the sea," that we have ever had. Through the finest drive ways that it has been our pleasure to see for a long time, we were carried out to the model home of Mr. C. W. Hagerman, then we were shown everything that the fruits of industry could do to make home pleasant, the finest Pecan trees, and let us say right here that we have heard it said that oranges could not be grown in West Florida, orange trees loaded with young fruit, we must make especial mention of the Satsuma, the coming orange of West Florida, the other varieties almost equal, strawberries and dewberries, and the finest grape vines that we have ever seen. PROBABILITIES.

TORONTO May 28—Fresh to strong north to west winds, fair and much cooler, with danger of frost at some points.

We learn that illuminations will be made on Mr. Ritchie's grounds at 8:45 to-morrow evening and on Wednesday evening.

A change has been made in the programme of the reception by His Excellency. A paragraph in this issue gives particulars.

Although it is not claimed that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures every ill to which flesh is heir, yet, as a matter of fact, it comes nearer doing this than any other medicine ever compounded. In purifying the blood, it removes the source of nearly all disorders of the human system.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis, and the first stage of consumption. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at druggist's.

DIRECTIONS FOR COLIC IN HORSES.—Contents of small bottle Pain Killer in quart bottle, add pint warm or cold water, sweeten with molasses, shake well until all mixed and drench well. Give about half at once, then balance in ten or fifteen minutes, if first dose is not sufficient. This will be found a never failing remedy. 25c. for a large bottle.

The Brockville Recorder says: It is understood that the coal supply in the Grand Trunk yard here is only good for six or seven weeks, and it is now being drawn on as sparingly as possible. NOTES OF THE CHURCHES

CONFIRMATION SERVICES IN TWO OF THE ANGLICAN CHURCHES.

Rev. Mr. Daw's Sermon to the Sons of England—Reception and Baptismal Services in Three of the Methodist Churches—Mr. Crossley Preaches on Eternal Punishment—Other Interesting Items.

In the Reformed Episcopal church yesterday the pastor, Rev. J. Simpson Trotter, preached in the morning on the duty of christians being loyal to the public worship of Almighty God, from the words "The hour of prayer;" he strongly insisted on giving God his hour. The evening subject was, "Evangelical Conversion," its real nature, vast importance, and imperative necessity, from James 5: 19 and 20.

The congregation of St. George's church last evening was considerably larger than last Sunday. Those attending here seemed very pleased at the re-opening of the church for evening service and Sunday school. Gas is to be put in this week, which will be a great improvement. After the reading of the second lesson the Sacrament of Holy Baptism was administered. The Rev. Mr. Geen preached on Baptism, from Romans 4: 3 and 3, "Know ye not that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into His death?" Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.

The minister of St. Andrew's church, Rev. M. W. Maclean, M A, preached ernestly and effectively yesterday morning upon Revelations, 22—17, "And the spirit and the bride say, Come! And whosoever will let him take the water of life freely." The bride is the church. Hearing implies believing and obeying. We are not merely to come but to take—to make the Lord our own. We are to take both without money and without price but also fully —in ample, satisfying, copious draughts of the water of life from the one only source —our Lord and Saviour. A beautiful anthem, in which Mr. Gillen took the solo, was rendered. In the evening Psalm 71 —16, "I will go in the strength of the Lord God" was the text chosen and was commended to all as a motto with which to begin each day's work. The anthem, the "Radiant Morn" was well rendered by the choir.

Rev. Mr. Hunter conducted the service in Holloway St. church last night. A number were baptised at the opening of the service, after which Mr. Hunter read the lesson from I Corinthians IIth chapter, commencing at the XVII verse to the end. He took his text from Acts XXVII-XXIII. "For there stood by me this night the Angel of Good, whose, I am, and whom I serve". About fifty new members were received into the church, many of them being young converts from the evangelistic meetings. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered at the close.

Rev. Mr. George preached a capital sermon in John St church last evening from the subject, "Growth in Grace," the text being from II. Peter 3—18. A beautiful quartette and chorus was rendered by the choir, Misses Kennedy and Brintnell and Messrs Bessler and Fax being the voices in the quartette.

The service in Holloway st. church yesterday morning was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. A. McCamus, who preached from the subject, "The Sower."

There was a large congregation at the morning service in St. Thomas' church yesterday. The pulpit was occupied by the Rev. F. C. Powell, who took his text from St. John 21: 15, "Feed My Lambs," and preached a forcible sermon on the religious instruction of children.

Rev. Mr. Hunter preached a sound and practical sermon in John st. church yesterday morning on the subject of "Prayer." He advocated the prayer meeting as a means of grace and advised his hearers to pray always.

The services in Bridge St. church yesterday morning were of an interesting character. A number were baptized and many new members received the right hand of fellowship and had their names entered on the church roll. The most interesting part of the service was the testimony of a converted skeptic, a man well known and highly respected in the city.

There was an immense gathering of Sunday school children in Bridge St. church yesterday afternoon, all the schools in the union being present with their teachers and officers. The children were addressed by Messrs. Hunter and Crossley.

In the evening the evangelists conducted a service in Bridge St. after eight o'clock and many were seen going to the inquiry room as a result.

Rev. D. O. Crossley, pastor, preached in the Tabernacle yesterday morning to a large congregation from the text "They go from strength to strength," 7th verse of the 84th Psalm. After the sermon a reception service was held, at which twenty four persons united with the church. A baptismal service was held at the close, and fifteen adults were baptised. In the evening, Rev. H.T. Crossley preached from the text, "Their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched." The sermon was descriptive of the condition of the unsaved in eternity. He represented memory as the "worm that dieth not," and remorse as the "fire that is not quenched." He does not believe in the material fire of hell, fire and brimstone. Rev. D. O. Crossley conducted a short after service of prayer and testimonies.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES.

A Large Number Take the Vows in Christ Church and St. Thomas'.

Archbishop Lewis, assisted by Rural Dean Carey, his chaplain, and Rural Dean Stanton, administered the rite of confirmation to about sixty candidates in Christ church, yesterday morning. A large congregation was present, and the beautiful service was much enjoyed by all. The musical part was particularly well rendered, the singing of the choir showing good voices and careful training. Before administering the holy rite, the Archbishop gave the candidates some sound advice, for guidance in their future life. He said that they should be careful not to fall from the grace given them at their confirmation and denied the theory of "once in grace, always in grace," for, said he, we have examples every day of people falling from grace, and why should the bible command us to "quench not the spirit" and "grieve not the spirit?" After your confirmation turn to the best account the means of grace afforded you, and you have many situated as you are in this city. Also be regular at your communion and don't let your first communion be your last. Don't set aside the means of grace to invent more modern ones of your own. Don't take your religion from any other source than the fountain head—the new testament and the book of common prayer. The Church of England is not a sect, for a sect is something cut out or lopped off from the parent body, and, although some say that it was cut off from the church of Rome, if you read its history you will find that it was in existence in Apostolic times. Don't confound our church with the heterogeneous mass of sects on every side. If you will follow this advice you will not leave the church of your confirmation to swell the ranks of some of these mushroom sects that surround us. Prove to your friends and those you come in contact with, you have been benefitted by your confirmation, and that is what I call working for the church. The candidates were then duly confirmed.

During the offertory Mr Petty sang a solo in splendid voice. Then the Holy communion service was rendered and those confirmed and others partook of the sacrament, which was administered by Rural Dean Carey, Rural Dean Stanton, Rev. S. Daw and Rev. A L. Geen. Although the service was somewhat lengthy it was so intensely interesting and solemn that the strictest attention was observed through out.

AT ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

In the evening the Archbishop held a confirmation service in St. Thomas' church, when thirty candidates received the rite. The number included fourteen mutes from the D. & D. Institute, and the service was interpreted to them by Mr. Ballis, a teacher in the Institute. The Archbishop will confirm a number in St. John's church to-night.

THE S. O. E. AT CHURCH.

Oxford and Lydford Lodges Attend Divine Service at Christ Church.

The two local lodges of the Sons of England formed in procession in front of their hall, Front St., yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and headed by the I. O O.F. Band, proceeded to Christ church, where the annual sermon was preached by the Rev. Bro. S. Daw. The reverend gentleman took his text from Acts XXII, XXVI to XXVIII verse, inclusive. He said Paul had on different occasion boasted of his citizenship and lineage, and he showed in many ways that he was proud of being a Roman and claimed the right to be heard on that account. As Englishmen we are proud of our church service. Leaving aside all secterianism, it was the English church that gave us this beautiful service. We should be proud of our citizenship. The united empire is not large but see what an influence she wields. She has been a wonderful power in spreading the gospel in foreign lands among the heathen. The secret of England's greatness is in her flag, and wherever her flag has gone it has been followed by the bible and prayer book. Paul boasted of his Roman lineage and the power of that nation, but where is the Roman power to-day? It has vanished, and why? Because they forgot to look to Jesus Christ. When you think of England's greatness, do you ever think of England's church? We as a young nation have an influence because our constitution was given to us by England herself. That constitution was fought for by the church. As Englishmen we should be jealous of our education, and be careful how we teach our children. Don't let your life be spent in the accumulation of wealth, for there is a grander life after this, and a grander citizenship, for which we should be prepared. Take your prayer-book and read your duty to God and to your neighbor.

After the conclusion of the service, the procession re formed, and marched up Coleman Street to the upper bridge, and thence down Front St. to their Hall. There was a large turn-out, and they made a splendid appearance.

Heintzman & Co.'s Perfect Transposing Piano.

The greatest musical invention of the age —unanimously pronounced by the press and all leading artists to be the piano of the future. Transposes any music into any key, by a simple lever movement, in a second. With this unique and simple invention, a transposing piano is no longer a chimera, or a mere object of experimental interest, but an accomplished fact, and is, theoretically and practically, perfection. With this invention we can accomplish that which has long been desired by practical men, viz. the adjustibility of pitch, especially since the adoption of the French pitch. By this plan the performer, while playing the same keys, is enabled to render the music in all the different keys with regard to pitch; at the same time the change may be produced by the slightest effort, the key-board being operated by a lever within reach of the performer and the change of pitch being produced in a second's time. Music played as written may be rendered in any of the various keys desired. All music can be played in the scale or key of "C" and its relative "A" Minor, and rendered in all the various keys and scales as written. Simplifies the playing of music, is perfectly adapted to all the different systems of music. The Transposing Piano may be set so the pitch will be in unison with the Singer's Voice, Violin, or any Wind Instrument, and is therefore highly suitable for use, not only in private houses, but also in Theatres and Concert Halls. The Piano does not get out of tune nor does it affect the action in the slightest degree. The mechanism is of so simple a character that its liability to derangement, or to get out of order, is practically nil. The ingenious intention enables Vocalists to practice any Music even though not written for their particular compass, thus opening up a wide area of delightful study. Ware-rooms Nos. 20 and 22 Hotel Street, next to B. B. College. 24d1w.

Lord Aberdeen's Address at the Mechanics' Institute.

It is a matter of congratulation that such an artistic work as the well worded city address to His Excellency could be produced in Belleville. It will be on public exhibition in the reading room of the Mechanics' Institute on Tuesday until 4 p.m. In addition to the illumination, the album contains excellent pen and ink pictures of the Governor General, the Aberdeen and Belleville Arms, the Deaf and Dumb Institute, the 15th Battalion drill shed, the Hospital and Home, and Miss Maclean, daughter of Rev. M. W. Maclean, M.A., completed the whole work in little more than a week and is deserving of all praise for the successful result of her devotion of time and talent. His Excellency cannot fail to prize it both for its intrinsic merits and also for its association with what we have no doubt will be, weather permitting, a most enjoyable visit here.

LOSS OF POWER and Manly Vigor, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, or Palsy, Organic Weakness and wasting Drains upon the system, resulting in dullness of mental Faculties, Impaired Memory, Low Spirits, Morose or Irritable Temper, fear of impending calamity, and a thousand and one derangements of both body and mind result from pernicious secret practices, often indulged in by the young, through ignorance of their ruinous consequences. To reach, re-claim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of an association of medical gentlemen who have prepared a book, written in plain but chaste language, treating of the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. The World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., will, on receipt of this notice, with 10 cents (in stamps for postage) mail, sealed in plain envelope, a copy of this useful book. It should be read by every young man, parent and guardian in the land.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR.—In reading of Mr. Bogle (of the Belleville Business College) having presented the Belleville Cricket Club with a handsome prize bat for competition between the members of the club, I cannot refrain from giving vent to my appreciation of the act. The presentation having been made by the principal and owner of one of Canada's greatest institutions for the advance of the education of our rising business men.

It goes to show that like the fathers of our greatest universities such as Oxford and Cambridge, he also recognizes the great necessity for outdoor exercises, which helps so much to build up the healthful, vigorous constitution necessary to the clear sound mind which will acquire quickly, and retain for the greatest length of time, and as everyone knows it is almost as certain that a healthy mind will accompany a healthy constitution as that a sickly mind will follow a sickly body.

Too many thanks cannot be given to Mr. Bogle, who has in this palpable manner shown his desire to promote and encourage the youth, in his search for healthful recreation, and as everyone knows cricket is a game that even the weak to a certain extent can take part in as well as the strong. His act in every way is certainly highly commendable, and it is to be hoped that his example may be followed (not exactly by parents) but by fathers taking an interest in the game and encouraging their boys to take part in it, which there is no doubt would be a more economical way of raising a family to health and vigor than having them dragging their books and paying the annual physician's bill. That Mr. Bogle's example may be followed by many is the desire of one who delights to see the young enjoy themselves in healthful recreation. I am yours,

FRESH AIR AND VIGOR.

THEY CAUGHT THE BOY.

He Stole a Watch Near Deseronto and Goods from a Grand Trunk Car.

The local police have added another capture to their already long list and Robert Henry Cole, a boy seventeen years of age, is in gaol as a result. The authorities at the Grand Trunk telephoned the police at 3:30 on Sunday morning that a car had been broken open and that they had caught the thief in the car and were holding him until they arrived. Officer Hayes at once went up and found a young man who gave his name as Robert Henry Cole, and after questioning him closely the officer found out that he was the boy who was wanted for stealing a watch from a cheesemaker named W. O. Wing, near Deseronto Junction. The boy or man said he was a Barnardo Home boy and had been brought to this country from Truro, Cornwall county, England, and taken to the home at Toronto, Supt. Owen. He says he has been employed for three years with a man named Alex. Carnegie, at Beechburg, near Ottawa, but that he left there on account of ill-treatment, and had been roaming around the country ever since. He slept in the Grand Trunk yard at Kingston for two weeks and came on to Deseronto and went to the Deseronto cheese factory and hung around there for a time, and while there he stole a gold watch from the cheese maker, W.O. Wing. He skipped for Deseronto Junction and got on a freight, as stated in these columns Saturday, and came at once to Belleville, where he disposed of the watch for $5 at Mrs. Wardhaugh's second hand store, and where Officer Hayes obtained it yesterday. After selling the watch he roamed around town for some time and then went back to the G. T. R., where he subsequently broke open a car and was taking out some goods when detected by Alex. Caskey, an employee of the road, and fastened into the car. He had taken out two packages of goods containing patent medicine and prepared cocoa. When brought before the magistrate he admitted having stolen the watch and also that he broke open the car at the depot. The Magistrate remanded him to gaol for a week and in the meantime he will write to his employer at Beechburg for a history of the boy.

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

ROBERT MACAIRE

FOUNDED ON THE PLAY L'AUBERGE DES ADRETS

A NOVEL

[The authorship of the original French play "Robert Macaire," from which the English melodrama and novel were taken, is shrouded in mystery. The play, although an excellent one, would probably never had created the sensation it did had it not been for the remarkable acting of Frederic Lemaitre and Vizantini, who appeared in the original production. Lemaitre was of course Robert Macaire, while Vizantini gave a magnificent performance of Jacques Strop. Lemaitre was in his day the greatest actor in France, and his conception of the part of the sleek rascal and cold blooded though always interesting villain who seemed to regard the members of the human family as his legitimate prey added greatly to his fame. Lemaitre's first entrance was effected at the back of the stage. He was clad in a costume that appeared to be of the best material and most correct fit, but when he walked down toward the footlights the audience could see that his dress was one mass of patches deftly fitted to each other. Vizantini was of course less carefully costumed. The phenomenally successful comic opera "Erminie" was adapted from the play of "Robert Macaire," but the names of the conspirators were changed, and they were made pure low comedy characters, whereas they were in reality cold blooded murderers as well as unconscionable thieves. In the English translation of the play, which was made about the year 1840 by Charles Selby, the celebrated comedian, Germenil is murdered, and Robert Macaire is killed, but the exigencies of comic opera prohibit the introduction of such depressing episodes. Therefore most Americans regard the story of "Robert Macaire" as a trifling bit of sillabub, for the reason that but few of the present generation are familiar with either the play or the novel, having derived their ideas of both from that humorous but nonsensical hodge podge, "Erminie." "Robert Macaire" was produced for the first time in England at the Covent Garden theater, London, in 1843, with H. Wallack in the title roles and Mr. Vale as Jacques Strop. It was not seen in America until two years later, when it was brought out at the Old Bowery theater, New York, with Messrs. Stevens and Chapman in the principal characters. During the same year at the Chestnut Street theater in Philadelphia Mr. J. Browne enacted the role of Robert Macaire, in which he made the hit of his life. It was generally conceded by the best critics of the time that he was Lemaitre's only rival and possible equal in the part. The Jacques Strop of this production was Burton, who was at that time perhaps the best comedian in America. A few years ago—in 1888 or 1889—Henry Irving revived "Robert Macaire" in an elaborate manner, and while the production as a whole was regarded as an artistic success the great actor's conception of the character of the diabolical but easy mannered Macaire was such a radical departure from the popular idea that it elicited much adverse criticism. The novel "Robert Macaire" is much more interesting than the play. In fact, the descriptions are so graphic, the character drawing so perfect and the working up to the climaxes so skillful that the work is entitled to take rank as one of the best types of what might be called the "exciting" literature of the day. The reader's interest never flags from beginning to end, for there is not a single paragraph in the novel which could be advantageously left out. The picturesque type of life, too, with which it deals should make it exceptionally popular with American readers.]

CHAPTER I.

THE NEW ARRIVAL.

In the spring of 1803 Charmont-sur-Pont was one of the quietest little villages in the whole of France. It was nestled in a small valley, through which a little stream ran to join the Isere, about two days' journey below Grenoble. The tree clad hills rising up on either side sheltered it from all winds and shut out the hum of the larger world.

It was little wonder that the villagers were peaceful and prosperous in this little garden plot of nature's making, for it would be impossible to imagine a more favorable condition for the enjoyment of rural life. The glebe was rich, the springs were many, and the summer sun shone with such radiant heat in the sheltered valley that corn and wine ripened unfailingly, and what farmers call "a bad year" had never been known.

But the peace and prosperity were not merely the growth of positive forces. Men's troublous ways and the irruptions of strangers troubled them not. Even the terrors and troubles of the revolution had seemed to have passed them by, and now, when the hamlets of France were being drained of men to recruit the wasted armies and to swell the "army of England" which was gathering on the northern coast, this sheltered nook escaped unscathed.

Such a thing as a complete stranger was unknown in the village. Now and again came an official on his way from place to place—a casual peddler or an itinerant musician on his rounds—and at such times the curiosity which lay dormant in the breasts of even these old world villagers raised its sleepy head and enjoyed the rare attraction. Very few of the villagers had ever been away from their homes. The cure, it's true, went now and again to Grenoble, and the doctor had been once to Paris within the 40 years during which he had aided in the incomings and outgoings of humanity in this quiet spot.

It was therefore with strange feelings that the little group assembled under the spreading lime tree whose shade kept the clear water of the well perpetually cool saw approach a stranger, and not merely a stranger, but a seemingly distinguished stranger—a young man of some 30 years of age, tall and well built, with striking features and flashing eyes and a habit of command which, however, tallied but poorly with his time worn clothes. He was a handsome, graceful fellow, with the easy gait that marks the habitual pedestrian. His glance was bold and roving, with something of the predatory look, which conveys to educated eyes a customary ignorance of where the next meal might come from. In a word, the man in a less simple community could not have been mistaken for anything but an adventurer, but here in this forgotten corner of the earth, among a people so guileless, his very boldness, shiftiness and extravagance of action became marks of a higher culture than their own.

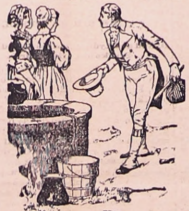
As the stranger came up the dusty roadway the little village crowd peered out eagerly from their shadowy citadel, and by some exercise of that unknown instinct which brings the vulture to the quarry and the crowd to the street the cottages began to pour forth their inhabitants. The village maidens made their appearance with marvelous celerity, considering the fact that they had remained an extra minute for further adornment.

The traveler seemed to be a shrewd fellow enough for the occasion, for so soon as he began to find himself an object of public attention he began to slacken his pace, to look around with eyes of lazy inquiry and generally to act with that careless indifference which has so much charm for those who but seldom find their lives quickened by any object of curiosity. As his value perceptibly increased in the public mind, so he got slower and slower, until an agonizing fear came to all that perhaps the stranger might, after all, change his mind and not condescend to visit so humble a place.

More and more anxious grew the little crowd which still kept swelling up as the new arrivals joined. The stranger in a [illegible] unconscious way hummed a tune as though he saw no one. Then he stopped a little, looked around and strolled on again. The villagers admired in silence and with gathering awe. The revolution was not so far behind but men still remembered the tradition of the grand seigneurs, whose haughty indifference to all beneath them gave them a value in public esteem.

He came closer still, stopped again, and then, without seeming to notice or even see any one, came actually within the charmed circle of the lime tree, which was now as the evening came on throwing lengthening shadows over the green. The crowd was silent. No one ventured to speak, but the stranger looking listlessly around picked out the prettiest and best dressed girl in the place, and taking off his hat with a flourish made her a low bow, saying as he did so, with an admiring glance:

"Lady, can you tell me where I am?"



Picked out the prettiest and best dressed girl in the place.

The girl blushed as she answered:

"I do not understand, sir."

"Pardon me, lady, or I am told I should say 'citizeness!' Ah, me, how things are changed for me as for France!" Here he heaved a deep sigh and threw himself with picturesque grace upon a rustic bench.

Then the whisper began to grow and grow that this was a returned emigre, and from henceforth his personal dignity, his noble bearing and his lofty aspect generally became in Charmont-sur-Pont almost articles of religion.

At first with some diffidence, but afterward with larger measure of freedom, as they recognized that he was not unapproachable, one and all began to proffer their services. He was tired, he was hungry, he had come far and was in need of rest. He must allow some one to be his host. Anything that could be done for him would be a privilege for them all—so ran the expression of the hospitality in the old world fashion of these simple people.

The stranger received the proffered hospitality in silence, whereupon it was straightway doubled. Then one began to vie with the other in pressing on him to stay, putting forward the most tempting opportunities of repose.

The wily vagabond listened carefully although he did not seem to notice. He observed, however, that the general strain of invitation was in the direction of a certain Farmer Beaumont, whom by a chance reference he found to be the father of the pretty girl to whom he had spoken.

His mind was soon made up, and rising to his feet he made a graceful bow and said to the little crowd with an air of infinite condescension:

(To be Continued.)

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat any thing and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The Medicine for Liver and Kidney Complaint.—Mr. Victor Auger, Ottawa, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending to the general public Parmelee's Pills, as a cure for Liver and Kidney complaint. I have doctored for the last three years with leading physicians and have taken many medicines which were recommended to me without relief, but after taking eight of Parmelee's Pills I was quite relieved, and now I feel as free from the disease as before I was troubled."

M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Manitoba writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day.

Somehow a man feels much worse the day after he has lost an hour's sleep on account of the baby than he does the day after he has lost five hours' sleep at the club.

"For Years,"

Says CARRIE E. STOCKWELL, of Chesterfield, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of the chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was laid on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."

RIGHTS IN HUDSON BAY

Poaching by Foreign Traders Called to the Attention of Parliament.

WHERE MR. MULOCK WAS IN ERROR

There Was No Shortage in the Accounts of the Warden of Kingston Penitentiary—The Standing of Public and Separate Schools—Several Motions Dropped—Shelter for Motormen.

OTTAWA, May 29.—Mr. T. Blanchard, the new member for Gloucester, N.B., was introduced in the House yesterday by Sir John Thompson and Hon. Mr. Costigan.

Two private bills were read a third time and two from the Senate were read a second time.

Sovereignty Over Hudson Bay.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) moved for copies of all correspondence since 1867 between the Government of Canada and the Imperial Government in reference to her Majesty's exclusive sovereignty over Hudson Bay. He dwelt upon the importance of the subject and said that while it was true that by the Treaty of Utrecht the sovereignty of Hudson Bay had been secured by Great Britain, foreign fishermen were to-day resorting to these waters in pursuit of the whale and porpoise, and it was important that steps should be taken to assert Canadian jurisdiction, lest by the rule of acquiescence this right might lapse; for it was to be remembered that as well in national as in private relations this rule of acquiescence was held to apply.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper fully acquiesced in what had been said about the importance of the question, and he could assure the hon. gentleman in advance of the production of the papers asked for that they would show that the question had received attention at the hands of the Government. As to invasion of our territorial rights by fishing and hunting by foreign vessels, information had from time to time reached the Government of such occurrences, but the remoteness of the district rendered it difficult to ascertain the actual facts. On one or two occasions the officers of the Hudson Bay Company, and in other cases the officials of the Indian Department, had been applied to for definite information as to illicit trading and fishing, but the result so far had not been any satisfactory evidence.

Mr. Mills moved that it is highly desirable that steps should be taken by the Canadian Government to introduce the fur seal in Hudson's Bay and waters upon the eastern coast of Canada.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper said that he supposed the motion had simply been moved in order that an expression of opinion might be secured. He did not think the time had arrived for experimenting in this direction. He moved that the debate should be adjourned.

Hon. Mr. Mills thought the Government should make the experiment.

Mr. Stairs spoke and the debate was adjourned.

There Was No Shortage.

Mr. Mulock asked if the warden of the Kingston penitentiary had recently paid over to the Government any moneys in respect of any shortage on his part; if so, how much; when, and on what account?

Sir John Thompson said that the question appeared to be founded upon a mistake, since there was no shortage in the accounts.

Education in the Provinces.

Mr. Lachapelle moved for a detailed report showing the prizes awarded by the judges or jury at the Chicago Columbian Exposition for the work of pupils of primary and special schools of every degree, and also to pupils of secondary educational institutions of each of the provinces of Canada. He said that when these returns were brought down it would be shown that the schools of Quebec would compare most favorably with those of Ontario, and that separate schools in all practical subjects would present a superior record to that of the public schools.

Sir John Thompson said that the position which Quebec occupied in her capacity as an educationalist at the World's Fair was an illustrious one. He said that the papers asked for should be brought down. The motion carried.

Motions Dropped.

Several motions, notice of which had been given, were reached yesterday and dropped because of the absence of the members in whose names the motions stood. Among them was a notice by Mr. McCarthy asking for information with reference to the trial of Mr. E. E. Buist, of Collingwood, on the charge of posting a newspaper containing writing addressed to Mrs. A. D. Cameron, Brandon. When the motion was reached Mr. McCarthy was not present, not having returned to Ottawa since last week, and the motion was dropped.

To Disfranchise Bribed Voters.

The House went into committee on Dr. Weldon's bill to disfranchise voters who take bribes. Dr. Weldon was not present. A clause was opposed, and it was agreed that the bill should stand until the promoter's return.

Shelter for Motormen.

Mr. Mulock moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Railway Act. The bill provides that street car companies shall provide proper shelter for motormen. The bill was read a second and third time.

Around the Capital.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell has gone to Belleville. He is expected to return tomorrow night.

It is stated on what is considered good authority that R. R. Fitzgerald, of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, has been appointed to the Supreme Court bench of that province.

Mr. Lariviere, M. P. for Provencher, has placed his resignation in the hands of Hon. Mr. Daly, as the minister representing Manitoba, pending a settlement of his financial difficulties. Mr. Lariviere sustained extensive losses through a colonization scheme for the settlement of French-Canadians in the Northwest, of which he was a leading promoter. His liabilities are $30,000. If he succeeds in adjusting his financial affairs satisfactorily, the resignation will not be handed to Mr. Speaker.

The Dominion Government has made provisions for the maintenance of two travelling dairies in Manitoba and the Northwest and one in New Brunswick. They will be under the direction of the Dominion dairy commissioner. One expert butter-maker, and one assistant, with an outfit of dairy utensils, including a centrifugal cream separator, churn, butter worker, Babcock milk tester, etc., will compose each traveling dairy. Two days will be spent in every place visited.

Venerable Archdeacon Lauder, preaching in Christ church, referred to the flag incident at St. Thomas. He was addressing the Governor-General's Foot Guards, who had a military parade to his church. He said: "And when you wear a Queen's uniform you should never disgrace it. Some very young and inexperienced man must have worn it in the St. Thomas incident, when a young man in a foolish moment—I can't think anything else—pulled down the American flag and disgraced the Queen's uniform. That act brings the whole volunteer service into discredit. This, of course, will be righted by the Government as soon as possible."

ERRING WIFE SUES FORGIVENESS.

Left Destitute by Her Guilty Partner, the Husband Takes Her Back.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., May 29. — A wronged husband, John B. McClure, has received back his wife, who, a month ago, eloped to Philadelphia. McClure is a merchant tailor, and is the father of four children. During the past winter he had living in his household a young man, Edward Clark.

The neighbors soon began to notice intimacy between him and Mrs. McClure. The husband was the last one to suspect the young wife, and it was not until one afternoon late in April, that he returned unexpectedly and found the guilty pair together that his eyes were opened.

McClure in his rage attacked Clark, but the wife flew to the assistance of her lover, and together they gave the husband a beating. When he escaped from them he went in search of an officer. Returning half an hour later he found the guilty pair had fled, taking with them the youngest child, a mere baby.

Clark and Mrs. McClure went to Philadelphia, and two days later a marriage notice appeared in a city paper stating that the two had been married in Camden.

Naturally, Clark, who is hardly 20 years old, soon tired of his erring companion and deserted her. She was left destitute, and she wrote to her husband, asking him to take her back, and he went to Philadelphia and got her back.

THE MINERS' STRIKE.

Preparing for an Attack—A Miner Killed by the Foreman.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., May 29.—Orders have been received here by hardware merchants to send all the available arms and ammunition to Spiliman, where the Camden Company is operating its mines. The company anticipates an attack from rioting Ohio miners to-day.

WILKESBARRE, May 29—Thomas O'Brien, outside foreman of the Ravine mine, fatally shot an Italian employe yesterday. The Italian and one of his fellow-countrymen began shooting at O'Brien and he returned the fire.

A Convict's Break for Liberty.

MONTREAL, May 29.—A despatch from St. Vincent de Paul says that on Thursday last, while Warden Ouimet, of the penitentiary, and a number of his subordinates went for a Queen's birthday outing, a convict who was acting as fireman on the steam launch made a bold break for liberty. When the party returned from their outing and had landed the engineer and the convict were left behind to look after the traps. The convict then told the engineer that his coat was left in the launch, and the two went out in a small boat to get it. When nearing the launch the convict drew a revolver and ordered the engineer to row across the river. There was nothing left for the latter but to obey, but, watching his opportunity, when nearing the shore he snatched the revolver and threw it into the river. A struggle ensued and the boat was overturned, leaving the two men struggling in the water. Assistance arrived and they were both taken out. The convict was secured and taken back to the penitentiary.

Suspected Grain Thieves Committed.

BEAVERTON, Ont., May 29.—For some time past the farmers of Brock have sustained heavy loss from thefts of grain and clover seed. Government Detective Murray was sent out to look after the matter and as a result on Saturday one arrest was made and yesterday a second one. Constables McMillan and Smith gave valuable assistance in the matter. County Attorney Farewell prosecuted the parties before Geo. F. Bruce, J.P. Richard Dawson and Henry Dawson, of the township of Eldon, were committed for trial and taken to Whitby jail. There was a large crowd of farmers present, who were much interested in the proceedings.

Killed by Lightning.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—While a tug boat was towing a number of canal boats down the Delaware last evening during a thunder storm, a bolt of lightning fell on the deck of the canal boat Mars, passing through the planking into the cabin and instantly killed John Ogden, 75 years old, and fatally injured Edward Lickerbocker.

Two Hundred Persons Drowned.

CALCUTTA, May 29.—A dam formed by a landslip in the river at Charkkupri Kulu, north of India, burst recently and flooded the villages in the valley for a distance of twenty miles. More than 200 persons were drowned.

Will Prevent Steamers Racing.

LONDON, May 29.—Mr. James Bryce, president of the Board of Trade, is about to take steps to prevent racing of ocean steamers, the attention of the board having been called to the alleged race between the Majestic and Paris

The Cattle Embargo.

LONDON, May 29.—Mr. Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, said, in reply to a question by Mr. Chaplin, that an animal had been recently landed at Liverpool from Montreal which showed many symptoms of pleuro-pneumonia. Experts were now examining the lungs of the animal with a view of determining future regulations in regard to the landing of Canadian cattle.

A Minister in Trouble.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Rev. George S. V. Howard was arrested here, charged with working a confidence game. Howard was ordained a Methodist minister in New York, was once a prohibition candidate for Congress from Indiana, and has preached in several Indiana towns. He was indicted in April for passing worthless cheques, released on bond and jumped his bail, evading recapture until to-day.

York's Visit to Australia.

LONDON, May 29.—The Duke of York has given his tentative promise to consider the invitation extended to himself and the Duchess of York to visit Australia next year. It has been suggested that the Dominion Government should urge the Duke to make the trip to Australia via Canada.

Locusts in Illinois.

DECATUR, Ill., May 29.—Millions of locusts, said to be of the fourteen or seventeen-year variety, have appeared in Decatur. Farmers report the locusts thick in the country. They will do great damage to fruit and shade trees, grass and shrubbery.

PURSUED BY THE PASTOR

Sensational Elopement of a Prominent Buffalo Woman.

HER BROTHER CHASES THE COUPLE

The Young Woman Brought Back Only to Again Escape and Join Her Lover—This Time the Couple Manage to Have the Knot Tied Before the Brother Could Interfere.

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 29.—The northern part of the city known as Kensington is all agog with the story of the elopement of pretty Nellie Shrively and the exciting pursuit made by her brother, Rev. Wm. Shrively, the pastor of the Kensington M. E. church.

Miss Shrively was in love with a young carpenter named Bert Sayles, but her brother disapproved of the match. Saturday night he looked out of his study window and saw the couple making their way rapidly up the street in the rain.

The parson was only partly attired. He opened the window and shouted to his sister to come back. Instead Nellie and Bert started across fields, through the deep grass, the preacher after them without hat, coat or vest. He overtook the couple half a mile from the house.

Young Sayles grappled with him, threw him down, sat on him and cried: "Run, Nellie, run." Nellie did run and took refuge in the house of J. J. Warren. Then Sayles released the preacher and ran. He and Nellie went into the garret of the Warren House, but when Rev. Dr. Shrively arrived Mr. Warren ordered them out.

Sayles refused to go, but was forced to do so by two policemen, leaving Nellie behind. Then Mr. Shrively took his sister by force and put her into Warren's buggy, and made a dash for his home. Sayles ran along behind the carriage and managed to keep up with the horses.

When the buggy drew up in front of the house Nellie jumped out and ran into the house and slammed and locked the door behind her, locking out her brother. Then she ran to the rear door and passed out into the stable. Her brother did not discover her escape until he had searched the whole house.

In the meantime Sayles had joined the girl and they ran all the way to his brother's house on Hill street, where they were married by Rev. James Barry, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

CZAR NICHOLAS' LATEST.

He Issues a Ukase Which Creates Consternation in Russia.

LONDON, May 29.—A St. Petersburg despatch to the Times says: The most important reform of a retrospective and centralizing character yet executed by the present Czar in the administration is announced in the imperial ukase of May 18. The ukase has struck the entire official world of Russia with consternation. It deprives all the Ministers, Governors and other high dignitaries of the power they have hitherto freely exercised of appointing and dismissing their official subordinates of all classes, and establishes, under the Czar's direct supervision, the special committee of control which existed a few years under Czar Nicholas. After November 13 questions of appointments and dismissals must be referred to that committee.

It is not known what really caused the issue of the ukase, but it is rumored that it is in connection with the recent arrests of many minor officials in different departments. It is also reported that the ministers were greatly perturbed when informed that the ukase had been issued.

The new minister of justice wrote a report to the Czar in regard to the decree, and received a sharp answer for his pains. It is further declared that the ministers, who regard the Czar's action as a sign of distrust, met the committee of control, and talked of resigning.

This reform will have two consequences—favoritism in regard to promotions will be rendered impossible, and minor officials cannot be discharged through mere arbitrary caprice of their superiors.

News of political arrests comes from every direction. The police have not been so active in years. It is reported that thirty persons have already been banished to Siberia.

Female Conspirators.

The Daily News correspondent in St. Petersburg writes that the police are still arresting political suspects throughout the empire. The extent of the plot, he says, was greatly under estimated at first. Almost daily the police discover evidence of ramifications hitherto unsuspected. More than fifty boxes of dynamite and numerous bombs have been seized on a coal steamer in a Russian port. They were imported for the use of the conspirators. Upon searching the Baroness Merilhoffs' house the police found a list of women Nihilists, most of whom belong to the higher classes of society. The male cooks in the Imperial household were dismissed suddenly a few days ago because they were suspected of a plot to poison the Czar.

Countess Russell's Suit.

LONDON, May 29.—The case of the Countess Russell, who is suing her husband for the restoration of her conjugal rights, came up in the divorce division of the High Court of Justice. Since the unsuccessful suit for divorce brought by the countess in 1891 the couple have been living apart, but for some reason, although it was shown in the course of the trial that the earl outrageously maltreated her, she desires to return to him. Her application is strenuously opposed by the earl, whose counsel contended that as the countess, in petitioning for a divorce from her husband had falsely charged him with physical cruelty and offences against decency, it would be impossible now for them to live together. Therefore he believed the application ought to be dismissed without a hearing. The judge decided that the action must proceed.

Morocco and Spain.

LONDON, May 29.—The Madrid correspondent of the Central News says "Sultan Muley Hassan of Morocco is preparing to send to Spain an embassy which will ask permission to postpone the operation of the last treaty between Morocco and Spain, especially that part which concerns the punishment of the Riffs for their attacks upon Spaniards at Melilla. The embassy will plead that fresh outbreaks of the rebellious tribes would be provoked by steps to punish the leaders."

Cotton Mills Resume Work.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 29.—Work has been resumed in the St. John cotton mills, the employes accepting the reduction of of wages. The New Brunswick mills will be ready to start on Thursday if the operatives desire to work at reduced wages.

EFFECT OF A CLOUDBURST.

Over One Hundred Thousand Dollars Damage Within an Hour.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—A cloudburst last evening swept the extreme northeastern section of this city and the southern portion of Montgomery county, and within an hour did damage to the amount of over $100,000. The Reading Railroad was a heavy sufferer by the storm, bad washouts blocking three of its divisions. The shoddy mills of Charles E. Markland & Co. were also badly damaged. A stone dam eighteen feet in height on Manor Creek, which supplied William E. Hamilton's paper mill, was burst by the swelling stream and the mass of water swept down through the mill, completely ruining the stock. A row of ten tenements back of Hamilton's mill were flooded to the second floor and their occupants fled for their lives.

Why They Were Not Honored.

LONDON, May 29.—Much surprise has been expressed over the fact that neither Hon. George E. Foster nor Hon. Mackenzie Bowell were included as recipients of birthday honors. In this connection it has been suggested that Hon. Foster's action in regard to the French treaty discounted his other claims to knighthood. Concerning honors for Hon. Mr. Bowell, the correspondent learns they will more fittingly follow the intercolonial conference, which is to open at Ottawa on June 22.

The Samoan Question.

LONDON, May 29.—In the House of Commons Sir Edward Grey, under foreign secretary, denied that the Government had informed anybody that it was the intention of Great Britain to reconsider the Berlin agreement in regard to Samoa; neither was it true that the Government had received any communication from the United States, intimating their desire to redraw from Samoa.

Rebels Routed in Salvador.

Painter—There, now, is my new picture! What's the matter with that, eh? Quiet Friend—I don't know, but I should say that it was a case of art failure.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which, cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY MAY 29.

LORD ABERDEEN'S VISIT.

For the first time in a number of years, the people of Belleville will, this evening, be given an opportunity of welcoming a Governor General of Canada; and that the representative of our beloved Sovereign will be received with that loyalty and hospitality for which the Bay of Quinte district has long been famous, is evidenced by the programme of the arrangements which have been made for his reception and entertainment during his stay amongst us. In Belleville Lord Aberdeen will find the principal centre of trade and population which has grown up in the Bay of Quinte country, which was first settled by the U. E. Loyalists, the descendants of whom will form no inconsiderable portion of the throng which will give him a loyal welcome to our beautiful "City of the Bay," of which, and of its institutions and its people, we are pleased to learn that he will see as much as is possible during his visit.

Whilst Lord Aberdeen will be formally greeted in his official capacity as the direct representative of the throne in Canada, he will find a warm welcome amongst our people because of his own high character as a Christian gentleman and a public man of unspotted reputation. He has proved himself an earnest worker in the cause of humanity, and on behalf of many objects which he deemed deserving, and during his short stay in Canada he has shown himself worthy of his high position. Side by side with him in all good works, assuming public functions and discharging public duties on behalf of her sex, and which but few ladies would have the talent, the courage, or the industry to successfully discharge, has been his amiable Countess, who has won all hearts wherever she has appeared. It is to be regretted that this distinguished lady was unable to visit us at this time; but she will no doubt read with pleasure the references to herself in the addresses, and learn with satisfaction the details of the vice-regal trip to Belleville.

We trust that His Excellency will find occasion in after years to recur with pleasing recollection to his first official visit to Belleville.

The Road Horse of the Future.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

MR. EDITOR,—Kindly insert the following in your valuable paper, "pro bono publico." The advent of pneumatic tires and ball bearings in connection with our buggies and carts, as well as the use of the aluminum metal, "which is as light as wood and seven times as strong as iron" in their construction, also owing to the fact that our roads are being used less and less for the purpose of hauling very heavy loads over and in consequence are getting smoother and better. All this points to the fact that in two or three years hence the road driver will be able to speed a 2:40 clip with more safety and less fatigue to his horse than he can a four minute gait now; consequently the road horses of that day will require to be speedy and the difference in the value of two horses of equal beauty, then the one speedy and the other not will be as two dollars or more is worth more than one. Oh, but, some will say, your horse will soon get sore brushing that fast over the hard roads, but the answer to that is this. They will be shod with aluminum shoes instead of steel shoes and the difference is that steel being a conductor of heat gets hot by the friction on the hard road and bakes the sole of the foot, while the other metal is a non-conductor of heat and cannot get hot, hence the horse does not get road sore, also and the reason lies in the fact that in the States they are constructing roads out of natural earth alone, not using any stone or gravel and running a large tile drain through the centre to dry them quickly after raining and prevent them getting muddy and to prevent heaving by frost, hence the footing will be soft and elastic, also, and the point in the future road horse when brought to perfection will be that he will be a natural born trotter with an abundance of nervous energy, going a quick elastic gait that does not pound or jar the machinery of his frame and cause soreness, but his action will be such that he will trot a flying trot as naturally and as easily as a thoroughbred running horse will run, and the family of trotting bred road horses, that to day nearly approaches the above ideal is the Stamboul family, for Stamboul himself as well as being such a fast trotter is also the ideal gentleman's roadster and driver, and my belief is that those who breed now with these points in view will reap a good reward by the time their colts are matured, for at that time I prophesy that the demand for speedy drivers, that are handsome lookers and hitchers as well, will far exceed the supply. Therefore I say breed to get horses that will be handsome, good actors with lofty carriage and speedy, and the speedier the more valuable will they be.

Yours,
DR. ACKERILL.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—In the notice of the confirmation at St. Thomas' church on Sunday last, you mentioned the name of Mr. Balis as interpreting the service for the Deaf and Dumb candidates. It was Mr. Coleman, not Mr. Balis, who so kindly and efficiently acted as interpreter, and I take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Coleman, and expressing my gratitude to him, for his constant and valuable assistance in my class at the Institute. His aid in my somewhat difficult task, has been so freely and cheerfully given, that I can never forget it. I would also thank Mr. Mathison, the worthy Superintendent, for the constant kindness and courtesy he has shown to me, and the facilities he has afforded me for instructing and preparing my dear pupils at his Institution for confirmation. I would also cordially thank all the other officials who, in connection with this matter, and on all other occasions, have been invariably kind and helpful to me. I remain, yours very truly,

J. W. BURKE, Canon.

CAMPBELLFORD.

May 25.—The Queen's birthday was celebrated here with great enthusiasm, although the morning opened up with rain, which lasted nearly all day. This did not prevent the people from showing their loyalty, for the streets were crowded from early morn until late at night. The Campbellford band was early on the move, and played some lively airs. About ten o'clock, the Peterborough train came in with a great number of visitors, including their excellent band, which had been engaged to help the celebration. On entering the village they did not forget to honor Mr. Owen, our worthy townsman and Warden, with some beautiful music. About noon the rain somewhat abated and the crowd made for the Agricultural grounds, headed by the band. The different games then began, according to the programme, and were carried through lively. It was calculated that 3,000 people were on the grounds, enjoying this popular holiday. The cheering and rejoicing in the evening, far exceeded anything like it ever before heard in this town.—Mr. Cummins, of Trenton, was in town yesterday on business.

MAYNOOTH.

MAY 28.—On the evening of Tuesday last, the store of Gorman Bros. narrowly escaped being burned. A woman was crossing the floor with a lighted lamp when it exploded, setting fire to her clothing. She escaped, however, with little injury.—M. Fitzgerald has bought a new organ.—The cheese factory is flourishing with Mr. Rose as maker and Johnny Carswell as assistant.—The cricket team played at Combermere on the 24th, and were defeated. They are not discouraged, however, and after a little practice will do good playing.—There was an excellent practice game of foot ball played on the same evening.—The concert in the north school house was a success. Despite the heavy downpour of rain that set in early in the evening, about ninety people were present. The programme consisting of music, recitations, readings, dialogues, and tableau, was well executed. A recitation entitled "The dunce stool", given by F. Aykroyd and a class of eight boys, brought forth peals of laughter, but perhaps the most ludicrous recitation given was T. Mangan's "Looking through the window in the rain", Mr. Mangan's dramatic talents were well exemplified in this piece and called forth the praise of all present. The music supplied by the choir and our little folks was highly appreciated, together with recitations by Messrs. Wood, Lawson, Barr, and Williams and Miss Murdock. The proceeds of the concert are to be expended in procuring a library for the school. Mr. F. Aykroyd the teacher, has proposed to give a public school picnic on June 30th, and it is expected all will acquiesce.—John Haggart shot a large bear on Thursday last.—M. McLaren saw one crossing the fields a few days ago and got close enough to it to have hit it with a stick, but unfortunately he had no gun.—Deer tracks are quite plentiful and rabbits are very numerous.—The boys are looking forward to a good time this fall hunting.

UNCLE SAM'S WORST ENEMY

Senator Frye Talks Jingoism in the American Senate.

FAVORS ALL ON THE STATES' SIDE

Canada Keeps Up a System of Nagging—Discussion of an Amendment Offered to Put a Duty on Sawed Boards and Lumber—The Schedule Debated but No Vote Reached.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—In the Senate the lumber schedule of the tariff bill was discussed. Mr. Hale offered an amendment to put a duty of $1 per thousand feet on sawed boards, and on lumber $2 per thousand feet. Mr. Hale said if the duty was to be put on coal and iron ore, he did not see why the great lumber interest should be left out.

Mr. Frye said Canada was one of the worst enemies the United States had. She was too small for us to fight, and had, therefore, instituted and kept up a system of "nagging," like that of tearing down the American flag the other day and distributing its pieces through the streets.

Mr. Frye said he had no sympathy with the men who had been arrested for violating the laws that had been passed to protect the fish for sportsmen, and he hoped Canada would inflict upon them the highest punishment it could under the law. But, notwithstanding the fact that Canadian interests were opposed to those of this country, Mr. Frye said the United States was constantly doing her favors, and the latest attempt in that line was the putting of lumber on the free list. With free iron, coal and lumber Canada would drive half the American shipping from the great lakes.

The discussion continued up to noon without reaching a vote, and then Mr. Walsh (Dem., Ga.) addressed the senate on the general subject of the tariff.

REFORM CAMPAIGN OPENED.

Sir Oliver Mowat Follows Mr. Meredith—Speech at London.

LONDON, May 29.—A meeting in the Reform interests was held here last night, addressed by Sir Oliver Mowat and others. The Government is making an effort to wrest the city from Mr. Meredith, and the object of the Premier in opening the campaign for the Reformers in this constituency was to counteract the profound impression created by the leader of the Opposition at the big meeting here last week. Sir Oliver touched on the various questions at issue, and enumerated his policy, outlined as follows:

He assured the ladies present of his sympathy in the movement for granting the suffrage to women, and took credit for the fact that at present certain women in Ontario already had that privilege, and although the time is not yet ripe for a much further advance in this respect, he was glad to be able to think that it was ripening and that it would not be long before every woman as well as every man had the privilege of voting. He then took up the question of prohibition and said that the time had come when the experiment should be tried and he believed they would have no trouble in supporting it. No evil that affects the community of this day exceeds in magnitude that of intemperance. All admitted that, and the only question is as to what means can be adopted for lessening those evils. All knew his views on the question. There might be difficulties in enforcing the law, but his view was that they should shoulder those difficulties and not despair of finding a way of conquering them. He announced that as far as he was concerned, and as far as it concerns those who in this matter might follow him, or whom he might influence, he proposed, provided the Privy Council decides that he had the jurisdiction, to pass such a law, and he was sure that in passing such a measure and in their efforts to enforce it, they would have the moral support of the women of this country as well as of a large portion of the men of the country.

Taking up questions of general politics he remarked that he desired all to be well informed of what had been done to enable them to exercise the franchise at the approaching elections with impartial conscientiousness. They had heard one side of the question a few days ago, and he had come to give them the other view. As to what his government had accomplished for the province he declared that in all the twenty years of his administration the Opposition had utterly failed to prove any charge of boodling by his government. The charge of partisanship in connection with the education department he denied. Three million dollars of a surplus had been left them by the Sandfield Macdonald government, but Sir Oliver maintained that several times this amount had been spent by his government in aiding railways and other enterprises. In all cases it could be shown that the resources of the province, rather than having been squandered as the Opposition had charged, were fully and carefully husbanded. The Government House question had occupied considerable attention this year. In regard to this matter, he said that when the people through their representatives declared that the institution should cease to exist then it would be wiped out. The people would instruct their representatives as to their wishes in the matter and their members would act. Sir Oliver combatted Mr. Meredith's theory of biennial sessions. The leader of the Opposition had received the idea from the States; yet that imported idea was not based on a knowledge of the facts existing in those States where it was in vogue. No practical benefit could be derived, he considered, and no public interest served by the adoption of the idea in the province of Ontario. He spoke of the necessity of an annual audit session in provincial affairs, which was as necessary as the annual inspection of a bank. He referred to the fight in Britain between the Sovereign and the people to procure for the latter the privilege of holding annual sessions. Every democratic country in the world, with the exception of individual states of the union, insisted on annual sessions. He opposed biennial sessions as a matter of duty and not in consideration of the Government's comfort, as in the event of that system being adopted it would leave them free from Parliament and their opponents for two years.

The ballot system, which the Opposition had singled out for attack, was certainly a secret one. He defended the system most strongly, as, despite Opposition remarks to the contrary, it was a most efficient and adequate system. It is in the public interest. He claimed it prevented the practice of ballot-stuffing, whereas the Dominion system really invited the recording of false votes. The system of the Mowat Government was the British system, and no one ever hears of such cries as lack of secrecy in England, Scotland and Ireland, where the system is identically the same.

The Opposition claimed that the Department of Education should be separate from the government. With regard to this, it was the late Dr. Ryerson's idea that of having a Minister of Education, and he showed wherein it was an advantage to have the head of the department in the House to defend his administration of the important affairs under his control.

Sir Oliver defended the recent action of himself and colleagues in regard to the proposal to have a ballot for the election of school trustees, and closed his speech by declaring that in reality his was the "equal rights party."

Messrs. Hardy, Hyman and Gibbons followed Sir Oliver in defence of the stewardship of the Government and in support of Mr. Hobbs as representative for the city in the Legislature.

SURELY COMING.

FATAL TO THE BABIES

LACTATED FOOD A GRAND PREVENTIVE OF SICKNESS.

Hot water coming; those spells of heat that are so fatal to the babies, and that produce such death-dealing troubles, will soon be felt. The babies of large towns and cities suffer more than country babies, because they have less fresh air, and general surroundings are not so favorable for health.

During the intense heat, thousands of little ones are depending on cow's milk, which often is filled with the germs of disease, and many are fed on artificial foods that are positively worthless, and which are responsible for many of the grave troubles that afflict the tender infants.

The infants who pass safely through the perils of summer heat, are those whose daily nourishment is Lactated Food. The scientific food is a preventive of cholera infantum, diarrhœa and dysentery. When Lactated Food is regularly used the work of flesh building goes on in summer as well and as regularly as at any other season. Lactated Food is baby's best friend when the sweltering heat makes town and city life a burden.

Try Lactated Food for your dear one thd summer, mother; give it a week's trial, ane you will have reason to heartily thank the scientist that gave such a blessing to this world.

GILEAD.

MAY 28.—Building operations are being pushed here at present.—Mr. H. A. Fairman, P. M., is repairing his barn.—Mr. J. R. Sheffield is fixing his house and Mr. P. Ross, is building a new barn.—A new fence around our school yard adds greatly to the appearance of the already neat grounds.—Messrs. B. Fairman and J. Badgley of Carmel had the contract.—The remains of the late Miss Mary McLaren, daughter of Mr. Wm. McLaren, of Melrose, were interred in the Presbyterian cemetery here on Saturday last. Services were held in the church, by Rev. Mr. McArthur, of Melrose.—After a short but very painful illness, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Way, of Bethany, died on Friday night, aged 9 years. Services were held on Sunday in the Methodist church by Rev. W. Young, after which the remains were interred in Palmer's burying ground. The funeral was largely attended.—The Presbyterian choir took a fishing excursion to Point Ann on the 24th.—A great quantity of milk is daily received at the Bronk factory, but Mr. Latta and his assistants, Messrs. Simmons and Ray, are fully capable of handling it. Ed. Walsh is going to put on three horses if his load gets much heavier.—A kind of "junior la grippe" prevails here. Several are suffering from it.—There being communion at Roslin, no services were held in St. Andrew's church last Sunday.—Our local Oddfellows attended the service at Shannonville last Sunday.—Mr. Ferguson York and family spent last week with friends in Addington Co.—Mr. Sidney Way, of Chapman, was the guest of Mr. Jas. Sheffield, last Sunday.—Mr. Hurst of Picton, agent for the Mathews Pump Co., spent the day at Mr. John Huffman's.

PLAINFIELD.

MAY 28.—The 24th at Plainfield was not very dull. The principal attraction through the day was the small boys and the fire crackers, but at night there was a grand display of fire works till about 10:30, when everything became quiet till near 12 o'clock, when there was another fire alarm, which resulted in the destruction of Mrs. Gillespie's barn and contents.—Mr. W. J. Taylor, of the Tweed News, gave us a call.—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Outwaters, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hicks and Mr. Marley Gould, spent the day in Campbellford.—Sunday, the 27th, the A. O. U. W's., of Plainfield, met at their lodge room at 2 p.m., and, with several members of the Moira Lodge, marched to the West Methodist church, where the Rev. Mr. Marshall, of Belleville, preached from 1st Timothy 4th chap. and 8th verse, "For bodily exercise profiteth little, but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come." His sermon was delivered in fine style, and was appreciated by all who were there. He was supported on the platform by the Rev. T. C. Wilson, of Colborne, who preached in the evening in the East church from St John 10th chap. and 14th verse, "I am the good Shepherd and know My sheep and am known of Mine." He preached one of the grandest sermons that has been delivered in our village in a long time.—Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson Badgely spent Sunday at Shannonville.

Those who use Cottolene will be healthier and wealthier than those who use lard—Healthier because they will get "shorter" bread; wealthier because they will get "shorter" grocery bills—for Cottolene costs no more than lard and goes twice as far—so is but half as expensive.

A telegram was received here this morning from North Fairhaven, stating that the schrs. "Katie Eccles" and "O. S. Storrs" had just cleared for Belleville with two of the finest cargoes of the famous Lehigh Valley coal that ever crossed the lake. This coal is for S. A. Lazier & Sons.

Although it is not claimed that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures every ill to which flesh is heir, yet, as a matter of fact, it comes nearer doing this than any other medicine ever compounded. In purifying the blood, it removes the source of nearly all disorders of the human system.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis, and the first stage of consumption. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at druggist's.

The following telegram was received at Marchmont Home this Morning:

Rev. Robt. Wallace, Marchmont Home, Belleville.

His Excellency regrets reply your letter of the 15th inst. was accidentally omitted. Would have liked to visit the Home if possible, but afraid it may be difficult to find time on this occasion. Please consult Reception Committee.

PRIVATE SECRETARY,
Government House, Ottawa.

THE SCHOOL CHILDREN'S RECEPTION.

The programme for His Excellency's reception by the school children to-morrow morning will be about as follows: His Excellency will be driven to the edge of the sidewalk, where a large tree marks the centre of the grounds, where he will be received by Mr. Hugh Walker, Chairman of the Board of Education, and Mgr. Farrelly, Chairman of the Separate School Board. These gentlemen will escort him to the dais in front of the school building, the walk being lined on either side by the High School pupils and by the children of the Public and Separate schools. A number of little girls—one from each school—will precede them, strewing their path with flowers. After His Excellency ascends the dais the members of the School Board will be presented to him, after which the children will sing the national anthem. Following this, a few words of welcome from the children of the Public and Separate schools will be read by two young girls chosen for that service, namely Miss Lily B. Johnson (daughter of Mr. Wm. Johnson) for the former, and Miss Katie Brennan (grand-daughter of Mr. James Cummins) for the latter. After His Excellency's reply the children will sing "The Maple Leaf For Ever," and His Excellency will then take his departure for the Hospital and Home.

The chairs for the dais will be furnished by G. S. Tickell & Sons.

Mr. Corby, M.P., has placed his steam yacht Ometa at the disposal of the committee for a trip to the Murray Canal and Massassaga Park to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The invitations and all other arrangements are in the hands of the committee.

Merchants generally have been busy all day decorating their premises, and some pretty effects have been produced with evergreens, bunting and flags. The arch at the corner of Hotel and Front Sts., is a credit to those merchants who subscribed towards its erection. Flags are flying from nearly every flagstaff in the city and the city has a truly holiday appearance.

Mr. Thos. Ritchie's residence and grounds have presented a busy scene since early morning. Workmen have been busy arranging the decorations both outside and in, and when the hundreds of Chinese lanterns and colored lights shine forth on the darkness this evening it will present a brilliant scene and one well worthy the distinguished guest who will rest within the walls of this noble old house. At the gateway and main entrance to the house arches have been erected of finely cut evergreens, and over the portal arch is the motto "Fortuna Sequatur."

His Excellency will arrive at 5 o'clock this evening from the east and will be accompanied by Capt. Hon. Marjoribanks and Capt. B. C. Urquhart, aides de camp, and W. T. S. Hewett, private secretary. He will no doubt be welcomed by a large number of our citizens.

His Excellency will be received by the Reception Committee and a Guard of Honor and thence escorted to the residence of Thos. Ritchie, Esq., via. Railway Station Road, Mill, Front, Bridge, Charles, Hotel and John Streets.

The drill shed, where the programme of this evening will be carried out, has been most tastefully decorated and will be ready for his reception at the appointed hour. The addresses from the City Council and Albert College will be read to his Excellency, after which he will hold a reception. A list of those presented will appear in to-morrow's issue.

The guard of honor will be furnished from No. 1 Company 49th Batt., Major Harrison commanding, and the escort will consist of a detachment from troop D of cavalry, Picton, Capt. Hugh McCulloch.

Mr. J. J. B. Flint will act as Chief Marshal of the procession both this evening and to-morrow.

LINE OF ROUTE FOR WEDNESDAY.

From Mr. Ritchie's residence, down Bridge to Church, up Church to High School, from High School to Hotel, up Hotel to George, down George to Dundas, thence to Hospital; returning on Dundas to Foster Ave., up to Bridge, down to Front, up Front to upper Bridge, along Moira to Marchmont, down Yeomans to West Bridge, thence to Commercial St., thence to Institute.

J. J. B. FLINT,
Marshal.

North Hastings.

A largely attended political meeting was held on the 28th inst. at the Rawdon Town Hall, called in the interest of Mr. Haggerty, who took occasion to make personal charges against Mr. Wood, which that gentleman refuted in a manner convincing to a large majority of the electors present, who were in favor of Mr. Wood's candidature.

The Township of Rawdon can be depended upon to give an old-time majority in favor of Mr. Wood, the nominee of the Conservative Association.

Off the Track.

An engine attached to a freight train from the west this morning, in charge of driver Walker, of Toronto, ran off the track at the G.T.R. station here and tore up the track for some distance and shook the engine up considerably. The switchman at the west end had turned the train on the wrong track and it ran into an open switch. No person was hurt, but had the train been going at any speed the results would no doubt have been serious.

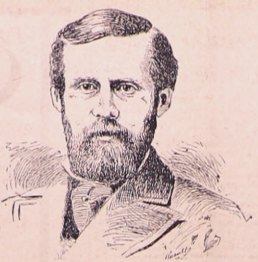
Col. Cotton, D.A.G., is in the city officially to take over the 15th Batt., on the 31st., preliminary to its reorganization.

Mr. A. Huffman has made an arrangement with Mr. Lake for his omnibus livery for the Huffman House and Mr. Lake has put on a beautiful new bus to-day.

The firemen were called out shortly after two o'clock this afternoon to put out a blaze in a barn on Church St. in Foster ward. The building was badly burned.



THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The Right Honorable Sir John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen, &c., Governor General of Canada, comes of a family which has its roots in centuries long past. He is a direct lineal descendant of the archer whose arrow slew King Richard the Lion-Hearted before the castle of Charlus in Perigord. A gulf of seven centuries stretches between the fatal shot of Bertrand de Gourdeon and the present day, but it is bridged by the history of a single family, and the soughing of the Canadian wind among the pines seem to bring with it the far-away echoes of Blondel's song and the clash of the Crusader's sword on the Moslem helm in the Crusade.

There are authorities who trace the Gordon genealogy much farther back than the days of Richard I, and state that the Gordons were in Aberdeen before the Norman William conquered England.

The associations between the Gordons and this continent date back for two centuries to the time when John Gordon of Haddo was created a baronet of Nova Scotia by King Charles I. The Gordons were staunch Loyalists in the struggle between King and Parliament.

The most notable name among all the ancestors of the Governor-General is that of his grandfather, the Earl of Aberdeen, Prime Minister of England in the middle of this century, whose official career came to a close amid the dark clouds of the Crimean war.

One of the family fell at Waterloo, at the age of 23, and the Gordons have often distinguished themselves in early life. The ancestor referred to as being Prime Minister of England in 1854 stoutly opposed the declaration of war against Russia, and never forgave himself for the share which he eventually had in bringing it about. So deeply did he take it to heart that he refused to rebuild the church at Methlick, saying that he would leave the work to his son. It was not known why he did this until after his death, when it was found that he shrank from building a church, owing to the share he had taken in the war. The suggestion came to him from the text in the Book of Chronicles: "And David said to Solomon, my son, as for me, it was in my mind to build an house unto the name of the Lord my God, but the Word of the Lord came to me saying thou hast shed blood abundantly and hast made great wars, thou shalt not build a house unto my name because thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight."

The Governor General is the third son of the 5th Earl of Aberdeen. His eldest brother the sixth Earl abandoned the name and rank at Boston, shipped as a sailor on a merchantman, and for several years earned his living before the mast. In 1870 he was knocked overboard by a rope and drowned.

The present Earl was born in 1847. He is an expert locomotive engineer and was nominated to a position on a Royal commission to inquire into railway accidents, soon after his entry into public life. A little later he was placed on a Royal commission appointed to inquire into the wholesale destruction of sailors' lives by sending "coffin ships" to sea, on which commission he was chairman. He vacated this position to assume the responsibilities of the vice-royalty of Ireland in 1886. As viceroy of Ireland he won the warmest love and esteem of the Irish people, as he has won his way already to the hearts of Canadians.

The Countess of Aberdeen, who is now on the ocean homeward bound, for a short stay, is the daughter of the late Sir Dudley Coutts Marjoribanks, Lord Tweedmouth, and claims descent from not only the ancient kings of Scotland, but also from those of Ireland through the O'Neills, of Tyrone. Hers is a Liberal family. Her father was a son of the well known Mr. Edward Marjoribanks, who up to the age of 94, transacted all the heavy duties falling to the lot of senior partner in such a bank as Coutts'. Her mother was a daughter of Sir James Hogg, one of the props of the old East India Council. She was married to Lord Aberdeen in 1877, and has since taken a prominent part in the social life of society in the countries in which she and the Earl have officially resided. She is the only example of the wife of a Governor-General coming prominently before the people.

In nearly every corner of the globe the names of Lord and Lady Aberdeen are known and blessed by thousands whom their kindness and charity have succored. Lady Aberdeen is celebrated for her connection with the National Council of Women, of which she was the founder. Her daughter, little Lady Marjorie, is almost as widely known through her editorship of "Wee Willie Winkle," a specimen of what a children's paper should be.

Heintzman & Co.'s Perfect Transposing Piano.

The greatest musical invention of the age—unanimously pronounced by the press and all leading artists to be the piano of the future. Transposes any music into any key, by a simple lever movement, in a second. With this unique and simple invention, a transposing piano is no longer a chimera, or a mere object of experimental interest, but an accomplished fact, and is, theoretically and practically, perfection. With this invention we can accomplish that which has long been desired by practical men, viz. the adjustibility of pitch, especially since the adoption of the French pitch. By this plan the performer, while playing the same keys, is enabled to render the music in all the different keys with regard to pitch; at the same time the change may be produced by the slightest effort, the key-board being operated by a lever within reach of the performer and the change of pitch being produced in a second's time. Music played as written may be rendered in any of the various keys desired. All music can be played in the scale or key of "C" and its relative "A" Minor, and rendered in all the various keys and scales as written. Simplifies the playing of music, is perfectly adapted to all the different systems of music. The Transposing Piano may be set so the pitch will be in unison with the Singer's Voice, Violin, or any Wind Instrument, and is therefore highly suitable for use, not only in private houses, but also in Theatres and Concert Halls. The Piano does not get out of tune nor does it affect the action in the slightest degree. The mechanism is of so simple a character that its liability to derangement, or to get out of order, is practically nil. The ingenious intention enables Vocalists to practice any Music even though not written for their particular compass, thus opening up a wide area of delightful study. Ware-rooms Nos. 20 and 22 Hotel Street, next to B. B. College. 24d1w.

The Daisy Lyric Club.

It is expected that His Excellency and suite will enter the Opera House at 8 p.m. The curtain will rise about that time. His Excellency proceeds immediately to the Opera House from Mr. Ritchie's residence after he returns from the trip on the bay. The Club feels it an honor to be thus chosen to entertain Lord Aberdeen, and will do all in its power to make the entertainment worthy of our city. It remains for the citizens to make a good showing and one which will also be worthy our city that has been so highly honored by a visit from Her Majesty's representative. The dancing of Mr. John McIntosh, whom, it is said, has danced before the Queen, will be an agreeable feature, as will be the bagpipe playing of Mr. Wm. McIntosh in full regalia. The prices are 35, 25 and 15cts, and the proceeds are to be given to some public charity.

Oak Hall for Boys' Suits.

The Oak Hall have had a great many customers remark recently: How handy it is, to be able always to get just what one wants in boys' clothing, and get it at once. In buying boys' suits for the reception of Lord Aberdeen, most parents decided in a hurry that their boy must look nice. The Oak Hall with their large assortment of all sizes and colors of suits, come handy very often.

DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

The Hunter and Crossley Meetings in Their Last Hours.

The largest Monday evening congregation yet met last evening in Bridge St. church to hear Messrs. Crossley and Hunter. Mr. Hunter spoke on the ten "I wills" of the new testament. First, the "I will" of welcome, John 6—37. Come and Christ will receive you. Second, the "I will" of Calvary. John 12—32. How Jesus Christ does draw us as the light draweth a plant. He is the life of the world. Third, "I will" of pardon, Mathew 11—28. We are all looking for rest, rest for our souls. Fourth, the "I will" of prayer, John 14—13. God does not always answer prayer as we would like or expect, but there is not on record a case of unanswered prayer. Your prayer may not be answered in your lifetime, but it will be answered. Fifth, the "I will" of work, Matthew iv. 19. I would rather be a soul-winner, as I am, than the Governor General, or the Queen of England. Sixth, the "I will" of cleansing, Matt. viii., 2 & 3 What we need is a cleansing of heart in the church, and we will have better results. Seventh, the "I will" of healing; Jesus said, "I will come and heal him". If any of my family were ill, I would call in the best physician I could get; but I don't forget to call on the heavenly physician. Eighth, the "I will" of comfort; "I will not leave you comfortless." We all need a little comfort and sympathy. Ninth, the "I will" of coming; "I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am, there ye may be also," &c. Tenth, the "I will" of heaven. Mr. Crossley sang "Peace, be still."

Mr. Crossley's sermon was based on the question found in Matt. xxvii. 22, "What shall I then do with Jesus?" Different people are answering this question in many different ways. Some say they will not receive him—not in words, perhaps, but in your heart and by your actions. If you are not a christian, or seeking to be one, you are saying you will not receive Him. Some are rejecting Him by keeping away from the meetings, and those who are anxious about you. Some are denying Christ by acts and words as did Peter, and your example is not elevating to the church. Some of you have deserted Christ. Back slider, where are you? Once you were with Him, but now you have deserted Him. The Lord has no harsh words for you. He is waiting to welcome you back. Others are selling and betraying Christ as Judas did, by letting something stand between you and salvation. There are few here who can throw a stone at Judas. Some are shirking the responsibility of betraying Christ as Judas did. Judas washed his hands and Pontius Pilate took upon himself the responsibility of Christ's death. There is only one way you can realize that Jesus is yours, and that is by receiving Him.

The after meeting, as usual, was interesting and many found their way to the inquiry room.

ROBERT MACAIRE
FOUNDED ON THE PLAY L'AUBERGE DES ADRETS
A NOVEL

"My good friends, one and all, I thank you. I have been so long a stranger to the sweet enchantments of the tender hospitality of our dear France that I did not realize at the first the genuine kindness of your welcome. Let me now atone. Let me put on record my sincere opinion that the jewel which I sought in vain in the court of France and among the noblest courts of Europe I have found here enshrined in this loveliest casket of nature's own devising. But enough of this. The wayworn stranger thanks you from the bottom of his weary heart. My friends, I do not seek to know your affairs—nay, I do not even know your names. I am content to receive you as you are, without guarantee of any sort or kind. You are honest, like myself. You are perhaps, some of you, in trouble and have suffered even as I have myself. You ask no questions. I ask no questions. We are from henceforth friends, and as such I mingle with you freely. Here and hereafter I am a simple citizen of Charmont-sur-Pont."

No better instance could be given of the absolute guilelessness of these simple folk than the fact that they received in faith and with gratitude this appalling piece of sheer impudence. They all made low bows or courtesies and rejoiced in their hearts and on their countenances.

Presently he said:

"The night comes on, and I must stay somewhere. You mentioned the name, I think, if my memory served me right, of one Beaumont, at whose house you thought it well that I should rest. Is he here, or shall some of you conduct me to him?"

This speech settled the matter. Not only had he deftly quartered himself in the most desirable spot in the village and by the public desire, but he had in an indirect way by renewing the matter of his accommodation himself given a gentle reproof for their tardiness. How could any one after this venture to ask him any questions, although all were burning with curiosity to know something of him? As yet they did not know even his name.

So it was that the stranger became installed in the best house in the village as an honored guest. Farmer Beaumont made much of him, producing for his benefit the best wine he had, while his wife and their daughter—an only child now, for the boy and girl who had preceded her had both died young—prepared a tasty supper and spread for his bed their finest sheets.

The supper and the wine, especially the latter, seemed to thaw the stranger's reserve, for without being asked he told them his name, doing it in such a manner that he seemed to be conferring a favor.

"You will doubtless, my good friends, like to know my name. Well, a man, no matter who he may be, must not be a churl to those who have taken him to their hearts."

Here Marie blushed and turned away her head.

"You may call me—remember that I say it freely—you may call me Robert!"

"Robert what or Robert who?" asked the farmer.

"Easy, my good friend! Such knowledge might be of inestimable value. But why, I say again, should I scruple to tell even such a thing to one who for aught any of us can tell may some day be close to my heart, through some one he loves, even as I feel I am close to his and to the hearts of those dear to him?"

Here the farmer scratched his head. His wife settled her cap strings, and Marie again turned away her head.

The stranger went on:

"The name you long so eagerly to hear is none other than the proud name of Macaire!"

As he spoke it he threw himself back in his chair with an ineffable air of toleration at their surprise on hearing such a name, quite regardless of the fact that not one of those present, from the farmer himself down to the half silly cousin who sat hugging himself in the chimney corner, manifested the slightest or faintest measure of surprise, interest or any kindred emotion. Nevertheless the effect was just what he had calculated on, for seeing him expecting to see surprise they all tried to exhibit some and blamed themselves for their own ignorance in not knowing the name, which thus gained vastly in importance.

It was only natural that when the next day the Beaumont family imparted the secret of the stranger's name, with various degrees of confidence, they should expect to find in their listeners an equal degree of surprise, and it was only natural also that they, being a simpler people, should have expressed in words their sense of disappointment. Thus it came to pass that in the village of Charmont-sur-Pont the name of Robert Macaire came to be regarded as one fraught with an honor all its own, and that the importance of the owner of it grew with an ever increasing rapidity.

Macaire remained at the house of Beaumont, and by borrowing a reasonable sum of money from his host as a personal favor to him and by various purchases of clothing effected in the neighboring hamlets on his account—for he would not leave the place even for a few hours—he began to make a better appearance.

Hitherto the rustic youths had regarded Marie with distant love. They had not ventured to lay their stricken hearts at her feet, but had contented or rather discontented themselves by admiring afar off the beauty which they dared not approach. Now, however, with the sight of a rival—for as such they of course regarded him—lovers regard every one as a rival, and rightly so, when they have not the courage to speak out for themselves—before them installed in the house, and their possible chances fading into nothing, they began to grow more courageous and to come closer to the object of their adoration, although they did not dare to speak.

There was one important exception to this rule, a bright eyed, keen witted young fellow called Pierre Lamar, the son of a well to do farmer. He was somewhat younger than the rest of Marie's silent suitors, and he had hitherto refrained from speaking to her of his love from the natural diffidence of youth, but for some time it had been half understood between the old folk that if the young people should care to make it a match there would not be any objection experienced from the seniors.

Pierre became more ardent in his wooing, and although Marie had all a woman's natural gift in the way of protection by keeping a declaration away took her all her time to prevent the young man from declaring himself. Robert Macaire did not like the constant attention which was involved in the young man's passion and tried to keep him away, but all in vain, until by his delaying to declare his own intentions Marie prompted Cupid with a little jealousy.

As Pierre's hopes began to grow Robert awoke to the necessity of the case, and as a preliminary asked Marie to give Pierre his conge. This she did, protesting that she did not know why she should do so. Pierre was therefore kept strictly among the crowd who in the evening were permitted to come to the foot of their idol.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The Medicine for Liver and Kidney Complaint.—Mr. Victor Auger, Ottawa, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending to the general public Parmelee's Pills, as a cure for Liver and Kidney complaint. I have doctored for the last three years with leading physicians and have taken many medicines which were recommended to me without relief, but after taking eight of Parmelee's Pills I was quite relieved, and now I feel as free from the disease as before I was troubled."

M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Manitoba writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day.

Somehow a man feels much worse the day after he has lost an hour's sleep on account of the baby than he does the day after he has lost five hours' sleep at the club.

I HAD a severe cold, for which I took Norway Pine Syrup. I find it an excellent remedy, giving prompt relief and pleasant to take.

"For Years,"

Says CARRIE E. STOCKWELL, of Chesterfield, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of the chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was laid on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."

LIBERALS AND THE LORDS

The Agitation in England Commented Upon by Lord Salisbury.

LORD ROSEBERY'S HOPELESS PLAN

The Responsibility of the Upper Chamber in Harmonizing the House of Commons With the Wishes of the People—The Question of Abolition Only in the Power of the People.

LONDON, May 30.—Lord Salisbury in a speech in London last evening referred to the agitation against the House of Lords. He said he believed that it was perfectly hopeless to try to sweep away the House of Lords and equally hopeless to try to reform the House of Lords according to Lord Rosebery's plan. He expected to hear throughout the remainder of his life that the united strength of the Liberal party was going to abolish the Lords, and he ventured to prophesy that the Liberal party would live upon this promise for many years.

John Morley, he said, seemed to think that the Conservatives regarded the Lords as a bulwark to resist the current of popular passion. He (the speaker) would not claim any such power for the Lords. He believed that nothing could oppose a bulwark to popular passion except an arrangement for deliberate and careful reference of any matter in dispute to the votes of the people, like the arrangements existing in the United States and Switzerland. But that was not the greatest use of any second or upper parliamentary chamber. What such a chamber had to meet was not popular passion but parliamentary intrigue.

It was the function of the second chamber to ensure that the concessions made by the government to secure the votes of its supporting groups did not result in legislation dangerous to the public weal. If the country desired to hear less of the House of Lords and to make it less dominant it must take care that the actions of the House of Commons harmonized with the wishes of the people, especially with the wishes of the people of England. Any House of Commons heartily backed by the people of England would never have much reason to complain of the House of Lords.

FOR IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

Annual Meeting of the Canadian League Held in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, May 30.—The annual meeting of the Imperial Federation League in Canada was held in the Parliament buildings. Lieut.-Col. George T. Dennison, Toronto, president, occupied the chair. The acting secretary, Mr. George Evans, Toronto, read the annual report. It stated that the dissolution of the council of the league in London was a severe blow at the branch in Canada. A circular from Sir John Lubbock, president of the London branch of the league, submitted as a basis of a policy upon which the league could be reconstructed: "That in order to secure the permanent unity of the empire some form of federation is necessary that any scheme of imperial federation should combine the resources of the empire for the maintainance of common interests and provide for organized defence of common rights, and should embrace a commercial union based as nearly as practicable upon free trade throughout the empire."

Mr. McGoun, of Montreal, moved that the above scheme commended itself to the Canadian branch, provided the trade paragraph of the scheme be defined as follows: "That any scheme of imperial federation should embrace a commercial union as necessary to its strength and permanency, that such union should be based as nearly as practical upon free trade throughout the Empire, and upon the imposition of an extra ad valorem duty on foreign imports, with few exceptions, to provide funds for Imperial defence."

This resolution was amended by making "free trade" "freer trade," and the words "ad valorem" were struck out.

SERIOUS FLOODS AT THE COAST.

Great Destruction to Property and Loss of Life Reported.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30—There has been great destruction of property in British Columbia along the Frazer River and its numerous tributaries On the flood which covers many thousands of acres of rich land float the debris of homes, costly dikes and bridges. Loss of life is reported. Hundreds of people have gone to the high lands for safety or are harbored on rafts. The flooded region embraces 50 miles along the banks of the Frazer from New Westminster. All crops are in ruins and it is reported that the great Canadian Pacific railroad bridge at Revelstoke and another at Mission City are gone.

The Pleuro-Pneumonia Question.

LONDON, May 30.—In the House of Commons Mr. Henry Gardner, President of the Board of Agriculture, in reply to a question put by a member with reference to the exclusion of Canadian cattle from Britain, said that the lungs of an animal which had been landed on the 20th inst. and slaughtered on the 23rd were found to present, what had been stated, as an appearance of pleuro-pneumonia. This, however, could only be treated as an unconfirmed report at present. A most careful and searching examination was being conducted, and a number of persons whose evidence could be regarded as of the highest value, had been asked to assist at the inspection and take careful notes of the appearances presented, but no decision had yet been reached as to whether those appearances justified the suspicion that pleuro-pneumonia had been traced or otherwise.

Political Affairs in Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 30.—The Legislature has been prorogued until Thursday, July 7. It is believed that prorogation will result in an understanding with the British Government which will ensure the passing of the new revenue bill, the old bill expiring June 10. This is necessary, else the colony's finances will be completely disorganized. The British Government will probably compel the Whitewayites to consent to passage by threat of passing an act themselves. Colonial Secretary Morine has taken two more libel suits of $20,000 against the Telegram for accusing him of starting sectarianism and stuffing ballot boxes.

Earthquake in Italy.

ROME, May 30.—The town of Viggianello, in Basilicata, was shaken by an earthquake yesterday. A number of houses were destroyed, but so far as learned no persons were killed. The terrified inhabitants, fearing other shocks, have fled from their homes and are encamped in the fields near the town.

BRITAIN WANTS A FOOTHOLD.

American Politicians View Britain's Intrigues With Apprehension.

NEW YORK, May 30.—A City of Mexico special says: The actions of British diplomatic agents in Central America are attracting attention here. It is believed England intends to secure a foothold near the proposed Nicaragua canal. Reports from various sources in Central America agree in regard to British Minister Gosling's influence at Managua.

Great Britain, under the guise of protecting her interests, it is feared, will secure substantial control of an important piece of territory, hoping later on to confirm her title by treaty.

Central American politicians view with apprehension British intrigues in Nicaragua, fearing a repetition of British actions in Venezuela.

By a recent treaty with Mexico Great Britain gained undisputed possession of Belize, otherwise known as British Honduras, which the Mexicans long regarded as properly belonging to their country. The advantages Mexico gains by the treaty are the amicable settlement of a long disputed question and protection for her citizens on the Yucatan peninsula from the attacks of savages, instigated by British colonists in Belize, who for many years have been furnishing arms and ammunition to Indians for raids into Yucatan.

British diplomacy has not been so active in Central America since the period of gold discovery in California.

AMERICAN TARIFF.

Amendments to the Lumber Schedule Discussed and Rejected.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The tariff bill was taken up in the Senate, the question being on the amendments offered by Senators Hale (Rep., Me.,) and Pfeffer (Pop., Kas.,) to the lumber schedule. The matter was discussed at great length, and finally came to a vote. The amendments offered by Senators Pfeffer and Hale were rejected, and then Mr. Hale offered another amendment reducing the existing duty on sawed lumber from $2 to $1 per thousand feet. This amendment was also rejected.

After some remarks by Mr. Hill (Dem., New York), defending his votes for free lead and free iron ore, and declaring that he so voted without any idea of gratifying any lead trust or any iron trust,

Mr. Allen (Pop., Nebraska) offered an amendment putting on the free list logs, lumber, shingles and such building materials as are commonly used in the construction of dwelling houses, barns and fences. Without action on Mr. Allen's amendment the bill was laid aside with the arrangement by unanimous consent that the lumber schedule will be disposed of to-morrow without any further discussion.

M'WHERRELL'S SENTENCE RESPITED.

His Execution Postponed Till After Walker's Trial.

OTTAWA, May 30.—The Dominion Cabinet yesterday discussed the weight of evidence offered against William Walter MacWherrell, convicted of the murder of James Williams and his wife, near Port Credit, on Dec. 14 last. The arguments of the counsel, Mr. T. C. Robinette, had been fully considered by the Minister of Justice, and in view of the new evidence which he claims to have secured since the trial at Brampton, Sir John Thompson decided that it would be well to allow the new witnesses to come forward, more especially as the young man Walker is to come up again for trial at the fall assizes in Peel County.

In view of this fact, and also taking into consideration the room for doubt that always exists in cases of circumstantial evidence, Sir John recommended that the prisoner be respited until the 1st day of October.

The execution of MacWherrell, which was to have taken place on the morning of Friday, the 1st of June, just two days hence, is thus delayed four months. This, Mr. Robinette claims, is preferable to him to a commutation, as it gives him a chance of a new trial, which he will now press for.

The New French Cabinet.

PARIS, May 30.—The new Cabinet as definitely formed is as follows: M. Dupuy, Premier, Minister of Interior and also Minister of Worship; M. Poincare, Minister of Finance; M. Guerin, Minister of Justice; M. Felix Faure, Minister of Marine; M. Delcasse, Minister of Colonies; M. Gorges Leygues, Minister of Public Instruction; M. Viger, Minister of Agriculture; M. Lourties, Minister of Public Works; General Mercier, Minister of War.

APPALLING DELUGE IN CHINA.

Nearly 2,000 People Reported to Have Lost Their Lives.

NEW YORK, May 30.—A Shanghai correspondent writes under date of May 5: At Yangtsekiang at Hanyang, the populous city opposite Hankow, on April 21, a sudden freshet swept from the Han river. The first rush presented almost the appearance of a wall of water. The flood, strewn with wreckage of all kinds, rose six feet an hour. Seven hundred large junks and boats were dashed to pieces.

The loss of life is appalling, the estimate being that nearly 2,000 men, women and children, the most of whom were sleeping in their beds, were drowned.

Officials reports received record the recovery of 1,500 bodies between Younglo and Hankow, while many others are known to have been washed ashore and buried. Three hundred bodies were thrown up on the bank at one point. At several places where the river was narrow the water rose 27 feet in as many hours.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Two Toronto Men Lose Their Lives on a G. T. R. Crossing.

BRANTFORD, May 30.—Yesterday No. 61, G. T. R. express ran into a buggy at Cainsville and instantly killed R. S. Smith, of Toronto, aged about 60 years, and fatally injured his son, aged about 20. Mr. Smith's remains were brought to Brantford and the son was taken to the Brantford hospital. The buggy was badly smashed. The horse escaped injury.

Young Smith died shortly after the accident.

Mr. Smith and his son were stopping at the American hotel. They hired a rig at Smith's livery stable to visit below Cainsville, and they were on their return back to Brantford when the accident occurred.

Monticello Murderer Arrested.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., May 30.—Hiram Osterhout has been arrested by Sheriff Beecher on a charge of having murdered Jacob Moore and Jane Slack in February. Osterhout is a man of singularly forbidding appearance. He was surprised by the sheriff before he was out of bed, and is now sharing a compartment of the jail with the little Italian cook, who, in self defence, shot two men in Mountaindale the other day. The grand jury is now in session, and it is expected that Osterhout will be indicted for the crime.

AT WORK ON THE TARIFF

Further Progress Made in Committee of Ways and Means.

WOOD PULP ON THE FREE LIST

Provided the United States Allows This Article to Enter That Country Free—Other Changes Made in the New Tariff—Bill Introduced to Amend the Election Act.

OTTAWA, May 30.—In the Commons these bills were introduced and read a first time:

Sir John Thompson—To amend the Dominion Elections Act. He said that the bill provides for a shorter time between nomination and polling day in certain constituencies.

Sir John Thompson—To amend the Act respecting interest. The bill provides that judgments in the county courts shall bear interest at 6 per cent.

Dr. Landerkin asked if Sir John Thompson intended introducing an amendment in his bill dealing with elections, providing that declarations should be made in Dominion elections as speedily as they were in the local elections.

Sir John Thompson said that his attention had not been called to the matter before and that the bill made no such provision.

The House then went into Committee of Ways and Means.

Hon. Mr. Foster announced that on crude opium the duty would be $1 per net pound. Cocoa in its crude state was reduced from 25 to 20 per cent. Albumenized papers and films for photographers were reduced from 35 to 30 per cent. Medicated and liver oil will go under other medicines, and will be taxed 25 per cent., while pure cod liver oil will come in at 20 per cent. Silvered glass was changed to 27½ per cent. instead of 30 per cent. Bevelled silver glass was changed from 35 per cent. to 32½ per cent.

Mr. Gibson astonished the members on the Government side by making a strong plea for specific duties on slate.

Mr. Maclean—Another free trader turned protectionist. (Laughter.)

Mr. Taylor asked that the duty should be increased on small iron nuts. He thought that one cent. per pound and 25 per cent. ad valorem was not sufficient. No change was made.

A clause was inserted providing that shingles and wood pulp should go on the free list when the United States would allow them to go free into that country.

This clause was inserted:

"Corsets, linen, silk and cotton clothing, and other articles made from cotton fabrics, 32½ per cent. ad valorem."

Elastic, round or flat, including garter elastic; braids, chains, cords or other manufactures of hair, and dress belts of all kinds, were fixed at 30 per cent. ad valorem.

Damask of linen, including napkins, doylies, tablecloths, sideboard covers, damask stair linen and diaper, were enumerated at 25 per cent. ad valorem.

Shawls of all kinds, railway and travelling rugs and lap dusters are also 25 per cent.

Window shade rollers, 35 per cent.; window shades, in the piece or cut or hemmed or mounted on rollers, 35 per cent. ad valorem, but not less than 5 cents per square yard.

Cloth, not rubbered or made waterproof, whether of wool, cotton, union or silks, 60 inches or over in width and weighing not more than seven ounces to the square yard, when imported exclusively for the manufacture of mackintosh clothing under regulations to be adopted by the Governor in council, 12 1-2 per cent. ad valorem. The duty otherwise is 27 1-2 per cent.

Brass, in bars, rods and bolts, drawn, plain and fancy tubing, not bent or otherwise manufactured, in lengths of not less than six feet, was added to the free list.

The marble duties were arranged as follows:

Marble, in the rough in blocks, free; in slabs or blocks, sawn on not more than two sides, 10 per cent. ad valorem; sawn on more than two sides, 20 per cent; finished and manufactured of marble, 30 per cent.

The following items, of which Mr. Foster had given notice, were adopted:

Wrought iron or steel pipe fittings and chilled iron or steel rolls, 35 per cent. ad valorem.

Switches, frogs, crossings and intersections for railways, 30 per cent. ad valorem.

Yarns, composed wholly or in part of wool, worsted, the hair of the alpaca goat or other like animal, costing 20 cents per pound and under, 5 cents per pound and 20 per cent. ad valorem.

Mosaic flooring or any material, 30 per cent. ad valorem.

The following new item was also adopted: Canvas and sail twine of hemp or flax, used for boat or ship sails, 5 per cent. ad valorem.

TRIAL OF JOHN R. HOOPER.

New Witnesses Will Give Evidence at the Second Trial on Monday.

MONTREAL, May 30.—The opening of the summer assizes of the district of Three Rivers on Monday next will recall one of the most famous trials in criminal court annals in this province, for an indictment will be laid before the grand jury of that district charging John Reginald Hooper with having attempted to murder his wife at Louiseville on the morning of Wednesday, September 13 last.

This famous case, it will be remembered, was first brought to light by the arrest of the prisoner on a charge of having poisoned his wife on a C. P. R. train near Terrebonne on Monday, September 17. The accused has been in prison since the beginning of October, and has been at Three Rivers ever since his acquittal at Joliette on the charge of murder on January 20.

It is expected that much of the evidence at the coming trial will be new, as a number of witnesses not at the trial for the capital crime have been summoned.

Canadian Coal for the States.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 30.—After considerable talk the experiment has at last been inaugurated of shipping coal to the United States. The ocean tug Springhill started from Parrsborough with barges Nos. one and five loaded with coal for Boston.

Germany Utters a Protest.

BERLIN, May 30.—The government has formally protested against the Anglo-Belgian treaty on the grounds that an international convention having fixed the Congo frontiers, only an international agreement is entitled to modify them.

Kenneth Sutherland Sentenced.

BROOKLYN, May 30.—Kenneth E. Sutherland, the returned fugitive police justice, of Gravesend, was sentenced to two years and eight months in prison and $500 fine.

ATROCITIES IN THE SOUTH

Public Sentiment in Florida Stirred Against the Colored Race.

AN ALLEGED FLAGRANT CONSPIRACY

The Outrageous Plot Among the Negroes Discovered in Time to Prevent a Shocking Crime—A Negro Preacher, One of the Conspirators, Hanged by an Infuriated Mob.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 30.—A special from Palatka says that negroes continue to commit a series of outrages. The people of this section are very much excited over the discovery of a diabolical conspiracy among the negroes to commit a series of outrages upon white women. A negro preacher by the name of Burgis came to the neighborhood of Putnam Hall and made damaging remarks about the daughter of a farmer living near by and proposed to negroes that they should seize the girl and several other white women, carry them into the swamp and make them submit to their embraces.

It is understood that several negroes agreed to the plan, and that preparations were being made to carry it into effect. The white people secured evidence that such a conspiracy did exist and they took steps to guard their homes. The negroes learned that their plan was known, and secretly began to leave the country. Burgis fled just in time to escape from a number of white men who had gone to secure him. It was learned that he had gone to Georgia and the father of the young lady whom he had slandered swore out a warrant for him.

The Georgia authorities were communicated with and Burgis was arrested. A Florida officer returned with the negro, and, fearing a mob, stopped off at a little station called Newburg, intending to secrete the prisoner. He was suddenly confronted by 105 mounted men, who took Burgis and hanged him. The white people are wild with rage, and it is believed that more lynching will follow.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which, cause difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Daily Intelligencer.

PRINCE EDWARD.

This County has already been lost to the Mowat Government. Mr. J.N. McDonald, the Reform candidate, has retired, and the party will not seek to place another in the field Their candidacy has, in fact, gone begging, as Mr. Nostrand Sprague, after being nominated, declined to run. There are still three candidates in the field, namely Conservative, Patron, and Temperance.

THE NORTH RIDING.

To-day we publish from our correspondent at Springbrook, the report of a meeting called by Mr. Haggerty at Harold. He has no one to blame for the position he finds himself in outside his own acts. We have long known of Mr. Haggerty's uncertain dealings with his party. Instead of trying to get him out, it has been a continued effort to keep him with the party. There are plenty of Conservatives who have questioned his hearty co operation with the party for some years. His attempt to connect Mr. Wood with his present attitude is, as our correspondent says, "childish." We have had a copy of the letter addressed by Mr. Wood to him in 1890 in our possession for some time, and we have to say of it that, written as it was within a few hours after the interview he complains of, it shows not only a manly fairness towards Mr. Haggerty, but a shrewdness that does credit to his intelligence. It is a full answer to the "childish" complaint now made four years after.

We are sorry to say it, but it is nevertheless apparent to the most casual observer, that Mr. Haggerty as a politician is fast losing the respect of all parties. If Mr. Haggerty wishes to command the respect of any political party, he will not secure it by running around trying to make grievances, or whining about a situation he has brought upon himself. We regret that Mr. McComb still fancies it is wise to remain in the contest. We hope he will yet, before the nomination, see his way to act with the party he has been so long identified with. From all parts of the Riding come assurances of Mr. Wood's success, and his re-election by a large majority.

LIVE STOCK.

There were about 350 head of butchers' cattle, 350 calves, and 120 sheep and lambs offered at the East end abattoir to-day.

CATTLE—Good beeves sold at about 4½c; per pound, but a few of the best were held at higher rates. Pretty good stock sold at from 2½c, to nearly 4c.; half fatted beasts at about 3½c; and the leaner animals about 3c per pound. Milkmen's strippers sold at from $25 to $45 each, or from rather less than 3c up to over 3½c per pound.

CALVES—Were scarce, and prices decidedly higher all round; more especially was this the case with common calves, which a short time ago sold at from $1.50 to $2 each, but such calves would bring $3 to-day; others sold at from $4 to $8 each.

SHEEP AND LAMBS—Sheep were not plentiful, but there is very little demand for them, and the price continues low; but lambs are in brisk demand at a firm rate.

Fat hogs are scarce and higher in price, selling at from 5½ to 5¾c. per pound. A bunch of choice porkers, just come off the cars, were sold at $5 per 100 lbs; lean store hogs sold at from $5 to $9 each, and young pigs at from $1 50 to $2 each.

MAGNIFICENT RECEPTION

this gathering. He remembered well, he said, the responsibility that was his, when he occupied the position of Chairman of the Board of Education, and he knew that the members of the present Board would do their duty. He was greatly pleased to note the progress made by these schools. We have here to-day two branches of the public school system of the country, and as they are here to day may they grow up to fight the battles of life side by side. Belleville, he said, would never be exceeded in devotion and loyalty to Her Majesty the Queen and your Excellency. He hoped they would all unite to make Canada the home of loyalty. (Prolonged cheering)

The children then sang with much vim, "The Maple Leaf Forever", and three cheers for the Queen and Canada were most heartily responded to.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies at the Central School, His Excellency was escorted to his carriage, the procession was re-formed, and proceeded to the Hospital, by way of Church, Hotel, George and Dundas Sts. Here he was received by Messrs. A. G. Northrup, R. Richardson, and J. L. Biggar, on behalf of the Board of Management, and escorted to the reception room, where the following ladies were in waiting to receive His Excellency: Mrs (Rev.) M. W. Maclean, President; Mrs. L. W. Yeomans, Mrs. J. J. B Flint, Mrs. R. J. Bell, Mrs. R. Tannahill, Mrs. T. Stewart, the Matron, and others. Mrs. Maclean then stepped forward and read the following address:

To the Right Honorable Sir John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen, Viscount Formartine, Baron Haddo, Methlie Tavis, and Kellie, in the Peerage of Scotland, Viscount Gordon of Aberdeen, County of Aberdeen in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, Baronet of Nova Scotia, etc., etc., etc.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:—

It is with great pleasure we, the Hospital Board, on behalf of the Women's Christian Association, welcome Your Excellency to our Hospital and Home for the Friendless, where the sick are cared for, their sufferings alleviated and the aged poor are cared for.

We do not welcome Your Excellency only as the representative of our beloved Queen, whose noble and beautiful life has won for her the love of all her subjects, but for your own personal worth and the great interest you had taken in the welfare of our Dominion previous to the time that Her Majesty conferred upon Your Excellency the honor of being her Representative.

We regret exceedingly that unavoidable circumstances have prevented Her Excellency, the Countess of Aberdeen, from accompanying Your Excellency in your present visit to our city. We have watched with great interest the impetus Her Excellency has given to philanthropic and benevolent work throughout the whole Dominion, and feel assured that she would have been pleased to have seen our building erected entirely by women, and learn something of the various branches of work carried on by the Association, whose members represent every church in the city.

We fully appreciate the kindness of Your Excellency in consenting to visit our small Institution, which amply met all requirements when built about eight years ago. Now we find increased accommodation necessary and are working to raise funds for a new wing, which we hope will be completed next year. We sincerely trust that Your Excellency and the Countess of Aberdeen may long be spared to wield that influence for good which has hitherto distinguished you in the lofty positions to which in the Providence of God, you have been called.

Signed on behalf of the Women's Christian Association.

(Signed) ISABELLA E. MACLEAN.
President.

His Excellency made a felicitous reply. He said he appreciated greatly the kind words of welcome contained in the address. He was pleased with the sentiments of loyalty expressed therein. It was to him a high honor to represent Her Majesty in this vast Dominion of Canada. He was also much pleased at the personal reference in the address. He sincerely regretted that Lady Aberdeen was not present to participate in the festivities, as each fresh feature presented to him made him feel that she would have entered into the demonstration with heartiness. It would have been of special interest to her to have visited the hospital. The history of the institution showed how commendable was the work in which the ladies were engaged. It was their home founded by them. It pleased him much when reading their report to see that devotional exercises were held each day. They were engaged in a noble and philanthropic work. They had his best wishes for future success in all their undertakings. Their work was greatly appreciated and should the opportunity be given him of visiting the city in company with Lady Aberdeen they would certainly consider it a high privilege to visit the Institution.

His Excellency, after being formally introduced to the ladies, was shown through the various departments and expressed himself as much pleased with what he saw. The aged inmates of the home were delighted as His Excellency passed among them shaking them heartily by the hand and speaking to them in a kind manner.

MARCHMONT HOME.

From the Hospital His Excellency was escorted down Dundas street to Front st., up that thoroughfare to the upper bridge and thence up Moira street to the Marchmont Home. Here he was heartily received by Rev. Mr. Wallace and the children who are under his care. In a few well chosen words Mr. Wallace extended to the Governor General a hearty welcome and expressed the pleasure it gave him and the children to have His Excellency visit them. He referred to the length of time the Home had been established and the number of children that had been brought there.

His Excellency replied briefly, thanking Mr. Wallace for the reception which had been accorded them. The work which he (Mr. Wallace) was engaged in was a philanthropic and religious one. He trusted the children would make loyal and good Canadians. They had his hearty good wishes for the future prosperity of the home. The visitors were then escorted to the school room, where the children sang very prettily a hymn entitled "Do you know what makes us happy." At the conclusion His Excellency again spoke a few words to them to live God fearing lives. If they followed Christ they would be a credit, not only to the home but the country. It was 12:45 when His Excellency left the home and was driven to the Deaf and Dumb Institute, where another reception was accorded him and luncheon partaken of, the particulars of which we will give in to-morrow's issue.

NOTES.

Marshal Flint had a fine mount and performed his duties to perfection.

The escort was worthy of His Excellency's commendation.

The students of Albert College marched to the drill shed last evening in a body. On the way they rendered some appropriate songs.

The children's ringing cheers inspirited all who heard them. So did their fresh young voices in the patriotic anthems.

Among the visitors were Mr. Thomas Walker, of Rawdon, and Mr. Alex. Henry of Napanee.

Chief Newton, was last evening presented to His Excellency, and was complimented for the admirable order which was maintained by the police force.

Hon. Billa Flint occupied a seat on the platform this morning at the Central school grounds.

While being shown through the Home for the Friendless this morning an old Scotchman was introduced to His Excellency, who said, "I voted for you in 1852" "I hope I don't look that old," responded His Excellency. "It must have been my father you voted for."

Charles Mackenzie, photographer, secured some snap shots of the Governor General and his party as they entered their carriage this morning, and His Excellency ordered a few to send to Lady Aberdeen.

Heintzman & Co.'s Perfect Transposing Piano.

The greatest musical invention of the age—unanimously pronounced by the press and all leading artists to be the piano of the future. Transposes any music into any key, by a simple lever movement, in a second. With this unique and simple invention, a transposing piano is no longer a chimera, or a mere object of experimental interest, but an accomplished fact, and is, theoretically and practically, perfection. With this invention we can accomplish that which has long been desired by practical men, viz. the adjustibility of pitch, especially since the adoption of the French pitch. By this plan the performer, while playing the same keys, is enabled to render the music in all the different keys with regard to pitch; at the same time the change may be produced by the slightest effort, the key-board being operated by a lever within reach of the performer and the change of pitch being produced in a second's time. Music played as written may be rendered in any of the various keys desired. All music can be played in the scale or key of "C" and its relative "A" Minor, and rendered in all the various keys and scales as written. Simplifies the playing of music, is perfectly adapted to all the different systems of music. The Transposing Piano may be set so the pitch will be in unison with the Singer's Voice, Violin, or any Wind Instrument, and is therefore highly suitable for use, not only in private houses but also in Theatres and Concert Halls. The Piano does not get out of tune nor does it affect the action in the slightest degree. The mechanism is of so simple a character that its liability to derangement, or to get out of order, is practically nil. The ingenious intention enables Vocalists to practice any Music even though not written for their particular compass, thus opening up a wide area of delightful study. Ware-rooms Nos. 20 and 22 Hotel Street, next to B.B. College.

Struck the Officer.

Officer Hayes last evening had rather a hard tussle with Christopher Keller, whom he arrested at the G.T.R. station. The man was acting in rather a disorderly manner and when the officer remonstrated with him he retaliated by striking him in the face with the clenched fist. He was taken to the police station and shortly after liberated to appear on Thursday morning. The man has rather a weak mind and is not responsible for all his actions.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.

FIVE PERSONS MEET SUDDEN DEATH IN THE WATERS.

Seven Drowned at the Same Place Before.

PICTON, Ont., May 30th.

A sad drowning accident occurred yesterday at Smith's Bay about eight miles from Picton. Living near Smith's Bay and in the same house are two brothers named Lindsay. David Lindsay is married and has three children; the brother is not married. David Lindsay and his wife came to Picton yesterday and Alexander Lindsay took the three children, Alfred, Charles and Anna Louise, aged respectively 8, 12 and 13 to the bay for an afternoon's fishing. Towards evening the boat was discovered floating on the water capsized. Search was made and the four bodies were found all together in about seven feet of water, later on in the evening, and some time after the four bodies had been recovered, Mr. William Ingram, a farmer living on the shore of the bay, was making enquiries about his wife, who had taken a fishing pole during the afternoon and had gone to the bay for a fish and had not returned. Search was again commenced at the spot where the other bodies were recovered and Mrs. Ingram's body was found about one o'clock this morning. It is not known how Mrs. Ingram came to be in the boat, but it is supposed she was fishing from the bank and when the Lindsays came along with the boat she joined them. The bodies were all found in one place along side of a gillnet stake, and it is conjectured they were looking over the side of the boat at the fish in the net which caused the boat to capsize. About twenty years ago there was a boatload of seven people drowned almost at the same place, five of them belonging to one family.

MEETING IN RAWDON.

Mr. Haggerty Gets a Reception he did not Look for—Messrs. Wood, Carscallen, Montgomery and Others Score Him.

SPRINGBROOK, May 29th, 1894.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Mr. Haggerty called a meeting for last night at the Town Hall, Harold, and some drumming was done for the purpose of securing his friends in full force, several coming from his home in Huntingdon. It was about half-past eight when the meeting opened, with Mr. P. Kingston in the chair, Mr. Wood, the Conservative candidate, Mr. McComb, the Patron candidate, and A. W. Carscallen, M.P., were present. Mr. Haggerty opened the meeting with a tale of his grievances. He had been badly treated by the Conservative party back so far as 72. Conventions had been packed against him—Mr. Wood and Mr. Carscallen had treated him badly—in fact, he had a number of grievances that he claimed justified his present course. His "feelings had been hurt" he told the audience again and again—"promises made and broken," "hadn't been treated fair," and descended to little petty cases such as where election papers had been sent to him at his municipal election to injure and in the next breath complained they had not at another time been sent, &c. He seemed particularly venomous towards Mr. Wood. His whole conduct was pitiable as coming from a man who had offered himself as a representative to the people. But amid all this whining he forgot to tell the electors why it was he voted against Dr. Boulter in 1879 and against Mr. Wood in 1886, or against Hon. Mr. Bowell in 1891. He forgot to tell them that in 1890 he attended a convention of the Conservative party, took part in and agreed to support the nominee, his name among others being submitted, and when it was found that Mr. Wood carried the convention by a large majority he stood up with the rest of the convention and made it unanimous, and then shortly after announced himself as a candidate. He forgot to tell that he backed off because he found, after a partial canvas, that he had no chance of success and tried to make Mr. Wood responsible. He forgot to tell how it was he took no part in Mr. Carscallen's election and had stated at the meeting to select delegates to attend the convention of which Mr. Carscallen was nominated that a farmer should be appointed and he had not voted at the previous election for Mr. Bowell on that ground. He forgot many things that the people know and who are sick and tired of his double dealing, the result being, he has nobody's sympathy, neither Grit or Tory. The evidence was in the meeting, for though called by himself, one fourth were not his supporters and only a part of these from the Township of Rawdon. The people of this section are heartily tired of the game he seeks to play, which is so apparent that no one is deceived. At one moment he was "independent" and the next he "was not" and etc.

Mr. Wood replied in a quiet and effective speech, fully satisfying every reasonable man present that the charges made by Mr. Haggerty were without foundation. He refused to get down to the level of Mr. Haggerty's attack. He said he was not whining or asking for sympathy. He was the nominee of the Conservative Convention and asked their support, not only on that ground but on the fact that as their member he had done his duty to the best of his ability. That he looked upon the position as one that was not to be treated from the petty stand point of haggling to win, but from the higher stand point of honorably serving the people and maintaining self respect.

Mr. Wood's remarks were well received. He was followed by Mr. McComb, who, stated briefly that he was a farmer candidate from the only farmer organization he knew, and was going to continue until the election closed and he was not there to quarrel with any one.

Mr. Carscallen, M. P., was then called upon and he made a speech creditable to himself and impressed his audience with the facility with which he is becoming an effective platform speaker. Mr. Haggerty had charged him with double dealing and sending a letter when he, Haggerty, was a candidate in 1890, to an elector in Huntingdon. It is not likely that Mr. Haggerty will seek publicly to meddle with him again. In the most effective manner he disposed of the charges and gave his reason for the letter, which grew out of Haggerty's attempt to split the party at that time. He then referred to the political platform of Mr. Wood, his ability, the position he occupied in the House, the confidence the party had in him and a record of 12 years in the Legislature without a single charge against him. He spoke at some length and caught the spirit of his audience and was warmly cheered when he took his seat.

The Reeve, Mr. Montgomery, was then called and stated briefly that he had no expectation of making a speech, but repudiated Mr. Haggerty's position of taking up the time of the meeting in petty charges when he had much better have told them what he knew about the politics of the day.

A vote of thanks was passed to the chairman and cheers given for the Queen.

There is no doubt of Mr. Wood's election, if the other parts of the riding are to be judged by Rawdon. Fully two thirds of the meeting was in his favor and his majority in Rawdon may be placed at any where between one and two hundred. He is actively supported by Ex-Warden Duncan, Reeve Montgomery, W. Vandervoort and the leading Conservatives of his party, and many Reformers have intimated their intention, as the candidates now stand, to support him also. The reasons given are his advanced platform, ability and well known temperance principles.

I have given this somewhat lengthy and imperfect report that the facts of this meeting, which may fairly be said to define Mr. Haggarty's position, may be before your readers. I cannot help feeling that on reflection he must see how childish and petty was the position he took. He certainly had fewer friends when he left than when he came, and they were not too many at the best.

War! on scrofula and every form of impure blood is boldly declared by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great conqueror of all blood diseases.

Have you seen our Ladies' Dongola Button Boot at ninety cents? We have some splendid lines in Oxford Shoes, and away down in price.—A. W. VERMILYEA & SON. d&w

An occasional bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla does more to correct the tendency of the blood to accumulate humors, and keep the organs sound and healthy, than any other treatment we know of. "Prevention is better than cure." Try it this month.

Although it is not claimed that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures every ill to which flesh is heir, yet, as a matter of fact, it comes nearer doing this than any other medicine ever compounded. In purifying the blood, it removes the source of nearly all disorders of the human system.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis, and the first stage of consumption. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at druggist's.

DIRECTIONS FOR COLIC IN HORSES.—Contents of small bottle Pain Killer in quart bottle, add pint warm or cold water, sweeten with molasses, shake well until all mixed and drench well. Give about half at once, then balance in ten or fifteen minutes, if first dose is not sufficient. This will be found a never-failing remedy. 25c. for a large bottle.

So eminently successful has Hood's Sarsaparilla been that many leading citizens from all over the United States furnish testimonials of cures which seem almost miraculous. Hood's Sarsaparilla is not an accident, but the ripe fruit of industry and study. It possesses merits "peculiar to itself."

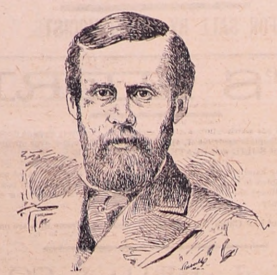
A MAGNIFICENT RECEPTION

Lord Aberdeen is Greatly Pleased With the Welcome Tendered Him.

His Excellency's Arrival—The Procession—At Dinner at Mr. Ritchie's—At the Drill Shed—He Meets the School Children This Morning—A Visit to the Hospital and Home—Notes.



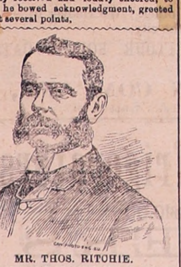
THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

Nature and the elements seemed to smile on the visit of His Excellency the Governor-General to the city yesterday afternoon. The sun shone brightly all day and cool breezes made out door enjoyment complete.

At 4:30 p. m. the reception committee and other prominent citizens, accompanied by distinguished gentlemen from outside the city, gathered at the City Hall where carriages were awaiting to convey them to the G. T. R. depot, where His Excellency was expected to arrive at 5 o'clock. The procession was soon formed and, guided by Mr. J. J. B. Flint as marshal, and headed by the I. O. O. F. band proceeded up Front and Mill Sts. to the station. On arriving there the carriages were put in the order which they were intended to take in the downward march and the military consisting of No. 1 Company of the 49th Batt. and a detachment of D. troop of cavalry under the direction of Col. Cotton, D. A. G., were drawn up to receive Her Majesty's representative. A large crowd of citizens and people from the surrounding country has gathered in the station yard and on the platform to catch a glimpse of the representative of royality, and, although the train was forty minutes late, they waited patiently till it came in. Lord Aberdeen's special car "Ottawa" was attached to the rear of the regular express and when the train pulled up it was detached and run back and up on the siding, to where the carriages and military were in waiting. When the car halted His Excellency accompanied by his A. D. C's., stepped from the rear platform and were received and heartily welcomed by Mayor Walmsley, Hon. M. Bowell, Col. Cotton, Mr. Thos. Ritchie, H. Corby, M. P., and others, while the guard of honor gave the general salute. His Excellency, in company with Mayor Walmsley, inspected the guard, after which the party stepped into the waiting carriage, when he was greeted with cheers. The procession was then formed in the following order:

J. J. B. Flint, Marshal.
First four-in hand carriage containing the Governor General, Capt. Hon. Marjoribanks, A.D.C., Mayor Walmsley and Mr. Thos. Ritchie, surrounded by cavalry escort.
Second carriage containing Hon. M. Bowell, Capt. Urquhart, A. D. C., Messrs. H. Corby, M.P., and R. Mathison.
Third carriage containing Messrs. W.B. Northrup, M.P., W. H. Biggar, M.P.P., W. P. Hudson, M.P.P., and Mr. Campbell, the Governor General's private Secretary.
City Council and Civic Officials in the next four carriages.
Col. Cotton, Col. Brown and G. W. Ostrom, ex M.P.P., in eighth carriage.
Board of Education in carriage.
Separate School Board in carriages.
Board of Trade in carriages
Citizens in carriages.

The band were left out of the procession on the downward march, as owing to the lateness of the hour the order was given to push the procession along as rapidly as possible. The route taken was Mill St. to Front St. to Bridge St. to Charles St. to Hotel St. to John St. and thence to Mr. Ritchie's residence, where another large crowd had gathered. All along the route of the procession His Excellency was most heartily received and loudly cheered, to which he bowed acknowledgment, greeted him at several points.



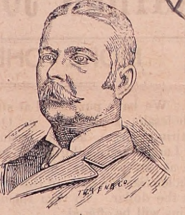
MR. THOS. RITCHIE.

Arrived at Mr. Ritchie's residence the party stepped from the carriages, and after a cordial exchange of courtesies all but a few departed, and Mr. Ritchie took the opportunity to show Lord Aberdeen and his A.D.C's. over the grounds and to point out to them places of interest in the distance. Mr. Ritchie and his guest then took a turn on the spacious verandah, after which they retired to their rooms to dress for dinner.

The invitations to the dinner were necessarily restricted to a few of the prominent men of the city and visiting gentlemen. The table was most beautifully decorated with pink roses and smilax, with pink silk down the centre of the table, with glass and candelabra. The room was decorated with pink roses. Those present were: His Excellency, and his A. D. C's. Capt. Urquhart and Hon. Mr. Marjoribanks, Mr. Ritchie, the host, Hon. M. Bowell, Hon. Senator Read, H. Corby, M. P., W. B. Northrup, M. P., Mayor Walmsley, Col. Cotton, Col. Brown. Rev. M. W. Maclean, W. P. Hudson, M. P. P., R. Mathison, Dr. Chamberlain, and W. H. Biggar, M. P. P.

As soon as darkness began to creep over the grounds the myriads of Chinese lanterns and colored lamps were lighted and the effect was most beautiful, in fact nothing approaching it has been seen in this city before, Hundreds of people congregated around the grounds, waiting to catch another glimpse of His Excellency. Although 8:30 was the time announced at which he would arrive at the drill shed, it was 9:15 when he stepped on the platform, he, with his A.D.C's., surrounded by the following gentlemen; Hon. M. Bowell, Hon. Senator Read, Messrs. H. Corby, M. P., W.B. Northrup, M.P., Mayor Walmsley, Rev. Canon Burke, Rev. Mon. Farrelly, Rev. M. W. Maclean, Mr. Tho Ritchie, Col. Cotton, Col. Brown, Dr. Chamberlain, W.H. Biggar, M.P.P., W. P. Hudson, M.P.P., and City Clerk D. B. Robertson.

When order had been restored Mayor Walmsley stepped to the front of the platform and on behalf of the city, read the following address;—



MAYOR WALMSLEY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,—

We, the Mayor and Aldermen, of the City of Belleville, on behalf of the Citizens whom we officially represent, and on behalf of the residents of the Bay of Quinte District, extend to you a loyal and a cordial welcome to our city.

Since the memorable visit of Lord Dufferin some twenty years ago, it has not been our privilege to greet officially the Representative of Her Majesty personally in Belleville, but in common with all our fellow Canadians we have ever appreciated the wise consideration shown in the appointment of noblemen, who have been noble in character as in rank, to shed lustre upon the responsible position of Governor General of the Dominion of Canada, whose present and future are inseparably connected with the stability and progress of that great Empire in whose historic heritage of glory and in whose progressive power we are proud to share. We can wish Your Excellency no better wish than that when you return to surrender the trust reposed in you by our beloved Sovereign, you will be accompanied by the same warm feelings of regard which your predecessors in office have borne with them, and that you may be conscious not merely of duty well done and laurels worthily won, but also in your riper experience and knowledge of Canadian affairs, that you may possess greater personal power and influence in cementing still more firmly these bonds of Imperial unity, of which the occupants of your high office in Canada and in India have ever been the zealous advocates. We in "this true North" feel that it may be your especial privilege at this critical epoch, so to lay before the Councils of the Empire our possibilities, resources, and responsibilities, our national importance, and our national spirit, that at home and abroad we may be recognized in very deed and truth as—

> "One race of arts, of arms, of rising trade."
> "One life, one flag, one fleet, one throne,
> And God guard all."

In this District you will, as a patriotic student of history, find the immediate descendants of the old United Empire Loyalists who were essential factors in the Building of the Nation. In this District, as a lover of fair sport, you will, we hope, at some future time enjoy the varied opportunities furnished by our Bay and by our northern streams and forests. In this District, as an agriculturist and one who has shown his faith in Canada by large investment of private means and fertile fields and with our rich dairy industry in the development of which we were pioneers and in which we have recently won the highest awards in competition with the world. As a national economist you will no doubt already know of the extent of our mines of gold and iron, as yet only partially developed, found within twenty-five miles of our city. As an educationist and philanthropist, you will find in our Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, in our Albert and Business Colleges, in our Public and private schools, in our Hospital and Home (erected and managed entirely by the ladies of our city), in our libraries and churches, ample evidence that the higher claims of humanity are not neglected in our midst; and as a lover of art and nature you cannot fail to appreciate the beautiful and varied scenery of our Bay of Quinte—the delight of the tourist, and the pride of those who reside upon her shores.

We regret that the Countess of Aberdeen's departure for England has prevented her accompanying you, but we trust that your present visit here may be of such mutual pleasure and interest that you will return next year and afford us an early opportunity of again extending to you our hospitality and of paying to her also that high tribute of regard and esteem which will ever be her and your due from all loyal citizens of Canada who have been inspired with higher aims through your united and active interest and practical sympathy in all matters of social, moral and national progress.

Signed on behalf of the Corporation of the City of Belleville this 29th day of May 1894.

J. E. WALMSLEY, Mayor.
D. B. ROBERTSON, City Clerk.

When the Mayor had concluded reading the address, City Clerk Robertson presented His Excellency with the illuminated address executed by Miss Maclean and called for three cheers for the Governor-General, which were most heartily responded to and a "Tiger" added.

When the cheering had ceased Lord Aberdeen rose to reply to the address. He is a pleasing speaker, although somewhat rapid in his speech. He said:—

MR MAYOR, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.

I am very much gratified by the address which has just been read by His Worship, the Mayor. It is a characteristic address—it is characteristically Canadian in its loyalty and in its kindly hospitality. The loyalty I recognize as the Representative of Her Majesty the Queen with satisfaction and appreciation, the kindness and hospitality I accept with gratitude.

I am also indebted to you, Mr. Mayor, and to the corporation and community on whose behalf you have spoken for this address because of the interesting record and information which it contains concerning this thriving city. I can certainly say—not in any commonplace or complimentary tone—that I am delighted with what I have already seen of the city and its surroundings. (Applause.) I think we must all feel that any visitor is fortunate in arriving under such favorable circumstances as those which surrounded us this afternoon, and I understand more fully why Mr. Robertson in the invitation to visit your city referred to "the leafy month of June." Happily owing to the early season we may on this occasion say the leafy month of May. (Applause.) But far above the external features is the value which, as I have already indicated, I attach to such a hearty, cordial and loyal reception. (Renewed applause.)

Mr. Mayor, I must not trespass on your patience and that of the audience by referring in detail to the various points suggested in this address, but I cannot forbear from saying how heartily I am in accord with you when you refer to your strong convictions of the advantages and glory of an an intimate connection with the great British Empire. (Applause). This may sound like a common-place utterance, but I am sure you will agree with me that it is not out of place on such an occasion as this to make some reference to this subject, and all the more because we cannot help observing—I am not now speaking of Canadians—that some people when they hear of Canadian loyalty and attachment to the Mother Country seem to suppose that this attitude is in some way inconsistent with a thorough belief in the greatness and future of this great Dominion. On the contrary, I believe that this view is not only consistent with a thorough belief in Canada, but is conducive to it, and is entirely in harmony with the principle of which I have spoken. We may be all the better Canadians if thoroughly British. Is it thought strange that we are proud that we are British, or is it imagined that these sentiments of loyality are ephemeral? No mere ephemeral and transient sentiments would produce a welcome such as that which I have received this afternoon as Her Majesty's Representative. So, ladies and gentlemen, we may glory that we are part of this Empire. I am aware it may be said that the people of Great Britain do not seem always to have shown sufficient appreciation of Canada and what is going on in Canada. But if there has been room for criticism in that respect in the past I venture to say that such a tendency is passing away. (Applause). You see now more and more a recognition of Canadian progress, and appreciation of the greatness and significance of the affairs of the Dominion of Canada. (Applause). In no other way could we account for the considerable space allotted to Canadian matters in some of the leading journals of Great Britain. Only yesterday I saw a long and interesting letter—one of a series—in the London Times, descriptive of the resources of this country. (Loud applause).

I believe, Mr. Mayor, that this is not the only address which I shall have the honor to receive to-night, and, perhaps, I shall consult your convenience and that of this assembly if I indulge in no further observations. But I will take the liberty of referring to two other points in your address. First to your very encouraging expression of a hope that I may in some way be permitted (if called to take part in the Councils of the Nation) to do something towards the development of this great country. I trust that at any rate when I leave Canada I may have learnt something that may be of service, and I have no doubt the thing for a Governor General to do in order to secure this result is to see as much of the country as he can. I have therefore taken an early opportunity of accepting your invitation to visit Belleville. (Applause) I feel that I am indebted to those who sent this invitation and it is only right that I should say that this originated with our friends of the Deaf and Dumb Institute. (Renewed applause).

The other point to which I wish to refer is your kind allusion to the fact of Lady Aberdeen's absence on this occasion. I must confess that at no time since Her Excellency left have I felt the lack of her presence more acutely than I did this afternoon when approaching Belleville, knowing as I did of the kindly wish which had been expressed that she should be here with me and also knowing that without her the interest of the visit must be considerably diminished. However, the reception which nevertheless you have accorded to me and the pleasing impressions which I have formed concerning Belleville will make me all the more desirous to arrange if possible for a second visit at some future time when Lady Aberdeen can also be present. (Loud applause).

When His Excellency had spoken to the address presented on behalf of the City, Principal W. P. Dyer and Miss Ella Gardiner, Preceptress of Albert College, stepped upon the platform, and the former, after being introduced to Lord Aberdeen, read an address to him on behalf of the Faculty and students of the College. The Faculty were represented by Rev. E. N. Baker, Rev. A. Campbell, Professor Massey, Dr. L. W. Yeomans F. E. O'Flynn, and Miss Clarke. The address was as follows:

To His Excellency the Right Honorable John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, LL.D., Earl of Aberdeen—Governor General of Canada.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,—

The Board of Management, Faculty and Students of Albert College, beg to tender Your Excellency, as representative of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, the sincere expression of our loyalty to the throne and crown and our attachment to British Institutions.

The College which we represent, founded in 1854, was the product of the zeal and wise policy of the Methodism of that early day and grew out of the conviction that schools for the christian education of the youth of the church should be maintained and cherished by the church. Having been chartered in 1857 as "Belleville Seminary" it was opened in July of the same year and entered upon its work under favorable auspices.

In the year 1866 by Act of Parliament, the name was changed to "Albert College" and limited University Powers thereto attached. In 1871 it was made a body corporate with full powers and privileges of a University. By the terms of the Union of the Methodist churches of Canada in 1883 was retained in Belleville and adopted by the General Conference of the United Church as a Church School; the Charter was amended and the College was affiliated to the Victoria University.

As now constituted it has an ample teaching staff for imparting instruction to ladies and gentlemen in the advanced branches of a liberal education.

During its brief history, it has educated several thousand students, many of whom are now filling important places in Church and State.

We notice with great satisfaction the interest taken by Your Excellency in all educational enterprises and the favor shown by yourself and your noble consort the Lady Aberdeen to every movement to increase the intelligence and happiness of the people.

We sincerely trust that Your Excellency's term of office may be distinguished by even greater advancement in the knowledge and virtue that ennoble public and private life than characterized the successful administrations of your illustrious predecessors.

We desire to join the citizens of Belleville in extending to Your Excellency a most hearty and loyal welcome on this occasion of your visit to our City.

Signed on behalf of the Faculty and students,

W. P. DYER, Principal.

His Excellency made a most gracious reply to this address, as follows:

MR. PRINCIPAL, MR. MAYOR, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

This address, coming as it does from a representative and valuable educational Institution, is necessarily received by me with deep appreciation. I wish to say, Mr. Principal, that the history which is here contained in brief regarding the College of which you are the head, is sufficient to evoke an interest on the part of any one hearing of it even for the first time. But I am of course aware already of the large part which the body to which you belong has taken in education and in other departments of the intellectual and moral well being of this community. I observe with satisfaction that the principle of affiliation is to a large extent being carried out in your college. I say with satisfaction because I apprehend that under the present arrangements there is ample facility and opportunity of securing a great local educational establishment, together with those other advantages which arise from connection with some still larger central institution. That I apprehend is the motive and if I judge rightly the result of the arrangements under which you at present exist.

Let me take the opportunity of offering my best good wishes for the continuance of the success of this important institution.

I cannot but think there is a fitness in the fact that this Institution should come forward on this occasion in immediate sequence to the Civic Authorities, because obviously both are complements of each other, and it is therefore in that sense right that there should be a combination.

I cannot help again referring to that portion of the civic address in which allusion is made to the opportunity of extending and developing the material resources of the Empire. I cannot help thinking that we are shortly to see such an opportunity. I refer to the Intercolonial Conference, when several matters of greatest importance to the Mother Country and to Canada will be discussed. We must all feel peculiar satisfaction in the prospect that one whose name stands so high in Canada generally, and more especially is regarded with such esteem in Belleville, should occupy so prominent a position in the initiation and future arrangements of that conference. (Loud applause.)

I am pleased that you understand that I am referring to our esteemed and honored friend, the Honorable Mackenzie Bowell. We must all look forward to the result of that conference with peculiar interest, and with the hope that his anticipations regarding it may be amply fulfilled. (Applause).

I have already expressed my good wishes for the workin which, Mr. Principal, you and your collegues are engaged, and in so doing I am expressing a comprehensive good wish, for I refer not to your particular establishment but to the interests of education as a whole, the importance of which cannot be over-rated. I again thank you for your loyal action in thus coming forward to to greet the Representative of the Queen. (Applause).

The following is a list of those who were presented to His Excellency:

After the formal reception, Hon. Mr. Bowell was called upon, and upon coming forward, was tendered a hearty welcome. He said that he was pleased to see the hearty reception that His Excellency had received in Belleville, as he had promised in their name that such a reception would be given as only can be accorded a visitor to the Bay of Quinte. He regretted that His Excellency's consort was unable to be present, as he knew that it would afford them equal pleasure to greet her with true Canadian hospitality, as they were all deeply interested in her noble self-sacrificing labor in ameliorating the condition of her follow beings, and more particularly those of her own sex. He expressed his sympathy with the sentiments of loyalty expressed by His Excellency, as he found that true loyalty to Britain was synonymous with true patriotism to Canada.

He reminded His Excellency that if he would visit his constituency, North Hastings, he would be shown rocks that could not be excelled in the Highlands of Scotland, with a good sprinkling of gold to add lustre—and that His Excellency could have all the iron ore that he could carry away in his pockets (laughter). At the close of his brief patriotic address, he was loudly cheered.

AT THE CENTRAL SCHOOL.

At an early hour this morning people were astire in holiday garb and many came in from the surrounding country to be present at the demonstration in honor of His Excellency the Governor-General. Quite a number gathered at Mr. Ritchie's residence, corner of Bridge and John Sts., but the centre of attraction seemed to be the central school grounds, where the school children of the city had assembled to give Her Majesty's representative a right royal welcome. The carriages and military escort, which were about the same as yesterday, arrived before ten o'clock and a few minutes past that hour His Excellency was escorted to his carriage and the procession at once started for the High school grounds. When they arrived there, His Excellency was met at the carriage step by Mr. Hugh Walker, Chairman of the Board of Education, and Rev. Mons. Farrelly, Chairman of the Separate School Board, who, one on either side, escorted him to the dais—the following little girls preceding them and scattering flowers in his path, namely: Jessie Walton, Annie Pringle, Helen Anderson, Florence Harding, Katie Briscombe, Mary Ackerill, Eva Harker, May Debeau, Amy Wallbridge, Dora Lee, and Lena St. Charles. As His Excellency proceeded slowly up the walk the children cheered lustily and waved small flags, which each held. The scene was indeed a pretty one. Accompanying the distinguished visitor were the Hon. Mr. Bowell, H. Corby, M. P., W. B. Northrup, M. P., R. Mathison, T. Ritchie, Mayor Walmsley, and Aldermen. Upon the platform were the members of the Board of Education, the members of the Separate School Board and the resident ministers of the city. It was estimated that 2,500 children were present, and some 3,000 spectators.

When the applause of the children had subsided, Mr. Hugh Walker stepped forward and in a few, well chosen words introduced the little girls, who read addresses to His Excellency.

Miss Lily B. Johnson, youngest daughter of Mr. Wm. Johnson, then read the following address on behalf of the Public Schools, and Miss Ethel Jones presented His Excellency with a beautiful bouquet.

The Scholars of the High and Public Schools are glad to see you. We welcome you because you represent our good Queen, whom we all love, and for your own sake.

We have heard of Lady Aberdeen's goodness, and are sorry that she could not come with you.

We know about "Wee Willie Winkie" and your clever daughter Lady Marjorie Gordon and we would liked to have welcomed her also.

We hope that you will be so pleased with Belleville that you will come to see us again and then bring with you Lady Aberdeen and Lady Marjorie.

We ask you to accept this bouquet of flowers.

When they had finished Katie Brennan read the following address from the Separate School, and Lottie Burke and Frankie Mackie presented a beautiful bouquet:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,—

The children of the Catholic Schools bid Your Excellency heartfelt welcome to the City of the Bay. We have longed to see Your Excellency, whose praises we have heard echoed from city to city, that we might assure you of our love of country, and spirit of loyalty, and of our deep respect for Your Excellency personally. We beg to say, Your Excellency, that our faithful teachers ever instil into our young minds, love of God and fidelity to the throne, Fear God, Honor the King.

We have only one regret on this happy day, the absence of Lady Aberdeen, whom we have learned to love and reverence on account of her many amiable and beautiful qualities, particularly do we love her for the kind interest she takes in the young.

We humbly ask Your Excellency to kindly except these flowers as a token of the sincere respect, devoted love and admiration of the children of the Catholic schools.

At the conclusion of the reading of the addresses Mr. Hugh Walker called for three cheers for the Governor General and the children yelled loud and long.

His Excellency rising to reply said that the sight before him was a wonderful one and one not soon to be forgotten. It demonstrated loyalty and patriotism. He said he appriceated the flowers very highly and especially those which had been so profusely strewn in his path and he felt like stopping to pick them up and arrange them. He said he would long value the very kind reception he had been given in the city. In speaking of Lady Aberdeen's absence, he said that she regretted it as much as he did, but she was unavoidably absent, having been called to England to see her mother, who had been unexpectedly made a widow after living thirty-five years as a devoted mother and wife. If Lady Aberdeen had been present on this occasion he thought they would overlook his own shortcomings. He said he did not know how he would describe to the Countess and Lady Marjorie this most magnificent reception and beautiful scene, but, as the addresses had intimated, he hoped to be able to bring his wife and daughter to see them at no distant date. He complimented the school boards on their educational success. He thanked them again very kindly for the magnificent reception and then asked the children how many would vote in favor of a motion for a whole holiday and he declared the motion had been carried unanimously. (Loud applause).

Mr. Walker again came forward and said he wanted to introduce an old Belleville boy, one who had been for years, Chairman of the Board of Education and who had always taken a kind interest in educational matters. He was referring to Hon. Mackenzie Bowell.

Mr Bowell said, on rising, that he did not know that he could occupy a more honored position than that of addressing

ROBERT MACAIRE
FOUNDED ON THE PLAY L'AUBERGE DES ADRETS
A NOVEL

This was very pleasant for Marie, who, like all her sex, loved admiration, and also for Robert, who, like all his sex, loved company, and who, by this time confident of his success with the village beauty, could afford to be easy in his mind and to enjoy the company undisturbed.

There was a very general impression that Farmer Beaumont was possessed of great riches. For many generations his family had been prosperous and thrifty, and the hamlet was so small and so remote from any great center that it had always escaped lightly from the cruel exactions of the tax farmers. In those days there were few banks, and in such spots as Charmont-sur-Pont they were quite unknown. Those who had any money to keep—and they were none too many—preserved it by the simple expedient of locking it in a strong box, hiding it in their houses or burying it in the ground.

Robert Macaire knew well enough that the riches which seem great in the minds of village lads may be only poor when measured by the needs of idleness, but he was satisfied that there was some money, a great deal to a man who has nothing at all. The talk of her father's wealth decided him, and he took a favorable opportunity of declaring his love for Marie. The poor girl had little to say, except to tell him tearfully and with a full heart that she had loved him from the first.

The farmer, after the manner of fathers, would have questioned the wisdom of the step, for he would have liked to have known something more of his would be son-in-law, but he was overruled by his wife, whose sympathy with her daughter—after the manner of mothers—blinded her eyes to the danger she was incurring.

The swains were inconsolable, to the indignation of the other girls, who could not see what there was in Marie—although they loved her very dearly, of course—to merit such an absurd attention on the part of the young men.

Some of them did not hesitate to speak their minds pretty openly, and there were several unpleasant scenes by the well under the old lime tree. This publicity brought some of the young men to book, and some of the others, recognizing from Marie's attitude that their hope was but small, gave up the chase and betook themselves to solitary wanderings in the forest and carving initials on the trees—such of them as could write—and such despairing devices in the way of hearts transfixed with arrows as their imaginations could evolve.

Robert did not lose any time in having the date of the marriage fixed. "The girl was willing," he said, "the mother was satisfied, and the father did not object; therefore what was the necessity for delay?" For reasons of his own, on which he did not choose to enlighten them, Robert did not want any formality about the marriage which could be avoided. He told Beaumont that he did not trust lawyers, a speech which pleased the old man, who did not trust any one, and quite won his heart by saying when they came to discuss the betrothal:

"I do not know whether Marie is to expect any dot from you, and I do not care. I am quite content that you will do what is best for her. I want nothing except to be allowed to live here with you, my dear father and mother, so that I need not take Marie away from the home where she has been so happy."

This of course made everything smooth for all parties, and not the least for Robert himself, who thus escaped any dealings whatever with public officials, whom he shunned, and won completely to his side the old farmer, who found indeed that he "had not lost a daughter, but gained a son."

The wedding was a great occasion in the village. The oldest inhabitant could not remember such doings, not even when the crowning of Louis XV filled the whole of France with such rejoicing that people were found who believed that there would never be hunger any more.

But there are always people to be found who will believe anything.

CHAPTER II.

PIERRE DEPARTS.

When the village had settled down after the unusual festivities, all seemed to go merrily as a marriage bell. Even the lovelorn swains, now that their chances had hopelessly gone, settled down as men almost invariably do to the acceptance of the inevitable. And the village maidens, now that so dangerous a rival was removed into the calmer atmosphere of matrimony, could afford to go back to their loving kindness to their old companion.

Marie lived in a dream of joy. She adored her husband, and he returned her love with a young husband's plenitude of caresses. He was tender with her mother and each evening entertained her father with a host of reminiscences. The cottage became each evening a new social center. One after another old friends dropped in to hear the wonderful tales which Marie's husband had to tell. Needless to say these stories were all, or at least in great part, in some way reminiscent of his own prowess, his daring or his acuteness. The simple rustics sat with open mouths, and the speaker grew in heroic proportion in their minds. His adventures seemed to be marvelous. In his absence from France in the foreign country—the name of which, by the way, he was very careful never to mention—he seemed to have been always in hot water. His record of escapes from prison would have led a wiser audience to infer that there must have been some good reason for his so constantly getting into prison, since he had so many a time a need to get out again.

Once he went so far as to show on his ankles the chain marks which he bore with him in his escape from the galleys. This was an occasion of a festive nature, the silver wedding of his parents-in-law, when the wine had flowed pretty freely and the tongues of all had been loosened. Marie did not like such a thing spoken of even in jest or for the purpose of a boast. Her husband's honor and credit were dear to her, and it was like a blow to her to hear even from his lips the mention of the fact. The rest, however, were not so particular, and to the men it was only an excuse for another glass, while the pity of the women grew. Some of the latter had even a little jealousy on the subject—their husband or their lover had not such marks to show, and therefore could not be distinguished in a similar way.

The next day, when Robert had quite recovered himself, he did not care that any allusion should be made to the occasion, and when his wife with her heart full of pity wished to comfort him with a caress for his past suffering he got quite cross and spoke so sharply to her that for a good while she felt a little afraid and did not venture to allude again to the topic.

There was only one of those who had been present when the confidence was made who seemed to remember it. This was Marie's old lover Pierre. He said nothing at the time, but a few evenings afterward when he was by chance alone with the husband and wife he asked Robert how long he had worn the chain. Robert answered tartly that he had worn it longer than he had cared to wear it, whereupon Pierre, somewhat nettled, answered that it was a pity he had to put up with so much unpleasantness and wondered he had not chosen to get rid of it sooner when it troubled him so much. He said this in an aggravatingly doubtful way, as if he did not believe the story, which, to do him justice, was but the exact expression of his sentiments. Robert got very angry, but restraining his passion said to him slowly and with such an intention of affront that the other could not but notice it had he been never so thick skinned:

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat any thing and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.

The Medicine for Liver and Kidney Complaint.—Mr. Victor Auger, Ottawa, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending to the general public Parmelee's Pills, as a cure for Liver and Kidney complaint. I have doctored for the last three years with leading physicians and have taken many medicines which were recommended to me without relief, but after taking eight of Parmelee's Pills I was quite relieved, and now I feel as free from the disease as before I was troubled."

M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Manitoba writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day.

Somehow a man feels much worse the day after he has lost an hour's sleep on account of the baby than he does the day after he has lost five hours' sleep at the club.

I HAD a severe cold, for which I took Norway Pine Syrup. I find it an excellent remedy, giving prompt relief and pleasant to take.

"For Years,"

Says CARRIE E. STOCKWELL, of Chesterfield, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of the chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was laid on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."

THE DOMIMION PARLIAMENT

Bill to Disfranchise Bribed Voters Discussed in the House.

REPORTED WITH MANY AMENDMENTS

Mr. Charlton's Sabbath Day Observance Bill Provokes an Interesting Discussion—Distribution of Sunday Papers Objected to—Other Objections Urged by Quebec and British Columbia Members.

OTTAWA, May 31.—Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper moved in the Commons the first reading of his bill respecting the certificates of masters and master of ships. The bill was read a first time.

Changes in the Franchise Act.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said that as the First Minister had not yet introduced his bill respecting the Electoral Franchise Act he thought the House would like to know what changes the hon. gentleman proposed to make in the act.

Sir John Thompson said he thought, as the details of the bill might be somewhat complicated, it would be of some public service if he stated what the principles of the bill would be, in order that it might be understood by the House and the public. They proposed important changes in the Franchise Act, and, without making a speech upon it or giving reasons why the changes were proposed, would briefly state what they proposed. First, they proposed to adopt as a basis of the franchise the franchise of the various provinces of Canada. They intended to propose further that the disqualifications which had been indicated by the Provincial Legislatures shall not apply to persons who would otherwise be entitled to the franchise. They proposed further, that the electoral lists shall be prepared and revised from year to year by the Dominion revising officers, as at the present time. They also intended to deal with the subject of multiplex voting in a reasonable way. If a man had property in more than one riding, he should have the right to vote in more than one riding. These were the principles of the measure; but, inasmuch as it would be necessary to work them out by a careful comparison with provincial enactments, he proposed to take a little further time before the introduction of the bill.

In reply to questions by Hon. Mr. Laurier, Sir John Thompson said it was proposed to make a somewhat later beginning of the revision of the lists than January 1, but the lists would be made to come into force as early as possible. The bill would probably be brought down within a week.

Dr. Weldon's Bill.

The House then went into committee on Dr. Weldon's bill to disfranchise voters taking bribes. The bill provided that the petitioner should deposit $500 when filing the protest.

Mr. Jeannotte moved in amendment that the amount should be raised to $1,000. The amendment was carried on a division.

Mr. Weldon moved that the following clause be added to the bill: "Notwithstanding anything in this Act where in any electoral district, an election petition has been filed under the Act for the trial of controverted election, no petition shall be filed under this Act until such election petition has been abandoned or disposed of." The amendment was adopted.

The promoter of the bill then moved that the following sub-section be added: "Notwithstanding anything in this Act, a petition under this Act may be filed in hirty days after the disposition or abandonment of such election petition."

Mr. Moncrieff and Col. Tisdale spoke against the bill.

Hon. Mr. Curran moved, in amendment to Mr. Weldon's subsection that the following words be added: "Provided always that such election petition shall have been finally disposed of within one year from the filing of the petition therein."

Mr. McMullen claimed that under the Solicitor-General's amendment a friend of a candidate might expect the time of settling the election petition beyond one year, and shut out the operation of this bill.

Mr. Dickey thought the Solicitor-General's amendment was again compromised.

The sub-section as amended, was then adopted.

The bill was reported to the House with many amendments. It stands for a third reading.

Sabbath Observance Bill.

Mr. Charlton moved the House into committee on his bill to secure the better observance of the Sabbath.

Col. Amyot opposed the motion on the grounds that the bill was unconstitutional and unduly interfered with the rights of others.

The House went into committee on the first section, which makes it an indictable offence to be engaged in the printing, publication, delivery, or sale of a newspaper on the Lord's day.

Col. Amyot denounced the proposal as a piece of bigotry. They could not get the Montreal Gazette in Quebec on Sunday morning if this became law.

Mr. Davin said in order to bring the nation to complete righteousness Parliament ought to make it an indictable offence to read a newspaper on Sunday.

Col. Amyot said that the morning papers throughout the country began work at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening, and if there was any guilt in it, those who read the papers shared in it. The reading of Mr. Charlton's speeches on Sunday was a spiritual exercise and the people of the province of Quebec should not be deprived of this benefit. The people of Quebec would not have come into Confederation if they had been told they would have to join the Salvation Army.

Mr. Mara objected to the people of British Columbia being deprived of their Sunday papers.

Mr. Charlton said the bill was directed against Sunday papers, which were an offence against morals, religion and public welfare, and had a most deleterious effect in the United States

Mr. Masson proposed an amendment restricting the scope of the clause to the sale, distribution or circulation of Sunday newspapers.

Mr. Longelier asserted the right of the ministry to observe the Sabbath in their own way. The Spanish inquisition should not be introduced into Canada.

Dr. Sproule pointed out that the original clause would prevent the circulation of Sunday school literature, while the amendment would prevent the sale of the Salvation Army War Cry.

Sir John Thompson said he hoped the committee would come to a decision before rising.

The motion to report progress was then lost.

Mr. Henderson said he distributed the Presbyterian Record the first Sunday in every month. He wanted to know if he and the ladies who distributed the mission leaflet were to be sent to the penitentiary.

Mr. Maclean (York) suggested that the matter be left to the provinces. During the Northwest rebellion an engagement was fought on a Saturday. The following day he published an account of the action. For doing so he was fined in the police court under the Ontario Act.

Mr. Charlton said he was willing to accept Mr. Masson's amendment, which thereupon was carried and thus became the substantive motion.

Mr. Bechard moved an amendment allowing newspapers to be delivered on Sunday.

Col. Amyot moved a sub-amendment excepting the Province of Quebec from the operation of the bill. It was ruled out of order.

Mr. Haslam said the section would make the printers of British Columbia work on Sunday.

Mr. Bechard's amendment carried.

Mr. Moncrieff wished to have summary conviction substituted for indictable offence.

The committee reported progress.

Imprisonment of Ellis.

Hon. Mr. Laurier announced that Mr. Davies would move an amendment in Committee of Supply to-morrow (Thursday) in relation to the imprisonment of Mr. Ellis, of the St. John Globe, for contempt of court.

Capital Gossip.

In the Railway Committee the Montreal electric railway belt line was again up for discussion. Deputations both for and against the proposal are in attendance, and the proceedings of the committee have been so stormy that on several occasions five or six members were talking at once. The merits of the scheme are local in their nature, but have an indirect interest in the west, in that the proposed road would give the Vanderbilt system of railroads access to Montreal independent of the C. P. R. or Grand Trunk

A strong deputation of leading business men will shortly call on the Government to urge that some steps be taken to prevent the increase in the circulation of American silver in Canada. What shape their proposal will take is not yet decided, but the quantity of American silver in circulation is beginning to be regarded as a serious evil among commercial men.

George J. Wills, the American Consul at St. Thomas, is in the city in connection with the flag incident at that place. He is submitting the facts in the case to J. B. Reilly, the Consul-General. Sworn evidence of witnesses of the affair has been forwarded to Washington, and it is said that the deed was certainly done by members of the Queen's Own while Mr. Wills was at dinner. Mr. Wills was endeavoring to do honor to the British holiday by the display of three extra flags, which were the Stars and Stripes. He intended entwining around them Union Jacks, but could not get any to do so. Mr. Wills does not intend communicating with the Canadian Government because the matter is now in the hands of the authorities at Washington.

DAMAGED BY FROST.

Crops in Some Parts of Western Ontario Suffer—Outlook Bright.

LONDON, Ont., May 31.—The frost of Monday night and Tuesday morning did a considerable amount of damage to several kinds of crops in this district. The unusually early spring and the fine warm weather of the last month had advanced vegetation to a stage a fortnight earlier than the average Ontario season. The consequence has been that all kinds of vegetation was forward, and both seeding and planting were well advanced. Early beans and corn were up and some few had cucumbers and squash and tomatoes out of doors. All the potatoes are badly scorched and have turned black. Of course the injury to these varies with the land. On very low plots the action has been severe, and if the stem has been cut it is doubtful if replanting will not have to be resorted to; but as a general thing, if this one frost is not succeeded by others, the majority of potatoes will come around again. Late sown grain has been slightly touched and any late barley has been injured, but the early sown has obtained too strong a growth to be permanently affected. In fruit, no doubt, the grapes have been injured, as all the early ones were out in bloom and just at the stage when frost will cut it off. The cherries and pears are too far forward to be much damaged and also the small fruit is highly protected by the thick foliage. As far as the main root crop both in gardens and fields are concerned, it may be stated that they are not yet above ground, or are yet to be put in; so, outside of fruit, the damage may yet be repaired by replanting in every case with merely the loss of the labor.

Newfoundland Revenue Bill.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 31.—One of the Government schemes in the present struggle is that if the Whitewayites, Bond and Watson, are not unseated and no Whitewayites can be induced to support the revenue bill, the Government will refrain from opening the Legislature and simply issue a proclamation giving authority to the Governor-in-council directing the collection of the revenue as previously, and enforce this for one or two weeks, till the Whitewayites are placed in the minority. Then the Government will afterwards indemnify themselves. It is understood the English Government is acquainted with this proposal and approves of it.

In Honor of Dead Comrades.

HAMILTON, May 31.—At the Royal Templars hall yesterday the members of William W. Cook post, G.A.R., and the Army and Navy Veterans celebrated memorial day. Rev. Dr. Philp delivered an address and a programme of singing and recitations was gone through. At the conclusion of the programme the two societies were conveyed to Burlington and Holy Sepulchre cemeteries, where they decorated with flowers and flags the graves of departed comrades.

That Embargo Question.

LONDON, May 31.—The discussion in the House of Commons on the cattle question out very little that is new. Everything brought now awaits the result of the completed inspection of the lungs of the animal from the steamship Toronto, which is now going on. The enemies of the Canadian cattle trade have made a great deal out of the assertion made by a certain Montreal journal, which they construed to the effect that pleuro-pneumonia really does exist in Canada.

Rain-Making in Nebraska.

BEATRICE, Neb., May 31.—Those interested in the rain-making experiments here are enthusiastic over the fact that a good rain fell Monday night over a great portion of the county, and extending south to Manhattan, Kansas. They firmly believe the fall was the result of the work of Prof. Hutchinson, the rainmaker employed by the Rock Island Railroad, who had been operating here since Saturday with his rain-making car.

MR. MEREDITH IN TORONTO

Rousing Reception Tendered to the Leader of the Opposition.

"MEREDITH THE COMING PREMIER."

He Criticizes Most Forcibly the Record of the Mowat Administration—The Waste of Forests—Principal Grant and Archbishop Cleary Replied To—Why the Government is Honest.

TORONTO, May 31.—Mr. Meredith addressed the electors of the city last night in the pavilion, the occasion being an immense rally of the supporters of the Conservative candidates of the city for the coming campaign. The large pavilion was densely packed with enthusiastic sympathizers in the campain against the Mowat Government.

The four nominees for the Conservative party were present, and were roundly cheered as they appeared on the platform. Mr. G. G. Cockburn, one of the city members in the Commons, was in the chair, while accompanying the speakers of the evening on the platform were many of the prominent men of the city.

Mr. Marter was the first of the candidates to speak, and he made an able onslaught on the manner in which the affairs of the province had been conducted under the Mowat regime. He was followed in turn by Messrs. Ryerson, Crawford and Howland, each making an eloquent appeal for the suffrage of the electors.

Mr. Meredith's Speech.

When the popular leader of the Opposition came forward to speak the enthusiasm knew no bounds. Every man in the vast assemblage rose to his feet and cheered to the watchword, "Meredith, the new Premier."

Mr. Meredith thought the magnificence of the assembly and the hearty welcome he received might be taken as a forerunner of what the people will do on June 26 He maintained that the records of the Ontario Government did not justify the electors in returning them to power. Their gerrymander of the province has been worse than any ever instituted by the Government at Ottawa. Under this gerrymander the popular vote was nothing like as great as the representation of Government supporters in the House would lead one to suppose.

Iniquitous Systems.

He then touched upon the ballot system, which he claimed was not secret, but could be adopted for the purpose of coercing the people of this province. The iniquitous license system was another influence which the Government did not fail to use for the purpose of keeping in power.

A Progressive Party.

Mr. Meredith congratulated the Conservatives upon their choice of candidates for the city, and now as the electors were free men—no minority representation—they should rise in their might and help to hurl this unjust government from power.

He claimed that the party he has the honor to lead is the true progressive party, the democratic party. The leading progressive measures which were adopted were forced upon the Government by the Opposition.

Ontario's Resources Wasted.

The question of forests was one of the most vital questions in this Dominion, not only to this generation but to the generations to come. There were no steps being taken by the government for the preservation of our forests, but on the other hand it was being sold off in blocks at ridiculously low figures and the proceeds held up as an instance of the prosperity of the province under the Mowat government. The conserving of this timber would have been worth millions to us in years to come. He vigorously objected to the policy of the government which permitted the timber being taken to the United States instead of being cut in our own country.

Principal Grant's Honest Man.

Coming to educational matters in the province Mr. Meredith said during the past few days two gentlemen, both of Kingston, had come prominently before the people in print in the cause of the Mowat Government. Principal Grant, who, by the way, is solid on the cardinal points in the platform of the Opposition, favors Sir Oliver Mowat because he is honest. The speaker was ashamed of his province when a great man like Prof. Grant gives this as a reason for his support. Is Sir Oliver Mowat the only honest politician in the province? This seems to be a very poor reason to give for supporting an administration.

He might say, however, that usually they could not help but be honest as they were carefully watched by him (Mr. Meredith) and also by Mr. Clancy, who, by the way, he characterized as a broad liberal-minded man whom he hoped to see returned to power. The speaker continued in a severe onslaught on the professor.

Archbishop Cleary's Attack.

The second gentleman was a high dignitary of the Catholic church, Archbishop Cleary. This gentleman broke out at the two previous elections and now breaks out again in about the same spot. But Mr. Meredith did not propose to meet abuse by abuse, nor to meet vulgarity by vulgarity. This reverend gentleman who now makes the charge of intolerance is the same who in 1890 insulted the whole Protestant clergy. He claimed to have been slandered by this gentleman and challenged him to lay his hand upon one act which proves him to be a hungry adventurer, an intolerant or a bigot.

He believed it was eminently in the interests of this country to have but one school system. It would be better for the children of this province to grow up side by side.

Schools and Text Books.

While the constitution stands as it does, he maintained that the Government should have control of the Separate schools. The teachers should pass the same examination and the same text books should be used.

He was not talking for votes and would advocate this policy in the face of defeat.

Mr. Meredith was thunderously applauded as he finished his eloquent exposition of his principles and the defence of his position. The singing of the National Anthem then brought the meeting to a close.

North Bruce Liberals.

TARA Ont., May 31.—The Liberal convention here yesterday was well attended by delegates from all parts of the riding. Mr. A. McCannel, jun., farmer, of the township of Arran, was chosen to be the standard bearer for the party at the coming election for the Legislative Assembly.

The Greatest Yet

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scalp diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nasty than a scurvy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than to see dandruff falling down on gents' coats or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but without effect. A specialist—one of the world's greatest scientists and specialists in scalp diseases—of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. DANDRUFFINE WORKS QUICK AND SURE, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and when you get it tell your friends, that all may know how successful it works

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety trouble and expense let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, MAY 31

NOT SO BEAUTIFUL.

One does not hear so much now about the similarity of the Liberal and Patron platforms—in ridings where both parties are represented by candidates, as, for instance, in East Hastings. The Grits have discovered that Patron principles are not quite so beautiful as when the Globe was trying to haul the farmer vote into the Mowat net.

MUTUALLY PLEASED.

The visit of the Governor General to Belleville has had a very happy result. His Excellency was charmed with his reception, favorably impressed with our city and such of its public institutions as he visited, and pleased with the people.

These feelings, it affords us much pleasure to say, are mutual. The geniality of the noble Earl, his unostentatious demeanor, his thoughtful, polished addresses, and the evident interest which be evinced in all that he saw or engaged in, quite won the hearts of our people, who will ever think of him as a most worthy representative of Her Majesty the Queen, and a gentleman of the highest type.

KIPLING ON CANADA.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling was recently interviewed by the St. James's Gazette, and in answer to the question, "Have you seen much of Canada?" made the following remarks: "Something, and what I have seen I like. It is a great country, a country with a future. There is a fine, hard, tough, bracing climate, the climate that puts iron and grit into men's bones, and there are all good things to be got out of the ground if people will only work for them. What it wants is more men and more money. Why don't Englishmen think more of it as a field for English capital and enterprise? Surely there is an excellent opening both for the digesting and the emigrating Briton there. Things don't perhaps move quite so fast as in the States; but they are safer, and you are under the flag, you know, and among men of the slower stock and breed. Send your folk to Canada; and if they can't go themselves, let them send their money—plenty of it."

THE FAREWELL MEETING

THE EVANGELETIC SERVICES BROUGHT TO A CLOSE.

His Excellency Present at the Services.—Impressive Addresses by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter.—An Immense Congregation Present.

The closing meeting in connection with the Evangelistic services which have been going on for nearly five weeks was held last night. It was the largest which has been held, hundreds being unable to gain admittance to Bridge Street Church. Long before the services commenced the interior of the large edifice was filled to overflowing. At 7:45 when the services commenced the following ministers were occupying seats about the platform: Revs. Dr. Gardiner, J. A. McCamus, D. O. Crossley, J. Young, A. Campbell, R. Wallace, E. Woodcock, J. Faull, R. Marshall, E. N. Baker, and J. L George.

The services commenced by singing "The Lily of the Valley," and prayer by Rev. Dr. Gardiner. Rev. H. T. Crossley and Mrs. Dr. Walker sang a duet with much feeling. After a few words by Mr. Hunter, Mr Crossley sang a hymn entitled "The Holy City."

Mr. Hunter said as they were waiting for His Excellency to arrive, the meeting would be open for anyone to speak. A large number availed themselves of the opportunity afforded. Short addresses were also given by Revs A Campbell, R. Marshall, D. O. Crossley, J. A. McCamus, E. N. Baker, and J. L. George, all of whom spoke in glowing terms of the work that had been accomplished.

At this stage of the proceedings, the Governor General arrived, accompanied by Hon. M. Bowell, Capt. Hon. Marjoribanks, A. D. C., Capt. Urquhart, A. D. C., H. Corby, M.P., W.B. Northrup, M.P., Hon. R. Read, Thos. Ritchie, Mayor Walmsley, R. Mathison, and J. J. B. Flint. The vast audience arose and greeted His Excellency by the waving of handerchiefs and singing the National Anthem and the doxology. After a few words from Mr. Hunter, Mr. Crossley sang "The Land O the Leal." Prayers were then offered, when His Excellency was called upon and made a short address. He said he was thankful for the privilege of being present at the meeting. There was one feature of the meeting which was cause for much gratification, namely, to see the ministers united and assisting the evangelists in their good work. A great responsibility rested upon all. He advised them all to be of good courage. In conclusion he expressed the hope that the good work done would be permanent. As the distinguished visitor had other engagements, he was compelled to leave the church. The farewell addresses by the Evangelists were then given.

Rev. H. T. Crossley said they have been delighted with the choir. It had done excellent service. He liked the people of Belleville, also loved the ministers. Retain the spirit which is yours, stand by your ministers as you have stood by us. We have had victories through united action. Seek to speak to the unsaved and many would be won. If you are hard, careless and indifferent, pray to the Lord, arouse yourself, you that are halting come to the Saviour. See that this is the opportune time to seek the Lord. To the new convert he said he wanted them to be loyal christians, to abide in Christ's love. Be persevering christians, never think of standing still, but keep on the move. Never think of retreating or standing still. Be an exemplary christian, abhor all that is evil. Keep your eye on the Lord. Pray often and keep in the spirit of prayer. Read the bible systematically every day. Be church christians; get into the church where you can receive and do the most good. Live in the church on earth until death calls you to the life beyond. Be a life long christian; resolve by the grace of God to continue to the end of life. If we obey the word of God until death we would then be received into His Kingdom.

Mr. Hunter said we had much to be thankful for. This was the first time they had ever returned a second time for a campaign. He loved Belleville, it lives in our heart, God bless Belleville. Their meetings have been grand union meetings. What he said, he said for the glory of God. God bless everybody. Begin to give and you will grow in grace. To the convert he said he wanted them to remain true, join the church of their choice, get in the church and work for God. To the unconverted he made an earnest appeal for them to turn from their evil ways and seek the Lord. In conclusion he shook hands with the ministers upon the platform on behalf of the congregations of the city.

At the enquiry meeting after, a number professed conversion.

Mr. W. H. Gordon stated that 852 names had been given in up to last night.

The evangelists leave to morrow for Prescott where they open a campaign on Sunday.

Heintzman & Co.'s Perfect Transposing Piano.

The greatest musical invention of the age—unanimously pronounced by the press and all leading artists to be the piano of the future. Transposes any music into any key, by a simple lever movement, in a second. With this unique and simple invention, a transposing piano is no longer a chimera, or a mere object of experimental interest, but an accomplished fact, and is, theoretically and practically, perfection. With this invention we can accomplish that which has long been desired by practical men, viz. the adjustibility of pitch, especially since the adoption of the French pitch. By this plan the performer, while playing the same keys, is enabled to render the music in all the different keys with regard to pitch; at the same time the change may be produced by the slightest effort, the key-board being operated by a lever within reach of the performer and the change of pitch being produced in a second's time. Music played as written may be rendered in any of the various keys desired. All music can be played in the scale or key of "C" and its relative "A" Minor, and rendered in all the various keys and scales as written. Simplifies the playing of music, is perfectly adapted to all the different systems of music. The Transposing Piano may be set so the pitch will be in unison with the Singer's Voice, Violin, or any Wind Instrument, and is therefore highly suitable for use, not only in private houses but also in Theatres and Concert Halls. The Piano does not get out of tune nor does it affect the action in the slightest degree. The mechanism is of so simple a character that its liability to derangement, or to get out of order, is practically nil. The ingenious intention enables Vocalists to practice any Music even though not written for their particular compass, thus opening up a wide area of delightful study. Ware rooms Nos. 20 and 22 Hotel Street, next to B.B. College.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FLOODED

Overflow of the Fraser River Causes Great Destruction to Property.

TOWNS AND VILLAGES INUNDATED

An Island Containing an Indian Reserve and the Langley Prairie Totally Under Water—Eight Lives Known to Have Been Lost—Immense Damage to C.P.R. Tracks—Traffic Stopped.

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 31.—The overflow of the Fraser river is causing great destruction and loss of life. The surrounding valleys have been submerged, houses and outbuildings of ranches have been swept away and herds of cattle and flocks of sheep have been drowned. Whole villages on the banks of the stream are floating. So far eight lives are known to have been lost.

At Langley a little boy fell from a porch of the Langley hotel and was swept away by the flood. The hotel was afterwards washed from its foundations. The town is flooded.

The whole of Langley prairie is now under water, and the island on which is the Indian reserve is entirely under water. The canoes, in which four Indians were trying to tow some cattle from a ridge on the island to the mainland, were capsized and three of the Indians were drowned. The dead bodies of three men and a little girl were found on Hatztic Prairie entangled among floating trees. Many other bodies are reported as having been seen in the stream in other localities.

Farmers, fearing to remain longer, are taking passage on steamers and bringing their families here. The towns of Chilliwack, Harrison and Centreville have been inundated. The damage done to the Canadian Pacific railroad tracks is very serious all along the line. At Hatztic the dyking has entirely given way, and 600 yards of road have been destroyed. At Nicomon the whole town is under water.

Traffic over the railroad is entirely stopped, no train having arrived from the east since May 23.

ROAD RACE IN BUFFALO.

Louis Callahan Wins and Beats the World's Record.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 31.—The Martin road race, run yesterday over a course probably the finest in the country for road racing purposes, extending as it does over common country roads, through suburban hamlets, up hills and down vales, across railway tracks and other obstructions met with over the country highways, was won by Louis Callahan of the Press Cycling Club of this city, his time being one hour, ten minutes and thirty-seven seconds, breaking the world's record for 25 miles of one hour, eleven minutes, twenty-eight seconds and a half, made by Nat Butler over the Linscot road, May 5.

The roads were in superb condition with a pleasant breeze, that proved a pleasant feature of the race. There were 197 starters and 110 of them finished. J. W. Tinneman, Buse, Penseyres and Weining, of the Ramblers; Radway, of London, Ont., and Van Waggoner, of Syracuse, were the original scratch men. Callahan was allowed thirty seconds, but he gave it up and went to scratch. So did Goehler, of the Press Cycling Club.

The second race was won by Nick Mader, a "dark horse," from the 11 minute mark in 1.24.16. Van Waggoner captured the time honors in 1.14.10.

Of the Canadian entries who started H. Davidson, Toronto, with a handicap of 7 minutes, finished fourth. Time, 1.13.05. F. F. Radway, London, Ont., who started at scratch, finished forty-fourth in 1.11.03, which is also inside the previous record for the distance.

INTERCOLONIAL CONFERENCE.

Colonial Interests Referred to at the Opening of Victoria's Parliament.

MELBOURNE, May 31.—The Earl of Hopeton, governor of the colony of Victoria, in opening the Victorian Perliament, congratulated the people on the gradual return of the country to prosperity. He rejoiced at the increase of interest throughout Australia on the subject of federation of the colonies, and that there was to be conferences looking to that end. Imperial, Canadian and South African delegates were about to assemble at Ottawa to consider not only the question of trade but that of a Pacific cable, which it was desirable should be entirely under British control.

The mission of Minister Reid to England and Canada, he said, had paved the way for important undertakings in connection with the transportation of the surplus produce of the colony of Victoria and the disposal thereof in various countries.

A TRAIN DERAILED.

Forty Excursionists Seriously Injured by the Overturning of a Coach.

MACON, Ga., May 31.—The rear coach of a train on the Albany and Columbia branch of the Southwestern railroad, a division of the Central railroad of Georgia, was overturned by a broken rail at Holts yesterday and 40 people were injured, of whom two or three will probably die. The train consisted of six coaches loaded with excursionists from Andersonville to attend Decoration day exercises at the national cemetery. Those fatally injured are: John Smith, Bluffton; Andy Jones Edison and Mrs. Little, Hilton, Ga. None of the others are thought to be seriously injured. About 1,000 people were on the train, each coach of which was crowded almost to suffocation. The derailed coach rolled down a steep embankment.

A B. C. Merchant Swindled.

TORONTO, May 31.—Joseph York, a merchant of British Columbia, returning from a visit to the old country, yesterday took the C.P.R. for Owen Sound. While on the train between Parkdale and the Junction he made the acquaintance of a very smooth individual with whom he was in a short time in intimate friendship. The old trick was then worked on the guileless York with complete success. A friend came in the car and notified York's friend that a lot of freight was lying at the station awaiting payment of the charges. The gentleman had nothing but a bank draft to pay the freight, and York willingly acquiesced in the request that he advance the money until the fellow-travellers arrived at Owen Sound. The two crooks then went out to see about unloading the freight, and, so far as known, are still engaged in that occupation. At any rate, York has not seen them since, and his $130 has also disappeared. The police are investigating the matter.

THE LARGE AND CONSTANTLY growing business of this firm is due, among other reasons, to the ample capital and immense importations of diamonds, selected by their own buyers in the best foreign markets. The handling of these in large quantities enables them to import fine qualities at a lower price than in smaller deals, the poorer qualities could be bought.

Aside from this, their factory on the premises enables them, in many lines of goods, to save both factory and middle men's profits.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

The steamers Passport and Corsican will begin running on June 1st.

Col. Cotton, D.A.G., to-day took over the arms and accoutrements of the 15th Batt.

The severest cases of rheumatism are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. Now is the time to take it. Hood's cures.

Those who have arms or accoutrements belonging to the 15th Battalion, will confer a favor on the officers by leaving them at the drill shed, or by informing the Sergeant in charge where they may be found.

W. H. Nilburn, Plainfield, purchased 50 acres of land in the 5th con, of Thurlow, at $60 per acres, cash down, pretty good evidence that land has not decreased in value as much as some people pretend.

An occasional bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla does more to correct the tendency of the blood to accumulate humors, and keep the organs sound and healthy, than any other treatment we know of. "Prevention is better than cure." Try it this month.

Although it is not claimed that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures every ill to which flesh is heir, yet, as a matter of fact, it comes nearer doing this than any other medicine ever compounded. In purifying the blood, it removes the source of nearly all disorders of the human system.

An order-in-council has been passed making collectors of customs or acting collectors of customs in Canada examiners for the purpose of examining candidates for certificates as master or mate, as the case may be, of a steam freight boat of 100 tons register tonnage and under, or of a steam tug-boat of any tonnage.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis, and the first stage of consumption. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at druggist's.

Directions for Colic in Horses.—Contents of small bottle Pain Killer in quart bottle, add pint warm or cold water, sweeten with molasses, shake well until all mixed and drench well. Give about half at once, then balance in ten or fifteen minutes, if first dose is not sufficient. This will be found a never-failing remedy. 25c. for a large bottle.

FAREWELL TO ABERDEEN

HIS EXCELLENCY SPENT A DELIGHTFUL DAY YESTERDAY.

A Great Fete at the Deaf and Dumb Institute—Mr. Corby's Hospitality—At Massassaga Park—He Addresses the School Boards—At Bridge St. Church—Entertained at the Opera House—Farewell!

AT THE INSTITUTE.

The drive to the Institution for the Deaf is a pleasant one and was fully enjoyed. The road, fringed as it is with maples and dotted here and there with comfortable habitations, offered an agreeable view. The waving of flags from a number of lawns and the rippling of the bay waters in sight added interest to the scene. Very soon the stately main edifice, which rises above the green trees and overshadows the smaller buildings, as a grand parent of a younger generation, broke to the eye. Snugly nestled in its sylvan retreat and with an air of festivity, the silent hamlet looked inviting as the Governor General's party entered the grounds. Immediately on arrival His Excellency and suite were conducted into the house of the Superintendent, where luncheon was served. The guests present were: Lord Aberdeen, G.G., Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. R. Read, Rev. E. N. Baker, Mr. Thos. Ritchie, H. Corby, M.P., Hon. Mr. Majoribanks, Dr. Eakins, Dr. Hope, Dr. Chamberlain, Inspector of Public Charities, W. H. Biggar, M.P.P., Mr. T. Carman, His Worship Mayor Walmsley, J. J. B. Flint, P.M., Capt. Urquhart, Mr. A. Matheson, bursar, and Mr. George C. Mathison.

At about 2:30 o'clock, the distinguished guests commenced their visit of the classes, which was done in the following order: Miss James, Miss Ostrom, Mr. McKillop, Miss Templeton, Mr. Campbell, Mr. McAloney, Miss Bull, Mrs. Balis, Miss Maybee, Mrs. Terrill, Mr. Balis, Mr. Denys and Mr. Coleman. Then came an inspection of the industrial departments, followed by a visit to the articulation class, in charge of Miss Curlett. Everywhere a keen interest was manifested and visible enjoyment felt. The various rooms and industries having been viewed and examined, the party repaired to the Chapel, where the pupils had by this time assembled. As the Governor-General entered, the entire company rose and greeted him with the Chatauqua salute. The chapel had been made very attractive with mottoes of welcome, a life-like picture of Her Majesty, the artistic lettering of the national anthem, many colored cut paper streamers and other decorations.

It has been said that "the hand is the most eloquent member." One who would follow closely the impressive gestures of these interesting children as they repeat the Lord's Prayer, or "Nearer my God, to Thee," would certainly hesitate to dispute the assertion. Prof. Balis led in the opening prayer. Among the pupils who took a special part in the recitations were the Misses McPhail, Ball, O'Neill, Gardiner, Wiley, Hammell, Muckle, Holt, Shannon, McCormick and Allandorf, Miss Ida James having been entrusted with their training. The following address to Lord Aberdeen was presented by Mr. Mathison and interpreted to the pupils by Mr. Denys:

To the Right Honorable Sir John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen, Governor General of Canada, &c. &c.

Your Excellency:

Officers, Teachers, and Pupils of the Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, greet you.

Among the heroes of Rome, the "Triumph," we read, was the highest aim of ambition. No one was entitled to the honor who had not slain five thousand of his country's foes. Pardon, your Excellency, if in this proud, joytul hour, we exult in the thought of nobler achievements. Ours is not the victory of strife, but of peace. Within these walls nearly one thousand deaf children of our fair Province have had night turned into day, bright and blessed. Long imprisoned souls have seen their shackles fall. Ingenuity devised, love labored, hope triumphed. To a complete inspection and appreciation of this work, we have yearned to welcome you. You have had an opportunity of seeing our efforts in the Educational, Industrial, and Domestic departments of our Institution, and we feel that our mission cannot but meet with your approval and sympathy.

We have, Your Excellency, a deep sense of the honor your visit confers upon us. It is but another of the many gracious acts with which your life is adorned. We had also hoped to see Lady Aberdeen, who bears your name with so much grace and distinction, yet in her absence—she now being upon the sea, homeward bound—kindly waft to Her Excellency our good wishes and the message of our hearts for her safe return to our beloved Canada.

Of this day, Your Excellency, we shall have a long and happy recollection. From the pleasure of its memory and the encouragement it has brought, shall spring new efforts, new ambition, new hopes. In return, may you and every member of your household long "be blessed with health, and peace, and sweet content."

Signed on behalf of officers, teachers and pupils.

R. Mathison,
Superintendent.

Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, Belleville, May 30th, 1894.

His Excellency's reply was one of those graceful, considerate speeches, such as one would expect from a man of mind, heart, and worth. There was joy in the eye, sympathy in the heart, thought in the mind, and kindness on the lips. His words fell as so many pearls of dew upon the tender brow of nascent blossoms.

His Excellency said,—

Mr. Mathison and friends,

This address with its kindly and graceful utterance gives me very great pleasure. I have been looking forward to the opportunity of visiting this Institution, and I can assure you that although I expected to see a great deal that would surprise and gratify, yet the reality has surpassed my expectation. I am therefore very much indebted to those who arranged that I should have an opportunity of paying this visit, and I wish to remind you that it is from some of the most advanced, and leading pupils that the invitation may be said to have come, endorsed of course, by Mr. Mathison and his Colleagues. Therefore I thank you for the pleasure and for the advantage it has been to me to witness something of the great work that is going on here. You will easily understand that it is not only a personal satisfaction and pleasure to me to have gained some acquaintance with this Instution but clearly it is desirable, indeed, the duty, of the Governor General to make acquaintance as soon as possible with the principle features of the great educational work of Ontario and of Canada as a whole. There is another reason why I am very glad to have been here to-day and that is because it has furnished an occasion of paying a visit to the fair city of Belleville, with which I have been delighted not only because of the external attractions of the place but still more because of the wonderful cordiality with which as the Representative of The Queen, I have been received, and also because of the personal expressions of good will and welcome which accompanied my reception. I observe that the motto on the programme is "The greatest happiness is found in making others happy," and of course this Institution is founded to enable you to carry out this noble mission in life, in an effectual manner. Moreover I trust you will all feel that the education you gain here is especially valuable, because it will enable you to contribute to your own livelihood. (Loud Applause) It is an honorable thing to secure self dependence as far as possible. I remember that once I wrote an article for a magazine, for which I received £5 I never was so pleased with any £5 as I was with that one. (Great applause.) I do not mean to boast about that incident, of course (laughter) but I wish to draw your attention to the satisfaction to be gained by earning something for yourself. (Renewed applause.) There is another point I wish to mention, and that is the making a right use of the instruction given. This involves much attention and also patience, on your part, as well as, I am sure, on the part of your instructors. You are therefore developing character. The exercise of patience and self-control increases the qualities of an individual's character, and you are therefore gaining not only the art of writing and of speaking, but you are unconsciously forming character and that of course is of the utmost value. So therefore from all points of view the existence of this Institution is a cause of great thankfulness not only on your part but on the part of the whole people of the country. I am only sorry that the visit has been so short but it is quite enough to give me a very favorable impression of what is being done here, and when I speak of impression I refer also to your outward aspect. You look cheerful, happy and well fed. (Applause.) I am very glad you seem to agree with that sentiment, (Laughter.) and when you go home for the holidays I think your parents and friends will be all the more glad to see you because you are looking well. (Applause.)

You have mentioned Lady Aberdeen and I value the kindness of your reference to her. I can assure you it would have been a great happiness to her to have been here to day, and when I tell her of what I have seen I am sure she will agree with me that if you send us another invitation (great applause) we shall accept it. And now I shall say farewell, and I hope you will have a happy time, and that you will be thankful for this Institution and that the whole Country will feel the benefit of it through you. I am going to conclude with the sentence with which I should have begun. His Excellence then communicated to the Pupils in Sign Language, the following sentence ;—

"I am very pleased to see you." (Great applause)

He then expressed his pleasure that his first attempt at addressing them in this manner had been a success, and requested a whole holiday for the Pupils.

His words were repeatedly covered with plaudits. His Excellency's reply was interpreted to the pupils by Prof. Coleman, who also led in "God Save the Queen," which was signed and sung simultaneously. The nervous whistling of the fleet in waiting, showed the time to have sped but too fast, both for His Excellency and those whom his distinguished presence so thoroughly rejoiced, hence the programme had to be somewhat abridged. Before separating, however, three lusty cheers were given for Lord Aberdeen, and three and a "tiger" for the Queen, His Excellency following this up by calling for three more for Mr. Mathison and the staff. Lord Aberdeen, like all who understand men and children, seems to know just where to drop "le mot pour rire," and this faculty is a happy one. To depict the amazement, laughter and enjoyment of the children as he stopped speaking verbally, and began to sign to them very distinctly "I am pleased to see you"—were impossible. They cheered and cheered, till their very hands must have cried for respite. A number of ladies graced the exercises in the chapel with their presence. Many of the prominent men of the city were likewise remarked. Of this day the teachers, officers, and pupils of the Institution for the Deaf, will have a long and happy recollection.

In one of the class rooms a young girl, a pupil of the Institute, wrote the following on the blackboard:

Your Excellency:—

In behalf of the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb Institute I desire to extend a very cordial welcome to you. When some time ago we wrote inviting you to come to the Institution, we did not think that you would come, but we are very glad to have the distinguished honor of your acceptance of the invitation. We regret the inability of Lady Aberdeen to be with us to-day, as we know she takes a great interest in schools and educational institutions the same as Your Excellency. We trust that your visit will be a pleasant one.

His Excellency requested the following to be communicated to the pupils:

It is a pleasant visit, and they have largely helped to make it very pleasant. I share with them the regret that Lady Aberdeen is not here. It is quite true that she is deeply interested in all educational work. I shall endeavor to describe what I have seen to her, but I shall still wish to bring Lady Aberdeen here to see for herself. I hope they will approve of that suggestion. I hope they will not object if I bring my little daughter also.

The trip on the bay on the "Ometa" and the stop at Massassaga, where the Governor General and suite enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Corby, M. P., was in every way delightful. The Ometa was most tastefully and appropriately decorated and furnished, and as she steamed off from the Institute dock at five o'clock with her distinguished party, she was the living picture of beauty. His Excellency enjoyed the scenery and the fresh bracing air, and expressed his appreciation in the most enthusiastic manner. After lunch, served by host Jenkins in admirable style, Mr. Corby proposed the toast to the Queen in the following neat and appropriate speech :

Your Excellency, and Gentlemen,—

It is with very great pleasure I ask you all to join me in a toast to one who is so dearly beloved by the people of Canada, and in every part of the globe where the British flag floats this toast is heartily and loyally received, but, in no place in Her Majesty's domains is it more loyally or heartily received than it is in this our great Dominion. I am sure I am voicing the feelings of all Canadians when I say, may she long be spared to reign over us.

Your Excellency and Gentlemen, I have very great pleasure to propose the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.

After this toast had been heartily responded to by the company Mr. Corby said, Gentlemen :

I have but one more toast to propose, one that I know you will join heartily in. Before proposing the toast, I might say, we appreciate the very great honor Your Excellency has conferred upon us as citizens of Belleville, in making us this visit. I, as the representative of the City of Belleville in the Dominion Parliament, on behalf of those I represent, extend to you a hearty and cordial Bay of Quinte welcome. We all exceedingly regret that we have not the honor of welcoming the Countess of Aberdeen with you, but we hope, as you promised last night in addressing the citizens of Belleville, that you will again visit our city in company with the Countess. I can assure you on behalf of the citizens that the same hearty and cordial welcome that has been extended to you last night and to-day will be extended to you both.

Gentlemen, we have in the present representative of Her Majesty a gentleman who came to us as a private citizen and enrolled himself as a Canadian long before there was any talk of his occupying the proud position he holds to day. I can also say that His Excellency has always been a true and staunch friend of Canada. On his first visit to this country he took a trip through from the Atlantic to the Pacific; he was so impressed with the country that on his return to England he did not only praise our great Dominion but he showed his confidence in the country in a very substantial way by investing his private means in lands in our great North West and British Columbia. I agree with his Excellency that the North West has a great future before it, we are rich in minerals, agriculture lands and timber, in fact, gentlemen, we have to day the greatest and freest country on earth and I hope and trust that the kindly relations that have always existed between Canada and the Mother Land may ever continue that nothing, in any way, will ever sever our British connection. It was with a thrill of satisfaction that Canadians learned that his Excellency and the Countess of Aberdeen were coming to Canada to represent her Majesty. During their comparatively brief official residence in Canada, their Excellencies have shown themselves imbued with a desire in every way to further our interests and to promote that which is highest and best amongst our people. That their stay may be a pleasant one and when they come to leave us I know that we may count on them as the firmest friends that Canada has in the Mother Land.

I now have very great pleasure in proposing the health of His Excellency the Governor General coupled with that of his Gracious Lady, The Countess of Aberdeen.

His Excellency, in his felicitous response, expressed his cordial thanks for the individual and united kindness shown to him since the moment of his arrival in Belleville, and he regarded this as not the least of the many pleasant episodes which would be linked in his memory of associations with Belleville. He again referred to the civic address and to the part he had taken in the affairs of Canada, in whose future prosperity he had the strongest trust. He had heard much and experienced much of Canadian loyalty and hospitality, but he had never before realized what Bay of Quinte loyalty and hospitality were. He could only describe them as the concentrated essence of those virtues with just a little delicate something else added. In happy terms he proposed the health of Mr. Corby, and after songs by Mr. Fax the happy party sang "Auld Lang Syne," and embarked for Belleville, picking up on the way the disabled "Carmana" and towing her to her dock.

Following are a list of those present: The Governor-General, Thos. Ritchie, Mayor J. E. Walmsley, W. B. Northrup, M.P., H. Corby, M.P., J. L. Biggar, R. Mathison, D. B. Robertson, O. Bogart, W. H. Biggar, Jno. Bell, W. N. Ponton, W. J. Diamond, Hon. M. Bowell, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Rev. Mgr. Farrelly, Rev. J. W. Burke, Rev. M. W. Maclean, A. W. Carscallen, M.P., A. F. Wood, W. P. Hudson, L. H. Henderson, T. Wills, Jas. Brown, U. E. Thompson, Geo. Wallbridge, L. W. Yeomans, Col. Cotton, Dr. G. S. Wright, Col. Hendricks, Dr. Chamberlain, J. C. Jamieson, J. J. B. Flint, Geo. Fax, M. A. Patching, of the Globe, and His Excellency's A.D.C'.

The water party arrived in the city at 8:15 and were at once driven to the drill shed, where were assembled the members of the High, Public and Seperate school board, with a few other gentlemen who were requested by His Excellency to meet there that he might become acquainted with each of them, and His Excellency addressed them as follows:

I have expressed a wish to meet those gentlemen who have charge of the administration of education in Belleville, because in the hurry which could not be avoided it was almost impossible for me to meet them thus earlier in the day, and more particularly because I desire to express to them my appreciation of the remarkable manifestation of this morning. I am quite sure that none of us, who witnessed that spectacle will ever forget it. (Applause). And it was not merely remarkable in the conventional sense, but it was also significant, for it would be impossible I think by any mere issue of orders to produce such a manifestation among the children. (Loud Applause). It appeared to me that there was a spontaneity about it which indicated that the children were expressing sentiments which they had imbibed. (Renewed Applause). There was also evident discipline, good order, and good management (Applause). From every point of view, therefore it was a remarkable occasion. I therefore wanted to tell you that the significance of the occasion as well as its attractiveness were not lost upon me.

I must refer again to the happy feature of the combined action on the part of the two bodies representative of the two sets of schools.(Applause). I look upon it as highly gratifying that the occasion of my visit was made the opportunity of such a combination. It was an exhibition of mutual good-will, and not only an indication of good-will but the evidence of a disposition to co-operate in the interests of our common country.(Applause). Again I thank you for the experience I had to-day and desire to offer my very best wishes for the continued success of the good work in which you are engaged.(Loud Applause).

After he concluded each member of the boards was presented to his Excellency.

At about 8:40 he again entered his carriage and drove to Mr. Ritchie's residence, where he remained a few minutes, when he was driven to Bridge St. church, to attend the Hunter and Crossley farewell meeting.

At 9:30 Aberdeen left the church and crossed the street to the Opera house, where he was greeted by the audience rising and singing "God Save the Queen," while he was escorted to a box on the right of the stage. In the box with him were Hon. M. Bowell, Mayor Walmsley, Mr. R. Mathison, Ald. Ponton, and others.

The interior of the opera house was beautiful decorated with flags and bunting and the rails of the boxes occupied by His Excellency and party were wound with smilax and white. The house was crowded to the doors. When His Excellency arrived in the house the first part of the programme had been concluded. The performance was far superior to the first production and was almost identical, with the addition of a few specialties, among which were the hoop drill by the children of Loretto Convent and the fancy Scotch dances by Mr. J. McIntosh, with bagpipe accompaniment by Mr. Wm. McIntosh. The hoop drill was particularly well executed and the singing of the little tots was melodious and tuneful. Mr. McIntosh's dancing was really clever and well worthy the hearty applause he received and His Excellency appeared greatly pleased. The "Cadets' Picnic" has been described in these columns at length at the date of its first production and suffice it is to say that the favorable impression created by the young actors and actresses were renewed last evening, and deservedly so, for a finer amateur performance has never been given in this city than last evening. The three policemen were loudly encored and the fancy drill was simply perfect, and Lord Aberdeen, who watched the performance with the closest attention, quite frequently applauded. Mr. J.N. Doyle, who has been so assiduous in the training of the young people who gave the entertainment, is to be congratulated on the high state of perfection to which he has brought the different features. Mr. Doyle was unwell and not in his usual voice last evening. After the National Anthem, Lord Aberdeen and party, left the opera house and returned to Mr. Ritchie's residence.

About twenty persons, those who had been most intimately connected with the Governor during his visit, lunched at Mr. Ritchie's with His Excellency after the entertainment in the opera house untill it was time for him to depart, which he did at 12:25. He was driven to his car at the post office, where after hand shakings and good wishes were exchanged, three rousing cheers were given for the Governor-General, and the car and engine pulled out for the depot, and the visit of Lord Aberdeen to Belleville was brought to a close.

NOTES.

Mr. Ritchie received the compliments of not only the citizens and the committe, but also of His Excellency and his A. D. C.'s, for the princely manner in which he dispensed his hospitality, and the genial manner in which he conducted his part of the programme.

Lord Aberdeen expressed himself as highly pleased with the city and the reception, and the informal manner in which it was tendered, and entered heartily into every detail of the programme.

The singing of the school children yesterday was conducted by Prof. Canfield, who trained them, and for the short time they were in practice they did well.

His Excellency complimented Mr. J. J. B. Flint, Chief Marshall of the procession, on the admirable manner in which he conducted the whole affair.

Lord Aberdeen, through his Secretary, ordered 100 copies of yesterday's and to-day's issue of the Intelligencer.

The penmanship of the address presented to the Governor General at the Deaf and Dumb Institute yesterday, was executed by Mr. W. J. Osborne, of Ontario Business College, and is a skilful and artistic piece of work.

The special car "Ottawa" is a handsomely finished coach, fitted with every convenience for travelling and lighted by electricity.

The machinery of the Carmana went astray yesterday, when she was brought to port by the Ometa. It would be better for the proprietor when drifting around in the sea of politics, if he had as safe a pilot as the Chief of the Six Nations to land him in port.

It is the little thoughtful acts that betray the character. It was these on the part of His Excellency that have endeared him to the hearts of our citizens. After the little girls of the Public and Separate Schools had expressed to him the words of welcome yesterday, and presented their boquets, he asked to know their names, and then to their great delight, affectionally kissed them. Afterwards when he got a few minutes he requested that the little ones who had so dexterously and gracefully strewn his pathway with flowers, should be presented to him, and these he also kissed, and asked them several question.

After having surveyed the enchanting scene from the dais, the spontaneity of his reception, the wild enthusiasm of the children, and the waving of over two thousand Union Jacks so long continued, seemed at first to bewilder the Governor General—the tears were seen in his kindly eyes, and he was for a few moments overcome by his feelings.

He was again moved to tears as little Lily Johnson, in her child language, artlessly told him "We know about 'Wee Willie Winkie' and your clever daughter Lady Marjorie Gordon, and we would liked to have welcomed her also." This was a happy reference to the youngest editress of a paper in the world, and he asked several of the children if they saw "We Willie Winkie" regularly.

Notwithstanding that our issue yesterday exceeded the ordinary by several hundred copies, our supply was not near sufficient to meet the demand, hence to fill the requirements we had to print a large number of half sheets.

The Chief of police and the officers and men under his supervision are to be congratulated on the manner in which they maintained order during His Excellency's sojourn in the city.

The weather was apparently made on purpose for the occasion, as not a drop of rain fell on Lord Aberdeen during his stay in the city, but shortly after his departure a drizzling rain began to fall and has continued intermittently ever since.

At the conclusion of the performance in the opera house last evening Mr. J. N. Doyle, Miss Tottie Cunnington, Miss Ethel Coleman and Mr. W. C. McLean were presented to Lord Aberdeen and he complimented them warmly on the splendid entertainment they, with others, had prepared for him.

The teachers and pupils of the High School are to be congratulated on the decorations of their building. They went to a great deal of trouble to accomplish what they did, and yet did not over do it. The Governor General would naturally be plessed with his crest which was over the arch of the centre door. A ducal crown, with oak tree growing out of it, a saw having cut almost through the tree, and the motto underneath "Through." The tree and saw were real ones and the ducal crown a clever and enlarged imitation of one.

The Gordon plaids worn by the three little girls from the Convent School caught His Excellency's eye, and was a thoughtful compliment appreciated by him.

Your Light Overcoat.

The cool weather we are having ought to remind that it is hard to go through the summer with your old light overcoat. In boating, travelling or walking in the evening during the summer, you will need an overcoat. The Oak Hall can put a dandy on you for $10.00, and you have to wait two weeks.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Dear Sir.—The little girl from No. 1 school who carried one of the flower baskets at yesterday's reception at the H. S. grounds was Helen Andrews, not Helen Anderson, as reported in yesterday's issue. Please correct in to-day's issue and oblige

Yours truly,
D. Barragar,

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating pain after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia.

ROBERT MACAIRE

FOUNDED ON THE PLAY L'AUBERGE DES ADRETS

A NOVEL

"My good fellow, we often have to put up with unpleasant things and with unpleasant people, too, but we who are not mere vulgar boors know well how to get rid of them when the time comes."

Pierre did not want to distress Marie by quarreling with her husband in her presence, so he simply shrugged his shoulders and seemed to take the matter as a joke. All the same, however, he took the matter to heart, and although he let the conversation drop for the time he determined to renew it at another time when Marie should not be present. In the meantime he was ill at ease at such a rebuff and took the earliest opportunity he could of getting away. He never came to Farmer Beaumont's house again, and as the incident had the effect of curing him of his seemingly hopeless passion he was perhaps in the long run glad of the rude rebuff.

Not very long afterward he had a slight altercation with Macaire. The latter, when he had taken a certain amount of wine—which, by the way, began to occur with incommendable frequency—was given to a rude kind of "chaff," which had always in it such a measure of unkindness that it became apparent that he had a rough side to his character and something of a decidedly bullying nature, the very suggestion of which began to make him enemies. From this he began in a measure to be feared, and there were not wanting some who when he was not present predicted some evil to him from his rough tongue. Among those who felt aggrieved by Robert's unkind badinage was Pierre, but he resolved not to have any altercation if he could avoid it for the sake of Marie's peace of mind.

He was, however, only a very young man, and the blood of youth is hot, and there are limits to a young man's patience.

The occasion came one evening when Macaire was more than usually rough in his manner and seemed almost as if he had determined to have a quarrel with some one. He tried to provoke his usual victims, but without avail. This irritated him, and he grew nastier still in his manner, but still without response, so that when Pierre joined the circle he greeted him in the most insulting manner he could, saying:

"Come here! Come here, my little jack-in-the-box! Make way there, gentlemen, for the unhappy lover who was tossed! Come, little boy. Drink a measure to the successful rival who carried off the bride."

Pierre's blood began to boil, the more so because the other young fellows began to laugh loudly, partly to cover their own discomfiture and some of them in a secret hope that Pierre, who was well known to be one of the strongest young men in the place, might be inflamed to chastise the insolence which had been showered upon them. He tried to control himself and succeeded to some degree, although the hot flush of passion mounted to his brow. Robert was evidently determined to provoke him, for, leaning back in his chair, he said with an air of infinite contempt:

"Look, gentlemen, the pigeon is changing to the turkeycock. For myself I do not care to see the sparrow in a rage, although the spectacle is not without its comic side."

Pierre could hardly speak with rage. He felt the veins of his forehead swelling, and the laughter of his companions rang in his ears with a confused noise. With a great effort he controlled himself. He stood quite still, and his face grew white as marble. In a low voice he said slowly:

"I have borne all your slights and insults without a word, on your wife's account, but you had better beware or you may get your deserts."

"From you?" asked Macaire sneeringly.

"From me, if necessary," answered the young man. "But up to a certain point you may escape on your wife's account."

"What the devil has my wife to do with you? She didn't seem to care very much about your feelings, although you were rather spoony on her before she became my property."

This he said with an air of insolent triumph which would have roused any man. Still Pierre kept silent, and the rest were silent also, for they recognized that his blood was up and that his wrath might possibly fall on some of them. Robert did not enjoy the silence. There was little fun in his torturing unless there were others to enjoy it, so he tried another tack.

"Dear me, how hot of blood we are! With such a superabundance of pugnacity I wonder that you do not seek a place in the army. There is plenty of work to be done—by men who are not afraid to do it. Why do you not join the army of England? There is need of young men there."

Pierre answered slowly:

"I suppose you were on your way there when you found your way here. And yet it is strange that you came from the north. I suppose that you had to rest yourself and recover from that wound in your leg where you carried the shot. As I can claim no such distinction and have no such honorable wound to show, I think I shall leave such excellent company. For you I should advise you to go home to your wife and for the future keep either your mouth shut or your leg covered. You can perhaps afford one luxury, but you cannot afford the two."

With this he turned on his heel and left the room.

The rustics were now in a greater quandary than ever as to what they should do, for, to their great surprise, their bully when confronted had not ventured a word in answer, but had sat quite still gnawing his lip. They, however, had not confronted him, and they feared he would have his revenge out of them, so they all sat still until Robert Macaire started to his feet and said:

"Here's to the health of Pierre Lamar. He is a fine young fellow and will be off to the army before long, you will find. Perhaps he will be gone before the week is over—perhaps even earlier still."

"He can't go tomorrow anyhow," said Gustave, one of the usual butts, "because tomorrow he has to bring a cask of wine to the frontier and will not be back for three days at the earliest."

"Ah, gentlemen, it will be as I say. You will find that the young man will volunteer; he is keen for fighting. You saw yourselves how he attacked me on account of a little innocent chaff which not one of you ever minded."

"Well, he will have time to cool down on the way, for he won't have much company to cheer him in the morning."

"How do you mean?" asked Macaire, turning to him.

"He goes by the mountain road, where not one person travels in the week. And he starts early, too, for his father said that he would call him at 2 o'clock, as he had to start at 3."

Robert Macaire said good night to his comrades, and the last remark he made was:

"You will find that I am right. That young man means soldiering, and when he leaves this we shall probably have seen the last of him."

When Robert Macaire arrived home, his wife was sleeping. He did not awaken her, but lay down on the bed in his clothes.

The night wore on. The man still lay without moving. When the clock struck 2, he arose softly. The house was wrapped in slumber. He stole out, and creeping from shadow to shadow passed silently up the mountain road. About half a mile on there was a dangerous place where the road ran over a shelf of rock with a precipice beneath. Here he stopped and busied himself for a few minutes with a stake picked up on the way. Then with an evil smile on his face he drew back into the shadow.

A Man Made Happy.

GENTLEMEN,—For five years I had been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only a drag to me. When I would go to bed I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest day or night. But with the use of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the curative qualities of this medicine, that are especially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat any thing and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim.
